SWAT the JAPS and SAVE the STATE! VOTE "YES" ON PROPOSITION ONE—THE ALIEN LAND LAW

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

OTHERS OF CALIFORNIA SHOULD not be swerved from their determination to approve Proposition One (Alien Land Law) on the November ballot, designed to loosen the near-strangle hold the Jap incubus already has on this Golden State. The measure deserves a tremendous affirmative vote, and it will get it, if California Americans do their duty on election day, November 2.

While the yellow-Japs and white-

Japs have spent an immense sum—conservatively estimated at $300,000—to change the sentiment of the people, there is little fear that the measure will be defeated by a negative vote. If it fails of passage, which God forbid, it will be because of the apathy of the voters. So, it behooves every red-blooded American who is privileged to cast a ballot in this battle for possession of California to vote "yes" on Proposition One (Alien Land Law) and to assist in getting out the full affirmative vote.

After the November ballots are counted, a message will go out to the world, either that The People of California are resolved to keep this state white, or that they have again been lulled to sleep by the Jap propagandists and that California is to be left to the mercy of the emperor-worshipping hordes of Japan. What shall that message be, Voter? The call, "to ballot!"—for state and country—has been sounded, and it is your duty to respond, either as a loyal citizen of California or as a loyal servant of Japan. Remember that every "yes" recorded for Proposition One (Alien Land Law) will be a vote to keep California white; every "no," a vote to make California completely yellow.

During the past forty days the Jap propagandists have been working overtime to defeat this measure. And here let the fact be again repeated, that the Jap propaganda system is the most thoroughly organized and best financed in the world; it employs both white-Jap and yellow-Jap agents, and one of its chief distribution agencies is the American Protestant Church Federation which, in turn, manipulates the Carnegie Peace Foundation. This Jap propaganda system which, on account of its immensity and perfection, puts the hated German propaganda system in the primer class, has been keeping the "big" dailies oversupplied with "exclusive" stories, some hinting at war, others intimating that Washington does not approve, and still others appealing to the "justness" of the people of California.

All of which is cleverly camouflaged Jap propaganda, designed for one purpose only—to defeat Proposition One (Alien Land Law). Japan is not going to war, except in diplomatic channels, over this question, for it well knows California has a right to pass and enforce such a law; but, should war be the only alternative to the sacrifice of California, why, let war come! Whether Washington approves or not, the right of any state to regulate land holdings for itself is guaranteed by the Federal Constitution. As for the "justness" plea, justice, like charity, begins at home; in doing justice to their own kind, the voters of California will be doing no injustice to any other kind—"First, to thine own self be true; thou canst not, then, be false to any man."

he will find them not in any propaganda emanating from either yellow-Jap or white-Jap sources, for the Jap never deals in facts. The State has issued an official booklet, entitled "California and the Oriental," which contains the REAL FACTS, gathered by the State Board of Control. In that booklet may be found a superabundance of reasons why Proposition One (Alien Land Law) should receive an overwhelming majority.

To read some of the Jap propaganda, that is as plentiful as desert sand-grains, one could almost bring himself to the point of believing that before the Japs' "peaceful invasion" California was a waste, and that if the "invasion" be now checked the people will die of starvation. As tillers of the soil, the Japs have given nothing to California and excel in but one particular—by working the land as they work their women and children, continuously, they have made a record as quantity producers, to the detriment of the state. Just as before they planted their yellow feet upon this soil, so when the Japs have departed—God speed the day—California's fertile acres, tilled by White hands, will continue to produce abundantly fruits, nuts, grains and flowers of every known variety, and they will be obtainable at less prices than those now exacted by the Jap trust.

Another favorite contention of the Jap propagandists is that Proposition One (Alien Land Law) is unconstitutional and in conflict with the American-Japanese treaty, and that, therefore, its adoption will be an "affront" to Japan. If this proposed Alien Land Law be in conflict with the constitution or treaty, then the statutes of several other states, as well as those of the District of Columbia, are likewise in conflict, for they contain laws of similar import. But there is positively no merit in the contention, competent legal authority in this state, as well as the highest authorities on international law in Japan, declaring that the proposed Alien Land Law (Proposition One) does not conflict either with the treaty or constitution, and that so far as the treaty is concerned the Japs are guaranteed no land rights in this country.

The equality, superiority, or inferiority of the Japs should not be taken into consideration in deciding Proposition One, for it has solely to do with land control. It is designed simply to deny to Japs in California that which Californians in Japan are denied—the right to own or lease land. The record proves that there is need for such a law, if California is to be saved to the Nation. This is a big "Pray do not think that we are trying to influence your judgment" on Proposition One, concludes a letter the Jap propagandists have just recently mailed to voters by the thousands, accompanied by a booklet, "Facts in the Case." Oh no, the Japs have not been trying to influence the voters' judgment! They have had printed and distributed tons of propaganda and paid big sums for generous advertising space in newspapers and on billboards, just to be good fellows; they collected in one week at the Buddhist temple in Los Angeles $65,000 in cash, just for a pastime. Really, the Japs must consider the voters of California a lot of idiots, and they surely will deserve such classification if they fail to vote in the affirmative on Proposition One (Alien Land Law).

If any voter seeks the "facts in the case" of the proposed Alien Land Law (Proposition One) state, in area, but there is within its confines not sufficient room for an unassimilable, emperor-worshipping race such as the Japs. Consider well, Voter, the welfare of your children and their children, and you will stamp a cross after "YES" on Proposition One (Alien Land Law).

Two elements in California's white population are actively associated with the Japs in the attempt to defeat the proposed land law. One is made up of dollar-worshipping lawyers, land-holders and land-sellers; they are contemptible traitors, and are largely responsible for the Japs already having such a foothold. The other is composed of brotherhood-of-mankindists; because St. Paul is quoted in the Bible as having said "God hath made of one blood all nations," they contend we should let the Japs take California and all that therein is, if they want it; they omit, however, to mention that St. Paul, continuing, said, "He hath determined the bounds of their habitations."

Because the yellow-Japs, urged on by the white-Japs, have come from within their bounds across the Pacific to this White Man's land, California is today confronted with the situation forcibly illustrated on the front cover of this issue of The Grizzly Bear. The design originated with S. G. Ames of San Diego, and it pictures, better than words can describe, the yellow menace Proposition One (Alien Land Law) will, if passed, alleviate, but not entirely eradicate.

What brought these people so far from their God-determined bounds? Not love for America, nor hatred of Japan! They have come, and are daily coming, on an errand of conquest—to take possession of the soil and people it with their kind, and then, when their "peaceful invasion" has succeeded, to hoist the flag of Japan on this Western shore. So successful have the Japs thus far been with their scheme—so completely have they, through propaganda and cunning ways, blinded the people of this state and country to their real intent—that today they—people forever disqualified from becoming citizens—audaciously inject themselves into the settlement of a land question in a country (California) other than their own—a question the right to settle which rests exclusively with the qualified electors of this state. Is this not a deplorable state of affairs? What would happen to Americans in Japan if, following the course of Japs in America, they attempted to influence proposed land, or any other, legislation affecting that country? And, too, what would be the result if Californians in Japan, following the example of Japs in California, deliberately and persistently held in utter contempt all laws not of their sanction?

People of California, awake! Be no longer deceived by Jap propagandists. The Japs are here, and coming, not as friendly people come to assist in the development of a White Man's California; they care nothing for America or its traditions, are impossible of assimilation, and are not to be entrusted with the rights and privileges accorded the nationals of the "most favored nation." No matter where born nor what his protestations may be, a Jap is always a Jap at heart; he believes not in the divinity of the White Man's Christ, but of the mikado-christ; his allegiance is everlastingly pledged to Japan, and though born upon American soil he is always a subject of Japan and is responsible to no one save the emperor, whom he worships. The destiny of a country is within the keeping of the controllers of its soil. Are the people of this state willing to entrust the destiny of California to the subjects of Japan? That is the very question involved in Proposition One (Alien Land Law), so, look well to your ballots, Voters, that California's destiny may be placed for all time in the keeping of the White Race.

Conditions in California, illustrated on the front cover, are not exaggerated, nor is Japan's conquest of California a myth. One has but to analyze the Japs' coming, their colonization, their utter defiance of our land law, their maintenance of Jap schools wherein their children born upon our soil are instructed in the language, government and traditions of Japan, to realize that the conquest of California, conceived in Japan for the glory and expansion of the Yamato race, is already well under way. California, as a loyal state, has authority to place but one obstacle in the path of the invaders—to deny them the land. Proposition One (Alien Land Law) will, if approved by the electors November 2, stay the march of the invading yellow hordes. That accounts for the Jap propagandists being so concerned about the fate of the measure, and why they have gone to any and every extreme—even attempting to influence Jewish and Negro citizens—to defeat it.

Come out, red-blooded California Americans, and so vote on Proposition One (Alien Land Law) November 2, that there will be no possibility of mistaking the determination of The People to safeguard the destiny of California. Then, on to Washington, where, from the National Legislature—which alone has authority to pass and enforce laws regulating the Japs' coming—we will demand, just as our Pioneer Fathers demanded California's admission to

U. C. TAX AMENDMENT EVERY LOVER OF FREE EDUCATION SHOULD VOTE FOR PROPOSITION No. 12

Charles E. Martin

(Chairman of the Department of Political Science in the University of California, Southern Branch)

PLATO, IN HIS FAMOUS WORK, "THE Republic," declared that state was best in which the individual found his proper place. This placing of the individual in the state was to be accomplished through a process of education culminating in the rule of the all-wise philosopher-king. In addition, there was to be a trained group of experts in government and administration.

In modern times, we have substituted the rule of the people for the rule of the wise and benevolent king, and we have also substituted a universal system of free education for the education of a small group, in order that we might have an intelligent electorate and trained men for the public service. Along with the principles of the freedom of the individual, equality before the law and political liberty, the American people have cherished the principle of free education, and no ideal has so distinguished the public policy of the United States. Among the most distinguished of American institutions is the American state university. It is thoroughly American in its inspiration, origin, and growth; is designed to provide a free education for the youth of the land, rich or poor, and is subject to one test alone—mental capacity. The state university is an integral part of the public school system of the state, and is the cap-stone of that system.

The University of California is in the midst of a crisis. The opponents of Amendment 12 are constantly injecting an irrelevant element into discussions of this question. But we rise to a point of order. The question is not one of comparative values of different state institutions, but is more properly a question of comparative needs, and more especially, at this juncture, of the needs of the University of California. The values of public institutions, like human values, vary, and cannot be mathematically assessed. In appealing to the people of the State of California for adequate and assured support, the friends of the University are not measuring its service and that of other public institutions by means of a yard-stick. Should such a test be applied, the University does not fear the result of the findings. All the University asks is an adequate support, permanent in character, and commensurate with its needs.

Amendment 12, which is before the people for action on November 2, will not only meet the crisis now before us, but will take care of the needs of the University as the years go by. The arguments in favor of the amendment may be comprehensively embraced under three heads: (1) its necessity, (2) its democracy, and (3) its practicability.

(1) ITS NECESSITY. In a statement directed to the people of California, President David P. Barrows has clearly set forth the conditions which now prevail at the University. The situation is nothing short of a crisis. In the last decade the students at Berkeley have increased from 3,300 to 10,000—an increase of 200 percent. There are now 2,300 students at the Southern Branch; 1,700 were refused admission to the Junior College courses at the Southern Branch because of the necessary limit placed upon the enrollment. Money is needed for expansion in teacher training work. Classrooms are altogether inadequate. Moreover, the teaching staff must be increased to accommodate so great an influx of students.

(2) ITS DEMOCRACY. For fifty consecutive years, higher education has been provided in California without money and without price. The writer is a product of the public school system of the State of California, and I am happy that I completed the cycle as I began it—in a free public educational institution. If this ideal is to be maintained as the years go by, something must be done to make its maintenance possible. We must not allow any impediment to be thrown in the way of the student of the most limited means who seeks an education. Tuition can be charged for, but this puts a financial premium on an education. The editor of the "Riverside Press" has suggested that no tuition fee can be charged, and that the University is using this argument for purposes of propaganda alone. Both suggestions are mistakes in fact, just as his refusal to print matter in favor of the amendment is a mistake in policy. Amendment 12 is a great democratic measure, the purpose of which is to keep higher education in California free.

(3) ITS PRACTICABILITY. This is a practical measure. Under it we would have a solution of the present problems of the University, together with a reasonable assurance against a recurrence of the present situation, which is bad for the University and worse for the State. It gives the University a fixed and permanent income, which will increase with the growth of the state and the University. It relieves the University of that great obstacle to progress—uncertainty. THE ADOPTION OF AMENDMENT 12 WILL GIVE THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AN ASSURED FUTURE, AND ITS WAY WILL BE MADE PLAIN. Otherwise, it must await the biennial sessions of the State Legislature, and should an emergency arise during the interim, the University is in a helpless condition, subject to the discretion of a board of three men, and with no assurance that its claims will be considered with sympathy or understanding.

The editor of the "Riverside Press" has advanced the surprising argument that such an amendment will open the door to unlimited claims for constitutional provision for state expenditures. The amendatory processes of the constitution were provided for the use of the people of the State of California. Every amendment has to be passed upon by the people. The editor finds himself in the unfortunate position of opposing the measure because it is submitted directly to the people rather than to a body which receives its authority from the people. It is another way of saying that the people are not the best judge of their own concerns.

Clyde Seavey of the State Board of Control has criticized the economics of the measure, which he declares to be unjust and unsound. This is clearly based upon a misconception. Amendment 12, instead of placing the University in a preferential position, actually releases a large amount of revenue derived from corporation taxes which may be devoted to other state institutions and concerns. The amendment places the burden of University support upon those most able to pay, which is sound finance and equitable taxation. Moreover, increased taxes on public-service corporations will only result in increased public-service rates, authorized by the State Railway Commission. This would merely be a tax increase on corporations authorized by one state body, and immediately nullified by another, with the result that the burden is ultimately placed upon the consuming public.

Mr. Seavey has also raised the point of the comparative values of various state institutions. This is not the question. But since he has raised it, I respectfully point out that in the crisis of the World War, when our country needed leaders in the army and navy and in great civilian enterprises, it turned to the colleges and the universities of the country for men of training and adaptability. It did not turn to the prisons, insane asylums and orphan's homes, worthy as these institutions are. In this great conflict, the University of California had a glorious part. MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA TO CONTINUE UNIMPAIRED TO TRAIN LEADERS FOR SERVICE IN THE STATE AND NATION, BY VOTING "YES" ON AMENDMENT 12, NOVEMBER BALLOT.

THE MOCKINGBIRD (ESTHER CRONE.)

When the shades of night were settled,
And still quiet filled the air,
I was wakened from my slumber
By some music sweet and rare.
And I listened, charmed with wonder,
For such note could ne'er be heard
This side Heaven's golden portal,
Save 'twas sung by some sweet bird.
While I lay awake and pondered
Lest I miss his rapturous strain
Of the joy his life outpouring,
I was sung to sleep again.

DANGER!

Your home Your Property Rights—Your Business Your Income Are Threatened!

CALIFORNIANS!

Do you want to be a renter and a tenant on your own property?

Do you want to have your state bonds outlawed by the rest of the world?

Do you want the financial credit of your state menaced by unbalanced fanatics, ready to try any experiment with the other fellow's money? Your money in this case!

Do you want the phenomenal industrial and commercial development of California to be halted, your industries starved for lack of Eastern Capital, heretofore forthcoming to finance Western Development?

Do you want to stop building?

Do you want to make it hard to sell land? To borrow money? To sell the mortgage on your house? To finance your business? To secure good wages from industry? To realize any return on real estate investments?

YOU DO NOT!

And yet this is exactly what will happen unless you vote "NO" on Amendment No. 20—which provides for trying out Single Tax in California.

But something more than merely voting "No" on Amendment No. 20 is necessary.

Let's put a stop to the perennial menace of this foolhardy experiment!

Every other year for ten years Single Tax has been put up to the voters of California. Every other year for ten years the people have voted it down—each time by a larger majority!

Every other year for ten years the bankers and hard-headed business men of the country have seen the possibility of California becoming an unsafe investment!

We have faith in the people of California and their intelligence. We do not believe the single tax will ever carry. But the financial world, looking on, takes note that a very dangerous element exists within this state—the single taxers.

The proposition to confiscate land values and repudiate debts might carry, they think, and the financier of the East passes judgment on the credit of the state with that contingency in view.

Do you know why—

Your Highway Bonds are Not Selling?

Your School Bonds are not Selling?

—outside the state of California?

Because investors will not take a chance on a state even contemplating the single tax. Ask your banker! Ask your broker! Ask your real estate agent! They are not theorists with a visionary and ridiculous Utopia in mind!

Let's stop this biennial menace—this weakening the state's horrowering power! Let's put an end to dumping "freak" laws on California!

Vote "Yes" on Amendment No. 4—to stop continuous voting on the single tax.

In a nutshell Amendment No. 4 provides for a petition of 25% of the voters of the state (instead of 8% as at present) before the assessment and collection of taxes may be tampered with.

It does not change the initiative, as some of its ill-advised opponents claim, except in matters pertaining to the assessment and collection of taxes.

Let's make California safe for Californians! Make an end once and for all of such half-baked theorists as the single taxers and their ilk.

NOVEMBER IN CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

HANKSGIVING DAY WAS APPROPRIATELY observed throughout California and the Nation, Thursday, November 24, 1870. H.C.L. was not operating at that time, hence turkeys were 18c, butter 50c, potatoes 12c, beans 3c, and flour 2c a pound, eggs 55c a dozen, and chickens 60c apiece. Ham was 13c and bacon 12c a pound.

A mild storm prevailed November 6 and 7, precipitating about an inch of rain in the valleys and depositing two feet of snow on the Sierra's summit. Clouds did not again appear until November 29, when a southeast wind prevailed and a storm set in that lasted into December. It was a welcome change in the weather, as fear of a season of drouth was being felt.

The annual colt race for which fourteen entries had paid an entrance fee of $100 cash, was run at Sacramento November 1. It was mile heats, 2 in 3, and only "Tom Atchison," a "Norfolk" colt, "Cromwell," a "Lodi" colt, and "Alice May," a "Woodburn" filly, showed up as contenders. "Tom Atchison" won the two heats in 1:48 3-5 and 1:48.

This was followed the next day by a trotting race, mile heats, 3 in 5, for 2:40 class trotters. It was contested by "Ajax," "Marysville Queen" and "Billy Russell," and proved to be one of the longest-drawn-out contests that had occurred in the state. Each trotter won two heats, when, on account of darkness, the race was postponed until the next day, with several thousand dollars in the pool box. "Ajax" won the seventh heat and the race in 2:38.

The meeting ended with a 2 mile heat race for 3-year-olds in which there had been enough entries to make a purse of $1,400. There were five starters. It was won by "Tom Atchison" in 3:45 and 3:43.

Cyrille Dion, a champion billiard player of New York, came to San Francisco and created a furore among the knights of the cue. In a contest of 1,000 points with the Pacific Coast champion, John Little, November 7, he easily won. November 8 a 1,500 point caroom, played by John Deery and McCleery, was won by Deery. November 19 a Pacific Coast championship game for the silver cup trophy was played between McCleery and Little, 1,000 points, and was won by McCleery with a lead of 378 points.

November 27 the big match of the meeting was played between Dion and Deery, with a standing-room-filled attendance. It was for 1,500 points, lasted three hours and thirty minutes, and was easily won by Dion. Deery scored only 907 points. An effort to bring Rudolph, the champion of America, to San Francisco was being made by billiard enthusiasts.

Billy Emerson's minstrel troupe came to San Francisco by train November 20 to fill an engagement at Maguire's Opera House. Like Caesar, he came, he saw, and he conquered. He also vinced. He remained a feature in San Francisco amusement and sporting life for many years.

Roller Skating Popular.

Dr. H. J. Glenn bought from L. M. Curtis and Edgar Mills the Jacinto Grant ranch of 12,500 acres in Colusa County for $200,000. This made his holdings total over 35,000 acres, on which he had over 100 miles of board fence. He was raising wheat and livestock by the trainload.

The Buckeye Hydraulic Company, at Smith's Flat, Nevada County, washed out a quartz boulder that yielded nearly three pounds of gold, worth $580.

The first rail of the Stockton and Copperopolis railroad was laid on the levee at Stockton November 29.

Joice Island, swamp land in Suisun Bay, was sold by the state. It contained 3,528 acres and brought $2.25 an acre.

W. W. Hollister was preparing 350 acres of land in Santa Barbara County for the planting of almond trees.

A section of a Fresno Grove big tree was shipped East by Central Pacific. It was twenty-five feet in diameter and had to be divided to load on a car.

A roller skating rink company was incorporated with a capital of $60,000 to build and operate rinks in different cities of the state. Roller skating was a popular fad and rinks were virtually coing money.

An exhibit of Tulare County products was showing corn stalks twenty-two feet high carrying eleven ears of corn; onions eighteen inches in circumference; watermelons weighing two hundred, muskmelons sixty and sweet potatoes fourteen pounds.

V. Caraway of Trinity County killed a grizzly bear that weighed, dressed, 924 pounds.

A young man in Shasta Valley lassoed and captured a she-bear and brought it and its cub into Yreka, Siskiyou County, alive November 14.

Wild geese were reported so numerous north of Chico, Butte County, that many were daily killed by the engines of passing trains. The geese were unable to rise from the track in time on account of their great numbers.

Henry Meiggs, who built Meiggs' wharf at North Beach, San Francisco, got into financial difficulties and levanted, going to Peru, where he had prospered, made glad many of his creditors this month by paying off his San Francisco debts.

Colonel Van Tassel, prominent in San Francisco business circles, cashed a forged check for $10,000 on the Bank of California and departed on the steamer for Panama. A steamer chartered at San Diego made an effort to intercept him off that port but missed sighting the steamer.

The secretary and treasurer of the San Jose Gas Company was reported an absconder with $10,000 of the company's funds and created a sensation in financial circles.

A negress named Sarah Dorsey, brought as a slave from North Carolina in the '50s by Colonel Turner, died in San Francisco November 6, aged 113 years.

A Chinawoman who had committed petty larceny in San Bernardino was taken by about twenty Chinamen November 11, tied to a stake and burned to death. This caused the white people to drive all the Chinese out of the town except seventeen who were arrested for the crime.

Fatal Train Collision.

The first train robbery on the Pacific Coast occurred at Verdi, Nevada State, on the Central Pacific at 1 a. m. November 5. Six men got aboard the train at Truckee, Nevada County, and when it stopped at Verdi two of them went forward and took command of the engine and enginemen while the other four, with shotguns and pistols, obtained possession of the express car. They uncoupled it from the train and compelled the enginemen to run to a point about four miles west of Reno, Nevada State, where, having secured a shipment of $41,000 in gold coin from San Francisco for Virginia City, they departed, going northward. All were captured and the money regained at different places in Nevada and California within ten days by special officers who went in pursuit. This same train was stopped the next night about 400 miles east near Toana, by another band of train robbers who went through the mail car also and were said to have taken away $40,000 more.

A collision between two freight trains on the Central Pacific, one mile west of Blue Canyon, Placer County, occurred November 4. A brakeman named Charles Clayton fell between two cars of a westbound freight train east of Blue Canyon and had his leg crushed. The delay to this train put it back on the time of another train following and when it passed an east-bound train on a siding west of Blue Canyon it was mistaken for the other train. Thinking they had the right of track, the east-bound freight pulled out, colliding with the following west-bound train at full speed. Three engines were smashed, a large number of freight cars telescoped and, in the wreck, Fireman Cyrus Parks was instantly killed, and Enginemen Sam Hennessy, R. Kemp and L. Campman, Fireman H. Taylor and Brakemen F. Biscoe, M. Dolan, James Hoover and P. Foley were badly injured.

At noon of November 9 Wm. Dresser met Matt Greer and John Greer, brothers, all prominent sporting men of Sacramento, and had a quarrel which ended in a shooting affray in front of the Union Hotel on Second street. Five shots were fired by each side. Dresser was hit twice, and died in a few minutes. Matt Greer was hit by a bullet that perforated his liver, and although thought to be mortally wounded, finally recovered. John Greer, whose only shot wounded Dresser, was uninjured. Owing to the prominence of these men in sporting circles great excitement prevailed over the affray. Dresser had just recovered from an accidental shooting in San Francisco that fractured his pelvis a few months previous, from which wound he was once reported dead and the Sacramento fire bells were tolled, as was the custom, in respect to his memory. Dresser was 25 years of age and had led an eventful sporting life, his combative nature bringing him into public notice at frequent intervals, as he was always pulling his gun on the slightest provocation.

Big Fires Cause Heavy Losses.

Fred Shuster and John Miller, neighbors and pioneer residents of La Porte, Plumas County, quarreled November 5 and an unsatisfactory fist-fight was ended by Mrs. Shuster's interference. Miller went into his home and secured a revolver attempted to get a shot at Shuster who, in the meantime, obtained a shotgun. He fired and, hitting Miller in the side, killed him.

Two San Francisco sporting men, named Isaac Brokaw and Robert Evans, popularly known as "White Headed Bob," met on Bush street, November 25. Brokaw, in a jealous frenzy, drew his revolver and shot Evans through both thighs. The bullet severed an artery in one leg and he bled to death in a short time.

Ned Ryan and Sam Gardner, well-known citizens of San Francisco, met on Montgomery street, November 29, and Ryan's dog jumped upon and muddled the sleeve of Gardner's coat. To soothe Gardner's ruffled feelings Ryan offered to clean it off and, drawing his bowie knife, cut a piece of the coat sleeve out. In the scuffle that followed Gardner took the knife from Ryan, but before he could use it Ryan drew a revolver and took two shots, without effect, at Gardner, when interference of others stopped the fight. Rumors of a duel or other ways of blood shedding kept the men about town gasping for several days, but nothing happened.

At Colusa during a trial the justice of the peace called an attorney a liar. He drew a bowie knife and started for the justice, who drew his gun and fired. The courtroom was cleared in a few minutes, spectators going out through the windows as well as the doors. The constable then arrested both, and took them before the other township justice of the peace, who fined them each $5.

Moore's Flat, a prosperous mining town in Nevada County, was burned November 1 for the fourth time since it had been in existence. A loss of $20,000 in its business section was sustained.

November 2 the Nebraska House at Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, was destroyed by fire with a $10,000 loss.

November 21 the residence of J. M. Hellman, prominent banker of Los Angeles, burned with a $12,000 loss.

November 26 the palatial San Jose residence of Mrs. Hensley, widow of Major Hensley, burned with all of its valuable contents. It was accidentally set on fire by the gardener, John O'Connell, who perished in the flames. It contained twenty-six rooms, was framed in New York and shipped in sections around the Horn in the '50s. The loss was estimated at $40,000, with only $8,000 insurance.

A fire on Front street, between Sacramento and Commercial streets, San Francisco, November 11, destroyed ten buildings and made a dozen families homeless. It caused a $40,000 loss.

A barn burned in Sutter County November 9 in which nine valuable horses belonging to Ryan Welch were cremated.

Dreams of Flowing Wine; Falls Out Window.

James L. Sutton, with his 6-year-old son, November 22 was burning brush to clear a section of land near Monterey. They became surrounded by the fire and were suffocated by the smoke while working in a thicket. Their bodies were found after night-fall by the wife and mother.

The railroad bridge over Alameda Creek, near Niles, Alameda County, on the San Jose branch, burned November 24, with an $80,000 loss.

A fire in Vallejo, Solano County, November 27, destroyed four business houses with a $20,000 loss. Lynch, a groceryman, had $22,000 in gold coin buried in different parts of his basement and anxiously waited for the embers to cool so that he could dig for his buried treasure.

Bear In Mind

Mr. Native Son or Mrs. or Miss Native Daughter that you can study Chiropractic in a California College and graduate, and then, if you want to practice legally you must leave your native state and go up into Washington, Oregon, or some other of the twenty-five states that license Chiropractics.

Los Angeles, Calif., October 21, 1920.

The State Chiropractic Society of California,
 1121 Washington Bldg.,
 City.

Gentlemen:

The undersigned intends to vote "Yes" on Initiative Measure Number Five, which fixes a standard of training and fitness as a guaranty of competency to the public when employing Chiropractors, for the reason that he believes people should have the right to engage the services of Chiropractors if they so desire, and the proposed law will assure their employing competent ones.

The State Board of Medical Examiners is exceptionally alert in prosecuting practitioners of Chiropractic, which the Board classes as a drugless cult. Why has not the Board prosecuted the hundreds of drugless healers of other than the Chiropractic school, who have no license from the Board to practice in this State? Are they immune to the law, or is it because their following is so large?

It appears that all drugless healers other than Chiropractors may practice in this State without interference from the State Medical Board, so, in the interest of fair play, and without any attempt to discuss the merits or demerits of any cult, the writer believes that the voters of California should look with favor upon Initiative Measure Number Five, generally referred to as the "Chiropractic Act."

Respectfully,

CLARENCE M. HUNT.

1330 So. Magnolia Ave., Precinct 433.

The Medical Board in this State defines Chiropractic as a method of healing under their supervision, and at the same time refuses to examine Chiropractors who apply for examination. This is an un-American proposition.

Native Sons of the Golden West

VOTE AND WORK FOR ALIEN LAND LAW

Grand President James F. Hoey of Martinez, under date of October 6, sent out a letter urging all Native Sons to vote for Proposition One on the November ballot, and to contribute of their finances to the anti-Jap campaign. The letter follows:

"PERMIT ME TO DIRECT YOUR ATTENTION TO THE IMPORTANCE OF EVERY NATIVE SON SUPPORTING THE PASSAGE OF AMENDMENT NO. 1 ON THE NOVEMBER BALLOT—THE ALIEN LAND LAW INITIATIVE MEASURE. To preserve California from the peaceful invasion of the Japanese has been foremost in the minds of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and our organization has ever been active in securing the placing of this amendment before the people for approval.

"As the representative of the Native Sons of the Golden West on the Executive Committee of the Japanese Exclusion League of California, I desire to urge your financial support of the campaign now being made to pass this law with a large majority and leave no doubt in the minds of the Nation that California will be kept 'white.'

"May I suggest that your Parlor make the contribution each month to assist in carrying on this work in accordance with the resolution herewith enclosed. This is the Native Sons' greatest opportunity to serve California, and I trust that you will co-operate to the fullest extent. Make all checks payable to John E. McDougald, Grand Treasurer, who will, in turn, pay the same to the Executive Committee of the Japanese Exclusion League of California."

Accompanying Grand President Hoey's letter was a copy of this resolution, unanimously adopted by the Grand Parlor in session at San Diego in April and published in The Grizzly Bear for May:

"Resolved, That the Native Sons of the Golden West, in Grand Parlor assembled, declare that this Order is opposed to the acquisition of citizenship by those who by reason of race, or tradition, cannot assimilate with the white race; that it is opposed to the ownership or control of land by those who cannot, or who should not be permitted to, become citizens; and that it is opposed to the presence of bodies of such people in our country; and be it further

"Resolved, That this Grand Parlor favors the enactment of legislation, both Federal and State, by constitutional amendment, statute and treaty abrogation, to the end that such undesirable people be denied the right of citizenship, either by birth or by naturalization; and to the end that people thus not eligible to acquire citizenship be not permitted to own or control land; and be it further

"Resolved, That the Grand Parlor approves the participation by Subordinate Parlors in, and declares it to be the highest duty of every Native Son to use his utmost efforts to further a movement to provide a remedy for the evil set forth herein."

The only effective remedy that can possibly be applied to the yellow peril, so far as California is concerned, is to put a stop to the further acquirement of agricultural lands by the Japs. Therefore, THE HIGHEST DUTY OF EVERY NATIVE SON IS TO VOTE AND WORK UNTIRINGLY

FOR THE PASSAGE OF PROPOSITION ONE ON THE NOVEMBER BALLOT—ALIEN LAND LAW. Grand President Hoey also sent along with his letter a copy of this resolution, just recently adopted by the Board of Grand Officers anent the anti-Jap campaign:

"Whereas, The Japanese Exclusion League of California was formed in the City of San Francisco on September 2, 1920, which League is an amalgamation of all bodies in the State of California which have been active in the Anti-Japanese movement; and whereas, the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is represented on the Executive Board of said League by Grand President Hoey, Grand First Vice-president Traeger, Past Grand President Lichtenberger, and Brothers J. M. Inman and W. F. Postel; and

"Whereas, The purposes of said League are: First, to secure the passage of the 'Initiative Alien Land Bill' by an overwhelming affirmative vote at the general election to be held on November 2, 1920; and second, thereafter to conduct a campaign of education to fully inform the people of the Eastern United States of the menace of Orientalism, to the end that such national legislation may be secured which will, for all time, protect the American people from such menace; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Board of Grand Officers, in meeting assembled, recommends and requests: First—THAT EACH MEMBER OF THE NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST DO ALL IN HIS POWER TO SECURE THE PASSAGE OF THE 'INITIATIVE ALIEN LAND BILL,' WHICH HAS BEEN PLACED IN THE FIRST POSITION ON THE NOVEMBER BALLOT. Second—That each Subordinate Parlor assist in the support of the Japanese Exclusion League of California by contributing monthly the sum of one dollar for each 200 members, or fractional part thereof, which contributions shall be sent to Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald, City Hall, San Francisco, and shall continue until further action of the Board of Grand Officers;

"Resolved, That the Grand President and the Grand Secretary be, and they are hereby authorized to forward a copy of these resolutions to each Subordinate Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West under the seal of the Grand Parlor."

"FORWARD!"

Those Subordinate Parlors which have undertaken the extension of their membership in the systematic manner proposed by Grand President James F. Hoey and set forth in The Grizzly Bear for October have met with wonderful success. In the interest of the membership campaign, the Grand President has visited many Parlors the past month, a majority of which have initiated large classes. Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker is assisting in many drives, and results are very gratifying where the proper preparation has been made. Here are some of the results already obtained:

Fresno 25 initiated a big class October 19.
General Winn 32 (Antioch) initiated a big class October 13.

Las Positas 96 (Livermore) initiated a class of twenty October 7.

Mount Diablo 101 (Martinez)—Grand President Hoey's home Parlor—initiated a class of thirty-eight October 9 and will initiate another class of at least twenty October 30, when, it is expected, the grand officers will exemplify the ritual.

Byron 170 has a large class for initiation October 19.

Carquinez 205 (Crockett) has made forty-eight additions to its roll.

Diamond 246 (Pittsburg) recently initiated a class of twenty.

The Grand President will devote his membership activities to Alameda County for the next few weeks and, with the assistance of the members there and the Grand Organizer, confidently expects to get together a class of at least 400. This initiation, proposed for the Oakland Auditorium, will be a big event.

What has been done in some Parlors and counties can be done everywhere, if only those who believe in the Order and are desirous of assisting in its advance will organize and "carry on" as suggested by Grand President Hoey, who will be glad to advise with any and every Parlor on how best to proceed.

California's best interest demands that the Order of Native Sons move forward numerically. So, with "forward" as our slogan, let's all go!—C. M. H.

SNYDER DECLINES TO ACCEPT GRAND SECRETARYSHIP

The Board of Grand Officers met in San Francisco October 2 to install as Grand Secretary Past Grand President Jo V. Snyder, who had been previously elected by the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the sudden death of Grand Secretary Fred H. Jung.

Having reconsidered his acceptance, however, Snyder appeared before the Board and declined to accept the office, saying he preferred to continue in his newspaper work at Nevada City.

No permanent successor to Jung has yet been chosen, and at this writing no date has been set for a meeting of the Board to choose such successor. Past Grand President Louis H. Mooser is conducting the office, having been appointed Temporary Grand Secretary by the Board immediately following Jung's death.

Masquerade for Children's Benefit.

San Francisco—The Native Sons and Native Daughters Joint Committee on Homeless Children will give its annual prize masquerade ball at the Civic Auditorium Thanksgiving Eve, November 24.

The officers of the committee are: Grand Trustee James A. Wilson (president), Mrs. May Barry (vice-president), Mrs. Bessie Peters (honorary vice-president), Mrs. Mae Edwards (secretary), Mrs. Minnie Gerran (assistant secretary), W. P. Garfield (treasurer).

Palo Alto Activities.

Palo Alto—October 18 forty-six members of California 1 (San Francisco) were guests of Palo Alto 216 at a class initiation at which the officers of the visiting Parlor exemplified the ritual in an excellent manner. Twenty-four members of California's drum corps, captained by I. V. Scholfield, in uniform and with their drums, came along too, and in their march to Native Sons' Hall awakened the citizens to the fact that there was "something doing" with the Natives. Nearly every Parlor along the Peninsula was represented, and Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker, who never misses any occasion of Palo Alto Parlor's, although a member of California Parlor, was a welcome guest. A banquet prepared by "Chef" Farmin and his ever-faithful committee was served, and at the invitation of President Ostrander, the toastmaster, several toasts were responded to.

It has long been the custom of Palo Alto's past presidents to issue a challenge to the active officers for a ritual contest the latter part of November, the losing team to supply a birthday cake for the Parlor's anniversary celebration. So, November 29 there will be a ritual contest, and December 6 the eighteenth anniversary will be celebrated. Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, "father" of the Parlor, is expected to be present and will be pleased to see how his family has grown. Palo Alto was the third Parlor organized by Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker, and he will be here; also, Grand President James F. Hoey and other grand officers.

Vote "NO" On Proposition No. 2

Argument Against Harris State Prohibition Enforcement Act

Proposition No. 2 on the November Ballot

Proposition No. 2 (the Harris State Prohibition Enforcement Act), does not represent true California sentiment. The measure itself is the product of the last Legislature, which absolutely misrepresented the majority wish of the people of this State on the question of prohibition.

In 1914, 1916 and 1918 California voted down prohibition by very decisive majorities. Within sixty days after the people had rejected the third attempt of the prohibitionists, a Legislature dominated by radical "drys" performed the startling feat of placing this State in the prohibition column by ratifying the Eighteenth Amendment and passing the Harris Act in California by way of enforcement.

In the rush to take advantage of a favorable Legislature, upon the personnel of which the prohibition element had worked at the preceding election, the Harris bill was devised and adopted eight months before the Volstead National Enforcement Act was passed by Congress.

The grape-growing interests of California availed themselves of the right of referendum and promptly presented a widely-signed petition to the Secretary of State. This brings the question of prohibition again before the voters.

Men and women who believe in democracy in government should unhesitatingly vote "NO" on Proposition No. 2. In the annals of political history in this State, there is no more glaring perversion of the law of justice or thwarting of the will of the people than was exemplified in the passing of this particular State measure. Even a prohibitionist who would profess to love justice, would vote down this legislation with conscience clear. The conservative reasoning voter really has no other course to pursue if he analyzes the facts.

Let it be explained further that this Act would foist on this State a bone-dry prohibition law from which the people of California could get no relief even if Congress in its judgment later on saw fit to modify the Volstead Act by permitting the use of light wines and beers in the home. If Proposition No. 2 becomes the law in our State, we would find ourselves under rigid radical prohibition while other States in the Union could enjoy any modifications that might come through Congress by amendment of the Volstead Act. This would make a laughing stock of California which produces ninety per cent of all the grapes grown in the United States.

Proposition No. 2, being of premature birth, is unnecessary legislation. If it becomes the law, it compels those who purchase liquor for non-beverage purposes, to obtain double sets of permits—one from the United States Prohibition Enforcement Department and another from the California State Board of Pharmacy.

I trust the great majority of voters of this State will mark "X" opposite the word "NO" on this measure and thereby again defeat prohibition in California for the fourth time. I repeat that the proposed law is superfluous, would bar light wines and beer in the home, and does not reflect the true sentiment of our glorious hospitable California.

(Signed) E. M. SHEEHAN,

President California Grape Growers' Exchange.

Jap Question Explained.

Placerville—There was a large number of the members of Placerville 9 out September 28 to greet Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger on the occasion of his official visit. In his address he dealt at length with the Jap situation, was listened to intently, and his sentiments were roundly applauded. Late in the night Marguerite 12, N.D.G.W., served one of its famous chicken-pie suppers.

Initiates Class of Nine.

Byron—Close to one hundred members of the Order, including delegations from Las Positas 96 (Livermore) and Tracy 186, attended the meeting of Byron 170 October 19, when a class of nine candidates was initiated. Another class will follow shortly.

A feast of wild ducks, furnished by several of the members, was served by A. J. Le Grand after the ceremonies. Byron Parlor continues to advance steadily.

Twenty-one and Still Growing.

Berkeley—October 19, Berkeley 210 celebrated its twentieth anniversary. It was a "big" evening for the Parlor, charter members, old timers and cub members, to the number of more than a hundred, witnessing a program that will be hard to eclipse even twenty years from today.

During the meeting two volunteer committees, of fifteen members each, were appointed; the first to boost the sale of tickets for the Alameda County homeless children benefit ball to be held in the Oakland Auditorium the evening of November 13, and the second to devise ways and means of canvassing the City of Berkeley for the membership drive which will be held next month.

Under good of the order, the meeting was turned over to the Twentieth Anniversary Committee, which presented a program at the conclusion of the meeting. It included eight diversified numbers that would do credit to a "class A" vaudeville road show. At the two bouts presented, Judge Paul of Albany (incidentally a member of Golden Gate 29 for forty-two years) officiated as timekeeper, and his worthy aid, Marshal John Glavanovich (a member of Sequoia 160 for nearly a like number of years) was referee. Two magicians, each with different new and mystifying feats, baffled the audience for nearly an hour. Duets, vocal and instrumental, a whistling solo, buck-and-wing dancing, and oratorical endeavors of a diabolical nature concluded the program. Then the members and visitors were ushered to seats in the banquet-room, where the speakers, including Grand Third Vice-president Wm. J. Hayes, Charles McEnerney (James Lick 242) and D.D.G.P. A. T. Sousa rang down the curtain. Now, Berkeley Parlor is in its twenty-first year, and still growing.

Members of Berkeley Parlor were guests of Bear Flag 151, N.D.G.W., October 5, when the latter initiated a class of twelve candidates. The "girls" will again entertain the "boys" November 2, at a cabaret party.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Senator A. E. Doynton (Argonaut 8) of San Francisco has been appointed treasurer of the California Japanese Exclusion League.

Chief Justice Frank M. Angellotti and Justice Thomas J. Lennon (both Mount Tamalpais 64) of the California Supreme Court were in Los Angeles the latter part of last month holding court.

Clifford W. Dont and Robert Cockrill (both Santa Rosa 28) of Santa Rosa have joined the ranks of the benedicts, the former having wedded Miss Verda Davis of Santa Rosa and the latter Gertrude Vogt of Healdsburg.

H. H. Shuffleton (McCloud 149) of Redding, Shasta County Recorder, has had his share of troubles; his 14-year-old daughter is just now convalescing from a long siege of typhoid, and recently his son accidentally shot away his right forefinger.

Party for Brides.

Oakland—Members of Aloha 106 spent a most enjoyable evening September 21, the occasion being a "high jinks" in honor of Tillie Frick Kimball, May Gartland Rudder and Minnie Martin, who have recently become brides. Fifty-four members were in costume, and during the ritualistic work three candidates were initiated. Under good of the order, a jolly time was had, the following program being presented: Remarks, chairman; recitation, Euphale Taber; fancy dances, Dorothy Derrick; instrumental solos, Consuelo De Leveaga, Helen Higgins and Euphale Taber. Refreshments were than enjoyed at prettily decorated tables in the banquet-room, during which Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derrick presented, in her usual pleasing manner, gifts of silver to the brides. Mrs. Martin has served in the capacity of recording secretary for twenty-four consecutive terms, and will be greatly missed, as she left for her new home in Salt Lake City the following morning.

Aloha has many events on its winter social calendar. The members are taking much interest in a ball which will be given in the near future for the homeless children, and for which the Central Committee of Native Daughters and Native Sons of Alameda County is perfecting plans.

Thanksgiving Day

Hollister, October 27, 1920.

To the Officers and Members of the Subordinate Parlor
Native Daughters of the Golden West.
Dear Sisters:

"This is the day, oh, thankful heart,
Our Fathers kept of old.
We carry home the garnered sheaves,
The harvest's tale is told."

In accordance with a time-honored custom, established by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth in 1621, the Chief Executive of our Nation will, by proclamation, set apart Thursday, November the twenty-fifth, as Thanksgiving Day. On this day, in the fruitful autumn, we are directed to lay aside our regularly appointed tasks and turn to Almighty God in gratitude for the many blessings of the year.

As citizens of the grandest Nation the world has ever known, we have enjoyed freedom, peace and prosperity. We thank God for the awakened patriotism of our people and for the greater realization of what our country means to us and what is typified by the Stars and Stripes we love so well.

Multitudes of blessings have been showered upon those "fortunate to be the children of a happily favored State." In all the world there is no land so rich as ours; we have been blessed with material prosperity beyond belief. The soil of California has yielded prolifically, and the laborers among her trees, vines, and fields of waving grain have received a goodly return for their toil.

As members of this great Fraternity, we should extend thanks for the abundant joys of the past year; for the many new links added to our chain of membership; for the ennobling principles of our Order; for the forbearance and loving kindness that exist among our members.

As individuals, we should, in humbleness of spirit, raise our hearts and our voices in praise and gratitude for food, health and raiment, and the sacred influences of home, family and friends.

"For all earth's goodness, let's Give our thanks to Him on High."

Sincerely and fraternally, in P. D. F. A.

Cafeteria Enriches Treasury.

San Francisco—After Golden Gate 158's regular meeting September 13 a pleasant evening was enjoyed, the Good of the Order Committee having been instructed to provide some novel entertainment; the "Cafeteria De Luxe" was certainly the gratifying result of its untiring efforts. Everything was true to form, and no one had cause to complain of H.C.L. The treasury was considerably enriched as a result of this effort. Among the visitors was D.D.G.P. May L. Noble.

As the penny was prominent during the evening, a guessing game, of how many articles could be found on a cent-piece, was played. There were fifteen articles enumerated, and a prize was given the one able to guess the largest number correct. This test surprised many, as one hardly expected to find so many things on the small copper coin. The committee in charge of the evening was: L. Knecht (chairman), Fitzgerald, Ramm, Gaetjen, E. McNeerney. S. Siebe acted as the inevitable cashier of the cafeteria.

As an aid to selling tickets for the "Crossing the Plains" picture, Golden Gate Parlor has taken to raffling a ticket at each meeting at ten cents per chance. This creates quite an interest, and the Parlor hopes to dispose of a number of the tickets in this way.

Would Build Clubhouse.

Modesto—Morado 199 gave an enjoyable dance October 13, the purpose being to start a fund with which to build a clubhouse.

Birthday Party for Two Popular Members.

San Rafael—Members and friends of Mariuita 198 gathered September 30 to help make merry the birthdays of Past Presidents Ida E. Glidden and Anna Daly; the occasion will long be remembered as the largest attended and jolliest social event of the season. Guessing games, for which prizes were awarded Vida Vollers and Florence Cole, were followed by the Dutch honey-moon, a side-splitting game in which the prizewinners were Kate Daly and Rita O'Connor. M. Marbling appeared in a song-dance number, and President N. Hecht favored with a song and Anna Daly with a recitation.

At 11 o'clock adjournment was had to the banquet-room, which was a joy to behold, with its beautiful decorations in pink and green and tables overflowing with "goodies." Covers were laid for eighty; at each plate was a pink rosebud and place-card, while a large gift basket of pink carnations and ferns constituted a centerpiece; pink-shaded candles cast a soft glow over the tables. When the huge candle-decorated birthday cake was cut the luck pieces were found by: N. Hecht the heart (love), H. Azevedo the wishbone (good luck), G. Logan the thimble (old maid), I. Glidden the ring (next bride). For Marinita Parlor, President N. Hecht presented a gold cross and chain with pieces of silver to Miss I. Glidden and a gold emblematic

Often the FIRST PAYMENT Bothers

Lovely homes, in California, can still be bought on monthly payments—like rent.

But you have to make the FIRST PAYMENT.

The way to get that first payment is to SAVE IT UP. Practice self-denial. Question every dollar and every dime, and put into Bank every coin, large or small, that isn't taken from you by necessity.

Soon, you can stop wishing you owned your home, and be on the road to independence.

Berendos' Activities.

Red Bluff—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit to Berendos 23 September 25. Past Grand President Olive Bedford-Matlock (Camellia 41), and members of Eschscholtzia 42 (Etna Mills), Hiawatha 140 (Redding) and El Vespero 118 (San Francisco) now residing here were among the visitors. After the business of the evening the Grand President gave a most interesting and instructive talk; from various members she received lovely flowers, and from the Parlor a useful little gift. At the meeting's conclusion delicious refreshments were served in the banquet-room, which had been most tastefully decorated by the committee in charge.

Grand President Briggs spent the week end here, the guest of friends, and all who met her felt enriched for coming in contact with her charming personality, while she, in turn, enjoyed every moment of her brief visit. Saturday, as the guest of the Chamber of Commerce, she was shown the beauties and wonders of this section.

Berendos Parlor has initiated many candidates recently and has several applications on file; indications are that the growth will continue. At every meeting during the winter refreshments will be served. In 1915 the Parlor inaugurated the annual Pioneer reception, and except in 1918 and 1919, when the flu was epidemic, has adhered to the custom. October 23 has been set as the date for this year's reunion, and arrangements are now being made.

Busy Times at Home-club.

San Francisco—The summer months were busy ones at the Native Daughters' Home-club. The following members of the Order took advantage of the accommodations there, and expressed their appreciation of its cozy home atmosphere and the comforts enjoyed: Sisters Penrose, Calanan and Hieronimus of Laurel 6 (Nevada City), Sisters Clauson and Stephens of Manzanita 29 (Grass Valley), Sisters Grant and Murray of Joaquin 5 (Stockton), Sisters McFarland, Hooper, Boulton and White of Alta 3 (San Francisco).

Miss Helen Ione Weaver of Camellia 41 has returned to her home in Anderson, Shasta County, after being at the N.D.G.W. Home-club for three months, during which time she attended a business college, with the purpose in view of fitting herself for high school commercial work. Her mother, who is a member of the same Parlor, spent two weeks at the home. Past Grand President Alison F. Watt of Grass Valley and Miss Eleanor Lacey of Joaquin 5 (Stockton), made their headquarters at the Home-club over the Ninth of September. Miss Edith Odell of Joaquin 5 has returned to the Home-club, after spending several weeks with her folks at Stockton. Miss Mary McLaughlin of Argonaut 116 (Oakland) has returned to the Home-club after spending two months at Pebble Beach.

Mrs. Belle Douglass of Laurel 6 (Nevada City) has donated an interesting book of pioneer days—"Seven Years' Street Preaching in San Francisco," by William Taylor—also copies of magazines of the early days—"The Hesperian" and "The California," dating back to 1859 and 1860.

White Elephants Galore.

St. Helena—One of the most pleasant affairs ever given by La Junta 203 was a "white elephant" party. Invited guests were also present, and all brought with them "a white elephant." A great deal of fun was had, each one endeavoring to keep the mysterious package that looked best to her. When the whistle blew it was found the packages contained everything from a ukelele to a pair of bright red silk gloves. Guessing contests, conundrums and memory tests made the time pass pleasantly until the supper committee announced that refreshments were ready. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated, the color scheme of red being carried out with Japanese lanterns, crepe paper streamers and geraniums. Those in charge of the affair were Mesdames Mina Vann, Celeste Thorsen, Madeline Vasconi, Misses Inez Forni, Martha Klubescheidt.

La Junta is preparing to initiate two candidates at its first meeting in November. Committees are at work arranging a large public card party for October 29. It will be a Hollowe'en affair, and those in charge expect to make it a most delightful occasion.

Tell of Early Days.

Hollister—Copa de Oro 105 and Fremont 44, N.S.G.W., entertained the Pioneers of San Benito County September 11 with a program and refreshments. The hall was filled with the guests, who look forward to this annual reunion; those unable

DEATH REMOVES N. S. HUSBAND OF N. D. PAST GRAND PRESIDENT.

Sacramento—Major William A. Gett, one of the best-known men of the legal profession in the northern part of the state, died September 28 from injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile. Surviving is the widow, Mrs. Ema Gett, a Past Grand President of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Major Gett was born in Sacramento July 17, 1863; he was educated in the public schools of the city, and there he had always resided, being prominent in legal, political and fraternal affairs. September 8, 1881, he affiliated with Sacramento Parlor, No. 3, N.S.G.W., in time became a past president, and frequently represented the Parlor in the Grand Parlor. His interest in the Order never slackened, and he always responded promptly and willingly to any call for service. The title of major was bestowed upon him after years of active service in the National Guard. Deceased's father, Captain W. A. Gett, was a veteran of the Mexican War.

NATIVE DAUGHTER MOTHER ANSWERS THE FINAL SUMMONS.

Emma Lurinda Swortzel, a charter member of Reichling Parlor, No. 97, N.D.G.W. (Fortuna), died September 22 after a three weeks' illness due to Bright's disease, survived by eight children. She was born at Knights Landing, Yolo County, in 1854, her father, Pioneer Geo. F. Gushaw, having settled there in 1849.

Among the surviving children of Mrs. Swortzel is a daughter, Ada Louise Swortzel who, since June, 1913, has been the faithful assistant secretary of the N. S. and N. D. Homeless Children Committee, with headquarters in San Francisco. Mrs. Swortzel was well-known throughout Humboldt County; she was charitable to all, was a devoted mother, and in her passing the Order of Native Daughters has lost a valuable member.

N. S. PAST GRAND PRESIDENT LOSES "PAL"—WIFE THROUGH DEATH.

St. Helena—After eight weeks of illness, due to a stroke of paralysis, Mrs. Bismarek Bruck, one of the best-known and most-loved women of Napa County, passed away recently. She was born in Calistoga March 5, 1874, but since her marriage December 1, 1892, had resided in this city. Surviving are the husband, Bismarek Bruck, Past Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, and a son, Dr. Edward Louis Bruck.

Mrs. Bruck was a splendid wife and mother. She took great interest in all her sorrowing husband's many undertakings, and in everything they were the closest of "pals." For several past years she had accompanied him to the sessions of the Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., and on each occasion added many new names to the long list of friends who are grieved at the separation which death alone could have brought to this devoted pair.

NATIVE DAUGHTER MOTHER PASSES.

Placerville—Jessie Belle Lyons, a greatly loved member of Marguerite Parlor, No. 12, N.D.G.W., died recently at the age of 51. About ten months ago she and her husband, A. S. Lyons, became afflicted with an illness which caused her death and which necessitated his relinquishing the presidency of Placerville Parlor, No. 9, N.S.G.W.

In addition to the sorrowing husband, deceased is survived by six children, three of the four daughters being affiliated with Marguerite Parlor, N.D.G.W., and one of the two sons with Placerville Parlor, N.S.G.W.

PIONEER NATIVE SON DEAD.

Nevada City—Benjamin Franklin Hartman, an old-time member of Hydraulic Parlor, No. 56, N.S.G.W., is dead from the effects of a paralytic stroke. He was born here in 1855 and had resided here nearly all his life. In addition to the widow, several brothers and sisters survive.

Design Adopted for '21 License Plates.

Sacramento—The 1921 auto license plates will be golden poppy in color, with letters and figures of black. The abbreviation "Cal." will follow the numerals and the year designation, "21," will appear below it—just reversing the appearance of the 1920 plates.

In Memoriam

KATHERINE ROSE SILVA.

To the Officers and Members of Coloma Parlor, No. 212, N.D.G.W.: We, your committee on resolutions of respect to the memory of Sister Katherine Rose Silva, deceased, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Divine Providence has willed that our sister, Katherine Rose Silva, be the first one called from among us to a seat in the Grand Parlor on High; and whereas, Sister Silva was a charter member of Coloma Parlor, a staunch friend and loyal Native Daughter; and whereas, in her untimely passing, Coloma Parlor has lost a loyal member, who has been our treasurer since the institution of our Parlor, and the community a highly respected citizen; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend to her family our sincere sympathy in their hour of bereavement, and as a mark of our respect to her memory, it is ordered that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, a copy sent to her family, and a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

ROSE E. KAESER,
MAMIE DAVIS,
ANN PAYNE,

Committee.

Sacramento, September 24, 1920.

CHARLES DONNER HOUGHTON.

Whereas, In the wisdom of Almighty God, Brother Charles Donner Houghton was called to his eternal rest on the 24th day of September, 1920, leaving many staunch friends, besides his family, to mourn his loss; and whereas, Brother Houghton was a member of one of our most prominent and esteemed pioneer families, and merited the keenest appreciation and affection of all who were fortunate enough to come within the sphere of his friendship; and whereas, Brother Houghton was an old and respected member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, having first joined the Order at San Jose on January 2, 1891, and Ramona Parlor, No. 109, on September 19, 1913, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Houghton the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West has been deprived of a member worthy of the highest respect, and a member whose sterling qualities have endeared his memory to relatives and friends alike; and be it further resolved, that we tender to the bereaved family of our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy in this, their sad bereavement, and trust that God, in His infinite mercy, will soothe them in their sad affliction; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of Ramona Parlor, that a copy be presented to the bereaved family, and that a copy be published in The Grizzly Bear, our official organ.

CARMEN FELIX

Whereas, The summons that awaits all mortals deprived our Parlor, Sterling, No. 146, Native Daughters of the Golden West, of one of the esteemed, devoted, and loyal sisters of our Order, Carmen Felix, whose pleasant disposition and sincere friendship endeared her to her sister members; whereas, by the untimely calling of our departed sister, Sterling Parlor has lost a true and faithful friend; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Sterling Parlor, No. 146, N.D.G.W., sincerely deplores its sister's passing and tenderly condole with the bereaved relatives and commends them for consolation to Him Who doeth all things well; and be it, further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our Parlor's record, and that a copy be forwarded to the bereaved family.

ALVINA KENNERLY,

Committee.

Pittsburg, October 14, 1920.

JOSEPH LOUIS MELLO.

To the Officers and Members of Sebastopol Parlor, No. 143, N.S.G.W.: We, your committee on resolutions of condolence and respect to the memory of our departed brother, Joseph Louis Mello, who was claimed by the grim reaper on the 13th day of August, 1920, respectfully submit the following:

Resolved, That by the death of this brother our Order has lost a loyal Native Son, and we hereby extend to his devoted wife our heartfelt sympathy and trust she may find consolation in the fact that her unfailing love for and womanly devotion to our brother through all the long years of his invalidism is by us regarded as the crowning glory of her womanhood, the reward for which will not cease when, for her, time shall be no more; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her and a copy transmitted to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

JOHN S. SAUNDERS,
E. F. SHARP,
W. A. ARFSTEN,

Committee.

Sebastopol, September 2, 1920.

LETITIA ISABELLE FITZ SIMMONS

Whereas, Our Almighty God has seen fit to call from this world of cares Sister Letitia Isabelle Fitz Simmons, one who was beloved by all who knew her and one whom to know was to love; this being a great loss to her esteemed brother and sister, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Geneva Parlor, No. 107, N.D.G.W., extends its heartfelt sympathy and condolence to her bereaved brother and sister in their hour of trouble and grief; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her brother and sister, our charter be draped for thirty days, that a copy be spread on the minutes of Geneva Parlor, No. 107, N.D.G.W., and that a copy be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

to walk were brought in autos. Several of the Pioneers, being called upon, recounted early days in the county and related their personal experiences.

Copa de Oro Parlor will give a card party October 22, the proceeds going to the fund for the homeless children.

Holiday Bazar.

San Francisco—Castro 178 will hold a bazar November 20 for the benefit of the sick fund. All the members are interested, to the end that it may be a success, and each is working hard making the numberless articles of fancy work, aprons, etc. that always find ready sale around the holidays. Good music will be provided for dancing at the bazar, which will be held in American Hall, Twentieth and Capp streets.

Recording Secretary Sandersfeld, who has been quite ill, is again at her desk.

Words Stimulate Interest.

Redding—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit to Hiawatha 140 September 20. A number of visitors from Eltapome 55 (Weaverville) and Lassen View 98 (Shasta) were in attendance, and helped to make the evening an enjoyable one. Mrs. Briggs' remarks, under good of the Order, were most inspiring, and will certainly help to stimulate interest in the activities of the Parlor.

At the conclusion of her address, the Parlor presented the Grand President with a beautiful picture, as a token of love. After the business of the Parlor the members assembled in the banquet-room, where a dainty repast was served by Ella Joe Eaton and a most able committee.

Baby With a Record.

Santa Rosa—When the chapter of Santa Rosa 217 was closed forty members had been enrolled; October 5, eighteen candidates were initiated, and October 19 another ten, bringing the membership to sixty-eight. The "baby" Parlor is justly proud of this record, and hopes to have as large a membership as any Parlor in just a short while.

September 22 the Parlor gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Mary Silva, now Mrs. William Palmer, and she was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts. Practically the entire membership participated in the shower, which was held at one of the member's home. Games, dancing and refreshments sped away the hours, and at departure the bride-to-be was again showered, this time with good wishes.

Santa Rosa 28, N.S.G.W., gave a benefit dance for the Parlor October 1, the purpose being to assist in the purchase of regalia. The "girls" certainly are appreciative of the generous assistance the "boys" have always given them.

Past Presidents Honor Guests.

San Francisco—Members of Buena Vista 68 were out in force October 7 at a reception to the past presidents, twenty-four of the twenty-nine of whom were in attendance. The hall was beautifully decorated. Past Presidents Emma O'Donnell, Genevieve Watson-Baker and Jennie Greene occupied the offices respectively of senior past president, president, and secretary; they are charter members, and were officers at the time of the Parlor's institution twenty-seven years ago, Mrs. Greene faithfully serving as secretary ever since. A silent prayer was offered for the deceased members, and then the roll of past presidents was called, the following responding: Emma O'Donnell, Genevieve Watson-Baker, Mary E. Bell, May Noble, Ella Wehe, Emma Leando, Nellie Sader, Lillie Crapo, Gertie Bury, Anna Shea, Mattie Radke, Mrs. Robinson, Josie Parker, Hattie Wiese, Mary Lewis, Bessie Wilbert, Ida Lervi, May Donald, Edna Army, Isabelle Nielson, Gertie Amedee.

After the opening ceremonies Acting President Genevieve Watson-Baker extended greetings and good wishes to the founders and makers of Buena Vista Parlor. "We have been a leader and power for good throughout our Order," she said, "since its inception. We have always tried to be loyal, just and fair in our dealings with each other. For all of Buena Vista's success, nor all her worth, I heartily thank my associates. We have had many serious difficulties which we have surmounted; many splendid victories which we have shared. There are still many things worth while to be done, and I am happy to know that you have a staff of officers able to accomplish them, as brilliantly in the future as in the past. To you who have been with us since the organization of our Parlor, as well as to all members, let me express the earnest hope that our friendship and co-operation may endure until the end."

Each past president was presented with flowers, and from the hands of Past Grand President Mary E. Bell the much-loved secretary, Mrs. Jennie Greene, received a handsome bouquet, the Parlor's remembrance, and a hand satchel, the gift of the past presidents, for every one of whom she has been secretary. Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp VanEe furnished music for this most loving meeting. President May Noble made a genial hostess, leaving nothing undone that might add to the success of the occasion. Among the many visitors was D.D.G.P. Elizabeth Muller. Too much cannot be said in praise of the chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. Dell Campbell, and her able assistant, Mrs. Edna Army; tables for five were arranged about the hall, and all present did ample justice to the feast of good things spread before them.

"Some" Parties.

Elk Grove—Liberty 213 had a real honest-to-goodness "hen party" recently when twenty-three of its "gamest chickens" gathered around the festive board to enjoy a chicken supper with all the fixin's. Each had to tell a story, and the applause emanating from the feast-room indicated they were good ones. The committee in charge—Belle Bradford, Kathryn Martin, Kathryn Core, Muriel Bradford, Myrtle Martin—was rewarded with three prolonged cheers.

A "dog" party was staged at the next meeting of Liberty Parlor, when a candidate—Gertrude Martin—was initiated. Games followed the order of business, Kathryn Martin taking the prize in musical chairs. Then an attempt was made to supply a tail, in the proper place, to a tailless dog-picture: Blanche Hooper Reilly, making a pretty fair guests got a guest-towel, and Louise Cunn won a cute little celluloid dog. For supper, there were "hot dogs" and other doggone good edibles; at each plate was a little numbered paper-dog, as a placecard, of course, and being lucky, Mary Coons drew a rubber canine. The committee in charge—Vina Nelson, Edith Swift, Benita Evans, Margaret Beitzel—worked hard, and its successful efforts were fully appreciated.

Liberty Parlor will entertain the members of Elk Grove 41, N.S.G.W., at a card party November 12, and on Thanksgiving night, along with the Native Sons, will give a dance for the benefit of the homeless children.

Native Sons Reached.

Oakland—The "girls" of Bahia Vista 167 have learned the truth of the old saw, "The way to a man's heart is via his stomach." This is how it happened: The members of the Parlor having some Admission Day funds left, decided to spend it on "eats." One remarked, "Why not ask the 'boys' of Oakland 50? They were kind enough to share their headquarters in San Francisco with us on the Ninth." The result was, that the 50ers came, ate, and were so completely conquered that an everlasting friendship between the two Parlors has been cemented. Enthusiasm? Why, it ran rampant. But then who could help being enthused after feasting on piping hot chicken frieassee garnished with mashed potatoes filled with cream and butter, home-made cakes covered with cream and other things, salad made just right, and everything flavored with the spice of happiness and covered with the sauce of goodfellowship. Toasts were responded to with alacrity, and all stood to drink one to the two chefs, Mesdames Buss and Wright,

County of Los Angeles

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared Clarence M. Hunt who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Managing Editor of the Grizzly Bear Magazine and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse side of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:
NAME OF— POST-OFFICE ADDRESS
Publisher, Grizzly Bear Publishing Co., (Inc.) Los Angeles, Cal.
Managing Editor, Clarence M. Hunt, Los Angeles, Cal.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individual owners, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of the total amount of stock).
The Grizzly Bear Publishing Co., a corporation, is the owner. 1261 shares of the 7500 authorized shares of stock have been sold. Names all stockholders, and amount stock held by each, attached hereto.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.)
None

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company, but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

VOTE FOR AND RE-ELECT SIDNEY N. REEVE

JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT
LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Judge of Juvenile and Psychopathic Department

NOVEMBER 2, 1920

JUST CALIFORNIA

Healthy City—Berkley is reported by the State Board of Health to be the second healthiest city in the United States.

Fall Exhibit—Arrangements are well under way for the Orange and Olive Exposition at Oroville, Butte County, November 15-20.

Producers to Confer—At Fresno, November 9-12, California's fruit-growers and farmers will meet in annual convention.

Good Investment—Voters of Stockton have authorized bonds to the amount of $1,760,000 to be invested in public improvements, including a memorial auditorium and a city hall, to cost $600,000 each.

Progressive—Selma, the go-ahead little "Peach City" of Fresno County, will spend $90,000 for a modern sewer system, its people having voted bonds for the purpose.

Expanding—The people of Richmond, the thriving Contra Costa County industrial city, have voted $550,000 bonds to complete the inner harbor project and provide additional wharfage.

Moving Ahead—Indicative of conditions in Los Angeles are these September figures: building permits $7,231,440, the greatest on record; bank clearings $346,945,000, over $100,000,000 more than a year ago.

Women's Home—In Sonoma County, four miles from Sonoma City, the State has purchased 600,000 acres of land for $50,000, to be used as a home for delinquent women, as provided for by the last Legislature.

Big Industry—Oroville, Butte County, it is reported, will have the biggest sawmill and veneer plant in the state, representing an investment of nearly $2,000,000; timber will be supplied from near Mooretown, sixteen miles away.

Millions for Water—Voters in the Glenn-Colusa irrigation district have authorized $2,587,000 bonds to carry out an immense reclamation project in those fertile Sacramento Valley counties.

URGE ELECTION OF

IRA F. THOMPSON

SUPERIOR JUDGE, Los Angeles County

We earnestly urge the voters of Los Angeles County to elect Ira F. Thompson Judge of the Superior Court. We know that he is qualified by training and experience. We know that he has that temperament which peculiarly fits him for the office. He says: "No man should be elected to administer the law who is not imbued with high purposes and a sense of fairness which will lead him to a courteous consideration of lawyers, litigants and witnesses and to a careful and prayerful consideration of the issues of law and fact." We know that Mr. Thompson measures up to this standard. Your vote will be for the public good.

JOHN W. MALTMAN, WALLACE J. BRUCE, ALFRED L. BARTLETT, JOHN B. HAAS, HAMISH B. EDDIE, CAROLINE A. KELLOGG, MRS. ELIZABETH G. McKELVEY, MARY L. ALLEN, FRANK L. TURNER, Committee.

respectively past president and treasurer of the Parlor, who can be always depended upon to produce the right results in the culinary line. The hall was prettily decorated in the national colors, suggesting unity, and previous to the banquet dancing and an entertainment program were enjoyed.

Bahia Vista Parlor's members appeared in the San Francisco Admission Day parade in natty costumes of yellow coats, short white skirts and yellow tams. Accompanying was a poppy-covered float on which stood the president, holding aloft the Stars and Stripes. The Parlor is now planning for a Halloween entertainment, and also for a shower for its latest bride, Grace Matthews.

Placerville Pioneers Entertained.

Placerville—Marguerite 12 and Placerville 9, N.S.G.W., entertained sixty-five Pioneers of El Dorado County at a reception September 28. Making up the program were an address of welcome by Mrs. Nettie Leonardi, short addresses by Judge George H. Thompson, Rev. P. E. Petersen, John F. Armstrong, recitations by Mrs. Jessie Maynard and Miss Jennie McCusker, piano solo by Mrs. Stewart, and selections by the Placerville quartet—Mrs. S. H. Rautz, Miss Mollie Carpenter, A. S. Fox, Rev. P. E. Petersen.

A delicious chicken-pie dinner followed, being served by the Native Daughters. Both in the meeting and banquet rooms artistic decorations were carried out in emblematic colors. Autos conveyed those who lived at a distance to the reunion, which was attended by several from other places.

Initiates One.

San Francisco—Alta 3 held its regular monthly social time September 25, D.D.G.P. Mae Edwards being among the visitors. One candidate—Mrs. Henrietta Maurer—was initiated.

Celebrates Anniversary.

Woodland—Woodland 90 celebrated the twenty-fourth anniversary of its institution October 12, its members appearing in children's attire and playing youthful games. For the best costumes, prizes were awarded Mesdames Frank Doyle, S. W. Woods, E. Dickey, Theodore Purkitt, Fred Stening.

Past Presidents Banquet.

Oakland—The ninth anniversary of the organization of Past Presidents' Association No. 2 was observed with a banquet October 2. The tables, with covers for sixty, were tastefully decorated with red oak leaves interspersed with acorns and yellow flowers. Mrs. Minnie E. Flynn was chairman of the committee in charge.

President Elizabeth S. Smith was the toastmistress, and the speakers of the evening included: Founder Leah Williams; Past Grand President May C. Boldemann, president Association No. 1; Past Grand President Margaret Grote-Hill, Sarah Brackett and Grace Wagner of Association No. 1. On behalf of Berkeley 150, Anna E. Berriek presented President Elizabeth S. Smith with a handsome emerald-studded set of combs. Merry-making was the order of the evening, and dancing was indulged in.

To Have Theater Benefit.

Sau Diego—Commencing with the first meeting in November, San Diego 208 will begin a systematic study of California history. Plans are being perfected for a benefit theater party in the near future; Dr. Louise C. Heilbron is chairman of the committee in charge.

Members of San Diego Parlor have been invited to attend the open meeting of the San Diego County Pioneer Society November 29, and a very enjoyable time is anticipated.

ited the Parlor October 6, when two candidates were initiated. Several applications being on file, there will be a class initiation real soon. This shows Piedmont is steadily advancing in membership and prosperity.

President Emma Flood, Mrs. Gertrude Morrison and Miss Marion King represent Piedmont on the general committee of the Alameda County Parlors which is arranging the details of the entertainment and ball to be given at the Auditorium November 13 for the benefit of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Homeless Children's Agency. It promises to be a big success.

Piedmont Parlor meets every Wednesday night at Native Sons' Hall, Eleventh and Clay streets. Whist parties are held every fourth Wednesday, and have proved social and financial successes. Members of the Order are always welcome.

Publicity Committees Named.

In response to Grand President Bertha A. Briggs' letter, these additional Subordinate Parlors have named Publicity Committees:

Las Lomas 72 (San Francisco)—Miss Teresa Maguire.

Hayward 122 (Hayward)—Henrietta M. Dobbell, Liberty 213 (Elk Grove)—Frances Wackman, Harriet Hogaboom, Mary Coons.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Estelle Hutchison (president Castro 178) of San Francisco is visiting in Chicago and New York.

Rosina M. Hertzbrun (San Diego 208) of San Diego is visiting in the San Francisco Bay region.

Admission Day brought a new native daughter to the San Francisco home of Mrs. Jessie Knus (Golden Gate 158).

In the recent annual Golden Gate swimming race, Miss Gertrude Seyden (Golden Gate 158) of San Francisco came in third.

Upon the occasion of her recent visit to Marion, Ohio, Dr. Mariaua Bertola (Past Grand President) presented Senator Harding with one of the State (Bear) Flags carried in the San Francisco Admission Day parade; the flag was a gift from Marguerite Sullivan (Alta 3).

Mrs. Emma W. Humphrey (Past Grand President) of Reno, Nevada, has been appointed chairman of the department of institutional relations of the National Federation of Women's Clubs; the duties will necessitate her addressing state conventions of federated women's clubs throughout the country.

George E. Cryer

CANDIDATE FOR

Judge Superior Court

was born in Douglas county, Nebraska, in 1875. Came to California when a small boy, where he has since resided and where he received his preliminary education. In 1898 enlisted at Redlands for the war with Spain under the first call of President McKinley for volunteers in the 7th California infantry and was made first sergeant of Co. G. Immediately after his discharge from the army he entered the law department at the University of Michigan, where he graduated with honors in the class of 1903. He served one year as an editorial assistant on the Michigan Law Review.

Returning to Los Angeles, Mr. Cryer entered actively into the practice of law in 1904, and has since followed his profession in this city. He has had a varied and extensive professional experience, having engaged in general practice and served as first assistant United States Attorney, as first assistant City Attorney of Los Angeles, and as chief deputy District Attorney of Los Angeles County. He entered the contest for Judge of the Superior Court at the request of many prominent members of the bar.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STORMER.

WHEN THE WEATHERMAN SAYS IT is time to bid farewell to summer days, the wise woman plans for the fall suit and coat. The gorgeous autumn shades are reproduced in many of the new goods.

Separate coats are long, loose, and made with very roomy sleeves, especially for the woman who drives a motor car.

Suits are very fancily trimmed. Hand embroidery, fur, buttons, odd pockets—all add charm to any material.

Afternoon dresses of lovely tricofino and duvetyn are becoming to most figures, in the straight-from-shoulder-to-hem style, with very many variations in side trimming and foundation.

A chiffon velvet, in a soft brown shade, makes a smart visiting frock, made with a blouse in peplum style, slashed vest of same shade duvetyn, and a short sash over slightly full skirt. Braided broadcloth is used very effectively on velvet gowns.

A very stunning dress of soft satin has plaited side panels hanging from the hips, headed with fur bands which also edge the soft girdle and short sleeves. The very plain waist buttons in back with steel buttons.

A practical model is of tricotine in midnight blue, rounded neck, and loose apron-pattern tunic over a foundation of satin. The trimming is selftone stitching of floss in a pretty design.

A handsome daytime frock of twill serge, made in coat style, has the otherwise severe lines softened by the fancy joining at waistline which makes a right-hand small pocket effect. A high collar, with a four-inch-wide scarf edged with fox, hangs over the left shoulder.

Sport skirts of tweed, large plaids, plain and plaited style, are to be modish. It is very smart to have tam-o-shanter headgear to contrast in color with the extra skirt.

Blouses continue in high favor, and in many materials. Georgette is a favorite with those who prefer delicate colors. As the coats become wider, the long Russian blouse becomes more popular. A very effective one may be made of velvet, with wide sleeves, and trimmed in embroidery of wool or chenille.

A charming evening blouse, of chiffon and filet lace, is worn with the dark suit and makes an appropriate combination if the coat is removed.

Evening dresses are beaded in beautiful designs on silks, nets and laees. Satin charmeuse, draped to wonderful advantage with the addition of chantly lace, makes a very striking, yet simple gown. A lovely dress is of silver cloth, with overdress of several layers of blue tulle.

A pretty use of lace is seen in a skirt that is pointed at hem and worn with a black velvet basque effect, low cut waist.

The ever-welcome sash is used, the graceful fashion being for the loop to hang from the left hip, which accents the popular corsetless silhouette. A lot of chiffon, tulle and narrow ribbon will be used for sashes.

Furs are very alluring, and there are numberless effects that appeal to those who like small choker styles and to the ones who like the voluminous cape. Many women have fur trimming on suits, others like the separate wraps. Fur is a luxury that many women will revel in.

Fancy collars add much to a plain frock or suit. A black velvet or serge gains distinction with a demure lace or crisp organdy collar fastened with an effective brooch.

Children these days are considered of enough importance to have their wishes consulted in selecting their own wearing apparel, and are given as much leeway in choice as the older folks.

One schoolgirl style is a plaid skirt in pleated effect, simple blouse of white, and jacket of plain cloth having a belt and patch pockets. A round hat of velvet, covered with stitching and small ornament of a favored color, completes the outfit.

Girls are becomingly suited, both for school and day time, and bloom like roses in the sweet evening frocks of full tunics over narrow foundations and the dear little flower-trimmed basque or banded net waists.

Printed chiffon and tissue scarfs are dainty accessories to the evening dress of a young girl.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Dr. Li Po Tai, with Dr. Chan Tin Choy, Chinese doctors of San Francisco fame, were dangerously injured November 22 by an explosion of gas as they entered their office and struck a light. Dr. Li Po Tai was quite a notable character. His practice brought him in from white people at least $20,000 a year. He was an inveterate gambler, and frequently lost large sums at a sitting. He was said to have lost $7,000 a few nights before the accident. Sinclair Wiseman, an old resident of Vallejo, hunting quail November 27, drew his gun through a fence and accidentally discharged it. The shot tore through his neck and instantly killed him.

John Samuel, a lad at Marysville, Yuba County, November 27 attempted to board a moving train. He slipped under a wheel, crushing a leg so badly it had to be amputated.

Augustus Miller, at Stockton, was run over by a fire engine answering an alarm and fatally injured.

A man named Hike, owner of a winery in Sonoma, fell asleep sitting in a chair in his room in a San Francisco hotel. He dreamed he was attending to a wine vat that began to overflow. Jumping up, he fell through a third-story window to the sidewalk and was seriously injured.

A boy named Morrini, in Oakland, jumped from the roof of a building upon another below, landing on a board that broke; his leg went through and the flesh was torn in a shocking manner.

A little 13-year-old girl named Irene Furry, at Woodland, Yolo County, November 2 seated herself in the buggy of a neighbor while he stood on the ground holding the reins talking to her father. The team took fright and ran away. She was thrown out after going a short distance and almost instantly killed.

Annie Forester, 11 years old, went with her father on his ranch near Sebastopol, Sonoma County, November 5 to burn a dead tree standing on a hillside. While watching the blaze a limb broke off and fell, striking her on the head and killing her.

Charles Murray, a 16-year-old lad, while crossing the Merced River in Mariposa County November 1 with a team on a ferryboat, was struck on the head by a lever, knocked overboard and drowned.

Miss Lillie Stafford, a young woman of Marysville, November 7 was thrown out of a buggy and seriously injured.

Hiram Chick, a lad in Stockton, while loading a shotgun, accidentally discharged a barrel and had his right hand blown off.

The infant son of Frank Moser, living in Grass Valley, Nevada County, fell from the doorstep of the house a few feet to the ground and, striking on his head, was killed.

The 2-year-old boy of C. T. Dennis, living on California street in San Francisco, toppled off a balcony November 21 and soon died from his injury.

Michael Ryan, mining near Sonora, Tuolumne County, had his right leg broken by being struck by a flying rock from a blast.

Glasford Wilton, a miner at Downieville, Sierra County, had his right hand blown off November 9 by the explosion of a Horeux powder cartridge he was drying over a forge.

George Holmes and James McAdoo, two San Francisco lads, secured some gunpowder in a soda water bottle and, to have some mischievous fun, exploded it. Both were seriously injured by being struck with pieces of the broken bottle.

Marcus Lewis, a lad in Mariposa, died November 19 from lockjaw. He struck his foot with the point of a pick, inflicting a slight wound, a week previous.

Prof. Price, while delivering a lecture on chemistry in Mechanics Pavilion, San Francisco, caused an explosion to occur in a glass jar through a chemical combination. A piece of the flying glass struck W. L. Norton of Sebastopol in the eye, destroying it. He sued the professor for $25,000 damages.

M. R. S. Love, with his partner J. Singleton, mining on the North Fork of the Feather River in Plumas County, were caved upon November 1. Love was killed and Singleton had a leg broken. Both were pioneers in that section.

John Conny, a young man employed on road work near Soquel, Santa Cruz County, was struck by a falling tree November 14 and killed.

Two young men, miners from Jackson, Amador County, went to Sacramento to see the sights for a few days and nights and spend some of their hard-earned money. Jack and Jim were the names they called each other. Jack bought a new suit of clothes and then went to a photographer and had his picture taken. The result was so good that Jim expressed a desire to have his taken, too, providing Jack would let him wear his suit of new clothes.

Jack was willing and, retiring to a room, unsuited himself and Jim donned the new clothes. Then Jim decided he needed a shave, to improve his looks, and went out to interview a barber. Minutes ticked away into an hour, and an hour became two, but Jim did not return. Finally, weary of waiting in his underclothes, Jack put on Jim's discarded duds and, with the aid of the police, spent a couple of days in an unsuccessful search for Jim.

SEE "SHADOWS OF THE WEST"

AND KNOW MORE OF THE JAPS.

"Shadows of the West," a moving-picture dealing with the Jap menace in California, has been showing in Los Angeles and San Diego during October, and early in November will be presented in San Francisco. The picture later will be shown in Sacramento, Oakland, Stockton, San Jose, and all places throughout California, as well as in Washington, Oregon and other Pacific Coast states.

The Eastern states, too, are to see "Shadows of the West," and the people there will then have more knowledge of the Jap question, for the picture presents many of its heretofore little-hinted-at phases in a manner that cannot fail to impress its viewers. In fact, the picture brings out some very important details that will also be enlightening to the people of California and the Pacific Coast.

The makers of "Shadows of the West" are to be commended for presenting a moving-picture

BERT L. FARMER

Candidate for Supervisor Fourth District
Los Angeles County

BERT L. FARMER, candidate for Supervisor in the Fourth Supervisorial District, has been a member of Los Angeles Parlor, No. 45, N.S.G.W., for the past twenty-five years. He is probably one of the best known men in the City of Los Angeles, having been connected with practically all affairs of public interest.

He was one of the very popular members of the Forty-second session of the State Legislature, representing the Seventy-first Assembly District, and is now serving his second term in the Los Angeles City Council.

Mr. Farmer has an extremely wide acquaintance among fraternal and civic organizations. Besides being a Native Son, he is a member of the Masonic Lodge, the Elks, Knights of Pythias, Eagles, Woodmen of the World, and he is also a member of the Union League Club, the City Club, and has a life membership in the Athletic Club.

The Fourth Supervisorial District includes the entire seacoast of Los Angeles County and that part of the City of Los Angeles south and west of the following lines: Beginning at Fifty-first street and east city limits; thence west to McKinley avenue; thence north to Vernon avenue; thence west to Figueroa street; thence north to Jefferson street; thence west to Hoover street; thence north to Seventh street; thence west to Vermont avenue; thence north to Wilshire boulevard; thence west to the city limits.

Mr. Farmer is an active participant in the campaign to free California of the Jap menace. He has always been RIGHT on all public questions. At the August primary he received a very flattering vote, and it is to be hoped that in November he will be elected Supervisor of the Fourth District.

CALIFORNIA GROWS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

FROM THE REPORTS OF THE ASSESSORS of California's fifty-eight counties, State Controller John S. Chambers has prepared and made public a statement showing the value of property in, the indebtedness of, and rate of taxation for each county for 1920. The grand total of all property is $4,555,445,447, an increase of $488,012,529 over 1919, when the total reached the record figure of $4,067,432,918.

The statement gives these totals: Acres assessed, 49,209,275; value real estate, $2,163,523,769; value improvements real estate, $901,326,994; value personal property, $660,505,198; money and solvent credits, $60,706,322; value non-operative property, $3,786,062,283; value property assessed on operative roll, $586,769,817; value railroads (assessed by State Board Equalization), $182,613,347.

The total indebtedness of the forty-two counties having any indebtedness, according to the statement, is $99,480,337.01, this being divided into a total funded debt of $97,501,600 and a total floating debt of $1,978,737.01. Other interesting figure facts, gleaned from State Controller Chambers' statement, are these:

Los Angeles, being the only billion-dollar county, is listed as "first class." Its grand total of assessed wealth is given as $1,275,735,264. It has a total indebtedness of $3,462,028.80, and a tax rate of $1.325 (inside) and $1.835 (outside).

San Francisco, with a total assessed wealth of $819,820,078, is placed in "second class." It should be noted, however, that while Los Angeles' assessed acres of land total 1,193,627, San Francisco's total but 29,760. It has a total indebtedness of $51,161,500 [considerable of it resulting from the 1906 disaster], and a tax rate of $3.18. San Francisco has no "inside" and "outside" tax rate, for it is a city-and-county government, the only one in the state.

There are seven additional counties with a more-than-one-hundred-million assessed wealth, namely, Alameda, Fresno, Sacramento, Kern, Orange, San Joaquin, Santa Clara. Of these, Alameda leads in assessed wealth ($302,649,037), Kern in acreage (3,462,292), Fresno in indebtedness ($3,800,000) and Santa Clara in high tax rate ($1.82 inside $2.25 outside). Here are the figures for each of these counties:

| County.    | TotalAll Property | TotalDebt | Tax RateIn Out |
|------------|-----------------------|---------------|--------------------|
| Alameda    | $302,649,037         | $ 139,474.03 | $1.58—$1.98      |
| Fresno     | 169,478,324           | 3,800,000.00  | 1.60—2.00          |
| Sacramento | 130,162,551           | 3,154,065.00  | 1.66—2.14          |

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS

1888, 1896; and Yuba in 1852-60, 1880, 1888-92, 1912-16.

Turning now to the Democratic counties, it is found that there are four that may be considered staunchly Democratic, although each of those counties has at one time voted for an opposing candidate. These are Colusa, Mariposa, Glenn and Lake. In 1856 Colusa deserted the Democratic standard and voted the Know-nothing ticket; Mariposa voted Republican in 1872, and Glenn and Lake, Republican in 1904.

Nine Democratic counties gave Republican majorities in 1904 and 1908. They are as follows: El Dorado, Fresno, Kern, Merced, Modoc, San Benito, Tulare, Tuolumne and Yolo. These counties have otherwise been consistently Democratic except that El Dorado, Tuolumne and Yolo voted for the Republican candidates in 1864 and 1872.

Seven counties have been classed as uncertain Democratic. In general they have been Democratic, but they have at times shown a tendency to break away to the Republican standard. These counties, with the dates when they voted the Republican ticket, are as follows: Amador, 1864, 1872, 1900-08; Inyo, 1868-72, 1880-92, 1904; Kings, created in 1895, 1900-08; Shasta, 1864-72, 1880-92, 1904-08; Siskiyou, 1872, 1900-08; Stanislaus, 1904-12; Tehama, 1864, 1872, 1900-08.

Notwithstanding the temptations that may come to the historian at times, it is not within his province to attempt to predict the future. Within a few days the results of the presidential election of 1920 will be known and may then properly be used by the historian. In the meanwhile it is of interest to speculate as to whether the fifty-eight counties and the state as a whole will follow along lines indicated by former contests or if new and unexpected developments may take place.

COMING BACK—A genuine "come back" is being staged in the old mining town of Benton, Mono County, through the reopening of several old silver properties.

What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to a human soul.—Joseph Addison.

|             |             |              |           |
|-------------|-------------|--------------|-----------|
| Kern        | 123,796,489 | 2,570,000.00 | 1.55—1.95 |
| Orange      | 114,089,155 | 1,536,000.00 | 1.50—1.90 |
| San Joaquin | 108,601,446 | 1,450,000.00 | 1.75—2.35 |
| Santa Clara | 105,987,650 | 270,000.00   | 1.82—2.25 |

Last year there were seven counties whose total assessed wealth reached one hundred million and more; this year there are nine. The two new counties in this class are Orange, which increased its assessment $17,412,982, and San Joaquin, which made an increase of $26,428,549.

Alpine is the only county whose total assessed wealth has not yet reached the million-dollar class, the figure being $821,963. It also has, other than San Francisco, the fewest acres of land assessed, 47,832. Its tax rate is $1.80, and its total debt hut $7,587.46.

Kings County has the highest tax rate in the state, $3.90 (inside) and $4.50 (outside). Its assessed wealth totals $26,817,020, and its indebtedness $537,000.

Counties in the no-debt class total sixteen, including Amador, Calaveras, Humboldt, Inyo, Madera, Marin, Mariposa, Mono, Nevada, Placer, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Trinity, Tuolumne and Yuba.

MOVES TO EIGHTH PLACE IN POPULATION.

Continental United States now has a population of 105,683,108, according to figures for the 1920 census made public by the Federal Census Bureau October 7. This is an increase of 13,710,242, or 14.9 percent, for the past decade.

California, with a population of 3,426,536, now ranks eighth among the states, having displaced in population rank the States of Wisconsin, Indiana, Georgia and New Jersey. This state made a gain of 1,048,987, or 44.1 percent, since the 1910 census.

SHADOWS of the WEST

[By JAMES DAYTON]

THERE is no more important question before the Senate of these United States than the adjustment of the ownership of land and the increasing number of population among Asiatic aliens. This question is not confined to any district or section of this country, but has a far-reaching effect upon the whole governmental system, both social and economic.

It is with the hope of placing this matter before the citizens of this country in its proper light, not biased by local interests nor sectional prejudice, but handled from a purely American constitutional standpoint and with justice to all, that the Cinema-Craft Corporation has undertaken the filming of "The Shadows of the West."

The fathers of American Government, in framing our Constitution, especially dwelt upon the fact that the Nation must forever be ONE and UNDIVIDED. In the prologue of this Constitution, they have used the phrases "to form a more perfect union," "insure domestic tranquility," "provide for the common defense," and "promote the general welfare." These blessings were not only for themselves and their own times, but were handed down, and we, as Americans, are pledged to uphold and sustain these principles so long as we exist as a nation.

Our country, under this Constitution, has risen to the foremost place among the nations of the earth; our union has endured throughout foreign aggression and internal rebellion; our institutions, founded upon the Christian religion, have raised womanhood to the pinnacle of social and political supremacy which American womanhood now occupies.

Now, the vital question arises: Can the Asiatic alien become such an American as our Constitution demands us to be?

FORCED TO VACATE,
TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE ASIATICS.

A. E. F. BOYS RETURNING IN TIME TO TAKE UP FIGHT TO KEEP CALIFORNIA A WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY.

Scenes from "SHADOWS of the WEST"

In their forthcoming production, "The Shadows of the West," the Cinema-Crafts Corporation have been most careful to be just and fair. THE STORY OF THE PICTURE, by Seymour Zeff, IS BASED UPON FACTS, and the conditions which he depicts exist in every part of the Pacific Coast. The hardships of Washington and his Continentals, the struggle of Lincoln for unity and freedom, are contrasted with the Asiatic's enslavement of woman. The true meaning of the Thirteenth Amendment is made plain and applicable to our day and age; constitutional law is placed beside emperor worship; feudal Asiatic tenets, engrained in the Oriental mind for generations, are proved to be non-assimilable with a government founded upon the Christian doctrines and dedicated to Liberty and Freedom.

In the cast of this notable production are such motion-picture celebrities as Hedda Nova, whose sparkling beauty and rare dramatic talent are seen to advantage in the part of the Western heroine, "Mary Ward." The dainty Eastern actress, Virginia Dale, a daughter of the Dales of Virginia and an artist of winning personality, portrays the part of "Lucy Norton," the American girl with a penchant for "imported things." A wonderful bit of character acting is given by Yvette Mitchell in the part of the little Japanese picture bride, "Suto Lu." Helen Wright, the well-known character actress, adds her charm to the part of "Mother Ward."

Lieutenant Pat O'Brien, the soldier of fortune, whose books and lectures have won enviable fame throughout the world, plays the part of "Jim Kern," a California ranch-owner. Mr. O'Brien is a handsome, clean-cut American and enters into his part with the same spirit and dash that has won him fame in five different armies. Arthur Jasmine, famous delineator of Oriental characters, is cast as "Ido," the husband of "Suto Lu." Other noted members of the cast are Ben Corbett, who for eight years held the trick-riding championship of the world and in 1916 took the championship prizes for trick riding and broncho busting at Grangeville, Idaho. A stirrup mount which Corbett does is said to be one of the neatest things shown in Western riding. A. Hollingsworth, Arno Marsh, Mr. Zeff and Phil Ford are suitably cast.

The production is under the direction of Paul Hurst, whose work as a producer of Western drama and spectacular feature films needs no comment. Charles Hickman, production manager, is sparing no expense nor trouble to make this one of the best productions of the year. The company is working at the Francis Ford Studios in Los Angeles, and the production will run six to eight thousand feet. The continuity is by James Dayton.

"Shadows of the West" will be shown on the screen in San Francisco, Stockton, Sacramento, Oakland, San Jose, and all other places in California, as well as in Oregon, Washington and other Pacific Coast states, and then will make a complete tour of the East. SEE "SHADOWS OF THE WEST."

FOR HERITAGE LEFT BY THE PIONEERS— FOR CHILDREN'S SAKE—SAVE CALIFORNIA FROM ALIEN GRASP

By John S. Chambers

(State Controller and Chairman Executive Committee, Japanese Exclusion League of California.)

TWENTY SEPARATE MEASURES ARE to be passed upon by the electors of California Tuesday, November 2, next, twelve being proposed amendments to the constitution, five referendum acts and three initiative proposals. The alien land measure belongs to the last class, and will be number one on the ballot.

Simply put, its purpose is to strengthen the existing state law that prohibits the ownership of land in California by aliens not eligible to citizenship, by also forbidding the leasing of land to such people; and further, to put a stop to evasions of our land laws through the fraudulent use by elder aliens of the names of children born here of foreign parentage and therefore citizens; and also to prohibit the illegal manipulation of our laws governing land corporations, such as the use of the names of citizens as dummy directors of companies financed and controlled by aliens. In addition, provision is made for the escheat to the State of land illegally held, as defined in this amendment; and punishment is provided where conspiracy can be proved against two or more people to evade the provision of the law.

All rights guaranteed to aliens under treaties remain unmolested. There is nothing in the proposed initiative amendment that is contrary to law, contrary to the Constitution of the State of California, contrary to the Constitution of the Government of the United States or contrary to any treaty existing with any nation. The amendment was drafted and redrafted, and then submitted to various public associations and attorneys before finally adopted.

The Issues and the Remedies.

The issue is not political at all in a partisan sense. In the broadest sense, all things affecting the welfare of the people may be considered political. The present issue is, who shall have the economic control of California—the white people or the Japanese? Agriculture is the basic industry of all industries, and in California it is pre-eminently so, leading all others in value of production by $500,000,000 annually. Shall the Japanese control this output and reap the profits, or the white people? Shall the Japanese dominate, or the white people? One means, eventually, a brown man's California, the other a white man's. This is the issue—industrial, social and broadly political. ON WHICH SIDE WILL PATRIOTISM ALIGN ITSELF?

Economic control means, in time, as population grows, political control—that is, control of government. In Hawaii today the Japanese number 110,000 out of a total conglomerate population of 263,000! Do we want such a condition to be duplicated in California? Under Japan's dual citizenship law, the first allegiance of a Japanese, whether a citizen of another country or not, is to Japan! Need more be said?

The alien land bill now before the people of this state is the first step to prevent the loss of economic control. Congress must put through the second step, by closing the door to the unassimilable immigrant; and the people the third step by amending the Constitution of the United States to the effect that no child born in this country of parents ineligible to citizenship shall be eligible to citizenship.

Farm Labor Not Affected.

The alien land measure will deprive no Japanese now in California of land or other property here now owned by him. The bill looks to the future. No injustice will be done. The labor situation will not be affected except as it may be "improved" through the phenomenal birthrate of the Japanese and the further fact that the prohibition of leasing as well as the owning of land will make more of these aliens available for such work. As a matter of fact, the Japanese, except in the case of large landowners, are of little, if any, service to the average farmer.

The World and Heaven.

The arguments put forward by certain pro-Japanese ministers and missionaries as to the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man, though expressing the sincere belief of many of them, are but dreams of an impossible millennium. St. Luke truly says that "the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light. Worldly matters of themselves not wrong must be met in wise worldly fashion."

The "imperial race, of a world religion, a world language, a world policy," that is to come from a mixture of white, brown, red, black and yellow peoples is a dream born of the brains of those carried away by religious fervor; impracticable and contrary, judged by the record of creation itself, to the purpose of the Great Architect who made us of different colors, tongues, instincts and racial characteristics.

The cause of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man will never be advanced by trying to force an unnatural, repugnant and impossible assimilation. Harmony comes from the understanding of unbridgeable differences and a consequent avoidance of intimate contact.

Can Never Blend.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish." The white and the brown are not assimilable. The two can never blend. The presence in numbers of either in the country of the other is pregnant with trouble. It is not a question of superiority or inferiority; it is a question of fundamental difference that never can be bridged.

Developments have gone so far in California as to make the menace of the Japanese among us so distinct and emphatic that to overlook it, to fail, now, to resist it, would be criminal, a betrayal of our own posterity, of our country.

PIONEERS ENTERTAINED

San Jose—An elaborate luncheon and a pleasing program featured by a number of fine addresses were enjoyed by about seventy members of the Santa Clara County Pioneers' Association as the honored guests of Vendome Parlor, No. 100, N.D.G.W., October 23. Some sadness was caused by reference to those Pioneers who have attended previous affairs given in their honor by the Native Daughters, and who have passed into another life. Mrs. Mamie Pierce-Carmichael, Past Grand President, acted as toastmistress, and called upon the following Pioneers, who responded happily, expressing appreciation for what Vendome Parlor is doing for the Pioneers: George C. Bray, president Association California Pioneers; Judge J. C. Black, Mrs. Amy Bowen, M. D., A. C. Morrell, Mrs. A. T. Hermann, Andrew P. Hill, George Glendening, Irving Henning, Antone Mathy, Mrs. Marshall, Alex. P. Murgotten.

A beautiful tribute to the Pioneers and the thoughtfulness of the Native Daughters in keeping green the memory of the men and women who laid the foundation of the state's greatness was paid in an eloquent address by Fred L. Thomas, assistant district attorney. "The people who pause to give thanks for what Californians are enjoying today are all too few, he stated. We are not in the habit of looking backward. The prevailing tendency is looking to what the future holds, rather than to what the past has wrought. Yet there are so many lessons to be learned from the lives and example of our forbears, that we gain from our consideration of what they have done. The greatest lesson, it seems to me, that they have taught, aside from their courage and perseverance, is real true-hearted fraternity, which characterized those men who were here when California was young." Mr. Thomas cited several instances where such fraternity had been shown at the mining camps in remote mountain spots, and brought tears to the eyes of all present more than once during his splendid eulogy of the Pioneer Father and Mother.

how one's self or one's country is to regulate his or its affairs. This is a solemn right of the United States, of California.

Cajolery, threats, brotherhood-of-man talk, propaganda generally, are all beside the point. There will be no war; there will be no trouble. Bluff and greed, evasion and deception, fist-shaking and trade reprisal, talk of humanity and heaven, lawsuits and government interference, are but efforts to confuse the mind and becloud the question. But even if they were not, we should not deviate an iota from the straight path of duty and self-preservation.

The issue is our legal and moral right to manage our own affairs as we see fit, plus our duty to those of our kind who are to follow—to see to it that we leave them an unblemished heritage as that heritage was left to us.

STAMP A CROSS IN THE SQUARE OPPOSITE THE "YES" WHEN YOU VOTE ON PROPOSAL NUMBER ONE, NOVEMBER 2. Let us roll up a tremendous majority for the measure that means California's preservation!

The following program was presented: "America," assembly; "Welcome to the Pioneers," Mrs. Susie Bickford, president Vendome Parlor, N.D.G.W.; instrumental trio, Misses Norma Harper, Mary Warburton, Myrtle Newton; classic dances, Miss Adelaide Locicero; address, "Our Pioneer Mothers and Fathers," Fred L. Thomas; response, Alex. P. Murgotten, secretary Santa Clara County Pioneer Society; old-time songs, Misses Rose and Frances Olivera, John Aversente, Peter Morelli; selections, Mrs. M. P. Marshall; clarinet solo, Frank Rehder, accompanist Marie Rehder; old-time songs, Mrs. Clara D. Gairaud, Miss Bertie Schleuter; "Star Spangled Banner," assemblage.

In the course of her welcome address, Mrs. Bickford, president Vendome Parlor, said: "We are always mindful of the great debt that we, as natives of California, owe to California's Pioneers. We also desire to pass on down through posterity these feelings of reverence and devotion. We want the fires of gratitude to remain kindled in the hearts of California's children. We owe it to these builders of our state that their heroic deeds, the noble lives they lived, shall be known to our sons and daughters. We take a peculiar pride in honoring today the men and women who are the survivors of that wondrous army of Argonauts who traveled the dangerous mountain, forest, desert and plain to build on this far Western shore this great empire by the Golden Gate, our proud heritage, California. We pray that the Pioneer spirit will abide with us that we may take up with courage and determination the tasks allotted to us for the continued good and uplift of California, but for the still greater and broader betterment and uplift of our whole country, our United States."

The committee of Vendome Parlor in charge of this successful affair included: Mamie P. Carmichael (chairman), Susie Bickford, Francis Plamondon, Maude Haight, Sadie Howell, Adelaide Morton, Dorinda Hayes, May Calico, Lizette Faber.

TWENTY MEASURES WILL BE PUT UP TO NOVEMBER VOTERS.

Sacramento—Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan has announced these twenty measures—initiatives, referendums, and constitutional amendments—will have a place on the November ballot, in the following order:

- 1—Anti-Jap land measure.
- 2—Harris prohibition enforcement act.
- 3—Providing salary increases for justices of supreme and appellate courts.
- 4—Increasing number signatures for initiative measures affecting taxation.
- 5—Regulating practice of chiropractic.
- 6—Providing vaccination shall not be compulsory.
- 7—Declaring vivisection unlawful.
- 8—Regulating sale of poisons.
- 9—Increasing interest rate on highway bonds.
- 10—Authorizing calling constitutional convention.
- 11—Re-establishing the poll-tax.
- 12—Levying special tax for University California.
- 13—Relating to community property.
- 14—Regulates appointment of insurance agents.
- 15—Relating to irrigation.
- 16—Increasing teachers' salaries.
- 17—Allowing absentee electors to vote.
- 18—Exempting orphanages from taxation.
- 19—Providing state aid for children.
- 20—Single tax—taxing the land, not the improvements thereon.

RED CROSS SERVICE

THE FOURTH RED CROSS ROLL CALL is not a drive. It is not a campaign. It is not an effort to raise any specific sum.

The $1 dues of 10,000,000 people for 1921 are payable and this Roll Call is merely the organized activity of collection.

The American Red Cross, by its Congressional Charter, is officially designated for the following purposes:

"To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded in time of war, in accordance with the treaty of Geneva;

"To act in matters of volunteer relief and as a medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy;

"To continue and carry on a system of national and international relief in time of peace and to apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods and other great national calamities and to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same."

—Act of Congress, January 5, 1905.
ANSWER THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL, November 11, Armistice Day, to November 25, Thanksgiving Day.

Seven years ago, when the anti-alien land ownership bill was pending in Legislature, James D. Phelan flatly refused to oblige a delegation of directors of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, who, fearing that Japan would withdraw her promise to exhibit, begged him to oppose the proposed law.

"Gentlemen," said James D. Phelan, "the exposition will be in California only a year, while the white race, I hope, will be here forever."

And a few days later at Sacramento, James D. Phelan made an earnest plea for the passage of the bill.

A Native Son: HIS FIGHT for CALIFORNIA

For thirty-five years, Senator Phelan has fought against Oriental invasion of California. He realizes that the Japanese menace is not a passing shadow, but a dreadful menace to be fought on the floor of Congress and in legislative halls.

His fight is your fight—a fight for California!

Not only with the Japanese question has Senator Phelan been up and doing. In car shortage, freight congestion, gasoline shortage, lack of military or naval defense—all troubles of California communities, north or south, requiring Federal action—Senator Phelan fights your fight.

Campaign patter—there is none! The Senator stands flat-footed on his brilliant record of service as his best commendation.

Measure the stature of the man by the rule of service—test him by his deeds. Judge him by such actions as:

- working and voting for increased military and naval coast defenses.
- working and voting for appropriations for control of flood waters in the Sacramento valley.
- urging development of State's harbor facilities by dredging and construction work.
- preventing threatened losses to California due to car shortage.
- worked and voted for measures bringing about development of the State's natural resources.
- never drew a sectional line, knows no north or south, but has represented all of California all the time.

Senator James D. Phelan has fought a good fight in his first term. He will do much more in his second. He is invaluable to the state. California must keep him as exponent of her interests at Washington.

BE OUT AND VOTE ON ELECTION DAY

NOVEMBER 2 IS ELECTION DAY, AND The Grizzly Bear urges all its readers to be out and vote. The person who does not exercise his right to vote is a far more dangerous citizen than the war-time slacker. In this state, The People rule, through the initiative, the referendum, and the recall. The People, therefore, have it within their power to secure both the laws and the law-enforcers they believe most worthy, if they will but just study the purposes of the various measures, and the qualifications of the several candidates.

By far the most important measure on the November ballot—the most important, in fact, that has ever been submitted to the electorate of California—is Proposition One, which regulates land holdings, providing that no alien ineligible to citizenship shall have the right to own or lease land.

For months The Grizzly Bear has been presenting indisputable facts to bear out its contention that this measure should receive a "yes" vote at the hands of every citizen who is desirous that California shall continue to grow and prosper under the American flag.

Deliberately-lying and misleading propaganda by the cartload has been distributed by non-citizens and their sympathizers in a desperate effort to de-

I visit your flourishing city each year, and always with renewed pleasure and continual admiration for the most wonderful and beautiful trees in the world."

(Editor's Note—Mrs. May C. Lassen, the writer of the above, is a grandniece of Pioneer Peter Lassen, after whom California's volcanic wonder, Mount Lassen, was named.)

Retire the Gougers.

To the Editor of The Grizzly Bear—Dear Sir: Being a taxpayer of Los Angeles County, I have received my tax-bill; or, more properly speaking, I received notice of the amount I must contribute to the continuation of the present extravagant and incompetent Los Angeles County Government. The tax-bills this year are nothing less than legalized hold-ups, and our mis-governing officials are simply legalized highwaymen.

I am hopeful of one thing though, that these tax-holdups will so arouse the people of Los Angeles County that they will get out and vote on November 2 and, with their ballots, kick out of office those members of the Board of Supervisors who are seeking re-election—asking the voters to sanction their extravagance and incompetency by electing them for another four years. Let us retire them, as a just rebuke for heaping added, and unnecessary, burdens on the taxpayers; this course will do more to bring down taxes than anything else.

feat Proposition One. But we are satisfied that the readers of this magazine know the power and the purpose back of the antagonists of this measure, and that they will not be influenced thereby.

We beseech all readers to go to the polls and vote "YES" on Proposition One (Alien Land Law) and to, within the law, use his and her best efforts to secure the affirmative vote of every other citizen in his or her precinct for the measure. No better service may be rendered California on election day than this!—C.M.H.

Likes Our Shade Trees.

"Kindly permit me, through your worthy magazine," writes May C. Lassen, "to express my ever-increasing admiration for the most wonderful and the most beautiful trees of every description and variety which are, indeed, the chief attraction of that great and thriving city, Los Angeles.

"Having traveled extensively both in the United States and in Europe, I must nevertheless admit that there is not any city in the world which can surpass, or even compete, with Los Angeles in beauty and variety of trees in avenues, parks and gardens. Not in any city have I ever seen such splendid pepper trees, tall and graceful as weeping willows, spreading their feathery branches clear across the thoroughfares in the residential districts.

"One can fully appreciate the true meaning of 'Under the shades of the sheltering palm,' when one's eyes behold the magnificent palm-trees of Los Angeles. They would inspire the dullest mortal. Since my sojourn on the coast, from New York City,

And, too, voters of Los Angeles City should line up solidly against charter amendment "A," which would remove the city tax limit. Proponents of this say, "A general and elastic provision is necessary." Believe me, if this amendment is adopted, the elastic will get into action immediately, and when we get our tax-bills next year we will be a whole lot sicker bunch of taxpayers than we are this year.

Again let me urge the voters of Los Angeles City and County to oust every member of the present Board of Supervisors up for re-election, and to vote against charter amendment "A." If we do these two things there is a possibility our "public servants" will in future have a little consideration for us.

Respectfully, TAXPAYER.

Los Angeles, October 20th.

Again Proves His 100% Americanism.

United States Senator James D. Phelan (Pacific 10, N.S.G.W.) of San Francisco was in the city several days during October in the interest of his candidacy for re-election, and delivered several addresses. On all occasions, realizing that the Japanese question is the most momentous one today before the people of California, he furnished his auditors with the facts and urged them to vote for Proposition One (Alien Land Law) on the November ballot.

This so aroused the white-Japs and yellow-Japs that they endeavored to involve him in debate, but he declined, and even refused to discuss the question with them. By this action, Senator Phelan has again proven his one-hundred-percent Americanism. Whether California shall permit aliens ineligible to citizenship (Japs) to own or lease her soil, is a question that concerns solely the citizens of this state, and no one worthy of citizenship would even discuss, much less debate, the question with the yellow-Japs or their paid white agents.

Help the Kiddies With Old Papers.

Commencing November 15, the Native Sons and Native Daughters will conduct a ten-day paper drive in the interest of their children's home-finding work. Irving Baxter is chairman of the committee in charge, and Mrs. Anna L. Adair the secretary.

Get together, and tie in bundles, all old papers, magazines and books, and hold for the committee, which will call for them. A lot of fire-inviting trash may, in this way, be gotten rid of by being put to good use.

Hundreds of children are now enjoying the blessings of home-life through the efforts of the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' home-finding agency, and there are hundreds of additional children in need of help. Thousands of dollars have already been spent in the work, and thousands more are required to "carry on." It is to get the needed funds to continue the work in behalf of California's homeless children that the drive will be made for old papers.

This home-finding work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters has the approval of the State Board of Charities, and of the many children and foster-parents who have been blessed through its operation. It is one charity where every penny is judiciously spent; one charity which brings good returns for every dollar invested, because it makes possible the rearing to useful manhood and womanhood of abandoned and otherwise unfortunate children, without regard to race, creed, or color. It is a California charity, conducted by Californians, in the interest of a better California citizenry.

Going to Santa Barbara.

Southern Counties Assembly, No. 4, Past Presidents' Association, N.S.G.W., had a good meeting September 29, when Harry Alexander and Tom Golding (Los Angeles 45), Sol Rehart and Walter Baskerville (Ramona 109) and Arthur Schmidt (Corona 196) were initiated.

To bring about perfection in the ritual the Association is offering a handsome trophy to the local Native Son Parlor that gains the most points in a contest soon to be started. Accordingly, the officers in all the Parlors have been putting in considerable time drilling.

At the meeting there was lengthy discussion of affairs pertaining to the Order, particularly as regards membership expansion. The purpose of the Association is to assist in building up the Order of Native Sons, and it holds itself in readiness to be of service to any Parlor south of Tehachapi.

At the invitation of Santa Barbara 116, the Association will journey to Santa Barbara, where its ritual team will initiate a large class for that Parlor. The trip will likely be made November 6, and all members of the Order are welcome to go along. It is planned to go to San Bernardino at an early date to initiate into the Association several past presidents of Arrowhead 110.

Ramona Entertains.

Native Sons were out in goodly numbers October 23 to greet a delegation from San Diego Parlor, No. 108, who had come to pay a fraternal visit to Ramona Parlor, No. 109. On account of Ramona's lodge-room being engaged Saturday nights, the meeting was held in the lodge-room of Victory Post, American Legion. Six autos brought the visitors, who included: Stephen Dove, Mike O'Neill, A. P. Johnson Jr., Frank Snyder, E. F. Hastings, George Steinbeck, Wm. H. Schneider, Theodore Pintzberg, Eugene Daney Jr., Sam Hastings, Cottardo Ghio, E. T. Johnson, John T. Myers, W. J. Hudner, Jos. Kelley, Claude Agard, H. P. Burkhardt, R. A. Pennoyer, Dan Shaffer, Leland Williams and David Lee—the latter a member of Ramona resident in San Diego.

Four candidates were initiated for Ramona Parlor by the officers of San Diego Parlor, the ritual being

Following the ritual there was a short program of vocal numbers, after which Edwin A. Meserve and Justice Thomas J. Leunon (Mount Tamalpais 61) delivered splendid addresses, the latter taking for his subject "Native Sonism" and the former "California." Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger urged all present to vote and work for Proposition One (Alien Land Law) November 2. At a late hour adjournment was taken to Ramona's club-rooms, where refreshments were served.

United States Senator James D. Phelan (Pacific 10) of San Francisco was a guest of Ramona October 15, delivering an address on the Jap menace. Charles Gassagne, a long-faithful member, was presented by the Parlor with a beautiful emblematic ring, as a token of appreciation for the many services rendered Ramona and the Order.

Membership Drive Shaping.

Preparatory to a systematic membership drive, volunteers from Los Angeles 45, Ramona 109 and Corona 196, N.S.G.W., have been putting in Saturday afternoons the past month in the county registrar of voters' office, making a list of eligibles.

It is thought the work will be completed, and the drive started, shortly after the first of November. A class initiation will follow, and it is planned to make this a notable occasion in the local history of the Order.

Brief History of Deceased Old Resident.

Latham Alfred Patton, whose death was briefly referred to in The Grizzly Bear for October, was born at Ozark, Missouri, March 19, 1853. He was present on his grandfather's ranch at Pea Ridge, Arkansas, the day of the battle of Pea Ridge, March 7, 1863, when everything on the ranch excepting the stock, which had been secreted in a forest near the battle scene, was destroyed.

With this stock, the entire Patton family started for California, via the Southern route. Crossing the Rio Grande into Old Mexico, they became lost for four months, and were forced to stop in Texas during the winter to get food to complete the journey. Christmas Eve, 1864, they arrived at Colton, San Bernardino County.

Deceased was a deputy sheriff of Los Angeles County at the time of the capture of the bandit, Baskus, and he was also a deputy sheriff in San Bernardino County in the early '80s. Later he drove a freight team to Arizona. He was a first cousin of the James boys, and numbered among his friends Buffalo Bill, Kit Carson and other noted characters.

In 1873, at San Bernardino, deceased was wedded, and purchased eighty acres of land at Los Nietos, Los Angeles County. There he resided for a number of years, until his removal to Los Angeles City, where he died. Deceased is survived by three children—Clarence A. and Alfred C. Patton (both Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) and Mrs. Laura Fellows.—(Communicated.)

Pioneer Passes.

W. W. Robinson, who came here in 1850, and was active in business and public affairs, for sixteen years serving as city clerk, died October 21. He was a native of Nova Scotia, aged 86, and is survived by two daughters.

Suffering O'er.

Mrs. Jeannette Lillard, wife of Joseph Lillard (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.), passed away October 20 after several years of illness. The remains were taken to San Francisco for interment.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Lorenzo Soto (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) has returned from the springs, and is slowly recovering from an aggravated attack of rheumatism.

I. S. Green (Bay City 104, N.S.G.W.), who has been confined to a local hospital several weeks, is on the road to recovery.

George L. McKeeby (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), who served throughout the world war, has received a commission as lieutenant-colonel in the Regular Army.

ARMISTICE SUNDAY—President Woodrow Wilson has proclaimed November 14 Armistice Sunday, and directed that the American Flag be displayed at half-mast on that day.

New Oil Production Record—September oil production in California averaged 304,340 barrels daily, a new high record; shipments averaged 313,533; stocks were decreased 275,307 barrels during the month; fifty-five new wells were completed.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS IN CALIFORNIA

Owen C. Coy, Ph. D.

(DIRECTOR AND ARCHIVIST CALIFORNIA HISTORICAL SURVEY COMMISSION.)

AN VIEW OF THE GENERAL interest in politics resulting from the campaign this year, a study of former presidential elections may be of more than ordinary interest. There is preserved in the archives of the Secretary of State a volume which contains the results of all the statewide elections down to a few years ago, when the policy of publication of the returns was adopted. From the tabulations contained in this volume, also published from time to time in various places, the writer has been able to gather the material used in this article. By assembling and tabulating these statistics some very interesting observations are possible; the practical politician may even feel that he is able to foretell the results of coming elections by a study of these registered decisions of past years.

One of the facts most noticeable is that California has, since its admission, been a Republican state. Five times only has a Democratic presidential candidate received the endorsement of the California electorate, and but once has such a candidate received a majority of the votes. This was at the first election (1852), when Pierce received a majority of 4,819 over Scott, his Whig opponent. In four other elections Democratic candidates for president have received pluralities. These were the contests of 1856, when Buchanan received 53,365 votes, a plurality of 17,200 over Fillmore, his leading opponent, the Know-nothing ticket, the newly-organized Republican party, led by Fremont, polling 20,691 votes. In 1880 Hancock defeated Garfield by 117 plurality, the contest being so close that the electoral vote of the state was divided. In the contest of 1892 between Cleveland and Harrison, the former secured the electoral vote by a plurality of 124 votes in a total of 269,585. The fifth of these Democratic victories is familiar to all, it being the election of 1916, when by a plurality of 3,773 Wilson defeated Hughes; the total vote amounted to 999,781, of which Wilson received 46.9 percent.

Having first considered the Democratic victories, it may be of interest to glance at the other elections. The contest of 1860 is of course of more than ordinary importance because of the momentous questions involved. At that time there were four candidates in the field; the Democratic votes were divided between Douglas and Breckinridge, the Republican party was led by Lincoln, and the Constitutional Union party by Bell. Although California was doubtless still Democratic, it did not sympathize with the more radical element; on the other hand, it was not yet ready to endorse fully the new Republican party. The result was that no candidate received a majority of all the votes. The Republican party, however, did receive a plurality of 711. The votes stood as follows: Lincoln 38,734, or 32.3 percent; Douglas (Independent Democrat) 38,023, or 31.7 percent; Breckinridge (Southern Democrat) 33,975, or 28.4 percent; Bell 9,136, or 7.6 percent. In the election of 1864 there was no uncertainty regarding the state's choice of Lincoln, who that year received a majority of 18,293, or 58.6 percent of the total vote.

Following the election of 1868 the political sentiment seems to have been somewhat uncertain and finally resulted in a temporary defeat for the Republican party in 1880. In 1868 Grant received a majority of only 506 over Seymour, the Democratic nominee, many counties which had supported Lincoln going over again into the Democratic column. In 1872, however, Grant defeated Horace Greeley by a majority of 12,234. In 1876 the reaction once again cut down the Republican majority to 2,821 votes, Hayes receiving 79,295 votes, while 76,473 were cast for Tilden, the candidate of the Democratic party. The small Democratic plurality (117 votes) given to Hancock over Garfield in 1880 has already been mentioned.

Following the reverse in 1880 the Republican party again triumphed in 1884 and 1888. Although the country as a whole supported Cleveland, California gave Blaine, the Republican nominee, a majority of 7,855 votes in 1884, the two leading candidates receiving 102,406 and 89,225 votes respectively. Likewise in 1888 the state gave its support to Harrison in preference to Cleveland, the results being 124,782 Republican and 117,671 Democratic votes, a Republican plurality of 7,111. As previously stated, Cleveland defeated Harrison in 1892 by a plurality of 124 votes.

After the Democratic victory of 1892 the Republican party recovered its losses with great strides and completely overwhelmed the opposing forces in the contest of 1904 and again in a less pronounced manner in 1908. The split in the party in 1912 weakened the Republican position in that year, but the Progressive wing nevertheless carried the state by a small plurality. This Republican weakness together with the issues involved in the great war led to a plurality vote for Wilson, the Democratic nominee, in 1916.

Of these more recent elections one of the most bitterly contested was that of 1896. During the campaign many counties ordinarily Republican gave their support to Bryan, but the state as a whole supported McKinley with a plurality of 2,012 votes, the vote being 145,886 for McKinley and 143,874 for Bryan. At his second election McKinley defeated Bryan and all other opponents by a majority of 26,569 votes, McKinley receiving 164,755 votes, as against 125,985 for Bryan. Still more sweeping was Roosevelt's victory in 1904. Every county in the state excepting only the two Democratic strongholds, Colusa and Mariposa, gave their endorsement to the Republican candidate, whose vote was 205,226, as against 89,404 for Parker, his opponent on the Democratic ticket. This was a majority of 78,907 votes. In 1908 Taft, supported by Roosevelt, carried the state by a majority of 42,199, but not with the same enthusiastic support as was given Roosevelt. This year Del Norte, Glenn, Lake and Inyo joined Colusa and Mariposa in the Democratic ranks.

The election of 1912 presented many new elements. In the first place, the Democratic party had selected Wilson, a candidate whose independent personality appealed to many outside of his own party. Roosevelt's position had been weakened by his endorsement and later repudiation of Taft and by his failure to secure the regular Republican party nomi-

Mexican War which the Democratic party had sponsored against the opposition of the Whig party, it is but natural that the people of California should be inclined to prefer the Democratic party even though they did not approve of slavery nor the radical opinions of the Southern Democrats.

After the campaigns of 1860 and 1864 had forced to the front the issues between the Democratic and Republican parties the state became in general Republican, but Democratic centers remained, as was evidenced by the disputes during the Civil War period. The two chief Democratic districts were the San Joaquin Valley region, including Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Merced, Mariposa, Tuolumne, Stanislaus and San Benito Counties, and an area in Northern California of which Colusa is the center, including at times also Yolo, Lake, Sonoma, Mendocino, Glenn and Tehama Counties. Recent changes in population have modified the large Democratic majorities in many of these counties, but they still, in large measure, retain much of the older Democratic elements.

Based upon the historical evidence as shown in the results of past elections, the counties of the state have been grouped as regards their political position as follows: (1) Staunch Republican; (2) Republican except having once voted for Wilson; (3) Republican except having twice voted for Wilson; (4) uncertain Republican; (5) staunch Democratic; (6) Democratic except during the elections of 1904-1908; and (7) uncertain Democratic. These results may not in all cases correspond with what campaign managers contend to be the present political complexion of the counties, for the historical evidence upon which this is based does not take into account recent developments due to changes in population or other causes. Because a county has heretofore voted for a certain party is not conclusive evidence that it will continue to do so, but the knowledge of that fact is at least interesting and probably of value.

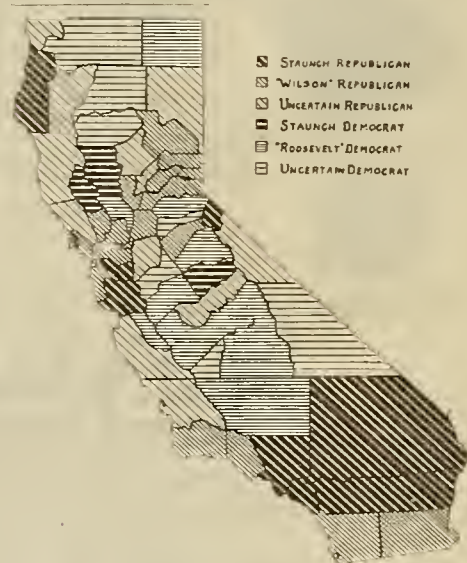

The staunch Republican counties are Alameda, Alpine, Humboldt, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Clara and Santa Cruz. Not all of these counties have always been Republican, for in the earlier years the Republican party had not yet attained its full strength. Alameda voted Democratic in 1856 and Santa Clara in 1868; Santa Cruz in 1852 and 1856, and Humboldt in 1856 and 1860. San Bernardino has voted Republican since 1872 and Los Angeles since 1880. Alpine, created in 1864, Orange in 1889, and Riverside in 1893, have always given Republican majorities.

Many strong Republican counties gave their support to Wilson in one or the other of his campaigns. These are Marin, Napa, San Diego, San Mateo and Ventura, which supported him in 1912; and Contra Costa, Imperial, Placer, Plumas and Santa Barbara, which were Democratic in 1916. Of these counties Contra Costa, Marin and Santa Barbara had regularly voted Republican since 1860; Napa, Placer, Plumas and San Mateo since 1864; San Diego since 1872, and Ventura, created in 1872, and Imperial in 1907, always Republican.

Those Republican counties which have twice supported Wilson are Calaveras, Mono, Monterey, Nevada, Sacramento, Sierra, Solano and Sutter. Of these counties, Sierra and Solano became Republican in 1864 and so remained until 1912; Calaveras and Sutter also became Republican in 1864 but voted Democratic in 1876; Nevada and Sacramento, which became Republican in 1860 and 1864, respectively, voted for Bryan in 1896; Mono, created in 1861, also voted for Bryan in 1896. Monterey became Republican in 1860, but voted Democratic in 1868 and 1896.

The uncertain Republican counties are as follows: Butte, Del Norte, Lassen, Madera, Mendocino, Mono, Monterey, San Francisco, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, Sonoma, Trinity and Yuba. These counties have been classed as Republican if a majority of the elections during the last twenty or thirty years have been cast for that party. Notwithstanding that these exceptions are numerous, it may be of interest to note the elections at which these counties have supported the Democratic candidates. Butte voted Democratic in 1852-60, 1880, 1888, 1896; Del Norte in 1860, 1868, 1876, 1880, 1888-92, 1908; Lassen in 1884-88, 1896, 1912, 1916. Madera, created in 1895, voted Democratic in 1896; Mendocino in 1852-56, 1868, 1896, 1912-16; San Francisco in 1852-56, 1868, 1880, 1888-92, 1912-16; San Joaquin in 1852-60, 1888-96; San Luis Obispo in 1860, 1876, 1896, 1900, 1916; Sonoma in 1852-68, 1876-80, 1888-92, 1912; Trinity in 1852-60, 1876, nation. Furthermore the franchise had been granted to women, thus adding a large percentage of new voters. In this election Roosevelt, although an independent, received the great part of the Republican support in the state in opposition to Wilson, the Democratic candidate. The result was exceedingly close, Roosevelt receiving 283,610 votes and Wilson 283,436, a plurality for Roosevelt of 174 votes. In the election of 1916 the issues were closely involved with the question of America's relation to the great world war. Many believed the international policy of the administration to be good, or at least did not want to risk a change. Furthermore the schism in the Republican party had not yet fully healed and many independent voters gave their support to the Democratic candidate, with the result that Wilson received 466,289 votes as against 462,516 for Hughes, a plurality of 3,773 out of a total of 999,781.

A study of the distribution of the presidential votes among the various counties is also interesting and instructive. It shows for one thing that people of similar political ideas and opinions congregate in particular parts of the state, some counties or groups of counties running consistently Democratic or Republican. Traced historically from election to election, changes in political opinion due to immigration or other causes are in some cases very apparent.

On account of the fact that this territory had been added to the United States as the result of the

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Marguerite Bovee

WONDER WHAT MARCIA LE Bayon is planning for Christmas this year?" There was a wistful note in his wife's voice that did not escape Hallam Bryce. "She always lets the children trim the tree."

"You take a sight of interest in those Le Bayons. Ted Le Bayon and myself haven't spoke for five years," Hallam eyed his wife sourly. "Seems to me you would quit hankerin' for his wife and family."

"I haven't had any falling out with Marcia and the children. They're poor, as far as money is concerned, but they have enough to eat, and they find life a jolly place. If I had her noisy pink-cheeked girls and a boy like Ted Junior I'd ask no more of Providence. Silent rooms and tales of old wornout feuds don't do to make variety in life, Hallam Bryce." Mollie was roused for once from her usual good-humored indifference.

Hallam Bryce took his hat and went to the barn. The edge in Mollie's tone warned of conflict, and he found discretion wisest. Mollie removed the tea-cloth, washed up the dishes, and drew her low rocker to the window. She could see the wide blue ocean, edged with hazy peaks, in the far distance, southward: the home of the Le Bayons, with its fertile five acres, to the west, and the road to Los Angeles winding ribbon-like to the east. The stars dropped lower and lower until they dipped into the sea, but Mollie Bryce never moved. She was nerving herself to the pitch when she could defy her good man, Hallam.

Every previous Christmas, Marcia Le Bayon had sent a gay Christmas card, each bit of sentiment carrying a message of warm affection for her one-time friend, but with due respect for Hallam's bitter feeling Mollie had permitted the greeting to go unreciprocated, though her heart ached at the omission. For five years she had let Marcia believe her hard and unresponsive; had sat in church and heard the choir sing, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," with never a smile or a sign to the dark-eyed woman who cast furtive glances toward her as they passed down the dim aisle.

Every night, lights burned in the ranch home until a late hour, and Mollie Bryce dreamed and pondered over the gifts she knew were being wrought by deft fingers. Kindly hopes and generous love took the place of richer gifts in this humble home. Mollie had a full purse, but her home was empty of the affection that made of Marcia's fireside a heaven.

"Feuds and ugly feelings. Ugh! I'll show Hallam Bryce a few things," Mollie wrinkled her nose, and a laugh that was half a sob gurgled in her throat. It was yet three days until Christmas, and the time was not long for what she planned to do.

She ordered a huge turkey, twenty-two pounds of gobbler, and all the good things attributed to a Christmas dinner. Packages were smuggled into the Bryce home at very unusual hours, and down in the basement a tall tree stood beside a high cupboard. Green and feathery, it awaited the pleasure of the mistress. Hallam had been asked to provide the tree, and sniffed coldly as he inquired if she "Was going to hang up her stockin', too?"

Mollie laughed, and admonished him to hurry. "It looks like rain, and I shall be disappointed if I don't have some sort of Christmas cheer." Her cheeks blazed, her eyes danced, and a very spirit of Christmas seemed to possess her, as she stood pressing a soft white gown and bought a bunch of gay roses to wear at her belt.

The stars were dipping into the sea once more, the evening Mollie stepped outside the threshold of the Le Bayon home and knocked timidly. Mrs. Le Bayon opened the door and stood speechless, too surprised to utter a welcome. Mollie seized her hands and drew her outside. "Quick, Marcia," she urged. "I can only stay a moment. Hallam will be seeking me," and she poured out her eager invitation.

She wished they would all come over and help decorate the tree, and join them at dinner later. Mrs. Le Bayon demurred, fearing to anger Hallam still further, but after much coaxing, and because the plan seemed so vital to her old friend's happiness, she consented—provided her husband was willing.

"Marcia," quivered Mollie, "it's our duty to break up this foolish quarrel between our men. They are both good men, and the idea of a bitter spirit between us breaks my heart. We have been unfriendly for five years. Let us welcome the Christmas spirit and he just as we used to be."

"I have always been ready, Mollie," Marcia's voice held a note of pain.

"I know it, Marcia. I can't tell you of the many nights I've sat by the window and tried to imagine you and the girls at your tasks, and hoped that you remembered the days when we were gay and fond friends. I can understand why Ted doesn't approach Hallam. He fears a rebuff."

Marcia was still uncertain. She, too, dreaded Hallam's sarcastic tongue. Mollie pleaded earnestly. "Come, Marcia, share with me this once your girls and your dear boy. I have—no—children—Marcia." The heartache and loneliness in her friend's voice cut Marcia deeply, and she placed an arm around Mollie.

"If I can persuade Ted, we will come, Mollie. Perhaps I, too, need to cultivate the spirit of Christmas."

So it was arranged, and the women parted, each to muse on the whims of Fate. To one had been given wealth, but a silent home and empty rooms. To the other, not a great portion of financial prosperity, but a quartet of rosy children and a husband rich in love and tenderness for them all.

Mollie Bryce carried a light heart, and a song was on her lips all that day, and her husband experienced a queer thrill of affection, a strange echo of his old admiration for her. He paused by her side as she stuffed the big turkey and said, in a half-shamed tone, "Is there anything I can bring you for a Christmas gift, old girl? I am going to town, and I'll bring you anything you wish for."

Mollie gave him a swift glance of surprise, and her voice faltered a little as she replied, "I'll tell you at dinner, Hallam. The gift I would like from you is here at home." So with this, Hallam had to be content.

The big turkey was in the oven; the table and sideboard glittered with china and cut-glass, mingled with oranges, candies and lovely frosted cakes. In the living-room the tree stood, waiting to be ornamented with gay beads and pendants, gifts and fruit. Heaps of boxes, piled beside the tree, bespoke a rich harvest for its branches and testified to the generous love in Mollie's heart.

The clock pointed to seven when Mollie Bryce ran out to the barn and, in a moment, the big touring car was tearing down the road to the little ranch home, where Mollie found the girls—Addie, June, Neysa—Ted Junior, and Mr. Le Bayon, but no Marcia.

They were all in holiday attire, and Mollie looked the question she feared to ask. Addie volunteered the desired information. Mama was called away just before three o'clock. There is a sick lady over at the station. She will come as soon as she can leave."

The smile returned, and the black eyes sparkled. "Pile in, all of you; we will hope mother can get here, but we can dress the tree without her, and perhaps father can take the car and go for her."

Mr. Le Bayon smiled, and shook his head. "They will bring her soon," he promised. The children climbed into the big car and were whirled away, while the father sat in the easy chair and waited. An hour passed before the door opened and Mrs. Le Bayon entered, carrying a small bundle which she deposited carefully on the bed.

She looked tired and a little sad, but she said gently, "The children have gone, Ted. I see you waited for me. I'll be ready in a few minutes," and she prepared to dress. Soon she was ready, and going to the closet brought a warm shawl and wrapped it around the bundle on the bed. "A present for Mollie," she explained. "I'll tell about it when we get there. We are late now," and they hurried away.

The fun was riotous as they approached the house, and looking through the window they saw Neysa clasping a big doll tightly, while she handed her sister Addie the gifts to be hung upon the tree. Addie was half-way up a tall stepladder, her curls flying and her cheeks rosy with pleasure. Marcia smiled as she caught a glimpse of June and Mollie seated on the floor, busily cutting strings and unwrapping bundles, while Ted Junior occupied a rockinghorse in the corner.

They were seated in the living-room of the Bryce home, a little uncertain how the master would welcome them, but willing to terminate the "feud" if it could be accomplished. Mrs. Le Bayon seemed restless, going often to the dressing-room, apparently listening for a sound she could not explain.

Suddenly the door opened and Hallam Bryce entered. His face was black, his voice shaking with wrath, and he flung his packages savagely to the floor. "What tomfoolery is this, Mollie? How dare you bring these people here during my absence?"

Addie was poised on the stepladder, Neysa hugged the big doll tighter, and Ted Le Bayon rose to his feet. "Hallam," he begged, "let bygones be. It is Christmas, the time of peace on earth. Will you not relent and let us be friends again?"

"Mollie crossed swiftly to her husband's side. 'Hallam,' she cried, 'you asked me what I wanted for a Christmas gift. I told you I would answer you tonight. I tell you now. I want these, my old friends, more than anything you can offer me. Please, Hallam.'"

Her eyes were shining, her lips quivering, and once more a thrill of the old love welled up in the man's withered heart. He took a step forward, "Mollie," he began, then held out his hands. "It's all right, friends. Peace to us all this night. I'm glad to welcome you to our home. Ted, old boy, and Marcia, it's good to see you here. Bless me, what a bunch of rosy girls. And this is young Ted, eh? Well, I'm glad the feud is ended," and he grasped the hand of his old enemy with a reassuring grip.

Mrs. Le Bayon lifted the bundle she had been holding, and drew Mollie to a seat beside her. "Friends," she began, "I have a story to relate, if you will postpone the festivities for awhile. It will not be long, and we shall have a better appetite for the dinner that is waiting."

"This afternoon a man drove up and asked me to go with him to the old barn at the crossroads on the Gayne orchard. His sister had been taken ill there at daybreak. They were from beyond the desert, and were trying to reach the San Fernando Valley, where friends would help them get a new start, and secure a home. They had traveled far and hadn't much food."

"I was glad I had taken a basket of food and a thermos bottle of hot coffee, with a few doughnuts and apples. When we reached the barn—you know where it is, Mollie,—poor and tumbling down, but a shelter, and plenty of hay; there, on an old blanket, with a coat for a pillow, lay a sweet-faced woman, scarcely more than a girl. Pale and wan, the long journey had overcome her and a trial awaited her. She was going down into the valley of the shadow, with only slight strength to meet the fight. It was too late to move her, and we could only wait."

"The man went for Dr. Norton, and I sat beside her after making her as comfortable as I could. The long hours dragged by, and as I watched beside her I could not help recalling the lines,

"Sweet mother, image of that mother, long ago,

Whose babe slept in a lowly stall.

Her love endures the centuries have flown."

"She awoke at last—in Paradise. But she left her babe with me, to do with as I thought best. Dying, she whispered, 'Tonight is Christmas Eve. At home they are singing the Christmas carol, Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.'"

Marcia rose and unwrapped her bundle. "Mollie, I have brought you the boy for a Christmas gift. Your voice revealed your longing, when you said last night, 'Marcia, I have no children.' Will you receive my gift, you and Hallam? The father is dead, the babe an orphan. He is big and lusty. He will bring you comfort and love. If you do not want him, we will keep him; but we are not too well off, and you have plenty."

Mollie sprang forward and took the child from Marcia. Going to her husband, she implored, "Hallam, add one more gift to your Christmas budget." Her eyes shone with excitement. "He is mine, you see,—my Christmas gift. Give the baby a home and—a daddy, dear," and Hallam Bryce drew them both into his arms, bowing his head upon his wife's shoulder to hide the happy tears.

The bells rang out, and a chorus of voices broke into song, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Worth-while Investment—To operate the high and elementary branches of the public schools during the 1919-20 fiscal year, the taxpayers of California contributed $46,278,413.80.

Breaks Record—Los Angeles' October bank clearings broke all records for that city, totaling $358,511,461.25, an increase over October last year of $127,774,802.99.

Millions in Gold—Gold to the value of $16,695,955 was produced during 1919—slightly in excess of the 1918 value; Yuha was the banner producing county.

Oil Record Broken—Oil production was 305,102 barrels daily during October—a new high mark; stocks were decreased 613,631 barrels.

Cattlemen to Meet—The California Cattlemen's Association will meet in San Francisco December 11.

PEOPLE RENDER JUDGMENT WHICH WASHINGTON MUST UPHOLD

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

ALIFORNIA HAS SPOKEN, IN NO uncertain voice, on the Jap question. The People having declared, through their ballots at the November election, that they want the Japs to acquire no more land in this state; that they are opposed to the Japs' "peaceful invasion," and that they resent the Japs' 1913 law evasion.

The enormous vote in favor of this new Alien Land Law—every county gave a handsome majority for it—was unquestionably, too, an expression of lack of confidence in the Governor and Attorney-General of California, who have been woefully derelict in their official duties in upholding the old (1913) law is concerned, and of the Corporation Commissioner, who has granted permits to corporations formed purposely to evade that law. Because these three officials were found wanting, The People acted, and they will continue to act, in the enforcement of the Land Law, henceforth. It is to be regretted that, along with the Land Law, there was not submitted a recall directed against the Governor and the Attorney-General, for it would have been equally as popular with the voters. But their inaction, in the Japs' "peaceful invasion" crisis, will not be forgotten at the coming state election.

And, also, the nearly four-to-one vote in favor of Initiative Measure Number One (Alien Land Law)—proposed, by the way, not by the Governor, as his publicity agents would have the public believe, but by those who place above all else the welfare of California—is an unmistakable warning to those white-Jap landowners who have been selling land to yellow-Japs, to those white-Jap real-estate salesmen who have been acting as agents for the yellow-Japs in land deals, and to those white-Jap attorneys who have acted as "legal" advisors for yellow-Japs in "fake" guardianship, corporation, and land-title proceedings—all in violation of the 1913 Land Law—that the time has arrived for them to cease being traitors to the State of California.

For, understand, the Alien Land Law, adopted by The People in November, was made necessary because of the combined activities of both the yellow-Japs and the white-Japs, and the law is directed against both. The only difference between them is, the yellow-Japs are the direct agents of Japan in its colonization-of-California scheme, while the white-Japs are the purchased-servants of Japan in its attempt to gain possession of California through ownership of her land by its subjects. Of the two, the white-Japs are the more to blame for the situation that has been forced upon California, and are deserving of no consideration whatever.

The same powerful forces in this country—Japan's loyal yellow subjects and Japan's loyal purchased white servants—that used $500,000 and unlimited "pressure" to defeat the Alien Land Law at the polls in California, and met with a glorious failure, have now transferred the battle-ground to the National Capitol where, according to newspaper reports, every means known to the wily emperor-worshipping Japs will be employed to have the provisions of the California law nullified. Why? Not because the law just adopted contravenes, in any provision, any right accorded the Japs by Federal law or treaty, but because it is not acceptable to the Japs or Japan!

It is unbelievable that the administration at Washington—pro-Jap though we have long believed it to be, and that belief being strengthened by the eleventh-hour attempt of an Under Secretary of State to help defeat the Alien Land Law—even for one moment will give serious consideration to any agreement or treaty, the provisions of which will, to any extent, disregard the ballot-expressed wishes of a great majority of the citizens of a sovereign state. The welfare of California is assuredly of more vital concern to the United States than the "feelings" of a foreign government, and particularly one which, like Japan, is treacherous, and whose subjects, like the Japs, deliberately and persistently violate and evade the laws of this state and country.

Japan is a bluffer, and has achieved many diplomatic victories through bluffing; instance the "gentlemen's agreement," a disgrace to American diplomacy! We believe, with Dr. Barrows of the University of California, that that country's protestations against the Alien Land Law are simply a "smoke screen" directed toward the attainment of some other concession from the Federal Government; that it has no hope of nullifying that law. Whether that supposition be correct or no, however, the Washington administration must grant Japan no concession affecting the soil of California, for California is not bluffing!

To us, the solicitude on the part of some citizens and public-officials for the "rights" of the Japs in California is nauseating, and we believe the great bulk of the people, not only in California but throughout the United States, experience the same feeling. For the welfare of California, of the United States, and of the White Race, the Japs have been already granted far too many rights and privileges. They have their own God-given country, and that is where they and their white-Jap servants should be compelled to dwell and propagate the Yamato race. It is a certainty they are not wanted here in California—either those who have already come, uninvited, or those thousands upon thousands of others who will come if the Federal Government does not inoculate itself with Americanism and, despite the bluffs, veiled threats, and appeals for justice of the Japs, not only give endorsement to California's Alien Land Law, but, in addition, without further delay pass, and enforce, a Federal law excluding all Japs and other Asiatics.

There is expressed fear, on the part of some few weak-kneed, peace-at-any-price Americans of the Dr. David Starr Jordan ilk, that California's action, unless nullified at Washington, will lead to war. Such a contention is ridiculous, for Japan has not, neither can it obtain, the means to wage war on the United States because a sovereign state has denied Japan's subjects the right to acquire land. But, even were war possible, if the Jap question has come to that point where it must either be war or the Japs, by all means choose the former! For, through war, there will be a fighting chance to save California for the White Race, but by placing the Japs on an equality with the subjects of the "most favored nation" California will be lost, to Japan. If war with Japan is to result from the action of The People of this state at the polls, the Federal Government alone will be responsible—by placing the welfare of the Japs and the demands of Japan above the welfare of California and the demands of American citizens resident here, and thus nullifying the to-Japan-unacceptable Alien Land Law.

The People of California, in adopting the Land Law, considered only the best interests of this state and the White Race. And in considering the protests of Japan and its subjects and servants here, the Washington authorities should be guided by the facts, and not by the pleadings of Jap propaganda agents with whom this country is overcrowded. If the Federal authorities are thus guided, they will inform Japan in decisive terms that The People of California do not want the Japs here, and will take no action contrary to the Alien Land Law. This is the only course that will meet with the approval of the whole Pacific Coast, which has the Jap menace to contend with, and is the one course which will win respect from Japan and all other foreign governments—the one course that will assure a permanent peace between this country and Japan.

THANKS CITIZENS

JAMES F. HOEY OF MARTINEZ, GRAND President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, November 6 gave to the "Martinez Gazette," edited by State Senator William R. Sharkey (Mount Diablo 101, N.S.G.W.)

—one of the many papers in California which advocated the adoption by The People of Initiative Amendment Number One (Alien Land Law) on the November ballot, and also one of the very few papers which consistently refused to accept a penny of the yellow-Japs' and white-Japs' propaganda money, either for the purchase of advertising or "news" space—this statement regarding the participation of the Order of Native Sons in the anti-Jap campaign:

"The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, being a purely patriotic organization, inaugurated the movement against the Asiatics in the interest of California. Members of the Order, with full consent of the Grand Parlor, actively participated in the campaign purely from patriotic motives, and the campaign was financed to a large extent by the Subordinate Parlors and individual members.

"Speaking for the Order, we are indeed appreciative of the splendid support given this measure by our fellow-citizens, for we look upon the enormous vote in favor of it as a vindication of our activity and as an approval of the course of this Order, which is always to the forefront in advocating and supporting movements which have for their objective the well-being of the great State of California."

In the name of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West with their 40,000 American-born members, The Grizzly Bear, their official publication, makes this public protest against any attempt on the part of the Federal authorities to circumvent the will of The People of California as expressed in the Alien Land Law adopted at the polls in November. And, that the great victory may not be turned into defeat at secret diplomatic bargainings in Washington, we sincerely urge all Subordinate Parlors of both Orders, and all individual members thereof, to at once dispatch to the President and to the Secretary of State at Washington, as well as to the California Senators and Congressmen, protests against the rumored intention of the Federal Government to, in the interest of a foreign government and its citizens, interfere in the land-holding affairs of California and her citizens—a protest which shall forcibly record our determination that California shall not be sacrificed, even for the sake of peace, to the Japs, but that it shall always be what God designed it to be—the Paradise of the White Race.

Eggs by the Million—Petaluma, Sonoma County, from January 1 to October 1 produced 21,678,365 dozen eggs.

Good Asset—Vallejo, Solano County, by a 15-to-1 vote has authorized $1,250,000 bonds for water works additions.

Fruit Galore for East—Shipments to Eastern points this year of deciduous fruits totaled 34,023 cars—7,024 more than during 1919.

Yosemite Popular—48,749 autoists visited Yosemite National Park during this year's vacation season; last year there were 39,880 visitors.

DECEMBER, FIFTY YEARS AGO, IN CALIFORNIA

CHRISTMAS DAY COLD AND CLEAR—CENSUS FIGURES ANNOUNCED

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

CHRISTMAS DAY, 1870, CAME ON A Sunday. It was clear and cold, as had been the weather for over a week previous, and holiday shopping and festivities went on without hindrance. The people of the entire state had nothing to interfere with their having a merry time.

Mayor Thos. H. Selby of San Francisco gave to the charitable institutions of that city his salary for the year, amounting to $1,200.

The storm that began November 29 continued until December 4, and all parts of the state received showers averaging from one to three inches of rain, while six feet of snow fell on the Sierras. Another mild storm passed over the state December 13 and 14; then came a cold wave that prevailed the balance of the month. The temperature in the valleys fell below 20°; the ground froze so plowing and seeding were stopped; water in ditches, reservoirs and streams became ice, stopping the mining operations, and the people of the mountain towns were enjoying the pastime of skating.

The report of the 1870 Federal census was made public this month by State Census Marshal William G. Morris. It gave California a population of 560,233, every nation on earth being represented. Included in the total were 162,093 native-born Californians, 54,421 natives of Ireland, and 49,229 Asiatics, including 32 Japs. One native-born child was listed. But 7,244 Indians, of the thousands here in the '40s, remained.

The census figures showed a gain in the past decade of 180,209, and put California in twenty-sixth place among the states. An additional congressman was assured. San Francisco was credited with a population of 149,473, Alameda with 25,540, Sacramento with 27,102, San Diego with 4,490, and Los Angeles City with 5,728 and the county with 14,720. Mono, with but 431 inhabitants, was the smallest county in the state.

The lottery fever had not abated. The citizens of Grass Valley, Nevada County, organized a gift concert, with C. C. King as manager, to be pulled off January 2 for the benefit of its orphan asylum and other public institutions. 100,000 tickets, at $2.50 each, were to be sold, and $100,000 in prizes awarded, beginning with a capital prize of $20,000. Marysville, Yuba County, fell in with a similar proposition, to be held February 1, with J. H. Condon as manager. 50,000 tickets at $3 each were to be sold, and 950 prizes, including a capital one of $20,000, were to be awarded. Opposition developed to the scheme, and injunctions against ticket selling were in prospect.

Railroad to Santa Rosa Completed.

The Alvarado, Alameda County, beet sugar factory was working to a full capacity of fifty tons a day this month. Beet sugar came on the market of San Francisco and other cities as a novelty and was being used as such by the people, many of whom claimed it was just as good as the cane sugar they had been using. The Alvarado company was selling its product for 13½ cents a pound.

A special car from Washington, D. C., containing $5,000,000 in currency sent by the United States Government, arrived in San Francisco under guard.

The San Francisco and North Pacific railroad was completed and put into operation to Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, December 31. Peter Donahue, president of the road, took a brass band, a squad of artillery with their cannon to fire salute, and about 300 invited guests by special train from San Francisco to attend the celebration at Santa Rosa. Charles D. Carter was the orator of the day.

The California and Oregon railroad, going north, reached the east bank of the Sacramento River, thirteen miles from Red Bluff, Tehama County, and established a temporary terminus at Sesma until the Sacramento River could be bridged at Tehama.

The Pacific Oyster Company was incorporated with a $60,000 capital to propagate Eastern oysters in California waters. It was proposed to bring newly-spawned oysters from the East, transplant and grow them in San Francisco Bay and other places for the market.

The bay at Santa Cruz was swarming with schools of smelt. A large part of the population of all ages and both sexes were upon the wharves with dip nets and all kinds of devices gathering in basketsful of the shining finny mass. Porpoise, sharks, gulls and pelicans were gathered there, too, in big numbers to feed on the harvest that lasted over a week.

A miner named McDermott, working near Marioposa, picked up a quartz boulder weighing about three pounds, washed into view by the rains; it contained over $300 in gold.

Evan Jones of Port Wine, Sierra County, mining in Poorman's Gulch, found a nugget weighing three and one-half pounds and worth over $700.

The Eureka Mining Co. of Grass Valley paid its usual monthly dividend of $10 a share December 7.

The anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, Massachusetts, December 21, 1620, was celebrated by the residents of San Francisco from New England with literary exercises and a banquet, both largely attended.

F. Aguilar was elected Mayor of Los Angeles December 5.

A five-mile trotting race in San Francisco December 13, for $1,000, had a large attendance of sports and was won by "Longfellow" in 14:15.

The Hibernia Savings Bank of San Francisco made a loan on city real estate of $100,000 at 1% a month interest, payable monthly.

Member First Constitutional Convention Dies.

The French residents of the state contributed $22,000 this month to their war sanitary fund. $147,000 had been received from the residents of California and adjacent states for the fund since the Franco-German war began.

The German residents in San Francisco organized a military company and called it the "Kaiser's Guard." They intended to arm it with needleguns and drill under the Prussian system.

George Squires of Dutch Flat, Placer County, reported he had sold from an apple tree in his orchard not over six inches in diameter 451 pounds of apples this month.

Albert Hall reported finding a vein of coal in Lake County, about seven miles northwest of Lakeport.

R. Oliver of Nelson Point, Plumas County, killed five deer during Christmas week.

A sturgeon weighing 357 pounds was caught in the river near Sacramento December 31.

News of the death of Benjamin S. Lippincott in New Jersey November 22 at the age of 55 was received. He came to California in 1847 and was prominent in public affairs during the '50s. He was a member, from San Joaquin County, of the First Constitutional Convention, and represented Alameda County in the Legislature of 1855.

L. M. Curtis, who came to California in 1849 and was prominent in business and public affairs of Colusa and Yolo Counties, died in Sacramento December 31, aged 48. A special train to bring several hundred of his friends from Yolo County to attend his funeral was run and his demise was greatly regretted.

A man representing himself as a Persian bishop made a big stir in Catholic church circles in San Francisco, preaching and making addresses in different churches. He raised a large sum to build churches in Asia. After he had departed it was found he was nearer a melon than a bishop.

Visalia at this time had no jail. Malefactors were chained to a tree in a public square and there guarded by their would-be jailor.

A gang of young men, seven in number, were arrested by the Sacramento police and some of them, being connected with well-known, respectable families, it caused much excitement. They were charged with committing arsons, burglaries and highway robberies for a couple of years in the city, and a confession by one of their number implicated them in nearly fifty different crimes.

The bank of Marks & Co. in Moore's Flat, Nevada County, was robbed at noon December 23 of $4,000. While Frank Henry, the cashier, was at dinner and the doors of the bank were locked, a robber entered and stole the coin.

A teamster named Griswold, in Butte County, was robbed by two highwaymen of $220.

Murderer Lynched in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Jesse Bonnell and her two small children were found murdered near their home four miles from Porterville, Tulare County, December 5. The mother had been shot and the children stabbed to death. The murders were soon found to have been committed by three Indians, two of whom were captured the next day and hung from the limb of a tree by the posse that captured them.

Dr. Davidson and an acquaintance, named Lane, December 9 in Tulare got into an argument over a religious question and came to blows. Lane knocked the doctor down and, seizing his long whiskers, attempted to drag him on the ground. The doctor drew a derringer and shot Lane between the eyes, killing him instantly. The doctor was acquitted, on the plea of self-defense.

The evening of December 14 Charles E. Fisher, the business manager of the Sacramento "Daily Reporter," on entering his home found Charles Dell and another young man in the parlor, conversing with his young daughter. He had previously forbidden Dell keeping company with her and, becoming angered, with a heavy cane assaulted Dell and attempted to eject him from the house. Dell drew a pistol and shot Fisher three times, causing his death in a short time. Dell had an arm broken, an artery severed under his scalp and other severe bruises. He was acquitted on examination, on the plea of acting in self-defense.

December 15, in Los Angeles, Miguel Lachensi, in a dispute with Jacob Bell, an old resident of the town, shot and killed him. The morning of the 17th over 300 citizens gathered in a hall and selected a leader. Then they proceeded to the county jail and demanded of the sheriff the murderer. The sheriff refused to give him up, and the crowd then battered down the jail door. With a following of over a thousand people they took Lachensi to a corral about two blocks from the jail and hung him from a cross-beam over the gate. It was claimed that he had killed three other people in his career and it was time he was stopped.

James Cox, assessor of Merced County, December 17, near Suelling, attempted to enter a Mexican's house in search of a person he was after; the owner of the home shot and killed him.

A man named Dougherty called upon a widow named Mrs. Deunis at Wheatland, Yuba County, December 20 and proposed marriage. Being refused, he drew a pistol, claiming he only intended to intimidate the unfortunate woman, but it went off and the bullet passed through her heart, killing her.

Baker Chambers, a pioneer miner of Placer County at Stewart's Flat, was found murdered in his claim December 20. He was killed with an ax, and Chinamen were suspected of being his murderers.

Juan Auzar, a notorious gambler in San Jose, December 27, on Market street, had a difficulty with a young man named Hernandez and attempted to carve him with a knife. Mariano Hernandez, a brother, then shot Auzar, fatally wounding him.

December 22 a fire at Colusa destroyed the lively stable of Hughes & Cheaney with eight valuable horses, causing a $6,000 loss.

Many Hunters Accident Victims.

The big grocery store of Pozzo & Co. in San Jose was burned December 31, causing a $20,000 loss.

Michael Murray, December 1, in an altercation in San Francisco, drew his pistol and, accidentally discharging it, shot himself in a leg and was thought to be crippled for life.

December 1, at Rocklin, Placer County, while her mother was hanging out washed clothes on the line in the yard, the little 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. H. Jones, a widow, fell into a tub of hot water and was scalded to death.

James Taggart, a pioneer miner in Mary's Ravine near Placerville, El Dorado County, December 5 fell off the bank into his claim and broke his neck.

Wm. N. Venters, an old resident of El Dorado County, went hunting December 1. December 8 his dog returned to his cabin in a famished condition, which caused Venters' neighbors to follow the dog about six miles from his home and find him dead.

Ramon Valdez, with his brother, Trinidad, were hunting ducks near San Luis Obispo on a lagoon with a tule raft. In pulling his gun off the raft it was fired and the charge struck Trinidad, killing him instantly.

Chas. Townsend, a youth 17 years of age, December 11, in Butte County, getting ready to go for a quail hunt, got his shotgun in his bedroom and, to ascertain if it was loaded, pressed the hammer back with his foot while he blew down the barrel with the gun's muzzle in his mouth. It was discharged by his foot slipping off the hammer, and nearly his whole head was blown off.

Daniel Ebbetts, 15 years old and only son of A. M. Ebbetts of San Francisco, December 26, with a lad of his own age, was shooting ducks near Rio Vista. Rising in his blind to shoot at an approaching flock, he received the charge of his companion's gun, fired just as he arose, in his head and died a week later from the injury.

Charles Jackson of Florin, Sacramento County, December 8, while crawling in a ditch to get a shot at a flock of geese, accidentally fired his gun. The charge tore through the right side of his body, soon causing his death.

Allen Fish, a teamster at Oakland, attempted to stop a runaway team December 22, but was run over and killed.

Mrs. Ellen Burns, in Los Angeles December 21, was holding a team of horses detached from their carriage that had broken down and which her husband was repairing, when they ran away. She was entangled in the reins and dragged to death.

Wm. Maltman, superintendent and part owner of the Manzanita mine near Grass Valley, Nevada County, December 8, while thawing out about twenty pounds of giant powder over a forge, caused it to explode. With the building, he was blown some distance and killed; his body was shockingly mutilated.

Christmas Joker Causes Bad Accident.

A young man named Martin, a teamster, near San Jose December 8 fell from his wagon seat and was killed.

Wm. H. Gooch, a teamster in Shasta County, while descending a steep hill fell under the heels of his wheel horses and was kicked to death.

Celia Pierce, a young woman living in Nevada City, Nevada County, the evening of December 9, returning home from a theater, fell off a sidewalk and broke her leg.

B. H. Skelton of Mariposa, driving a four-horse team December 12, was jolted off his wagon seat and received a broken leg.

The Watsonville stage upset near Aptos, Santa Cruz County, December 19, and G. Kent, a passenger, had an arm broken.

Carter Cox and Benjamin Rowe, miners in the Oro mine at Forest Hill, Placer County, were suffocated December 20 by foul air, caused by a monster blast of black powder. They entered the mine too soon after the explosion.

The infant son of George Roberts at Hollister, San Benito County, December 21, while the family were at breakfast, got hold of a poker and stuck the red-hot end in his eye, dangerously injuring it.

An 11-year-old lad named Harrison, in San Francisco, filled a pocket with gun powder and, getting a piece of fuse, started off to fire a Christmas salute.

A companion in fun touched a lighted match to the fuse which, in turn, set the powder off, and the boy was fearfully burned on his leg and body.

Clarence Johnson, a boy 4 years old, December 31 in San Jose, playing in a lumber yard, fell off a pile and broke his leg.

F. H. Howard, city attorney of Los Angeles, while riding in a buggy on Christmas Day, was upset and had a leg broken.

Dr. E. A. Jones at Knights Landing, Yolo County, was thrown off his horse and had a leg broken.

Wm. Todd, a painter in San Francisco, fell a distance of twenty feet and had both hips and a wrist dislocated.

George Culp, mining on the Yuba River in Nevada County, was buried beneath a cave of the bank of his mine and killed December 27.

Frank Whitford, in the Bear Valley mine, Mariposa County, was blown up by the premature discharging of a giant powder blast and killed. His abdomen was torn open, both eyes destroyed and both legs broken.

A carpenter in San Francisco, New Year Eve, attempted suicide by driving a chisel through his throat with a hammer.

Johnny Anderson, 11 years old, in September ran away from his home in San Francisco and traveled by rail to Chicago. He was moneyless during the entire trip, but was assisted on the way by generous trainmen and others. He stayed in Chicago a week, then, getting homesick, returned in the same way as he went and arrived home December 12, hungry and begrimed, as he had not had a face wash for a month.

Farmer "Licks" Right-of-Way Agent.

Two Oakland boys made a Christmas "wad" riding lots and gardens of gophers. They had captured a battling gopher alive and, secured with a long cord fastened to a leg, they would send it into a gopher hole. When, by the violent twitching of the cord, they ascertained their gladiator was in combat, they drew it out with its teeth fastened into the denizen of the hole, which was also dispatched.

George and Ben Crisman, nimrods of Auburn, Placer County, went on a goose shoot to Auburn Ravine sink. George loaded both barrels of Ben's shotgun, either by design or accident, with a double charge of powder and shot. In their blind they awaited results, which in a short time came, when a large flock of geese alighted within range. Ben fired both barrels, but the kick of the gun was too severe a shock for him to help gather in the dead. Thirty-one geese were killed, and Ben did not know for some days how the result was brought about.

Wm. Hood, for many years since the chief engineer of the Southern Pacific railroad, now had a surveying crew out running a line for the California & Oregon railroad, north, through Tehama County. A farmer named Mooney, whose ranch was divided by the line, was quite obstreperous about selling a right-of-way. He could not see why the line should not be moved a half-mile or so east or west and follow his fence and not cut his land in two. A right-of-way agent named Livingston, at his home, tried to make Mooney agree to take the company's offer, but without avail, so he invited him to come to Red Bluff at a specified time, consult his attorney, and talk it over.

They met in a thirst-quenching resort, and after having had refreshments several times and talking their business over awhile, Mooney's combative nature asserted itself. It brought from him the remark that he had never been licked in his life. Livingston made claim to the same honor, which brought from Mooney a def. If Livingston could lick him he would take the company's offer, but if he licked Livingston then the company was to pay him his price.

They soon arranged matters, and going alone to a field about a half-mile outside of town they settled the matter. They returned in less than an hour, both considerably battered, with blackened eyes and face contusions, but on friendly terms, and taking a parting drink separated. Nobody there knew what the decision was, but the writer some thirty years after remembers having a talk with Mooney, in which he asserted he had never been licked in his life, so he must have won.

CALIFORNIA PLANT WIZARD TO MAKE NEW YEAR OFFERINGS.

Santa Rosa—Although 73 years of age, Luther Burbank of this Sonoma County city, California plant wizard, is still at work, and after January 1 will introduce several new creations.

To the vegetable list will be added a tomato-pepper, to the berries an ever-bearing strawberry, and to the cereals a beardless barley and a giant rye. The flower world will be enriched by the introduction of a giant dahlia and several new varieties of gladiola. Among the new trees will be an ornamental pepper and several varieties of walnuts and bamboo.

It's good to be merry and wise, it's good to be honest and true.—Robert Burns.

Native Sons of the Golden West

TREMENDOUS GAINS IN MEMBERSHIP, by practically all Subordinate Parlor, are reported from the Grand Secretary's office. This is due to the drives suggested by Grand President James F. Hoey, and being systematically conducted along lines outlined by him. In San Francisco and Oakland, membership drives that will prove grand successes, are well under way.

At the polls, November 2, The People, in passing by an enormous majority the Alien Land Law, gave approval to the work of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, for that Order was largely responsible for that measure getting on the ballot and led the fight against the Japs in their effort to defeat it.

That Order is the ONE fraternal organization which dares to, and does, propose and interest itself in measures for the protection and upbuilding of California. That's why practically every eligible, when made acquainted with the real facts concerning the Order, is anxious to enlist in the army of Native Sons—anxious to do his full share in having California attain, and maintain, "her place in the sun."

"Forward" is the word! There is much for a patriotic organization such as the Native Sons to do, in the interest of California. It must go forward in numbers, that it may go forward in power to accomplish things. And it will go forward, if every Native Son resolves that it is going forward, and govern himself accordingly.—C. M. H.

Historic Site Selected for Initiation.

Redwood City—One of the most unique ceremonies perhaps in the history of California took place October 14 at La Honda, when Native Sons from all sections of San Mateo County gathered in historic Sears Hall and witnessed the initiatory degree conferred upon a class of candidates presented from the several Parlor of the county. The hall, with its whitewashed walls and cowebbed ceiling, and hidden from view by the mighty redwoods of a thousand ages, made a most picturesque setting for a ceremony of this kind, and recalled the days of the sturdy Pioneers around whose memory and traditions the Order was founded.

The initiatory work was conferred by a picked team from the several Parlor, with Phil Bozzo, president of Redwood 66, acting as president. Present at the ceremony was Grand President James F. Hoey. Following the initiation a banquet was served at Banzagni's Lodge, Alex Banzagni, the genial proprietor and an ardent member of the Order, doing himself proud as host to one of the most delightful spreads ever enjoyed.

A. S. Liguori, secretary of Redwood Parlor, presided as toastmaster at the banquet. A stirring talk on California and its wonderful resources and a strong appeal to the members present to do their full duty in preserving the state for the white race, was made by Grand President Hoey. Responses were also made by Edward Hevey, president Pebble Beach 230 (Pescadero), George W. Hall, secretary San Mateo 23, Charles H. Smith, president Menlo 185 (Menlo Park), and Judge H. W. Lampkin, past president Redwood 66. The affair was one of the most successful ever held by the San Mateo County Native Sons, and great credit is due to Omar Doyle of Redwood Parlor, who headed the committee on arrangements.

Benefit Nets Big Sum.

Redding—The annual benefit of McCloud 149 and Hiawatha 140, N.S.G.W., for the homeless children, was attended by such a large crowd that, although the night was very stormy, $210 was netted for the cause. Following a movie, "The Heart of a Child," there was a vocal duet by Kathleen Hannan and Helen Peterson, a violin solo by Clarence Buchanan, a vocal solo by Mrs. Harvey Sallee, a poppy dance by Misses Helen Chartrand and Mollie Halter, and a vocal solo by Fred F. Miles.

During the evening Grand Trustee Arthur M. Dean gave a short history of the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' homeless children movement, and closed by introducing the Governor, who praised the work for which the benefit was given and appealed for enlistments for the super-dreadnaught "California." Lieutenant-Commander G. M. Weichelt, U. S. N. R. E., also spoke briefly.

Joint Benefit for Homeless Children.

San Jose—The local Parlor of Native Sons—San Jose 22 and Observatory 177—and Native Daughters—San Jose 81 and Vendome 100—gave their joint annual dance for the benefit of the homeless children November 18. Good music was provided, and the big crowd was well entertained. The following members of the Parlor constituted a reception committee:

W. L. Chrisman, I. L. Koppel, A. B. Barker, Fred M. Stern, Past Grand President Thomas Monahan, H. R. Tripp, W. L. Biebrach, Clarence L. Mitchell, A. I. Hubbard, Judge U. A. Southeimer, Fred L. Thomas, J. R. Phillips, J. P. Fitzgerald, H. B. Krause, Past Grand President Mamie Pierce-Carmichael, Mrs. J. M. Howell, Mrs. R. Plamondon, Mrs. J. A. Corotto, Miss Tillie Brohaska, Mrs. G. Ingels, Mrs. Earl Bieckford, Mrs. H. W. Morton, Mrs. D. J. Gairaud, J. E. Hancock, W. J. Boschken, Judge P. F. Goshey, Fred Doerr, H. D. Melvin, Louis Normandin, R. F. Benson, Judge W. A. Beasley, J. M.

Waterman, Sam Martin, Jos. A. Delmas, Congressman A. M. Free, Dr. George Barry, J. D. Kuster, H. E. Hoff, City Manager Clarence Goodwin, Grand Trustee Mary F. Mitchell, Mrs. John Jury, Miss Mary Meyer, Mrs. J. W. Gauong, Mrs. J. S. Williams, Mrs. Ed Nelson, Mrs. B. Grundeland, Mrs. Fred Moak, Mrs. Josie Barboni, Grand Trustee Chas. A. Thompson, and D.D.G.P. G. W. Tinney.

Past Presidents' Activities.

San Francisco—San Francisco Assembly No. 1, Past Presidents' Association, gave a flallow'en dinner-dance which was well attended and greatly enjoyed. Honored guests of the evening were Grand President Bertha A. Briggs and Grand Trustee Dr. Winifred M. Byrne of the Native Daughters, and Grand President James F. Hoey of the Native Sons. Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington was the toastmaster.

At its meeting November 12, members of the Assembly were treated to an interesting and instructive lecture on "The Hetch Hetchy," accompanied by moving pictures. Among the visitors were Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger and Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger of Los Angeles. The Assembly now has a membership of 300, and is still growing, both in numbers and accomplishments.

100 Percent Membership Increase.

Livermore—Las Positas 96, under the able leadership of President Ernest A. Wente, has been doing things since the first of July, and the membership has been increased 100 percent. November 11, when the monthly initiation was held, all records were broken, a class of thirty-six affiliating with this progressive Parlor. More than 125 members were present to witness the initiatory work, among the visitors being Grand Trustee John J. Monteverdo of Sacramento and Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker.

This was also the occasion of the celebration of the thirty-fourth institution anniversary of Las Positas Parlor, and this brought out two charter members—Dennis Bernal and A. C. McLeod. Following the regular Parlor meeting the Parlor's fun-making side degree was conferred, and after that a banquet was served.

Organizes Basketball Team.

Auburn—Auburn 59 has organized a strong basketball team, composed of Al Saladana, Earl Donald, Whittemore, James Saladana, John Saladana, Jack Walsh. An elaborate season is planned, the team hoping to meet the fastest basketball clubs in the northern part of the state.

Initiates Class of Six.

Santa Barbara—Although the night was stormy, there was a big attendance at the meeting of Santa Barbara 116 November 6, when a class of six candidates was initiated. The ritual was well exemplified by a visiting team of past presidents from Los Angeles, as follows: J. F. Lyon (Los Angeles 45), Pres.; John T. Newell (Los Angeles 45), 1st Vice-pres.; Al Cron (Los Angeles 45), 2nd Vice-pres.; Kyle Z. Grainger (Los Angeles 45), 3rd Vice-pres.; Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger (Ramona 109), Mar.; Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin (Corona 196), Jr. Past Pres.; Sol A. Rehart (Ramona 109), Org. A. F. Paleothorpe (Corona 196), also a visitor, assisted in the capacity of sentinel. The Los Angeles Parlor contingent made the trip in "Johnnie" Newell's "bus," and report a delightful, although somewhat moist, journey.

This was also the occasion of the official visit to Santa Barbara Parlor of Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin, who spoke on the work of the Order. Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger enthused his hearers with an eloquent address on the history of California. A tamale supper closed what was declared by the visitors to have been a most enjoyable occasion.

Present Palms to City.

Redwood City—Tree-planting exercises October 13 at the new Firemen's Auditorium were attended by a large number of citizens. Two beautiful palms, one the gift of Redwood 66 and the other of Bonita 10, N.D.G.W., were planted, one on either side of the main entrance to the building.

The presentation speech was made by Rev. Father Kennedy of Mt. Carmel church, a member of Redwood Parlor, who told of the interest the Native Sons and Native Daughters have always taken in the welfare of Redwood City, and what the two organizations meant in the development of the community; he spoke of the value of the trees, and lauded the efforts of the Native Sons and Native Daughters to preserve the forests of California. Mayor and Chief of the Fire Department Mark E. Ryan accepted the trees, in a neat speech, thanking the members of the two Parlors for their presentation. The services ended with the singing of "I Love You, California," by Prof. O. M. Carrington.

Anniversary Celebrated.

San Francisco—Precita 187 celebrated its twenty-seventh institution anniversary with a banquet Armistice Day attended by 200 who enjoyed a fine entertainment program. Arthur E. Curtis presided, assisted by William James, and among the speakers were: George A. Duddy, Edward Tietjen, Hugh E. McCaffery, Joseph O'Brien, Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Supervisor Emmet Hayden, County Clerk Harry I. Mulerevy, Angelo J. Rossi, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, James Hanley, Dan J. Wrenn.

Wants Japs Segregated.

Palo Alto—Palo Alto 216 has joined heartily in the proposal originated by Fremont Post, No. 52, American Legion, that a segregated district for Japs be established here. A committee of Dr. A. B. Mayhew (chairman), J. B. Blois and Charles Tully was named to confer on the matter with the Chamber of Commerce and the Legion.

November 8, Past President James Farmin was accorded a privilege that seldom comes into one's fraternal life—that of officiating at the initiation of his only son; the rendition of the president's charge was splendid. Farmin has the distinction, too, of having been a charter member of two Parlors.

Everything is in readiness for the ritual contest between present and past officers of Palo Alto Parlor, billed for November 29. It will be a "big" night, both in doings and attendance. Five members of California 1 (San Francisco) will be the judges. The contending teams will include:

Honored by Citizens.

San Francisco—In the November battle of the ballots, Native Sons of this city fared very well, those being honored by the voters with election to important offices including:

Congressman—John I. Nolan (Twin Peaks 214).
Appellate Court—William H. Langdon, presiding justice (re-elected).

Superior Court Judges—Harold Louderback and Daniel C. Deasy (both Pacific 10), Past Grand President Frank H. Dunne (Golden Gate 29), Timothy I. Fitzpatrick, Bernard J. Flood, John J. Van Nostrand (all Stanford 76).

State Senator—Charles W. Godsil (James Lick 242).

Assemblymen—Clarence W. Morris (California 1), John B. Badaracco (San Francisco 49), J. F. Burns (Rincon 72), Roy Fellom (Stanford 76), Thomas A. Mitchell (South San Francisco 157), Harry F. Morrisou (Dolores 208).

Fire Causes Move.

Stockton—A fire in the Mail building, where Stockton 7 had its home, having made impossible further meetings there, the Parlor has moved to Eagles' hall, where meetings will be held twice a month—the first and third Mondays.

The Parlor is fitting up lodge and club rooms in the Smith & Lang building, and these, it is expected, will be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of the year. A splendid home is being fitted up, and as soon as occupied weekly meetings will be resumed.

Enjoying Prosperity.

San Miguel—San Miguel 150 was officially visited by Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin of Los Angeles October 20. There was a large attendance, and during the evening a class of candidates was initiated, the ritual being impressively exemplified. A chicken supper, prepared by the members, was served in true California style late in the evening. San Miguel Parlor is enjoying great prosperity.

Ex-Service Members Honored.

Placerville—Placerville 9 recently had one of the most notable meetings in its long history of accomplishments, the feature of which was the presentation of a beautiful and appropriate emblematic pin to its members who were in service during the world war. Ted C. Atwood, in a short but appropriate address, made the presentations in the Parlor's behalf.

Prior to the meeting a banquet was served by

Native Daughters of the Golden West

Season's Greetings

Hollister, December 1, 1920.

To the Subordinate Parlors,
Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Dear Sisters:

Again we approach the holy Christmastide with its joyfulness and spirit of gift giving. At this festive season, when all earth rejoices, our hearts should be filled with the happiness that comes from the knowledge of doing all that lies in our power to alleviate the needs and to advance the welfare of others. Let us celebrate this Yuletide as a time of giving that means some sacrifice and some radiance of joy and comfort and hope to those less fortunate than ourselves—a season of kindly, gentle greeting; of deference to our fellow-beings as life seems illumined by the ineffable and softened light of the Star of Bethlehem.

"As Christmas comes to us again
Unfolding God's most glorious plan,
May your part be a joyous one,
A happy life with work well done."

This year the belfries of all Christendom will ring out the glad tidings, "On earth, peace, good will to men." The messages of all history combined never have and never can give to mankind that sacred joy, that unfathomable blessing that the world has received from the angel's message and the doctrines of the life heralded to mankind by that message. What a mighty transformation there would be in the affairs of this Nation at this Christmastide if the living principles of Him Whose birth we celebrate were applied, if the great doctrines of brotherhood and principles of the Golden Rule were practiced! What a blessing this would mean to every man, woman and child in America!

The end of the year reminds us that days and, with them, opportunities, are passing. It is a time for stock-taking, not only of our possessions, but of our endeavors. There will be shortcomings to remember, that they may be corrected; there will be achievements for which to render thanks; there will be resolutions to attempt yet higher and better things. May the humblest of us, in the year to come, give ourselves wholeheartedly to our tasks. May our love go out in an expression of that true fraternity which should animate us at all times. Richer in experience and greater in good deeds, may we continue our mission of blessing humanity in proportion as we realize our opportunities for unselfish service.

"With high hopes serene and clear
Welcome in the coming year;
Bid the old God-speed and send him out.
May the New Year bring to you
Friends to cherish, work to do,
And the old year take away each fear and doubt."

In extending the season's greetings, embodied in the oldest wish known to civilization, I am hoping that each and every one may experience that sacred joy that really belongs to

A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year.
Sincerely and fraternally, in P. D. F. A.,

Bertha A. Briggs

Grand President.

President Is Surprised.

San Francisco—October 25, La Estrella 89 had another of its dandy good times, a Hallowe'en party. Serpentine was hung in profusion about the room, and witches an' everything that go to make a real Hallowe'en spirit were tacked upon the walls. Fortunes were told by an honest-to-goodness fortune-teller, and there were also peanuts containing fortunes; these were fished for by means of a hat pin, and contained original verses which, in many cases, seemed to hit right home. The table was decorated with colored paper and weird faces, and at each plate was a "little man" made of peanuts.

The main attraction of the evening was the cutting of two cakes, each containing a ring, penny and thimble. It took a married woman and a widow to receive the pieces of cake containing the rings, while the single girls had to be contented with the thimbles and pennies. All had a delightful time, and are looking forward to a Thanksgiving celebration November 22. The success of the affair was due entirely to Birdie Hartman, Louise Cases, Tillie Marks, Mary Boldeemann and Lola Horgan, who were on the committee in charge. Recently a surprise was tendered President Hannah Barry, in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of her marriage. A dainty collation was served, and as a tribute of love she received a beautiful cut-glass bowl.

Cool Weather Warms 'Em Up.

Fresno—With the advent of the cool weather, Fresno 187 has begun to warm up with social activities. Twice a month card socials are held, and are enjoyed by the Native Sons as well as the members of the Parlor. Each week some one brings a surprise package, which not only creates interest but produces a goodly sum for the social fund. Plans are well under way for a Christmas bazar.

Recently Eva Paul entertained in honor of Lorena Dahlstrom and Mattie Walton, charter members who are now residing elsewhere.

Complimented by Grand President.

Folsom—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited Fern 123 October 22, when the ritual was exemplified for the benefit of one candidate. Mrs. Briggs, in an interesting address, spoke of the Order's activities and complimented the Parlor on its work, the membership personnel, and the harmony existing. President Mary Curry, in the course of her reply, presented the Grand President with a gift from the Parlor. A chicken supper was served after the meeting.

Mock Marriage Makes Merry.

Oakland—The twelfth institution anniversary of Bahia Vista 167 was celebrated November 3, and the same evening was chosen for showering the latest bride, Mrs. Grace Matthewson. As a preliminary, a mock wedding was performed and caused a great deal of merriment. The minister (Ida Rowley), a very dignified clerical gentleman, entered the hall very solemnly, carrying a prayer-book, and walked to the altar, where he waited for the bridal party, which came trooping in. The bride-to-be (Louise McDougall) was gowned in an ancient wedding dress of cream satin, topped with a full-length curtain for a bridal veil, and carrying a shower bouquet of sprays of celery, some garlic, and carrot tops. Her woman-in-waiting (Ann Thomsen) wore a flaming red dress, with a headdress of the same cheerful color. The groom (Anna Quinn), a gay young blade, sporting the cutest little mustache of a chestnut hue and hair a few shades lighter, completely captivated the guests. He was attended by the best man (Anna Kleir), who affected a limp necessitating the use of a cane; he was correctly garbed in a neat black suit, showing off his splendid figure. The ceremony for uniting in wedlock this twain, Lulu Hardome and Harry Harelip, was specially prepared and caused much laughter. After the ceremony all were invited to the banquet hall, where an appetizing feast was spread, the birthday cake, with its twelve lighted candles, having a conspicuous place. There was a bride cake, too, for the bride in whose honor the shower was held, and a wedding cake for the couple united that evening. There was one round of gaiety while the happy bride of the last month, Mrs. Matthewson, opened her many gifts, varied and beautiful. A large package, neatly wrapped and tied, was delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Harelip; this proved to be a large wooden box filled with excelsior, in the center of which was a paper package containing a single red geranium.

Bahia Vista Parlor will initiate a class of candidates the first meeting in December, and another good time is looked for. A public whist was held the 17th of November.

Has Hallowe'en Party.

Elk Grove—The Hallowe'en meeting of Liberty 213 proved another pleasant occasion. After the initiation of two candidates, to the accompaniment of several peace-disturbing instruments and by the light of one jack-o'-lantern, those in attendance prowled to the banquet room, where an appropriate lunch was served. The favors were numbered: Emma Augustine, holding the lucky number, got a black cat; Mrs. Cann took away the apple of the evening. For decorative purposes, black cats and flowers were employed. The committee in charge was May Rhoades, Louisa Cann, Frances Wackman, Florence Polhemus, Mary Coons.

Appear in Armistice Day Parade.

San Luis Obispo—Members of San Luisita 108 turned out in force for the Armistice Day parade, and presented a pretty sight, clad in white dresses with yellow sashes. Along the line of march they sang patriotic songs, which elicited great applause.

Stork Showers Popular.

San Francisco—October 26 Linda Rosa 170 entertained at whist. The affair was a wonderful success, there being twenty-three tables and a large number of spectators. Several valuable prizes were awarded. All enjoyed the evening and are looking forward to the next whist. November 10 the Parlor initiated three candidates, the work being impressively presented. D.D.G.P. Kauffman, who had been in the East for two months, was welcomed home. When "Good of the Order" was reached, the members marched in the hall and showered gifts on one of their number. All had a glorious time looking over the pretty, useful gifts with which the expectant mother was completely surprised. Refreshments were served, and all regretted the evening was so short.

A stork shower was tendered Mrs. Jeannette Welde, a member of Linda Rosa, by Elizabeth Fenton, also a member, at her home November 1, and many pretty, useful gifts were presented. Among those present, mostly members of the Parlor, were: Mesdames E. Fenton, J. Welde, P. Lassen, A. Anthes, A. Flanagan, L. Mack, M. Chenowith, M. Morris, E. Chenowith; Misses T. Bangston, E. Sullivan, M. Cassidy, I. Cassidy, M. Heidtman, S. Fenton, C. Lassen, L. Heidtman, Gertrude Ross.

To Entertain Soldier Boys.

San Jose—Curtis hall, decorated in all the festiveness of Hallowe'en, was the setting of the long-planned dance and social given by San Jose 81 October 28. The committee, under the capable chairmanship of Miss Jean Belloli, worked hard for this social and felt their labors rewarded when a large number of members and visitors responded. Especial interest was taken in this affair by Mrs. Lillie Lawrence, who is always ready to help in anything that is done for the good of the Order. The other members on the committee were Mrs. Muriel Blass, Mrs. Perle Johnson, Miss Mary Fisher, Mrs. Amelia Venturi, Mrs. Mary Newton, Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, Miss Helen Veit, Miss Mamie Delaney and Miss Lucy Fisher. A short program was enjoyed, and much fun was had over a grab-bag and fortune-telling, after which dancing and card playing were indulged in until a late hour. Refreshments appropriate to Hallowe'en were served in cafeteria style, in order to accommodate the large crowd.

November 28, the Parlor will entertain the convalescent soldiers in the hospital at Palo Alto. Grand Trustee Mary Frances Mitchell is very much interested in this matter, and is helping her committee to do everything possible to make the day

Trust Department in New and Larger Quarters

We are pleased to announce the opening of the new Trust Department Rooms of this bank.

To give suitable accommodations to this important department, the Bank leased the entire second floor of the Security Building at Fifth and Spring Streets. This has been opened through to the second floor of the Security Bank Building, adjoining.

The entire space has been remodeled and refinished, lined with white marble, furnished in mahogany. These are now unquestionably the largest and the most completely furnished and appointed quarters occupied by any Trust Company, or the Trust Department of any Bank, west of Chicago.

"Spooky Hour."

Calistoga—Early in July President Lillas A. Kelley of Calistoga 145 requested the marshal to hand each member a dated ticket, explaining that the dates were the times set for the several members to entertain the Parlor. Many enjoyable meetings resulted, and more surprises are coming. At the close of the meeting October 25 the lights suddenly went out, the door flew open, and in flew three ghosts, who fluttered about the room followed by a witch; many nervous screams and much laughter resulted. The witch, Mrs. Ruth Fuller Field, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and the adopted grandmother of the Parlor, asked all to gather close around her while she related the thrilling story of a couple of lovers; just when the interest was most intense the ghosts, simultaneously, popped inflated bags, to indicate the end. Calling for her magic kettle, the witch proceeded to brew; when, after a spell of silence, the cover was removed, out came a beautiful little silk American Flag, which the onlookers arose and saluted, and then a silken California Republic Flag, which was presented to the Parlor by the witch, and then a little State (Bear) Flag for every member present. All the "spooks" then removed their false-faces and were escorted to the adjoining room, where Mrs. Eta Coulter and Mrs. E. H. Kimball, hostesses of the evening, had prepared a fascinating repast; the decorations were emblematic of Hallowe'en and the tables were laden with goodies.

Grand President's December Itinerary.

Hollister—During the month of December, Grand President Bertha A. Briggs will officially visit the following Subordinate Parlors, on the dates noted:
1st—Minerva 2, San Francisco.
2nd—Oro Fino 9, San Francisco.
6th—Marinita 198, San Rafael.
7th—Las Lomas 72, San Francisco.
8th—Dolores 169, San Francisco.
10th—Orinda 56, San Francisco; Sea Point 196, Sausalito; joint meeting.
11th—Alta 3, San Francisco.
14th—El Vespero 118, San Francisco.
15th—Golden State 50, San Francisco.
16th—Buena Vista 68, San Francisco.

To Close Year With Masquerade.

Byron—Donner 193 gave a public card party October 29 which was such a social and financial success that it was decided to give a card party monthly during the winter. Arrangements are now being made, under the leadership of President Leatres Wightman, for a New Year Eve masquerade. Mabel Sherman Peterson, a bride, was the Parlor's guest of honor at a recent banquet. In the name of Donner Parlor, she was presented with a piece of silver.

Marrieds Entertain Singles.

San Francisco—Guadalupe 153 initiated a class of eight recently, after which the married members entertained the initiates and the single sisters at a delightful Italian supper which proved that the married "girls" are expert cooks. A program of piano selections by Mrs. E. E. Litzius and Mrs. A. Sullivan, recitations by Mrs. M. Blanchfield and vocal selections by Mabel Keith and Henriette Ravani, added to the evening's pleasure. The affair was a decided success, and the single sisters promised to return the compliment in the near future.

Guadalupe's members are now planning for the annual Thanksgiving dinner, always a gala event, announced for November 23. Great interest, too, is being taken in the homeless children banquet masquerade, set for November 24; Miss Anita Moroncelli, past president of the Parlor, has been chosen queen of the ball.

Given El Dorado County Souvenir.

Placerville—Grand President Bertha Adele Briggs officially visited Marguerite 12 October 22. The hall was prettily decorated, and light refreshments were served. After the regular business session the Grand President gave a short address, following which Sister Swansborough, in the Parlor's behalf, presented her with a souvenir of El Dorado County.

The program presented follows: Greeting, Ida Bailey; tribute to the Pioneers, Jessie Maynard; song, Sister Zlomke; reading, sketch of the life of Mrs. Fremont, whose enlarged picture was presented the Parlor by the late Judge Arnot of this city, Josie Beach; recitation, Marie Sharp; song, Nettie Leonard; tribute to The Flag, Jane McCusker.

Raises Goody Sum for Homeless.

Anderson—Camellia 41 gave a card party for the benefit of the homeless children fund October 29.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

HIGH COLLARED EFFECTS ARE BEING taken up by many smartly-dressed women. They seem rather consistent with the fall and winter season; at least, they afford a change from a contrast fashion that has held sway for many a year. The suits, particularly, emphasize the high neck finish, but the elevation of the collar is repeated on separate blouses and on frocks with excellent style effects.

There is the dress-coat of velvet, edged with a band of gray-squirrel, and with a line of buttons, made of the fur, following the band down the side fastening. The stock, of the velvet, is edged with fur, and a wide sash of moire is the fur color. This is an interesting study in bright blue and gray, and a combination of colors and materials that spells youth with a capital "Y."

More striking is the trotteur, with plaited skirt of Scotch plaid; the pattern is on the bias, and the fitted jacket-bodice is of duvetyn. The plaid introduces dark blue, leaf-brown and black; the duvetyn, of the dark shade, shows little wrinkles about the waist, where it is drawn into the curve of the body, and below the waist the material is cut away in a two-point effect. Silver buttons fasten the bodice, straight up the front, to where it is completed by a stock of the cloth, faced with a strip of the plaid.

This is an interesting season in the world of fashion, and looking around for style signs, one is rewarded by variety—everywhere something different, and always something smart. The woman of fashion may suit herself about many style details. The neck line may be round, square or "V," or the chic high-collar effect. Then, a tunic or drapery is equally fashionable for the skirt, and plaited models are very popular, especially styles with plaited sections.

The materials are suited to the styles, of which there are many designs. Rough mixtures are used for utility wraps, while the soft rich duvetyns and velours are more dressy. Tricotines and serges are practical for the straight-line dress, and the soft silks and satins fall naturally and gracefully into the lovely draped designs.

With the plainest, simplest black satin or crepe-de-chine frock you have, tie loosely about the waist a soft rolled or crushed sash with fringed edgings and touched with embroidery; then arrange dainty chiffon frills to hang from the short-cut sleeves, and you will be up-to-the-minute.

The design that is a bit different is most successful, and this season we find a new feature in the slip-on blouse with the novelty inverted "V" closing at the back. Then there are the smart flare sleeves, and the high-cut vest front in a chic style on the popular coat-dress lines; an ornamental metal belt is effectively worn with this. The well-dressed woman realizes the importance of detail in dress. Very often the turn of a cuff or twist of a ribbon makes a style worth remembering.

In winter, it is everyone's aim to be fur trimmed, for fur adds not only to real comfort at this season but also to the well-dressed appearance of the wearer. However, many of us must winter it without fur wraps, but we can trim with fur.

There are the cleverly-designed fur sets, quite within the reach of the home dressmaker, for herself or other members of the family. There is usually some old fur that can be remodeled into a good-looking up-to-date collar and cuff set for the suit, or into a scarf and muff set.

Ermine or other white fur is very youthful. Squirrel and beaver are other popular furs for young folks, and these are cleverly imitated in the fur cloths. The curly gray astrakhan is also pretty for the small girl, and rabbit is used extensively. Our small friends' winter coat has been given a smart collar and cuffs of fur cloth, closed with frogs or buttons and straps of braid. A tam-o-shanter, also of fur cloth, is most effective. So, you see, there are fur trimmed possibilities for most of us.

Black, by the way, is highly esteemed for evening wear. This may be due partly to the pronounced vogue of velvet and to the fact that black is always distinguished, when of rich material. Along with the black velvet, black satin crepes and black laces, of course, there are familiar greens, yellows and blues. Among the last, the sapphire blues are well thought of.

CHRISTMAS GIFT SUGGESTIONS.

Aren't you glad you did not throw away your old wool sweater or scarf? For the price of a dry cleaning, you can turn them into many useful things for the kiddies. A comfy pair of bed booties, for instance; and, just to celebrate Christmas, add a pretty featherbone stitching or scalloped finish to the edge, and a tiny rosette, made from some scraps of ribbon. Mittens and toboggan cap, too, make a pretty set. Worn places in the material may be attractively covered with a crocheted rose or a woolen tassel, a ribbon bowknot or frill, depending, of course, on where the worn parts are. Fuzzy dolls can also be made from odd pieces, with the eyes, nose and mouth worked on the face with floss or wool. Such a doll stands rough treatment; it can always be washed, and costs nothing.

Wash rags, cut oval and crocheted on the edges with a bit of color, and having a chain-stitched initial placed in the center, make useful gifts. Decorated candy boxes, enameled inside and out, with colored-paper decorations put on with glue and varnished, make pretty and durable remembrances, and have any number of uses.

Desk sets have a foundation of cardboard, the decorative designs being cut from colored pictures and covered with some transparent material. A piece of heavy cardboard and a bit of brocade make a pretty picture frame.

An attractive gift is a card table cover of linen, on which patchwork of red and black calico is outlined; a single black thread tape binds the corners, to tie the cover to the table; the edges are embroidered in black.

Distinctively new, is the patchwork luncheon set of coarse linen, with groups of fruit and leaves, in color, chain stitched across and around the edge in a single black outline. The tops of the baskets are heavily worked in a double outline.

The spirit of giving lends itself with enchantment to Christmas. Mere giving is not sufficient; the gift should reflect that spirit. The art of knowing how to give, lies in the happy selection of something useful, of something fitting to the individual. There are articles of all sorts shown in the shops—for the household or for personal adornment—some possessing great beauty and seeming almost a luxury, and others costing only a trifle but nonetheless charming. May you, reader, get the many things you like, and be saved much of the wear and tear of Christmas shopping. To all, heartiest wishes for a merry and joyful Christmastide.

The drying up a single tear has more of honest fame, than shedding seas of gore.—Lord Byron.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Hallowe'en motives were carried out in decorations and refreshments. It was a success, both socially and financially, and a check for $54.49 has been sent the Central Committee.

Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit to the Parlor September 21. After the business of the evening she gave a most interesting and instructive talk. She was the recipient of a useful gift from the Parlor, and flowers from the members.

Entertains Native Sons.

Hollister—At the county fair held during October members of Copa de Oro 105 and Fremont 44, N.S.G.W., had complete charge of all concessions. There were games for all—plenty of pep and plenty of jazz—with not a dull moment on the schedule.

October 22 Copa de Oro Parlor held a very successful card party for the benefit of the homeless children. A large number gathered to enjoy the evening, and handsome prizes were awarded to the woman and man having the highest score. The raffle of two handsome bouquets added to the receipts of the evening. October 29 the Parlor entertained the members of Fremont Parlor, N.S.G.W., at an elaborate Hallowe'en party. The hall was handsomely decorated with jackolanterns, corn stalks, witches, black and orange streamers. The spirits of the night held revel in the "ghost room," through which everyone was conducted upon entering the hall. Games appropriate to the evening were followed by the serving of coffee, sandwiches, pumpkin pie, and all kinds of fruits, served in the dim light of the jackolanterns.

Pioneers Entertained.

Nevada City—The Pioneers of Nevada Township gathered for their annual reunion October 30, as honored guests of Laurel 6 and Hydraulic 56, N.S.G.W. Everything was in keeping with the sunshiny autumn day mirrored in the hearts and in the faces of the Pioneers.

Miss Julia Sughrue, president Laurel Parlor, gave the address of welcome and graciously presided over a most enjoyable program, which was presented in the main hall. The music and recitations were in keeping with olden times, several of the vocal selections being rendered in costume. Superior Judge George L. Jones welcomed the Pioneers in behalf of the Native Sons.

After a short session, during which the old-timers interchanged greetings, the guests were escorted to the beautifully-decorated banquet-hall where, after enjoying the "spread," they listened to toasts and community singing and exchanged experiences. Toastmaster Frank Sughrue read a message from the pioneer schoolmaster, T. B. Gray, whose kindly greetings all Nevada citizens love to hear. A most pleasing conclusion to the afternoon's pleasure was the greeting from Past Grand President Alison F. Watt and her closing quotation:

"Just being friends is joy enough
If friends are made of proper stuff;
The tingling clasping of the hands,
The smile of one who understands;
Words in due season, or the calm
Of silence that is blessed balm—
I pledge, until this old world ends
The goodly folk who are good friends.
(Our Pioneers)."

Remarks Stimulate Interest.

Lincoln—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited Placer 138 October 21, when the ritual was exemplified in a manner that won her praise. Mrs. Briggs' remarks were most inspiring and will certainly help to stimulate interest in the Parlor's activities, and her pleasing manner won the hearts of all. Two visitors from Bay Side 204 (Oakland) were present. A banquet concluded the ceremonies.

with this program: Grand march, entire company of entertainers in costume; colonial dance, Maggie Simon, Susie Finley, accompanied by Mathilde Kork; original jazz band, Emma Doane, Lauretta Woollever, Agnes Kilcourse; recitation, "The Old Maid's Dream," Pearl Stoughton; sketch, "Our Version of the Courtship of Miles Standish," Kathryn Geary, Millie Tietjen; vocal solo, Johanna Meyer; fancy dance, Mary O'Rourke. A banquet, in honor of the members who walked in the Admission Day parade, followed.

Makes Liberal Donation.

Standish—At a recent meeting of Natanqua 152 a donation of $25 was unanimously voted to aid in the work of finding homes for homeless children.

Wins First Prize for Float.

Modesto—This city's golden jubilee celebration on Armistice Day was the occasion for a large and attractive parade. Morada 199 was awarded first prize of $100 for its beautiful float of poppies on which appeared handsomely-gowned members of the Parlor, representative of the state and the Order.

Class of Fourteen Initiated.

Manteca—There was a big attendance at the meeting of Phoebe A. Hearst 214, when a class of fourteen was initiated and Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit. Among the visitors was a delegation from Morada 199 (Modesto). In the banquet-room, a fine repast was served, several addresses were made, and Grand President Briggs gave some excellent advice.

Phoebe A. Hearst Parlor, in but eighteen months, has grown to a membership of sixty. It is not going to cease its progress, and its members hope that the seventy-five mark will be reached by the first of the year.

Reception Guest.

Alturas—Alturas 159 was officially visited by Grand President Bertha A. Briggs October 15. After the ritualistic work, she gave an interesting account of the activities of the Order and instructed the Parlor in its obligations to them. The Parlor presented Mrs. Briggs with silver spoons, and tendered her a reception at the home of D.D.G.P. Mrs. Violet K. Wylie.

Initiates Class of Ten.

San Francisco—Castro 178 initiated a class of ten young "live wires" November 10, and is already at work on another class for the Grand President's official visit. The new members, even before their initiation, showed their interest in the Parlor by expressing a desire to help at the bazar held November 20. D.D.G.P. Elizabeth Muller expressed herself pleased at the manner in which the ritual was exemplified. In the absence of Organist Mae Edwards, who is suffering with a badly sprained arm, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee graciously presided at the piano. A pleasant hour was spent in the banquet-room at the meeting's close.

A Red-Letter Day.

Grass Valley—The recent official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs to Manzanita 29 will long remain a red-letter day in the Parlor's annals. She was taken for a trip to the Empire gold mine, was guest of honor at a sumptuous supper-banquet, and at night was greeted by 110 members at the Parlor meeting, when two candidates were initiated. In a brief address to those assembled, the Grand President expressed the highest praise for the excellent manner in which the officers of Manzanita conferred the degree work and conducted the affairs of the Parlor. Immediately following the address, Mrs. Briggs was presented with a beautiful quartz ring, the gift of the Parlor, by President Aylene McGagin. D.D.G.P. Louise Wales and Past Grand President Alison F. Watt, who were in attendance, were presented with huge bouquets of beautiful flowers.

Following the Parlor meeting all were entertained by a number of the members with a clever and highly amusing minstrel show, which kept the assemblage in constant gales of laughter. The following made up the minstrel troupe: Interlocutor, Sadie Clauson; endowmen, Loretta Henwood, Zella Cumy, Margaret Nolan, May Frazer, Myrtle Lopez, Pearl Augiley; soloists, Rita Fuller, Esther Fuller, Zella Cumy; chorus, Ethel Foote, Marie Mitchell, Theresa Hoeking, Delia Collins, Audrey May.

Pioneers Entertained.

Red Bluff—God made a perfect day for Berendos 23's annual Pioneer reception October 23. These men and women look forward to this event from year to year as the only occasion when they may renew acquaintances and recall the stirring events of early days in wonderful California. One Pioneer present, Isaac Raglin, 97 years of age, is justly proud that he is still able to work. Lemuel H. D. Ide who, as a tiny child, came here in 1845, was the oldest Pioneer, in point of residence in the state, present; he is the only surviving member of the immediate family of William B. Ide of Bear Flag Party fame, and always attends the reunions; he resides on a portion of the once-famous Ide Grant, near this city.

During the afternoon this enjoyable program was presented: Welcome address, Miss Golda Schoenfeld; piano solo, Mrs. Henry C. Swain; violin solo, W. F. Noggle, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Maurice W. Duncan; reading, Mrs. T. F. Howell; vocal solo, Mrs. Fred S. Godbolt, Mrs. Duncan as pianist; account of the last Indian massacre in Tehama County, Pioneer J. M. Howell; presentation of photographic slides of California landmarks, Professor J. D. Sweeney. At the program's conclusion the guests formed in couples and marched to the banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated in Hallowe'en colors. Here a splendid dinner of creamed chicken and other good things was enjoyed at tables decorated with gaily-colored flowers. It was a happy crowd that departed from this year's reception; God grant that all, and others, may return as Berendos' guests next year. The committee in charge of the reception consisted of: Past Grand President Olive Bedford Matlock (chairman), Mesdames Emma Stoll, Nellie Schafer, Dora M. White, Emma G. Wiese, W. Harrington, Elizabeth Godbolt, and Miss Golda Schoenfeld. Assisting in receiving were Mesdames Naomi Baker Barrow, Otto Cunningham, Jenny Fish; Misses Elaine White, Faith Brooks, Madeline Pine.

October 19 Berendos Parlor initiated two candidates, making six initiates since the first of September; other candidates are in waiting, and many more names will be added to the membership-roll during the winter. President Dora M. White and Trustee Lillian Hammer entertained at this meeting with a "nut party," which was greatly enjoyed; the refreshments were delicious. November 2 Past Grand President Olive Bedford Matlock and Trustee Emma Stoll entertained.

Bazar and Dance Success.

Vallejo—A bazar and country store, followed by a dance, was held October 26 by Vallejo 195 and Vallejo 77, N.S.G.W., all members of which contributed something to be sold. The affair was much enjoyed, and a great success, and those who attended are looking forward to another similar event.

Names 1921 Grand Parlor Committee.

San Francisco—The committee appointed by Alta 3 for the homeless children masquerade consisted of Isabelle Pomeroy, honorary member of the joint committee, Maud Hnssey, president of the Parlor, and Past Presidents Margaret Grant and Sarah Ahern. The members of this committee showed a great deal of interest and worked hard for this most worthy cause. Alta's donation of $5 was used for a special prize. Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Past Grand President Margaret Hill and Marguerite Sullivan, members of Alta, are on the 1921 Grand Parlor Committee. Grand President Bertha A. Briggs will make her official visit to Alta Parlor December 11.

FARMS IN CALIFORNIA

SHOW INCREASE IN NUMBER.

According to figures given out by the Federal Census Bureau, California has a total of 117,690 farms, an increase of 29,493 since the 1910 census. Los Angeles leads the counties of the state in the number of farms, being credited with 12,446, 4,527 more than in 1910.

Fresno County comes next, having 8,916 farms in 1920 and 6,245 in 1910; then Sonoma County, with 5,739 in 1920 and 4,772 in 1910. Then follow, in order, these counties having more than 2,000 farms each:

|                      | 1920  | 1910  |
|----------------------|-------|-------|
| Stanislaus .....     | 4,566 | 2,687 |
| San Joaquin .....    | 4,500 | 3,286 |
| Orange .....         | 4,188 | 3,165 |
| San Bernardino ..... | 4,023 | 2,949 |
| Riverside .....      | 3,948 | 688   |
| San Diego .....      | 3,200 | 2,298 |
| Sacramento .....     | 2,975 | 1,601 |
| Imperial .....       | 2,843 | 438   |
| Butte .....          | 2,219 | 1,500 |
| Kern .....           | 2,020 | 1,167 |

San Francisco City and County, according to the census report, has but 98 farms; in 1910 it had 157, and 304 in 1900, thus indicating that city's growth. San Francisco County's area is very limited, hence the city's expansion steadily decreases the land devoted to farming.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS AND HELP COMBAT WHITE PLAGUE.

From November 25 until Christmas Eve, the health and happiness of many thousands in California will rest in the balance. For this is the time of the year when the California Tuberculosis Association, through its local associations and hundreds of unselfish supporters, places on sale the little Christmas seals from the proceeds of which the battle against the white plague has been carried on.

Every letter or package mailed in California in that space of time that bears one of the little Christmas seals inclines the balance on the side of health and happiness and gives each and every user of the little seal the thrill of having contributed his "bit" toward making California and the country at large a better place to live in. What better way could "Peace on earth, good will to all" be expressed?

"KIDS" IN QUANTITY—In number, the school-children of Los Angeles City would constitute a good-sized city—one considerably larger, in fact, than any in California other than San Francisco and Oakland. Enrollment in the public schools during October was 114,802, an increase, compared with October 1919, of 14,872.

HOPE THEY DO!—"It may be true that the profiteers will now get what is coming to them," says an exchange. They have already gotten what was not coming to them, by robbing The People of millions while the authorities looked complacently on.

In Memoriam

HENRY PRATT.

Whereas, The Angel of Death has taken one of Fresno's foremost citizens, namely, Henry Pratt, the dearly beloved brother of our Brother Fred Pratt, a loyal member of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, N.S.G.W., and we tenderly condole with Brother Fred Pratt and the bereaved families in their hour of trial and affliction; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of this Parlor extend to Brother Fred Pratt and the bereaved families our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement; and be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon our minutes and a copy sent to Brother Fred Pratt, and that the same be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the official organ of our Order.

EDGAR E. ALLEN.

To the Officers and Members of Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216, N.S.G.W.: We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence and respect to our departed brother, Edgar E. Allen, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, In the infinite wisdom of Almighty God, our brother and friend, Edgar E. Allen, has passed on to his eternal rest; and whereas, in the passing of Brother Allen, Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216, has lost one of its brothers, the Order a loyal Native Son, and his family a loving husband and father; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216, Native Sons of the Golden West, mourns the passing of this gentle, kindly, good man, our friend and brother; expresses its sympathy to the wife and loved ones of our departed brother; and places the charter in mourning for a period of thirty days; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, a copy be sent to the wife of our deceased brother, a copy published in the "Palo Alto Times," and a copy published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

A GREAT VICTORY FUNDS BADLY NEEDED TO "CARRY ON"

THE LOS ANGELES COUNTY ANTI-Asiatic Association, with small finances but an immense amount of genuine American enthusiasm, won a great battle at the polls November 2, Proposition One (Alien Land Law) receiving 181,096 votes in Los Angeles County; against the measure, 64,125 were cast. Not only are the active workers in the association—many of whom devoted unlimited time to the cause for months—delighted at the result of the ballot, but they are overjoyed that the campaign grew so warm that it smoked out many of the white-Japs—those dollar-worshipping citizens who would do any bidding of the yellow-Japs just to get their hands into the well-filled coffers of the latter.

The victory was won, despite the efforts of the pro-Jap "Times" which, at the eleventh hour and for reasons best known to the management of that always-wrong-in-principle paper, advised its readers to vote "No." The "Times" does not like the initiative or the referendum, preferring that the Legislature alone shall have the power to make laws. For years, it met with some little success in browbeating the legislators to do its bidding, but since The People have come into power the "Times" influence has been nil.

The victory was won, despite the fact that a few "big" businessmen—big only when measured by the dollar-rod—who are exacting exorbitant rentals from the Japs and otherwise getting their clutches on yellow money, permitted their names to be used as "The American Committee of Justice" and attached to "Fair Play" and other yellow-Jap propaganda advertisements that contained, mostly, deliberate lies.

The victory was won, despite the fact that both yellow-Japs and white-Japs joined in a desperate effort to mislead the voters. The yellow-Japs had unlimited finances, spending in Los Angeles County alone not less than $100,000, and so, had no difficulty in "converting" American citizens into becoming servants of the mikado. Even the Jap consul, encouraged by the white-Japs, engaged in the combat to defeat the measure, this fact being set forth in affidavits now in the hands of the Federal Secretary of State.

Yes, it was a great victory—one in which The People triumphed over a combined army of mikado-worshipping aliens and dollar-worshipping citizens. The Grizzly Bear is glad that it had the opportunity to aid in bringing about that victory, and is delighted to have received, under date of November 9, this letter of appreciation from the Los Angeles County Anti-Asiatic Association, which directed the splendid and successful campaign against the white-Japs and yellow-Japs, and to which every patriotic citizen who believes in keeping California white is indebted:

"The Los Angeles County Anti-Asiatic Association is under great obligation to The Grizzly Bear Magazine and to its editor for the invaluable assistance rendered in securing the passage of the Alien Land Bill and thus maintaining the supremacy of the White Race in California.

"This Association is not unmindful of the fact that The Grizzly Bear Magazine for more than two years has waged an uncompromising and relentless campaign against the 'peaceful penetration' of California by the Japanese; nor that you, Mr. Editor, aided not only with your editorial pen but gave hour after hour, day in and day out, as a member of the Board of Directors of this Association, of your time to the success of our fight.

"The patriotic stand of The Grizzly Bear Magazine and its editor is an everlasting memorial to the love and devotion and sacrifice of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West not only for California, but for America and the entire White Race.

"This Association wishes, therefore, to go on record in this manner to show its appreciation of what The Grizzly Bear Magazine and its editor have done, and hopes that, now, the voice of California may be heard and respected even to the utmost confines of our great country, and that through the efforts of an aroused public conscience needed national legislation and treaty revision may be had, to the end that Orientals may be made to understand that America is a sovereign state."

FUNDS BADLY NEEDED.

The Los Angeles County Anti-Asiatic Association is sorely in need of finances, not only to meet some obligations that had to be created in the November campaign, but to continue the fight against the Japs. Although the Alien Land Law was adopted, every effort will be made—in fact, is being put forth right now—by the yellow-Japs to thwart the will of The People. The Association has rendered good service in a just cause, and is anxious to continue the fight against the Japs to the end—until the mikado's "peaceful invasion" is completely and permanently checked.

To "carry on" requires money. The prize at stake in this contest—California—and the service already rendered by the Association, should draw something, if but one American dollar—for no yellow money is wanted—from the pocket of every patriotic citizen. The Grizzly Bear will be glad to receive contributions; just address to, or leave at, 315 Wilcox Building, with the statement "to keep California white," and the amount will go into the Association's treasury.—C. M. H.

Bank Changes Name.

The Home Hibernian Bank, a recent merger of the Home and Hibernian Savings Banks, has changed its name to California Bank. The main banking rooms are located at Eighth and Broadway, while there are fifteen branches conveniently located throughout the city. The personnel of officers remains the same.

Parlors Consolidated.

By the consolidation of La Esperanza 24, N.D.G.W. (Los Angeles) with Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W. (Long Beach), the following are now members of the latter Parlor: Gabie Blight, Josephine Burns, Past Grand President Eva R. Bussanien, Estelle H. Campbell, Ysabel C. Campbell, Emma L. Diller, Leonora J. Dodd, Feliciano Garcia, Hermenia Garcia, Selma D. Gibson, Amanda Gillman, Rose Green, Eliza P. Houghton, Nell Hubbell, Dollie Ilyams, Nettie Maricich, Jessie D. Newham, Gertrude Paulsen, Mary J. Perdue, Margaret P. Shanahan, Teresa Shinogle, Julia Wartenburg, Charlotte C. Wharton.

N. Ds. Will Give Whist.

Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W., will give its monthly card party for December at the home of Mrs. Frank Haven. All Native Sons and Native Daughters and their friends are invited, and are assured an evening of enjoyment. Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments served.

Five candidates were initiated at a recent meeting, and after the ceremonies refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Robinson. Applications for membership are being filed at every meeting. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoerner was a welcome attendant at the meeting November 18, having been away for some time.

Holidays Interfered.

Holidays interfered with the November operations of Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., both Armistice Day and Thanksgiving coming on Thursday, the Parlor's meeting night. Several applications for membership are on file, and others in prospect, so that a class initiation will be had some time during December.

December 2 officers for the January-July term will be nominated, to be followed the 9th by election. The Parlor is arranging a program of social events, which will start shortly after the advent of 1921 and continue until the summer vacation season.

New Police Chief Reception Guest.

Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., keeps adding new names to its membership-roll right along, and at an early date will begin an intensive drive for members, winding up with a big class initiation. Officers for the January-July term will be elected December 3. There's something doing every Friday night, after the Parlor meeting, in the clubrooms.

Telephone Company Must Have Increased Rates

Because of the phenomenal growth of Los Angeles—more than 24,000 building permits having already been issued this year, indicating an increase in population of 100,000—the Southern California Telephone Company, faced today with unfilled orders for 9,000 telephones—and the number daily increasing—finds itself unable to cope with the situation, unless given relief in the way of more operating revenue. This revenue is needed to meet operating expenses and to return an earning which will permit the Company's credit to be so established that capital may be procured to make extensions.

When, on November 4, 1916, the Home and Pacific systems in Los Angeles were merged and the properties taken over by the Southern California Telephone Company, the new owners agreed that for five years there would be no increase in rates for service. The Company has continued, under that agreement, to operate at a financial loss, but now, confronted with the impossibility of continuing to give the sort of telephone service that Los Angeles, because of its size and importance, demands, at the present low service rates, has taken the necessary steps to have the rates slightly advanced, the raise to become effective a year hence, when the five years will have elapsed; or, to be more explicit, November 4, 1921.

The Company's announced intention has, as was expected would be the case, been productive of some opposition, mostly, however, among those unfamiliar with conditions affecting the Company, and on the part of those who hold steadfastly, in the face of unquestioned facts, to the erroneous belief that public service corporations are not entitled to the same consideration, in the making of rates for service, willingly accorded corporations, firms and individuals in the fixing of charges in all other lines of endeavor. The claims for higher rates are based on "cold facts," which have been laid before the California State Railroad Commission, the rate-making body. Speaking for the Southern California Telephone Company, N. R. Powley, Commercial Superintendent, says:

"The people are paying the same telephone rates now as in 1914, and for those same rates have available 145,000 telephones—nearly three times as many as six years ago. Also, in 1914, with two competing systems rendering a divided service, the city had a combined total of 120,000 telephones, or 25,000 less than now available to its citizens by paying twice the rate now paid. This is the people's service; the company is in a serious condition, and it is their obligation to appreciate it, remembering what the service means to them, what reliance they place on it, and what a vital part it plays in the every-hour life of the community.

"As our present credit and resources will expire November 4, 1921, it is absolutely necessary for us to now insist upon a determination of our future status. Because we have kept faith as to rates, our subscribers are the only ones in the country who have continuously received telephone service at pre-war rates. We have asked the California Railroad Commission to consider the inadequacy of our present revenue and to approve a rate schedule, effective November 4, 1921, which will meet our requirements. We are asking only for rates which will yield a fair return on the actual investment; rates that will make it possible for us to procure financial aid, so that permanency, extension and improvement of the business and service will continue to obtain.

"The property of the Southern California Telephone Company is now being operated and kept at its full efficiency without even a penny of profit; in fact, it is experiencing a daily loss. That that condition can continue, is unthinkable. We are not now breaking faith, but are taking precaution so that, when our financial backing is withdrawn in November of next year, we will not be helpless."

casian being a reception for Chief of Police Lyle Pendegast. The chief made an address, in the course of which he outlined his plans and asked the co-operation of the membership, which was promised, with applause. Numerous speakers extended their congratulations, among them being W. H. Hunsaker, J. J. Concanon, R. L. Hanley and J. D. Taggart, while President Arthur E. Hamilton spoke for the entire membership.

Two Events for December.

To further interest in a membership drive now under way, Corona 196, N.S.G.W., will have an open meeting December 6, when a good program will be presented and refreshments served. All members of the Order, and particularly the old-timers of the Parlor, are urged to attend and to bring along an eligible.

December 20, the Parlor will initiate a large class of candidates, the ceremonies to be followed by a banquet. It is planned to have the ritual team of the Past Presidents' Association exemplify the work at that time.

The Death Record.

Jonathan Waldo Hanby died at Bishop, Inyo

County, at the age of 75. Surviving are the widow and five children, among them Justice J. Walter Hanby (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.).

Joseph B. Banning, brother of Hancock Banning (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), passed away November 4 at the age of 59.

Mrs. Caroline Lazard, a resident of Los Angeles ever since her arrival, via the Horn, in 1854, passed away November 23 at the age of 75. Surviving are four children, among them S. A. and Dr. E. M. Lazard (both Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.).

Mrs. Emily J. Aubury, native of Florida, died November 16 at the age of 80, survived by two sons. With her parents, Chas. A. and Ruth Tweed, she came to California via the Isthmus in 1852, the family settling in Sacramento, where she married Elliott Aubury. From the early '60s until 1870 she resided in Dutch Flat, Placer County, returning in the latter year to Sacramento, where she became identified with the public schools as a teacher. In 1876 Mrs. Aubury came to Los Angeles, where she taught school for some years, and was also interested in mining.

CHINESE RIOT AND MASSACRE IN LOS ANGELES

Judge R. M. Widney

ANY ACCOUNTS OF THE GREAT Chinese riot and massacre in Los Angeles City, November 24, 1871, have appeared in print at different times, mostly written by persons who were not present, and who obtained very fragmentary and incorrect information from various sources. The writer was present during most of the occurrences, from about 6 p. m. until the termination, about 11 p. m., and was very actively engaged in rescuing Chinese from the rioters. Subsequently, in December, 1871, he was appointed judge of the District Court of the Seventeenth Judicial District, in and for the Counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino.

Some ten or more persons were indicted by the grand jury, and charged with unlawfully killing Chinese in that riot. All of these were tried before me, and many witnesses were examined. In this way I obtained as full and correct knowledge of the facts as it was possible for any one to get.

There was a vast excited crowd on that occasion—estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000 persons—in the streets, an unknown number of whom, but very many, were regarded as rioters. The individuals in this crowd were rushing here and there and changing locality so frequently, that no one person saw any other one continuously, and probably only a few times during the evening, from about 6 p. m. to 11 p. m. For that reason, no one can give any correct account of what any other did during the evening. Each person can tell what he did, or saw, but cannot possibly give the complete record of any other person. For that reason I cannot state what others did.

I have frequently been asked to give an account of what I did and saw, but owing to the fact that I was so conspicuously engaged in bringing the riot to a termination, that it would seem very egotistical for me to fully write just what I did, and, for that reason, I have always declined. But, owing to many inaccurate published statements I will now state the facts as I personally saw and participated in them, and as they were disclosed in court by the witnesses under oath.

Cause of the Riot and Massacre.

For some time prior there had been a bitter struggle between two Chinese factions over the possession of a Chinese slave woman. At one time one of the factions took her as far as Santa Barbara. The other faction swore out a warrant for her arrest on the charge of stealing jewelry, and had her arrested and returned to Los Angeles. This was a trick to dispossess the other faction.

As she was taken through the streets of Los Angeles to the jail in a hack the two factions, fully armed, ran along on each side of the hack to the jail, which was then on the corner of Spring and Franklin streets. A battle in the streets, between the rival factions, was averted by an active and determined police force, which then consisted of only a few persons.

That evening, about 5 p. m., Officer Jesus Bilderrain went to the old Coronal building to arrest some Chinamen. The building was an old adobe one-story house, roofed with brea, and extended across the upper end of Los Angeles street, from where the Pico house is to Nigger alley, a narrow extension of the easterly side of Los Angeles street northward. An alley lay between where the Pico house is and the Coronal building, the Plaza being on the north side. The Coronal building was, therefore, bounded on all four sides with open thoroughfares. This building was wholly occupied by Chinese and really was their headquarters.

The accompanying article, telling of the Chinese riot and massacre in Los Angeles City nearly a half-century ago, is of historic value and of special interest at this time because of the lynchings at Santa Rosa recently. Both affairs were the direct results of murderous attacks upon officers of the law. The Grizzly Bear is indebted to Judge R. M. Widney, who helped to quell the riot and also presided at the trial of the offenders, for the story of the outbreak.

Also, to H. C. Lichtenberger, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W., and deputy clerk of Los Angeles County who, for the purpose of preserving the names of the persons, the court data and the dates connected with this historic event, made an exhaustive search of the records, and his findings are recorded here. Many of the men mentioned were at the time of the riot or massacre, or later became, prominently identified with the development of Los Angeles City.—Editor.

As Officer Bilderrain went to make the arrests he called to Robert Thompson to assist him. They went to this Coronal building, and entered through a doorway opening onto Los Angeles street near the Arcadia block. They entered a narrow, dark hallway, and had proceeded about ten feet when they were fired upon by the Chinese. Robert Thompson was mortally wounded, and Officer Bilderrain was shot through the shoulder, but managed to get out. He took Thompson, in a dying condition, with him to the sidewalk, where he immediately expired.

The Storm Rises.

News of the killing of Thompson and the wounding of Officer Bilderrain spread, as usual, like wildfire, especially among the downtown lower element. By 6 p. m. several thousand people had collected around the Coronal building. Many were armed with guns and pistols, and they were firing into the doors and windows of the building.

At this time I was returning from my residence, near the corner of Main and Fourth streets, to my office in the Downey block, where the Federal building now stands, on the corner of Spring and Temple streets. I had reached a point on the westerly sidewalk of Main street where the Bullard block now stands, then known as the Court House or old Market House. Caleb Fay, who was on the opposite sidewalk, called to me and said, "They are killing all of the Chinese off!" I supposed he was joking, and made some light reply. Again he said, "It is a fact; don't you hear them shooting?" My attention thus directed, I heard the rapid cracking of guns, like firecrackers, and said, "Why, that is the Chinese celebrating with firecrackers."

By this time he had crossed over the street to me and told about the killing of Robert Thompson and the wounding of Officer Bilderrain, the collection of the mob, and of the attack going on at the Coronal building, from where he had just come. He was the secretary of the Law and Order Party, which had recently been organized by business and law-abiding citizens to co-operate with the officers of the law in suppressing criminal violations of the law, which had become intolerable. No unlawful acts were participated in by this organization, and by lawful methods the criminal element had been very materially restrained from violence and crime. As I was president of the organization, I personally know whereof I speak.

In the conversation above referred to with Fay, I asked him if any of the Law and Order Party were engaged in the attack on the building. He replied he thought not. I then told him to go back among the attacking crowd and give a rally signal for any members to at once report to him and to give my order that they all immediately collect at the corner of the Arcadia block, on Los Angeles street, and that I would meet them there to give further orders. He immediately returned on this mission.

I at once went to my office in the Downey block to get my Colt's navy revolver, which I kept in my drawer as a matter of safety in case of emergency. I had originally purchased the revolver in San Francisco in 1865, on my way to the State of Nevada, where, for some two years, I traveled over the unsettled mining areas of that state, then infested with roaming bands of hostile Indians. I still have that revolver in my possession—No. 160,604. On arrival at my office I found the revolver missing, also a 45-caliber, single-shot, breech-loading pistol. At once I repaired to the corner of the Arcadia block and found Fay and eight or ten of the Law and Order men waiting for me. I asked them if there were any others of the party among the crowd attacking the building. They replied, none that they could find.

At this time I met Sheriff James F. Burns, who was actively occupied in devising means for stopping the riot. He said that his force was wholly inadequate, and that most of his deputies were then in the country in pursuit of some criminals. I at once offered myself and the members of the party present to co-operate with him. I suggested that we take our force and place them in a long, thin line around the building, between the rioters and the building, and then for him to announce to the crowd that he, as sheriff, had surrounded the building and held under arrest all of the occupants, and to call upon the crowd to reinforce his line of men and for the rest of the crowd to disperse.

CORNER BUENA VISTA AND TEMPLE STS.

This plan was adopted, and we had just started up the alley next to the Pico house and were entering it, when a shout was raised that the rioters had broken in the doors and were dragging out the Chinese. This at once changed the plan. Without any words Sheriff Burns hurried down into that crowd, and I did not again see him until about 11 p. m., at the corner of Spring and Temple streets.

Riot Changes to Massacre.

A moment later a crowd of rioters, having several Chinese in tow, started up Arcadia street toward Main street. Another crowd, also having Chinese in tow, were proceeding down Los Angeles street. Of what occurred subsequently, on Los Angeles street, I have no personal knowledge. Witnesses in court before me, as judge, testified that some twenty Chinese were hanged by the mob on Los Angeles street below Commercial street, at what was then John Goller's wagon shop.

As the crowd of rioters going up Arcadia street met me I went among them and said to the ones holding Chinamen, "What are you going to do with them, where are you going with them?" Evasive replies were made, but finally they said, "We are going to take them to the jail." I said, "All right, go on!"

But, being suspicious of their intentions, I kept with them, near the Chinamen. We went up Arcadia street, along Main, to the junction of Temple street. Here they turned up Temple street, instead of continuing on Spring street to the jail. I immediately interfered, and the rioters at once declared that they were going to hang the Chinese at the old Thomlinson corral, which was at the corner of Temple and Buena Vista streets. This corral had a wide, double-gate entrance, with gate posts about twelve feet high and a cross beam of about 8 x 8. The rioters were armed, and were very outspoken in their threats to kill me if I attempted to interfere. Years of experience on the great buffalo range and as a trapper in the Rocky Mountains in following years—long before the white occupation or cowboy times—and in the early days of Nevada mining camps, had convinced me that words were useless with such rioters. As I had no arms to enforce a demand, I followed along with them, watching for some opening for successful action.

They arrived at the corral, produced ropes, and were making ready to hang. Among the victims was a fourteen-year-old boy, whom I felt confident must be innocent. Again I mixed in the crowd of rioters and protested. A large, foreign-born person, apparently a miner, was very officious and leader of the rioters. He thrust his revolver in my face and threatened to shoot if I interfered. As I could do nothing while unarmed, I returned to the crowd of spectators, who stood on the opposite side of Buena Vista street. I walked among them, calling out, "Has any one here a revolver? Will some one let me have a revolver?" Several answered that no one was armed. It was my intention, if I could get a pistol, to go back to the crowd of rioters and at least stop the hanging of the boy.

At this moment the Chinese were swung up over the gate beam. After a few minutes the crowd of rioters started back down Temple street. I kept close to them, among the leaders, listening to their talk and to their plans. "We will hang all of the Chinese in town!" was their declaration.

By this time we had reached the junction of Temple and Spring streets. Here we met a surging mass of excited people, extending northward on Main street as far as the present Baker block. In this vast crowd I noticed many active centers, indicating rioters having Chinese. One group was already at the corner of Temple and Spring streets, and was defecting towards Temple street. I knew what that meant, and that a general massacre of those innocent, as well as guilty, was under way. I saw that unless very decisive and prompt action was taken many innocent Chinese would be killed. I fully recognized the danger of stopping it in the only way such things can be stopped.

That I was only fairly started in business, had very little property to leave for my family, the almost certain event of my death from the vast crowd of rioters who had already tasted blood, and that the legal responsibility did not rest on me to throw my life away to stem the tide, all passed rapidly through my mind. But the voice of Humanity called, even if the victims were a despised foreign race in a foreign land. I decided to act, although I knew the awful risk. I laid life aside, and mentally said to myself, "You are dead; there is nothing to lose; it only remains to see what you can do before a bullet or a knife thrust makes the end."

Rioters Intercepted.

Standing on the Downey block curb, on the corner of Spring and Temple streets, I said, aloud, to the bystanders, "Let us go in and stop this massacre!" Joseph Lazzarovich, standing near by, said, "You lead out, and we will follow." He was one of the Law and Order Party, several of whom, it seems, had kept close to me from the start at the Arcadia block, ready for action. I handed a small cane I had to Vincent Hoover, who was near me, and asked him to keep it for me. Immediately I went into the crowd of rioters, about ten feet distant, followed by Lazzarovich and two or three others whom I did not know. They holted through the rioters, seized hold of the Chinaman and tried to pull him away from the rioters. I wanted a gun, and knew from experience that I must have one.

A young man, standing nearby, had a single-barreled shotgun. I took hold of it and asked him if it was loaded; he said it was not. I replied, "I do not want it." I decided to take a revolver from one of the rioters in the crowd contending for the possession of the Chinaman. One of these was the same man who had thrust his revolver in my face at the corral and threatened to shoot me. At that time he had his revolver pointed close to the head of Lazzarovich, threatening to kill him. I decided to take the pistol from him. Approaching him closely, I planned to grasp the cylinder and hammer of his revolver with my right hand, so that it could not be discharged in the scuffle; with my left hand I would seize the pistol barrel and, with the proper twist, either he would release his hold or I would dislocate his wrist and thus release the revolver.

When in the act of making the seizure, a voice behind me said, "Is this you, Robert?" I recognized the voice of my brother, W. W. Widney, then a young man of about nineteen years. I said in a low tone, "Have you a revolver?" He said,

"Yes." "Give it to me, quick," and I reached my right hand past my left side and received the pistol. I said, "Is it loaded?" He said, "Yes." "Is it loaded all round?" "Yes," he replied. "Have you my single-barreled pistol?" "Yes." "Is it loaded?" "Yes." "Then you stand behind me, and if anyone attempts to shoot or knife me from behind, shoot him, but do not shoot unless it is necessary."

Now, being ready and armed to operate, I turned to the rioters. The pulling adverse ways on the Chinaman was likely to dislocate his limbs, so I said to Lazzarovich, "Don't pull. Hold still a moment," which he did. The rioter with the revolver, referred to, was about two feet in front of me, with his pistol leveled at Lazzarovich's head, threatening to shoot him. I took a firm hold on the right-hand lappel of his coat and vest, stepped back arm's length, and jerked him loose from the Chinaman and brought him face to face with me, at the same time shoving my revolver against his breast over his heart. "Get out, or I will kill you!" I said, in a low tone of voice. He understood. Instantly his face was white as a sheet. He turned and fled to the sidewalk, without a moment's hesitation. No human being ever mistakes the tone of voice that has irrevocably decided to kill.

I then took hold of the next rioter in the same manner and did the same to him as to the first one. And each rioter was served in the same way, and hurried to the sidewalk. In a few seconds there were no rioters holding the Chinamen, and I told Lazzarovich and the others with him to go on to the jail. I asked my brother to go with them and act as a rear guard, as it might be necessary to prevent a recapture. This he did all the rest of the evening. The way up Spring street was clear, and there was a temporary lull of a somewhat ominous character.

Anticipating that when the rioters saw only two or three unarmed persons were in custody of the rescued victim, they would make a rush to take or kill the Chinaman, I walked as an additional rear guard, keeping my face to the crowd at Temple street. About twenty rioters had collected on the west side of the street, on the sidewalk in front of where the International bank now is, and were holding a hurried consultation. One of them called out, "Let us take that Chinaman and kill him, and kill any damned fellow that interferes!"

Instantly the rush was on. They formed a single line abreast, extending from the easterly side of Spring street to the Temple block, and came on in a run. I knew this was the test crisis, and that on the outcome depended the fate of many innocent persons. If they succeeded in retaking and killing the Chinaman, they could not thereafter be stopped in their work of death.

As the line came on, I advanced to meet them. Covering the most advanced ones with my revolver, and stepping towards them, in particular, I said, "Stop, or I will kill the first man that passes!" The leaders halted. I swung my revolver slowly along the line to the right, with the same words, "Stop, or I will kill the first one that passes!" The line wavered, halted, and retired to the sidewalk corner. One man, however, evidently decided to try and slip by and kill the Chinaman. He edged to the Temple block and crouched low down in the dark shadow of the building and was pushing past. At once I moved over to him and ordered him to stop. He had his revolver in his hand. As he pressed on, I crowded him to the wall, shoved my revolver against his head, released my thumb from the hammer and dropped my trigger finger from in front of the guard to a position in front of the trigger, where it requires only a fraction of a second to shoot. "Stop, or I will kill you!" He stopped, straightened up, and moved his pistol hand as if getting ready to shoot. He saw he was covered, took in the situation, and retreated to his crowd on the sidewalk.

By this time Lazzarovich and the others had returned from the jail, where they had deposited the Chinaman. Another crowd of rioters had arrived at the junction of Spring and Temple streets with other Chinese. The gang of rioters already referred to, standing on the sidewalk, said, "We will hang these Chinamen, and kill any damned man that interferes," and rushed down to meet the coming crowd. When they reached Temple street Lazzarovich and the others stood quietly waiting until I said, "All right now." They then stepped in, took hold of the Chinaman and waited.

Riot Quelled.

I then took one rioter after another, as before, jerked him loose from the Chinaman, shoved the revolver against him, saying, "Get out, or I will kill you!" Not one hesitated a second, but went at once. Each rioter was served in the same way. When freed from the rioters, Lazzarovich and the others took the Chinamen to the jail. After acting in each case as a temporary rear protection I would return to the junction at Temple and Spring streets, to head off any attempts to go up Temple street, before Lazzarovich and the others returned.

After, in this manner, having rescued twenty-one Chinese, there was a lull in arrivals. However, after waiting a few minutes, I observed a center of commotion on Main street, about the junction of Commercial street. It moved forward, backward, sideways, but seemed to make no advance. Leaving Lazzarovich and the others at Temple and Spring streets, I started down to see what the trouble was. On the way I met Captain C. W. Thom, who was then the prosecuting attorney. He said, "Widney, what are you doing with that revolver?" I replied, "I am stopping this massacre." He replied, "All right, go ahead."

On arrival at the center of the commotion referred to, I found S. W. Caswell and William Bettis, a deputy constable, struggling violently with rioters, in an effort to rescue a Chinaman. They were both unarmed, and it was a pulling contest, at the expense of the terrified Chinaman. I at once stepped in, drew Bettis to one side, and said, "Let them go to the Temple street corner and we will take care of them." He hesitated a moment, and then acquiesced. I did the same with Caswell, and then pushed the rioters and Chinaman on towards Spring and Temple streets and told them to go on. They seemed unphased, but after a slight hesitation went on. As outsiders interfered, I quietly said, "Just wait until we get to Temple street; it is all right."

So, we had quite an orderly procession to Temple street. I waited to see what street the rioters would take, Spring or Temple. They swung up towards Temple. I spoke to Lazzarovich and the others. They promptly took hold of the Chinaman, while I pulled off each rioter in the manner heretofore stated. This was the last of the Chinese brought our way. Twenty-two in all, men, women and children, were thus rescued and landed in the jail for safety. Not a Chinaman was killed on our line after we started.

As this last Chinaman was rescued, Captain C. W. Thom, the prosecuting attorney, addressed a few words to the crowd, telling them to go home. At this time Sheriff Burns came from some other part of the disturbance, and also made some remarks, which I did not hear distinctly enough to know what he said. I spoke to him and said it was ended in this locality, and suggested that he place the Coroner building under guard until morning. He said that he had already done so. I also said to him that I thought that it was all over and I would go home, which I did, as it was quite late, about 11 p. m. On arrival at home, I received a mild chiding for being out so late, but not wishing to alarm or excite the members of the family, I said nothing about what had occurred.

I have not attempted to tell what others did, because I do not know. Each one can only give an account of his acts, and what he saw, and cannot speak reliably for others.

The evidence at the trial of the indicted rioters, before me as judge of the District Court, showed that some twenty-one or twenty-two Chinese were hanged at John Coler's wagon shop veranda on Los Angeles street. Of personal events at that place, I know nothing, and would not attempt to speak for others, as I might do them an injustice.

I wish to say that Lazzarovich, W. W. Widney and the two or three others who acted with me in the rescue work of that occasion deserve the highest praise for cool, fearless action. Not one of them showed the least nervousness, excitement or haste. Each one seemed as indifferent to danger as if he were transacting an ordinary every-day affair.

I regret that I do not know the names of the others who acted in the rescue work, as it would be a great pleasure to me to know them, and to mention their names. But owing to the darkness, and the fact that my attention was centered on quickly-passing events, I did not identify the persons.

FAULTY INDICTMENT SAVES THOSE CONVICTED

(H. C. LICHTENBERGER.)

No event in the early history of the City of Los Angeles created the international sensation that did the massacre known as the Chinese riot, which occurred November 24, 1871. Starting at 6 o'clock in the evening, it was nearly midnight before the disturbance was quelled. Seven Chinamen were hung by the mob, but it is not known how many more were shot, or died from wounds following the riot. The names of those hung were Chee Long Tong, a Chinese doctor, Tang Wan, Day Kee, Ah Choy, Chau Wan, Lung Quan and Wa Sin Quai.

Immediately following the disturbance a special grand jury was called together, and after a thorough investigation and the examination of many witnesses indicted fifteen persons for murder. Those named in the indictment were Edmund Crawford, Refugio Botilla, Ramon Dominguez, Adolf Celis, I. G. Scott, John Doe Alvarado, Richard Roe Doland, L. F.

NATIVE SONS' HISTORY FELLOWS IN SPAIN

Arthur S. Aiton, J. Lloyd Meeham

INTEREST OF THE ORDER OF Native Sons of the Golden West in promoting research for California material in foreign archives has been exceeded only by the efforts of the Order in the marking and preserving of historic landmarks in California. As early as April, 1909, this interest took tangible form by the appointment at the Grand Parlor in Marysville of a committee to investigate the possibility of founding a chair in California history at the University of California. At the next meeting of the Grand Parlor, held at Lake Tahoe in June, 1910, the committee reported, on the basis of a conference with the late Prof. H. Morse Stephens, head of the History Department at the University of California, that, instead of a chair, two annual fellowships for the study of California history at its sources in Spain and elsewhere, be endowed. Finally, in June, 1911, at the Grand Parlor held in Santa Cruz, the sum of three thousand dollars was voted for the support of two fellowships, which sum has been appropriated annually since that time.

Prof. Stephens, during his sabbatical year, 1909-1910, spent several months in Spain investigating the possibilities of the archives for research in Pacific Coast history. Based upon his discovery of the remarkable possibilities for such investigation in Spanish archives, it was deemed advisable to send the first Native Sons' Fellow, Lawrence Palmer Briggs, to work in the Archivo General de Indias, located in Seville, Spain. The year spent by Briggs, 1911-1912, due to the fact that he was a pioneer in the field, was spent principally in preparing the way for subsequent Fellows. He was followed, in 1912, by Charles E. Chapman, who spent two years in Spain. On his return to California, in 1914, one of the objects for the foundation of the Fellowships was achieved, in that Dr. Chapman became the first professor of California history at the University of California. Growing out of his investigations abroad, the literature of California history has been enriched by the publication of his "Founding of Spanish California," and his "Catalogue of Materials in the Archivo General de Indias for the History of the Pacific Coast and the American Southwest," besides numerous articles.

During the year 1912-1913, the first year in which two Fellowships were available, Joseph J. Hill and Tracy B. Kittredge divided one Fellowship between them as Resident Fellows, occupying themselves in the Bancroft Library at the University of California.

In 1913, Chapman was joined in Spain by William L. Schurz, this being the first time that two Fellows were abroad together. Having been reappointed for another year, Schurz was enabled to complete his volume on "The Manila Galleon," a subject intimately related to the occupation of Alta California, due to the routing of the galleons along the California coast. Coincident with Schurz's second year in Spain, Gordon C. Davidson was appointed to study in the English archives, his year's work resulting in the publication of "The History of the Northwest Company."

The year 1915 was marked by the appointment of two new Fellows to study in Spain—Dr. Charles H. Cunningham, who remained two years, and K. C. Leebrick, who remained one year. Dr. Cunningham supervised the transcribing of many valuable manuscripts dealing with California history, as well as carrying on institutional studies bearing on Spanish-American history. Mr. Leebrick collected materials in an unexploited section of the archive referring to California, for a catalogue similar to that of Dr. Chapman. Upon the resignation of Tracy B. Kittredge, George Leslie Albright was awarded the second Fellowship for 1916-1917. The brilliant master's thesis of Albright on "Plans and Official Explorations for Pacific Railroads" gave great promise for his proposed volume on the Spanish frontier of New Spain. His sudden death, in the midst of his work, cut short a most promising career, for, on December 15, 1916, he died at Seville, a victim of typhoid fever. The entry of the United States into the world war, the following April, caused the sending abroad of further Fellows to be discontinued.

The annual appropriations of the Native Sons, however, were continued, and were devoted to the maintenance of four Resident Fellows in the University of California. There, in the Bancroft Library, they utilized not only the Bancroft collection, but, in particular, the transcripts from foreign archives which have been added to it by former Fellows. For the year 1917-1918, the Resident Fellows were Dr. Charles W. Hackett, Arthur S. Aiton, J. Fred Rippey and Joseph J. Hill. J. Lloyd Meeham and Charles S. Mitrani, who had been appointed to two of the

The Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West is fortunate in having for the present holders of its Traveling Fellowships two members of its own body. The History Department of the University of California is proud of its own "sons," and is glad to find that the co-operation of the Native Sons and the Department is producing such satisfactory results in the investigation of the new fields of history which the opening of the archives of Spain makes possible.

It is plain to be seen that the attitude toward their task manifested by the present holders of the Fellowships is going to advance the historical work of the Order in a way which reflects credit upon the young men and their sponsors alike. When they return from their year of investigation it will be with a record of accomplishment and a promise of future activity which will leave no doubt in the mind of the most skeptical as to the value of the work which is now happily renewed after an interruption of four years, due to war conditions.—HERBERT I. PRIESTLEY, Associate Professor of Mexican History, University of California.

(Editor's Note—This is the first report of Arthur S. Aiton and J. Lloyd Meeham, Native Sons' History Fellows, and was dated Seville, Spain, November 15, 1920. Aiton is a member of Halcayon Parlor, No. 146, N.S.G.W. (Alameda), and Meeham is a member of Arrowhead Parlor, No. 110, N.S.G.W. (San Bernardino). They may be communicated with by addressing in care of the United States Consulate, Seville, Spain.)

Fellowships, resigned soon after to enlist in the ambulance corps of the United States Army. The following year the Resident Fellows were Miss Doris W. Bepler, the first woman to hold one of the Fellowships, and author of a guide to the literature of California history in periodicals; J. Fred Rippey, Joseph J. Hill and Ralph Kuykendall. During the year 1919-1920, conditions in Europe were still unsettled, so Resident Fellowships were continued for another year. Those appointed were Miss Doris W. Bepler, Joseph J. Hill, Roland Vandegrift and J. Lloyd Meeham. These enforced Resident Fellowships, although adopted as an expedient for the period of the war, served, nevertheless, a very useful purpose, that of training future Traveling Fellows for their work abroad; both of the writers having served a year each as Resident Fellows.

In the spring of 1920 the state of affairs in Europe seemed to warrant the resumption of Traveling Fellowships; so, Prof. Herbert E. Bolton, chairman of the History Department at the State University, acting in conjunction with the History Committee of the Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, appointed the present Fellows to resume research in the archives of Spain. Meeham, as Resident Fellow, had been engaged in making a detailed study of the northern frontier of New Spain in the later sixteenth century; this study is intended to bridge the chronological, as well as geographical, gap between the founding of New Spain and the occupation of Spanish California. As Resident Fellow, Aiton was also engaged in the preparation of a thesis, the subject of which is "Antonio de Mendoza, First Viceroy of New Spain," under whom the first voyage of discovery along the California coast was made—the Cabrillo-Ferrelo expedition; the part this voyage played in the larger program of the viceroy, its detailed background and its significance, will be important parts of the thesis.

For the proper preparation of these two theses, good accounts of which do not exist in print, access to the originals in the archives of Spain was absolutely necessary. Though Simancas and Madrid possessed vast manuscript repositories, that of Seville contained the essential documents. With the Archivo General de Indias, therefore, as their objective, in the middle of last summer the present Fellows left California and started on their long journey to Seville. After three weeks of uninterrupted traveling from San Francisco to Seville, by way of New York, Cherbourg, Paris and Madrid, one's pleasure and relief can scarcely be imagined when, upon entering the fertile and luxuriant plains of Andalusia, he sights from a distance of fifteen miles or more the gigantic cathedral of Seville, rising over the other buildings "like an elephant in the midst of a herd of sheep."

It might be well to pause at this point to give the reader some notion of this picturesque city in which so much of interest to California is to be found. "Seville la Reina de Andalusia," as its inhabitants so proudly call it, is a city of some 160,000 souls, situated in the heart of a wide plain, on the banks of the sluggish Guadalquivir. From the sea, fifty-four miles away, vessels can ascend this river, thus permitting Seville to combine the advantages of a seaport with those of an inland agricultural center. These ships, which come to Seville laden principally with manufactured goods, carry away the products of the surrounding district: olives, wine, cork, oranges and grain.

Due to the favorable site of Seville there has always been a city here since Celto-Iberian times. Though it was a city of no mean importance under the Romans, the Moorish influence was strongest, and to it the Seville of today owes much of its charm. The Christian era began in Seville with the reconquest of the city by Ferdinand III, the saint of Castile, November 23, 1248, after a siege in which he had for an ally the sultan of Granada. This Christian monarch expelled about 300,000 Moors, and divided the city among his followers. The Golden Age of Sevillian prosperity, however, came as a result of the discovery of America. The city enjoyed a monopoly of the American trade, and in it was located the Council of the Indies. With the removal of the Council to Cadiz, in 1720, and the subsequent rise of that port, Seville sunk into a position of secondary importance. Recent dredging of the Guadalquivir has brought back some of its former commerce and restored in a certain measure its prosperity.

The most noteworthy characteristic of Seville is the survival of the Moorish influence, which can be discerned in its buildings, its people, and their customs. An ever-present heritage of the Moors are the narrow, tortuous streets, so narrow that, to escape passing carriages and cars, one must often seek safety in sheltering doorways. The houses, provided with balconies overlooking the streets, are nearly all whitewashed. The homes are built around an inner court, or patio, which, as at Pompeii and in Oriental lands, is used as the living-room of the family. These patios are usually marble paved and adorned with a fountain in the center, surrounded by potted palms and flowers. The inner walls of these courts are lined with tile, called "azulejos," which is typical of Seville.

The most noteworthy Moorish monuments to be seen in Seville are: the Torre del Oro, the Alcázar, and the Giralda. The Torre del Oro, close to the banks of the Guadalquivir, is a dodecagonal tower of about one hundred feet in height, and originally a part of the Alcázar. The Alcázar, which is claimed by some to rival the Alhambra in beauty, though not strictly a Moorish monument, was nevertheless constructed by Morisco architects employed by early Christian kings. The Sevillanos, however, take greatest pride in pointing out the Giralda, and well they might, for it is undoubtedly the most beautiful structure in the city. Once the minaret of a Moorish mosque, the Giralda towers gracefully over the cathedral, and can be seen from any point on the surrounding vega. One can ascend the tower by means of an inclined plane in thirty-five sections, and obtain a wonderful view of the city beneath and the surrounding countryside. Here, in this first balcony, are hung twenty-four bells, the ringing of which can be heard throughout Seville almost hourly, both by day and by night. The tower is crowned by a small dome on which is placed a bronze figure, representing Faith, thirteen feet high and weighing

RESUME OF IMPORTANT STATE NEWS A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

UNDAY, JANUARY 1, 1871—NEW Year's Day—was clear and cold. It was not as hilariously observed as some previous New Year's Days had been, owing to the fears of a dry year. Little rain had fallen during December, and the extreme cold spell had frozen everything that was freezable.

January 9 a mild storm prevailed. A few welcome showers fell, followed by a bitter-cold north wind. The night of January 11 was declared by the citizens of San Francisco as the coldest experienced by them. Ice nearly an inch thick formed on pools at Stockton. The temperature was 20° below zero at Nevada City. Another mild storm prevailed January 17, giving about half an inch of rain; it was followed by a north wind.

Two more light rainfalls occurred, which improved crop prospects, but the total rainfall in the valleys for the season to February 1 amounted to only 3.36 inches. Hope took the place of assurance. Livestock in the coast counties south of San Francisco were reported in a famished condition, and scarcity of water in the mining counties was causing hard times. A north wind prevailing at the end of the month was causing the citizens of the state to anxiously await the change of the moon, hoping for a change in the weather.

C. E. Campbell, an old resident and postmaster of Thompson's Flat, Butte County, disappeared New Year's Day. His body was found in an old abandoned shaft January 15. He had been stabbed to death. No clue to the guilty party was found.

New Year's Day J. H. Tobin, a prominent merchant tailor on Montgomery street, San Francisco, was driving to the Cliff House with his wife. Getting out to fix the harness on a horse, he handed the reins to his wife. The team ran away, and in attempting to jump to safety the unfortunate woman fell on her head and broke her neck.

San Francisco Market quotations at the year's beginning were as follows: Flour $6 a barrel; wheat $2.15, barley $1.45, potatoes $1.25, onions $1.35 a cental; hay $15 a ton; beans 2½¢, cabbage 3¢, hops 12½¢, bacon 15¢, ham 13¢, butter 50¢, turkey 15¢ a pound; eggs 40¢ and chickens $6 a dozen.

A reported ore strike in Crown Point, on the Comstock Lode, January 8, advanced the price of that stock from $17 to $40 a share, and prices of other stocks followed the leader. It was the advance of a mining stock boom that came a few months later, when Superintendent John P. Jones, afterwards United States Senator from Nevada State, financed the Crown Point bonanza and made a new flock of millionaires.

Henry W. Bigler, who was employed building the sawmill at Coloma, El Dorado County, in January, 1848, when James W. Marshall discovered gold, wrote from Utah an interesting account of his experience and recollection of the event. It was published January 3 in the "Sacramento Union" and corroborated the account given by Marshall.

Blakeley and Baden, working a gravel mine in Plumas County, struck a deposit that was averaging pay of $47 to the pan in coarse gold.

Nevada County Lottery Has Drawing.

Hiram Macy of Green Valley, Solano County, found a nugget worth over $200 lying between two stones where a prospector had made a campfire near the wagon road and had dropped it.

The Eureka mine at Green Valley, Nevada County, showed by its annual report that it had paid in dividends during 1870 the sum of $430,000. The Amador mine at Sutter Creek, Amador County, reported paying during 1870 the sum of $155,000. Both mines were in a prosperous condition and expected to continue paying dividends during the present year.

Andrew Anderson at Railroad Flat, Calaveras County, struck a quartz ledge that was paying $107 he ton.

Frank Dollin and Orrin Treat, mining in Trinity County near Pike Bar, struck a gravel channel eight feet deep that paid three bits [75¢] to the pan.

The Cosmopolitan Gift Concert, a Nevada County lottery scheme, was drawn January 18. It sold 30,000 tickets and had 25,000 prizes ranging from a capital one of $10,000 down through gold watches, jewelry, wearing apparel, fans, spectacle cases, neckties, etc. Many of the prizewinners did not get their money back. It took ten days to complete the drawing. James A. Orr, a young man 20 years of age of Laporte, Sierra County, won the capital prize of $10,000. Anson W. Lester of Sacramento won $1,000. F. Runge of Sacramento holding three tickets won $1,000 with one and a parol with another. Much merriment was created by prize-winners getting surprises. A club of eight won a gentleman's undershirt; a prominent German storekeeper of Grass Valley, holding a score of tickets, won a chemise and a broom; a popular young widow of Nevada City won a dozen gent's socks. A levy of colored girls drew the numbers from the wheels.

The Cherokee Mining Company of Butte County was surveying a line seven miles long, to lay pipe and carry water from Butte Creek.

General Vallejo began shipping oranges from his trees in Sonoma County to San Francisco. 5,000 in one shipment were sold at 5¢ apiece.

The Alvarado, Alameda County, Beet Sugar Company, represented that orders for its product were four times greater than the supply. Its success was the cause of organizing the Santa Clara Sugar Company by prominent capitalists to build a plant and produce beet sugar in Santa Clara County.

The orange crop of Los Angeles County was reported to be short. It was being sold and shipped to San Francisco at $3 a hundred.

Rivalry between steamship companies established a rate of $5 for passage and $1 a ton for freight between San Francisco and San Diego this month.

A state convention of woman suffragists was held at San Jose January 19, largely attended by women who wanted to vote. Mrs. Mary Coggins was selected president.

A miners' convention assembled in Sacramento January 29 to confer and act upon legislation in Congress and other matters connected with the mining industry. Colonel Breton of San Francisco was made president, and it was in session three days, with a large representation from the different mining sections.

The State Agricultural Society held its annual meeting January 27 and re-elected C. F. Reed of Yolo County president.

Billiard Fans Have Inning.

The German citizens of San Francisco, Sacramento and other towns in the state celebrated the fall of Paris with torchlight processions, salutes, fireworks and speeches on the night of January 30. Great enthusiasm prevailed over the German victory, and Bismarck was voiced as the greatest man in the world. A Sacramento transparency read: "A new dish—Frogs with Sauerkraut." This was reversed when frogs leaped on top in 1918.

A. S. Hallidie of San Francisco received a patent this month for his invention of an endless wire cable. He was the father of the street-car cable system of that city.

The inventor of a flying machine in San Francisco, after an unsuccessful effort to fly, abandoned his machine at Woodward's Gardens in a damaged condition.

A teamster reported that while moving on the road upon the shore of Upper Blue Lake, Lake County, he saw sporting in the waves of its own make a monster fish over twenty feet long and two feet in diameter. The Indians had a superstitious fear of such a denizen of the lake, and did not fish upon its waters. This was said to be the second time the Indians' belief had been corroborated by an eye-witness.

Billiard fans had a great inning this month. January 2 a match of three ball, French carrom, was played in San Francisco between the champions, Dion and Deery, of 500 points. It was a big betting affair. Pools sold even on the players, while the average points per run commanded much investment. The popular figure with betters was four, and this was the winning average. They played 35 innings, Dion winning by a score of 500 to Deery's 478. It took four hours to play the game.

A second match, in which Dion was to make 600 points to Deery's 500, was played in Platte's Hall January 26 for $1,000 a side. The hall was crowded. Betting started even, but changed as the game progressed to 2 to 1 on Dion, then to 2 to 1 on Deery. Great excitement prevailed. Deery won by making a phenomenal run of fifty-seven points and Dion scoring only 479.

L. H. Titus, a horseman of Los Angeles, bought in New York and sent to his stock farm near that city the trotting stallion "Echo" for $8,000. "Echo" was a half-brother of the famous trotter, "Dexter," the fastest in his day in America.

Dr. Isaac Rowell, a prominent physician and leading Mason and Odd Fellow of San Francisco, suddenly died of apoplexy January 3. He was a native of Maine, 53 years of age, and a Pioneer. He was a spiritualist, and mediums created a great sensation in San Francisco a week after his death, announcing communications received from him in the spirit world.

Mark Twain was making the people of the nation laugh by stating in one of his lectures that: "I've seen on the Pacific Coast slower men than I am—and more deliberate people than I am—and even quieter, more listless, and lazier people than I am. But they were dead."

Mail Train Robbed in Placer County.

Agnes Lewis, a 16-year-old farmer's daughter living near Antioch, Contra Costa County, had this season plowed with six horses and a three-gaug plow over 100 acres of land.

A turkey raiser in the west end of Placer County was credited with having raised 15,000 turkeys. He kept five herders employed.

Gilbert Ledoux, a blacksmith in Jackson, Amador County, on a wager made 1,101 horseshoe nails in twelve hours. It was estimated he struck in their making 39,000 blows with his hammer.

The play "Count of Monte Cristo," at the California theater, San Francisco, had a phenomenal run. $18,300 was paid for admission during the first fortnight.

The Iyer sisters, colored girls raised in Sacramento, began giving concerts. They had remarkable voices, and were endeavoring to obtain necessary funds to cultivate them.

January 2, at Stockton, the stage stable of C. H. Sisson & Company, proprietors of several stage lines out of that city, was burned; eight horses, ten stages, and 100 tons of hay were consumed with the building, and a loss of $10,000 reported.

January 17 a fire broke out in the Donner Hotel at Truckee, Nevada County, and destroyed the business section of the town. Seventeen buildings were destroyed, but they were quickly rebuilt.

The stage from Murphys, Calaveras County, to Stockton was stopped by two highwaymen a few miles from Angel's Camp the morning of January 17. They took the express box and departed.

This stage was again stopped the morning of January 23, a short distance from San Andreas. This time there were three highwaymen, who took $550 from Billy Cutler, the driver, his boots and the express box. There was $2,700 in gold dust in the latter. The robbers had not been caught when the month ended.

The mail car of the east-bound overland train was robbed at Alta, Placer County, January 20. When the train stopped at the supper station the mail clerks locked the door of the mail car and went to eat. While gone the lock was broken and a sack of registered mail and a package of coin containing $10,000 were stolen. January 22 the registered mail—one letter containing $26,000 in United States bonds, and rolls of coin totaling $1,700—was found hidden under a sidewalk in Truckee. Several men were arrested on suspicion, one of whom attempted suicide by cutting an artery with a penknife.

Don Chavez, sheriff of San Diego County, with a posse of ten men went in search of a gang of horse-thieves and outlaws in San Rafael Valley. January 27 they had a fight in which they killed two and captured four of the renegades. Three of the captured were shot the next day by a vigilance committee. The other, a boy, was spared on account of his youth.

Thos. Welch, a toll bridge tender on the Feather River near Marysville, had over $1,000 in gold coin buried under his toll house for safe keeping. Called to Marysville one day this month, on his return he found some unknown party had appropriated his cache.

A gang of Mexican robbers went to Scott's store at Sunol, Alameda County, the night of January 10. Rapping on the door, Otto Ludovici, a clerk, opened it, when he was shot dead. The handits obtained only $25 from the store till. Sheriff Harry Morse went in pursuit, but had not captured the robbers at last account.

W. W. Lane, a prominent dairyman of Monterey County, in a political dispute with Dr. Davidson at Kingston, Fresno County, January 8, was shot and killed by the doctor, who was later acquitted.

Fresno Parson Accidentally Killed.

Henry Hiscock, at Pleasanton, Alameda County, had a gun that Ramon Amador coveted, and, while hunting quail, the latter obtained hold of it and killed him. Ramon was jailed January 25.

Pope Lansdale and Scott Banks, residents of Tehama County, had a quarrel of long standing and meeting on Main street, Red Bluff, January 25, began shooting at each other. Banks was killed.

Dr. J. B. Trask was driving a horse and buggy on Market street, San Francisco, January 3. The bridle dropped off the horse's head and, uncontrolled, it ran away. Amid great excitement a Mexican vaquero gave chase for nearly half the length of the street when he overtook the runaway and, throwing his arm around its neck, got the reins into a knot over the horse's nose and stopped it. Over a thousand spectators gathered and cheered the Mexican for his heroic action.

A Centerville, Fresno County, parson, E. B. Lockley, hearing his dog furiously barking in a ravine near his home, went upon a bank to ascertain the cause just as a shot was fired that killed the dog and three buckshot struck him in the breast. He staggered down to a fence where, kneeling in prayer, he shortly fell over dead. The shooting was a mystery, as the parson was a popular man without a known enemy, until some days later, when a small boy confessed that on account of the dog having bitten him he shot at it and accidentally killed the parson.

Henry Palmer, fishing from a rock near the Cliff House, San Francisco, was washed off by a wave and drowned January 4.

A young man named Reeves, January 5 in Butte County, was killed by a runaway team.

January 10 Wm. Mathews, a citizen of Santa Cruz, was thrown off a sulky and killed.

Thos. Rogers, a miner in the Amador mine at Sutter Creek, Amador County, January 23 fell from the bucket down the shaft, 900 feet, to death.

Owen Polsifer, a carpenter, in San Francisco January 28, fell from a two-story building and was fatally hurt.

C. F. Hamlin was run over by a train near Marysville January 9 and fatally injured.

John F. Whalen, walking on the track near Redwood City, San Mateo County, January 12 was struck by a train and killed.

S. Jacobs, a merchant of Auburn, Placer County, went into his henhouse after dark with an ax to kill a chicken. He placed the ax against the door and when trying to grasp the legs of a fowl on its roost, was struck on the head with the ax by an unseen assailant, badly cut and knocked senseless. A supposed chicken thief, disturbed in his endeavor, took this advantage to escape.

Wm. Higgins had a dispute with his partner, Jerry Clemens, at Banner, Nevada County, over the division of some gold specimens. Drawing a pistol he tried to shoot Clemens, who grasped his wrist and, in the struggle that followed, the pistol was fired. The bullet lodged in the calf of Higgins' leg and caused his death a fortnight later.

B. Olsen, proprietor of the Washington market in Stockton, January 23, by a fire that partly destroyed his home, was fatally burned.

Bernard Tauze, with Joseph Trumpette, was working in his placer claim near Sonora, Tuolumne County, January 19, when they were caved upon. Tauze was dead when dug out, while his partner was dangerously injured.

Hunting accidents continued of frequent occurrence, showing the old muzzle-loading shotgun was a thing to be carefully handled.

A man named Gunter left Sacramento in a buggy to hunt on the Cosumnes. He fell out and accidentally fired his gun. The charge hit him in an armpit, and badly wounded his shoulder.

Albert Hopley at Durham's Ferry, San Joaquin County, was dangerously wounded by the accidental discharge of his gun.

G. W. Jones of Penryn, Placer County, goose hunting on Auburn Ravine Sink, had one hand blown off.

Simon Cabeant, a lad in Sonora, Tuolumne County, came home and laid his gun on the kitchen floor. When picking it up he accidentally fired it and shattered one foot.

Edward Jacobs, a Yolo County lad hunting geese with a rifle, accidentally sent a ball through the right side of his body and was seriously wounded.

Chris. Nielson of Solano County was hunting ducks; in drawing his gun from a boat he discharged it and was badly wounded in the right thigh and hand.

Julius Blume of Petaluma, hunting in Sonoma County, was withdrawing a load from one barrel with his ramrod when the other barrel went off. He lost his right arm.

A boy named Duffy, playing on Broadway wharf, San Francisco, found a can of phosphorous sticks. They started fires in his pockets, where he had placed them, and starting up the street, in fear, he was followed by a crowd before caught and doused with water. His legs were seriously burned.

Two lads named Nicholas Welch and John Conry, hunting near Sucker Flat, Nevada County, exploded a powder flask and were badly burned and had their eyes injured.

James Stroy, employed in the Risdon Iron Works, San Francisco, from an accident lost an arm.

N. Pinckston, an 18-year-old youth, near Spanish-towa, Butte County, while quail hunting, heard a hog squealing in a brush-covered ravine. Investi-

NO COUNTY WANTS JAPS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

EVERY ONE OF CALIFORNIA'S FIFTY-eight counties returned a substantial majority for Initiative Measure Number One (Alien Land Law) on the November ballot, according to the official declaration of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, dated December 4. Initiative and referendum measures, unless otherwise indicated in the measure submitted, become effective five days after the secretary's declaration of vote, so that the new law to curb the yellow-Japs' and white-Japs' land operations in California became effective December 10.

At the November election, a total of 987,632 votes were cast; all voters, however, did not vote on the Alien Land Law, or any of the other many propositions submitted to the electors. Voters who did express their opinion on the Jap land law numbered 890,569; for its adoption, 668,483 votes were cast, while 222,086 were cast against it. Many who voted "no" on this proposition, it is certain, believed, from the wording of the measure on the ballot, that by so doing they were registering a protest against the Japs. Had the proposition been plainly put, as it should have been: Shall the white-Japs be permitted to sell, lease or rent California land to yellow-Japs?, there is no question but that the "no" vote would have been cut down to about 100,000—for there are about that number of white-Japs, servants of the mikado, in California. However, the vote as recorded leaves no doubt as to the determination of The People to stop the land activities of the yellow-Japs and the white-Japs in this state. That the vote-record on this, the most important question ever submitted to the electors of California, may be preserved, The Grizzly Bear gives the figures for each county: one and one-quarter tons, which acts as a weather-vane.

The greatest Christian monument in Seville, and one of the greatest of its kind in Christendom, is the Gothic cathedral. Its chief distinction is its size, only being exceeded in ground space by St. Peter's in Rome. To the American visitor, the chief object of interest within the cathedral is the monument of Columbus, a sarcophagus containing the bones of the immortal discoverer, borne aloft by four bronze figures representing the kingdoms of Castile, Leon, Aragon and Navarre. Unfortunately the mighty frame of the cathedral was built of a stone which has not been able to withstand the erosive effects of time, and so it has been constantly under repair.

Human Seville, as well as material Seville, is a curious blending of Christian and Moorish influences. In the veins of the Andalusian there is still a strong current of Moorish blood. This fact is brought home to the visitor by the great prevalence of dark-haired, bright-eyed, olive-complexioned caballeros and señoritas. Many of the señoritas of the better class, however, are seldom seen on the streets, and never alone; they are kept in almost haremlike seclusion, behind barred windows and gold doors. Conservatism, a Moorish heritage, is to be found in the dress, music and dancing of the people. Styles of women's dress remain constant; a little affected by the ever-changing dictates of Paris. Black is the one prevailing color worn on any and all occasions, and mantillas and high cork-combs are worn to such a degree as to make the millinery trade most unprofitable in Seville. The most popular forms of amusement are dancing and singing. The most typical dance of the region is the "cañero flamenco," which is danced to music with an intricacy of time and monotony of tone suggestive of the Orient. "Flamenco" singing, also a Moorish heritage, has a tremendous grip on the populace, though to the foreigner it sounds very much like Chinese singing.

Though all the above is very true, the industriousness of the Moor is conspicuous by its absence; your typical Andalusian is noted for his care-free vivacity and proud indolence. His days and nights are spent in nothing more strenuous than taking a carriage ride through the Paseo or sitting for interminable hours in clubs and cafés, sipping coffee and discussing women, or the most recent "corrida."

The chief interest in Seville, however, for the California student, is the Casa Lonja, in which is housed the Archivo General de Indias, Spain's richest collection of historical materials relating to her vanished overseas empire. The Casa Lonja, located in the center of Seville, seems plain and unattractive beside the massive Gothic cathedral and the graceful Giralda. Yet it is a building of no mean proportions, built in the later sixteenth century after the severe style of the celebrated Spanish school of Juan de Herrera, builder of the Escorial. It is a square, grey-stone structure, one hundred and eighty-four feet square and fifty-nine feet high, surmounted on each corner by huge stone pinnacles, that impress one as being on the point of toppling over. From the broad flat roof one can obtain an impressive view of Seville. The main entrance to the building is a square opening in the front wall, only notable for its contribution to the general harshness of the exterior.

On entering the archive building, one passes through a gloomy hallway which leads directly to the inner court, or patio, which is surrounded by a double arcade. This patio is a spacious, marble-paved enclosure, in the center of which is a fountain adorned by a small statue of Columbus. The entire first floor encircling the patio is utilized principally for exhibiting documents. Manuscripts of extraordinary interest are displayed to the public in glass-covered cases, so covered with dust that the documents they were intended to display are barely visible. Nevertheless, by dint of much peering, one can make out the original signatures of such famous men as Americus Vespucci, Magellan, Cortés, Ponce de Leon, Father Junipero Serra, George Washington, Patrick Henry, George Rogers Clark, and many others of equal renown.

A portion of this lower floor is given over to investigators and copyists during the hot summer months. That season is excessively warm in Seville and, for the sake of comfort, it is the general custom to live on the ground floor during the torrid weather and to move upstairs when the winter dampness makes the lower floors uninhabitable. In the case of the Casa Lonja this humidity is particularly noticeable for, after the first autumnal rains, a dark discoloration of the foundation stones is evident, which extends up the building to the height of a man, both on the exterior and on the walls and pillars of the lower floor within the edifice. Thus one is doubly advised of the advent of winter—first, by a marked change in temperature, and second, by the creeping of this rim of moisture up the walls.

Having examined the exhibits of the first floor, one ascends to the second by means of a magnificent, vari-colored marble staircase built in the reign of Charles III. Surmounting the staircase and upper corridor is a vaulted ceiling, supported by bulky, square columns. Noteworthy manuscripts are likewise exhibited here, and innumerable bundles of other documents relating to Spain in the New World are to be found in the cases which line the walls. Notwithstanding the fact that the ground plan of the second floor is an exact replica of the first, its rooms are more elegant, due to their splendid ornamentation, for they were the reception halls and offices of the "Tribunal de las Indias."

One of these rooms has been converted into the winter workshop of the archive. Its furnishings are most adequate and comfortable, excepting, unfortunately, the total lack of heating facilities to combat the winter chill. Entrance into the room is effected from the hallway at the head of the stairs through a heavily-curtained doorway. Similarly curtained doors, at opposite ends of this long study-hall, lead to the exhibit-rooms and document-stacks. An abundance of good light, indispensable to the reading of the manuscripts, is assured by a row of windows which face the patio along one entire side of the room. At one end of the hall is located the desk of the assistant "jefe," or chief of the study-hall, a pompous individual who supervises research and the delivery and return of legajos. Living either side of the length of the room are tables for the use of the investigators and copyists. Weighty, throne-like, leather-bottomed chairs complete the complement of furniture.

The Archivo de Indias is notable not only for the extreme rarity and importance of its documents, but also for the completeness of the collection. According to most recent estimates, it comprises no fewer than sixty million manuscripts, tied up in bundles, or legajos, to the number of eighty thousand. The difficult problem of making accessible such a gigantic mass of material has been met only in part. In the effort to solve this problem these documents have been thrown into twelve great sections, according to the department of government to which they belong. Each section, in turn, is subdivided, principally on a geographical and chronological basis. Without intending to criticize adversely the well-intentioned effort to bring order out of chaos, it is nevertheless true that chaotic conditions continue to exist. For example, one does not infrequently find Buenos Ayres documents in California legajos, or sixteenth century documents in eighteenth century legajos. The neglect to even attempt rectification of these errors, however, deserves criticism. Cumbersome handwritten volumes, much the worse for wear and tear, comprise the catalogues to this priceless collection. Items in each of the above-mentioned twelve sections have been listed separately in these catalogues. These volumes vary in size, completeness and method of entry and legibility of handwriting. They do not vary, however, in trustworthiness. Even the section known as the "Patronato Real," the oldest and reputed as the best-organized, fails when put to the test. For example, the writers have discovered bulky "expedientes" in legajos of this section which are absolutely ignored by the catalogue; and, on the other hand, there are references in the catalogues which cannot be found in the places indicated. Notwithstanding the unique composition of the catalogues, they are nevertheless most indispensable; without these guides, the investigator would be lost in this bewildering maze of documents.

In addition to antiquated catalogues, the researcher is still further impeded in his progress by short hours and frequent holidays. Hours announced and actual working hours are two very distinct things. The Archivo General de Indias, as the public is informed by bulletin boards, is open daily, Sundays and feast-days excepted, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. The futility of trying to adjust one's arrival and departure to fit this schedule is soon learned by actual experience. Although the archive building is opened and closed according to announcement, the workers are not admitted into the study-room until the study-hall chief arrives. Thus one is greeted by the curious spectacle of anxious workers grouped about in the hallway awaiting his arrival, which is timed irregularly from 9:20 to 10 a. m. In cases of the actual non-appearance of that essential dignitary, an "ordenanza" is dispatched post-haste to secure a substitute. The investigators, meanwhile, think of their work awaiting them upon the tables just beyond the open door. Shortly after the arrival of the assistant chief, or his substitute, an attendant utters the welcome words, "pasen Vds.," and so, Job-like patience is rewarded. Though work starts late, the same is not true of the closing hours, for about 2:45 p. m. the attendant shouts, "la hora," thus bringing the day's work to an untimely conclusion. Abbreviated working hours are closely paralleled by frequent holidays, for days of rest are declared upon the slightest provocation.

The stranger, having gained permission to use the archive, and after being assigned a permanent study-table, is confronted at the start with his greatest problem, that of locating his material. To accomplish anything he must have some knowledge of the collection, based upon previous use of transcripts, printed documents, secondary works, and guides to the archive. Probably the most useful of these guides is Prof. Charles E. Chapman's "Catalogue of Materials in the Archivo General de Indias," which is an outgrowth of his two years' residence in Seville as a Native Sons' Fellow. In locating new material, one's only recourse is to the set of catalogues which has already been discussed. Examination of these catalogues yields a list of legajos which should contain the desired matter.

The investigator, having determined from his list the legajo he wishes to examine first, writes its call-number upon a printed form known as a "pedido," and presents it to the assistant "jefe." This functionary calls an "ordenanza" by ringing a bell and sends him after the desired legajo. After an indeterminate interval of time, that slow-moving individual reappears and places the legajo upon the student's desk. This bundle of papers may vary in height from a few inches to almost three feet. Legajos which have been frequently consulted can be readily detected by the absence of dust. Upon removing the wrappings, the legajo is seen to be composed of folio or octavo sheets of heavy linen paper, unbound, and generally grouped into related subjects, these groupings being called "expedientes."

The handwriting of the later centuries is often very beautiful and comparatively easy to read, but special training in palaeography is often required for the deciphering of that of the earlier centuries.

Certain hard-and-fast rules must be observed in the handling of the documents. Whenever it is necessary to move a document from one place to another, it must be moved by an attendant. For example, should one desire to show the chief a document, his desire is made known, the bell is rung, an "ordenanza" enters, and carries the manuscript to the "jefe's" desk, where it is consulted. The performance must be repeated to return the manuscript to the investigator's table. Whenever the assistant "jefe" wishes to leave the room, an attendant is summoned to stand guard during his absence. Likewise, when viewing the exhibits, one is not allowed to get out of the attendant's sight, for fear—it is presumed—of theft. Despite these apparently rigid rules, certain practices are current which would not be tolerated in other archives. The use of pen and ink is permitted, and likewise writing over documents. Though smoking is prohibited in the archive building, attendants, as well as some investigators, pay little heed to the not-inconspicuous notice in the hallway; and, in the manuscript-room, some of the officials smoke over documents that can never be replaced. Curiously enough, printed books, which can be easily duplicated, are more difficult to secure from the locked cases of the limited reference library than those documents.

Document hunting is an interesting game, and, as one works into his subject and makes unexpected finds, the apparent drudgery disappears. The size of the archive, the richness of the collection, and the fact that the documents are assembled and listed in a haphazard manner, afford the necessary element of chance. As a rule, the desired information is seldom found in the expected place. Ofttimes a good American "hunch" is a better guide than a catalogue, and a find of this sort more gratifying. System and logic break down; what one needs is nerve and good luck.

Anyone using the Archivo General must have at his disposal either ample time or sufficient means to make his discoveries available for use. If he is unable to examine his material minutely in the archive, and takes notes from the originals, copyists must be employed to type transcripts for him. The selection of material to be copied, therefore, will comprise the bulk of his work. He will, of course, in the case of small items, do the copying himself. By this method the stranger is able to examine more legajos in a given length of time. By employing this system, finds not immediately relating to the particular subject under investigation are made available by means of transcripts to students in America. The Bancroft Library is a growing repository for these copies, sent in principally by Native Sons' Fellows, it being second only in importance to the Library of Congress within the United States. Many original works, based primarily upon these transcripts, attest the value and richness of the collection. A good example of this is Prof. H. I. Priestley's "José de Gálvez," an interesting and exhaustive treatment of an important phase of Spanish-American institutional history.

As intimated above, the work of the present Fellows is two-fold—original research in their own subjects, and the securing of California transcripts for the Bancroft Library. Three months of steady work in the archive, interrupted only by intermittent enforced holidays, find the writers most encouraged by the progress they have made. This surely gives renewed justification to the selection, by the late Prof. H. Morse Stephens, of the Archivo General de Indias as the most logical place to send Native Sons' Fellows.

In reviewing the history of the Fellowships, we feel that the good work accomplished by our predecessors has done much for the cause to which the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is dedicated—the perpetuation of the records of California's romantic past. The purpose of this article has been to let brother Native Sons know what we, as present-day Fellows, are doing, the nature of our work, and some of the interesting features connected with it. It is a work of the Order of paramount importance, though often overlooked. We assure them that the opportunity to contribute our share toward the good record of the Fellowships has not been neglected.

CALIFORNIA OVERTOPS ALL STATES.

With a production of canned fruit and vegetables in 1919 valued at $108,096,675, says "San Francisco Business," California's canning industry overtops that of any other state in the Union and her total pack equals, if not exceeds, the packs of all other states combined. Only petroleum, with a production of $133,000,000 in 1919, brings more wealth to California than the canning industry.

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Not Later than 1855.)

Martin S. Hudson, native of Missouri, aged 83; crossed the plains in 1845, and after a short residence in the Sacramento Valley went to Napa County; died at St. Helena, survived by a widow and four children.

Mrs. Leah Margaret Breen, native of New York, aged 85; crossed the plains in 1849, and in 1852 went to San Juan, San Benito County, where she died, survived by eight children. Deceased was the widow of John Breen, a Pioneer, chairman of the first board of supervisors of San Benito County.

Jack Gilmore, native of Canada, aged 93; went to Mariposa County in 1850, and engaged in teaming, mining and stock-raising; died at Merced.

George Tryon, native of Oregon, aged 68; came here in 1855, and for many years resided in Del Norte County; died at Grants Pass, Oregon.

Mrs. Rafella Henderson, native of Mexico, aged 107; came here about 1838, and for several years resided in Nevada County; died at Sacramento.

James Alexander Forbes, born at the British consulate in San Francisco in 1843, and later a resident for many years of Santa Clara City, died at San Jose, survived by a widow and ten children. Deceased was the son of the late James Alexander Forbes, in early days British consul-general in San Francisco, and was most familiar with California history; he was formerly keeper of Spanish and Mexican archives in the office of the United States surveyor-general for the district of California, and Government translator from 1877 to 1892; recently he published a booklet, entitled "The Golden West," which contains much early-day history.

Mrs. Mary A. Bohannon, native of Tennessee; came here in 1849, and for several years resided in Chico, Butte County; died at Coronado, San Diego County, survived by eleven children.

Sidney P. Waite, native of Kentucky, aged 81; came here, via the Southern route, in 1849, and in 1858 located in San Bernardino, where he died, survived by a widow and two children. Deceased was an authority on early-day events in Los Angeles—where he resided from 1849 to 1858—and San Bernardino County; he conducted the "Guardian," one of San Bernardino City's first newspapers, and served two terms as clerk of that county; he was a member of the Pioneer Society, and is said to have been the last of the Argonauts who saw San Bernardino in 1849, when that city was but a small Indian village.

Mrs. Mary A. Estes; crossed the plains with her parents in 1854, and resided in Contra Costa and Mendocino Counties until 1898, when she moved to San Jose, where she died, survived by five children.

Raphael Weill, native of Lorraine, aged 84; came here in 1854, and was long identified with the business world of San Francisco; died at Paris, France.

James Johnson, native of Canada, aged 93; since 1854 a resident of Trinity County, a greater part of the time being spent at Junction City; died at Weaverville, where the Old Settlers' Society conducted funeral services.

Mrs. Caroline Ashworth Jamison, native of Missouri, aged 80; crossed the plains in 1852, settling in Santa Clara County; died at Fresno, survived by six children.

Daniel G. Webber, native of Maine, aged 95; came here in 1850, settling in Sacramento County; died at Sacramento City, survived by a widow and five children.

Aaron Levy, native of Poland, aged 90; came here in 1853, and since 1859 had engaged in business at Lakeport, Lake County; died at San Francisco, survived by five children.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Rightmire, native of England, aged 87; crossed the plains in 1850, and after a residence of some years in Sacramento, removed to San Francisco, where she died, survived by two daughters.

Robert Devine, Sr., aged 85; came here in 1850 and engaged in mining until forty years ago, when he engaged in farming; died near Glendale, Los Angeles County, survived by a widow and three children.

Mrs. F. Beauchemin, native of France, aged 77; came here in 1852 and for years resided at West Point, Calaveras County, where she died, survived by five children.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lowrey, native of Missouri, aged 88; crossed the plains in 1852 and resided in Sonoma County until 1860, when she removed to Tulare County; died near Visalia, survived by six children.

RESIDENTS OF FIFTY YEARS AND MORE PASS ON

John Kane, native of Ireland, aged 90; came via the Isthmus in 1857, and for years farmed in Santa Cruz County; died at Watsonville, survived by four children.

Mrs. Sampson Allen Phillips, native of Missouri, aged 80; crossed the plains in 1856, settling in Amador County; died near Lone, survived by five children.

Henry Schaefer, native of Massachusetts, aged 86; came via the Horn in 1859; died at Los Angeles, survived by a widow and four children.

Mrs. A. K. Quigley, native of Missouri, aged 82; crossed the plains in 1863, settling in Sacramento, where she died.

S. M. Owen, native of Iowa, aged 79; since 1857 a resident of Tulare County; died at Porterville.

Mrs. Sara J. Winter, native of Missouri, aged 78; for fifty-one years resided in Yolo County; died at Woodland, survived by a husband and two daughters.

Richard Dowell, native of England, aged 76; since 1868 a resident of Santa Barbara, where he died, survived by three children.

Mrs. Elizaeth Lessman, aged 85; was an early-day resident of Mariposa County; died at Berkeley. Funeral obsequies in Merced were attended by a large delegation from Veritas Parlor, No. 75, N.D.G.W.

Sam Childs, native of Ireland, aged 67; crossed the plains in 1863 and had spent most of the time since in Calaveras County; died at Clovis, Fresno County, survived by three children.

Mrs. Margaret Huston, native of Illinois, aged nearly 84; came here in 1860, and the past forty-two years had resided in San Luis Obispo County; died at San Luis Obispo City, survived by four children.

Marsena Mott, native of New York, aged 84; came here in 1863, and since 1870 had resided in Siskiyou County; died at Yreka, survived by a widow.

Mrs. Susan A. Matthews, native of Kentucky, aged 74; came via the Isthmus in 1864; died at Chico, survived by five children.

Booker B. Bennett, native of Arkansas, aged 81; crossed the plains in 1857, and after farming a number of years in Tulare County took up his residence at Fresno City, where he died, survived by a widow and seven children.

George M. Francis, native of Michigan, aged 80; came here in the early '60s and for a half-century had resided at Napa City; died while on a visit to San Francisco, survived by a husband and three children.

John B. Strong, native of Missouri, aged 63; came here, as a babe in arms, in 1857, settling in Woodland, where he died.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Lambert, native of Ohio, aged 80; came here in 1861, and since 1866 had resided in Monterey City, where she died.

G. A. Brown, native of New Hampshire, aged 85; came here in 1857, and for years farmed in Solano County; died near Tulare, Tulare County, on a ranch where he had made his home the past twelve years.

Mrs. Lydia Northrop, native of Canada, aged 82; died at Lodi, San Joaquin County, her home since 1864, survived by three children.

D. G. Stephens, who settled in Los Angeles County in 1861, died at Santa Monica, survived by a widow.

Mrs. Frances Wachhorst, native of Germany, aged 74; died at Sacramento City, her home since 1859, survived by two sons.

M. A. Peters, aged nearly 76; crossed the plains in 1863 and had resided in Sonoma, Los Angeles, Orange and Kern Counties; died at Hemet, Riverside County, survived by a widow and four children.

LOYAL NATIVE SON, KILLED IN ACTION, IS EULOGIZED. (C. L. McEnerney.)

"Killed in action!" This brief statement is said to be the highest eulogy that may be pronounced over a true soldier. Killed in action will, then, be the eulogy we must pronounce for one of the noblest and courageous Native Sons ever born of our soil. Sunday, December 5, at Santa Rosa, Miles Jackson laid down his life in action; not, it is true, on the field of battle, as we usually speak of it, but truly in battle—battling with the forces of crime, fighting the hordes of disorder, ever trying to rescue youth from the snares of iniquity, fearlessly doing his duty as it was set for him to do.

Miles Jackson of California Parlor, No. 1, N.S.G.W. (San Francisco) was born some forty years ago in Fort Bragg, Mendocino County. Years ago he joined the San Francisco police department, where his courage and ability soon brought him to the fore. For several years past his have been the details requiring keen mentality, deep insight, unerring judgment and superhuman courage, coupled with an understanding charity and an integrity beyond the reach of temptation. All these qualities distinguished him. Large in stature, he was yet bigger in kindness, while his courage stands unequalled.

His loyalty to his country was unbounded. Although exempt from call, he took leave of his life-work and volunteered in the service of the Nation during the late war. In recognition of his talents, he was commissioned an ensign in the navy, and served until after the cessation of hostilities. Miles Jackson has passed on to the Heavenly Parlor; he will no longer be with us, but his example will ever remain a beacon to those who love Loyalty and to all who seek to perform their full duty in life. Oh, California! this son was true to thee; true to the spirit of thy great destiny; and now that his dust is mingled with the dust whence he sprang, let his name be blazoned on the roll of the faithful departed and his character be set as a jewel in the crown of thy glory.

(Editor's Note—Miles Jackson, a detective of the San Francisco police department, was wantonly murdered in Santa Rosa by gangsters, later lynched, whom he was in search of for assaulting young women in the Bay City. Gangs for similar purpose are operating all through California, but no other lynching parties have as yet been held.)

SONOMA COUNTY SHERIFF, NATIVE SON, VICTIM OF GANGSTERS.

Santa Rosa—James A. Petray, sheriff of Sonoma County, who was murdered December 5 by three despicable gangsters—later lynched by infuriated citizens—while in the discharge of his official duties, was a member of Santa Rosa Parlor, No. 28, N.S.G.W. He was born December 11, 1865.

The board of supervisors of Sonoma County has elected to fill the vacancy caused by the untimely death of Sheriff Petray, another member of Santa Rosa Parlor, John M. Boyes.

In Memoriam

CAROLYN AUGUSTA COOK.

To the Officers and Members of Golden Bar Parlor, No. 30, N.D.G.W.: Death has entered our circle and taken from us one of our charter members. After an illness of a few days, Sister Carolyn Augusta Cook passed away at her home in Sierra City, California, November 17, 1920. We tenderly sympathize with the husband and family in this, their hour of bereavement. The following resolutions were made and adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased God, in His divine wisdom, to remove from our midst our respected sister, Carolyn Augusta Cook;

Resolved, That while bowing in humble submission to our Heavenly Father, we do not the less mourn for our sister, who has been taken from us; resolved, that Golden Bar Parlor, No. 20, N.143.W., hereby extends to the sorrowing family its most sincere and heartfelt sympathy; and be it further resolved, that the charter of this Parlor be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed sister, that a copy be forwarded to the "Mountain Messenger" and The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication, and that they be spread in full upon the minutes of this Parlor.

LILLIE ROSE,

MARY HANSEN,
Committee.

Sierra City, December 3, 1920.

Snow-white the ship on which our loved ones sail;
The captain, Peace, guides to a harbor far
Where neither pain nor sorrow ever reach—
Where life is joy when they have crossed the bar.
This is the country where the waters flow
Without a ripple on a sunny beach,
Where all the sorrow, turmoil, pain and woe
Of this life's storm can never reach.

And though with tear-wet eyes we see her go,
This dear beloved who has sailed away,
Oh! dry those tears, for she but greets the dawn
Where night is sunk into eternal day.

A patient toiler on the road of Life,
With cheerful smile for every one distressed;
A gentle touch for those who needed care,
Unselfishly her loving heart expressed.
A helpful neighbor, ever night or day
She heard and answered every call of pain
Within this little town. Lo, each shall say:
"To her we called, and never called in vain!"

O, noble Mother! Wife beyond compare!
Amidst life's battles gentle and serene!
God crown you with the blessings of His peace:
"Well done, thou faithful; enter, thou art Queen!"

Within the breast of these, the hills she loved,
We'll lay her gently, while the pine trees sing
A requiem of tender, throbbing love—
A hymn of praise that through the years shall ring.
Above her tower the Sierra peaks serene,
The white-spined Buttes immortal and sublime;
That cathedral grand, not made with hands,
That marks her place throughout eternal time.

Farewell, O loving Mother, Wife and Friend;
Beyond the dawning of a brighter day
O, meet us with the smile we loved so well,
And greet us in the old familiar way!

O, Father, who hath promised to abide
With Thy grieving children until time shall cease,
Send Thou upon these broken, bruised and grieved
The tender mercy of Thy holy peace.
—JEANETTE LAWRENCE.
Sacramento, California.

THOMAS E. CURRAN.

Whereas, In the wisdom of Almighty God, Brother Thomas E. Curran was called to his eternal rest on the 10th day of November, 1920, leaving many friends, besides his family, to mourn his loss. Brother Curran, as the organizer of Dolores Parlor, No. 208, N.S.G.W., was deservedly popular, owing to his genial disposition and ability; he was beloved by his brother members, and as a son of a Pioneer of California proved loyal to God and his country, besides, as a patriotic father, sending forth his kin to the mighty struggle for the right.

Resolved, That by the death of Brother Thomas E. Curran, the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West has been deprived of a member worthy of the highest respect; and be it further resolved, that we tender to the bereaved family of our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement, and trust that God, in His infinite mercy, will soothe them in their affliction; and it is further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of Dolores Parlor and a copy, suitably engrossed, be presented to the bereaved family.

EL DORADO COUNTY NOW HAS MUSEUM OF PIONEER DAYS' RELICS.

Placerville—With an appropriation of $1,500 made by the last Legislature, a building has been erected at Kelsey, El Dorado County, to house the historic smithy of James W. Marshall, discoverer of gold in California.

The building will be used as a museum, and will be in charge of a joint committee of Native Daughters from Marguerite Parlor, No. 12 (Placerville) and El Dorado Parlor, No. 186 (Georgetown), of which Mrs. Etta Kramp of the former Parlor is chairman.

In this museum will be housed the remains of the old blacksmith-shop of Marshall, many of his blacksmithing implements and some of his rude household furniture, as well as other relics of pioneer days now being collected by the committee.

LEGISLATORS AND ELECTORS TO MEET AT STATE CAPITAL THIS MONTH.

Sacramento—The California Legislature, Forty-fourth Session, will convene in the State Capitol January 3. It promises to be an interesting session; one proposition which will bring about extended argument and "wire-pulling" will be the re-assignment of senate and assembly districts made necessary by the 1920 census figures.

January 10, the thirteen Republican presidential electors chosen in November will meet in the Capitol to formally cast California's vote for Senator Warren G. Harding for president, and Governor Calvin Coolidge for vice-president, of the United States.

LET'S GO!

IN THE PROSPEROUS LITTLE ALAMEDA County city of Livermore there is a Parlor of Native Sons—Las Positas 96—that for a long time was small in numbers. The members of this Parlor not only said "Forward," but they determined to GO forward—and the Parlor has more than doubled in membership.

Now, all Native Sons for the past six months have been saying "Forward," but all Parlors have not doubled in membership; some, in fact, have made no appreciable gain. Why? Solely because a determination to GO has not preceded the spoken word "Forward!" In other words, nothing proposed is of much importance or value until such time as force is coupled with resolve and the thing accomplished.

What Las Positas Parlor has done, every Parlor, with no exception, is capable of doing. Whether it be done or no, depends solely upon whether a spirit of determination or a spirit of proposing holds sway. Every Parlor should profit by the example set by Las Positas Parlor, and appreciably increase, if not double, its membership.

We can have, if we so determine, from two to ten times as many members in the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West as now enrolled. And the Order's efficiency and power-to-conquer will increase from two-fold to ten-fold, in proportion to the man-power increase. Let's stop proposing, and GO! Let's start right in with the New Year, and wage a determined membership drive all through the year, so that, at the end of 1921, this Order will have increased in man-power at least four-fold.—C.M.H.

Working Plan for Historians in Prospect.

Historiographer Frank C. Merritt of Oakland has requested Chairman William J. Hayes of the Grand Parlor History Committee to call a meeting of the committee for the purpose of considering and approving the scope of work which Merritt has arranged for the dissemination of California history by the historians of the various Subordinate Parlors. The proclamation of the Historiographer, requesting every Parlor to appoint an historian, has been complied with to date by thirty-eight Parlors. It is hoped that a working plan will be effected by January 15.

J. C. Warren of Ukiah, Mendocino County, has advised that he is in possession of one of the deringers used in the Terry-Broderick duel. Historiographer Merritt has advised Warren to submit to him such proof, history, etc., as he may have, in order that the matter may be presented to the Grand Parlor at Stockton in April.

THINK IT OVER!

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, we believe, with the exception of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, the only organization that limits membership exclusively to NATIVE-BORN AMERICANS.

Knowing the serious conditions in this country today, this fact alone should impel every Native Son of California to immediately SEEK AFFILIATION with that American-born and American-operated institution, the man-power and wealth of which are pledged to the protection of American institutions in times of peace as well as in times of war.

stitution anniversary, Yosemite 24 staged the greatest event in its history December 14. Initiation of a large class of candidates started the program, the ritual being impressively exemplified by the Parlor officers. "Good of the Order" being then announced, Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde delivered a stirring address on "No Better Merchandise Sold Than a Membership in Our Order." C. W. Croop followed with a poem delivered by Past Grand President William M. Conley at the dedication of Lake Yosemite in 1888, and Joe Kelley of Modesto closed this part of the program with an address.

The banquet-room was then invaded and, while listening to jazz music and witnessing vaudeville numbers, a bountiful turkey dinner was done justice to. Then came the flow of oratory, with Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter directing its course. Cyrus W. Croop opened with the welcome address; other speakers, and their subjects, included: "California," Grand President James F. Hoey; "What Nativism Stands For," Past Grand President William M. Conley; "Some Problems for Native Sons," Superior Judge E. N. Rector; "What Native Sons and Daughters Are Doing in Homeless Children's Work," Past Grand President Walter D. Wagner. Regrets at his inability to be present on account of sickness were expressed in a letter from Dower K. Stoddard, the "father" of Yosemite Parlor. The committee responsible for this successful occasion included: Stanley Peard, Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter, W. T. Clough, J. C. Coeounour, L. A. Robinson, Earl Kendrick, P. R. Murray, John Baker, Smith E. Acker, D. R. Graham, Robert Cottrane.

Celebrates Thirtieth Anniversary.

Centerville—Washington 169 celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of its institution December 11 with the initiation of five candidates and a turkey banquet. There was a large attendance of members, and visitors from Eden 113 (Hayward), Wisteria 127 (Alvarado), Estudillo 223 (San Leandro) and Niles 250. Eight charter members were in attendance, as well as several others who joined the Parlor thirty years ago. Many reminiscences of the past were related.

Washington Parlor is in splendid shape, now having a membership of fifty-seven and resources (cash, Liberty bonds, etc.) of $4,300.

Initiation Regular Event.

San Bernardino—At the annual "home day" meeting of Arrowhead 110 December 1 six candidates were initiated, officers were elected, Charles E. McElvaine being chosen president, and there was a program of musical and vaudeville numbers. Arrowheads orchestra—R. W. Suel, L. W. Case, T. Ralh, Monte Weeks, William Johnson—furnished music throughout the evening. One of John Anderson's famous "feeds" was also a feature.

Arrowhead is arranging for another "big" time January 12, when a large class will be initiated. Many visitors from Los Angeles are expected on this occasion.

A Record To Be Proud Of.

Livermore—Las Positas 96 initiated a class of thirty-one candidates December 9, and realized its ambition to make a 100% membership increase in five months—a record which has never been equaled by any other Parlor in Las Positas' class, if, indeed, it has been equaled by any Parlor. July 1, the Parlor had ninety members; with the initiation just held the number has grown to 181; another class of at least twenty—thirteen applications being now on file—will be initiated December 30; so, by January 1, the Parlor will have at least 200 members, a 120% increase in six months. By April 1 the members of the Parlor expect to run the membership up to the 251-mark, so that four delegates may be chosen to the Stockton Grand Parlor. In the membership drive, too, the Parlor's motto, "Quality, Not Quantity," has not once been overlooked.

At the banquet which concluded the December 9 initiation, Jos. R. Aurocochea was the toastmaster, and spoke at length on the Parlor's relation to the community. Dr. Charles W. Decker, Past Grand President, who instituted Las Positas thirty-four years ago, reviewed the Order's history and related humorous incidents which were thoroughly enjoyed. Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington delivered a stirring address on "What Our Country and Our Order Stand For," and Charles L. McEnerney's talk on "The Spirit of California" brought appreciative applause. Edwin Kennedy's famous hair-raising "side degree" was put on during the evening. The Parlor is getting together a ritual team which will issue challenges to all the Parlors about the bay.

Las Positas Parlor takes this occasion to congratulate the editor of The Grizzly Bear for his fearless stand on the Jap question, and attributes much of its membership-increasing success to that one question; it believes that the field of every Parlor is most fertile with candidates who can be signed up, if the present members can only become thoroughly imbued with the real California spirit.

Reception for New Officers.

Oakland—Brooklyn 151 has elected officers for the January-July term, Anthony Mercurio being chosen president. January 12 a reception will be tendered the new officers. On that occasion Louis Friedman, senior past president, will be presented with a diamond-studded jewel.

Past Presidents Exemplify Ritual.

San Diego—San Diego 108 entertained a goodly delegation from the Los Angeles Parlors December 18, when a class of candidates were initiated. A team from Southern Counties Assembly, No. 4, Past Presidents' Association, made up of the following, exemplified the ritual in a highly creditable manner: Charles R. Thomas, Sr., P.P.; Walter Baskerville, Jr., P.P.; Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, P.; John T. Newell, IV, P.; C. C. West, 2V, P.; Al Cron, 3V, P.; Joseph P. Sproul, M.; Past Grand President H. C. Lichtenberger, I.S.; Julius Krause, O.

After refreshments had been partaken of, there was a program of speechmaking, with E. F. Hastings, president San Diego Parlor, as toastmaster. Among the speakers were: Grand First Vice-president Traeger, Past Grand President Lichtenberger, Dr. J. Ross Hardy, J. P. Sproul, Kyle Z. Grainger, J. T. Newell and Julius Krause. San Diego Parlor is making fine progress; largely through its efforts, San Diego County gave a good majority for the Alien Land Law. It now plans to undertake the restoration of San Diego Mission.

Initiates Entertained.

Martinez—Complimentary to a large class of candidates recently initiated, Mount Diablo 101 gave a ladies' night December 4. Six pretty girls served the dinner, a trio of girls furnished the music, and entertainers furnished vaudeville numbers. There was also a splendid menu of addresses, among the speakers being Grand President James F. Hoey, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, Phil Carey, Grand Trustee Frank M. Carr, Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynch. State Senator W. R. Sharkey was the toastmaster.

Will Have Basketball Team.

Suisun—Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynch of San Francisco officially visited Solano 39 December 11 and delivered an instructive address. A committee was named to organize a basketball team, and officers were elected, L. Grotheer being selected for president. A banquet concluded the meeting.

President Initiates Son.

San Jose—December 14 Observatory 177 had its last event for 1920, and it brought out a big crowd of members, as well as a large number of visitors, including a delegation of twenty-nine from Palo Alto 216. Six candidates were initiated, among them being Joseph C. Waterman, only son of President J. M. Waterman; the ritual was splendidly exemplified by the regular officers.

An excellent program of musical numbers by Charles Kemling, William G. Pengilly and Stanley

Egenso followed, under the direction of A. C. Hansen. The occasion was taken advantage of to extend congratulations to Arthur M. Free and P. F. Gosbey, popular Observatory members elected, respectively, to congress and the superior bench in November. D.D.G.P. George W. Tinney and Rev. Fathers Joseph M. Gleason and George Lacombe, all of Palo Alto, were honored guests of the evening. A banquet concluded the festivities.

Observatory Parlor is doing wonderful work, and has made a substantial gain in membership the past six months, its total now exceeding 200. J. L. Graves, as president, will guide its destiny during the first six months of 1921.

Hall Association To Meet.

Sacramento—The regular annual meeting of the Native Sons' Hall Association of Sacramento will be held in the association's splendid building January 12. Eleven directors will be chosen, the yearly report of Secretary Percy G. West will be presented, recommendations of the finance committee will be considered, and other important business will be acted upon.

Drummers Have Dance.

San Francisco—The first annual dance of the drum corps of Balboa 234, held December 11, was a big success. The Arrangement Committee was: Andrew Murray (chairman), Walter Anderson, Robert Ladarie, John Foge, S. Cohn, M. Tickner, Leslie Anfinson, P. Juchelli, E. Egan, A. Blair, J. Luchetti.

Past Presidents Elect.

Oakland—East Bay Counties Assembly, No. 3, Past Presidents' Association, has elected the following officers for 1921: E. A. Theile, chaplain; Frank C. Merritt, past governor; J. M. Ansell, governor; George A. Wilson, first vice-governor; W. B. White, second vice-governor; R. G. Barnett, third vice-governor; A. J. Cleu, financial secretary and treasurer; A. T. Sousa, recording secretary; A. Ryan, sergeant-at-arms; M. H. Glaze and R. E. Felton, sentinels.

Installation of these officers-elect will be held January 3, with J. F. Stanley of San Francisco Assembly, No. 1, officiating. At that time Santa Claus will appear with a present for each member of the Assembly.

Grand Trustee Visits.

Modesto—Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde of Sacramento officially visited Modesto 11 December 1, when a class of candidates were initiated. Prior to the meeting there was a banquet at which Clarence E. Tucker presided as toastmaster; Sol P. Elias delivered the welcome address, to which Grand Trustee Monteverde responded; other speakers included Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter of Merced, Roy Acker and F. H. Lee of Oakdale, and John Moorehead of Modesto. Visitors were present from Yosemite 24 (Merced), Oakdale 142 and Orestimba 247 (Crows Landing). After the meeting boxing bouts and wrestling matches were staged under the direction of Scott Snowden.

Celebrate Birthdays.

Mountain View—Mountain View 215, eighteen years old, and El Monte 205, N.D.G.W., seven years old, jointly celebrated their birthday anniversaries. Dancing furnished the main amusement, and refreshments were served. The committee in charge was Mrs. R. W. McDonald, Mrs. I. Merkel, Miss Nettie Collins, Otis Fellows.

Membership Drive Under Way.

Oakland—Piedmont 120 inaugurated a big membership campaign November 11 which will close March 31, and to enlist the active co-operation of all members has sent to each a letter setting forth the reasons why all eligibles should affiliate with the Order, and particularly, with Piedmont Parlor, the largest in Alameda County—60 members and assets of $22,000. The members are cautioned, however, not to propose anyone they would not invite to their own homes.

Officers of the Parlor were chosen December 2, William B. White being elected president. A bowling team composed of John Reali, M. W. Sevier, Henry Weber, Oscar Goranson and Carl Delen will represent the Parlor in the East Bay Parlor's Bowling League which commenced a contest for valuable prizes December 6.

Big Crowd at Anniversary Celebration.

Palo Alto—The eighteenth anniversary celebration of Palo Alto 216 December 6 was attended by 138 of the Parlor's 187 members as well as many visitors. During the evening officers were elected, Leland Johns being selected for president, and D.D.G.P. Fred L. Thomas, in the Parlor's behalf, presented jewels of the Order to Past Presidents Charles E. Tully and R. J. White.

"Get-together" Luncheon.

San Jose—The first of a series of "get-together" luncheons, attended by members from Santa Clara, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey Counties, was held December 12. That the wonderful work being carried on by the Order may become better known, the general public was invited to participate. Past Grand President Mamie Pierce-Carmichael presided, and addresses were delivered by the following: "Patriotic Californians," Congressman-elect Arthur M. Free of Observatory 177, N.S.G.W. (San Jose); "California as a Native Daughter Sees It," Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister; "No Place Like California," Thomas Monahan, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W.; "Missions of California," Anna G. Andresen of Salinas, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee; "Why Every California-born Girl Should Be a Native Daughter," Grand Trustee Mary Frances Mitchell. A musical program, directed by Mrs. D. J. Gairaud, followed, the participants being Misses Jean Belloli, Velma Riechmond, Adele Lewis, Ruth Ulrich, Dorothy Morrell.

D.D.G.P. Mrs. Raymond Plamondon was general chairman of the day, and the joint Committee of

NOTICE TO PARLOR CORRESPONDENTS

In sending matter for this department, the following regulations MUST be fully complied with:

Matter must be legibly written, on one side of the paper only, GIVE DATE OF AFFAIR REFERRED TO, and initials of all parties mentioned.

Contributions must be timely (not refer to something that happened so far back as to lose its news value), have some Parlor or general interest, and mailed so as to reach the magazine not later than the 20th day of each month.

These restrictions are imposed simply for the purpose of publishing a magazine worth while. Co-operate with the publishers by complying with the regulations, and your news matter will not only be given attention, but, what is more, the magazine will be of more interest to all members.

Failure to comply with ALL these regulations will result in contributions not being published. You can avoid this, generally, by promptness.

Arrangements included: Bonita 10 (Redwood City)—Mrs. Dora Wilson, Mrs. Augusta Adam; San Jose 81—Grand Trustee Mary F. Mitchell, Mrs. Maud Jury; Vendome 100 (San Jose)—Past Grand President Mamie Pierce-Carmichael, Mrs. David J. Gairaud; Ano Nuevo 180 (Pescadero)—Mesdames Mattei, Filben; El Monte 205 (Mountain View)—Mrs. Mayme Trulson, Mrs. Merkel; Menlo 211 (Menlo Park)—Mrs. Kate Russell Doyle, Mrs. Frances Maloney.

Busy Times.

San Francisco—A committee of Buena Vista 68 of which Adele Campbell was chairman prepared a Thanksgiving dinner of all the season's "goodies" which was enjoyed by about sixty members. December 2 a surprise "baby shower" was given First Vice-president Katherine Kavanaugh. A clothes-basket, piled high with packages, was brought into the room; at a given signal from chairman "rapo," ribbons were pulled and out came gifts for the expected one too numerous to mention. Ice cream and cake were served. December 4 a bazaar, for the success of which all members worked long and earnestly, added several hundred dollars to the sick-benefit fund.

Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited the Parlor December 16, and among the many visitors were Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Past Grand Presidents Addie Mosher, Margaret Hill, Anna Monroe, Genevieve Baker and Mary Bell, and D.D.G.P. Elizabeth Muller. A dinner served in honor of the visitor prior to the meeting was truly "some" dinner. During the Parlor session the ritual was creditably exemplified. On the Parlor's behalf, Past Grand President Bell, chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's festivities, presented Grand President Briggs with a half-dozen silver teaspoons.

Pioneers Entertained.

Lincoln—Placer 188 and Silver Star 63, N.S.G.W., entertained at a public reception the few remaining Pioneers; the occasion was also the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Findley. The ball, to which the guests were escorted, was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves; the table was strewn with poppies, while in the center was a beautiful and delicious wedding cake. Following the dinner the guests, led by Jean Tofft and Iris Schroeder, to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," entered the reception-hall; here the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Findley, were presented by Placer Parlor with a bouquet of gorgeous yellow dabbias, and with a basket of yellow corysanthemums from a sister of the bride in Los Angeles, Mrs. Bertha Landis delivering the presentation address.

"Our Pioneers," a poem by Mrs. Ella Weirick, was read by Miss Viola Lasswell; Fred Clark delivered an address, Mrs. Musser sang "O, Promise Me," Mrs. Gibbs, with piano accompaniment by Alice Finney, read "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," Bernice Comstock sang "Because," Pauline Sprinkle, Ed Gates and Kathryn Gates gave a piano-violin-saxophone trio, Hazel Kelly read "A Golden Wedding," Viola Lasswell and Mrs. Emma Jansen rendered "Love's Old Sweet Song," and Mrs. Ruth Fowler sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile." In behalf of Placer and Silver Star Parlors, R. P. Dixon presented the bridal couple with a gold piece, after which Mrs. Jansen sang "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet." The general public enjoyed the program and was served with coffee and cake. The Pioneers who enjoyed the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Findley, Mr. and Mrs. William Lasswell, Mrs. Nannie Kennedy, Mrs. U. P. Ahart, James French.

President Returns.

San Francisco—At a most enjoyable social session of Yosemite 83 December 16, President Marguerite Kaufman was welcomed home after a two months' absence in New York; she entertained with an account of her visit. This being also the birthday anniversary of Recording Secretary Loretta Lamburth, a birthday cake with lighted candles adorned the table upon which a delightful repast was spread.

Gifts were presented both these popular members. The evening was another of those enjoyable occasions for which the Parlor is noted.

Brightest Anticipations Realized.

Sonora—To every Parlor, the visit of the Grand President is always a little oasis of pleasantness in the desert of routine Parlor work. Each year the members of Dardanelle 66 look forward with renewed interest to the visit of the Grand President, feeling that she will have some new idea that will inspire to renewed efforts for the betterment and the future prosperity of the Parlor. November 26 the brightest anticipations of Dardanelle's members were fully realized when Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit. Quite a goodly number of members and a few visitors were present. One candidate, Mrs. Mary Hammill, was initiated.

Grand President Briggs complimented the officers on their excellent exemplification of the ritual—the charges being given letter perfect—and referred to the spirit of harmony existing in the Parlor. The address of the Grand President, in the course of which the various projects of the Order were explained, was listened to with great interest. On behalf of the Parlor, Past President Martha Marshall presented her with a gold-nugget pin. A program consisting of music and reading was enjoyed, after which a delicious banquet was served, the banquet-room and table being beautifully decorated with roses and Christmas berries.

Santa Claus Makes Appearance.

San Francisco—Golden State 50 gave a Christmas tree party December 10 which was well attended and greatly enjoyed by members and their children. During the evening this program was presented: Piano solo, Edwin Spillane; song, Grace Hogan; recitation, Constance Carriek; song, Marion Wende; song, Heinrich Kohlmoos; dancing, Baby La Point, Bernice Byrnes, Evelyn Hutcherson (pupils of Miss L. J. Byrnes); piano solo, Grace Spillane; recitation, Russell Henney; song, Lillian Boller; song, Miss P. Gareia; song, Marion Haggerty; dance, Maxine Abbott; toe dance, Miss Marion Jones. At the program's conclusion Santa Claus presented the children with toys, candy and ice cream, after which games were played, a large number of prizes being awarded. Miss Loretta Woolner, the organist, accompanied with splendid music. The Arrangements Committee was: Misses M. Tietjen, T. Wende, H. Mullane, G. Neumann, L. Muller.

December 15 Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited the Parlor. Among the visitors were Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Past Grand Presidents Mary Bell, Margaret Hill and Anna Monroe, D.D.G.P. Edith Griffin, and representatives from ten Parlors. Five candidates were initiated. The hall was prettily decorated with holly berries and small electric lights, reminding one of the coming holidays; all the officers were dressed in white, with corsage bouquets of holly berries. The Grand President complimented the Parlor and the officers for the manner in which the ritualistic work was rendered, stating that the balloting march was the best she had seen. To the Grand President was presented a silver cold-meat fork, and to D.D.G.P. Edith Griffin a silver pencil. Refreshments were served, bringing a very pleasant evening to a close.

"Seven Ages of Woman."

Chico—"The Seven Ages of Woman," the official title of the bazar held December 2 by Annie K. Bidwell 168, was voted a success in every way. The hall was arranged in booths, named for the seven ages of woman, and offering for sale articles appropriate to each age. Each booth was arranged and presided over by two members.

The complete financial return from the sale was $204.89. All articles sold being made by the members and donated, the returns were clear for the Parlor. In the evening those in attendance were entertained with music and dancing. The committee in charge was: Mesdames Ed. Henry, Lillian Crowder, J. F. Pendergast, B. F. Hindspeith, A. W. Bond, J. J. Kennedy, A. G. Eames.

Initiates Twelve.

San Francisco—Twelve candidates were initiated and six applications read at the meeting of November 23, when Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit to Presidio 148. Mrs. Briggs won the hearts of all present by her gentle manner. Presidio Parlor is grateful to her, as she was compelled to neglect a pressing business engagement and came all the way from Hollister purposely for this visit.

Entertains Native Sons.

Elk Grove—Liberty 213 and Elk Grove 41, N.S.G.W., gave a dance Thanksgiving night for the benefit of the homeless children. It was largely attended, and about $150 was cleared. The affair was ably managed by Mabel Thomas and C. C. Wackman.

Liberty Parlor recently entertained the members of Elk Grove Parlor at whist; Mrs. O. E. Colton, Rupert Dart, B. B. Smith, Mrs. Beatrice Waddell and Tom Johnston were the prize-winners. A "rainy night" supper—beans, buns, doughnuts, coffee, cheese—was served. Those responsible for the success of the affair were: Helen Elliott, Vivian Welch, Hazel Polhemus, Elsie Dart, Anna Kerby, Mary Caples. December 17 the Parlor entertained the members' children with a Christmas tree. A general good time, with plenty of refreshments, was provided.

Resumes Its Activity.

San Francisco—Twin Peaks 185 gave a most enjoyable dance, which was well attended and proved a great success. Dancing was in progress until a late hour, and all were sorry when the home-going hour arrived. The Parlor, which has been quiet for some time, is again on the active list, having initiated a class of twelve in December; a larger class is in prospect for January.

Compliments Parlor.

San Rafael—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited Marinita 198 December 6, when the ritual was exemplified for the benefit of ten candidates. Mrs. Briggs, in a very interesting address, spoke of the Order's activities, and complimented the Parlor on its work and increase in membership. President Antoinette Hecht, in the course of her reply, presented her with a gift from the Parlor. D.D.G.P. and Past Grand President Emma G. Foley also gave an interesting address, and also received a remembrance from the Parlor. Marinita is now looking forward to a Christmas tree party, to be given the "kiddies" December 20.

Large Attendance Grooms Grand President.

San Francisco—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit to Alta 3 December 11, when a large attendance of members and visitors, including Past Grand Presidents Margaret Hill and Anna Monroe, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee and D.D.G.P. Mae Edwards, greeted her. Mrs. Angela R. Goldbeck was initiated. The lodge-room was prettily decorated with greens and holly berries. Light refreshments were served.

Bride Is Showered.

Hollister—November 26, Mrs. Kate Young Regan, a recent bride, was tendered a kitchen shower by members of Copa de Oro 105, of which she is a member. Many beautiful and useful articles for the kitchen were received by Mrs. Regan. The hall was prettily decorated with holly. The large number in attendance enjoyed games, and refreshments daintily served at small tables. Miss Minnie Blewett caught the bouquet thrown by the bride.

At the meeting preceding the shower, three candidates were initiated. December 10, the annual Christmas tree and high jinks were featured. The festivities fairly sparkled with yuletide cheer, and many surprises were sprung on the large number of members in attendance.

Entertains at Whist.

San Francisco—In compliment for courtesies extended during the Admission Day festivities, Orinda 56 recently tendered an at-home whist to El Dorado 52, N.S.G.W. The evening was devoted to cards, light refreshments being served at the close of the game. Winners of prizes were: First, Mrs. F. E. Webster, G. C. Gunther; second, Mrs. Raymond M. Giannini, Chas. Reilly; third, Mrs. Harry N. Bishop, P. S. Hester. The lowest scores were made by J. S. Hurry, president El Dorado Parlor, and Miss Anna A. Gruber, secretary Orinda Parlor.

NATIVE SON NEWS

A turkey supper was served in the banquet-room, President Frank M. Ostrander acting as toastmaster. Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, Grand President when Palo Alto was instituted, spoke of the Order's work, and Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker related some early history. Addresses were also made by D.D.G.P. Fred L. Thomas, John Sullivan, Charles L. McKerney and Norman E. Malcolm.

December 13, Palo Alto staged the largest attended and most successful whist party ever held in this city; it was under the direction of Dr. A. B. Mayhew who, with his assistants, is deserving of great credit. The Parlor will have over 250 members soon—which means four delegates to the Stockton Grand Parlor—every effort being put forward to that end. Serious consideration is being given a proposal to purchase a building lot and erect a handsome home for the Parlor.

PERSONAL MENTION.

David Capurro (San Francisco 49) of San Francisco was a visitor to Los Angeles last month.

Alfred Dalton (Sutter Fort 214) of Sacramento, connected with the State Realty Commission, with his wife has taken up his home in Los Angeles.

At the November election three members of Santa Rosa 25 were elected to important offices, Clarence F. Lea being returned to congress, Superior Judge Emmet Seawell being re-elected, and Lucien E. Fulwider being elected to the state assembly.

Superior Judge James W. Bartlett (Mount Bally 87) of Weaverville, Trinity County, was recently tendered a banquet at Redding by the Shasta County Bar Association, in appreciation for presiding in the court of Superior Judge J. E. Barber (McCloud 149), who has long been, and still is, seriously ill.

EFFORTS APPRECIATED

From many sources, The Grizzly Bear received letters of thanks and congratulations for assistance rendered, gratis, in bringing about the great victory for California by the passage of the Alien Land Law. For months this magazine, because the demands of California in the Jap crisis were just, made a consistent publicity fight, dealing with facts; unlike many other publications which also rendered valuable service to the cause, it steadfastly refused a penny of yellow advertising money. The Grizzly Bear is published in the interest of California, and it fears neither wealth nor power when her welfare is at stake, as in the Jap crisis; in all the world there is not sufficient wealth to have purchased advertising or "news" space for the presentation of Jap or similar propaganda. California has, and will always have, need for a publication such as The Grizzly Bear, and its record in the battle against the Japs justifies its establishment and sponsoring by the Native Sons and Native Daughters, and warrants the support of every loyal Californian. Here are some of the messages of congratulation, addressed to the editor:

Japanese Exclusion League of California—"Allow us to congratulate you on the splendid victory. This was due, in large measure, to your untiring efforts."

Anti-Asiatic Association of San Diego County—"Congratulations to you and the valuable magazine of which you are the head, in the first victory to be attained in the fight to keep this a White Man's country. 'On to Washington, and national exclusion of the Orientals', should be our slogan in the future."

John S. Chambers, State Controller—"I want to sincerely congratulate you for your earnestness, your very effective work, and your splendid co-operation."

Ralph C. Clyde, Portland, Oregon—"Wish to compliment you for your assistance in putting the 'skids' under the Japs, as they seem to be an ever-growing menace and apparently will not assimilate."

James F. Hoey, Grand President, N.S.G.W.—"As Grand President of the Order of Native Sons, I certainly appreciate the efforts put forth to eliminate the Japanese menace in California. The article printed in The Grizzly Bear for March, 1920, ['Japan's Creed a Menace to the Peace of the World'] was copied in many of the papers of the state, and the members of the Japanese Exclusion League have stated that it was the best anti-Jap article put in print."

East Bay Counties Assembly, No. 3, Past Presidents' Assn., N.S.G.W.—Meets first Monday of every month, Native Sons Hall, 11th and Clay sts., Oakland; P. C. Merritt, Gov.; A. T. Sousa, Sec., 1541 Mozart st., Alameda.

Southern Counties Assembly, No. 4, Past Presidents' Assn., N.S.G.W.—Meets 3rd Tuesdays Feb. and Sept. (special meetings on call); Henry G. Bodkin, Gov.; Walter D. Gilman, Sec., c/o Sheriff's office, Los Angeles.

Grizzly Bear Club—Members all Parlor outside San Francisco at all times welcome. Clubrooms top floor N.S.G.W. Bldg., 414 Mason st., San Francisco; Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel, Pres.; Edw. J. Tietjen, Sec.

Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children—Main office, 955 Phelan Bldg., San Francisco; Judge M. T. Dooling, Chrm.; Mary E. Brusie, Sec.

JUST CALIFORNIA

Initiates Three.

San Juan Bautista—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, accompanied by a large delegation from her home Parlor, Copa de Oro 105 (Hollister), officially visited San Juan Bautista 179 recently. There was a large attendance of members, and three candidates were initiated.

At the close of the Parlor meeting dancing was indulged in until a late hour, when all repaired to the banquet-room and enjoyed a sumptuous banquet. The tables were artistically decorated with smilax and rosebuds.

Boys in Hospital Entertained.

San Jose—San Jose 81 entertained the boys at the base hospital, Palo Alto, December 5, with a program contributed by Miss Louise Finegold, Miss E. Camargos, Miss K. Schirrie, Mrs. Olive Williams, Miss I. O'Fallon, Mrs. Aura Lea Boomer, Mrs. John G. Jury, Clarence Walton, Mr. Newton.

Red apples were distributed by a committee headed by Anna Lea Boomer, and several interesting books were presented by a committee headed by Grand Trustee Mary Frances Mitchell. Mrs. Augusta Singleton had charge of the transportation arrangements, and Mrs. Maud Jury of the program.

Entertains at Formal Dance.

San Francisco—Keith 137 entertained members and friends at a formal dance. Theodore Savage, the floor manager, introduced many features which made the evening a remarkable success. The hall was typical of California, being decorated with flowers, garlands and State (Bear) Flags. The committee in charge was: Bertha Mauser (chairman), Helen Mann, Eunice Savage, Helen Fairbairn, Tillie Meyer, Anna Barney, Lillian Herzog, Genevieve Martell, Jennie Ginsto, Alice Gally, Elizabeth Graham.

Absentees Remembered.

Oakland—Piedmont 87 continues to initiate candidates at nearly every meeting, and the Parlor is enjoying unprecedented prosperity. A turkey whist November 17 was so successful that many were turned away owing to lack of sufficient hall space; fifty-five tables participated. To all members on the sick list and those residing away from the city, the Parlor sent Thanksgiving greetings.

During December Piedmont Parlor initiated five candidates and held a Christmas tree, which proved to be one of the most successful and pleasant evenings on record in the Parlor. A large tree prettily decorated and lit with electric lights, was in the center of the room, while the hall was filled to overflowing with members and their families. A short and delightful program was held, friends and children of the members taking part in the piano solos, duets, songs, recitations and dances. Each act called for loud applause. After the program Santa Claus was announced, and all the children gathered to meet him. Santa was impersonated by Miss Carol Murden, the charming young daughter of the efficient chairman of the evening. Toy balloons and stockings filled with candy, nuts and apples were given each child. Refreshments were served the grown-ups. After the distribution of gifts all officers of the Parlor were presented with potted poinsettias, the gift of the much beloved and generous member of the Parlor, Mrs. Mary McDonald. Miss Carol Murden furnished music on the piano for dancing, all present joining in and rounding out a most pleasant evening. Members of the birthday committee for December assisted Mrs. Murden to help make the evening a success.

The usual whist was held the fourth Wednesday, about sixty tables being counted. The proceeds go to the general fund of the Parlor. A donation from the Parlor was sent to the Alameda County Infirmary fund to help swell a collection to provide cheer and Christmas "goodies" to the poor and unfortunate.

Meet Together for Official Visit.

San Francisco—Orinda 56 and Sea Point 196 (Sausalito) met in joint session at the former's hall December 10 to welcome Grand President Bertha A. Briggs on her official visit. Past Grand Presidents Mary E. Bell, Margaret G. Hill and Emma G. Foley were in attendance. Emma Young, president Sea Point Parlor, presided during the opening and closing ceremonies, and Mary C. Connertin, president Orinda Parlor, officiated during the initiatory ceremonies. Edith Griffin, district deputy for Orinda, and Emma G. Foley, district deputy for Sea Point, shared honors for the good work done by the Parlor. Tokens were presented the Grand President, the district deputies, the presidents of both Parlor, and Past President Adeline Johnson Dryer of Orinda; Gussie K. Meyer, former district deputy and "mother" of Sea Point, was the recipient of a surprise token from Sister Viera of that Parlor. Remarks by Grand President Briggs and others were complimentary to both Parlor; May Barry responded to a call with a humorous recitation. At parting, after refreshments, yuletide greetings were exchanged.

gating, he found a California lion killing it. His dog caused the lion to take refuge in a tree, where he shot it. It measured eight feet four inches from tip to tip. The hog weighed 180 pounds, and was marketable at 6c a pound.

Five Chieo, Butte County, Inds, hunting geese and ducks together near that place, killed over 300 in three days.

The champion deer slayer of the state was claimed to be Indian Tom in Fresno County, who in three days had slain and sold twenty-one bucks.

Wm. F. Swinley of the "Incinnati" restaurant, Sacramento, went into bankruptcy and closed his establishment the first of this year. Being too liberal with his menu and giving credit, caused his financial famine. Swinley, for over a decade, with unique advertising picturing three jolly fat epicures as "Swinley's boarders, fat and content," caused the legend, "As fat and content as a Swinley boarder," to become a byword in sporting circles throughout the state when describing a person serenely situated.

As a boy, it made an impression on the writer who, having never seen men as large and as fat as he believed the Swinley boarders to be, had a desire to look at them. So, on a visit to Sacramento with his father when about 9 years old, he got him to go to the "Incinnati" to dine and satisfy his curiosity. We were served by Swinley himself. He was a small man, with long, black whiskers and, compared with the pictures of his boarders, not much larger than myself. Not seeing any boarder larger than his father, the writer left, disappointed, and, believing Swinley to be a fraud, never ate there again.

While deciding to go to the "Incinnati" to dine, and standing on the sidewalk a few blocks above the place, we were overheard talking by Wm. Land, then a "runner" for the Western Hotel and later a millionaire hotel owner in Sacramento. He importuned us for two blocks, almost into the doors of Swinley's restaurant, to go to the Western and try a superb 25c dinner.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOEEMER.

FASHION HAS NOT ALWAYS BEEN SO prodigal, either of materials or of style choice, as she is this season. Frequently the complaint is made that the latitude of choice is not good, either for fashion as a whole or for women en masse or as individuals. It tends, so it is declared, to subject the modern woman and to increase her constant demand for novelty, while, at the same time, it makes it extremely difficult, if not quite impossible, for designers to keep up with the demand.

After all, that state of affairs merely proves the tremendous interest taken in clothes. Everywhere women are better dressed than ever before, not only from the standpoint of costliness, but, more especially, from that of good taste. When have we had such wonderful fabrics as are offered us today?

Crepes flow abundantly. There are cariton, moon-glo, pussy-willow and crepe lunette, and all are of excellent durability. There is novelty of textures, as well as color, in the fabrics. Chevron brocades are visions of beauty in themselves. Woolly plaids or checks are unique and sporty; there are many new weaves and qualities on the market.

Sweaters are elaborate and dressy. Large shawl collars are attached to some, and thrown gracefully about the neck, with the fringed wool ends flowing over the shoulders. Broad sashes are attached, and loosely tied in one tie in the back. I have seen a model of navy-blue silk with silver stripes, having collar and cuffs of clipped silver threads resembling bath towel. And another, just as stunning, in vivid orange wool with long, loose bell sleeves; both sleeves and sweater were elaborately adorned in knitted Roman stripes of green silk, bronze and dull gold metal.

Girdles are becoming the chief ornament of luxury on some gowns, and are made of every conceivable material that is handsome and striking, from gold and silver to vivid brocades. Black beads are wound in and out of some, and others are dotted with beads of jade. Simplicity is the keynote of the afternoon gown.

MADE IN CALIFORNIA.

Cut work, according to the rumors that drift here, is a great fad. Frocks appear to be filled with port holes, so laden are they with eyelet embroideries and massive cut work. Serge and duvetyne seem particularly partial to it. There is also an extensive use of applique work.

The difference between style of up-to-date models and those of last year seems not so much in the lines of the garment as in the manner and detail of the trimming. Some of the smartest suits are using wide crushed girdles in bright shades of Canton crepe. Plaids are to be popular this coming season, but not the blue and green dark plaids that have been holding the front of the stage.

The general effect is to be light in color—either sand, cream, or light gray. Masilla and pewter are two new advanced shades. Pewter is a light gray, and masilla is a little darker, with more of a green cast. Elephant embroidery is another departure from the usual, and is supposed to be in honor of the Republican party.

A new dress fabric, called valentina, is making its appearance for spring apparel. It is an interesting material on the tricotine order, but differing from the more familiar cloth in that the diagonal ridge seems sunken into the cloth, instead of raised from its surface.

Blouses are coming into their own again, and are worn by the most fashionable people. If one's blouse is beaded, it is sure to be a success. Bright colors and gay embroidery are dominant notes observed in some of the newest models.

In answer to an inquiry as to what kind of stockings are being worn, I would say, sheer, cobweb hosiery, in polo and boulevard gray lace effects for afternoon, and shimmering silver and gold for evening. I might add, that to be correctly hosed is quite as important as being perfectly gowned or hatted.

The fancy shoe is increasingly popular. One of the smart styles is a pump of black patent leather that is embroidered in small rosebuds of erised leather cut into narrow threads. Another pump has sections composed of tiny checks of blue and black made by latticework of narrow blue and black leather. Straps of various sorts continue popular. One of the new ideas is the jet buckle or the calochon for the pump, or the dull steel ornament from which falls a steel fringe.

This season the waistline itself has been the feature to give the keynote to any given style. It is proved, moreover, the versatile point in its influence on the lines of the dress or suit. To lengthen the bodice and drop the belt line, puts the stamp of the season; or to partly shape the blouse and swathe the girdle about the hips, is sufficient to label the dress of eastern inspiration.

Accessories occupy a prominent position in the season's fashion. Several of them are of the sorts that have become almost essential to the main part of the attire, such as sashes, buckles, bracelets, necklaces, and the like. Most of the sashes are heavily and deeply fringed, and they are particularly well liked in gorgeous colors and soft fabrics. The buckles may be beaded, to match everything else in the world of fashion, or they may be of carved jade.

Gloves show a greater color variety than for some time. It is quite proper to wear pale gray or tan with the tailored dress, and, of course, the heavy mannish type of glove is always in good style for street wear. Even the short-sleeve dress is now linked up with gloves of soft kid in color, where formerly it was thought that only the white glove was the correct thing.

Short gloves often appear in two different kinds of sharply contrasting colors, such, for instance, as white and black, tan and white, or two shades of tan. The idea is carried out in gauntlet gloves, and in such as may be termed the bracelet effects, the latter having black band embroidery about the wrist. Extremely fanciful are the gauntlet gloves, faced with metal cloth and with the top slightly turned over to show the glittering lining. These sometimes have the backs studded with tiny beads.

PALMS

(ESTHER CRONE.)

You stand like pokers in the air,
And petticoats you seem to wear
Like drapery down your sides.
You fan the breezes with your fronds,
And make a noise like zephyr songs
That come and go with tides.

Los Angeles, California.

Neckwear has less to do with the frilly type these days, and shows more affiliation with the tailored effects. The shallow collar of hand-wrought embroidery of real lace is included on several of the most recent models, even to the extent of cuffs. Perhaps it is the great liking for frocks of velvet and velveteen that has paved the way for the return of the white neckwear. Most women will be glad to welcome it once more.

If one cannot go in for the extravagance of the silver frames for the hand bag, she may become satisfied with the bag with the celluloid top. It does not sound unusual, until one learns that the material is practically covered with hand carvings tinted to imitate old-time colorings. The bag itself may be of suede, or heavy brocade cloth, or of velvet. The pouch effects continue to be the ones best liked by the fashionables, although in purses there is an inclination to favor the envelope type, particularly in fine kids and leather.

LOS ANGELES BULLETIN

NINETEEN AND TWENTY HAS BEEN one of the very best years in the history of Los Angeles City, and it is certain that when the record is made public, with the beginning of the new year, such business indicators as building permits and bank clearances will far exceed all previous figures.

While no one knows what the future holds in store, there is now no reason to predict other than that the 1920 development pace will be maintained during 1921. Long at the head of the list as a residential and vacation city, Los Angeles the past few years has been making great strides forward as an industrial city, and development along that line is being given every encouragement. Without industries, no city can achieve greatness. But when a city has these, and, like Los Angeles, in addition is the mecca of home-seekers and vacation-seekers from all the world, it cannot do other than enjoy prosperity.

"California in Print."

"California in Print" is a little booklet, issued by the Los Angeles Public Library, containing titles of books to be found there dealing with the state. Practically every subject upon which information is likely to be sought is listed.

In addition to a goodly number of history books, the library boasts a rare collection of Californiana for reference use, which includes original sources dating from the early period of exploration through the American conquest.

New Home for Bank.

About February 1, the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank expects to be in a new home at 736-38 South Hill street, where a class A building will shortly be constructed for its exclusive use. The present quarters at Third and Broadway will be continued as a branch.

Another Security Opened.

Another branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, known as the Seventh-street Branch, has been opened in well-appointed quarters at Seventh and Grand avenue. Vice-president S. F. Zombro is in charge.

Father Witnesses Initiation Three Sons.

The ritual team of Southern Counties Assembly, No. 4, Past Presidents' Association, N.S.G.W., composed of the following, initiated a class of candidates for Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., December 10: C. R. Thomas, Sr.P.P.; W. Baskerville, Jr.P.P.; W. I. Traeger, P.; J. T. Newell, IV.P.; C. C. West, 2V.P.; A. Cron, 3V.P.; J. P. Sprout, M.; W. D. Gilman, Sec.; H. C. Lichtenberger, I.S. Among the initiates were the three sons (two of them twins) of J. D. Rogers, an old-time member of the Parlor.

January 28, Ramona will bring to a close a membership campaign with the initiation of a large class of candidates. A "big" time has been arranged for the night of December 31—to watch 1920 go out and 1921 come in. All members of the Order and their ladies have been included in the list of invited guests.

Has "Open" Meeting.

December 6, preliminary to a class initiation early in January, Corona 196, N.S.G.W., had an "open" meeting, when several eligibles and many members of the Order were guests. Wayne C. Jordan presided, and the program consisted of some splendid musical numbers and short addresses by Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin, Alfred Dalton, Henry G. Brodek and others. Refreshments were served following the program.

The Death Record.

Mrs. Carmelita Lugo de Talamantes, wife of Felipe J. Talamantes (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), died December 14 after a brief illness, at the age of 65. In addition to the husband, two daughters—Mrs. Viola O'Farrell and Mrs. L. Vaillancourt—survive. Deceased was a daughter of Jose del Carmen Lugo, one of the family of that name which, in the early days, owned vast estates. As a young woman, she was recognized as one of the Spanish belles of the community.

The mother of Miss Jessie Newlan (Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W.), who had long been a sufferer, passed away during the past month.

Arthur W. Schumacher, brother of John H. and Frank G. Schumacher (both Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), died November 25 at the age of 47.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Joseph N. Beardslee (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) has gone to Mitchell, Nebraska.

E. M. Buckins (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and wife returned recently from an extended Eastern trip.

Harry A. Chamberlain (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) was re-elected to the State Senate at the November election.

Ed. F. Cohn (Sacramento 3, N.S.G.W.) is confined to his home, suffering from the effects of an auto accident.

Henry G. Bodkin (Grand Trustee, N.S.G.W.) paid an official visit last month to Cabrillo Parlor, No. 114, N.S.G.W., at Ventura.

A. A. Schmidt (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) was among the Chamber of Commerce excursionists to Mexico, leaving Thanksgiving Eve.

W. F. Allen (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) was summoned early last month to Chico, his former home, because of the serious illness of his aged mother.

Bertin A. Weyl (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) has been appointed Superior Court Judge, to succeed Judge Gavin W. Craig, elected to the Appellate Court.

John J. Herlihy (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) was wedded in Santa Clara City Armistice Day to Miss Estelle Mace of that place; the couple will make their home here.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President, N.D.G.W.) has gone to Sacramento, to remain during the Legislature session; her numerous friends are hoping that she will be chosen secretary of the Senate.

CALIFORNIA LEADS.

California produces about two-thirds of the figs in the United States, and three counties of the state furnish 80 percent of the product, according to the College of Agriculture, University of California.

In the production of soft-shell walnuts, California leads the nation, say the university's agricultural authorities. The acreage planted to this crop is out-ranked only by citrus fruits, plums, prunes and peaches; the production is 50,000,000 pounds annually.

Vain, very vain my weary search to find that bliss which only centers in the mind.—Oliver Goldsmith.

CHINESE RIOT IN LOS ANGELES

Crinshaw, D. W. Moody, L. M. Mendal, Jesus Martinez, A. R. Johnston, Charles Austin, P. M. McDonald and J. C. Cox. Sheriff J. Frank Burns was instructed to arrest these men and hold them in custody at the county jail. All except Dominguez, Scott, Doland, Crinshaw and Cox were apprehended and brought to trial before the Court of the Seventeenth Judicial District, State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, Judge R. M. Widney presiding.

Captain C. E. Thom, then district attorney, took charge of the prosecution, while G. Ganahl, J. G. Howard and S. Haley, all able lawyers, represented the defendants. Some time was required to select a jury, and on account of the wide publicity given to the affair and the natural prejudices of many of the citizens against the Chinese, and for the further reason that many of the rioters were well-known characters and had many friends, a number of special venues for jurymen had to be issued. Finally, the following jury was accepted: Wm. Haddock, A. B. Crozier, Jesse Avise, J. P. Caldwell, R. M. Thurman, J. M. King, J. M. Donaldson, P. Clifford, G. W. Cole, A. W. Neighbors, J. W. Broadhead and George Blake. The latter was selected as foreman of the jury.

March 17, 1872, the preliminaries being arranged, the court was ready to begin the trial of the defendants. Attorney Howard made a strong plea to the court that, the day being St. Patrick's feast-day, it should adjourn, that the jurors might join the celebration. St. Patrick's Day celebrations, in the early days of the city's history, rivaled those of the Fourth of July and the 16th of September, the Mexican national holiday. Every red-blooded Irishman, and there were many, on the jury, wanted to join in the parade and "carry the green." The court, however, denied the motion for adjournment as inexpedient under the mass of business demanding its attention. The court then appointed J. M. Warner as phonographic reporter, and also, not having full confidence in securing a true and correct record of the case by the shorthand method, instructed the clerk, J. W. Gillett, to take down the testimony in the good old-fashioned longhand.

The prosecution opened its case by calling upon Dr. Joseph Kurtz, the coroner, as the first witness. Other witnesses, all prominent and well-known men of the time, were Emil Harris, deputy sheriff, who afterward assisted in the capture of the noted bandit, Vasquez; J. F. Burns, the sheriff; John Goller, the wagoumaker; Thomas E. Rowan, the baker, afterwards to become mayor of the city; Ben McLaughlin, the wheelwright; John Lazzarovich, who conducted a grocery and vegetable store; Mike D. Madegan, the liveryman; W. W. Widney, brother of the presiding judge; Solomon Lazard, the dry goods merchant and former councilman; Peter (Bully) Wilson, the drayman; John F. Ellis, the grocer; George E. Gard, afterward chief of police and sheriff; S. C. Foy, the harnessmaker; Henry C. Austin, editor "Evening Express"; Henry T. Hazard, later elected mayor, and others totaling some thirty in number. The defense put on only three character witnesses, but afterwards, upon motion, withdrew their testimony.

At the hour of 2 o'clock a. m. the jury brought in its verdict, finding Louis Mendal, A. R. Johnston, Charles Austin, P. M. McDonald, Jesus Martinez, Refugio Botilla and Estevan A. Alvarado guilty of manslaughter, and Adolf Celis and D. W. Moody not guilty. About a week later the court sentenced the defendants to the state prison at San Quentin for periods varying from two to six years.

After serving a little more than a year of their terms, on May 21, 1873, the Supreme Court decided an appeal that had been taken, and found that the indictment of the grand jury had been faulty. It reversed the judgment of the lower court, and ordered the discharge of the prisoners. The remittitur contains the following language of the Supreme Court:

"The indictment in this case is fatally defective in that it fails to allege that Chee Long Tong was murdered. The charge attempted against the defendants is that they were accessories before the fact to the crime of murder. It is alleged that the defendants did stand by, aid, abet, assist, advise, counsel and encourage one John Doe and one Richard Roe to feloniously, unlawfully, willfully, deliberately, premeditatedly and of their malice aforethought, to kill and murder one Chee Long Tong. Admitting that the defendants did all these things, still it does not follow by necessary legal conclusion that, after all, any person was actually murdered."

June 10, 1873, Judge Widney issued an order discharging the defendants. Nothing further came of the matter, as the defendants were never re-indicted. The "China riot" became a matter of history.

ADDITIONAL CALIFORNIA LYNCHINGS.

The triple lynching at Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, early last month, is the first occurrence of a similar nature since the Lookout lynching in Modoc County May 31, 1901, when five men—Calvin Hall, father, and Frank, James and Martin Hall, sons, and Daniel Yattis, son-in-law, were taken from the guards and hanged by a band of forty masked men about 1 a. m. These men had been suspected of cattle rustling for a long time, and their arrest and lynching was the culmination of a long-brewing public resentment.

Other lynchings during the past fifty years include these:

- Two Indians in Porterville, 1870.
- Three horse-thieves in San Diego, 1871.
- Two Chinese in Siskiyou County, 1874.
- Two white men in Santa Cruz, 1877.
- Five Mexicans in Bakersfield, 1877.
- Three horse-thieves in San Benito County, 1880.
- Two cattle-thieves in Susanville, 1886.
- Two Chinese in Colusa, 1887.
- Four men in Yreka, 1895.

Several men were lynched in the period from 1849 to 1870. What is said to be the only known lynching of a woman in the history of California occurred in Downieville, Sierra County, in 1851, when a Spanish girl was hanged for stabbing an American whom she claimed had insulted her.

WHAT BECOMES OF US?

We found this in the editorial columns of the "Mariposa Gazette"; whether it is original or not, we are not prepared to say, but it is good enough to pass along anyway:

When the workmen own the workshops, and the railroad men the rails; and the grocery clerks the groceries, and the mail clerks own the mails; when

GRIZZLYETTES

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

In a statement issued by his political propaganda bureau at Sacramento, after the Santa Rosa lynchings, the Governor of California is quoted as saying, among other things, "the example they [the lynchings] set undermines respect for law, and weakens the administration of justice." That is true, for, as Abraham Lincoln said, "There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."

The Governor could truthfully have stated, too, that the examples set by himself and other officials—in pardoning and dealing leniently with persons convicted of crimes who have influence rather than justice on their side—are indirectly responsible for the lynchings at Santa Rosa. Vote-getting, in the minds of most of our public officials, is far more important than law-administering; that is why criminals and crimes grow in numbers and ferociousness daily throughout the state.

If the members of the Legislature, about to convene in Sacramento, desire to legislate so as to relieve California of its burden of crimes and criminals, they will repeal the indeterminate sentence law, which gives the parole board more power than vested in the Supreme Court; they will take away from the Governor the right to pardon persons convicted of felonies, and they will repeal the probation law, which is abused in the interest of those who have money and "pull" at their command.

Unless the deplorable conditions resulting from the law's misadministration by weak-kneed, vote-soliciting officials are remedied we can look for more "rope parties," for The People of California have become sick and disgusted with the "sob-sister" administration of justice(?) in this state.

Recommendation is to be made to the State Legislature, it is reported, to amend the school law so as to require the oath of allegiance from every teacher and pupil in all private schools of the state. Such an amendment should not only be passed, but strictly enforced. We want in California no person nor institution not 100% American.

Most gratifying to the ears of the American public are the cries of distress emanating from the haunts of those Government-created and Government-developed birds-of-profit who, for the past four years, have been preying upon The People and filling their nests to overflowing with legalized plunder.

Their cries are, mostly, smoke-screens, designed to mislead the buying public. By means of them, the profiteers hope to create the impression that goods now "reduced" are being sold at a loss. As a matter of fact, there is not one of these "birds" who could not cut the selling-price of his wares in half, and continue to make an exorbitant profit.

Priests must come down! And they will, if The People "stand pat" and refuse to buy until they reach a legitimate level. Let the cries of distress from the profiteers go unheeded, stand firm for fair wages and fair living-costs, and conditions will soon return to normal and Prosperity will hold sway.

The Governor of California, in a letter to the Federal Secretary of State advising that the Alien Land Law adopted in November is now in force, said, "it becomes my duty to see that it is just as vigorously enforced as any other law upon the statute books." We're from Missouri, when it comes to the Governor enforcing this or any similar law.

It has always been his duty to enforce all laws, and since 1913 there has been an Alien Land Law on the statute books. Did anyone ever hear of the Governor making any effort to have that law enforced? Our present Governor can best be described in the words: "Heap plenty talk, heap little do."

the preachers own the pulpits, and the pressmen own the shops; and the drillers own the oil wells, and the jails are owned by cops; when the conductors own the street cars, and each driver owns a bus, will you tell the common people watinell becomes of us? —Calaveras Prospect.

Grand Jury Report on Torrens Titles

"This Committee was surprised and pleased to note the rapid growth of the new branch of the Recorder's office—the Torrens Title Department. This department furnishes to the public Certificates of Title for real estate at a nominal cost and without the long delays and large expense for escrows and searching of records under the recording system.

"Torrens Certificates are based on a judicial decree and are protected by the assurance fund held by the State Treasurer. The public is able by calling at the Torrens Title Department to ascertain the exact condition of the title to a piece of property without delay, as the Certificates are always down to date. Under the recording system, it is necessary to be schooled in the searching of records, or have a private title company write a certificate at considerable expense, showing the condition of the title.

"The pernicious efforts of private interests by continuous propaganda to deride and defame the Torrens System should be denounced by the free press, and if necessary, the people should rally in an organized effort to overcome the vicious opposition now engaged in an attempt to defeat the purpose of this excellent law."

THE NORTHERN MYSTERY AND THE DISCOVERY OF ALTA CALIFORNIA

Dr. Charles Edward Chapman

LITTLE FARTHER NORTH!

There was the location of those things which according to present-day conceptions were so mysterious and wonderful, though to the Spaniards the mystery was mainly in that their location was not sooner revealed. Still, the searches in the north that were most productive of romancing were with a view to the discovery of something not at all marvelous in itself and which in fact existed—though, to be sure, in less agreeable form than was to be desired,—a waterway around, or through, the continent of North America. Some indication has already been given about the origin of the theory of the strait, and of the attempts to find it at Panamá and then ever and ever more to northward. As early as 1541, Francisco Vázquez de Coronado had carried the strait at least as far north as Kansas, and in 1543 Bartolomé Ferrello sailed along the Pacific coast to about the present northern boundary of California, while swarms of European navigators from many countries ranged up and down the Atlantic coast. But it must be remembered that there were scores of others who said that they had been yet farther—even to the strait itself—or almost that far,—and there was hardly a man but knew, or had heard of, somebody who had been through the strait. The Indians, too, from a spirit of childlike exaggeration, or because the white men did not clearly understand them, or, indeed, because their own information was rather vague, repeatedly confirmed the conjectures as to its existence. Inevitably the strait was surrounded with a glamor which introduced wealthy kingdoms and rich cities along its banks—all the wonderful things that men had expected to find elsewhere but had not come upon. Thus it was that fiction became fact in its influence upon actual explorations. "But for this influence," says Bancroft, "it may almost be doubted that Spanish occupation at the end of the seventeenth or even the eighteenth century would have extended above Colima on the Pacific and Pánuco on the Atlantic side." Since men did not clearly know what was real and what was not, they went farther and farther afield to penetrate the "northern mystery" and in particular to discover the secret of the strait.

The search for the strait on the Atlantic side, from Darien to Hudson Bay, does not need to be told here. Eventually it narrowed down to a seeking of the "Northwest Passage." The names of Hudson, Baffin, Davis and James have been perpetuated on the map as a result of their search for the elusive strait. Meanwhile, a ceaseless campaign of discovery was being undertaken from the Pacific side, but here the seekers were almost all of them in the Spanish service, and the waterway became known as the "Strait of Anián." It is to be borne in mind, too, that the idea of the existence of a practicable way of communication between the two oceans was not given up until the last decade of the eighteenth century, after three hundred years of effort. Over a century later a boat did sail by way of the "Northwest Passage" or "Strait of Anián" around North America from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Roald Amundsen was the skipper, and his little craft, the "Gjøa," now rests high and dry on the Cliff House Beach by San Francisco, with its prow looking out to sea. The governing authorities of Spain would have preferred to believe that there was no strait, since its existence would be to that country's disadvantage, furnishing a route to rival nations or to freebooters whence they might attack the rich kingdom of New Spain. But if there were such a strait, Spain wished to be the first to find it, so as to fortify it and prohibit its use to others. For three centuries the fear of foreign attack by way of the strait or by way of some unknown great river, connected possibly with the Great Lakes, was one of the leading factors in inducing Spain to make preventive conquests in the north, and especially was this true as affecting the Spanish advance toward and into the Californias.

The story of the search for the Strait of Anián is one of the most fascinating tales in the annals of the New World. One way to trace it is through the medium of cartography, which is also one of the most enlightening sources for an understanding of European notions in general about the Americas. The number of published maps tracing the growth of knowledge about the New World during the first three centuries after the discovery would undoubtedly run into the hundreds or even the thousands. Some idea has already been given of the progress of geographical thought, from the early theories based on the belief that North America was Asia

The accompanying article is Chapter VII of the "History of Alta California," soon to be published by Dr. Charles Edward Chapman, of the History Department of the University of California, Berkeley. This new California history-book will contain much hitherto unpublished material. Other chapters will follow in these columns.

Dr. Chapman is well and most favorably known to readers of The Grizzly Bear; to him, more than to any other person, the publishers are indebted for the standing attained among students and lovers of California history. He has just recently resumed his duties at Berkeley, after an absence during 1920 in Santiago, Chile, where he was sent by the University of California as an exchange professor.—Editor.

and that the strait was in the vicinity of Panamá, followed by the conjecture that North America was a southeastward projection from Asia, but with a continuance of belief in the possibility of the strait. As time went on, the idea of the strait returned with new intensity. This was in part due to actual discoveries, such as those of the great unexplored inlets of the Atlantic coast, in part to the false or exaggerated stories that were told, and in part to a survival of old ideas. An example of the last-named influence is the persistence of the legend of Atlantis, or the island continent which the ancients said had disappeared beneath the sea. With the gradual disappearance of the North America as Asia idea, men wondered whether they might not have found the long-lost continent, and if that were the case, there had to be a strait or a passage around it, since Atlantis was an island. All of these changes in belief found record in the maps.

For example, the earliest known map of America, that made by Juan de la Cosa in 1500, indicated the possibility of a strait in Central America, though (with due regard to the reputed position of what we now call the Strait of Malacca) he placed it below the equator. Ruyseh's map of 1508 has South America as the New World, widely separated by sea, though indicated as uncertain, from the West Indies and Asia (in the position that North America actually occupies). Schöner in 1520 had a small North America called Cuba, a strait in Central America, and a channel separating it on the west from the nearby island of Japau. In a 1530 edition of the works of Ptolemy, a Greek geographer of the second century, North America has become larger, is included as part of the New World, and has no strait, but it does not extend far to the north, leaving a passage around it; Japan and Asia are only a few miles to the west. Orontius Fine, in 1531, reverted to the original idea that North America was Asia, and South America a southeastward extension from it, with no strait except the one discovered by Magellan. The Münster map of 1545 is similar to the above-named map of 1530, but North America extends farther north, and is separated by a strait from Asia and a gigantic Iceland (of about the same size as the North America), and these two in turn are separated from each other by a strait. The first map showing North America approximately as it is was issued by Ramusio in 1556. About the only strange feature is the appearance of the mythical Quivira in Alta California. Blanks were left for the regions beyond which actual discoveries had been made. Homem, in 1558, had a narrow North America, running from southwest to northeast, paralleling the line of the Atlantic coast. Homem had a number of straits, the most prominent of which was by way of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The great Ortelius, in 1574, issued a map which, like that of Ramusio, was substantially correct, showing the strait past the kingdom of Anián at about the point where Bering Strait in fact enters the Arctic Ocean. Wild geography was by no means dead, however. For example, Lok's map of 1582 shows an open sea above North America, which extends to about 45 degrees in the extreme northwest and to about 63 degrees in the northeast, at which point appears the strait. Incidentally, the kingdom of Quivira again finds lodging in Alta California. Even to the close of the eighteenth century there was a strange mixture of the real with the fabulous. De l'Isle's map of 1752 is substantially accurate as far north as Cape Mendocino, but just above that there is a great island-reaching western sea, and beyond that, at about 50 degrees, a strait goes through to Hudson Bay. In 1778 the American traveler, Jonathan Carver, indicates a river which had its sources near those of the Missouri and emptied into the Pacific, and as late as 1782 there is the Janvier map, showing an enormous "Sea of the West," with communication by rivers with the waterways of the east. Incidentally, these maps show where "mermaids" are to be found, and amazon islands, and other strange things.

*For a proper understanding of this subject one needs to study the maps. See Bancroft, Hubert Howe, "History of the Northwest Coast" (San Francisco 1886), I, 32-136.

The records are also teeming with memorials about the strait. There is one account by Menéndez de Avilés, the Spanish conqueror of Florida. According to Menéndez, he met a man in 1554 who said he went through the strait from the Atlantic to the Pacific on a French vessel. The vessel was wrecked on the return voyage, and the narrator of the story alone escaped. A certain Fernández de Ladrillero made a sworn statement that he had been on a voyage, many years before, that got near the strait on the northwest coast, but storms and damage to the ships had forced a return. He also knew an Englishman who had entered the strait while fishing for cod. Undoubtedly, Fernández told the truth as he saw it; it would seem that he was on the Ulloa voyage, and that the Englishman had entered the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Drake, who was in Alta California in 1579, was believed by many Spaniards to have returned to England through the strait, and their view was confirmed several years later by "a foreign pilot" named Morena, who told his story to a governor of New Mexico. Morena said that Drake put him ashore in the vicinity of the strait, while he was sick. Recovering his health, he had then wandered about for four years, and at length came to an arm of the sea dividing New Mexico from a great western land. This body of water extended northward, he believed, to the strait, and its banks had many large settlements, including a nation of white people. This sounded similar to the great western river of which Espejo had heard during his expedition of 1581-1583, for that, too, was rumored to have rich towns on its banks. But Espejo's river was real, the Colorado, and the rich towns were the pueblos of the Moquis, which to Espejo's Indian informants seemed remarkably wealthy. When John Smith was captured by the Indians in 1607 (on the occasion when Pocahontas intervened to save him) he was exploring the Chickahominy River for a passage to the Pacific! Father Marquette heard in 1673 that from a point five or six days up the Missouri there was a stream which went to the Gulf of California, and he hoped to make the discovery. One of the most remarkable stories was that of Diego de Peñalosa, an ex-governor of New Mexico. He said that in 1662 he made an expedition far to the northeast of Santa Fe, and came to the city of Quivira. After marching for two leagues through part of this city, Peñalosa sent out an exploring party which was unable to get to the end of the city. The natives said that there were other provinces farther on, which were so rich that even their ordinary dishes were made of gold and silver. Moreover, this land was along the sea, where ships might reach it easily.

Three voyages stand out from the rest as the most important among those that were never made,—the so-called fictitious, or apocryphal, voyages of Juan de Fuca, Maldonado, and Fonte. In 1596 Fuca told the Englishman, Lok, that he had been in command of a Spanish voyage of 1592 up the Pacific coast in search of the strait. He had found the strait beyond 47 degrees, and sailed through it, after which he returned to Acapulco. The Maldonado voyage was supposed to have been made in 1588, but the story was first told in 1609. According to Maldonado, he had entered the strait off the coast of Labrador, coming out into the Polar Sea and then passing through another strait in 60 degrees into the Pacific Ocean. Fonte is supposed to have made his voyage in 1640, though both Fonte and the story were invented in 1708. Fonte made his voyage from the Pacific side, and entered a river in 53 degrees. Eventually he met a "Boston ship" coming from "Maltehusets," and this proved the existence of the strait. These reputed voyages are entirely discredited now, but they had a tremendous influence on explorations. The Spaniards, under whose auspices they were supposed to have been made, never believed in these voyages, for their records contained nothing about them, but the French and English did credit them, down to the close of the eighteenth century; they thought the Spaniards had discovered the strait, and wished themselves to share in its advantages. It is often said that the Spaniards lost interest in the "northern mystery," but there is a continuous documentary record, at least as late as 1776, showing that they gave attention to the strait or "river of the west," and persisted in a search for one or the other, in fear that the English or French had already discovered such a passage or that they might be on the point of doing so. Indeed, one of the primary objects of an official Spanish voyage of 1791 was to settle, once for all, the question of the strait. Incidentally, the fame of at least one fictitious voyager, Juan de Fuca, has been recognized by posterity in the application of his name to the strait that enters Puget Sound and also to a cigar!

It is probable that the mountain peaks of Alta California may have been seen by some of the early Spanish expeditions to the Colorado, which thus may have a certain claim for the discovery of the land. Ulloa went to the head of the Gulf of California in 1539. In 1540 Hernando de Alarcón duplicated this achievement, and ascended the Colorado for a number of miles in small boats. In the same year, Melchor Díaz, in command of a branch of the Vázquez de Coronado expedition, marched overland to the Colorado, with a view to co-operating with Alarcón. Both of these men, it would seem, did not get as far north as the Gila, wherefore it is likely that they did not actually reach Alta California soil. The direct cause of the first expedition which is known to have set foot in Alta California was the search for the strait of Aníán. Beyond Ulloa's farthest north there remained an untried course, which the viceroy, Mendoza, resolved to exploit, in the hope that he would find the much-desired strait and thus provide an all-Spanish direct route from Spain to the East Indies. In command was a certain Juan Rodríguez Cabrillo, a Portuguese by birth and a skilled mariner. Little is known of his early career, but he is believed to have been in the service of Cortés and later, of Alvarado, one of Cortés' lieutenants in the former's conquests in New Spain. The chief pilot and eventual leader of the expedition, after the commander's death, was Bartolomé Ferrello, described as a native of the Levant.

On June 27, 1542, Rodríguez, or as he has always (though improperly) been called, Cabrillo, set sail from Navidad on the west coast of New Spain, with his own and another ship under his command. "The vessels were smaller than any of our coasting schooners," writes George Davidson. "They were poorly built and very badly outfitted. Their anchors and ironwork were carried by men from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific; they were manned by conscripts and natives; were badly provisioned, and the crews subject to that deadly scourge of the sea, scurvy." Arrived at the mouth of the Gulf of California, that body of water was found to be in its all too customary state, and it took four days to cross over. Thereafter Rodríguez proceeded leisurely up the western coast of the peninsula, stopping frequently. While at San Quentin, a little above the 30th parallel, he was informed by the Indians that there were white men like themselves farther east. On four other occasions, at San Diego, Catalina Island, San Pedro, and Ventura, the Indians told the same story. It is probable that the word had been passed on, from tribe to tribe, of the Vázquez de Coronado expedition or its offshoots toward the Colorado. At last, on Thursday, September 28, 1542, after three months of voyaging, Rodríguez and his men "discovered a port, closed and very good, which they named San Miguel." They were in fact at San Diego, and had achieved for themselves the glory of discovering Alta California,—all unwittingly, for to them it was the same land as before.

On this same day they entered the port and went ashore. The Indians were greatly terrified, and that night fired arrows at some Spaniards who were fishing, wounding three of them. It appears that their fear was inspired by the accounts they had received of the Spaniards in the east, who had been reported as killing many natives. But here as elsewhere Rodríguez made gifts to the Indians, and gave them no occasion for terror or resentment. After a stay of six days at San Diego, the fleet put to sea again, and took four days to reach Catalina Island, where Rodríguez arrived on October 7. Next day, he stopped at San Pedro, proceeding on the following day to Santa Monica. On the 10th the fleet reached Ventura, where the Indians came out to meet them in large canoes, each of which held twelve or thirteen men. For the fifth time the Spaniards were told of men like themselves to the east, and heard also that "there was a great river," which may have kindled hopes respecting the chief object of their voyage. Friday, the 13th, had no terrors for them, for on that day they resumed the voyage, going up the Santa Barbara Channel and anchoring on successive days at Rincon, Carpinteria (four or five miles west of Point Goleta), Refugio (ten miles farther on), Gaviota Pass, and Point Concepcion, which they reached on October 18, this being the farthest north that any landing was made. Here they encountered a strong northwest wind. They stood out to sea to southward, and soon made port at Cuyler's Harbor in the Island of San Miguel.

Rodríguez remained here for a week, in course of which he had a fall, breaking his arm near the shoulder. Nevertheless, he gave orders to continue the voyage. For a month now, from October 25 to November 23, the expedition encountered storms. Rodríguez and his men seem to have rounded Point Concepcion, and at one time tried "to approach the mainland in search of a large river which they had heard was on the other side of Cape Galera [Point Concepcion], and because on the land there were signs of rivers. But they found none, neither did they anchor here, because the coast was very bold."

Forced back by the storm, they returned to the Gaviota Pass anchorage for a stay of five days. Putting out again November 6, they took several days to reach and get around that point, but were then driven to sea by a storm, and did not make land again for eight days. "So great was the swell of the ocean that it was terrifying to see," says the chronicler of the voyage, who was on the flagship, adding, later, that "Those on the other ship had experienced greater labor and risk than those of the captain's ship, since it was a small vessel and had no deck."

For four days the two ships lost sight of each other. On the 14th those on the flagship sighted land at Northwest Cape, in 38° 31', near Fort Ross, having passed, without seeing them, such important parts of the coast as the Bay of Monterey, the Golden Gate, the Bay of San Francisco, and Drake's Bay. The storm which had driven them north shifted to another quarter, and compelled them to run south. On the 16th, they discovered Drake's Bay, but were unable to go ashore, though they remained in that vicinity until November 18. It was on the last-named day that they came nearest to discovering the Bay of San Francisco, which they seem to have passed. The entry in the journal for that day is as follows: "The following Saturday they ran along the coast, and at night found themselves off Cape San Martín [Point Pinos]. All the coast run this day is very bold; the sea has a heavy swell and the coast is very high. There are mountains which reach the sky, and the sea beats upon them. When sailing along near the land, it seems as if the mountains would fall upon the ships. They are covered with snow to the summit, and they named them the Sierras Nevadas.* At the "Snowy Mountains." beginning of them a cape is formed which projects into the sea, and which they named Cape Nieve."

"Cape Snow." The two places named were regarded by Davidson as the Santa Cruz Mountains and Black Mountain, but (since few writers have been able to agree as to the precise route of this voyage) one wonders if the storm-tossed navigators might actually have seen the Golden Gate, mistaking one headland at its entrance for a point running into the sea. At any rate, the vessels seem to have followed the coast this day, and not to have been troubled by fog. Several days later, on November 23, they entered Cuyler's Harbor again, glad, no doubt, of the opportunity that port afforded them for a respite from their experiences. They had found no shelter at all in their voyage beyond Point Concepcion, the journalist records, for the coast was bold and rugged, and they had met with strong winds and a heavy sea.

The weather was now so continuously bad that a stay of nearly three months was made on the islands of the Santa Barbara Channel, mostly at San Miguel. On January 3, 1543, while they were still at this island, Juan Rodríguez Cabrillo died, as a direct result of the broken arm he had suffered there, several months before. Undoubtedly, the exposure to which he had been subjected in the difficult voyage of November had been more than he could stand. Courageous to the end, he charged his men with his dying words to carry on the voyage and explore as much as possible of that coast. In every way, it would seem, this man, the earliest of Alta California's heroes, is worthy of the respect of posterity. Martín Fernández Navarrete, a distinguished Spanish historian, has this to say of Rodríguez's achievement: "Those who know the coast which [Rodríguez] Cabrillo discovered and explored, the kind of vessels in which he undertook the expedition, the rigorous season during which he pursued his voyage in those intemperate climes, and the state of the science of navigation at that period, cannot help admiring a courage and intrepidity which, though common among sea-faring Spaniards of that time, cannot be appreciated in our day, when the navigator is fairly dazzled by the assistance furnished him through the wonderful progress of the arts and sciences, rendering his operations easier and supplying him with advantages which, as they were lacking to the early discoverers, make their courage and perseverance as portentous as their discoveries." If it was difficult in Fernández's day to appreciate the problems that confronted the navigators of Rodríguez's time, how much more lacking in a conception of the dangers they had to face must people of this day be, for the Fernández account was published in 1802, when nautical science was much less advanced than it has since become! In honor of their dead commander his companions changed the name of the island where he died from "Posesión" (which they had called it before) to the "Island of Juan Rodríguez." Neither the name nor the full meed of that pilot's glory has, however, been preserved to him.

Bartolomé Ferrello now took command, and on February 18, after some preliminary cruises of little moment, resumed the voyage. Going out to sea before rounding Point Concepcion, he did not approach the coast until he had reached Northwest Cape, at Rodríguez's farthest north. Proceeding under great difficulties, with but little opportunity to view the coast, Ferrello is believed to have passed beyond what is now the northern boundary of California to about opposite the Rogue River in Oregon, in latitude 42° 30'. The account of the voyage that day, March 1, 1543, makes it perfectly clear why Ferrello then turned back: "They ran this night (February 28) to the west-northwest, with great difficulty, and on Thursday (March 1), in the morning, the wind shifted to the southwest with great fury, the seas coming from many directions, causing them great fatigue and breaking over the ships; and as they had no decks, if God had not succored them they would not have escaped. Not being able to lay-to, they were forced to send northeast toward the land; and now, thinking themselves lost, they commended themselves to Our Lady of Guadalupe and made their vows. Thus they ran until three o'clock in the afternoon, with great fear and travail, because they concluded that they were about to be lost, for they saw many signs that the land was near by, both birds and very green trees, which came from some rivers, although because the weather was very dark and cloudy the land was invisible. At this hour the Mother of God succored them, by the grace of her Son, for a very heavy rainstorm came up from the north which drove them south with foresails lowered all night and until sunset the next day; and as there was a high sea from the south it broke every time over the prow and swept over them as over a rock. The wind shifted to the northwest and to the north-northwest with great fury, forcing them to send to the southeast and east-southeast until Saturday the 3rd of March, with a sea so high that they became crazed, and if God and His blessed Mother had not miraculously saved them they could not have escaped. . . . With respect to food they also suffered hardship, because they had nothing but damaged biscuit."

Yet, the diarist records that they believed there was a very large river in the vicinity of their farthest north; they did not wholly forget their quest for the passage through the continent, though the storm did not permit them to stop for a search. Meanwhile, their troubles were not over. On March 4 the flagship lost sight of the consort, and when days mounted into weeks without news of her, she was believed to have been lost. Arrived at the "Island of Juan Rodríguez" on March 5, Ferrello was unable to enter the port, so terrible was the storm, but soon found shelter behind Santa Cruz Island.

Going southward, now, Ferrello stopped at Ventura, Catalina Island, and San Diego, in Alta California, making futile inquiries for the lost ship. He does not seem to have been so careful to please the Indians as Rodríguez had been, for there is no further mention of the giving of presents, and at Ventura Ferrello "secured four Indians," and at San Diego "secured two boys to take to New Spain as interpreters." On March 17 he left San Diego, and went successively to the Bay of Todos Santos, San Quentin, and Cerros Island in Baja California. On March 26, while they were at that island, the consort came out of the sea, to the great rejoicing of all. It had been missing for three weeks. As told in the journal, "they thought they would be lost, but the sailors promised Our Lady to make a pilgrimage to her church stripped to the waist" and "Literally 'naked' (en carnes). she saved them." Supplies were now too low to permit of their resuming the exploration. So they returned to the port of origin, Navidad, arriving there on April 14, 1543. How many returned of those who had in the first place set out from there the journal does not say.

The Rodríguez-Ferrello expedition had not discovered the strait or any wealthy kingdom of Quivira, wherefore in some senses it had been a failure. It had, however, made known some eight hundred miles more of coast and its trend northwestward toward Asia; the strait had therefore been very appreciably pushed to the north and farther away from New Spain. This might well have been considered a satisfactory achievement by the viceroy, Mendoza. To Californians, however, it is enough that Rodríguez and Ferrello have given them a noble tradition,—of a discovery of Alta California under conditions requiring a courage and tenacity that seem to have been almost superhuman.*

JAPS WILL TRIUMPH OVER CALIFORNIA UNLESS FUNDS ARE PUT UP FOR EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

John S. Chambers
(STATE CONTROLLER.)

GREATER NEED OF BRINGING home to our fellow-citizens of the Middle West and the Eastern states a clear understanding of the Japanese menace to America never existed than it does today. It is true there is more discussion of the issue the country over now than ever before, and also true that in the Middle West, and, to some degree, in the East, the California attitude is making apparent progress, but as far more than offsetting this development is the building up and solidification of the opposition, making it greatly more effective than was the uncrystallized sentiment, such as it was, that existed heretofore.

Many of the leading newspapers and magazines of the East are carrying numerous and vigorous pro-Japanese articles; the churches are being more thoroughly organized than ever along lines of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God theories, while money from Japanese sources is being spent without stint for the purpose of influencing public sentiment and undermining Americanism.

It is obvious that unless the California point of view—and that is, of course, the American point of view—is put forward more vigorously and along organized lines, the Japanese will triumph.

It is difficult for us here in California to understand the attitude of the average American citizen of the East. Not coming in contact with the Japanese as we do; in fact, seldom even meeting one, he fails entirely to get either the racial or the economic point of view that is forced upon us. He reads that the population of California is over 3,000,000, and that of this number only about 100,000 are Japanese; likewise, he reads that there are over 99,000,000 acres in California, and that of this vast acreage the Japanese only occupy a little over 450,000 acres. He fails, however, to grasp the facts—either because they are not presented to him at all or, if presented, not properly so—that the Japanese settle in colonies, thus forcing out the whites in such districts; that next to the Negroes of central Africa they are the most prolific race on earth, and, proportionately speaking, that their birth rate in California now exceeds that of the whites. He fails to grasp, likewise, that in California less than 12,000,000 acres are in improved farms and that the irrigated acreage is far less, and that in many of our richest counties the Japanese occupy 75 percent of the irrigated area, and that the bulk of their other colonies are located in the choice sections of California.

Plus the menace of colonization and very high birth rate, come the industrial habits of these aliens, far beneath the standard of the white men and with which white men cannot compete. Socially, politically and religiously the Japanese are and always will be alien to us! As they live in colonies, mix among themselves and hold to their pagan religion, so do they remain subjects of Japan, tied politically to that country by a chain that never is broken. Their allegiance is first, last, and all the time to Tokio and not to Washington, even though in name citizens of America. In this state, as Professor Kuno, the Japanese representative at the University of California, has frankly admitted, there is a Japanese government, based first upon local groups, then the main associations, then the two consuls at Los Angeles and San Francisco, and, finally, the mikado's government itself.

It is not until these and other important facts are put together that a real understanding of the Japanese menace can be acquired. We know it in California, because it has been forced upon us. Our brothers across the Rocky Mountains, except here and there, do not know it, because it has not been forced upon them and because the propaganda of the Japanese is continually at work turning them against us. The only remedy is to fight back by propaganda of our own! We must begin, and as soon as possible, a thorough and a continuous campaign of education in the Middle West and the East by newspapers, by magazines, by speakers, by pictures, and such other means as may be suggested, so that we can bring home to the citizens of our country just what the condition is here in California, just what this condition means to us, and what it will mean eventually not only to the Pacific Coast but the United States of America.

We are approaching a crisis in our Japanese relations. That government and its subjects here in California fought our Alien Land Law and are continuing that fight today in Washington. They are demanding impossible things, with an effrontery that arouses the keenest indignation. Our State Department has never met the diplomats of Japan as they should be met, with a bold and outspoken declaration of just what America means and stands for. Time after time our Washington representatives have been outwitted by the skillful Orientals. If those in high places in Washington, representing Californians as well as the citizens of the other states, will not of themselves bravely assert our position and tell Japan to make the most of it, then we must create a public sentiment that will force these officials to do their duty in the name of America! And the only way to force them, the only way to create this sentiment, is by drilling home to our fellow-citizens of the East and the Middle West just what the situation is here in the State of California.

And to do that is going to take money. It is going to take a lot of money. Every man, woman and child in this state who loves California, who loves America, who stands for the white race as against the brown or the yellow, should contribute, and gladly contribute, to this movement. We are aiming at $200,000. The Japanese spent as much in our recent state campaign. In a national campaign they will spend five or ten or twenty times as much, if necessary. We must have money, and the sooner the better. If the money is not forthcoming, the educational campaign cannot be carried on. And if it is not carried on, then the Japanese will win, and California, and eventually America, will lose. It is a matter of urgency. America is a vast country, and generous contributions will be required if it is to be properly covered. And it must be properly covered if public sentiment of the kind we want is to be erected. Until that sentiment is created we cannot look for relief from Washington.

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

February 7 the Japanese Exclusion League of California, of which Colonel John S. Chambers is the directing head, will inaugurate a campaign to raise $200,000 for educational work, and every man and woman who believes in California for the White Race, should contribute liberally.

This educational campaign is necessary, to take the "prop" out of the propaganda being spread by the white-Japs and yellow-Japs and their numerous organizations throughout the East in ton-lots, in the hope that the National Government may pass legislation nullifying the Alien Land Law, adopted by The People of California in November.

In this state there are forty-seven Jap associations and seventy-odd Buddhist temples, here to do the bidding of the mikado—here to assist Rev. Gnlick, Vanderlip, and other white-Japs, in Japanizing California. Since the November election the secretaries of those associations and the priests of those temples have, with the aid of several Jap papers, been collecting an "emergency fund" which, to date, amounts to $100,000, and is still growing. This fund is being raised to "influence legislation;" some of the Jap papers openly admit as much.

The Jap diplomats and propaganda-agents are tricky and clever; this fact is apparent to all who have kept in close touch with the California land law situation. With their "emergency fund" they are doing a great deal of damage to California's just cause. It is to repair this damage, and to prevent more from being wrought, that the Japanese Exclusion League must have ample funds. When the truth is made known, through the proposed educational campaign, White America will stand solidly back of California.

The Grizzly Bear has not hesitated to tell the truth regarding the Japs, and their purpose in California. Every day, nearly, additional evidence is brought out confirming our belief that the yellow Japs, aided by their home-government and white Japs here, are determined to win California for the Yamato race. The Japs have "future race plans for a hundred years," and those plans, which include the acquisition of California and the west coast of the United States for Japan, the Japs in this state have resolved to "defend to the death at whatever sacrifice!" And the Japs will succeed, unless the United States, led by California, which has seen the handwriting on the wall, turns a deaf ear to the "equality" and "justice" pleas of the Jap propagandists and not only makes it impossible for them to get a stronger foothold here, but forces them back where God Almighty intended they should be kept—in Asia.

"AMERICANIZATION" BUNC.

The latest move of the Japs to divert attention from their real purpose in California is their widely-propagandaed "campaign for Americanization of Japs," now here. The first requisite for Americanization is respect for and obedience to the law of the land. The Japs have no respect for, therefore fail to obey, laws not to their liking—laws that appear as an obstacle to their "peaceful invasion."

Until the Japs in California relinquish all claim to the land they now illegally hold in this state—land acquired since the passage of the 1913 Alien Land Law—the sincerity of purpose in their "Americanization campaign" will appeal to none, except, possibly, the white-Japs, who masquerade as Americans but, in fact, are servants of the mikado.—C.M.H.

SMOKING OUT JAPAN.

Real Intention Disclosed When She Feared California Might Cease "Discriminating."

The proposal that California pass an Anti-Alien Land Bill applying to all nations has served the useful purpose of smoking out the Jap agitators. They now admit that it is not a question of sensitiveness, of national dignity, but of practical advantage. They do not want to be put on any theoretical basis of equality with other nations. They want what they want, and that is the unrestricted right to Japanize the Pacific Coast of the United States. And they raise this question of "right" against the United States and not against Canada or Australia because they think that they can make their drive good against us and they fear that they could not make it against the British Empire. This distinction is not flattering to us, but it warrants due consideration. The right of penetration is the only thing that will satisfy Japan, because it wishes to find foreign territory for its surplus population, and it is willing to take chances on keeping the loyalty and support of such emigrants, even though they may acquire or be granted citizenship in the United States.—Fresno Republican.

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL.

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more for the year 1920; married couples who had net income of $2,000.

WHEN? March 15, 1921, is the final date for filing returns and making first payments.

WHERE? Collector of Internal Revenue for district in which the person resides.

HOW? Full directions on Form 1040A and Form 1040; also the law and regulations.

WHAT? Four percent normal tax on taxable income up to $4,000 in excess of exemption. Eight percent normal tax on balance of taxable income. Surtax from 1 per cent to 65 per cent on net incomes over $5,000.

Labor, if it were not necessary to the existence, would be indispensable to the happiness of man.—Dr. Johnson.

RESUME OF IMPORTANT STATE NEWS A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

WELCOMED CLOUDS APPEARED IN the sky during the first few days of February, 1871, and half an inch of rain fell. Not until the 19th, however, did a real storm for the season sweep over the state. It flooded the valleys, soaked the foothills, and covered the Sierras with a seven-foot mantle of snow. It increased the season's rainfall to 7.22 inches at the end of the month.

A big gale from the southeast blew on the 20th and 21st, blowing down many buildings under construction, flumes, barns and other structures. A patent windmill brought from the East by the railroad company and erected at Biggs, Butte County, at a cost of over $5,000, was wrecked.

The wall of a three-story brick building in San Francisco, February 20 was toppled over and, falling upon, crushed a frame lodging-house at 113 Minna street. Mrs. McDonald, the proprietress, and her infant child, Miss Mary Logan and Lizzie Sherry, a 11-year-old girl, were taken out dead. James Sherry, a 12-year-old lad, and Wm. Anderson were dangerously injured.

Lightning struck a Catholic church at San Mateo February 20 and left a zigzag burned streak down the inside of a wall.

Mount Diablo and Mount Tamalpais were covered with snow February 22, and so were the tops of the Coast Range. Two feet of snow fell on the Tehachapi Range.

The changed situation from years of drouth to confidence in getting sufficient moisture was shown in a newsgram from the telegrapher at Chico, Butte County, who reported: "Farmers are feeling jubilant, and are again playing pedro."

The steamer "Salinas," plying between San Francisco and Santa Cruz County, was closed in by a bar formed by the storm at the mouth of the Salinas River and held there.

The development of the ore struck on the Comstock, in the Crown Point and Belcher mines, caused a number of exciting days on California street, San Francisco, with the brokers and stock speculators. Crown Point fluctuated between $30 and $40, and Belcher between $10 and $16 a share until the 24th, when they started on a rise that carried Crown Point to $63 and Belcher to $26 a share. Quite a number of investors who had bought below $10 a share were reported to have closed out with fortunes. A coterie of telegraph operators in San Francisco and Virginia City, Nevada State, who got the tip in the early hours of the strike, were said to be contemplating trips to Europe.

N. F. Taylor and Timothy Cox discovered in a gulch about one mile from Dublin, Alameda County, a gold placer, and a rush of locators from Oakland and other towns ensued. Nuggets as large as beans were found, and some of the ground prospected a bit (12 1/2) to the pan.

Dr. Esmond, running a tunnel for pay gravel under the South Yuba River near Washington, Nevada County, blasted and took away a big boulder that revealed behind it gravel "lousy" with coarse gold. He gathered nearly four pounds of gold in half an hour, and had found a buried channel thirty feet wide and six feet deep.

Almond Trees and Candidates Blossom.

A vein of cinnabar, found in a San Leandro, Alameda County, creek canyon, gave indications of a profitable quicksilver mine.

J. R. Hardenbergh was appointed United States Surveyor-General of California this month.

F. Bret Harte left California February 1 for Boston, where he intended to follow literary pursuits in the future.

Jesse D. Brush, a Pioneer of '49, died in New York February 1. He was a prominent and popular Democratic politician in the '50s; represented Calaveras County in the Legislature of '51 and was one of the leading candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1853.

Colonel Wm. McClure, a Pioneer of Yankee Jim's, Placer County, died in Oakland, February 1, aged 67. He came to Placer County in 1851 and engaged in water-ditch development and other mining enterprises, was prominent in public affairs, and a very popular citizen.

John G. Bray, a banker of San Jose, died February 5, aged 58. He was a Pioneer of '49, prominent as a business man and a banker, and had accumulated a large fortune.

Howell Thomas, who won the $50,000 prize in the Mercantile Library Lottery in San Francisco October 31, 1870, returned to Nevada County this month. With Evan Evans he bought the Trust and Hope mine at Kate Hayes Flat, Nevada County. It had a buried gravel channel to develop, and be invested $20,000 in the enterprise.

A survey for a narrow-gauge railroad from Marysville, Yuba County, to Grass Valley, Nevada County, was started by A. J. Binney.

Almond trees and candidates for the offices to be voted for this year began blossoming during the first week of the month. Newton Booth and Mayor Thos. H. Selby were being indorsed for the Republican party nomination for governor, while Governor H. H. Haight seemed assured of a renomination by the Democrats.

The Stockton and Copperopolis railroad was completed and operated to Peters, thirteen miles from Stockton, February 22.

The two rear coaches of a west-bound overland train on the Central Pacific were derailed and turned over down an embankment near Penryn, Placer County, February 20. Fourteen passengers were injured, but none fatally.

A Japanese embassy consisting of thirty personages, including a prince of the royal blood, arrived in San Francisco February 16, enroute to Washington, D. C. The first ambassador Japan had sent to the United States headed the party.

Another Japanese party, not so important, but showing how Japanese may have come to California in the dusky past, was four Japanese sailors found drifting in an open boat on the Pacific Ocean by an American ship from China, which reached San Francisco February 24. They were driven from a Japanese harbor by high winds, and were in a famished condition when found.

Fanny B. Price was starring in "Fanelon, the Cricket on the Hearth." She was said to be the best shadow dancer in the part on the stage.

Miss Rose Evans, a talented actress, was rendering "Hamlet" and other standard plays.

Prof. Geschwandner's Tyrolean yoddlers, a meritorious troupe of singers in the costume of their native land, were giving excellent concerts.

Chinese Prosperous; Firecrackers Plentiful.

Dion and Deery played another three-ball, French carom billiard match February 9. There was not as much betting on the part of spectators as at former matches. Deery won, Dion making but 441 points to his 500. Deery made what was claimed to be the longest run at the game on record, 83 points.

Oscar Lewis, aged 13, and M. Gillis, aged 11, considered phenomenal players, were matched for a suit of clothes in the Lick House billiard parlor February 14. They played the four-ball American game and excited great interest. Gillis won by 28 points. Lewis made the longest run, 32 points.

Sacramento game cock fanciers had a $1,000 cocking main fought with Virginia City cock fighters February 20. There were five contests; Virginia City won the first and third, while Sacramento took the other three and all the money. One battle lasted forty-seven minutes and was a big betting affair.

A pedestrian named Maxwell, at Sacramento, undertook to run fifty miles at the Agricultural Park race track February 4 for a benefit of charity. Rain stopped him after running twenty-seven miles in four hours and forty-five minutes.

February 19 the Maypole house, a popular resort in the flush days near Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, was destroyed by fire.

February 20 Seigrist's big wine cellar, two miles from Napa City, was burned, causing a $60,000 loss.

February 22 Lincoln school-house in San Francisco was destroyed by fire and a loss estimated at $25,000 sustained. Twelve hundred children, much to their sorrow, were compelled to take a vacation until another school-house could be obtained.

The stage near Cloverdale, Sonoma County, was stopped by three highwaymen February 16, who took the express box, but did not rob the passengers.

The three highwaymen who held up the stage in January near San Andreas, Calaveras County, were arrested in San Francisco February 8. They were young men. "Alkali Jim" was their leader. Part of the loot was recovered in Santa Clara County.

A man in San Francisco gave his daughter, 21 years old, a severe whipping. She had him arrested. He was tried, convicted and fined $100.

Mushrooms three feet in circumference and weighing two and one-half pounds were being found in the Santa Clara Valley and sold in San Jose.

The Chinese new year was celebrated February 18 by the Chinese in all the towns of the state in an energetic manner. The Chinamen in California were in a prosperous condition. All bad work who wanted, and money, and the exploding of firecrackers was the biggest on record.

Henry and Oscar Bilderbeek, near Los Angeles,

February 4, were found to have been murdered and buried in their blankets on a ranch they had claimed. Alfred and Henry Gardner, brothers, and neighbors, were found to have shot them. They left, and were being followed in Inyo County by the officers in pursuit.

H. K. W. Clarke, keeper in charge of a ranch near Oakland, February 17, to prevent S. Reed from coming on the property to remove some personal effects, shot and killed him. He claimed self-defense.

Accidents Numerous.

Quite a number of sad accidents occurred during the month. One of the most distressing gun accidents was that of February 10, near Petaluma, Sonoma County. R. H. Nason, driving with his wife in a buggy, stopped the team to get out and shoot a hare that had crossed the road. Mrs. Nason, in handing him the shotgun, accidentally fired it. The charge entered her head, killing her instantly.

J. Trahearn of Vallejo, Solano County, duck hunting February 1, in pulling his gun out of a boat discharged it. A ghastly wound in his thigh made amputation necessary, but he soon afterward died.

Oscar Stevens, hunting near Colusa February 8, accidentally shot off his left hand and part of his arm.

Charles S. Ives of San Francisco, hunting in Napa Valley February 15, mutilated his left hand by accidentally firing his gun.

Nicholas Brenner, at Placerville, El Dorado County, February 1 was jolted off his wagon seat and killed by the fall.

R. S. Brotherton, a switchman in the San Francisco railroad yard, had his foot caught in a frog and was run over and killed by a switch engine. James Black, a rancher near Clarksville, El Dorado County, February 4 was kicked in the face by his horse and fatally injured.

G. Hartman, in Grass Valley, Nevada County, February 9 tried to turn a back somersault off a table and broke his leg.

Thos. Forsyth and another man were driving posts into the ground near Sonoma. When stooping to pick up something he thoughtlessly put his hand on top of the post in time to receive a blow from the sledgehammer that shockingly mashed the hand.

N. Payson, near San Jose, February 23, was thrown out of his buggy by a runaway team and killed.

Wm. O. Murtha, a tinner in San Francisco, February 21, in fixing a roof in the gale then blowing, lost his hold and fell thirty-five feet, injuring himself seriously.

Cyrus Lathrop, a 12-year-old lad at San Jose, playing prisoner's base in a schoolyard, fell and broke his leg.

David Harrison, a 3-year-old boy living near Folsom, Sacramento County, February 13 swallowed a large chili bean, which stuck in his windpipe. He died from being exhausted from coughing before surgical aid could be obtained.

A little girl named Blackburn, at Rocklin, Placer County, swallowed a pinnet which lodged in her larynx and she had to be taken to Sacramento for surgical attention, which relieved her.

A little boy named Bassett, gathering mushrooms near Oakland, got a toadstool mixed with them. He ate it, and died from its poisonous effects.

A Cannibal Bullfrog.

A small lad named Richards, at Santa Cruz February 26, was playing with another boy who was swinging about him a grappling hook. It struck him in the right eye, tearing the eye out and making a gash down to his mouth.

Peace was declared between Germany and France, February 26, and the German residents of California were preparing to celebrate the event. A German in San Francisco became insane over the event, and insisted upon parading the streets in a nude condition until taken in custody by the police. At the station-house he kept up such a harangue in German that an interpreter was sent for, who announced, after hearing his talk, that he only desired to tell the naked truth about the war.

Thos. Guinean, proprietor of the Arcade hotel and restaurant on Second street, Sacramento, kept a big bullfrog in a bowl of water on his bar. In the center of the bowl was a large brick, and on this the bullfrog almost continually sat, a living advertisement that Guinean served frog legs. A citizen, sauntering up to the bar one day, informed Guinean that he, too, possessed a frog, but it was a small green one; that he had raised it from almost its tadpole stage and had taught it several athletic stunts, one of which was climbing a miniature ladder and

ORIGIN AND SPREAD OF THE ORANGE

HORTICULTURAL HISTORY RECALLED BY APPROACHING SAN BERNARDINO EXPOSITION

Homer D. King

SAN BERNARDINO, THE GATE CITY of California and the center of the Golden State's world-famed citrus fruit belt, will open wide its hospitable doors to the tens of thousands who will again this year attend the National Orange Show—the eleventh annual exposition of its kind and the greatest of them all—to be held February 18 to 28, inclusive.

To the tourist on the Pacific Coast the National Orange Show embodies everything that is truly Californian; in architecture, in the fruits displayed, and in the atmosphere enveloping it all, it symbolizes this empire of flowers—this land of afternoon. It is the most titanic enterprise of the kind in the world; its acres of floor space are covered with magnificent feature displays—great locomotives, bridges, temples and fountains, all life-sized and made entirely of citrus fruits—while the walls are banked with rack displays of the choicest of California oranges, lemons and grapefruit entered in competition for awards given for quality, size and color. The millions of oranges used in the construction of the show come from the finest of California groves, and are the finest that the groves produce. The exposition is an inspiration to growers to produce better fruit; to win the sweepstakes is the greatest honor that can come to a citrus fruit growing district.

While the orange exhibits are under canvas—the largest tents west of the Mississippi housing the exposition—the National Orange Show is held in Urbana Springs Park, in San Bernardino, and one of the scenic wonder places of Southern California. Urbana Lake, lying like a precious stone in a setting of wide reaches of orange groves, lends its rare beauty to the general enchantment of the exposition. The walks and drives of this quiet place, throughout the park and around the lake, dimly lighted by a thousand lanterns, present, during the period of the show, an aspect of Oriental splendor, the ripples in the water reflecting it all.

It is not as the Thracians were, boastful and self-glorifying, that the National Orange Show is denominated California's greatest midwinter event—it is, rather, in a spirit of thankfulness that it is said, for the slogan is not a manufactured one; it is one that grew and became commonly accepted throughout the great Southwest. In California, more than ever the land of promise, the land of endless summer, of faithful skies of blue, it has become an institution; the recognition accorded it is world-wide, but it remains essentially California's orange show, because in no other land that God has yet flung from the hollow of His hand could it be duplicated. Here—in Southern California, warmed by suns, made soft by low-hung stars and moon at night, and with flowers that never die upon its far-flung trails—the orange show is in the garden of its home.

It was in San Bernardino, more than a decade ago, that the National Orange Show was conceived; it was born in the minds of a few far-sighted men. It was launched with the announced purpose of being an asset to the California citrus fruit industry, and through the years of its wonderful development and existence that purpose has remained foremost in mind. The exposition has grown from 3,000 admissions the first year to 160,000 last year. The show has no pecuniary interest, profits of one year being put into the exposition of the next. Its directors are elected from the substantial citizenry of San Bernardino and serve without compensation. A new president is elected annually, and each emulates his predecessor in an effort to make "his" show exceed in beauty and fullness those that have gone before. And well may it be said that in this endeavor no president has yet failed in accomplishment.

Men engaged in the citrus industry throughout California take a pride and an interest in the National Orange Show, and they come great distances to display their fruit. The exposition has made an appeal not only to those directly engaged in the citrus industry, but to the general public and, in particular, to the tourist, who is in California to see California, and California is not seen with the orange show overlooked.

Fifty years after the discovery of America, when Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo in his galleons from Navidad found the California of those centuries-old dreams, or even two centuries later, when Spain came and laid the cornerstone of a new empire in the new world, the California of today was not foreseen; its cities and its citrus industry were undreamed-of—for it is within much less than a century that these things have come to pass, and the National Orange Show came to fill a niche in the historical development of the Southwest.

The growth of the show has only been in line with the growth of the industry it represents. Six persons are living today in the place of five a decade ago. Population has increased one-fifth in ten years. Nearly twenty oranges are eaten today in the place of five a decade ago. Consumption has quadrupled in ten years—twenty oranges for six people instead of five for five, as was once the rule. Why? Oranges today are not different from yesterday, neither are lemons, but their uses are more numerous and widespread; the demand is greater. The National Orange Show has had its part in creating the increased demand. The total acreage planted to oranges in California is 116,470, producing an average of 15,858,939 boxes of oranges a year. The total acreage planted to lemons is 26,744, producing an average annual total of 3,792,030 boxes of lemons.

The banks of oranges and other citrus fruits which will be on display at the Eleventh National Orange Show will appeal to the esthetic sense of all who visit the exposition. There will be, perhaps, but few who will pause to look into the past for a glimpse of the most interesting and important incidents which have played so large a part in making a demonstration such as this show possible.

An inquiry into the origin and first spread of the orange forms an interesting bit of horticultural history. There is strong presumptive evidence that the orange came from China and Cochinchina. From there it spread into India, probably at about the beginning of the Christian era. Writers differ as to how it was introduced into Europe. Some believe it was introduced by the Portuguese about 1548, the first tree having stood for a long time at Lisbon. Whether or not the Portuguese deserve the credit for introducing the orange into Europe, they found it abundant in India, the Florentine, Vasco de Gama, having noted the fact in his account of the mission to India.

Gallesio, an Italian author, states that the sweet orange was introduced by the Arabs into Europe through Persia and Syria and on to the shores of Italy and France, while the bitter orange came by way of Arabia, Egypt and the north of Africa to Portugal and Spain. Early explorers introduced oranges into Brazil, where they became wild, as they did when introduced into Florida by the Spaniards during the sixteenth century, probably about 1560.

Tradition has it that the orange was first brought to the Pacific Coast about 1701, the first tree being planted on the peninsula of Lower California, at the Mission of Loreto. From here seed was brought into the territory now comprising the State of California. Vancouver, in his memoir of the Pacific Coast in 1792, mentions seeing orange trees growing at San Buena Ventura. This is one of the first authentic records of the occurrence of the orange in California. The honor of establishing the first orange orchard in California rests with the San Gabriel Mission. The archives of the mission covering the early history were lost, but several writers fix the date of the first planting of the orange there at about 1804. Stimulated by the success of this horticultural venture, other settlers began to plant oranges about their homes, solely for domestic purposes. The first oranges were planted in San Bernardino in 1857—forty-five trees being obtained from Los Angeles. These trees were the real beginning of Southern California's citrus industry, for the place where these trees were planted is today almost the exact center of the greatest citrus fruit growing district in the world.

Any account of the National Orange Show or of the citrus industry would be incomplete without reference to the city which is the home of the one and the center of the other. San Bernardino—Gate City of the Golden West—is a greater city than it was a year ago; it will be greater a year hence than it is today. It has the unique distinction of being the governmental seat and largest municipality of the largest county in the United States—20,150 square miles of territory, larger in area than half of the New England states combined. With the remarkable resources of a gargantuan county behind it, San Bernardino is soon to become that which it is destined to be—the largest interior city of California. San Bernardino is the first California "port of call" for the transcontinental traveler; it is at the foot of the gateway nature provided to California—the Cajon Pass—through which two transcontinental railroads and one transcontinental motor highway enter the land of sunshine and flowers.

Total crop values in San Bernardino County the past year exceeded $30,000,000. Citrus fruit is, of course, the principal product of the cultivated land of the county. The county produces more than one-third of all the oranges and lemons grown in California, and one-fourth of all the citrus products of the United States. But this should not be in the nature of a plea for San Bernardino County or for Southern California, since no part of the expansive Southwest stands in need of a plea. Its problem now is not the ways and means of inducing people of the East to come to it; on the contrary, its problem is how to care for the endless throngs that are seeking it.

And yet, it is an easy problem. Still in California, and particularly in San Bernardino County, are wide acres that have never known the plow, or the seed-time, or the harvest. They lie basking in the sun, waiting for the step that is to awaken them and the hands that are to make them glow with bloom and blossom. They are waiting for the touch of waters that will turn their brown bosoms into living mantles of green. Here are valleys between whose circling hills half the world can be set down in peace and plenty; here are gorge-like canyons, musical with the song of falling waters. This is the land of the open door.

"Days dawn that gleam in splendor,
Days die with sunset's breeze,
While from Cathay that was of old
Sail countless argosies;
Morn breaks again in glory
O'er the giant new-born West,
But of all the lands God fashioned, hanging by one foot from its top rung. Guinean, speaking from his experience as French chef, declared it was impossible to teach a frog anything, and promised to open a quart of champagne if the citizen could show him what he claimed his little green frog could do.
'Tis this land is the best."

A few days later the citizen appeared at the bar with his frog in a pasteboard box and his toy ladder in his hand. As no better place offered for the test than the bowl—which the big bullfrog occupied—the brick was removed, the little ladder placed therein, its top resting against the rim, and the emerald-hued athlete was dropped into the water. With a straw wand, taken from a broom, the citizen began to tickle his frog's back and talk "frog" to it. It immediately began to climb the toy ladder, and had ascended several rungs when there was a disturbance of the water.

Like a leaping frog, the bullfrog for an instant appeared, and then, with the little green one in its cavernous mouth, began to disappear. The citizen grabbed for a part of a leg and foot protruding from the cannibal's mouth, but missed and it dropped to the bottom of the bowl to digest the unexpected meal. Consternation reigned for a few minutes when Guinean, although he and his bullfrog had the best of the argument, uncorked a quart bottle of wine.

New Police Chief, Native, Surprised.

San Francisco—D.D.G.P. A. J. Mazzini, assisted by the "cornerstones" and well-known Natives, Senator John H. Nelson, Secretary David Capurro, Past Presidents Lonis Ghiotti, Dan Cuneo and A. H. McNew, President Bolton Hilderbrand, Third Vice-president William Strachen and Harold Hilderbrand, all of San Francisco 49, installed the following officers of Rincon 72 January 12: Justin Shaylor, P.P.; Albert N. Smith, P.; Robert R. Jones, 1V.P.; Henry W. Hoffschneider, 2V.P.; William Balkwell, 3V.P.; Virgil Orenge, Tr.; Albert Stenberg, M.; Albert Severance, I.S.; John J. Lambert, O.S. On behalf of the Parlor, Past President John J. Barrett presented Justin Shaylor, retiring president, with a handsome morris-chair, to nurse along future native sons and daughters.

Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Rincon's always-on-the-job member, welcomed and introduced the visitors; he reminded them that the Parlor will soon have 600 members, and urged them to visit frequently, thus exemplifying the true fraternal spirit. The celebrated jazz band of Pacific 10—excelled only by the Art Hickman aggregation of jazz artists—entertained with several classy numbers, and brief addresses were made by "Daddy" W. J. Wynn, John E. Fitzgerald, John J. Barrett and John A. Mitchell. Refreshments were served during the evening.

New Year's Eve, a committee from Rincon Parlor—Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, President Justin Shaylor, President-elect Albert N. Smith, Past Presidents Virgil Orenge, John J. Barrett and John A. Mitchell—surprised the newly-appointed chief of police, Daniel J. O'Brien, a member of the Parlor, and presented him with a handsome silver service office set. The gift reflected not only the esteem in which Chief O'Brien is held by the Native Sons, but by all the citizens of San Francisco. The recipient responded by saying that, at no time, will he forget Rincon's kindness, and that he will always labor for the best interests of his native state and city and, last but not least, the splendid Order of Native Sons.

Grand President Given Rousing Reception.

San Bernardino—Not having had a visit from a Grand President for ten years, Arrowhead 110, one of the strongest Parlors in the Order, requested Grand President James F. Hoey of Martinez to be its guest January 12, and although it meant a thousand-mile journey he accepted the invitation. So pleased was he with the welcome extended him and the enthusiasm displayed for the Order, that he remarked, upon departure, that he would gladly make a 5,000-mile trip to attend another such gathering. "I never attended a better meeting, nor met more loyal and interested members, anywhere," he remarked.

John Andreson Jr., former Grand Trustee, and escorted to a hotel, thence to supper at the Elks' Club, thence to Arrowhead's meeting-place. Gathered there were 200 members of the Parlor, also the Parlor's splendid five-piece orchestra, which furnished the music for the evening, including the odes and for initiation. Twenty-two candidates presented themselves for initiation and three appeared for reinstatement, bringing the Parlor's membership to 438—and the workers are still on the job. Arrowhead is out for first place in membership among the Tehachapi-south Parlors, and will have an additional delegate at the Stockton Grand Parlor.

Dispensing promptly with the routine business, President McElvaine called upon Superior Judge Rex B. Goodcell to extend Arrowhead's welcome to Grand President Hoey, and he did so in eloquent words. Responding, the Grand President expressed appreciation for the reception accorded him, and commended the members for their loyalty to and enthusiasm for the Order. Joseph E. Rich, a charter member, made a brief address, as did also Clarence M. Hunt (Sacramento 3), and Frank Daley concluded the "Good of the Order" with a delightful recitation. Following the Parlor's close, a vaudeville program of exceptional merit held the attention of the throng, after which a midnight-supper, prepared by "Chef" Andreson and his assistants, was served, cafeteria style.

The morning after, Grand President Hoey was taken for an auto tour of San Bernardino County by John Andreson Jr. The famous Arrowhead was first visited, and then the orange groves, with their tons of golden fruit, points of special interest along the route being pointed out. The ride terminated at Ontario, where an orange-packing plant was inspected and the many details incident to preparing California oranges for Eastern markets pointed out; here, with a supply of choice fruit just off the trees, the Grand President was put aboard the train, on his way home.—C. M. H.

District Deputy Delivers Able Address.

Palo Alto—D.D.G.P. Fred L. Thomas, with thirty members of San Jose 22, came over from San Jose January 17 and installed the officers-elect of Palo Alto 216. The installation ceremony was rendered in an excellent manner, and after the serving of refreshments D.D.G.P. Thomas delivered one of the ablest addresses ever heard in the Parlor. Several candidates were initiated.

Palo Alto Parlor is looking forward to a great increase in membership during 1921, and also to the accomplishment of many important undertakings. Fifty members of the Parlor, with their ladies, accompanied D.D.G.P. George W. Tinney on a special car to San Jose January 18, and all report a splendid time. The occasion was the installation of officers of Observatory 177.

Sociables, Winter Months' Feature.

Weaverville—December 20 Mount Bally 87 initiated three candidates. A good social time, with plenty of "cats," followed the Parlor meeting. Old Bally is still going forward, initiation being a feature of nearly every meeting.

January 8, jointly with Eltapome 55, N.D.G.W., the Parlor gave a social evening and card party, 100 members and invited guests being present. Refreshments were served. Much praise is due the joint committee—Messlames Fetzner, Noonan, Arbuckle, Steele, and Messrs. Dockery, Eaton, Coombs—for the success of the affair. The monthly social evenings will continue to be featured during the winter.

New Home Christened.

Stockton—After many years of waiting, Stockton 7 now has one of the finest lodge homes in the state, the entire top floor of the Smith & Lang building having been leased, and fitted up at an expense of $21,000. The quarters consist of club-rooms and a large meeting-room, and are fitted up in excellent taste. The club-rooms comprise a billiard-room, buffet, and lounging-room, the latter furnished with luxurious leather chairs grouped about a great fireplace, writing desks, library, phonograph and player-piano. The lodge-room, the largest in the city, has a hardwood floor and a stage, and upholstered seats circle the room. The club-rooms will be open to members at all times.

The Parlor's new home, which will be known as Native Sons' Hall, was christened with an informal reception, entertainment and dance January 8, when members of Joaquin 5 and Caliz de Oro 206, N.D.G.W., which will meet there, were guests of honor. Several grand officers, too, were among the invited guests, among them Grand President James F. Hoey. Stockton Parlor, already the strongest, both financially and numerically, in the Order, has a membership drive under way and is being assisted by Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker. February 7 there will be a big class initiation, and the drive will continue until the membership-roll has 1,000 names.

At its meeting December 27 Stockton Parlor unanimously adopted the following resolution, a copy of which, signed by President Averil Thomas and Recording Secretary A. J. Turner, and bearing the Parlor's seal, has been furnished Mrs. Turner: "Whereas, Mrs. A. J. Turner, the wife of our esteemed brother and officer, A. J. Turner, moved by considerations of truest loyalty and practical generosity, and animated by a desire to co-operate in the work of this Parlor in establishing club-rooms for its members, has donated to this Parlor, for the benefit of its members, a piano; be it resolved, that this Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Stockton Number Seven, does hereby express its earnest appreciation, not only of the gift so sincerely made, but of the manifestation of high regard that our beloved sister and friend, Mrs. A. J. Turner, has for this Parlor and its members."

Celebrates Two Events.

San Francisco—National 118 celebrated two events in January. On the 13th, officers for the ensuing term were installed, James McFarland becoming president. The following night the thirty-third anniversary ball of the Parlor's institution was held at Native Sons' Building.

Have Joint Installation.

Oakland—Athens 195 and Aloha 106, N.D.G.W., installed officers jointly January 18, D.D.G.P. Sue J. Irwin officiating for the Native Daughters, and D.D.G.P. George Black for the Native Sons. C. H. Guild is now the president of Athens Parlor, and Helen O'Connell of Aloha Parlor.

Big Crowd Witnesses Installation.

San Jose—January 18 officers of Observatory 177 were publicly installed by D.D.G.P. George W. Tinney, assisted by a team from Palo Alto 216. More than 300, among the number several women, were present to witness the ceremonies, which were conducted in a highly creditable manner. After installation dancing was enjoyed for two hours, and then refreshments were served in excellent form. The Parlor's new officers include: Chas. H. Dietz, P.P.; Jesse M. Waterman, P. (re-elected); A. B. Langford, 1V.P.; H. F. Withycombe, 2V.P.; A. C. Hansen, 3V.P.; F. E. G. Keffel, M.; Dr. E. F. Holbrook, Dr. Geo. L. Barry, Sgns.; Ronald Stewart, I.S.; Clyde Fischer, O.S.; L. E. Peppin, J. E. Hancock, Trs. The hold-over officers, who have faithfully served the Parlor ten years or more, include: Recording Secretary H. J. Dougherty, Financial Secretary H. C. Jung, and Treasurer A. O. Kayser.

Observatory Parlor is in excellent condition, and making rapid strides forward. It has always looked well to its social features, and this fact is accountable, in large measure, for the position it occupies in the Order and among local fraternal organizations. Many charter members are still active workers, and a close friendship exists between all the members.

Makes Good.

Sausalito—With the motto, "Forward," and under the leadership of President Henry E. Guzman and staff, D.D.G.P. William Strittmatter and D.G.P. at-Large Harry J. Thomas, Seapoint 158 has made good, and is now the largest Parlor in Marin County. During the term just closed the many questions coming before the Parlor—and particularly the Jap menace—were ably handled; two invitational dances were given, that were a credit to the Parlor, and others are looked forward to; an entertainment was given for the homeless children and was a grand success—thanks to Trustee Percy G. Sanborn, Edgar J. Cooper and Birnet P. Madden, who sold two-thirds of the tickets—$134.15 being netted. December 20 the Parlor joined with Sea Point 196, N.D.G.W., for a Christmas tree party for the members' kiddies; it was largely attended, and such a success that it will be repeated annually.

Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynch of San Francisco officially visited the Parlor January 5, and was greeted by a full house. In the course of an interesting address he praised the Parlor for its achievements. One candidate was initiated, the newly-elected officers exemplifying the ritual in a manner to uphold the Parlor's past standard. A large attendance and a real California welcome await all visitors to Sea Point; any member doubting this, should pay the Parlor a visit, and witness the "pep" displayed by the members.

Preparing Two Big Events.

Mered—Yosemite 24 has under way two events for presentation in the near future. At its hall in Hornitos, Mariposa County, will be held an entertainment symbolic of pioneer days; one of the features will be a class initiation. Over on the "West Side," at Los Banos, there will be a big class initiation, to be followed by an out-of-the-ordinary program. Officers of Yosemite Parlor for the ensuing term have been elected, with George Boyd as president.

To Give Benefit Dance.

Georgetown—These officers of Georgetown 91 were installed by D.D.G.P. J. F. Flynn January 12: R. C. M. Berriman, P.P.; Henry Grover, P.; Leo Flynn, I.V.P.; Harry Grover, 2V.P.; Joe Morgan, 3V.P.; C. F. Irish, R.S.; Harold Irish, M.; E. F. Porter, I.S.; J. F. Flynn, O.S.; W. A. Heuser, Tr. February 5 the Parlor will give a grand ball for the benefit of the homeless children fund.

Wants to Retain Banner.

Wheatland—Grand Third Vice-president William J. Hayes of Berkeley officially visited Rainbow 40 January 27, when the ritual was exemplified for the benefit of several candidates, and a banquet held. Rainbow Parlor wants to retain the Grand Parlor membership banner it has won the past four years, and this occasion was the starter of several similar affairs to follow.

Specializes in Social Features.

San Jose—The officers of San Jose 22 were installed January 24 by D.D.G.P. George W. Tinney and his installing team from Palo Alto 216. The Parlor has an excellent corps of officers, is steadily increasing in membership, and is specializing in social features. The members predict 1921 will be a record-breaker for progress in the Order.

Surprised by Fair Sex.

Selma—Officers of Selma 107, with Claude Gordon as president, were installed January 5 by D.D.G.P. L. J. Price. Late in the evening, while engaged at card-playing, the members were surprised by the appearance of a party of the fair sex. From then until supper was served, dancing was in order, and after supper members of the Parlor rendered a short program.

Annual Ball Grand Affair.

San Francisco—The banner social event each year of Stanford 76 is its anniversary ball, and the thirty-fourth, held January 22, surpassed, in every particular, all predecessors. The decorative scheme was elaborate and beautiful, giving the ballroom a California garden effect. Members of the Parlor and their ladies, with a limited number of invited guests, were in attendance. From midnight until 3 a. m., a novelty breakfast was participated in by the dancers at the Cliff House. In charge of the event was a committee composed of Frank A. Hart (chairman), William F. Burke, Erwin H. Kinney, Paul H. Sturdivant, Harold H. Hart, Frank F. Morris, Ben D. Sheridan.

Officers Publicly Installed.

Grass Valley—Joint public installation of the officers of Quartz 58 and Manzanita 29 were held January 3, the Auditorium, where the ceremonies were held, being taxed to capacity. Myrtle Lopes is now the president of Manzanita Parlor, and E. R. Berryman of Quartz Parlor. A fine program of musical and literary numbers was rendered, after which a tempting banquet was served. So successful was the installation that the Parlor plan several more joint affairs during the year.

Stockholders Pleased.

Sacramento—The stockholders' annual meeting of the Native Sons Hall Association of Sacramento was a harmonious one, and resulted in the election of the following directors: Ed H. Kraus (president), Charles A. Root (vice-president), Samuel E. Pope (treasurer), Percy G. West (secretary), John C. Boyd, Arthur J. Delano, J. Frank Didion, M. F. Trebleiox, Marco Zariek, Hugh B. Bradford and John J. Monteverde.

Secretary Percy G. West's report of the operations for 1920 was most pleasing to the stockholders, for it showed the association to be making good progress: $3,000 was netted during the year, and the debt considerably reduced. It is predicted that it will not be long before the association will be in position to pay an annual dividend of 4 percent.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOEEMER.

FABRICS ARE SURELY BECOMING MORE unique every day. Foulards are adorned with entire scenes and designs going back to 1830, when printed silks were all the rage. The modern craze for the futuristic designs finds its way also into fabrics, and we are reminded not only of the day we live in but of days far back into the eighth century.

A few weeks ago I predicted a wave of gray rolling over the soon-to-be-acquired wardrobe of every woman in the land. Gray, in pearl, mist, or dove tints, is so universal that occasional brighter shades look garish beside them. It is the color of new suits, coats, sweaters, shoes, hats and lingerie, and, according to statements of various modistes as well as shop department heads, it will remain popular throughout the spring and summer. Every one may not wear these tones, but panels and draperies lined with chiffon or silk in bright contrasting shades are clever beautifiers.

It is intensively smart to have an irregular line to the hem of your skirt. Vandyke points, scallops, or two deep curves, lifted at either side, are all shown as skirt finishes of the new street frocks. Silk and wool, in combination, are shown in many of the very newest models. Pearl-gray eyelet-embroidered duvetine falls in straight but full lines over a very narrow slip of duvetine-banded tricotelette in brilliantly contrasting tone. An accordion-plaited skirt and straight bodice of oyster-white tussah silk make up another attractive model; the skirt hangs over a slip, and the bodice has short sleeves of vivid emerald-green kitten's ear crepe, embroidered with an all-over flower pattern of white wool.

Black frocks are no longer somber affairs. Picture one having a short barrel-shaped skirt of black chiffon taffeta folds, each headed by a half-inch wee knife plaiting. The long-waisted straight waist is of finest tricotine, with very short kimono sleeves; they, like the neckline, being slashed and edged with the same narrow plaiting. Waist and skirt join under a soft hip-knotted sash of taffeta.

MADE IN CALIFORNIA.

Plain velvet dancing or dinner frocks, in straight lines, are softened by a loose girdle sash of black tulle, knotted at the side. Mauve, coral, light-blue, and a soft shade of green are extremely popular tones. With the exception of the strictly tailored shirtwaist, blouses of the newest design continue to fall over the hips in gracefully broken lines. Fillet and baby-Irish lace, combined with hand-embroidered net, are used in some of the handsomest models.

Creeping steadily upon us, it is declared, comes the circular skirt. By the route of tunics and ripples and overskirt draperies, the circular skirt, snug as to hip and voluminous as to hem, is peeping up just now. The circular effect is seen in some of the tunics, falling from the low waistline of a straight, untrimmed little bodice; though equally new and well liked are the panels of side or even accordion plaiting.

You can't go wrong on sleeves. The short ones stop just below the shoulders; the long ones reach well over the hands, and are tight at the wrists. Some of these have one or even two gauntlet cuffs, turned back to the elbow. The peasant or bishop sleeve is gathered under a black ribbon bracelet tied in a smart bow.

Very youthful are the new suits of poiret twill, chiffon-weight duvetine and tricotine. Coats are quite a bit shorter, decidedly of the box cut in the back, and falling open in the front to display the lingerie blouse or vestee.

Midsummer novelties are many, and the eager buyers are already securing their new wardrobes. Braid and metal buttons trim suits most attractively. A dress of a sport type, of the gray-of-thin-smoke color, is of knitted wool, with pockets widening the hip lines and the blouse slit, shirt fashion, and fastened with silk frogs.

Orange and black always form a stunning combination, and make up a coat not only chic, but striking. A bright costume of plaid is a pretty thing, with a long fitted blouse of red and a red-and-black plaid skirt.

You must wear a moire ribbon girdle on your suit. Plait a three-inch ribbon of color to match the suit, and make a rosette around a circular center of covered rice net. A piece around the belt, and two ends, complete the ribbon girdle.

Negligees are taking on an old-fashioned aspect. Some are full skirted, with tight fitting bodices, high satin collars and revers, but most unique is the material, which if silk, is profusely scattered with figures. The Oriental inspiration still holds its own. Changeable taffetas are quite the favorite in the making of the odd negligees, and are very attractive.

There is a certain charm to tinted lace that makes it fit in almost anywhere; however, for evening, it is displayed at its best. Light and filmy, easy to dance in, is a lavender-tinted lace costume of silk fillet with a pattern in cream. The bodice, simple and loose, has a wide girdle caught by a bunch of good-enough-to-eat fruit, and the skirt is clinging and soft hanging in points all around. A hat that looks like a golden crown of oats and grasses lying on cream tulle, completes the costume.

Lingerie is always a joy to the eyes when made of rare laces and silks, and though many have bloomed lately in the boudoir in such shades as tangerine, black, and scarlet, one can always please by using the little sets of flesh-colored crepe-de-chine. These now are rendered Frenchy looking by pastel flowers scattered over the bloomer and skirt garments, and narrow black velvet ribbon or tow-tone satin ribbon of the pastel shades tied into rosettes and streamer-bows, attached here and there. Gold and silver ribbons play an important part in adorning these filmy things. Beaded brassieres are now becoming popular.

Not alone straws, but faille silks, wool embroderies, wide ribbons and streamers, and ruffles of tulle are telling which way the millinery wind is blowing. Spain's influence is shown a bit in the narrow, drooping falls of chantilly lace, which border the wide brims of the large picture hats, and are also draped about some of the narrow sailors, to be worn as an eye shading or turned back as a crown scarf, as desired. Sport hats in faille, embroidered with worsted, follow this same outline. Lightness is absolutely essential. Scarcely a bit of stiffness appears in the brim of many of the hats of chiffon, velvet or silk, so they may be adjusted to most becoming angles, for wear with the new one-piece or tailored suit of this period.

Black hats, or those extremely gay in color, are equally demanded, but smartness of outline is their greatest charm. Nearly always the brims are slashed, never forming a complete circle. On one such, of the new glittering cellophane which, in this instance, looked like beaded net, the low round crown is encircled by a six-inch band of crushed Bulgarian orange faille ribbon, which reaches jauntily over the right shoulder in a double loop and knot.

Following the brimless turban, the narrow rimmed sailors are coming. Some are a bit wider in front as at the sides, but in every case the crown is of a draped effect, soft and especially becoming.

Evening-wear hats, especially for those who are not dancing, are large and extremely picturesque. Horse-hair hats, in brown or black, combined with fine lace or metal cloth and with a scant trimming of exquisite blossoms, will be worn for receptions, card parties, and formal evening affairs.

Flowers of crocheted or knitted wools and cottons are side by side with those fashioned from silks, chenilles, and chiffon, while never have the lovely French blossoms, so deftly copying nature itself, been more desired.

Wide velvet ribbon, brought about the crown and tied in a smart flaring bow on either side, trims some of the drooping wide-brimmed hats of straw, organdie, georgette, or other transparent shadowy stuff, to be worn with the first wash frocks.

The Indian and Persian silks, ultra vivid in coloring, which are appearing as over-blouses or jumpers with some of the new frocks, are also being used in hats, either as crown or as a scarf. Novel is the trimmings of a sealing-wax red, rough-strawed, new sailor. The narrow brim is lined with silk of the same tone, and about the rather high crown is an overlapping straight wreath of two-inch medallions of bright batik silk, slightly padded so as to stand a bit in relief.

You simply must have many veils. The big, square, embroidered one adds a touch of smartness to a small hat, and is extremely becoming.

White kid gloves of elbow length are shown with a new and exceedingly heavy design of braiding on the back, in black or black and white. A white glove has its heavy self-colored stitching on the back inset with a tracery of tiniest cut pink crystal beads, matching in shade the rose kid which lines the gauntlet. Gloves are shy at meeting sleeves. You should have at least three or four inches between the cuff of your glove and the bottom of your sleeve.

LOS ANGELES BULLETIN

SEE THE MISSIONS AT "THE MISSION PLAY"

(DWINELLE BENTHALL.)

CALIFORNIA IS A MAID OF INFINITE variety. She has a charm for every taste, and a new appeal for every moment. Always, and over everything, is her blue sky, and the glory of her golden sunshine. A spinning ear can touch the sand of the beaches, glide through the spreading orange groves, and climb up into the mountain canyons, all within a few hours, over perfectly good roads.

But in the haste of the moment, let not the stranger forget California's most priceless treasures—her old missions! From San Diego to San Francisco they are scattered along El Camino Real, symbols of the holiness and lofty ideals of California's beginnings. There is a power about them still, and a quiet peace, though for the most part their bells are silent now, and roses grow at their own sweet will over the crumbling walls, and the cloisters echo only the ghostly footfalls of the sandaled feet of the padres who were once the most powerful figures in all California.

The story of the California missions is a vivid page in America's history. They are to California what Plymouth Rock is to New England, only they stand for a bigger thing even than religious freedom, for the missions were established for the Christianization of an entire race, and they were successful in their undertaking. To the Franciscans of those long ago days, modern California owes her civilization.

And so, lest ye forget, visit the missions along The King's Highway. See Santa Barbara, the best preserved of them all, the valiant fortress that never surrendered, the one mission whose altar candles never flickered and went out.

And there is Father Junipero's own Mission of San Carlos, near the historic capital of Monterey, and San Juan Capistrano, whose beauty and romance are world-famed, and San Luis Obispo, Santa Clara and many more, not forgetting San Gabriel, where every year for ten years "The Mission Play," by John Steven McGroarty, has been given. All the beauty and tragedy and spirituality of the old missions, all the gaiety and romance of old Spain, all the achievements of the savage Indians under the gentle guidance of the Franciscans, have been woven into a wondrous pageant-drama by Mr. McGroarty, California's best-loved poet and author.

Year after year thousands of people have come from all over the world to see this visualization of history and romance, and to pay their tribute to one of the most sacred shrines in America, the old missions of California.

NO STOPPING LOS ANGELES.

Nineteen-twenty was the biggest year in the history of Los Angeles City, all previous records being left far in the rear. The city has been breaking records, for growth and development, so long and frequently, however, that now the smashing attracts but little attention—it is expected, and Los Angeles never disappoints.

Few people appreciate just how much this southern city has really grown, for they have known it only as a big city, forgetting that a half-century ago it was a struggling town of not 5,000 people and of little importance in the industrial and financial world. But look at it today—glance at the record of 1920 and compare it with that of but a year previous—and the fact must become firmly fixed in one's mind that there's no stopping the growth, in population and in development, of Los Angeles, the metropolis of the West. Here are some comparative figures that will interest those who "watch Los Angeles grow":

|------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| Bank Clearings         | $3,994,280,519.83 | $2,073,351,421.29 |
| Building permits       | 60,023,600.00      | 28,253,619.00      |
| Postoffice receipts    | 4,180,057.70       | 3,269,134.66       |
| Harbor exports         | 18,606,121.00      | 10,496,172.00      |
| Harbor imports         | 9,724,217.00       | 3,218,419.00       |
| Public school children | 115,530            | 98,031             |

Unless all signs fail, the year 1921 will also be a record-breaker, for many large industries are but awaiting the location of suitable sites, and several big development propositions will be launched. The outlook is indeed bright, and only a complete national break-down will cloud it over—and even then only temporarily.

From 1872 to 1880, deceased teamed in the mountains, and became well known all over the state as the first man to equip his wagons with a double roller brake, designed by himself. In the latter year, he traded six mules, two wagons and $1,100 cash for a blacksmith shop on a now prominent corner of the business section of Porterville, which he conducted until his death. In the early days of Porterville, not only was Traeger the sole "village smithy," but, as well, the only barber and the only undertaker.

NATIVE SONS PASS ON.

C. E. Kusel, charter member of Argonaut Parlor, No. 8, N.S.G.W., died at Oroville, January 1.

Eugene F. Branch, charter member of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, N.S.G.W., and one of the oldest members of the Order, having affiliated with California Parlor, No. 1 (San Francisco) shortly after its institution, is dead.

Dan Kelly of Hydraulic Parlor, No. 56, N.S.G.W. (Nevada City), died January 12 at Los Angeles, where he had made his home for some time.

William Lee Tull of Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216, N.S.G.W., died at Palo Alto December 25. He was a native of Lakeport, aged 55. Surviving are the widow, three daughters and three sons.

In Memoriam

EUGENE F. BRANCH.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has called to his eternal home Brother Eugene F. Branch, a charter member and past president of our Parlor; and whereas, Brother Branch was one of the first members of our Order, having become a member of California Parlor, No. 1, soon after its organization, and maintained his membership in the Order continuously to the time of his death; and whereas, our brother was always distinguished, both as an officer and member of our Order, by his constant loyalty and fidelity to his duties, and by the interest which he took in the advancement and upbuilding of the Order; and whereas, his genial disposition and his kindly interest in his brothers endeared him to all of them; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, Native Sons of the Golden West, do hereby extend to the bereaved wife and children of our beloved brother our heartfelt sympathy; and he it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, and published in The Grizzly Bear, and that a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

L. N. BARBER,
GEO. W. PICKFORD,
Committee.

Fresno, January 3, 1921.

CARL E. KUSEL.

To the Officers and Members of Argonaut Parlor, No. 8, N.S.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret on account of the death of Brother Carl Kusel, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, It has been the will of Almighty God to remove from among us our friend and brother, Carl E. Kusel, a loyal and devoted charter member of Argonaut Parlor; and whereas, Brother Kusel during the earlier years of his association with our Parlor gave untiringly of his time and efforts for its progress and advancement; and whereas, while successful in his business affairs, he never refused to serve his community in public life, which he did for a long period of years, in which his devotion to duty, and his honesty of purpose in the consideration of things to be done for the best good of the whole people, earned for him the highest praise as a devoted public officer; therefore, be it Resolved, That Argonaut Parlor, No. 8, Native Sons of the Golden West, expresses its deepest sorrow upon the passing of Brother Kusel, and extends the sincere sympathy of the members to the bereaved family; and be it further resolved, that in tribute to his memory, the charter of Argonaut Parlor be draped in mourning for a period of sixty days, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, a copy sent to the family, and to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

W. H. HIBBARD,
G. W. BRADEN,
R. J. STRANG,
Committee.

Oroville, January 10, 1921.

JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

Whereas, In the wisdom of Almighty God, Brother James J. Jeffries was called to his eternal rest on the 18th day of December, leaving many friends to mourn his loss; Brother Jeffries was deservedly popular, owing to his genial disposition and ever willingness to assist a brother; he was beloved by his brother members, and as a member of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, N.S.G.W., proved loyal to his God and his country; therefore, be it Resolved, That by the death of Brother James J. Jeffries, the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West has been deprived of a member worthy of the highest respect; and be it further resolved, that we tender to the bereaved family of our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement, and trust that God in His infinite mercy will soothe them in their affliction; and it is further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, and a copy, suitably engrossed, be presented to the bereaved family, and a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

DRIVE PLANNED FOR N. S. ATHLETIC CLUB

(CHANCELLOR K. GRADY.)

HAVING PROGRESSED TO THE POINT where success for the proposed Native Sons' Athletic Club for San Francisco is assured, the joint committee having charge of the campaign is now hard at work on plans to make a big drive for members during the month of February. Over one thousand have already been secured, and the additional two thousand to enable construction to start will, it is expected, be gained through this drive.

The campaign for the club, as reported in a previous issue of The Grizzly Bear, was started last July, and has met with gratifying success from the beginning. There have been several committees organized, growing out of the original joint committee, and chief of these has been the Booster Committee, with Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10) as chairman, and Roy Fellow (Stanford 76) as secretary. From this committee, composed of ten members from each of the Parlor of San Francisco, a membership committee of twenty-nine has been appointed, with A. D. Lobree (Castro 232) as chairman, and E. J. Casper (Olympus 189) as secretary. This committee is in charge of the membership drive, and is making elaborate plans for the coming month.

The drive is to be started with a big rally in the Native Sons' Building auditorium, which will be featured by vaudeville and athletic "stunts," as well as talks from many of the most prominent men in the Order, many of whom are lending their hearty co-operation to the task in hand. Following the rally, each Parlor is to be requested to make one night during the month "Athletic Night," when a jinks, with athletic features, will be staged, and a committee of workers will solicit signatures to the membership-roll. Members who do not attend the meetings will be reached by literature, specially prepared, and will also be called upon by volunteer solicitors, who will endeavor to prove the value of an athletic club to the Order and to the members as well.

The preliminary work of familiarizing the various Parlor with this project, and the securing of the first thousand members, has entailed an enormous amount of hard work on the joint committee, and particularly its officers, who have devoted night after night for the past six months to visiting the Parlor, talking up the club, and stimulating interest on the part of the members and the Parlor committees. Speaking as one of the workers, the writer feels that this work has carried its own reward, in the many friendships formed, and in the success that has attended the efforts.

Any campaign for an object which is worthy, is bound to entail a great deal of labor, and the athletic club has been no exception. Conditions have made some difficulty, and the entire committee deserves great credit for its faithfulness and persistence, which have led us so far on the road to success that ultimate victory is in sight. The membership drive committee is confident that by the end of its campaign three thousand loyal Native Sons will be on the rolls of the club. Success will then have been assured, and the joint committee can then turn its attention to preparation of plans for the building, as well as to the financial questions involved in its erection.

It is the hope of those concerned with this movement that our success will be the inspiration for other parts of the state to attempt similar movements in their own communities. It is realized that there is not likely, for the present at least, to be another club on the same scale elsewhere, but smaller clubs, carrying the "home" idea, may well be encouraged by the success of the San Francisco Natives. Community centers are bound to come, and the Native Sons should lead in this field. That is the real underlying motive of the backers of this club, and we ascribe much of our success to the fact that the Parlor, generally, recognize that fact.

Twenty-five San Francisco Parlors are represented stalled a new corps of officers headed by President Eugene Daney Jr.; in an address he urged the members to attend regularly, and besought their hearty co-operation in making 1921 the banner year of the Parlor.

The Parlor has decided to give its support, both moral and financial, to several important undertakings, including the restoration of San Diego Mission and the suitable marking of the San Pascual battleground. A membership drive is now under way, and gives promise of being a great success.

Officers Publicly Installed.

Fresno—Officers-elect of Fresno 25, with E. J. Bradley as president, were publicly installed by D.D.G.P. L. J. Price January 28. A large delegation from Selma 107 were in attendance. Daunting followed the installation ceremonies, and refreshments were served.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Howard K. Johnson (Sacramento 3) has been chosen chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Sacramento County.

Edwin O. Edgerton (Ramona 109), having retired from the State Railroad Commission, has opened offices, as a corporation expert, in San Francisco.

Assemblyman Percy G. West (Sunset 26) has sent cards to his numerous friends announcing that he has opened law offices in the Bryte building, Sacramento.

Bismarek Bruck (Past Grand President) of St. Helena attended the football game at Pasadena New Year's Day and incidentally paid a brief visit to Los Angeles.

Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10) of San Francisco, capable and enthusiastic, January 17 became associated with the Grand Secretary's office as an assistant. He is a nephew of John H. Grady, dean of the Past Grand Presidents.

JUST CALIFORNIA

School Bonds—By almost unanimous vote, citizens of Willows, Glenn County, have voted $160,000 bonds for a new grammar school.

Industries Growing—The Chamber of Commerce of Stockton reports factories there employed 2,000 more people in 1920 than in 1919; the annual payroll is now $8,437,172.

Is a Leader—The great outstanding feature in San Diego County, reports the California Development Board, is the raising of winter vegetables, in which industry it is ahead of all other counties of California.

Over Half-Million Autos—Auto registrations in California during 1920 broke all records, numbering 588,939—97,699 more than in 1919; registration fees brought the state $5,550,264; 65,699 chauffeurs and 800,000 operators registered.

Going Up—In the Federal Department of Agriculture's estimate of the 1920 value of all farm crops, based on December 1 prices, California is given fourth place, with $137,750,000, jumping up from tenth place, held in 1919.

Municipal Railway Pays—San Francisco's municipal railway earned $2,811,123.52 during 1920, a gain of $178,840.71 compared with 1919; December was the banner month, bringing in $251,795.25, and New Year Eve was the biggest day, the receipts being $10,560.40.

Fruit Brings Millions—The 1920 fruit crop of Sacramento County, according to Horticultural Commissioner Brossius, netted $9,450,169, about $2,000,000 more than in 1919; the increase was largely due to high grape prices, 2,583 cars netting $3,758,920; 2,429 cars of pears netted $3,125,691.

Crops Worth Millions—Total acreage of all field crops harvested during 1920 in California, reports the State Department of Agriculture, was 5,641,700, total production 8,437,000 tons, total farm values to growers $240,071,000; the total production of fruit crops was 2,530,000 tons, valued to growers at $236,955,000.

Some Prunes—Five million dollars is the value of the annual prune crop of California, according to the Division of Agricultural Education of the University of California. "This state leads all other states in the production of plums and prunes, and this crop, taken as a whole, surpasses any other single fruit in the state, in point of bearing trees," it is stated.

Native Sons Guests.

Oroville—Argonaut 8, N.S.G.W., was the guest of Gold of Ophir 190 January 5, when joint installation was held. D.D.G.P. Nora B. Arnold of Chico was installing officer for the Native Daughters, and D.D.G.P. James Looney for the Native Sons, the officers-elect including: Gold of Ophir Parlor—Mamie Amaral, P.P.; Mae Hickok, P.; Maybelle Burns, I.V.P.; Margaret Gilbert, 2V.P.; Melva Miller, 3V.P.; Lorene Guruey, M.; Edna Corbin, I.S.; Lucile Cox, O.S.; Pansy Demes, R.S.; Katherine Gilmore, F.S.; Lena Kister, T.; Alta Baldwin, O.; Florence Boyle, Ruby Mekellos, Bernice Renfrow, Trs. Argonaut Parlor—James Looney, P.P.; Arthur Smith, P.; R. G. Lawrence, I.V.P.; Arthur Woodhouse, 2V.P.; Earl Ward, 3V.P.; Wm. Thomas, M.; Frank Boyle, Tr.; Donald W. Baldwin, I.S.; Gordon Nisbet, O.S. After installation the following program was given: Vocal solo, Mrs. Alta Baldwin; vocal solo, Miss Alice Black; piano solo, Miss Hazel Gray; vocal solo, Miss Bessie Holder; vocal solo, Miss Alma Black; vocal solo, Mrs. Florence Boyle. A banquet and social hour concluded the evening.

Members of Gold of Ophir Parlor gave a shower January 17 in honor of Mrs. Lena Kister and Mrs. Melva Miller, both recent brides. The affair was held at the home of Miss Marie Amaral, and the brides received many beautiful and useful gifts. Delicious refreshments were served, and a very jolly evening was enjoyed by all.

"Kiddies" Have Fine Time.

San Francisco—The many days and nights of strenuous labor attendant upon the preparation and holding of a Christmas bazaar did not tax the energies of the members of Castro 178 to the extent that the real Christmas spirit was forgotten. Hardly had the neat sum of $475, the net proceeds of the bazaar, been safely tucked in the bank when these active and energetic members began work on a Christmas party for the kiddies.

The children of the members—and those having none of their own were requested to borrow one for the occasion—were the guests of the evening. A splendid big tree was secured and, with its wealth of decorations, its myriad of twinkling red and green lights, and the toys and golden oranges hidden among its branches, it was a real glimpse of Fairyland to the one hundred little tots joyously gathered around it. An interesting program was presented, the talent all promising young sons and daughters of the members. At the close of the program, each child was given a toy, candy, oranges and a cornucopia. While the hosts of the evening, the members of the Parlor, were gathered in groups here and there, chatting over a cup of coffee and real home-made cake, the little guests played and danced, enjoying themselves to the utmost in their own way. The sandman delayed his coming for that night, and only the tiniest guests showed any signs of slumber until "lights were out" and one hundred happy little kiddies were snuggling in bed. The joy brought to the hearts of these little ones will linger long in the memory of the members of Castro Parlor.

Liberal in a Good Cause.

Woodland—At the meeting January 13 Woodland 90 donated $100 toward the $6,000 fund being raised by members of Yolo Post, American Legion, with which to purchase Armory Hall.

Grocery Basket Winner Pleased.

San Francisco—Minerva 2's Christmas party, in spite of the inclement weather, was well attended and greatly enjoyed. The following program was presented: Piano selection, Helen Gerdes; recitation, Dorothy Schulat; Spanish dance, Viola Walters; violin selections, Sarah Kreindler; variety dance, Narissa Whitney; Irish dance, Josephine Shea; Spanish dance, Leo Langer; song and French dance, Ruth Armstrong; moment musical, Dorothy Hyer; song and parasol dance, Amelia Marks; Hawaiian dance, Josephine Shea; gypsy dance, Viola Walters; schottische, Frances Reichel; song and dance, Evangeline Whitney; violin selection, Sarah Kreindler; song and dance, Leo Langer and Narissa Whitney.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus appeared and distributed candy to the many happy children after which ice cream and cakes were served all present. A Christmas grocery basket was won by Mr. Wolf, the most pleased man at the party. The success of the affair was due largely to the chairman of the committee in charge, Mrs. May Langer.

Have Children as Guests.

Elk Grove—The Christmas party given by Liberty 213 and Elk Grove 41, N.S.G.W., was a decided success, the guests of honor including the children of both Parlor's members as well as several "borrowed" ones. The tree was a sight to make happy the heart of every small child. An immense fruitcake, baked by Liberty's famous chef, Mrs. Dell Cann, was raffled, May Rhoades being the winner. Following the cake episode Santa Claus came down the chimney and was assisted in distributing presents to the excited guests.

After an interesting program, the kiddies were filled up on goodies, and when they had all they could eat the grown-ups got what was left, with hot coffee added. Clara Windmiller headed the supper committee, and Marie Ajax the tree and entertainment; each was assisted by "live wires" from both Parlor's. The guests all went home happy, and will look forward to another treat next Christmas.

Retiring Officer Remembered.

San Francisco—The children of the members of Guadalupe 153 were recently brought together by the Parlor and entertained with a program contributed by themselves, and games for which prizes were awarded. Toys and candy were presented each child, and refreshments were served. All voted the affair a delightful success.

January 11 D.D.G.P. Marguerite Kaufman installed these officers: Emma Litzius, P.; Adelina Soracco, P.P.; Mabel Reith, I.V.P.; Margaret Blanchfield, 2V.P.; Theresa McCarthy, 3V.P.; May McCarthy, R.S.; Pauline Des Roches, F.S.; Agnes Gallagher, T.; Theresa Flynn, M.; Louise Ghiotti, I.S.; Anna Boss, O.S.; Anita Moroneelli, Kathryn Barrett, Irene Flynn, Trs. Anita Moroneelli, retiring past president, was presented with a beautiful token, in appreciation for services rendered the Order and Parlor; during her term she presided over the large joint meeting when three local Parlor's welcomed the Grand President, and was queen of the November homeless children's benefit ball. D.D.G.P. Kaufman was presented with a beautiful bowl. Guadalupe Parlor is now arranging for its thirteenth annual banquet.

Entertains Children.

Oakland—At Bahia Vista 167's annual Christmas festival for the children, about 150 boys and girls were made happy by Santa Claus, who presented each with a gift and a bag of candy. An attraction, alike for the little folks and grown-ups, was a grab-bag from which genuine surprises were extracted. A splendid impromptu program was presented by the children and thoroughly enjoyed.

Much pleasure was enjoyed January 12 when, jointly with Oakland 50, N.S.G.W., Bahia Vista installed officers. The installation work was given alternately, D.D.G.Ps. Myra Sackett and Richard Barnett impressively rendering the charges. Mae Wright, on behalf of Bahia Vista, made presentations to the officers of that Parlor; or, as she expressed it, played Santa Claus. There being no gifts for the officers of Oakland Parlor, Grand Second Vice-president Harry G. Williams from somewhere "dug up" a candlestick holding a worn-out duster and with an appropriate address presented it to Chester Case, the Parlor's newly-installed president. As chairman of the evening, President Case, on behalf of Oakland Parlor, presented the usual emblematic jewel to Maury Paissano, retiring past president. "On with the dance," was the next order, and it was obeyed, gladly, by all.

Large Crowd Greet's Grand President.

San Francisco—On the occasion of the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs to La Estrella 89 she was greeted by a large assemblage of members and visitors, the latter including Past Grand President May C. Bolemann, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, D.D.G.P. Helen Mann, D.D.G.P. May Noble, and delegations from ten Parlor's. The hall was beautifully decorated.

Grand President Briggs complimented the officers on their splendid work, and gave an interesting account of the Order's various projects. As a reminder of her pleasant visit, she was presented with a set of silver teaspoons. As testimonials of the affection the Parlor holds for them, Past Grand President Bolemann was given a small token, and D.D.G.P. Mann a silver cold-meat fork.

Bride Surprised.

Nevada City—Mrs. Josie Muscardini, a recent bride of Laurel 6, was tendered a surprise shower at the close of the meeting January 5. After toasts to the bride had been given by Misses Julia Sughrue, Elizabeth Richards, Elizabeth Flewollen and Mrs. Belle Douglas, scores of articles, beautiful and useful, were distributed to the surprised bride from a Christmas tree. Mrs. Muscardini expressed her appreciation in a few words, after which refreshments were served.

This meeting also completed the first of a series of card tournaments, the prize-winners being Miss Lenore Hieronimus, Miss Elizabeth Flewollen, Mrs. Annie Christensen. The second tournament starts February 2, and will continue through February and March.

Children's Night.

San Francisco—Orinda 56 had a Christmas party December 30. It was children's night, and the following little misses rendered a program heartily enjoyed by all present: The Whitney sisters, Norissa, Bernadette and Evangeline, and Lucille Graham, fancy dancing; Dorothy Elsie Bailey, recitation; Rena Annarumi, piano selection. Mrs. Orinda Giannini was the accompanist for the dancing. The musical chair and peanut and potato races offered a fund of amusement. Tokens were tendered both the talent and the winners in the games, and all present received a bag of candy.

Officers Jointly Installed.

Menlo Park—A large number of Native Daughters and Native Sons gathered January 20 for joint installation, at which D.D.G.P. Frances Maloney of this city officiated for the former, and D.D.G.P. A. S. Liguori of Redwood City for the latter. Harry G. Williams of Oakland, Grand Second Vice-president, N.S.G.W., gave an interesting talk on the homeless children work of both Orders. Dancing was in order, at the conclusion of the ceremonies until midnight, when the Native Sons served a delicious banquet.

Alexander, O.S.; Catherine Kavanaugh, Julia Bowles, Adaline Blanchard, Trs.

Three Faithfuls Remembered.

San Jose—D.D.G.P. Mrs. Raymond Plamondon installed these officers of Vendome 100 January 6, when a large delegation from San Jose 81 was in attendance: Mrs. Susie Bickford, P.P.; Mrs. Rush McCrone, P.; Miss Daisy Keast, 1V.P.; Miss Mary Cunan, 2V.P.; Miss Elizabeth Blackwell, 3V.P.; Mrs. J. M. Howell, R.S.; Mrs. I. M. Koppel, F.S.; Mrs. H. J. Dougherty, T.; Mrs. Sayde Cligny, M.; Miss Dorothy Morrill, I.S.; Mrs. John Corotto, O.S.; Miss Ella Tognazzini, O.; Mrs. Adelaide Morton, Miss Maude Haight, Miss Belden Gallagher, Trs.

During the evening Mrs. Susie Bickford was presented with a gold past president's pin, Mrs. R. Plamondon with a Bohemian glass jar and ladle, and Mrs. David Gairaud with a gold-mounted fountain pen. A delightful Spanish-California supper was served. Vendome Parlor will have a busy term socially, many events being outlined, and expects to make great progress numerically, a large class initiation to be held in the near future.

Strong, and Growing.

San Francisco—The annual Christmas party of Oro Fino 9 was held January 6. A tree, prettily decorated, had gifts for everyone, and choice plants were distributed to all in attendance. Interesting remarks were made by Dr. Margaret Mahoney and D.D.G.P. May Barry, refreshments were served, and a pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

Oro Fino is a progressive Parlor, not large in membership, but strong and active. Several new members have been added to the roll, and more are to come. A most successful 1921 is predicted by all its members.

Join Forces for Official Visit.

Menlo Park—January 13 Menlo 211, El Carmelo 181 (Daly City) and Bonita 10 (Redwood City) entertained Grand President Bertha A. Briggs on her official visit. She was welcomed by a goodly crowd, among the visitors being Past Grand President Margaret Grote-Hill, and delegations from Alta 3 (San Francisco), El Monte 203 (Mountain View) and Presidio 148 (San Francisco).

Grand President Briggs gave an interesting address on the various projects of the Order, and at its close was presented with a beautiful silver tray. A bounteous banquet concluded a most happy occasion.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Emma W. Humphrey (Past Grand President) of Reno, Nevada State, was a visitor to Sacramento last month, seeing the Legislature in action.

Miss Marie McFadyen (Long Beach 154), after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents at Long Beach, resumed her studies at University of California, Berkeley, the middle of last month.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President) of Los Angeles was unanimously elected secretary of the State Senate at the opening of the Legislature in Sacramento. This is the first time in history a woman has filled this important position.

SITUATION SERIOUS FOR CALIFORNIA'S OLDEST INDUSTRY

THE OUTPUT OF GOLD, SILVER, COPPER, lead and zinc in California in 1920, according to preliminary estimates compiled by Charles G. Yale of the San Francisco office of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, was as follows: Gold, $13,933,600; silver, 1,538,660 fine ounces; copper, 12,934,900 pounds; lead, 5,071,600 pounds; zinc, 1,572,500 pounds. The output of metals in 1920, as compared with that in 1919, therefore shows a decrease of $2,762,355 in gold; an increase of 431,471 fine ounces in silver; a decrease of 8,797,607 pounds in copper; an increase of 1,503,333 pounds in lead; and an increase of 1,099,029 pounds in zinc.

The outstanding and unprecedented feature of metal mining in California in 1920 was the closing down of a great number of the largest gold and copper mines, and the conditions generally have been decidedly adverse, particularly in the Mother Lode region, where some of the mines that were once among the largest in the state stopped work, several of them permanently. The labor available in the mining regions is reported to be still unsatisfactory, and its high cost and inefficiency have been the principal causes of the closing down of many large mines and of the curtailment of operation in others, although other high costs have contributed to reduce production. In fact, it is very difficult or almost impossible to obtain capital for gold mining, as few miners are making a profit. The cost of producing gold has been steadily rising for several years, until it nearly prohibits all profit.

HELP NEEDED TO SAVE CALIFORNIA'S GOLD MINING INDUSTRY.

A condition has arisen in gold mining in California which is not normal nor natural, says State Mineralogist Fletcher Hamilton. It has descended like a plague and cast a blight on the gold mining industry of the entire state. It has attacked gold mining and gold mining alone. Communities in the mining regions of California are being deserted,—this fact being positively proven by returns from the 1920 census. Mines which have produced millions and which should produce millions more are being shut down and allowed to cave in, and fill with water; mills and reduction plants worth a King's ransom are left to the mercy of the elements. The reason is simply described: costs of equipment, supplies, labor and living have more than doubled; the selling price of gold remains where it always has been fixed by law.

A means of relief has been found. The plan is embodied in the "McFadden Bill" now before Congress. It provides that an excise tax of $10 per ounce be placed upon manufactured gold in order that the gold producer may receive from the tax so collected a premium of $10 an ounce for newly-produced gold. More gold is now being used as a commodity than is being produced today. This would in no way affect our monetary system, and it would give the miner a fighting chance to continue operations on more or less of an equal footing with other industries.

The McFadden bill should receive the netive support of everyone. Californians, in particular, should be foremost in supporting it, both to prevent the Nation's gold reserve from sinking too low, and to prevent the wiping out of an industry which has brought wealth and fame to the Golden State. The Grizzly Bear urges all of its readers—every one of them a loyal California-American—to write at once to the state's representatives at Washington, and urge their active support of the McFadden bill.

GRAND PARLOR GOSSIP

At Stockton, the week of Monday, April 18, the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will be in session. Stockton Parlor, No. 7, will be in charge of the entertainment, and has a committee at work arranging an elaborate program.

While delegates to the session will not be selected by Subordinate Parlors until March, considerable interest is already apparent, as the coming Grand Parlor will be the most important in the Order's history. Many "big" problems, affecting the future welfare, must be solved.

Considerable gossip is already in the air regarding grand officers, and it is certain several strong candidates will be put forward for the Board of Grand Trustees. For Grand Third Vice-president, Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynne (Pacific 10) of San Francisco will, it is presumed, be a candidate.

The Grizzly Bear has definite information that Rincon 72 (San Francisco) will urge the re-election of Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, and that Yosemite 24 (Merced) will endeavor to have Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter advanced to Grand Marshal.—C.M.H.

SUPPORT NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

Recognizing the fact that the Native Sons are interested in all important civic matters, the local Parlors—Los Angeles, Ramona and Corona—were requested to send representatives to a conference arranged to discuss ways and means of obtaining a new outfall sewer for the city. The Parlors responded, and the Order of Native Sons was the only fraternal organization represented.

The plans of the conference, later presented to the Parlors, have been approved, and their representatives have been given recognition by appointment on the most important sub-committees. The action of the Parlors pledges the support of the Native Sons to secure a new outfall sewer, claimed to be the most-needed public improvement.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO START.

Early in February a systematic drive for members for the three local Parlors of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will be started, and it will continue until the field has been thoroughly canvassed.

When in the city last month, Grand President James F. Hoey arranged with Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger to have a list of eligibles taken from the great register. He also announced his willingness to supply, at the expense of the Grand Parlor, a competent director for the drive. The list is about complete, and the services of an organizer have been secured.

Because of the work it is engaged in—different from all other fraternal organizations because it is for the public good—the Order of Native Sons should, rightfully, be the largest fraternity in Los Angeles, with a membership of not less than 5,000.

The organizer, a Native Son, who has been selected to take charge, is experienced in such work and knows the local field. He should be successful in making the Order the strongest, as it is the best, in Los Angeles. Let's all get behind this drive, and make it so.—C.M.H.

Installation This Month.

Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., will have installation February 10, at which time a number of candidates will be initiated, and the Good of the Order Committee has made arrangements for a good time, including a big feed. The officers-elect include: J. J. Craig, Sr.P.P.; L. A. Rose, Jr.P.P.; J. L. McGonigle, P.; H. J. Whisnand, 1V.P.; Warren W. Hunter, 2V.P.; Paul Brunette, 3V.P.; H. J. Holtz, M.; W. L. Fisher, I.S.; M. S. Hawley, O.S.; J. F. Lyon, Tr.; J. T. Newell, T.; W. D. Gilman, Sec.

The president-elect, John L. McGonigle, a "live wire," will put forth his every effort to build up the Parlor, and he seeks the co-operation of all members, particularly through their presence at meetings. Several novel social "stunts" are in the making, and a committee is at work on a "side degree."

Has "Keen" President.

Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., has a Keen president—Walter, he is called; along with the other officers, he was installed January 21 by D.D.G.P. Walter D. Gilman. President Keen is very keen, they say, for adding a quantity of young blood, through new members, to the Parlor. A good start was made January 28, when a class of candidates were initiated, and as Keen Keen is out for blood, there are indications that his desire to double Ramona's membership will be gratified.

The Parlor, at each meeting now, is entertained with a brief sketeb on some early-day subject. Adolfo G. Rivera, Past Grand President H. C. Lichtenberger and Harry J. Leland furnished the January papers. E. T. Barber is billed for February 4, and Thomas R. Jones (Sacramento 3) has promised to relate some early-day history during the month.

In connection with its elubrooms, Ramona has a library, in the extension of which interest has been lately aroused. Several new books were added from the New Year's Eve gift "jinks," which also brought in about $200 to a fund being collected to

To Initiate Class of Thirty.

The "big" time of the year in Corona 196, N.S.G.W., is billed for the last day of January, when class of thirty candidates will be initiated, among the number being some of the city's most prominent men. The "crack" ritual team of Southern Counties' Assembly, No. 4, P.P.A., N.S.G.W., will exemplify the ritual. An interesting program of entertainment, including refreshments, will be presented after initiation.

PERSONAL MENTION.

V. R. Franklin (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) is now domiciled at Redlands.

Dan Laubersheimer (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) enjoyed a hunting trip along the Mexican coast last month.

David E. Lee (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) came up from his home city, San Diego, for a short visit last month.

J. P. Foley (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) and wife have a native daughter at their home; she arrived December 17.

John W. Maltman (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) has been appointed a deputy in the local office of the state attorney-general.

Bertha A. Briggs (Grand President, N.D.G.W.) will pay an official visit to Los Angeles Parlor, No. 24, N.D.G.W., February 18.

Charles R. Thomas (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), chief constable of Los Angeles County, made a trip East on official business last month.

William I. Traeger (Grand First Vice-president, N.S.G.W.) was called to Porterville the early part of last month by the death of his father.

James F. Hoey (Grand President, N.S.G.W.) of Martinez spent a few hours here last month consulting various members regarding the Order.

Henry G. Bodkin (Grand Trustee, N.S.G.W.) paid an official visit last month to Los Osos Parlor, No. 11, N.S.G.W. (San Luis Obispo) and was royally entertained.

Superior Judge Grant Jackson (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), who retired from the bench the first of the year, has resumed the practice of law, with offices in the Security building.

Frank Fewins (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), the eight-of-hand artist who has mystified many Native Sons audiences, is also an artist of the tonorial variety, with a "studio" in the Black building.

In Memoriam

AUGUST TRAEGER.

August Traeger was born in the State of Wisconsin on November 7, 1852. In his early boyhood he moved with his parents to Kenton, Ohio, where he lived until he came to California, early in 1872. He settled in Tulare County, near the town of Porterville. For the first few years he engaged in farming and lumber hauling. In 1890 he purchased a blacksmith shop in the town of Porterville which he conducted till the time of his last illness. In 1879 he married Martha Ellen Dunn. There were eight children born of this marriage, five of whom are still living. He died in Porterville on January 2, 1921, being less than two months past the age of 68 years. He leaves the following sons and daughters to mourn his loss: William I. of Los Angeles; Delbert O., Katherine Traeger, Mrs. Ella May Staiga and Mrs. Laura Eita Evans of Porterville.

The above is a short biography of the father of our honored brother and friend, William I. Traeger, and is recorded for the purpose of preserving a short history of a man who was beloved by all who knew him, a man who possessed the undaunted spirit of the pioneer which has exemplified in the life he led during his long residence in the community which respected and honored him as one of its citizens.

Ramona Parlor, No. 109, Native Sons of the Golden West, is deeply grieved at the loss sustained by our brother, for we appreciate how keenly he feels the departure of his beloved father. While every member of this Order would willingly share a portion of his sorrow, in order that his burden may be made easier to sustain, we can only offer to our dear friend our sincere consolation and heartfelt sympathy.

August Traeger did not live in vain, for he gave to California a son who, because of his devotion to country, state, and this great fraternity, will exemplify in full measure those principles upon which the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West is founded.

*Why the Burnham
is Best*

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

DRAKE AND NEW ALBION

Dr. Charles Edward Chapman

ALIFORNIANS HAVE LONG known of and been interested in the visit to their shores in 1579 of the world famous navigator Drake, afterwards Sir Francis Drake. Neither they nor others, however, have been wont to realize the full significance of this event from the English standpoint on the one hand or the Spanish on the other. In truth, here was the first "New England" in North America, not alone in the name "Nova (New) Albion" which Drake applied, but also in the deliberate intent then and thereafter to create a great English empire in the Americas around the nucleus of Drake's Californian discoveries. The plan failed to mature, but the achievements of Drake and, later, of his fellow-countryman, Thomas Cavendish, stimulated the Spaniards to great efforts which materially furthered their program of an advance up the Pacific coast and into the Californias.

The story finds a logical place in the great world events of the sixteenth century which can only be alluded to briefly here. Spain and England, even when not at war, were bitterly hostile to each other during most of that century and especially so in the reign of Queen Elizabeth of England (1558-1603). Spain was the great power of Europe and the world, the uncompromising champion of Catholicism in an age of violent religious differences, and the sole occupant of the treasure-house of the Americas. England, though rising to a position of greatness, was scarcely to be considered as equal in strength to Spain, was Protestant and anti-Catholic, and was particularly displeased with Spain's pretensions not only to the sovereignty but also to the exclusive trade of the New World. Thus English mariners, with the secret or even the open backing of the royal authorities, made voyages to the Americas to smuggle goods into Spanish colonies or capture Spanish ships and plunder their towns. There was what amounted to a perpetual warfare, though in Europe the two peoples were for the first thirty years of Elizabeth's reign outwardly at peace.

Greatest of the earlier sailors of this period was John Hawkins, under whom Drake received his training. In 1563 the fleet of John Hawkins came to grief in the port of Vera Cruz when it was attacked by the Spaniards in contravention of what the survivors claimed was their plighted word. On this occasion Drake indeed escaped capture, but lost some seven thousand ducats, all that he possessed, which he had embarked in Hawkins' venture, filled with hate for the enemy whom he regarded as having treacherously deprived him of his fortune, Drake swore an oath to be revenged. Never was an oath more faithfully and completely kept. During the remainder of his life he collected the debt many times over, and was a veritable scourge of Spain. In 1573 he made an inland journey nearly across the Isthmus of Panamá with a view to capturing the Spanish treasure coming that way from Peru. Reaching the continental divide he climbed a tree and saw before him, for the first time, the waters of the Pacific. As he told his old comrade, John Oxenham, he "besought Almighty God of His goodness to give him life and leave to sail once in an English ship in that sea." This wish developed to the proportions of a vow, for from that time forward Drake was resolved to find a way to accomplish his desire. Five years later the chance came. Meanwhile, in 1575, Oxenham had crossed Panamá and built a pinnace which sailed in the Pacific, thus depriving Drake of the glory of being the first Englishman to navigate those seas, but Oxenham's party was captured by the Spaniards.

In was in the years 1577 to 1580 that Drake made his famous voyage around the world, stopping in California in 1579 on the way. One of the moot points about this voyage has been the question whether Drake had the formal authorization of his sovereign for the undertaking or whether he was to be considered a pirate. No instructions of the royal government are extant, but there is such an overwhelming array of circumstantial evidence that there can no longer be a reasonable doubt but that he went forth in the royal service. Though Spain and England were not formally at war, the English queen had many scores against Spain which she was only too ready to pay off, if opportunity should offer. To mention but a single thing, there were constant plots against her life, and the queen well knew that Philip II of Spain was cognizant of them, if not indeed the directing hand. She therefore resolved to pay Spain back in her own coin by dealing a series of underhanded blows whereby she could get satisfaction and at the same time profit for the crown. The Earl of Essex recommended Drake to her as a man well fitted to serve her against Spain, and Drake was granted an interview with the queen. Elizabeth seemed desirous of some sort of descent upon the Spanish peninsula itself, but Drake "told her Maiestie of the suale good that was to be done in Spayne, but thonly waye was to auoy hym by his Indyces." It would seem that Drake then proposed that he should make a voyage into the Pacific to plunder and destroy Spanish ships and cities there (thus to "auoy" the king of Spain) and to take possession for his queen of all lands not occupied already by a Christian prince. Then, if possible, he was to return to England by way of the strait through North America, if he could find it, or otherwise by sailing around the world. The evidence for this is not direct, but Drake often stated that he sailed by the queen's commission. According to the testimony of a Portuguese pilot whom he took prisoner and later released: "He told all those whom he captured . . . that he came in the service of his sovereign the queen, whose instructions he carried and obeyed, and that he had come more for another purpose than that of taking ships." Furthermore, his ship was fitted out in a way to make an impression, beyond anything that was required of an ordinary buccaneering adventure, for "neither did he omit to make provision also for ornament or delight, carrying to this purpose with him expert musitians, rich furniture (all the vessels for his table, yea, many belonging even to the Cooke-room being of pure silver) and divers shewes of all sorts of curious workmanship, whereby the civillite and magnificence of his native countrie might, amongst the nations whithersoever he should come, be the more admired." Elizabeth herself seems to have given him some of the "dainties and perfumed waters" with which he was supplied. In keeping with all this magnificence, Drake had gorgeous uniforms, observed almost royal state on his ship, and was attended by a number of gentlemen of the best families in England. These matters have a bearing on the plans that occasioned, and also grew out of, Drake's visit to California.

This is Chapter IX of Dr. Charles Edward Chapman's soon-to-be-published "History of Alta California," referred to in last month's Grizzly Bear. Other chapters will appear in later numbers of the magazine.—Editor.

In November, 1577, Drake left England at the head of a fleet of five ships. The largest was the "Pelican," a vessel of only a hundred tons, subsequently renamed the "Golden Hind" when Drake reached the Pacific. In all five ships there was a total of 164 men. Of the early hardships he encountered and of his experiences in South and Central America there is little need here to tell. He entered the Pacific Ocean in September, 1578. Sailing northward, with only his flagship left to him, he attacked Spanish towns and ships, until he had a treasure that filled the vessel to its capacity. Proceeding to New Spain he stopped at Guatuleo in Ouxaca. Here he put ashore the last of the prisoners he had taken, except for three negroes, and procured supplies. He had sufficiently worried King Philip, but the principal business of the voyage remained to perform. He wished now to find suitable lands for British colonies and the way of escape from the Spaniards through the strait, and the fewer witnesses he had with him, the better. Leaving Guatuleo on April 16, 1579, Drake went well out to sea, and headed toward the unknown waters of the north.

There is a dispute as to the farthest north Drake reached, a dispute which was of international significance down to the Oregon Treaty of 1846 between Great Britain and the United States. The British claim was based largely on their contention that Drake had discovered the coast above 42° (the present northern boundary of California) to 48°. The international dispute having long since been settled, it has been possible to investigate the matter objectively, and the consensus of opinion has been in favor of 42°. George Davidson, who knew the Pacific coast as well as any man that ever lived, held that Drake stopped between 42° and 43° at Chetko Cove in 42° 3', just over the California line in present-day Oregon. He was therefore the probable discoverer of that state, for it is unlikely that Ferrello saw the coast so far north. It is true that the claim for the higher latitude was based on accounts of those who made the voyage, together with their comments on the extraordinary cold they experienced and the snow they saw on the mountains. But these very accounts are inconsistent in themselves, and the remarks about the cold were applied equally to what all recognize as the California coast and to the supposedly more northern climes.

Thus, John Drake (a cousin of the commander), who was on the "Golden Hind," had this to say in 1584, when questioned by Spanish officials of the Río de la Plata: "They sailed out at sea . . . until they reached 48 degrees north. . . . Captain Francis gave the land that is situated in 48 degrees the name of New England. . . . They were there a month and a half, taking in water and wood and repairing their ship." In 1587 the same John Drake made the following declaration before the Inquisition of Lima: "Then they left [Guatuleo] and sailed . . . until they reached forty-four degrees, when the wind changed and he [Drake, the commander] went to the Californias, where he discovered land in forty-eight degrees. There he landed and built huts and remained for a month and a half." Another account, presumably by a sailor on the voyage, made 48° the farthest north, and spoke of landing in 44°. The chaplain of the "Golden Hind," Francis Fletcher, whose narrative is the principal account of the voyage that has survived, said that they were in 42° on June 3. Two days later the contrary winds forced them to shore, where they "cast anchor in a bad bay," which Davidson identifies as Chetko Cove. This was their farthest north, and according to Fletcher they were in 48°. Thus in two days, against contrary winds and the Japan Current, they must have sailed over 400 miles! If that rate had been maintained since leaving Guatuleo they would have gone 10,000 miles! It would seem, therefore, that the latitudes given were all too high. Richard Hakluyt, the immortal collector of narratives on voyages and a contemporary of Drake, gave 42° as the northerly limit, changing at a later time to 43°. Davidson's views, already referred to, may be accepted for the present as most likely to have represented the truth.* Incidentally it was to Drake's interest to state the latitude as high as he could, not only for the glory that would accrue to him as the discoverer, but also and perhaps more especially to excuse his failure to continue the search for the strait. According to the testimony of the Portuguese pilot whom he put ashore at Guatuleo, Drake had told him that he was under orders to go as far north as 66° before abandoning the attempt to discover the strait.

*The most extravagant view is that taken recently by Mrs. Nuttall. According to her, "Drake ventured so far north that even he dared go no further, and was forced to turn back on account of the intense cold and ice he encountered, earning, however, the credit, accorded to him by contemporary poets [notably by the Spaniard Lope de Vega], of having sighted the North as well as the South Pole." In the absence of Mrs. Nuttall's proofs, it is impossible as yet to accept her conclusions.

Chaplain Fletcher, whom Drake once described as "Ye falsest knave that liveth," seems to have justified his commander's reflection on his veracity in his comments about the cold off the California coast. According to Fletcher, "the very roapes of our ship were stiffe, and the rain which fell was an unnatural congealed and frozen substance . . . though sea-men lack not good stomachs, yet it seemed a question to many amongst vs, whether their hands should feed their mouths, or rather keepe themselves within their couerts from the pinching cold that did bennumme them . . . our meate, as soon as it was remooued from the fire, would presently in a manner be frozen vp . . . euery hill (whereof we saw many, but none verie high), though it were in June, and the sunne in his nearest approach vnto them, being couered with snow." Referring to their disagreeable position in the "bad bay" (Chetko Cove), Fletcher says: "Wee were not without some danger by reason of the many extreme gusts and flaxes that beat vpon vs, which if they ceased and were still at any time, immediately vpon their intermission there followed most uile, thicke, and stinking foggies." One might indeed have wondered if they had not touched the Arctic Zone, were it not that the chaplain used the same extreme language in describing the cold at Drake's landing place in 38°, clearly within Alta California. Suffice to say that the natives, the birds, and the very land itself shivered with the cold, and there is more about "thicke mists and most stinking fogges," and the "nipping cold" of a California June and July! It is, of course, clear to Californians how these statements came to be made. The fogs of the summer along the northern coast do indeed seem cold to one who is not acclimated; many a mau from the east of the United States will shiver through his first summer, but rarely afterward. It may well have seemed worse to Drake and his men who had for a long time been in the tropics. Incidentally, John Drake says nothing of the cold, and gives no hint that they had reached a far northern clime.

At any rate, Drake turned south soon after he first sighted land, being forced back by the contrary winds, according to Fletcher. Perhaps the principal reason for his return, or at least for his failure to resume the northward voyage, was that the coast ran so continuously to the northwest that he and his men began to believe that North America was "joynd" to Asia or "very neere" it, and therefore there was scant probability of a strait. So the ship went south along the California coast, and, as Fletcher puts it, "In 38 deg. 30 min. we fell with a convenient and fit harbor, and June 17 came to anchor therein, where we continued till the 23 day of July following." It is now generally agreed that this was Drake's Bay, but for a long time many held that the stop was made in San Francisco Bay, a little farther south, while others contended in favor of Bodega Bay, a few miles to the north. The Spaniards always said that Drake stopped in the "Bay of San Francisco," but this was the only possible argument for that port, as the description of Drake's stopping-place in no way tallied with that of San Francisco Bay. When it developed that the "Bay of San Francisco" was for nearly two centuries the Spanish name for Drake's Bay, while the bay now so-called was unknown to them, the argument for San Francisco Bay was dropped. Bodega Bay is not a "convenient and fit harbor," for it is open to the northwest winds, and no ship like Drake's could have stayed there thirty-six days. Drake's Bay is small, but it might well have been deemed a good port, and, besides, it has "the white banks and cliffs, which lie toward the sea," referred to in the description given by Fletcher.

On the day following their arrival they were harangued three times by an Indian in a canoe, who made a great show of reverence and submission. The Indians in general seemed to be in a state of wonderment about the ship, which was the first, so far as is known, that had ever stopped there, though Ferrel's expedition and, no doubt, a number of the galleons had in previous years passed within sight of the shore. Three days later Drake moved his ship farther in, that he might repair a leak in it, and landed his men, but took the precaution of making a rough fort for their protection, and set up tents to sleep in. The Indians, however, were very submissive, and showed plainly that they looked upon Drake and his men as gods, despite the attempts of the latter to persuade them that they were not. The Englishmen on their part were interested in the customs of the Indians, their wigwam homes, their dress (or lack of it), and the rude presents that they brought. During two days the Indians stayed away, but then they came with a great concourse from neighboring towns, and with gifts, or, as they seemed to Drake's men to regard them, "sacrifices, upon this persuasion that we were gods."

"When they came to the top of the hill, at the bottom whereof we had built our fort, they made a stand; where one (appointed as their chiefe speaker) wearied both vs his hearers, and himselfe too, with a long and tedious oration; deliuered with strange and violent gestures, his voice being extended to the vttermost strength of nature, and his wordes falling so thicke one in the necke of another, that he could hardly fetch his breath againe; as soone as he had concluded, all the rest, with a reuerend bowing of their bodies (in a dreeming manner, and long producing of the same) cried Oh: thereby giuing their consents that all was very true which he had spoken, and that they had vttered their minde by his mouth vnto vs; which done, the men laying downe their bowes vpon the hill, and leauing their women and children behinde them, came downe with their presents; in such sort as if they had appeared before a God indeed, thinking themselves happy that they might haue access vnto our Generall, but much more happy when they sawe that he would receiue at their hands those things which they so willingly had presented: and no doubt they thought themselves nearest vnto God when they sate or stood next to him. In the meane time the women, as if they had bene desperate, vsed vnnatural violence against themselves, crying and shrieking piteously, tearing their flesh with their nails from their cheekes in a monstrous manner, the blood streaming downe along their breasts, besides despoiling the vpper parts of their bodies of those single coverings they formerly had, and holding their hands about their heads that they might

BILL WOODS OF THE PIUTE COUNTRY Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt

VER HEAR OF BILL WOODS? NO? Well, that's only natural. He was not a man to get into the newspapers and magazines, and he's been dead now for twenty years.

But his kind of man has been scarce—and is growing scarcer; and we Westerners think it would be a pity for him to be forgotten and his kind to die out entirely.

Bill Woods, the "Mountain Man of Tuolumne," was a true California "old timer," possessing certain very pronounced proclivities. Like the myriads of wild denizens of the great Stanislaus National Forest, he lived a natural, unconventional life, and incidentally was a cattle-raiser of an old regime that is now scarcely more than a memory.

Like many another old-time mountain man, Bill was a confirmed hachelor. Having no near relatives that he was aware of when he died in 1899, he left his ranch, near Cooperstown in the foothills below Sonora, to his nearest neighbors, who had shown him kindness and had cared for him in his last sickness.

He spent much time in the higher mountains looking after his cattle. In fact, he made it his practice to remain about the upper meadows till the snow was belly-deep to his saddle-horse. It was a matter of no small wonder, that he had not been caught in the snow and hound in; but by virtue of a long and intimate acquaintance with the mountains and all their moods, he always contrived to make his escape.

One of Bill's most trusted friends was his old rifle,—and here was a case of friendship where familiarity certainly did not breed contempt. How long he had owned this trusty weapon no one knew; but for many years—certainly more than a score—neither would have seemed complete without the other.

This was before the days of Government reserves for cattle and sheep. The cattlemen took their cattle where they chose from meadow to meadow, in search of good pasture, till time to get them together and drive them out to the lower levels in the autumn, —some years in October, never after November. Many a head of cattle has perished by being left one day too long in the mountain meadows, or by virtue of the unexpected, sudden breaking of a wintry storm. Even today the bleaching bones of cattle that perished more than a decade ago under a great shelving rock where they had sought shelter from the driving snow are pointed out as grim evidence of the storm king's relentless sway.

The long-standing and bitter feeling of the cattlemen toward the sheepmen is easily understood when it is known how seriously the herds of sheep cut up and often utterly destroyed the pasturage for cattle. No love was lost between these two classes of knights of the saddle. One hears echoes of this ancient feud even yet at various points in the Sierra Nevada. It extended to the latest "huckaroo" recruit,—even the dogs, ever faithful to their exacting masters, seemed to share it.

When Bill Woods selected a pasture for his cattle, warning was thereby duly served to all intending trespassers, and especially sheepmen, to keep off. If a newcomer insisted that the mountains were free to all comers and that he would keep his sheep where he pleased, he would receive a hint so forcible in character that more than likely it needed no repetition. A bullet from old Bill Woods' rifle would "zip" within a foot or two of the offender's head. Bill was quietly sitting up there under some tree or behind a great rock, a quarter of a mile or more from the spot. He made good use of his field-glasses to spy on trespassers. The newcomer might still theoretically claim his right to remain, but practically a rifle ball through the brim of his "sombrero" gave him sudden and vigorous powers of locomotion. The sheepmen of Portuguese nationality in particular came to stand in such a fear of Woods that it amounted to a mortal dread.

It was really not Bill's purpose to kill anyone,—though he would not hesitate on occasion,—but he used a sort of moral suasion that certainly worked. On one occasion, by mistake, he missed an unoffending friend's head only about a foot. Meeting him afterwards, Bill said, "By jolly, I nearly hit you yesterday for another fellow." "I knew it was you, all right, and I made tracks," was the knowing response of his friend.

One day as Bill Woods was making his way along a winding and all but invisible trail in the Piute country near Louse Cañon, the new red-flannel shirt which he had acquired in Sonora, in striking contrast to the great gray granite towers and deep blue

The accompanying short story, with glimpses into a real, if passing, phase of California life gleaned during his mountain trips in Tuolumne County, comes to The Grizzly Bear from Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt, head of the Department of Economics, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Dr. Hunt, a lover of California and her history, is no stranger to readers of this magazine, having contributed many articles of value and interest to the state's history admirers. While in lighter vein, "Bill Woods of the Piute Country" will be enjoyed equally as well as previous articles.—Editor.

mountain lakes, attracted the attention of a Piute buck. In such a lonely spot it is marvelous how an Indian can suddenly appear, life-size, from nowhere.

So completely did the red man's cupidry for the shirt take possession of him that he suddenly covered Bill with his rifle and demanded that he then and there take off the shirt and deliver over. Bill was amazed at such boldness, but wisely preserved his usual outward calm and expression of stolid indifference,—he was plainly at the mercy of the Indian, for his own pistol was carelessly tucked away inside the red shirt.

So, while fairly boiling inwardly with rage, he proceeded with deliberation and outward complacency to disrobe, and, seeing no alternative, finally handed over the desired garment to the hated Piute. But the avaricious greed of that huck proved his undoing! He was indiscreet enough, in his lack of acquaintance with the customer he had to deal with, to lay aside his rifle for a moment while he should robe himself in the red shirt. He could not wait.

Here was Bill's opportunity. Quick as a flash, indifference giving way to instant and intense activity, just at the moment when the Indian inserted his head into the shirt of heart's desire Bill whipped out his six-shooter and in a single instant shot the huck dead in his tracks. Then he dragged the dead Indian to the nearby lake—probably Buck Lake of today—and having tied a heavy rock to the body threw it into the lake. Then followed the huck's rifle, for Bill feared some other Indians would recognize this if ever seen in his possession and the result would be they would surely shoot him. Such was the price paid by the Piute huck for his consuming passion for Bill Woods' red shirt.

It is said that Woods never slept twice in the same place after the tragedy of the shirt,—nor did he ever use the cabin he had just completed as a place of habitation. He slept in the forest or in protected places behind shelving granite. Several such places are pointed out today to the hunter who ventures beyond Cooper Meadows. He always subsequently carried two revolvers, one attached to his saddle, the other tucked under his outer shirt.

So far as the records reveal, this mountain man was really scared but once in his life. On that occasion he was seized—only momentarily, to be sure,—with a fright that was truly terrifying. Ordinarily he was a man of iron nerve.

His mastery over bodily pain is illustrated by his manner of taking an accident. To illustrate this point, it is told how while carelessly handling his rifle one day in camp, the gun was accidentally discharged and the ball passed through his foot, inflicting a painful wound. Being entirely alone, and many miles from a doctor, Bill proceeded with characteristic mountain versatility to dress the wound himself. His surgical instruments consisted of the rifle's cleaning rod and flannel rag. Dipping the gun-cloth into his dish of bacon grease, he seized the rod, and cleansed the wound by swabbing it thoroughly by working the rod back and forth through his foot. And that is all the doctoring his foot ever had.

On the memorable occasion when he was admittedly "scared stiff," he had made camp, and, as is customary, had lighted a fire against a tamarack log. While soundly sleeping in the dead of night, all at once four or five shots rang out in quick succession only a few feet from him. What on earth? He imagined the Piutes had him sure that time! But investigation showed that he had thrown his saddle over the log, and the fire had crept slowly up till at the hour of midnight the saddle had been reached and the cartridges of the pistol attached to it had begun to explode. Bill Woods never denied being "scared plumb crazy" once in his life! But this nocturnal exception, after all, only proves the rule of fearlessness and true courage.

Old Bill Woods has long since passed over the Great Divide. But it would be a pity to allow the memory of such as he to die out and be lost forever.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

ARCH, 1871, BLEW IN LIKE A lion, with a northwest gale that prevailed for three days and changed the February mud into March dust. Several mild storms passed over the state during the month, and the showers that fell increased the season's rainfall by 1.76 inches, a sufficient supply for the growing crops to date. March went out as it came in, with a gale from the northwest.

A heavy shock of earthquake was felt in Enreka, Humboldt County, at 1 p. m. of March 2. Chimneys fell, window-glass broke, and considerable damage was done to the interior of buildings. It was not felt in San Francisco.

Colonel Von Schmidt was taking subscriptions for stock in the Lake Tahoe Water Co., that was to conduct water from Lake Tahoe and supply Sacramento, Stockton, San Francisco and other points. A tunnel from the west side of the Sierras was to tap the lake, according to announced plans.

The mining stock excitement, due to the development in Crown Point and Belcher on the Comstock Lode, gained great momentum this month. Crown Point opened at $63 a share, and went with kangaroo-like jumps to $107, while Belcher, starting at $26, reached $37 by March 16, when publicity was given that the ore body in Crown Point was thirty-five feet wide across the length of the mine and of unknown depth, assaying $100 a ton.

The stock price bounded to $167 due, it was stated, to a prominent broker being caught short and filling at a loss of $150,000. Owing to investors who bought when the stock was selling around $10 a share selling out, the stock broke, and at the end of the month was selling at $137 a share. A large number of investors at a low price who sold out in February around $60 and cleaned up fortunes, were now said to be buying in again.

The prices of shares in other Comstock mines doubled and trebled in value as the excitement grew. Doubts were freely expressed by brokers of the value of the strike, which had a pessimistic effect.

The Grass Valley Gift Concert, a lottery scheme of the citizens of that Nevada County town, was drawn in San Francisco March 14 and 15. There were 1000,000 tickets and 1,578 prizes. The capital prize of $20,000 was reduced 10% and other prizes the same on account of that proportion of tickets being unsold. Ticket 9,178 won the first prize and was held by Antonio Yrovich, a waiter in an Italian restaurant at Sacramento. Other Sacramento ticket-holders to win prizes were Arthur Lovett, a mill hand, $3,750; J. C. Green had two tickets, one won $1,500 the other $75; F. Runge, who won two prizes amounting to $825 in this; Charles Kleinsorge won $1,500, and the two children of Richard Reed in Folsom won $1,500. Of over 20,000 tickets sold in San Francisco, not one was reported winning a larger prize than $100.

A trotting race, 3 in 5, mile heats, in San Francisco drew a large crowd March 4. It was a 2:40-class trot, with "Conness," "The Maid" and "Belle" entered. "The Maid" took two heats, then "Belle" took one, and "Conness" won the final three. Best time was 2:39.

St. Patrick's Day Observed.

A snowshoe racing tournament, lasting three days, was held at Downieville, Sierra County, beginning March 9. The track was 1,200 feet long, and the best time made over it was in fifteen seconds. George Brown, Robt. Loudon and Charles Lettick, all of Howland Flat, and M. McDonald were winners of the purses.

A. P. Rudolph, champion billiardist of New York, came to California March 5 to play three games for $1,000 a side in each with Cyrille Dion in San Francisco. The first game was played March 15, but being the English 6-pocket game, unpopular there, it put a damper on the cue fans. It was for 1,000 points. Dion won in 236 innings, Rudolph making 956 points. The game lasted six hours. Betting was $100 to $75 on Dion.

The second game was played March 25; American 4-pocket, 1,500 points. Dion again won, Rudolph's score being 1,089. The final game was played March 3. It was won by Rudolph, who scored 1,500. Dion's score was 1,105.

San Diego citizens, March 3, celebrated the passage of a bill by Congress creating that city the terminal of the Texas Pacific railroad, to be built in the near future.

Los Angeles citizens, the evening of March 3, celebrated with bonfires and speeches the passage by Congress of an act appropriating a large sum for the improvement of Wilmington harbor.

Survivors of Stevenson's famous regiment celebrated the anniversary of their arrival in San Francisco, March 6.

St. Patrick's Day, March 17, was celebrated as a sort of prior Fourth of July in San Francisco, Sacramento and other places. Parades, poems, orations, banquets and grand balls were on the programs. A "Fat Man's Ball" at Chico, Butte County, and a Calico ball at Woodland, Yolo County, were among the features.

An amusing contretemps occurred in the committee of arrangements meeting in San Francisco. It was composed of leading Democratic politicians, who accepted an offer by a colored military company to join the parade. But the colored people were as indignant as some of the Irish over a negro company in a St. Patrick's Day parade, and so a colored citizen stopped the move by attaching the horse of the captain and the guns of the colored company in their armory for unpaid bills.

The Hibernian Society gave a ball on St. Patrick's Day in the Turnverein Hall at Sacramento. As was frequently the case then, the tickets had a postscript printed upon them reading: "Persons of doubtful reputation not admitted." Timothy Lee, then a jadeiceman, was acting as doorkeeper. He knew "who's who" in the city as well as any man, and when a woman, somewhat shady, with her escort presented their tickets, he handed them back, silently pointing his finger at the postscript. The woman then indignantly asked: "Who in hell doubts my reputation?" "Nobody, now," replied the affable Tim. "You can't go in."

Plowing Tournament Attracts Farmers.

A great German Peacefest was celebrated in San Francisco March 21 and 22. Germans from Sacramento, Stockton and other interior towns joined in the affair. A torchlight parade on the night of the 21st opened proceedings. The morning of the 22nd, observed as a holiday in the city, a procession of city officers, societies and citizens, over 7,000 in number, marched. Salutes were fired, and the city was profusely decorated. An evening gabfest in Platt's Hall ended the day.

San Jose celebrated peace between Germany and France with a parade March 26.

Sonora, Tuolumne County, had a German peace jubilee, March 22, which was an enthusiastic affair.

The colored citizens of Sacramento celebrated the anniversary of the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution with a parade and indoor addresses March 30.

Webster & Co., mining on Randolph Flat, Nevada County, struck a buried gravel channel that had a depth of six feet, was of unknown width and length, and paid 2 bits (25c) to the pan.

C. L. Dimon, in Nevada County, set out 10,000 mulberry trees to increase his silk worm industry.

There was a run of salmon up San Buenaventura River, and citizens were spearing and pitchforking with big success. One expert secured six big salmon in a few hours.

A plowing tournament, in which the makes of over 100 different plows contested, was held at Stockton March 16 and largely attended by farmers interested.

Over 1,000 Chinamen were put to work grading a railroad from Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, to Vallejo, Solano County.

Mlle. Marlaechi, in the "French Spy," with a corps de ballet, was the amusement top of the month.

Horace Hawes, who was the first American prefect in San Francisco, and who, as a State Senator, was the author of the state's first registration-of-voters law, died in San Mateo March 12. In his later years he developed eccentricities that gave him much newspaper notoriety. He owned over 2,000 acres of land in San Mateo County and real estate in San Francisco that made him a millionaire. He made a will that proposed to found the Mount Eagle University, and made other bequests that caused his family to contest it.

Fatal Duel in San Joaquin.

The City hotel at Stockton burned March 4, with a $5,000 loss.

The American hotel in Santa Barbara burned March 6, causing a $6,000 loss.

The town of Truckee, Nevada County, which was partly destroyed by fire in January and had been about rebuilt, was again swept by flames March 29. The fire broke out in the Kennecott hotel, and the young child of Mr. Hill, the proprietor, was caught in the building and burned to death. The fire burned for four hours and destroyed 120 buildings. The houses were all built of pine lumber, and were consumed like kindling wood.

The town of Sonora, Tuolumne County, had its annual conflagration March 31, when the Masonic Hall and seven business houses were destroyed, with a $40,000 loss.

The Chinatown in North San Juan, Nevada County, went up in smoke and down in ashes March 31.

W. D. Fowler and George Day, hunting on the west side of the San Joaquin River in Stanislaus County, met a she-grizzly with three cubs. The bear made a rush at them, and when about ten feet away Fowler shot and broke her neck, while Day sent a bullet into her heart. One of the cubs was of a different shade of color from the other two, so the bear must have been its foster mother.

Martin Lavin and Patriek Gibbon, ranchers near Lockford, San Joaquin County, had a quarrel over the ownership of a piece of land. March 15, each one armed with a double-barrel shotgun, they met at the disputed boundary and fought a duel. Lavin missed, but Gibbon hit and killed him.

George W. Teal, a 17-year-old youth herding cattle near Calistoga, Napa County, March 12 saw bear tracks. He dug a hole, hung a bait of deer-meat from a tree limb and, with a rifle, concealed himself in the hole and watched for results. About 2 a. m. a grizzly came, and so close was it that when he fired the powder burned its hair. He killed the grizzly, which weighed 800 pounds.

Tohe Turley, on Beaver Creek, Siskiyou County, March 4 killed a California lion that measured over seven feet long.

Boyd & Wilcoxson's store at Yuba City, Sutter County, was burglarized the night of March 5. Their safe was broken into and $2,600 stolen.

Joseph Hewitt, a rancher in Pleasant Valley, Solano County, the night of March 3 was called to the door of his dwelling by two men. They asked for lodging for the night, and on being refused one of them shot him. He died in half an hour. Two Mexicans were arrested in Livermore Valley a few days later as the culprits.

Sacramento Drug Clerk Makes Fatal Mistake.

The first trial of Mrs. Laura D. Fair, for killing A. P. Crittenden in November, was begun in San Francisco March 26. A jury was soon obtained. Hardy and Cook were her attorneys. She appeared in court, dressed in mourning.

March 2, while hydraulicing in a mine at You Bet, Nevada County, Stephen Conway was crushed to death beneath a mass of clay that rolled down from a bank upon him.

O. Hixon, manager of the Alhambra theater, San Francisco, died suddenly March 5, a short time after paying the premium on a $35,000 life-insurance policy.

The family of a man named Pendegast, near Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, gathered a mess of toadstools, thinking they were mushrooms, and three of the children died from eating them.

The little daughter of Daniel Murphy, 18 months old, was taken ill at her Sacramento home. A physician prescribed glycerole of quinine for her. The drug clerk, in filling the prescription, by mistake used liquid of potassa. She was given a dose, and soon died in great agony.

The 9-year-old son of Dr. Getz, at Cloverdale, Sonoma County, fell into a small creek March 29 and was drowned.

Frauk M. Jordan, a freight conductor on the Central Pacific, while switching cars at Newcastle, Placer County, was caught between two cars and fatally crushed, March 30.

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Not Later than 1855.)

Charles Peters, native of Portugal, aged 97; died near Jackson. Is believed to have been the oldest miner in the state, and for years was a conspicuous figure at all Admission Day celebrations, accompanying the Native Sons and Native Daughters of Amador County. These facts concerning deceased are set forth in "The Autobiography of Charles Peters" (Jones, Sacramento, 1915): "My full name is Carlo Pedro Deogo Laudier de Andriado; it means in English, Charles Peter James Laudier of Andriado, the latter being the name of the city my family originated in. Like an animal encumbered with too long a tail, I found my full name to be unwieldy, so I amputated it at the second joint soon after leaving home; I have called myself and have been known for nearly eighty years as Charles Peters. I was born January 12, 1825. . . . On a whaling voyage to the Arctic and the Pacific Oceans in 1846 our vessel entered and anchored a few days in San Francisco Bay. I was in New London, Conn., in 1848, when the news came of the discovery of gold in California, and I soon got the gold fever. I sailed in the ship 'Elfa.' . . . I arrived in Sacramento [1849] with two sacks, made from sail-cloth, filled with my personal effects. . . . I finally reached Dry Creek, about eight miles from Columbia [Tuolumne County]. . . . On my arrival in Jackson [Amador County], in the latter part of 1850, I built a log cabin." Ever since 1850 Peters had resided in Amador County, and the members of Excelesior Parlor, No. 31, N.S.G.W., and Ursula Parlor, No. 1, N.D.G.W., both of Jackson, conducted his funeral obsequies.

Mrs. Virginia Reed-Murphy, native of Illinois, aged 87; crossed the plains in 1846 as a member of the "Donner" Party—organized in Springfield, Illinois, by her father, James Frazier Reed, George and Jacob Donner—which became snowbound in the High Sierras; for a long time resided in San Jose; died at Los Angeles, survived by two children and a sister, Mrs. Martha Jane ("Patty") Reed-Lewis of Santa Cruz, also a survivor of the party. In several numbers of The Grizzly Bear have appeared articles recounting the trials and tribulations of this band of earliest California Pioneers of which deceased was a member—men and women who helped to make this state, and to whose memory the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West have reared on the shores of Donner Lake in Nevada County, where many of the original party perished, a magnificent monument.

Lorenzo Dow Stephens, native of Missouri, aged 95; came via the Southern route in 1849 as a member of the historic "Jayhawker" Party which suffered such terrible hardships in Death Valley; until a short time ago had made his home, for seventy years, in San Jose; died at Oakland. A complete account of the trials of the "Jayhawker" Party—the first authentic one ever published—appeared in the June 1911 Grizzly Bear under the title "The Argonauts of Death Valley."

Mrs. Marie Foster-Woodworth, born in Los Angeles in 1836, died there, survived by three children; was a descendant of Antonio de Lugo who, in early days, owned most of the land now known as Los Angeles City.

John Austin Sperry, native of Illinois, aged 86; crossed the plains in 1853; had resided in San Joaquin and Calaveras Counties; died at Stockton, survived by a widow and six children.

Theodore F. Dopking, native of New York, aged 91; crossed the plains in 1850, and after mining went, in 1860, to Yolo County, where he engaged in farming; died at Woodland, survived by a widow.

William Henry and Gilbert C. Arnold, natives of Illinois, aged, respectively, 82 and 74; came via the Isthmus in 1853; died at San Diego.

Miss Phoebe Cox, aged 86; came across the plains in 1850, settling at Los Angeles, where she died.

S. B. Smith, native of England, aged nearly 86; in 1852 settled at Sacramento, where he died, survived by four children.

Patrick Healey, native of Ireland, aged nearly 119; came here in 1851, and for a long time resided in Mendocino County; died at Ukiah.

Mrs. Anna Marie Scheller; in 1852 settled in San Jose, where she died, survived by five children.

Edwin Henry Dalton, native of Ohio, aged 73; with his parents, came in 1851 to Los Angeles, where he died, survived by a widow and eleven children.

Duncan McPherson, native of New York, aged 81; crossed the plains in 1852; died at Santa Cruz, where for years he had published the "Sentinel."

Mrs. Elizabeth Schuck, aged 92; came here in 1855, residing for many years in Calaveras County, then removing to San Francisco; died at Berkeley.

Captain Smith Fulmor, native of Nova Scotia, aged 89; in 1853 went to Humboldt County, where he had resided almost continuously and was engaged in farming; died near Ferndale, survived by seven children.

Thomas Newton Jerard, native of Georgia, aged 93; crossed the plains in 1852, and after mining in Tuolumne County went, in 1872, to Tulare County, where he engaged extensively in farming; died near Lindsay, survived by a son.

Mrs. C. B. Towle, native of Illinois, aged 78; crossed the plains in 1852, and for many years resided in Yuba and Modoc Counties, died at San Rafael, Marin County, survived by a husband and four children.

Captain C. K. Hotaling, native of New York, aged nearly 100; came around the Horn in 1848, and engaged extensively in mining; for sixty-six years was a resident of Kern County; died at Bakersfield.

W. H. Bieghle, native of Pennsylvania, aged 87; crossed the plains in 1853, and after residing in Merced County and Stockton went, in 1887, to Pacific Grove, Monterey County, where he died, survived by a widow and two daughters.

Mrs. Julia Burris, aged 88; crossed the plains via the Southern route with her father (William Milburn) in 1851, and had long been a resident of Sonoma County; died at Sonoma City, survived by seven children.

Juan Martinez, native of Mexico, aged nearly 101; in 1849 settled at Santa Barbara, where he died.

William W. Bates, native of Missouri, aged 72; came here in 1853, and settled in Tehama County; died at Red Bluff.

Mrs. Helena Graham, native of Rhode Island, aged 91; came via the Isthmus in 1855, and after a residence of several years in Calaveras and Kern Counties took up her home in San Jose, where she died, survived by four children.

Oscar F. Martin, native of Vermont, aged 72; came here in 1852; died near Chico, survived by two daughters.

John M. Cook, native of Kentucky, aged 75; crossed the plains in 1854, settling in Yolo County; died near Woodland, survived by a widow and four children.

Josephine M. Hall, native of Michigan, aged 85; crossed the plains in 1853, and had resided in Alameda and Solano Counties; died at San Jose, survived by three daughters.

Brigadier-General Thomas McGregor, aged 84; came here in 1853, and mined in Trinity County until the Civil War, when he joined the army, from which he was retired in 1901, after service in Indian campaigns, as well as in Cuba, China and the Philippines; died at Benicia, Solano County, survived by five children.

Erastus Lee Blodgett, native of Vermont, aged 92; came here in 1853; died at Los Angeles, survived by three children.

PROMINENT NATIVE DAUGHTER PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY.

Byron—Mrs. Susan T. Alexson, one of the most valued members of Donner Parlor, No. 193, N.D.G.W., who had represented the Parlor at several Grand Parlor, passed suddenly away January 24. She was a native of this place, aged 41, and in addition to a husband and three children, is survived by an aged mother, Mrs. Frances Donner-Wilder who, as a member of the ill-fated "Donner" Party, came to California in 1846.

Donner Parlor, of which Mrs. Alexson was a charter member, was named in honor of Mrs. Wilder. The Parlor conducted the funeral services; all business houses and public schools were closed during the ceremonies, and in the Civic Center the State (Bear) Flag hung at half-mast beneath the Stars and Stripes. Mrs. Alexson was a splendid woman, and her loss is greatly deplored in this community, where she labored for the public good.

PIONEER NATIVE DAUGHTER PASSES.

Modesto—Mrs. Ellen M. Kelsey-Payne, born in 1848 in Sonoma, the daughter of Samuel Kelsey and the niece of Andrew Kelsey of "Kelsey and Stone massacre" at Kelseyville, Lake County, fame, died at Los Angeles. Surviving are three nieces, among them Mrs. Ida De Yoe (Morada 199, N.D.G.W.) of this city.

ACCIDENT RESULTS FATALLY.

Cambria—Morris Williams, a member of Cambria Parlor, No. 152, N.S.G.W., in a most deplorable accident January 21, lost his life by electrocution at San Simeon.

In Memoriam

CHARLES JAY BULLOCK.

Whereas, In the infinite wisdom of Almighty God our friend and brother, Charles Jay Bullock, has passed on, to take up his duties in the heavenly parlor on high; and, whereas, in the passing of Brother Bullock, General Winn Parlor, No. 32, N.S.G.W., has lost one of its most loyal members and earnest workers, the city of Antioch one of its most respected citizens, and Brother Bullock's family a loving husband, a kind father and a true brother; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of General Winn Parlor, No. 32, N.S.G.W., extend our most heartfelt sympathy to the members of Brother Bullock's family in this, their sad hour of bereavement, and sincerely pray that their sorrow may be tempered in the thought that God, in His infinite mercy, knows best; and be it further resolved, that our charter be draped in mourning and that General Winn Parlor, at its next regular meeting, close in loving respect to the memory of our departed brother; and be it further resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to the members of Brother Bullock's family, that the resolutions be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the "Antioch Ledger" and the "Antioch Tribune," and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of General Winn Parlor.

Respectfully submitted in F. L. and C.
J. FREDERICKSON,
C. R. McELHENEY,
J. T. BELSHAW,
Committee.

Antioch, February 6, 1921.

SUSAN T. ALEXSON.

To the Officers and Members of Donner Parlor, No. 193, N.D.G.W.—We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect and condolence to the memory of our departed sister, Susan T. Alexson, senior past president, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Susan T. Alexson, thus removing from earthly labor and the councils of our beloved Order one of our most devoted and loyal members and a true and faithful friend; the sorrow we feel by her untimely passing from this life renders us inadequate and unequal to the task of properly recording the loss sustained by our fraternity, the interests of which she labored so faithfully and untiringly to advance; whereas, we have lost a good and true sister, her family a devoted wife and loving mother, daughter and sister, and the community a most loyal citizen who will be greatly missed;

Resolved, That Donner Parlor, No. 193, N.D.G.W., hereby extends its sincerest sympathy to the bereaved relatives in their hour of sorrow; may the healing influence of time ease their affliction and enable them to bear up with courage until the time when they shall meet their loved one in the great beyond; resolved, that while we record our deepest grief because of her death, we express our greatest admiration for those exceptional qualities which she possessed and which were ever used in the interests of the Order and the native state she loved so well, and will serve as an inspiration to those with whom she was associated; resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to members of her family, a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine and the "Byron Times" for publication, and that they be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor.

CLARA H. HOUSTON,
MAUDE PLUMLEY,
MABEL HARLEY,
Committee.

Byron, January 31, 1921.

W. J. McDERMOTT.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has called to his eternal home, Brother W. J. McDermott; and whereas, Brother McDermott has long been a faithful and loyal member of the Native Sons of the Golden West; and whereas, his genial disposition and his kindly interest in his brothers endeared him to all of them; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of General Winn Parlor, No. 22, N.S.G.W., do hereby extend to the bereaved wife and children of our departed brother our deepest sympathy; and be it further resolved, that our charter be draped in mourning in tribute to his memory; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our departed brother, and that copies be published in Pittsburg papers and The Grizzly Bear Magazine, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor.

C. R. McELHENEY,
J. T. BELSHAW,
J. FREDERICKSON,
Committee.

Antioch, February 17, 1921.

MORRIS WILLIAMS.

The members of Cambria Parlor, No. 152, Native Sons of the Golden West, desire to give expression to the sympathy they feel in the bereavement which has befallen the family of our late brother, Morris Williams.

In his death, his wife and family have sustained an irreparable loss. But in the presence of this loss, we trust that they are greatly cheered by a comforting sense of that intimate comradeship and happiness which they ever enjoyed in his presence.

By direction of the Parlor, a copy of this memorial is placed in the hands of the widow of our deceased brother, a copy mailed to his parents, and a copy inscribed on the minutes of the Parlor.

By order of the Parlor, in meeting assembled.
(Signed) J. F. STEWART,
For the Committee.

Cambria, February 5, 1921.

WILLIAM L. AUBERY.

Whereas, It has pleased Him Who doth all things well to summons to the last reward of his labors our beloved brother, William L. Aubery; and whereas, there is none among us who excelled our departed brother in loyal service and unselfish devotion to the interests of our Parlor and the advancement of our Order in the community; and whereas, during a membership of many years in our Parlor he has never failed to respond to any demand, however great, upon his time and strength, in our common labors for the good of our Order; and whereas, in the passing of Brother Aubery each of us has lost a tried and true friend and loyal brother; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Fresno Parlor, No. 25, N.S.G.W., do hereby extend to the sorrowing relatives of our departed brother our sincerest sympathy; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor and published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, and a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

L. N. BARBER,
B. W. GEARHART,
Committee.

Fresno, February 10, 1921.

W. J. McDERMOTT.

Whereas, The Ruler of the Heavenly Parlor on High has called from his earthly duties Brother W. J. McDermott, a member of General Winn Parlor, No. 32, beloved father of Brothers W. E. J. E. and John McDermott of Diamond Parlor, No. 246, N.S.G.W.; and whereas, Brother McDermott has been a long and honored member of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West; and whereas, Brother McDermott during his membership has shown the greatest and our ritual, "To work for the good and aid in promoting the objects of our Order," to the fullest extent; now, therefore, be it Resolved, By the officers and members of Diamond Parlor, No. 246, N.S.G.W., in regular session assembled this 9th day of February, 1921, that we extend to the family of Brother W. J. McDermott our sympathy and condolence; we deeply deplore their loss, and the loss to the Order of Brother W. J. McDermott; and be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the family, that a copy be sent to General Winn Parlor, No. 32, N.S.G.W., and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

TAFFETA HAS COME BACK ALONG with the spring fashions. One sees a little of it now, and more will be seen later. Black taffeta comes first in popularity, and then navy blue; after that, comes the two-tone variety. Of course, taffeta is beautiful only in good qualities. The superior weaves are not durable when converted into a would-be smart frock. Silks are much more reasonable in price now than they have been for some long months.

Flowered taffeta is used for a frock built somewhat on the lines of the pompadour mode. The skirt is wide and slightly distended through the hips. The bodice inclines to close-fitting lines, with square neck and short sleeves edged with a lace ruche. Worn with this dress is a hat of soft straw faced with pink satin, or one of georgette trimmed with flowers, or a wreath of ostrich feathers.

Crepe weaves of all sorts are in the spring schedule. Their chief mission is the making of dresses that may take the place of the linens and organdies. Or, if not that, at least to add variety to the list from which one may choose the spring and summer fabrics. Some dresses may be quite plain, while others have an abundance of lace, mostly in flounces. Ribbon girdles are permitted either to define the natural waistline or to elongate it into a chemise style.

The combination of blue and gray is apt to prove immensely popular. The gray is usually of a delicate shade, while the blue may run all the way from navy to delft or even sky. There are exceptions to this rule which call for midnight blue and a steel-gray. Either way, the embroideries may be done in wool, chenille or floss. Here and there one notes the use of steel beads and embroideries. Wooden beads also trim very attractively and are used regardless of the material, which may be of serge, duvetyne, taffeta, crepe-de-chine or some washable stuff like tamine, linen, or even organdie.

Petal frocks are pretty, youthful things for the young girl, and they are so very smart now, too, with a plain bodice and attractive collar and cuffs of brilliant wool. The odd effect is given by the fringed edges. Gay steel buttons add brightness to such a garment, if it be blue tricotine.

Although one will see serges and silks this coming summer, still these materials must give way to heavy linens, airy batistes and soft, filmy cottons. You will see such materials in gowns lavishly embroidered in heavy silks. Others take the accordion-plaited or knife-plaited effects, while the sheer materials will take frills of lace and eyelet embroidery. There will be hats and parasols to match.

Blouses have become picturesque and graceful looking, and comfortable as well. They have grace when, instead of fastening tightly under a skirt, they hang loosely over the skirt below the hips or just to the hips. This means comfort, too, for one need no longer be subconscious of untidiness; picturesque, also, for many have adorable sashes, are embroidered in handsome cretonne tones and are touched with dull gold. They are stunning in crimson, henna, or vividly-adorned black.

You may still wear smocks and be stylish, especially if they are made of velvet and beaded, or of georgette and embroidered with bright colors. The coat dress is a new and interesting style, serviceable and graceful.

The new color combinations are interesting. Pewter-gray is used with navy or midnight-blue. Wren color, a new tan, is found often with marigold, tobacco-brown or the dark henna tones. Black and white are especially modish and smart. Transparent white frocks over black are found both in lace and lingerie effects. Roughly-woven silks and loosely-woven woollens of rather pebbly effects are used together, often with strands of wool couched on with black thread, adding a vivid dash of color.

Combinations are not alone of color, but of fabric. They include flannels and velvets, rajah and poiret twill, foulard and serge, silk crepe and wool sponge, duvetyne and crepe, and organdy and taffeta. Dresses in eyelet and cut-work effect, showing a brilliant color beneath, are a new note.

When you see some of the summer hats you may indeed think they came direct from the country, for they are laden with field grass or heavy with fruit, and even trimmings of another nature droop and hang wearily, as if overburdened with the heat of the sun.

The hunt for becoming hats should no longer be an exhausting feat nor a disagreeable one, for again the styles are so generous that every head this coming season should look smart as well as pretty. In other words, chapeaux shopping will be a pleasure tour. Each model tried on will be smarter and prettier than the one before. One's choice will be decided by the purse, rather than despair, disgust, or weariness.

There are numerous odd-shaped hats to fit the quaint and bizarre maids who want to be different. Even the high-crowned sailor is with us again. The tricorne model, weird turbans, and tiny cap-like hats that look as if the head were merely draped, may be of satin or straw; in fact, pretty materials seem limitless.

Simplicity is the keynote of the small hats. Attractive combinations are used with liserie straw—a suggestion of embroidery, perhaps one large bright ornament, as glycerined ostrich tip, or some one novel conceit to offset the plainness.

Black hats are for dress models; however, only the woman of unusual strength of mind will be able to forego the alluring hats of bright colors. Red has proved so popular during the cold weather season that it has been given a place among the early spring models. Whether we like it or not, the poke bonnet insists on taking a foremost place in the millinery list. Lace, by the way, is an important factor in millinery. A brown milan is faced with satin, which shows the underside of the brim festooned with brown lace.

Garments for sport occupy the feminine mind at present and, truly, the latest word in this line is attractive enough. Hand-knitted things are the latest fads, and women are knitting as busily as during the war. But it's only a fad, for the perfection of the machine-woven garments deceives even the knowing ones. Dresses, sweaters, coats, caps, and hats are being shown.

Dresses of dark and neutral colors, enhanced by brilliantly colored embroidery, are so liked that they are in danger of becoming common. Fastidious women are ordering dresses made of dark and neutral tones with no contrasting adornment except a wide belt embroidered in richly-colored beads. Such a dress may also show a colored ribbon or silk sash with a long beaded chain, which matches the sash in color.

As for the cloth suits, their fabrics seem to be spelled in the one word, "twills," which is to say that whatever name they may be called, the weave will be found to be a twilled one. The old gabardines and tricotines are again listed, and serges are, apparently, as popular as ever.

Flannels have re-appeared for sports wear, mostly in white or cream, or white with pencil stripes of black, navy or brown. Striped serges are here for sports skirts, and, of course, wool jersey.

Always at this season of the year there is renewed interest in the subject of skirt lengths and widths. There is a disposition to widen the skirts and likewise to lengthen them. The circular skirt is here—at least, the tunic, as the underslips are still narrow and short in length. Plaits are to remain, and flowers have been given a place on dresses of net, silk, and lace, as well as organdie, dimitry, and other washables.

SPREADING HAPPINESS

(MARY E. BRUSIE, Secretary,
N.S.G.W.—Homeless Children Com.—N.D.G.W.)

TEMPUS FUGIT! IN ANOTHER MONTH there will be ready the eleventh annual report of the work of the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' Central Committee on Homeless Children. Since April 1, 1920, the beginning of the committee's fiscal year, to February 14, 1921, the date of this writing, 183 children have been placed for adoption—twenty-three more than in any previous year covering the same period. This makes a total of 1,671 homes found for the little ones needing care and guidance and affection. Another year!

May 30, 1920, found fewer tears in the eyes of those bereft when the day set apart for covering their little graves with flowers came around, because of the comfort brought into their lives through the needs of a helpless child. What a large number of men and women have been given new interest in this eleventh year of our work, and how many little ones—all unconscious of the wounds they were healing—have established themselves in loving hearts and homes! Can one think of a greater blessing to them that give and to them that take?

July 4, 1920, found greater patriotism in hearts gone stale, because of the little marching soldier with his three-cornered cap of red and white and blue, his flag, his gun, his freeraker or two, and his "Hip, hip, hurrah for the Fourth of July!"

September 9, 1920, awakened a new response and appreciation of California-born men and women, loving their flag and their state, and holding in veneration the courageous Pioneers—those Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West through whose interest and agency the blessing of bringing together the childless home and the homeless child had resulted.

November 26, 1920, never inspired a greater feeling of thankfulness than that which came to those new in the role of mother and father, who never before had known the joy of giving their love and tenderness to some helpless little one. One dear foster mother writes: "I really feel that Thanksgiving Day has never found me failing to be grateful for my blessings—health, strength, home and all the word implies—my friends, and all of God's goodness; but my thankfulness has never reached such depths (my husband and I were talking about it this morning) as it has reached since we have taken our baby in our arms, looked into her sunny little face, and realized that we unquestionably love her as dearly as though she had been born to us, and that she is to be our own for all time. We cannot wait for the six months to elapse, that we may legally adopt her.

December 25, 1920: Oh, the avalanche of Christmas greetings that poured into the central office at 955 Phelan Building, San Francisco, all expressing the happiest, merriest, most wonderful Christmas ever known! The candles never were so bright, the sparkling tinsel never graced so beautiful a tree, and Santa Claus must have depleted his pack to help celebrate the homeless little one's first Christmas in the new home.

January 1, 1921,—it comes in our fiscal year. How many are recognizing the sacredness of their obligations for the years ahead in wisely guiding the child entrusted to them! Doesn't every Native Son and Native Daughter feel the wonder of it all—yon who have worked and given of time and energy to the upbuilding of the cause? It DOES mean more to you each year—doesn't it?—as something fully worth every effort put forth. When your secretary thinks of and tries to enumerate the letters and letters coming from all parts of this great state from the men and women belonging to the two organizations, she feels like stretching out her arms and taking them all in and giving them a big hug and a "Bless you!" for all their help, their words of encouragement, suggestions, and deeper appreciation of responsibility toward the work. She would that the members might take such an outburst on her part in the same spirit as the small boy whom she took not long ago to have his eyes treated: We had a long time to wait, and Jackie, though tired, was so dear and sweet and patient that I hugged him to me and whispered: "Oh, Jackie, I wish I could take you home with me and keep you always;" and he looked up into my face with the most ecstatic expression and replied, "You kin."

The following donations have been received during the fiscal year to February 14, 1921: Native son Parlors, $2,304.25; Native Daughter Parlors, $1,454.93; Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors jointly, $6,817.01; Native Son individuals $199.50; Native Daughter individuals, $19. A total of $10,794.69.

From the first of the fiscal year, $16,367.83 has been expended, with two months to run. Some of the Parlors have given their annual entertainment, but the proceeds have not reached this office. If YOUR Parlor has not sent in its contribution, try to remember that March 31, the close of the fiscal year, will be here before we know it. Let every Parlor be enumerated in the annual report, that we may stand as one great army of one mind, and that one mind the furtherance of this fine bit of constructive work.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. James Leonard, March 27 near San Buenaventura, Ventura County, while cooking a meal had a fit and fell upon the hot stove. Her clothes took fire, and she was fearfully and fatally burned.

Alex. Duncan and Joseph Thompson, miners entombed by a cave in in their mine near Blue Canyon, Placer County, were taken out dead March 28. The 4-year-old daughter of Mr. Young, near Stockton, fell off a hay stack March 8 and broke her thigh.

The body of a 5-year-old boy named Brown, who died and was buried at Marysville, Yuba County, in January, 1858, was exhumed and found to have become petrified. It was as heavy as stone. The hair on the head and the eyelashes were in perfect condition. No cause was found to account for the condition of the body.

Be Optimistic—State banks began 1921 $176,697, 000 stronger in resources than when they faced 1920. "In the light of these figures," says the State Bank Superintendent, "we may face the future with calm and intelligent optimism."

Busy Times for Natives.

St. Helena—On the occasion of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs' official visit to La Junta 203 January 19, she was entertained by seventeen at dinner at a local hotel, where a pleasant hour was passed. There was an excellent attendance at the evening meeting, where the Grand President gave a splendid address on the Order's activities and praised the officers for their ritual work. Refreshments were served in the banquet-room, where rosehuds were featured in an artistic decorative scheme. Grand President Briggs, whose visit was greatly enjoyed, was the recipient of a cut-glass sandwich-tray, a gift of the Parlor.

January 24, at the joint installation with St. Helena 53, N.S.G.W., Mrs. Katie Butler and Felix Salmina, both of Calistoga, officiated, and won praise and applause for their excellent work. Among the visitors were Judge Charles Thompson of Santa Clara, Grand Trustee, N.S.G.W., and a large delegation of Calistoga Native Sons and Daughters. Officers installed include: La Junta Parlor—Miss Marie Heitz, P.P.; Mrs. Ada Grigsby P.; Miss Martha Klubescheidt, 1V.P.; Miss Mildred Fealey, 2V.P.; Mrs. Celeste Thorsen, 3V.P.; Miss Lillian Nelson, M.; Miss Wilna Vann, R.S.; Mrs. Mae Mieleng, F.S.; Mrs. Frances Kersting, T.; Mrs. Elmira Baño, I.S.; Miss Isabel Pratt, O.S.; Miss Louise Klubescheidt, O.; Mrs. Clara Kerdle, Misses Laura Rossini and Adela Moliani, Trs. St. Helena Parlor—Everett Risley, Sr.P.P.; E. T. Cavallini, Jr.P.P.; Paul R. Alexander, P.; Arnold Metzner, 1V.P.; Oscar Anderson, 2V.P.; August Leping, 3V.P.; Martin Anderson, M.; Lanty Evans, I.S.; Louis Paulson, O.S.; B. Bruck, Tr. A banquet was served after the installation ceremonies, and speeches were made.

February 1 the single members of La Junta Parlor entertained the married members. Games of various kinds were played, after which partners for supper were secured by matching hearts. In the banquet-room a long table had been arranged and this was decorated with smilax, red hearts and fruit. After refreshments Miss Wilna Vann, as toastmistress, rapped for order and called upon the married sisters to respond to toasts designed to be helpful to the "singles," such as "boiling water until tender," etc. Both toasts and responses were very clever and witty, and caused a happy hour to be spent at the table. The "singles" are looking forward to a return party from those in the matrimonial ranks.

La Junta and St. Helena 53, N.S.G.W., again joined forces February 5, when a masquerade ball for the benefit of the homeless children was given. The worthy cause had the support of the citizens generally, and there was a very large attendance. The affair netted $425. The committee, which worked hard and is deserving of all credit, was composed of Paul R. Alexander, Arnold Metzner, Oscar Anderson, Mrs. Celeste Thorsen, Mrs. Mae Mielenz and Miss Mildred Fealey.

Another Pleasant Evening Recorded.

San Francisco—January 24 officers of Golden Gate 158 were installed by D.D.G.P. May L. Noble, as follows: Loretta Knecht, P.; Claire McNeerney, 1V.P.; Edna Maguire, 2V.P.; M. Fitzgerald, 3V.P.; Roberta Seyden, M.; Lulu Anderson, F.S.; Edith Griffith, T.; Margaret Ramm, R.S.; Violet Seyden, I.S.; Violet Runge, O.S.; Pauline Gaetjen, O. Small tokens of esteem were presented to various sisters present, and each of the newly-elected officers received a dainty corsage bouquet. Refreshments were served later, and as it was quite late, time was left for only one game, "the elopement," from which the members derived many laughs; Sisters Knecht and Ramm were the prize winners, and another pleasant evening had been recorded.

January 10 Golden Gate Parlor was honored with the presence of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister, this occasion being her first official visit in San Francisco. At that time the Parlor added one new member to its list. Under Good-of-the-Order, the Grand President offered a very interesting talk on the projects and progress of the Order, and was presented with a gift of silver. After a few remarks from D.D.G.P. May L. Noble and several of the visiting sisters the Parlor was adjourned, when refreshments were served, and close to the midnight hour good-nights were said.

Friends Witness Installation.

Marysville—Marysville 162 installed officers jointly with Marysville 6, N.S.G.W., January 26, when D.D.G.P. Laura B. Arnold of Chico was the installing officer and the work was put on in the presence of invited friends of both Parlors. A supper, prepared under the supervision of the Native Daughters, was served, the banquet-room and tables being decorated in yellow and greens, with lighted candles arranged on the tables, and the lights on the walls shaded. Speeches were made by Assemblyman Ed. Lewis, Past Grand President Fred H. Greely, David Canning, only surviving charter member of Marysville Parlor of Native Sons, Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. A. G. Eames.

Presentation Night.

Oakland—These officers of Past Presidents' Association, No. 2, were installed January 24: Elizabeth S. Smith, P.P.; Elizabeth Goodman, P.; Minnie E. Flynn, 1V.P.; Maud Mitchell, 2V.P.; Christina Bartlett, 3V.P.; Minnie Buckingham, M.; Elizabeth Tyson, R.S.; Emily Lawson, F.S.; Ada Spillman, T.; Carrie E. Hall, O.; Anna Silva, I.S.; Mahel Buss, O.S.; Jennie Jordan, Catherine Hatherly, M. McGovern, Josephine Schmidt, A. Aldrich, Tr. Yellow was used in the decorative scheme, both in the meeting-place and at the banquet that concluded the installation ceremonies.

Presentations were made as follows: Large yellow potted daffodils to Past Grand President May E. Boldemann, installing officer, Founder Leah Williams, President Elizabeth Goodman, Mistress of Ceremonies Minnie E. Flynn; jeweled pin to Catherine Hatherly, retiring past president; hand-painted cup, saucer and plate to Elizabeth S. Smith, retiring president; hand-painted china to the installing officer, founder and "mother," with appropriate remarks by Minnie E. Flynn, whose assistant, Mahel Buss, in turn presented her with a beautifully-framed "Portals of the West," on behalf of the association members.

Has Enthusiasts as Members.

San Jose—As a means of promoting friendship, through closer contact, Vendome 100 is promoting a series of house card parties, three of its members having tendered their homes. Another social feature in the making is a "husbands' and sweethearts' supper"; Mrs. I. L. Koppel is chairwoman of the committee in charge.

The Parlor is delighted with the election of Mrs. David J. Gairaud, one of its most enthusiastic members, as president of the Santa Clara County Branch of the State Music Teachers' Association; her mother, Elizabeth White, was a cousin of Charles White, in the long-ago an alcalde of San Jose Pueblo, while her father, Thomas McDonald, was one of the engineers who came from the East to help build California's first railroad, which ran from Sacramento to Shingle Springs, an old El Dorado County mining camp. Mrs. H. J. Dougherty, treasurer, and Mrs. J. M. Howell, recording secretary, are two more of the Parlor's most energetic members who have never been found wanting when called upon.

Through Snow to Pay Visit.

Nevada City—Officers of Laurel 6 were installed January 19 by D.D.G.P. Louise Wales, assisted by Past Grand President Allison F. Watt and a corps of officers from Manzanita 29 (Grass Valley). A goodly attendance from the latter Parlor helped to make the evening a pleasant one. After the regular business the retiring president, Miss Julia Sughrue, who had served for three successive terms, was presented with an emblematic pin. The retiring past president, Miss Esther Calanan, was honored in a like manner, and the Parlor voted to continue the custom. D.D.G.P. Wales and Past Grand President Watt each received a bouquet of pink carnations, as evidence of the fraternal spirit which prevailed.

The committee in charge of the evening's festivities had prepared a bounteous supply of enchiladas and other good things, which helped the visiting members from Grass Valley to withstand the rigors of a four-inch fall of snow that somewhat impeded their progress homeward. Laurel is among the largest Parlors of the Order, boasting at present a membership of 218, with good prospects of an increased membership during the present term. Added interest has been awakened in the Parlor by a series of card games, with a prize in view for the highest and lowest scores at the end of the series. Other social features are being planned.

Enjoy Visit With Old-time Resident.

Bad Weather Doesn't Stop 'Em.

Georgetown—Officers of El Dorado 186 were installed January 22 when, regardless of bad weather, the attendance was large. On account of her mother's illness, D.D.G.P. Mattie Plank of Placerville was unable to attend, so Past President Lizzie Irish officiated, and was assisted by Cora Heuser as grand marshal. Delicious refreshments were served at the meeting's conclusion.

Class of Eleven Initiated.

San Francisco—Members of Castro 178 realized an anticipated pleasure January 26, when Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid her official visit. The hall, made gay with decorations, offered a cheerful welcome to the many who had braved the storm to be present, and when the entrance door swung open and revealed the officers in evening dress and each wearing a corsage bouquet of the color of her regalia, a picture was presented that will linger long in memory. The ritual exemplification was made more interesting by the initiation of a class of eleven young girls who promise to become active members. D.D.G.P. Elizabeth Muller, dearly loved by Castro's members, installed the officers.

Grand President Briggs made an interesting address, complimenting the officers on their very excellent work and expressing herself as much pleased with the Parlor's progress. On behalf of Castro she was presented with a silver cake-knife; D.D.G.P. Muller received two hand-painted cups and saucers, and the retiring past president the customary jewel. In appreciation for the loyal support of her officers, the retiring president presented each, also the district deputy, with a hud vase. Among the visitors were Past Grand Presidents Mary E. Bell, Margaret Hill and May C. Boldemann, Grand Trustee Dr. Winifred Byrne, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee and representatives of many local Parlors. After refreshments members and visitors lingered long over their good-byes, reluctant to leave the

A Bank's Growth

Since 1890, when this bank was one year old, the population of the city has increased 12 times; the area nine times; the assessed valuation 13 times; the total of all bank deposits has increased 48 times. The deposits of this bank since it was one year old have increased 370 times.

In 1890 this bank held $247,645 deposits and the deposits in all Los Angeles banks were $9,319,943, so the percentage of the total held by the Security Bank was only 2.6%. January 1, 1921, the deposits of this bank were $91,727, 113, and the deposits of all Los Angeles banks were $443,480,349. The proportion of all Los Angeles bank deposits now held by this bank is greater than 20 per cent.

Brisq—

A Matchless California Product

BRISQ is a pure vegetable shortening made entirely from California's choice oils.

Products of California's matchless sunshine and fertile soil, the seeds used by the Globe Mills in the manufacture of this creamy white fat attain perfect development. From them is pressed a golden oil of absolute purity and delicate flavor—an oil which is refined to a high degree before it is used in the making of Brisq.

The processes of manufacture are scientifically exact and are carried out in a modern Los Angeles plant by California workers. Therefore each can of Brisq shows the same high-grade, the quality that places it in the front rank of California products.

Brisq is an "A1" kitchen companion for the popular Globe "A1" flour. Both are "native" California products which do their part to maintain the California standard.

cheerful atmosphere inside for the storm outside, but the inexorable "last car" had to be considered, and a very happy evening was brought to a close.

Jazz Gets 'Em.

Sonora—One of the best gatherings ever held here was the joint installation of officers of Dardanelle 66 and Tuolumne 144, N.S.G.W., conducted by D.D.G.P. John W. Nash and D.D.G.P. Mrs. Geo. N. Napoleon in an impressive manner. After a hearty welcome had been extended by Mrs. Mary Gorgas, this program was presented and greatly enjoyed: Selections, Firemen's jazz band; piano solo, Harold Ralph; vocal solo, Ed L. Gorgas; reading, Wm. Hartvig; community singing, "The Star Spangled Banner." Then came the dance, which was participated in by old and young alike, so enticing was the jazz.

At midnight the eighty in attendance marched to the banquet-room, where Mrs. Carrie Vanderhoof had spread a delightful chicken-pie supper. After the tables had been cleared by the banqueters an hour's talkfest, with Mrs. Gorgas as toastmistress, brought remarks from J. W. Nash, Mrs. Emelia Burden, Mrs. G. N. Napoleon, Mrs. Carrie Vanderhoof, Rowan Harding, Mrs. R. Thom, Wm. M. Harrington, Judge G. W. Nicol and Senator John B. Curtin. Officers installed were: Dardanelle Parlor—Margaret Pease, P.P.; Carrie Vanderhoof, P.; Martha Marshall, 1V.P.; Marie Marsh, 2V.P.; Gertrude Callahan, 3V.P.; Clotilda Bachman, M.; Emelia Burden, R.S.; Hannah Doyle, F.S.; Margaret Hampton, T.; Cora Willey, O.; Mary Hammill, I.S.; Sarah Lewis, O.S.; Mary E. Gorgas, Nettie A. Rother, Cora Rudorff, Trs. Tuolumne Parlor—Jas. G. White, Sr. P. P.; Elsworth Bolter, Jr. P.P.; Howard Peters, P.; M. B. Browne, 1V.P.; Raymond Harry, 2V.P.; Leslie Miller, 3V.P.; Ed. Callahan, M.; Ed. L. Gorgas, I.S.; Wm. Sweeney, O.S.; Wm. M. Harrington, R.S.; F. W. Van Harlingen, F.S.; Lyman Tibbits, T.; Rowan Hardin, A. J. Sylva, J. A. Van Harlingen, Trs.

Has Card Party.

Byron—Following the installation February 2 of Donner 193's officers, Senior Past President Bella Santos, on the Parlor's behalf, presented a past president's pin to Leatres Wightman who, in turn, presented a silver cake-knife to D.D.G.P. Grace Krumland. A card party, open to the public, followed, first prizes going to Mrs. R. F. Jacoby and William Sedge; Charlie Wightman captured the "hooby" prize.

February 9 D.D.G.P. Grace Krumland, accompanied by Past President Leatres Wightman, Third Vice-president Anna Lewis and Recording Secretary Jasmine Burdewick, went to Pittsburg and installed the officers of Stirling 146. The evening was greatly enjoyed, and D.D.G.P. Krumland was presented with a bud vase.

Has Reputation as Culinary Artist.

Oakland—The newly-installed officers of Bahia Vista 167 were treated to a pleasant surprise their first night in office, January 25, some of the members constituting themselves a committee to prepare a splendid little "feed" at the conclusion of the meeting. Every officer was present as well as D.D.G.P. Myra Sackett, and the regular and also special work was gone through with to her satisfaction. President Marion Garthorne promises to be a very efficient officer, and success will be the outcome of her term if the officers continue to perform their duties as at the initial meeting. Of course, Mabel Buss was in charge of the "eats"; her reputation has gone far and wide in Native Daughter circles in Oakland, for her culinary accomplishments. She has a good second in Sister Wright, who assisted her.

Big Crowd at Joint Installation.

Elk Grove—A big crowd, including many visitors from Folsom and Sacramento, among the latter Past Grand President Grace S. Stoerner, secretary of the State Senate, was present at the joint installation of officers of Liberty 213 and Elk Grove 41, N.S.G.W. D.D.G.P. Mae Lucas was installing officer for Liberty, and in that Parlor's behalf Mary Coons presented her with a gold pencil; also, on behalf of the Parlor, she presented the new president, Anna Ring, with a string of pearls. D.D.G.P. Lages of Sacramento officiated for the Native Sons. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, which were conducted in an excellent manner, the assemblage sang "I Love You, California," and listened to short addresses. After disposing of a chicken-pie supper, served under the supervision of Belle Bradford and Walter Martin, dancing was in order and continued until a late hour.

she was greeted by many members and delegations from Oakdale 125 and Phoebe Hearst 215 (Manteca). A dainty luncheon was served at a local hotel, and was attended by seventeen past presidents.

At the evening meeting eight candidates were initiated, and Grand President Briggs spoke beautifully and impressively upon the Order, and urged the necessity of more careful study of California history. After presentations to the Grand President of an exquisite gold pencil by Morada Parlor and a beautiful golden bowl by Oakdale Parlor, adjournment was taken to the banquet-room where, apropos of the St. Valentine season, refreshments were served upon beautifully-decorated tables.

Celebrates Anniversary.

San Francisco—January 25 these officers of Presidio 148 were installed by D.D.G.P. May L. Noble: Bertha Molinari, P.P.; Jeannette G. Powell, P.; Ella M. Gilbert, I.V.P.; Matilda Spandan, 2V.P.; Anna Johnson, 3V.P.; Annie C. Henly, R.S.; Agnes Z. Chamberlin, F.S.; Claire S. Clark, T.; Honour Hansell, M.; Hattie Gaughan, Annie Lemoge, Elizabeth Tierney, Trs.; Freda Grunhof, O.; Millie Stimmel, I.S.; Sarah Stimmel, O.S.; E. C. Lafontaine, Phyn. Annie C. Henly presented the Parlor's token, a wrist watch, to Past President May Schmitz, and a brief address was made by the much-loved district deputy, May Noble.

February 5 the fifteenth anniversary of the Parlor's institution was celebrated with a banquet attended by seventy-one. A token of Presidio's esteem was presented D.D.G.P. Noble by President Powell, and several addresses were listened to. Every moment of the occasion was enjoyed, and all wished Presidio continued prosperity. February 8 five candidates were initiated. A high-jinks followed, a regular "Coffee Dan" supper being served from bare tables. Members were costumed for the occasion, and the judges, Sophie McAuliffe and May Noble, had a laborious task at picking winners, but eventually awarded prizes to Honour Hansell, Elizabeth Tierney and Dorothy Rooney. Songs and piano solos were given by Mary Molinari, Edna Besozzi and Sister Regan. The members are wondering what next from the Parlor's "live" social committee.

Officers Jointly Installed.

Hollister—January 21 Copa de Oro 105 and Fremont 44, N.S.G.W., held joint installation of officers. Miss Anna M. Linscott of Santa Cruz installed for the former, assisted by Hilda Thompson as acting grand marshal and Josephine Winn as acting past grand president. D.D.G.P. Peterson of Watsonville installed for the latter.

Following the ceremonies, an enjoyable program was given, W. J. Cagney acting as master of ceremonies. Addresses were made by Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, Judge G. H. Moore, D.D.G.P. Peterson and D.D.G.P. Linscott. Vocal solos were rendered by S. R. Crosby, Clyde Mylar and Laurie Lertora. A delicious banquet was served at prettily decorated tables, followed by dancing, which was indulged in by the large crowd in attendance until a late hour.

Has House Warming.

Stockton—D.D.G.P. Nina Williams of Manteca, assisted by Grand Marshal Mattie Stein and Past Grand President Mamie G. Peyton, installed these officers for Joaquin 5 January 25: Florence Board, P.P.; Hattie Ward, P.; Catherine Butenuth, I.V.P.; Blanche Miller, 2V.P.; Maud Paynor, 3V.P.; Hattie Corr, M.; Mrs. Howard, I.S.; Claire Keney, O.S.; Mrs. Waite, O.; Ida Saffershill, P.S.; Katherine Tally, R.S.; Belle Stockwell, T.; Genevieve McQuigg, Laura Brodie, Mrs. McGurk, Trs. About eighty were in attendance.

Three candidates were initiated, and at the meeting's close a program was presented and refreshments were served. "Carmena," "Mighty Like a Rose" and "Wake Up" were sung in a very pleasing manner by Miss Lorraine Kalek. A lovely gift was presented D.D.G.P. Williams, and remarks from many visiting sisters were enjoyed.

February 5 Joaquin Parlor had a house warming in its new lodge-rooms in Native Sons' Hall. A vaudeville program and dancing were features of the entertainment provided. All the Parlors, both of Native Sons and Native Daughters, in Stanislaus and San Joaquin Counties were invited, and the evening was a most delightful one.

Members' Handwork Wins Praise.

San Jose—San Jose 81 has a number of spirited young members who are always doing things, successfully. The birthday party idea was inaugurated in January, and is affording enjoyment. Miss Mary Meyer is chairman of the committee in charge, and all members contribute to the expense. The last Thursday of each month members born in the current month are guests of honor, and receive gifts. A whist party February 3 was a howling success. Many dainty prizes, all handwork of the members that brought forth praise on every hand, were awarded. Thomas Monahan, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W., was master of ceremonies, and efficient, as usual. The committee in charge was: Miss Jean Belloli (chairman), Mesdames P. H. Boomer, Augusta Singleton, Muriel Blass, Misses Mary Fisher, Mary Meyer.

January 20 D.D.G.P. Mrs. Raymond Plamondon, assisted by members of Camellia 41, Reichling 97 and Vendome 100, installed these officers: Mary Barrieklo, P.P.; Jean Belloli, P.; Augusta Singleton, I.V.P.; Mary Fisher, 2V.P.; Helen Veit, 3V.P.; Lucy Fisher, R.S.; Maud Juby, F.S.; Mary Frances Mitchell, T.; Helen Trengove, M.; May Hoover, I.S.; Mary Newton, O.S.; Aura Lea Boomer, O.; Amelia Hartman, Amelia Venturi, Margaret Gilleran, Trs.; Dr. Ada Scott Morton, Phyn. A delicious Italian supper, prepared by Mrs. Allia Bertucci, an untiring worker, was served. Assisting Mrs. Bertucci in serving were Mesdames Pearl Grundeland and Muriel Blass.

Enjoy Italian "Feed."

Halfmoon Bay—January 27 the following officers of Vista del Mar 155 were installed by D.D.G.P. Mamie Dias, assisted by Margaret Dias as acting past grand president, Ida M. Mesquite as acting grand marshal and Violet A. Hoenig as acting grand secretary: Rae Johnson, P.P.; Ida May Ponce, P.; Irene Tomosi, I.V.P.; Louise Francis, 2V.P.; Agnes Gilerest, 3V.P.; Grace Griffith, R.S.; Henrietta Francis, M.; Minnie Ross, Carrie Borgess, Edna Hall, Trs.; Belle Vallejo, O.; Jennie Mowry, I.S.; Pauline Gilerest, O.S.

The installing officers were from Ano Nuevo 180 (Pescadero) and were accompanied by Lizzie Frey, Florence Roe, Alice Mattei and Lorena Roe of that Parlor. After the presentation of a bouquet to D.D.G.P. Dias by Vista del Mar Parlor, the banquet-room was invaded and an Italian "feed" enjoyed. Thanks were voted the committee of arrangements by the large number present for a delightful evening.

Has Many Visitors.

Vallejo—D.D.G.P. Jennie Schwartz of Napa installed these officers of Vallejo 195 January 19: Mary Rey, P.P.; Agnes Hunter, P.; Pauline Burke, I.V.P.; Helen Carr, 2V.P.; Elizabeth Greider, 3V.P.; Mary Combs, R.S.; Mary Reilly, F.S.; Winnie Cassidy, T.; Consuella Sampson, M.; Margaret Lee, O.; Anna Webster, Mayme Donnelly, Jennie Ostello, Trs.; Julia Hill, I.S.; Josephine Sampson, O.S.

Large delegations were present from Alistoga 145, El Dorado 186 (Georgetown) and La Junta 203 (St. Helena). An emblematic jewel was presented Mary Rey, retiring president. A banquet was served at the meeting's close.

District Deputy Has Busy Time.

Red Bluff—These officers of Berendos 23 were installed January 18 by D.D.G.P. Dora M. White: Emma Stoll, P.; Golda Schoenfeld, I.V.P.; Ada Reno, 2V.P.; Mary Brady, 3V.P.; Minnie Boffinger, M.; Edna Wiese, R.S.; Salome Jones, F.S.; Mary E. Godbolt, T.; Lillian Hammer, Aliee Heavey, Edna Cunningham, Trs.; Elizabeth Westlake, I.S.; Grace Callahan, O.S.; Dora M. White, P.P. Refreshments were served and a general good time had. The Parlor is receiving new members at nearly every meeting, and there is always "something doing" socially. The annual ball was held Washington's birthday, February 22.

January 20 several members of the Parlor accompanied D.D.G.P. Dora M. White to Redding, where officers of Hiawatha 140 were installed at a joint affair with McCloud 149, N.S.G.W. February 2 the district deputy was accompanied to Anderson, where she installed the officers of Camellia 41.

Grand President Visits "Cherry" Parlor.

San Leandro—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister, on the occasion of her official visit to El Cereso 207 January 25, was greeted by a large number of members and visitors from the East Bay Parlors, all of whom were charmed by her sweet and gracious cordiality. The grand officers present included Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Der-

"OUR" CHARITY

(JOSEPH BERRY.)

PROGRESS HAS DECREED THAT, IF SUCCESS is to be attained, the method employed in any undertaking, be it of a business, civic, fraternal, charitable, or other nature, must be revised from time to time and placed upon a more modern plane. In most instances the change has been accomplished with little disturbance—almost without realizing that it was in progress.

Now, as Native Sons who have the best interests of the Order at heart, who love our work and, above all, love the good name of the Order and what it stands for, should we not search out the workings of our Order? Where we find we are still working with plans appropriate to the time when that particular work was begun, and that such plans are in a way inadequate or that they do not bring to our Order the prestige we desire they should, is it not best for us to discard all methods that bring only partial results and adopt plans that will be better adapted to the carrying on of our work?

The particular thing I have in mind as in need of revision at this time is the obtaining of funds for the Homeless Children Committee. This is our great charity and is, without doubt, our greatest medium of bringing publicity to the Order. Therefore, it is our duty to see that this publicity is of the proper kind—publicity that will be the means of causing the general public to look with pride upon our efforts and that will bring those who are eligible into the Order, knowing that our work is worth while.

The originators of this charity desired that the work should be one of love—one of gifts, with the heart of the donor behind each gift. In the beginning, the work of our Homeless Children Committee was not so well understood; the demands were small, and also the contributions. But time has changed all this. The field of possibilities has so enlarged, that today our Homeless Children Committee ranks with the largest of charitable organizations in the state. With the advancement of the work, so has the amount of our so-called contributions increased. But, sad to relate, we have strayed far from the original plan to support this, our charity, by donations from among our own membership.

When enlarging upon the virtues of the Order to a prospective candidate we do not hesitate to state that one of its most important functions is the support of the homeless children work. In most cases this is misleading, as it conveys the impression that this charity is supported wholly within the Order when, in reality, the greater part of the funds are raised at benefit affairs, made successful by a generous public. Then, too, the work of promoting these benefits falls, in most Parlor, to the lot of a few, while the majority sit back, swell up, and reap such honor and glory as may result. It is safe to say that ninety percent of the Native Sons never take an active part in these benefits, and only about fifty percent contribute their share of finances to the charity. Some may question this estimate, but a look at the last report of the Homeless Children Committee will substantiate it.

I am a member of a Parlor in a "country" place, where it is easy to promote benefit affairs, because amusements are few; but the majority of our Parlor, and also of our members, are in the large cities, where amusements are many and varied, and it is no easy task to promote such benefits. If I had continued in the work of my own Parlor, some of the objections to our present methods of raising funds would have passed unnoticed, but for the past two years, when the Alameda County Committee was promoting its annual benefit for the homeless children, I attempted to help the members of Berkeley Parlor dispose of their allotment of tickets by canvassing the merchants and the public, as did other Parlor. If you wish to get a man's opinion of some charity in which he thinks he is not vitally interested, just approach him with the request for a donation disguised as the purchase of a ticket. You will receive it! Many of the criticisms that greeted me were not only embarrassing, but also humiliating, and I know that many others have had the same experience. To those of us who have high hopes for the building of a larger and greater institution on the Order's foundations these criticisms cannot but make us seek the cause. Where are we in error? How can we best improve?

The plan for improvement which I offer is not one of "jumped-at" conclusion but, rather, one that has been discussed with many members of the Order, and they all agree that something must be done, and that the plan should be offered for consideration. Let each member of the N.S.G.W. be obligated to contribute to the homeless children fund one dollar per year, payable twenty-five cents per quarter. One dollar per capita would make available a sum of approximately $22,000. This would not only provide a sufficient fund for the homeless children work, but would leave available a goodly sum to properly advertise this greatest of all charity endeavors and, in that way, give the proper publicity to our Order. Many will, and do, advance the argument that the public benefit is essential for the bringing of the Order before the public. What does it avail us, if it does not properly give to the public the true idea of what we are trying to accomplish?

At the coming (Stockton) Grand Parlor let us take steps to have made available annually a fund, exclusively our own, in order that the Homeless Children Committee may, through some method to be devised, bring before the people of the state the facts about this charitable work. The plan suggested here need not necessarily be adopted; any other, that will bring the desired results, will be satisfactory. My purpose is to bring to an end our present method, which appears to be cheapening the Order, and to place something in its stead that will elevate our personal pride as Native Sons. Give us the means of placing this Order upon the highest pedestal in the estimation of the people of California, and, above all, give us the opportunity to feel justly proud of the fact that we can, with a conscience that is clear, approach a prospective candidate, knowing that we are asking him to affiliate with an Order that is great enough to support its own children's charity wholly within itself.

(Editor's Note—This article came to The Grizzly Bear from Joseph Berry (Courtland 106) of Berkeley. He is one of the not-too-numerous members afflicted with "Sincerity"—an enthusiastic and always-ready worker for the Order and every project which it launches or sponsors. The article must not be misconstrued, for it is not, as some may imagine at first glance, an argument against the homeless children work, or a reflection on the ability of the committee in charge. It is, however, a well-deserved and timely "rap" at the method, for which the Order is responsible, the Homeless Children Committee has been forced to employ to finance the important work delegated to it.

The article is published in the hope that it will result in good to the Order. Like Berry, the editor does not favor "benefits" of any kind for raising funds to carry on any project of the Order of Native Sons. If the project affected, no matter what its nature, is not of sufficient worth or importance to merit the financial support of the members, then it should be discontinued.

"Sincerity"—determination coupled with resolve—prompted the Order's entrance into this homeless children work, and if "Sincerity" still prevails Berry's suggestion will be heeded, and the work will be continued as OUR charity in FACT, not merely in management. Finance this work from within the Order, and adequate recompense will come from without. And what is true of the homeless children cause applies equally as forcibly to other undertakings which the Order has been responsible for coming into being and then left to develop themselves—undertakings which, were they given proper financial nourishment from within, would become assets beyond value of the Order.—C. M. H.)

"Busters" Break Monotony.

Ferndale—Things are kept moving in Ferndale 93, so every eligible here, as soon as he reaches the required age, seeks admission. The Parlor maintains a steady growth, now having 250 members, and Secretary George L. Collins says the number will soon be 300.

A "side" degree, known as the "Busters," is one of the attractions, and when in action, which is frequently, creates no end of fun. The degree team is composed of Jos. Bagnuda, king; Henry Giacomini, chief justice; Chas. Kistner, chief apothecary; Leslie Cadoni, lord chancellor; J. J. Niebur, master of ceremonies; Henry Winters, K.T.D.

A committee composed of Cyril Collins, Louis Lavin and John W. Trigg has organized a basketball team from among the Parlor members. A general challenge to all Humboldt County teams for games was sent out, and immediately brought two acceptances from Eureka.

Stockholders to Meet.

San Francisco—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hall Association of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be held March 8 in Native Sons' Building, 414 Mason street. Directors will be elected, and important business relative to the future plans of the association will be considered. United States Senator James D. Phelan is president and Adolph Eberhart secretary of the association. During the past month stockholders, which include Subordinate Parlor and individual members throughout the state, were mailed 2½% dividend checks, representing the 1920 net earnings of the association.

Want More Joint Affairs.

Lincoln—January 18 Silver Star 63 and Placer 138, N.D.G.W., had joint installation. D.D.G.P. L. T. Sinnott of Marysville officiated for the former, and Past President Florence Clark, in the absence of the district deputy from Roseville, for the latter; they were assisted by Oscar Nader and Winnifred Toft, as acting grand marshals; Mrs. Emma Jansen presided at the piano during installation. At the close of the ceremonies there was a social session at which President Maloney of Silver Star Parlor presided, and Mrs. R. A. Lee accompanied the soloists. Miss Gorham opened the program with a vocal solo, and was followed by Grand Trustee Arthur Dean of Redding, who related the history of the state and the Order of Native Sons; following a vocal solo by Mrs. Ruth Fowler, Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde of Sacramento spoke on the advantages of membership in the two state Orders. To the tune of "We Won't Go Home Until Morning," all marched to the banquet-room, where a banquet was served and vaudeville artists from Sacramento entertained. It was a great gathering, for the success of which all praise is due the joint committee which handled the details, and the many in attendance are hoping that the joint affairs may come often. The officers installed include:

Silver Star Parlor—J. E. Toft, P.P.; Charles Maloney, P.; Mack Slinkard, I.V.P.; Arthur Anderson, 2.V.P.; Ralph Sanstad, 3.V.P.; Barney Barry, R.S.; H. A. Schroeder, F.S.; H. J. Toft, T.; Elmer Maloney, M.; Clyde Barry, I.S.; Fred Leveque, O.S.; R. P. Dixon, Tr. Placer Parlor—Florence Berry, P.P.; Adele Williamson, P.; Viola Lasswell, I.V.P.; Muriel Crook, 2.V.P.; Bella Ryan, 3.V.P.; Carrie Parlin, R.S.; Lizzie Lasswell, F.S.; Bertha Landis, T.; Florence Clark, M.; Mary Beeman, Grace Alsbaugh, Charlotte Fowler, Trs.; Emma Jansen, O.; Mahel Toft, I.S.; Winnifred Toft, O.S.

Sacramento—February 10 the "Mystery Committee" of Sacramento 3—T. W. McAuliffe (chairman), R. D. Finnie, R. C. Cothrin—which for four months had been working on an entertainment, made its report, in the nature of a big surprise. The occasion was the fortieth anniversary of the initiation of Ed. H. Kraus, who for forty years has labored diligently for the best interests of the Order, and in all that time has been absent from but few meetings of the Parlor. And he is still active in the Parlor's interests, and will continue so until he is called to the grand parlor on high. The meeting was one of the best, from every viewpoint, in the history of Sacramento Parlor, and was followed by an elaborate banquet. Previous to invading the banquet-room, Trustee Charles A. Root, on behalf of the Parlor, presented Kraus with a beautiful morris chair; the chair officers, through President C. A. Ryan, gave him a pipe, and R. C. Cothrin remembered him with a box of cigars.

Robert T. Devlin, himself almost a 40-yearer, delivered a magnificent oration in which he extolled faithful "Ed" for the many deeds performed for Sacramento Parlor in particular and the Order in general. Other complimentary addresses were made by President Ryan, Marco S. Zarick Jr., Noah R. Nathan (McCloud 149), Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde, George G. Radcliffe (Watsonville 65), John W. Halsey, L. E. Barrett (Placerville 9), W. H. Basler, J. P. Giamelli, Thomas A. Cody, Superior Judge Malcolm C. Glenn (Sunset 26) and Ed. E. Reese (Sunset 26).

In responding, Kraus thanked the Parlor and its members for their remembrances, and related many incidents in the early history of the Order and Parlor. George Baldwin and the Southern Pacific quintet delighted the banqueters with vocal selections, while an orchestra furnished instrumental numbers. It was a memorable occasion, in that long and faithful service to the fraternity was given deserved recognition—recognition all too often withheld—and when it came to a close three rousing cheers for Ed. Kraus, the "grand old man" of Sacramento Parlor, were given by those privileged to have participated.

Bowlers Awarded Prizes.

Oakland—Piedmont 120 had a "big" time February 24, when Grand Third Vice-president William J. Hayes paid his official visit. Among the many visitors and members in attendance were Grand President James F. Hoey and Grand Second Vice-president Harry G. Williams. At this time, too, prizes were awarded to winning teams and individuals of the East Bay Parlor's Bowling League. A vaudeville program and smoker concluded the enthusiastic meeting.

Cakes Auctioned for Children's Benefit.

Lodi—Many visitors from Stockton and Sacramento helped to make up the crowd of 250 which attended the meeting of Lodi 18 January 26. D.D.G.P. Chester Couklyn of Stockton installed these officers: James Gerard, P.P.; T. E. Elwert, P.; Emil Graffigna, 1.V.P.; Ward Gregg, 2.V.P.; Chas. De Vine, 3.V.P.; Henry McMahon, M.; Floyd Gregg, O.S.; Ray Elam, I.S.

A sumptuous turkey dinner was served. Eleven cakes, which were auctioned, brought $60, which amount will go into the homeless children fund. Thirty-one dollars was the record price for one cake.

Membership Drive On.

San Francisco—South San Francisco 157 is in the midst of a membership campaign which will terminate with a class initiation March 31, when delegates to the Stockton Grand Parlor will be elected. It is hoped to add enough new members to give the Parlor an additional delegate.

Starts Drive for N. D. Parlor.

Wheatland—February 10 D.D.G.P. L. T. Sinnott of Marysville, assisted by Assemblyman Ed Lewis (Marysville 6) as grand marshal, installed the officers of Rainbow 40 at an open meeting which was attended by several Native Sons and Native Daughters of Marysville and local eligibles for both Orders.

The institution of a Native Daughter Parlor here was the main topic of discussion, and after pleasing and instructive addresses from the Marysville visitors charter lists were circulated and were signed by a goodly number. Rainbow Parlor is very anxious to have the proposed parlor organized, and was greatly encouraged in its efforts along that line by the results of this meeting.

Feast on Chicken Pie.

Galt—Galt 243 and Chnabolla 171, N.D.G.W., had joint installation of officers January 25, the installing officers being D.D.G.P. T. S. Lages of Sacramento and D.D.G.P. Mae Lucas of Folsom. A sumptuous chicken-pie supper was served at the conclusion of the ceremonies. Officers installed include: Chabolla Parlor—Jessalyn Bisagno, P.P.; Elizabeth Wright, P.; Margaret May, 1.V.P.; Thelma Davis, 2.V.P.; Alice Wright, 3.V.P.; Mary Pritchard, P.S.; Effie Quiggle, R.S.; Etta Hicks, T.; Delphine Smith, I.S.; Ruth Osler, M.; Altana Pearson, Alice Wright, Trs. Galt Parlor—R. L. Carpenter, P.P.; Paul Opdyke, P.; D. G. Sargent, 1.V.P.; Lloyd Bagley, 2.V.P.; A. G. Stocks, 3.V.P.; J. L. McEnerney, P.S.; F. W. Harms, R.S.; A. Osler, T.; W. ## STOCKTON GRAND PARLOR

STOCKTON WILL BE THE MEETING-place of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., which will convene April 18 for a week of business and pleasure. Although the San Joaquin County-seat boasts the largest and one of the oldest Parlors in the Order, this will be the first time a Grand Parlor has ever been in session there.

Stockton Parlor has a general committee arranging things for the Grand Parlor meeting both for the care of the members and visitors and their entertainment. The committee is officered by: W. E. O'Connor chairman, W. C. Neumiller vice-chairman, A. J. Turner secretary, George E. Catts treasurer. Other members of the committee, each one of whom is chairman of the sub-committee noted, include: Past Grand President H. R. McNoble (reception), Ray Friedberger (accommodations), Thomas H. Luke (finance), Chester W. Conklin (decorations), H. W. Dunlap (badges), George E. Catts (printing and program), A. C. Oullahan (publicity), M. J. Foley (music), J. Carroll Skinner (transportation), Julius Gaedtke (grand ball), Harry M. Herrmann (banquet and refreshments), C. P. Rendon (entertainment), F. W. Wurster (parade).

riek, Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher and D.D.G.P. Anna Silva. Under the able direction of President Virginia Wilson, the work of the Parlor was ably and speedily carried out.

Grand President Briggs, in the course of her pleasing address, outlined the Order's projects, complimented the Parlor on the evening's work, and commended the spirit of good-fellowship that characterizes the "Cherry" Parlor. Brief remarks were made also by the other grand officers. On behalf of the Parlor, Vice-president E. Goodman presented tokens to the Grand President and D.D.G.P. Silva. At the conclusion of the meeting all repaired to the banquet-room which, with its soft lights, blazing log fire, and decorations of daffodils and smilax, presented a most welcome appearance; here refreshments were served, and a happy evening brought to a close.

Initiates One.

Pescadero—These officers of Ano Nuevo 180 were installed February 2 by D.D.G.P. Mamie Dias, assisted by Susie Mattei as acting past grand president and Ida M. Mesquite as acting grand marshal: Ida Moore-Mesquite, P.P.; Lizzie Anne Frey, P.; Ellen R. Bell, 1V.P.; Ruth Weidmann, 2V.P.; Theresa McCormick, 3V.P.; Rose Mattos, M.; Alice Mattei, R.S.; Florence Roe, Lena Morris, Lorene Roe, Trs.; Carrie McCormick, O.; Margaret M. Dias, I.S.; Mayme Littlefield, O.S. One candidate—Virginia Frey-Miller—was initiated, D.D.G.P. Dias was presented with a remembrance by her friends, and refreshments were served.

Drillmaster's Services Appreciated.

Berkeley—A large number of friends and members of Bear Flag 151 and Berkeley 210, N.S.G.W., gathered January 18 for joint installation, at which

(STOCKTON GRAND PARLOR)

The general headquarters of the committee will be established in Stockton Parlor's new club-rooms, where the Grand Parlor attendants will also make their headquarters while in Stockton. Sessions will be held in Masonic auditorium. The entertainment program will include a reception, auto tour of San Joaquin County, grand ball, banquet, etc.

During this month (March) Subordinate Parlors will elect their delegates to the Stockton Grand Parlor, and with the elections will come candidates for the various offices. Several "rumors" are in the air, but few definite assertions of candidacies have yet been made. It appears probable there will be numerous candidates for Grand Secretary; two have already been announced: James J. Dignan (Piedmont 120) of Oakland and John T. Regan (South San Francisco 157) of San Francisco.

Other candidates for Grand Parlor office early in the field are: James A. Wilson (Rincou 72) of San Francisco, for re-election as Grand Trustee; Grand Marshal H. B. Scudder (Sebastopol 143) of Sebastopol, for Grand Trustee; Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter (Yosemite 24) of Merced, for Grand Marshal; Henry G. Bodkin (Corona 196) of Los Angeles, for re-election as Grand Trustee.

D.D.G.P. Nell Crowley and D.D.G.P. M. Sonza officiated. On behalf of Bear Flag Parlor's drill team, Emmet H. Berthaud, newly-installed president of Berkeley Parlor, was presented with a beautiful California gold signet ring, in appreciation for services rendered as drillmaster. Dancing followed installation, concluding at midnight with a delicious banquet.

Five Hundred at Installation.

Placerville—At the joint installation of Marguerite 12 and Placerville 9, attended by fully 500, these officers of the former Parlor were installed: Nettie Leonardi, P.P.; Jessie B. Lyon, P.; Margaret Smith, 1V.P.; Jane McCusker, 2V.P.; Agnes Rupley, 3V.P.; Elizabeth Stewart, M.; Martha Frost, I.S.; Della Irish, O.S.; Moniea McCusker, Mayme Limpensel, Margaret Murdock, Trs.; Ida Bailey, R.S.; Louise Shepherd, F.S.; Mary McBeath, T.

Mrs. Mary Swansborough, on behalf of Marguerite Parlor, presented Mrs. Nettie Leonardi, retiring president, with a handsome emblematic pin, and Mrs. Mattie Plank, installing officer, with a decorated cake set. For Placerville Parlor, George Green presented an emblematic pin to Rolon Duukum, retiring president. An original poem of local hits by Mrs. Marie Sharp was among the amusement features. Dancing closed a most enjoyable affair.

Presented State (Bear) Flag.

Oakland—D.D.G.P. William Crosby (Oakland 50) and D.D.G.P. Gertrude Morrison (Piedmont 87) officiated at the joint public installation of officers of Brooklyn 157 and Brooklyn 151, N.S.G.W., January 19. The officers were installed alternately, the ceremony being very impressive. D.D.G.P. Morrison was the recipient of a beautiful cut-glass vase, and many of the officers received floral offerings. Past President Anna H. Silva presented the Parlor with a State (Bear) Flag, and in turn was remembered with a picture, "Portals of the Past." Songs were rendered by Miss Anna May, accompanied by her sister, and W. J. de Blois, accompanied by Edward Donegan. Dancing brought to a close a pleasant evening.

The newly-installed officers of Brooklyn, N.D.G.W., include: Alice Gallagher, P.P.; Gertrude Townsend, P.; Evelyn Perry, 1V.P.; Naomi Medeiros, 2V.P.; Grace Alber, 3V.P.; Irene Glaze, M.; Nelle de Blois, F.S.; Josephine McKinney, R.S.; Sarah Deasy, T.; Viola Bruecker, Henrietta Gonzales, Anna Silva, Trs.; Ruth Wood, O.; Minnie Luhr, I.S.; Gertrude Pisani, O.S.; Dr. Victory Derriek, Phyn.

CALIFORNIA'S PROGRESS SHOWN IN BANK AND BUILDING PERMITS.

All of California's large cities made substantial gains in bank clearances during 1920, according to figures for 1920 and 1919 made public in the January bulletin of the California Development Board, issued February 3. Here are the comparative figures, with gains for 1920 noted:

|                          | 1920            | 1919            | 1920 Gain      |

U. S. HISTORY DEPARTMENT
ACHIEVES ENVIABLE RECORD.

Berkeley—According to the annual report of President David P. Barrows of the University of California, the Department of History of the State University has achieved an enviable record in the teaching of its students.

"The graduate work of the Department of History has grown steadily in recent years," the report states. "Students who have taken their degree of doctor of philosophy in the department during the last six years are holding positions varying from the rank of instructor to that of head professor of history in the state universities of Michigan, California, Texas, Oklahoma, Oregon, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Washington; University of Chicago, St. Louis State College and Pomona College. Most of the graduates with the M. A. degree and the teacher's certificate in history are occupying important positions in the high schools and junior colleges of this and other states."

COAST RANGE MOUNTAINS ARE WOBBLY; HENCE, EARTHQUAKES.

Observations reviewed in a recent University of California publication on the mobility of the Coast Range of California relative to the exploitation of the elastic rebound theory of earthquakes indicate that there is an interesting field here for the discovery of laws governing the slow and sudden movement of the earth's crust, according to Andrew C. Lawson, Professor of Mineralogy in the State University, author of the publication. He states: "The crust of the earth in the Coast Range region is in a condition of elastic strain, due to a slow northerly sub-crustal flow. The deep movement tends to carry the crust with it, and, since the current is local, to induce compression. When this compression reaches the limit, determined by the strength of the rocks, a rupture occurs and the strain is suddenly relieved by a sudden rebound. It is this sudden relief of strain which causes the earthquakes which from time to time affect the region."

According to Professor Lawson, Mount Tamalpais, in Marin County, moved northward 10 feet between 1854 and 1906 and then hopped back 6.6 feet in 1906, at the time of the great earthquake of that year. Mount Hamilton, near San Jose, moved northward at the rate of 4 feet a year from 1893 to 1903, but after a sudden shift in the latter year continued at the rate of 2.2 feet.

RELICS OF EARLY DAYS PLACED
BY N. S. IN OROVILLE LIBRARY.

Oroville—Two relics of early days have been acquired by Argonaut Parlor, No. 8, N.S.G.W., and placed in its collection at the City Library. One is a square of beautifully-decorated wallpaper taken from a Bidwell Bar, Butte County, house; the paper, which still retains its colors, was put on the walls in 1850.

The other relic is a fourteen-inch stone knife used by the Indians when the father of J. T. Binnet, the donor, went to Clipper Mills, Butte County, in 1849.

MINERAL PRODUCTION INCREASES.

The statistical division of the State Mining Bureau, under the direction of State Mineralogist Fletcher Hamilton, estimates the mineral production of California for the year 1920 at a total value of approximately $242,142,000. This is a conservative figure, and includes all products, metallic and non-metallic. This is an increase of approximately $45,600,000 over the 1919 total of $196,473,560, and is due to the greater quantity of petroleum, coupled with the continuing advancement of crude oil prices.

JUST CALIFORNIA

Hens "Come Through"—12,119,250 dozen eggs, some 875 cars, were shipped East last year.

Fair Date Set—This year's State Fair at Sacramento will be held September 3-11.

Promotion Home—Sacramento is soon to have an $80,000 Chamber of Commerce building.

Still Progressing—Lodi, one of the most progressive little cities, has voted $200,000 bonds for public improvements.

Printers to Meet—The Allied Printing Trades of the Pacific Slope will meet for three days in Fresno, commencing March 6.

Athletics Pay—The 1920 athletic season netted the University of California $52,928.60, according to the Associated Student Body.

"Some" Vegetables—21,000 earloads of vegetables were shipped last year; lettuce headed the list, 5,764 earloads, 3,000 of them from Imperial Valley.

Miners Organize—Owing to the revival of interest in mining in El Dorado County, due to recent gold strikes, a Miners' Association has been organized at Placerville.

Oil Record Broken—January broke all oil-production records, the daily total being 331,156 barrels; shipments were 319,769 barrels daily; sixty-three new wells were completed during the month.

New Naval District—San Diego is now headquarters of the new, eleventh, naval district, which includes the counties south of Tehachapi and the states of New Mexico and Arizona.

were installed by D.D.G.P. Otis V. Sweetland: Francis Sughrue, P.; Rolfe Buffington, I.V.P.; Miles Coughlan, 2V.P.; R. A. Eddy, M.; Chester Scheemer, R.S.; R. E. Carr, Tr. A Spanish "feed" was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

During the evening David E. Morgan who, in addition to having held every office in the Parlor's gift, has been treasurer the past thirty-three years, tendered his resignation of office, as he is to reside elsewhere in the future. It was accepted, after many members had expressed their regret at his decision to leave Nevada City where, for years, he has taken such active interest in all civic and business affairs.

Anniversary Celebrated.
San Francisco—Pacific 10 celebrated the fortieth anniversary of its institution with a dance at Native Sons' Auditorium February 4. The decorations were charming, the state flower (eschscholtzia) and massed greenery being used in an artistic way. Excellent music was provided.

Officers Jointly Installed.
Alameda—January 12, at a joint public meeting, officers of Alameda 47 and Encinal 156, N.D.G.W., were installed, D.D.G.P. Ada Spillman and D.D.G.P. George A. Wilson officiating. A jolly good time was had by the large number in attendance. The officers include:

Encinal Parlor—Nellie Murdock, P.P.; Elizabeth La Croix, P.; Minnie Kihn, I.V.P.; Gladys Murphy, 2V.P.; Nettie Stone, 3V.P.; Laura Fisher, R.S.; Irene Rose, F.S.; Barbara Rose, T.; Loretta Du Fosce, O.; Zita Tweedie, M.; Mary Hiester, Grace Joseph, Mildred Rasmussen, Trs.; Myrtle Wilson, I.S.; Sophie Morehead, O.S. # A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PRUNING FRUIT TREES.

EVERY HOME, WHETHER ON A LARGE or small farm or a city lot, can have home-grown fruit with a little attention to the care of the trees. Many of our readers undoubtedly have pruning problems facing them at the present time with few or many trees, and a few suggestions may therefore be in order.

One of the first essentials to a proper understanding of this subject is to know the reasons for pruning, and they may be briefly stated as follows:

1. To produce a vigorous, mechanically strong, healthy tree free from sunburn and capable of producing heavy crops over a long period of years.
2. To secure a tree well shaped for convenience and economy in management.
3. To distribute the fruiting area well over the tree.
4. To insure a succession of profitable crops.
5. To secure size and quality of fruit.

Promotion of vegetative growth should be encouraged in the young tree in order to provide a sufficiently large and strong bearing area for the mature tree. The less actual removal of wood in the pruning process the greater will be the growth in a given period of years. This is due to the ability of the tree to carry a large leaf surface throughout the growing season with a minimum of draft upon the stored food materials in the tree. Light pruning to obtain larger and stronger trees goes hand in hand with early fruiting. On the contrary, production of luxuriant vegetative shoot growth induced by heavy cutting of the tree is antagonistic to the bearing of fruit. When a deciduous fruit tree has a spread of say five feet, it can with all safety be allowed to fruit no matter what its age.

In a young tree size and strength are attained by a system of branching of what are known as main or scaffold limbs, each well spaced with relation to its neighbor so the result in the top of the tree after the third series of branching has been secured will be about six to eight main branches. These should be permanent and on them the secondary or bearing wood should be produced. The secondary wood may be renewed every few years, whenever it appears necessary. This will be indicated by the gradual weakening of the old secondary branches and their failure to produce strong, thrifty fruit buds. These branches may also become long and troublesome, interfering with other branches, in which case they should be removed in favor of shorter and younger shoots. Bearing wood should be well spaced on these main branches to permit ready access of sunlight to all portions. This is to promote early fruiting and the production of good sized, well colored fruit.

In pruning either young or mature trees one of the first things to be done is to remove all dead, injured or interfering branches, or those which grow across the tree so as to shut off the normal supply of sunlight in the center. In removing all branches, leave no stubs. By cutting close to the tree at the end of the so-called collar or swelling at the base of the branch the smallest cut area will be secured with the most rapid healing. Any projection beyond this collar will prevent rapid healing and promote decay which will eventually extend into the heart of the tree and even into the roots, causing premature death. Large wounds should be thoroughly coated with impervious paint or with asphaltum, applied hot.

A NEW DEPARTURE

With this issue of The Grizzly Bear Magazine the writer has the privilege and opportunity of suggesting items of interest concerning the paramount industry of our beloved California. From month to month we will endeavor to supply short articles of interest to the amateur as well as the professional farmer. The principles underlying both are the same. We may overlook some things which would be particularly interesting to our readers. Suggestions or criticisms to the editor of this page will be welcomed and given the most careful consideration with a view to making it of real value to all readers.—R. H. TAYLOR.

In mature trees branches which extend upward higher than desired may be removed completely by cutting to shorter side branches. This avoids the necessity of "stubbing" and largely does away with the tendency to produce unusually heavy undesirable vegetative growth at the top of the tree. The most desirable fruiting wood will generally be that which is more nearly horizontal or pendant. In thinning this wood pick that which is relatively short yet appears to be well matured and strong and which when carrying fruit will not whip against other branches and cause injury thereto.

The tendency of those unfamiliar with the possibilities of fruit trees is to leave too much wood, both main scaffold branches and fruiting wood. One should, while pruning, attempt to picture the tree as it will appear the following summer after the new growth has come on, and decide whether both fruit and branches will be well spaced with plenty of room for sunlight. An old saying, and one which might well be followed, is to prune the tree as you think it should be pruned and then go through and cut off as much more. If in doubt remove what you think is necessary and then watch the behavior of the tree the following two years remembering that the effect of a winter's pruning will show most surely on the crop of the second year following. Pruning may be safely done up until the time the trees are in blossom, the only objection then being that more fruit blossoms are knocked off in the process than when the trees are dormant.

PLAN NOW FOR THE SUMMER GARDEN.

Many home gardens are a disappointment to their owners through lack of careful planning before spring work commences. The housewife should be invited to the conference in which plans are drawn for the year. She can aid materially in determining the relative amounts of each vegetable which should be planted and very often as to the most acceptable varieties.

One of the best aids in determining what should be planted is some good book relating to vegetable production under California conditions such as "Wickson's California Vegetables." Seedmen's catalogs are invaluable aids and many of them contain much valuable information for the prospective planter. For example, in some of them planting charts are given which show the varieties of seeds to be planted, the seed required for one hundred feet of row or for one acre, the time of planting, the distance apart the rows should be, the distance apart of the plants in the row, depth of planting, and time of maturity. Summarized information is also generally included on the most serious pests which attack the various vegetables and the most satisfactory means of control. These should not be taken as final authority but will serve as preliminary guides. Additional literature can always be secured on management of gardens from the University of California, Berkeley, or from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., most of it being available without cost to the applicant.

An inventory should be taken of all tools available for the work in hand and that which is lacking should be supplied. Many a garden has been a failure through a lack of proper tools. We cannot refrain from emphasizing the value of hand-operated wheel cultivators and hoes. There are many makes of which probably the best known is the "Planet Jr." These are generally handled by the seed companies and also by hardware firms, and, properly chosen for the conditions in hand, are well worth all they cost and more. These are valuable for two reasons: First, they increase the area which can be successfully handled and, second, they tend to do away with too close planting. One of the commonest mistakes made by novices is an effort to reduce the labor by planting rows and plants too close together thereby reducing the area necessary to be cultivated. Such methods are practically always disastrous. When the original investment is once made in a combination wheel-hoe cultivator and plow, or other combination, this expenditure is not necessary again for a good many years.

Order the necessary seed as early as possible and from a reputable seed dealer in order that you may be sure of what you are receiving. Do not try too many experiments in the way of new "world beaters." The old standard varieties are generally the best. Try the others but do so with caution.

Most satisfactory gardens have a well planned succession of varieties which, if properly arranged, will make it possible to get two crops on a portion of the garden. Commence with those which are to be planted early and which mature early. They can then be replaced by those which should be planted late for fall maturity. Another portion of the garden should then be set aside for those plants which require the entire season for their proper growth.

Some crops such as lettuce, spinach, and radishes may be planted periodically throughout the season to provide a continuous succession of these vegetables.

There are some crops which should be avoided in the summer garden not because they cannot be grown satisfactorily but because of the space required they can be more cheaply purchased in the open market. What these crops are will depend a great deal on the individual conditions of the planter, but they should be considered. In this way the main effort can be expended on those vegetables which will bring the greatest satisfaction due to their freshness and which can be grown in a small space under good care.

Water is essential to a good garden and should not be used sparingly. Quick growth and rapid maturity are essential to tenderness and mildness of flavor. With the irrigation do not forget cultivation.

AGRICULTURAL LEGISLATION.

The State Legislature is now in session and many bills affecting agriculture have been presented for enactment. Both producer and consumer are or should be interested in many of these bills. There is no more opportune time to discuss this than the present. The most serious weakness of our present legislative system is the lack of active interest taken in these things by the average citizen. Much of this is due to a lack of adequate information. We are therefore briefly summarizing some of the more important bills, as follows:

Senate Bills 6 and 7 and Assembly Bill 81—relating to pure seed. These three bills constitute what is known as the Pure Seed Bill and are essentially the same as the one introduced and passed at the 1919 session of the Legislature but pocket vetoed by the Governor. They provide that all agricultural seed, mixtures, and special mixtures of agricultural seed shall be labeled, giving the kind of seed, bushel weight and percentage of purity, percentage of weed seeds, and a list of the noxious weed seeds contained therein. The enforcement of the act is vested in the Director of Agriculture, who must establish and maintain a seed testing laboratory for the free testing of agricultural seeds. The value of such a law to the planter is obvious. The necessity of this law does not lie in the behavior of all seedmen. Many are honest but there are also many who without such a law are foisting the worst kind of seed on a generally unsuspecting public. California is one of the very few States in the Union that does not have such a law, with the result that it is made the dumping ground for the worst lots of seed and many serious weed pests are being introduced into clean sections by this means.

Senate Bill 201 and Assembly Bill 914—relating to fruit and vegetable standardization. This act empowers the Director of the State Department of Agriculture, after investigation and public hearing, to establish grades and grading and packing rules for California fruits, nuts, and vegetables. This is designed to substitute the details now covered in the fruit and vegetable law of 1919 and the Apple Standardization law of 1917. It is felt that in the face of constantly changing conditions in the production of fruits and vegetables the inflexible standards of the present law may often work a real hardship on the industry without providing the proper safeguards for the consumer. Products which are properly standardized at the point of origin reach the consumer in better condition and insures him getting what he pays for. The interests of the consuming public should therefore be solidly behind a bill of this kind.

Senate Bill 98—relating to the control and ultimate eradication of tuberculosis in cattle. This bill provides for the establishment of tuberculosis free areas which may be changed from time to time until finally the entire State will be free of this dread disease. Both the producer and the consuming public are vitally interested in this measure. This bill provides a method of eradication which is sane and workable. The ultimate aim can be accomplished without injury to the dairy or cattle industry in the process.

Senate Bill 247—relating to prevention, eradication and control of insects and diseases affecting grapes. This measure empowers the Director of Agriculture to take steps necessary to control diseases and insect pests which at present threaten to work serious harm in the vineyard districts of the State. California has a practical monopoly of the viniferous grapes grown in this country and the industry should be protected and developed.

Senate Bill 277—relating to meat inspection. This measure provides for the sanitary inspection of slaughtering establishments and butcher shops not otherwise inspected at present. It is intended to protect the health of consumers of meat products dependent upon the small town or city slaughtering house for their meat supply, and as a protection to the producer of good meats, both butcher and farmer, against the marketing of diseased meats by unscrupulous competitors in the butcher business. The value of this is obvious.

DENOUNCE FEDERAL JAP ATTITUDE

“WE WILL RESIST WITH EVERY moral and legal means either the encroachment of ineligible aliens in our midst or the voluntary surrender of our rights and privileges by the Department of State to any foreign potentate,” is the statement in resolutions adopted by Ramona Parlor, No. 109, N.S.G.W., directed to the Federal State Department which, in its dickerings with the Japs over the California Alien Land Law, adopted by an overwhelming vote in November, has plainly indicated it is more concerned about the Japs’ “friendship” than the welfare of this state. The resolutions continue:

“We have been authoritatively informed that the draft of a proposed treaty with Japan has been submitted by the Department of State to the Foreign Office of Japan, defining the rights and privileges of Japanese in the United States, among which are involved the naturalization of all Japanese at present in the United States.

“We emphatically and vehemently protest against the proposed negotiations as being in contravention of the rights and privileges of native-born citizens of the Commonwealth of California, with inherited eligibility to citizenship, inimical to principles upon which this Government was founded, and contains in it the seeds not only of friction and discontent, but fraught with intolerable conditions staggering to the imagination, and that the responsibility of the dire consequences almost certain to follow, unless this warning is given due consideration.”

The resolutions voice the sentiment not only of Native Sons and Native Daughters, but all White Americans.

“GOLDEN STATE” TO GET FLAG.

March 4, when the “Golden State,” a new steamship of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, reaches San Pedro on her maiden voyage, the Native Sons will present a State (Bear) Flag to the vessel. William I. Traeger, Grand First Vice-president, has the arrangements in charge. The presentation is to be made because the company has honored California in naming the vessel “Golden State.”

UNITE TO RECEIVE GRAND PRESIDENT.

Los Angeles 124 and Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W., held a joint meeting at Long Beach February 19, the occasion being the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister. Mrs. Louise Robinson, president Los Angeles Parlor, presided in a very capable manner, and the other officers were chosen from both Long Beach and Los Angeles Parlor, Mrs. Burns, the oldest member, acting as past president.

The hall was artistically decorated with the colors of the Order, and potted ferns were at the officers’ stands. After the meeting a musical program was rendered and visitors were admitted. All were delighted with the enthusiastic talk given by Grand President Briggs on the aims and accomplishments of the Order, and she won the hearts of all her listeners with her sweet and graceful personality. Numbers on the program included: Reading, “Just California,” Majorie Curtis; vocal trio, Alice Addis, Helen Addis, Charlotte Wharton; address “The Homeless Children Work,” Mrs. Annie L. Adair, secretary Los Angeles joint committee; violin and piano duet, Mrs. Crouch, Miss Lucy Ulyate; reading, Elsie Brown. A banquet followed, all present being the guests of Long Beach Parlor, always noted for its splendid hospitality.

Long Beach presented the Grand President with a handsome silver and gold hon-bon dish, while Los Angeles Parlor gave her a beautiful framed picture of the bells of San Gabriel Mission. All present, and particularly the members of Los Angeles Parlor, expressed grateful appreciation to D.D.G.P. Kate McFadyen for her enthusiastic and untiring efforts for the advancement of the Parlor in her charge.

Grand President Briggs while in Los Angeles was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Robinson, and while in Long Beach the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadyen. She was taken on auto tours of both cities and all of Los Angeles County, including a visit to “The Mission Play” at San Gabriel Mission. She was highly elated at the splendid reception accorded her in Los Angeles County.

READY FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE.

During the past month, Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., has been going along in an even, steady way. In December the Parlor found it necessary to suspend a number of men who could not find sufficient interest in the Order and its work to pay their dues; to offset this, initiation is being had every Friday night. The officers of the Parlor and the active members feel that it is better for the future to consider well the applicant and to increase the membership with a steady, sure growth which will not decay. The "Good of the Order Committee," Charles Gassagne, provides a little feed each night and the members, with the newly initiated, stand around over doughnuts and cocoa to start the friendships for which the "Native Sons" is so noted. With the live, hard-working officers the Parlor now has, there seems to be something substantial about the future development.

Ramona has long provided club-rooms for its members, but it is only recently that the members have taken full advantage of them, the rooms being used to capacity at all times. Parlor meetings are much better attended in consequence. With the assistance of Grand President James F. Hoey names have been taken from the great register; these will be used during the coming month (March) for a membership drive for which the Parlor is now prepared.

LIKE A GOOD SHOW? THEN RESPOND.

General notification is hereby given all the members of Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., that the Good of the Order Committee has arranged a schedule of entertainments for 1921, and hopes the membership will show appreciation by attending all meetings of the Parlor, as a high-class entertainment will be presented every Thursday evening, with a "feed" the first and third Thursday evenings of each month. A number of week-end entertainments and trips have been planned for the near future, as well as a few "big" events for the women folks. The first show of the series will be presented March 3 at 8 o'clock sharp.

Officers have been installed by D.D.G.P. Dr. Robert M. Dunsmoor, John McGougle being president. Applications are coming in regularly, and initiation is a frequent feature. Delegates to the Stockton Grand Parlor will be nominated March 10 and elected March 17. Walter C. Farnum, a vaudeville booking agent, was initiated February 10 and in appreciation furnished a number of the finest acts ever witnessed in a Native Son Parlor here.

ALBUM FOR CHILDREN.

The Los Angeles Native Sons' and Daughters' Joint Committee on Homeless Children meets the first Friday evening of each month at Ramona Hall, 348 South Hill street. The committee is grateful to Ramona Parlor, N.S.G.W., for the use of its pleasant reception rooms. Following are the officers: Irving Baxter, chairman; J. B. Coffey, treasurer; Annie L. Adair, secretary. Other members are Dr. R. M. Dunsmoor, Al. Cron, James M. Lynch, Henry N. Ireland, J. C. Bodkin, J. T. Newell, Kyle Z. Grainger, Misses Susan Donahue, J. M. Labory, Mrs. L. R. Molin, Delia Hutchinson.

The committee is now considering giving an entertainment in May for the homeless children fund. A number of beautiful children are now under its supervision. Irving Baxter has presented the committee with a photograph album. Snapshot pictures will be taken of the children, when the members of the committee pay their supervisory visits to the homes, and these pictures will be placed in the album. The committee finds an abundance of work to do, and is meeting with fine success.

CONSTRUCTIVE WORK APPRECIATED.

Corona 196, N.S.G.W., had a big class initiation recently, when the Past Presidents exemplified the ritual, and an entertainment and refreshments were provided. Among the Parlor's "new" members is Marco H. Hellman, well-known banker; owing to stress of business he resigned several years ago, but now, appreciating the Order's constructive work, is anxious to do his "bit."

Officers were installed by D. D. G. P. Walter D. Gilman February 28, James M. Lynch becoming president. The membership drive is still in progress, and Corona hopes to be able to elect an additional delegate to the Stockton Grand Parlor.

HALL ASSOCIATION MEETS.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Native Sons Hall Association of Los Angeles was held at Native Sons Hall, 134 West Seventeenth street, February 14. Plans for raising funds to make needed repairs and to meet financial obligations were discussed, and the following directors for the ensuing year were chosen: John T. Newell, S. A. Lazard, Al. Cron, Kyle Z. Grainger, Clarence M. Hunt.

After the stockholders' meeting the directors met and elected these officers: John T. Newell, president; Clarence M. Hunt, vice-president; S. A. Lazard, treasurer. Willard F. Allen was reappointed secretary.

THE DEATH RECORD.

I. S. Green, a charter member of Bay City Parlor, No. 104, N.S.G.W. (San Francisco), who had made his home here for some time, died February 6.

Dr. Edward Hewitt Garrett, a member of Ramona

Parlor, No. 109, N.S.G.W., died February 17, survived by a wife, a daughter, and two brothers—Robert B. Garrett (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and Banning C. Garrett (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.). He was a native of Wilmington, aged 48.

Miss Angela Domozzi, a member of Los Angeles Parlor, No. 124, N.D.G.W., passed away February 12, survived by a mother, sister and brother. She was a native of Los Angeles, aged 30.

Michael L. Polaski, a member of Los Angeles Parlor, No. 45, N.S.G.W., died February 21, at the age of 59. He was born in Monterey, but had resided here fifty-five years.

Oscar W. Krause, an uncle of Julius W. Krause (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.), died at the age of 74.

Richard Arenz, long associated with the Arenz Warren Paint Company, died February 19, survived by a widow and five children. He was aged 52.

Edward Samuel Irvin, secretary of the Los Angeles Can Company, died February 5.

Mrs. Marco H. Hellman, wife of Marco H. Hellman (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.), passed away recently.

John Alvarado, a member of Los Angeles Parlor, No. 45, N.S.G.W., died February 20, and was buried by the Parlor. He was a native of this city, aged 58.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Monty Hellam (Monterey 75, N.S.G.W.) of Monterey was a visitor last month.

Miss Hortense Lindenfeldt (Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W.) recently became the bride of W. McLearn.

Chauncey Lewis (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) has taken up his residence at Venice Island, near Stockton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Turner of Mariposa are visitors. Mrs. Turner is a charter member of Mariposa 63, N.D.G.W.

Dr. Robert M. Dunsmoor (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and Grace D. Pearn were wedded February 4 by Justice J. Walter Hanby (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.).

Miss Mary E. Brusie (Argonaut 166, N.D.G.W.) of San Francisco, secretary N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Committee on Homeless Children, paid a hurried visit last month.

Paul D. Robinson (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and Frank Haven "autoed" a party of Native Daughters to Long Beach on the occasion of the official visit of Bertha A. Briggs, Grand President, N.D.G.W.

William I. Traeger and Henry G. Bodkin, respectively Grand First Vice-president and Grand Trustee, N.S.G.W., attended an important conference and meeting of the Board of Grand Officers in San Francisco February 26.

not rescue their breasts from harme, they would with furie cast themselves vpon the ground, neuer respecting whether it were cleane or soft, but dashed themselves in this manner on hard stone, knobby hillocks, stocks of wood, and pricking bushes, or whatever else lay in their way, iterating the same course againe and againe; yea women great with child, some nine or ten times each, and others holding out till 15 or 16 times (till their strength failed them) exercised this cruelty against themselves: a thing more grievous for vs to see or suffer, could we haue helpe it, then trouble to them (as it seemed) to do it. This bloudie sacrifice (against our wils) beeing thus performed, our Generall, with his companie, in the presence of those strangers, fell to prayers; and by signes in lifting vp our eyes and hands to heauen, signified vnto them that that God whom we did serue, and whom they ought to worship, was aboue; beseeching God, if it were his good pleasure, to open by some means their blinded eyes, that they might in due time be called to the knowledge of him, the true and euermouing God, and of Jesus Christ whom he hath sent, the saluation of the Gentiles. In the time of which prayers, singing of Psalmes, and reading of certaine Chapters in the Bible, they sate very attentiuely: and obseruing the end at euery pause, with one voice still cried, Oh, greatly reioycing in our exercises. Yea they tooke such pleasure in our singing of Psalmes, that whensoever they resorted to vs, their first request was commonly this, Gnaah, by which they intreated that we would sing.

"Our Generall hauing now bestowed vpon them diuers things, at their departure they restored them all againe, none carrying with him anything of whatsoever hee had receiued, thinking themselves sufficiently enriched and happie that they had found so free accesse to see vs."

PICTURESQUE LAKE TAHOE DOES NOT OCCUPY VOLCANIC CRATER.

Lake Tahoe, in California, is often said to occupy an old volcanic crater. This is not a fact. It is true that the region about the lake shows evidence of volcanic activity of various kinds and that the water has at times probably been dammed by outpourings of lava, but the lake itself lies in a structural depression—a dropped block of the earth's crust.

The prehistoric Lake Tahoe was larger and deeper than the present lake, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. During the Neocene epoch and the earlier part of the Pleistocene epoch its water stood much higher than now, but in its overflow it has since cut through the lava dams that maintained it at that height.

Distinct beaches that mark the former higher levels of the lake stand about 100 feet above its present surface, but the water doubtless once stood at even greater heights. At Tahoe City, the most distinct of these old beaches, is a terrace that stands 35 to 40 feet above the level of the lake. It is on this ancient beach that the tavern is built.

*Why the Burnham
is Best*

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

HOWERS FELL COPIOUSLY DURING the first week of April, 1871, and other showers during the month increased the season's rainfall about two inches, but only in widely-separated localities was the grain crop saved from partial failure. Due to this fact, the prices of flour advanced to $7.50 a barrel, wheat to $2.75 and barley to $1.85 a cental, and hay to $20 a ton. The rainfall for the season in the state at the end of the month was only 11 inches in San Francisco and 6 inches in Los Angeles.

An earthquake shock in San Francisco at 7:48 p. m. April 2 caused a rush of people onto the streets, but no damage was done. It was the only shock felt there for a year, and was felt in Santa Cruz and throughout Northern California.

At 7 p. m. April 18 a brilliant, magnificent meteor shot across the sky from south to north and was viewed by thousands of people in the State of Nevada and Northern California. An observer in Placer County stated it was visible for ten seconds, and burst into fragments, giving off all the colors of the rainbow. The sound of its explosion, rumbling like distant thunder, was heard eight minutes after the meteor had disappeared, and it was thereby estimated to have been passing at a height of over 100 miles.

Strawberries at 50 cents a pound basket came on the San Francisco market April 3, and ripe cherries made their appearance April 30, selling for $1.25 a pound.

The discovery of a rich silver ledge eight feet wide and over two miles in length, sixty miles southeast of San Bernardino, was the cause of a rush of locators. An assay as high as $377 a ton was reported.

A prospector named Rogers reported finding tin ore in a ledge twelve feet wide on the San Benito River near Gilroy, Santa Clara County.

The Eureka mine at Grass Valley, Nevada County, continued its marvelous production of gold, yielding $44,000 this month.

Michael Joyce, operating a hydraulic mine near Folsom, Sacramento County, cleaned up $2,000 from a twenty-day run.

The Blue Point gravel mine at Smartsville, Yuba County, made a $40,000 clean-up and paid a dividend of $80 a share.

The Crown Point ore development on the Comstock Lode in Nevada State continued to crowd California street, San Francisco, with an excited and active gathering of investors and brokers. It opened at $137 a share and Belcher at $37. Up and down, like a bouncing rubber ball, the prices fluctuated, going as high as $202 for Crown Point and $83 for Belcher, and there were many exciting hours and feverish days while the upward movement continued. The stock market closed at the end of the month at near the high figures.

Lottery Craze on Increase.

The lottery craze appeared to be on the increase, and three new schemes were announced this month. For the benefit of the town of Folsom, Sacramento County, a gift concert to take place July 4 was advertised with 30,000 tickets at $2.50 each and $45,000 to be given in prizes—a capital one of $10,000 with 666 others ranging down to $20. J. H. Burnham was the manager.

The citizens of Grass Valley, Nevada County, announced a gift concert in aid of a "Home for Disabled Miners" to take place June 1. There were to be 60,000 tickets at $2.50 each, and $90,000 in prizes—the capital one of $15,000 and others down to $20. Geo. W. Dixon was the manager.

The Emigration Aid Society, a Sacramento organization to promote immigration, announced a gift concert for July 4. It was to have 100,000 tickets at $5 each and was to return $250,000 in prizes, the first one to be $50,000 and the last one $25. J. Berton was the manager, and a score of leading business men of the city were the sponsors.

The Lake Tahoe water scheme of Colonel Von Schmidt, proposing to supply San Francisco with water for $40,000,000 in bonds, occupied the attention of the citizens this month. The supervisors passed an ordinance favoring it, but it was vetoed by Mayor Selby.

Billiard matches between the Eastern champions in San Francisco were so frequent this month that the knights of the cue became surfeited with them. A match in Platt's Hall April 8 between the Dion brothers against Deery and Rudolphe, American four-ball game, 2,000 points, was won by the Dions, their opponents scoring 1,580.

This defeat angered Rudolphe, and he challenged Cyrille Dion to play him in private for $1,000 a game. This Rudolphe won. Dion and Deery played French caroms, 500 points, April 9, and Dion won by 24 points.

Rudolphe and Dion played another match April 12, American caroms, 750 points. Dion made a big run of 213, but Rudolphe beat him by 27 points. Rudolphe and Joseph Dion April 17 played a three-ball French carom match for $500 a side, 500 points, which Dion won by 28 points.

A number of revivalists with a large tent set up in the plaza at Sacramento were holding three meetings daily and their exhortations made many converts.

A state Sabbath school convention was held in San Jose April 19.

The cornerstone of Grace Church, Sacramento, was laid April 18 by Bishop Kip, Rev. J. H. C. Bonte and other Episcopal clergymen with appropriate ceremonies.

Three celebrated greyhounds were imported from Ireland by San Francisco members of a coursing club. The express charges on the dogs amounted to over $700.

Roller skating carnivals were a popular source of pleasure at this time in the cities having skating rinks, and prominent society people were prize-winners among the maskers.

Noted Tragedy Reviewed at Trial.

Engene West, riding fifteen horses at Sacramento Agricultural Park April 30 against time, rode 100 miles in 4 hours and 34 minutes, winning a wager by 6 minutes.

The firemen of Stockton visited the firemen of Marysville April 20, going by an excursion train and having a jolly time.

John T. Raymond, a popular comedian of this time, was touring the state with an excellent troupe playing "Rip Van Winkle" and "John Shingle."

The Odd Fellows of Sacramento celebrated the anniversary of that order's founding April 26 with an excursion by train and picnic at Leet's Grove, Placer County. The San Francisco lodges picnicked in Alameda County. The Napa City lodges paraded, and A. A. Sargent delivered an oration. In several other towns the anniversary was similarly observed.

Among the distinguished citizens of the nation visiting California this month was the famous author, Ralph Waldo Emerson. He delivered a lecture in San Francisco on "The Immortality of the Soul" April 23, which was listened to by a brilliant audience.

Thos. A. Hendricks, United States Senator from Indiana and in 1885 vice-president of the nation, toured the state. He made a number of addresses, responding to secretaries by his Democratic party admirers in different cities of the state.

Daniel Scannell was elected chief engineer of the San Francisco fire department April 4. His many friends in the department had a torchlight parade hauling an old hand engine through the streets, and a display of fireworks in his honor.

W. W. Pendegast, a gifted lawyer and Democratic politician, created a furore by appearing on the stage at Napa City in the character of "Richelieu." His rendition was considered great and impressive.

The trial of Mrs. Laura D. Fair, for the killing of A. P. Crittenden in November, which began in San Francisco March 26, continued until April 26, during which time a morally morbid crowd filled the courtroom and corridor listening to and enjoying any salacious testimony. The private life doings of all concerned in the tragedy were raked over as with a fine-tooth comb, and sensational develop-

SAN JOAQUIN, THE "GATEWAY COUNTY"

HISTORICAL SKETCH DEALING PARTICULARLY WITH STOCKTON, LODI AND TRACY

Rolland A. Vandegrift

(ASSISTANT IN HISTORY, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.)

BEFORE THE WHITE MAN ENTERED the great interior valley of California, San Joaquin County was inhabited by many tribes of Indians. The most numerous of these were the Yachicumnes, holding the land where Stockton now stands, the Mokelumnes near the river of that name, and the Syokos, claiming all the land south of French Camp. The Indians remained in undisputed possession of their lands in what is now

San Joaquin County for many years after the Spanish entered California. Although the country was on the navigable San Joaquin and not far from San Francisco, established in 1776, it was long after this date that the first white man beheld the fertile plains of the "Gateway County."

EARLY EXPLORATION. Early in the nineteenth century exploring expeditions and searches for runaway Indian neophytes led the Spaniards into the interior valley. At present there is very little information concerning the first expeditions into the San Joaquin region. It is incidentally stated that Alférez Gabriel Moraga, at a date not specifically given, but in 1806 or some time previous to September, 1806, explored the "Valle de los Tulares" (the valley of the rushes), and gave the name San Joaquin to the valley and river. One of the most important early expeditions exploring the San Joaquin County region was made in 1808, again under the leadership of Alférez Gabriel Moraga. From all the information now available it appears that it was undoubtedly that hardy explorer and Indian fighter, Gabriel Moraga, who not only named the San Joaquin River, from which the county takes its name, but also discovered the site of Stockton, the county seat. Moraga deserves more honor than he has received from the succeeding generations. He spent his life in leading exploring expeditions into interior California, making not less than forty-three expeditions, discovering most of the regions of the present interior counties. Yet today the name of Moraga is almost unknown. San Joaquin County and in particular, Stockton, should do him more honor.

In the years following 1808 the Spaniards continued to explore the San Joaquin region and to carry on punitive expeditions against the Indians. Frequently the padres of the San Francisco and San Jose missions would send military expeditions to that country to capture runaway Indians or to carry back others for the "benefit of their souls." In this way the Spaniards became acquainted with the geography and resources of the valley. At several times a mission and presidio for the interior valley were proposed, but none was established in the San Joaquin region.

FUR TRAPPERS. The streams of San Joaquin County were fairly alive with fur-bearing animals at one time. As early as 1806 Moraga reported that there was an abundance of "castores" (beaver) on the San Joaquin. Castoria, a later settlement and township, undoubtedly received its name from this fact. It was to the search for furs that San Joaquin County owes its first dawn of civilization. Jedediah S. Smith, the first Anglo-American to cross the Sierras and enter California, was also the first Anglo-American to visit the San Joaquin country. In May, 1827, he was camped in the country of the Mokelumnes and the Cosumnes. Evidence indicates that his party trapped the Stanislaus, San Joaquin and Mokelumne regions during the season of 1827. His men probably remained there while he went across the Sierras to his headquarters on Salt Lake and returned in 1828.

It was perhaps due to information concerning the fur possibilities of the San Joaquin region given by Smith to the Hudson Bay Company officials that led them to send trappers into that region. La Framboise and John McLeod of that company were there in the early '30s. French Camp, about four miles south of Stockton, received its name from the fact that a party of some 400 French-Canadians in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company camped there while trapping beaver for several seasons between 1829 and 1838. The Mexican government in 1844, when it granted this territory, including Stockton and containing 48,747 acres, to William Gulnae, designated it as "El Camp de los Franceses" (the camp of the Frenchmen).

INTRODUCTION.—Mr. Vandegrift's article shows, as have so many that have appeared in The Grizzly Bear, that the study of California history is not only interesting but useful, if only for the perspective that it throws upon the present and the possibilities of the future. For example, Mr. Vandegrift mentions that the region now embraced by San Joaquin County was once considered of little value. Indeed, when Charles M. Weber was trying to induce colonists to settle the country between the present Stockton and Sacramento, Thomas A. Doak told him that he would not give ten dollars for the whole of it! It would seem, from Mr. Vandegrift's figures as to recent growth, that Doak (incidentally the first American settler in California) was a poor judge of real estate futures. And yet, anybody with the least smattering of historical-mindedness has almost as good a chance as Thomas Doak once had to go to San Joaquin County and at least make his grandchildren rich.

There is another point that should not be overlooked: It is a fact of supreme importance that the interior valley WAS a region of scant value until it was enabled to receive the necessary expenditure of effort to give its potentialities a chance. On that account, the scattered settlers of Spanish days could see no reason why they should leave their comparatively comfortable coast towns for the seemingly undesirable interior. Therefore, the gold remained undiscovered, and California was not overrun with a population that would have made the later American occupation a virtual impossibility.

The writer of this introduction is moved also to refer to Mr. Vandegrift's opening paragraphs, in which he SETS FORTH FOR THE FIRST TIME THAT IT HAS EVER APPEARED IN PRINT (utilizing investigations made by Professor Priestley of the University of California) THAT THE SITE OF STOCKTON WAS DISCOVERED AT LEAST AS EARLY AS 1808, and probably in 1806, by the greatest pathfinder and Indian fighter of Spanish days, the intrepid Gabriel Moraga. Thus are Californians enabled to go on in the upbuilding of historic traditions, which, after all, are the richest treasure in the possession of this state.

Readers of The Grizzly Bear have several times been favored with the interesting and scholarly contributions of Mr. Vandegrift. It may interest them to know that he is one of the most promising of the graduate students in history who has been in residence at the University in years.—CHARLES E. CHAPMAN, Associate Professor of History, University of California.

THE FIRST SETTLEMENT. Gulnae obtained his grant at the request of Charles M. Weber, his partner in business in San Jose. He immediately sold the land to Weber for $50. The Mexican law required that all grantees must settle on their grants, and so in 1844 Gulnae, by giving a square mile of land, persuaded one of the Applegate party of immigrants, David Kelsey with his wife and three daughters, to locate at French Camp. The Kelsey family moved onto the grant in 1844 and built a tule house. The Hudson Bay Company had at that time an establishment at the head of French Camp Slough. James Lindsay with some Indian vaqueros had established a headquarters for Weber's ranch on what is now Lindsay's Point. In 1845 David Kelsey, returning from San Jose, was taken sick with smallpox and died. French Camp was then deserted by his family. Lindsay and his Indians fled from the disease. He returned in a couple of months, but was killed in an Indian raid, the tule houses burned and the cattle driven off. A number of grants of land were made in the San Joaquin district, but no one had the hardihood to settle his grant until 1846. The immigrants coming across the Sierras were constantly increasing in number from 1844, but none could be induced to settle in the San Joaquin. After Lindsay was killed Weber secured Napoleon Schmidt to locate at Weber's Point, but, the Mexican war breaking out, he was compelled to seek the settlement. No further efforts were made to settle the grant until 1847. This date marks the permanent beginning of Stockton.

In 1846 a party of Mormons founded New Hope, or Stanislaus, on the north bank of the Stanislaus River, a mile and a half from the San Joaquin. In April, 1847, this settlement boasted of ten or twelve colonists and several houses, but shortly afterwards a summons from Salt Lake and the floods broke it up. Some of the colonists moved to Weber's establishment.

The close of the Mexican war also marked active settlement on other ranches of San Joaquin County. Several ranches on the Calaveras, Mokelumne, and their tributaries were occupied at this time. Stock raising was the chief industry.

THE GOLD RUSH. The discovery of gold in California in 1848 caused an unheard-of immigration to the "Golden State." It was at this time that San Joaquin County's claim as the "Gateway County" was recognized. It lay at the entrance to the great valleys of the Sacramento and San Joaquin, with the gold-bearing Sierras beyond. It was in the period of the gold rush and of the opening of the southern mines, the country of Bret Harte and Mark Twain, that the county began to be important. Stockton was the head of summer navigation on the San Joaquin. From here the stage roads led on out to the mines. The stations along the way and in particular those at the ferries across the streams soon became settlements.

FORMATION OF THE COUNTY. The population of California increased so rapidly that some form of state and local government was necessary. General Bennet Riley called on the voters to elect members for a constitutional convention to assemble in September, 1849. The territory was divided into districts. San Joaquin district included all the territory of the valley south of the Cosumnes River. The population in this area grew so rapidly between the issuance of the proclamation and the election that fifteen delegates were elected instead of four, the allotted number. The state formed, the legislative assembly proceeded to divide the state into counties. On February 28, 1850, San Joaquin County, named after the river, was designated. It included 1,630 square miles. Stockton was made the county seat.

DEVELOPMENT OF AGRICULTURE. With the gold seekers came farmers who secured lands in the broad plains of San Joaquin. Those who came to raise wheat were scoffed at by the earlier settlers. However, grain had been raised by the Mormons in 1846 at French Camp and by Joe Buzzell at Tuleberg in 1847 and by others in 1851. The new farmers put in their crops and soon one could ride for days through fields heavy with the golden grain. For over half a century "Wheat was King" in San Joaquin County, but now manufacture and horticulture have taken the lead. Among the early towns that depended upon agriculture are numbered Lodi, Lathrop and Farmington. Other settlements were thickly sprinkled in the agricultural regions as they were settled. Farmington was one of the places where crops were raised very early. It was the rancho of Theyer and Wells. Farming was resumed in San Joaquin County in 1850, after the excitement of the gold rush had abated somewhat, and by 1852 nearly 4,000 acres were under cultivation. In 1880 there were 1,100 farms in the county valued at $18,553,000. Increase in agriculture in the county has called for a very large reclaiming of swamp land and in recent years the organization of extensive and well-developed irrigation projects.

EARLY SETTLEMENTS. The success of Stockton as a trade center for the mines brought several rivals to the front within San Joaquin County. Castoria, on the adjoining slough south, was laid out in 1850 and struggled until 1853. San Joaquin City, facing Stanislaus in the extreme southern part of the county, was begun in 1849. Stanislaus, begun with the Mormon settlement in 1846, later was transferred to a railway station. Mokelumne City, near the mouth of the Cosumnes River, was opened as an entrepot in 1856 and boats built there ran directly to San Francisco; at one time it polled 172 votes, but the floods of 1862 so damaged the city that it never recovered. The hopes of all these rivals to Stockton failed even for attaining subordinate points of river distribution.

Among towns which grew up along the route to the mines are numbered Lockeford and Woodbridge,

ORDER NATIVE SONS HER LOYAL DEFENDER

James F. Hoey

SEPTEMBER 9TH, A FEW YEARS ago, there stood upon the sidewalk a small boy, in wonder and amazement, endeavoring to figure out what it was all about. Passing along the street, was what appeared to be an endless parade, made up of many divisions, in each of which were a great number of neatly-uniformed men or women, beautiful floats and banners, and each headed by a band playing the sweetest music. The boy was told that Admission Day, the occasion for the demonstration, meant something more than a school holiday, as on this day all true Californians pause long enough in the busy whirl of life to fittingly celebrate the birthday of this Golden State, and that the participants in this celebration were natives of the state who had banded themselves together in a fraternal organization for the purpose of advancing the best interests of this commonwealth.

There immediately arose within the breast of that youngster a desire to become affiliated with this organization, in which he already could see so much good. He remembers well today those years of his "teens" which seemed as if they never would pass. When he reached the age of admission he was initiated into a Subordinate Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, and one may be able to appreciate the feeling that came over him when, a few years later, he was elected to the office of outside sentinel, which carried with it an opportunity to pass through the chairs of his Parlor. Good fortune attended his way each year, until finally, like those who preceded him, he was presented with an emblem by the Parlor which indicated that he was a past president of a Subordinate Parlor. He felt that he was then standing upon the last rung of the ladder, so far as Native Son honors were concerned.

Today that young man is Grand President of the Order of Native Sons, and it will be with a feeling of thankfulness and appreciation to those who have so honored him that he will soon relinquish his duties as directing head of this great fraternity and pass the gavel of authority on to another who will put into operation his own plans, while the writer will return as a humble worker to the ranks with a hope that his efforts as Grand President have not been in vain but that some good for the Order has been accomplished. But few of our number can be elevated to the exalted position of Grand President—the greatest honor, in my judgment, that can be bestowed upon any Californian—and he who is so honored will ever keep green in his memory his debt of gratitude to those loyal members of the fraternity who, prompted by a feeling of brotherly love, repose such trust and confidence in him. It is this spirit, so manifest in all the Subordinate Parlors, that gives to a Grand President his ambition for greater accomplishments and achievements and makes his duties a labor of love.

The greatest heritage in this land of liberty, equality and justice, is to be a California-born American citizen. Fortunate, indeed, is the person who can refer to this land of sunshine, fruit and flowers—the garden spot of all the world—as the place of his birth, and tell of those wonders within its confines that are unexcelled by any other like area throughout the world. California should appeal with special emphasis to her native men and women, for this great western empire founded, as it was, by those sturdy Pioneers of days long ago, has entwined in its history more poems of human endeavor than any other state of this grand American Union. Even Native Sons and Native Daughters often become absorbed in the small things that surround their particular environment and fail to grasp a broad vision of this glorious state. The climate is supreme, and perfection is but a mild name for what the Creator has done for this heritage given into our keeping.

A loyal Californian knows no north nor south, no east nor west, insofar as the state is concerned, and ing influences of the Pacific and cooled by the snows of the High Sierras, that make up his state.

It was the realization of the possibilities and opportunities that lay within the confines of California that suggested to General A. M. Winn the institution of a club, or organization, or fraternity of some kind, the prime purpose of which would be to advance the best interests of this commonwealth, and to revere the memory of the early pioneer days. Having considered different plans for some time, he finally decided that his desired object could be more successfully carried out by the formation of an organization that would be composed solely of those born in the State of California—those who would be prompted by that greatest feeling ever implanted in the human breast, pride of nativity, love for country, and loyalty to the Stars and Stripes,—although he fully realized that he himself would not be eligible to membership.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, the outgrowth of General Winn's endeavors, is resting firmly upon a foundation of patriotism. That its teachings in time of peace bear fruit in time of war, was manifested in the recent world conflict, when more than eighteen percent of its membership answered the call to the colors in defense of those noble principles of liberty, equality, and justice. The young man who walked along the narrow path in the recent world conflict is now seeking the portals of the organization, for the foundation stones of the Order appeal to him, and he recognizes an opportunity to further those same great principles for which he volunteered his services to perpetuate.

Can the accomplishments of any fraternity be looked upon with more pride than those of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West? Is there any organization that is more unselfish in its labors? Is it not a proud moment, in the life of any Native Son, when an opportunity is presented to tell one who is a stranger to our achievements of what our Order has done for the state? Our efforts to commemorate the memory of the early Pioneers; to preserve the connecting links of the state's early history by saving from decay the old missions; to mark the spots of historic interest; to give to the world knowledge of California history, and to elevate and ennoble the manhood and womanhood of California, through the channels of the Homeless Children Committee, are all commendable labors.

Occasionally we hear it said that our fraternity is a selfish one, but when reference is made to that great work for humanity being done by the Homeless Children Committee our misinformed friends at once concur that our endeavors to build up manhood and womanhood are unequalled. During the eleven years of the existence of this committee more than 1,500 children have been placed in permanent homes, and twice that number of applications for children have been received. Have you ever considered what this means to the little child, and to the foster parents, as well as to the State of California? The Native Sons and Native Daughters reap their reward from this labor in the satisfaction of knowing that an abundance of happiness has been brought into the world and in the hope that these little tots, when they grow to manhood or womanhood, will take a more prominent position in the society of our state and thus will be more able to advance the great principles upon which our Orders are founded.

is not overcome by sectional pride. When telling of the wonders of this magnificent state, he has no desire to speak only of the grandeur of its mountains, those silent sentinels of the night that keep watch for all time over the storehouses of man; nor of that precious metal taken from its mines that makes California one of the leading mineral-producing states in this rich country of ours; nor of its great valleys pouring forth bounteous crops of the necessities of life to man; nor of the beauty of those silvery streams that percolate through its fertile soil; nor of that picture of gold, framed in beautiful green foliage, that the orange and the lemon of the southland present; nor of those old missions where man gave his life-blood as a sacrifice to the true story; nor of that spirit of Californians, inherited from those brave and gallant Pioneers who endured untold hardships in founding this heritage; for it is all of these wonders, in one large bouquet of beauty, of grandeur, of productiveness, and of man's best endeavors warmed by the soften-

During the past year the Native Sons of the Golden West played no small part in the campaign launched for the preservation of California as a white man's home. By the ballot, the most powerful weapon in the land, the people of our state overwhelmingly recorded their opposition to the peaceful penetration of the little brown men who have planned to ultimately dispossess the white inhabitants of these fertile valleys. I trust that this campaign of education will continue until there is a full realization, by all, of the condition as it exists.

The teachings of our fraternity prompt us to give serious and sober thought to the acts of those people who have left their own country to avoid the iron heel of autocracy and the rigidity of a tyrannical government and have come to this land of freedom and liberty; and who, after having had extended to them the hand of the Good Samaritan, do not show their appreciation for the opportunities and privileges afforded by furthering the great principles of the government for which the bone and sinew of this land have sacrificed their lives upon the altar of liberty, but are ceaseless in their efforts at breeding a condition of unrest and spreading the doctrines of i.w.ism and anarchism. Our fraternity, founded on patriotism, conceived in loyalty, and born under the Stars and Stripes, should be in the foreground in condemnation of these practices, their preachers and teachers.

The spirit of the young Californian was manifested in the ready response to the call of the Government to give the great superdreadnaught "California" human souls to breathe into its nostrils the life essential to put it into operation. The manpower of this bulldog of the seas consists of over 1,500 and, following a suggestion, a campaign to secure all Californians for the "California" was launched, with the result that almost a full enlistment was obtained before the campaign had fairly commenced.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is but in its infancy. Let us not rest, satisfied with what has been accomplished, but, adding zest to our endeavors, diligently labor for more and greater accomplishments. Recognizing the fact that from increased numbers must come greater results, let us look forward to the day when 100,000 loyal sons of California are workers in the field of Native Sonism—the most productive field in the world today for fraternal endeavor.

DRAKE AND NEW ALBION

THREE DAYS LATER THE "HIOH," or as Drake's men understood it the king of all that country, came to visit them. On this occasion there were a number of long, unintelligible speeches and religious songs and dances by the Indians, after which, as Fletcher asserts, they offered Drake the sceptre and the crown, even the "Hioh" joining in, "making signes that they would resigne vnto him their right and title in the whole land, and hecome his vassals in themselves and their posterities. . . . Wherefore, in the name and to the vse of her most excellent maiesty, he tooke the sceptre, crowne, and dignity of the sayd countries into his hand." The ceremony was described at great length, and was relied upon by the English government nearly three centuries later in part substantiation of its claim to the northwest coast. It is now generally held that the Indians, who had not the faintest conception of the meaning of sovereignty, were going through the ceremony of the peace-pipe, admitting Drake to membership in the tribe.

After this was over, "the common sort, both of men and women, leaving the king and his guard about him, with our Generall, dispersed themselves among our people, taking a diligent view or suruey of euery man; and finding such as pleased their fancies (which commonly were the youngest of vs), they presently enclosing them about offered their sacrifices vnto them, crying out with lamentable shriekes and moanes, weeping and scratching and tearing their very flesh off their faces with their nailes; neither were it the women alone which did this, but euen old men, roaring and crying out, were as violent as the women were."

In the course of the long stay at this port Drake and some of his company made an inland journey, but whether for several days or only for a few hours the record does not say. They found it to be "farre different from the shoure, a goodly country, and fruitfull soyle, stored with many blessings fit for the vse of man." Among other things they saw "very large and fat Deere . . . hy thousands" and "a multitude of a strange kinde of Conies." They seem not, however, to have set eyes upon San Francisco Bay, for there is no reference to such a body of water in the records of their sojourn. Drake called the country "Nova Albion," induced to this course by the "white bancks and cliffes, which lie toward the sea," but more particularly, it may be imagined, "that it might haue some affinity, euen in name also, with our own country (England), which was sometime so called." Drake also took good care to set up a monument claiming title to that kingdom for Queen Elizabeth and her successors.

At length, the time for departure was at hand, and when the Indians perceived that the Englishmen were going they were filled with grief, and renewed their sacrifices. They made signs indicating that they hoped to be remembered and wished that the Englishmen would return some day. As the "Golden Hind" went out of the port, July 23, 1579, they lighted beacon fires on the hills, probahly as sacrifices to the departing gods.

The next day Drake was at the Farallones Islands, unaware how near he was to the great port of the west. Here is the narrative of that day: "Not farre without this harborough [Drake's Bay] did lye certaine llands (we called them the llands of Saint James), hauing on them plentifull and great store of Seales and birds, with one of which wee fell July 24, whereon we found such prouision as might competently serue our turne for a while. We departed againe the day next following, viz., July 25."

Drake's further adventures on this voyage may be rapidly passed over. He steered across the Pacific, and for sixty-eight days was out of sight of land. At length he reached the Philippines and the Moluccas, and then sailed on around the Cape of Good Hope to England. On one occasion an event happened which is at once illustrative of Drake's luck and of the perils of the sea. While under full sail in an open sea at night, the "Golden Hind" ran aground and stuck fast. Yet, all around, when soundings were taken, they could not find bottom. When day came it proved that the ship had run upon a shelving bit of rock, possibly the peak of a prehistoric mountain. They had come upon it at high tide, and now that the tide had fallen their chance of getting off seemed worse than ever. The ship fell over on its side, and then, when death was all but upon them, the keel was loosened and the vessel rolled off into deep water. On September 26, 1580, with one ship out of five that he had started with, and about fifty men out of an original 164, Drake sailed into Plymouth, England. He had taken two years and nearly ten months for the voyage, in the course of which he had circumnavigated the globe. The "Golden Hind" was the second ship which had achieved this distinction, and Drake was the first individual who had made the entire voyage as commander of his ship.

These then are the facts concerning Drake's visit to California, but the story does not end here. As has already been intimated, Drake and the queen seem definitely to have planned the establishment of a colonial empire in the Americas in rivalry to that of Spain. Drake believed that in "New Albion" he had found a satisfactory nucleus for the attempt, thinking (though, of course, mistakenly) that "The Spaniards neuer had any dealing, or-so much as set a foote in this country, the vtmost of their discoueries reaching onely to many degrees Southward of this place." His treatment of the Indians, too, seems to have been founded on a deliberate intention of attracting them to English rule and the Protestant faith, in contrast to the enslavement to which the Spaniards and Portuguese had subjected the natives. Drake dreamed of an English New Spain or Peru in California—and surely the equivalent was there!—holding that "there is no part of the earth here to bee taken up, wherein there is not some special likelihood of gold or silver." Queen Elizabeth herself joined him in this speculation, and a project was drawn up in exact imitation of the practices of Spain. This document, which was headed "A proiect of a corporacion of soche as shall venture vnto soche domynions and contreys sytuat bayonde the equynoctyall line," merits insertion here. It reads as follows:

"Imprimis yt yt may please herr Matie to graunt lyke pryleges as haue hene graunted by her Hs and her progenytors vnto her subiectes tradyng into the domynions of the Emperor of Russia.

"Item that in cōsideratyon of the late notable discouerye made by Franeyz Drake of soche domynions as are seytuated beyonde the said Equynoctyall lyne yt yt may please her Matie that he may during his naturall lyfe supplye the place of Governor of the seyd compaigne: and in cōsideratyon of his great travayll and hazarde of his person in the seyd discouerye to haue during his seyd lyfe a tenth parte of the profits of soche commodities as shall be brought into this realme from the partes above remembred.

"Item that there shall be reserved vnto her Matye a Vth parte of the proffyt of soche mynes of goold and sylver as shall be found in these contreys yt are hereafter to be discovered and are not lawfully possessed by any other Christyan Prince.

"Item yt yt may please her Matye to erect an howse of contratays wt soche orders as were graunted by the K. of Spayne."

Thus, Drake was to be the governor of the new company, or at least to appoint that officer, and was to receive a large share of the profits, while Elizabeth was to get the royal fifth and to establish an English Casa de Contratación (House of Trade). The seat of the company's activities was referred to only as "beyonde the equynoctyall lyne," but there can be no doubt from other evidence that California was to be the head and centre of the plan.

This becomes the more clear in the light of a sixteenth century French map of Drake's voyage, inscribed as seen and corrected by Drake himself. In this map the crown and arms of the queen of England were placed on the islands south of the Straits of Magellan and on California. The name "Nova Albion" [sic] appears, but it runs nearly half way across the continent. Most significant of all is a boundary line, beginning at the head of the Gulf of California and running east through what is now the United States to a point in the Gulf of Mexico where the peninsula of Florida breaks off to the south. Below this line is the caption "Nova Hispanie" (New Spain). A small section on the south Atlantic coast, beginning in northeastern Florida, is marked off as "Nova France" (New France), in deference to the French Huguenot colonies of the middle and later sixteenth century. All the rest, including the narrow wedge of the Florida peninsula between New France and New Spain, was, apparently, to be a part of Drake's "New England," or Albion, proceeding, not out of Plymouth Rock or Boston harbor, but from the faraway western port at Drake's Bay.

The project was something more than a wild dream. According to the testimony of one of Drake's prisoners, taken by him while off the northwestern coast of South America and released the next day, the English navigator had said "that if God spared his life he would return here from his country within two years with six or seven galleons." Apparently, steps were taken, immediately after Drake's return to England, to make good this assertion. In January, 1581, the Spanish ambassador to England wrote that Queen Elizabeth had agreed that Drake was to start with ten ships "for the Moluccas," he understood, and that six more were to go to Brazil and join Drake later in the Pacific. Political complications in Europe, however, especially the danger of a conflict with Spain, caused the plan to be abandoned. Another expedition was organized, presumably to go to the Moluccas, but it was fitted out with the elements necessary to the founding of a colony and was ordered to find a northern route to New Albion. The sequel, as told by Mrs. Nuttall, was as follows: "By some intrigue the command was finally given to Edward Fenton, whom Drake and his men suspected of having dealings with the Spanish Ambassador. It certainly came to pass that orders were disregarded, the fleet was taken to the coast of Brazil, where it was met and attacked by Spanish ships. Suspecting treachery, John Drake and a small party separated themselves from the expedition, which was then abandoned. Thus the attempt to colonize New Albion and establish trade relations with the East Indies was frustrated."

Drake's first visit to California was therefore his last, and it was two centuries more before his countrymen again appeared off that coast. His achievement, however, was not without result, though Spain originally and the United States ultimately were to profit by it instead of England. As will be pointed out in another chapter, he stimulated the Spaniards to efforts which were later to bear fruit in the occupation of the Californias precisely against such a peril as Drake's plan represented. It is therefore fitting, not only in honor of the English navigator's great feat in itself, but also in testimony of the importance of his work as affecting the future of California, that a stone cross should have been raised to his memory on one of the hills of San Francisco overlooking the Golden Gate and San Francisco Bay.*

*The literature on Drake's voyage in the Pacific is of vast proportions, but, though much contemporary material has been discovered, many of the facts concerning this celebrated expedition are still veiled in mystery. This is due mainly to the disappearance of Drake's own journal and the necessity for reliance upon inconclusive evidences. Particularly noteworthy among the works employed in preparing this chapter are the following: 1. Drake, Sir Francis. "The world encompassed by Sir Francis Drake. . . . Collected with an unpublished manuscript of Francis Fletcher, chaplain of the expedition" (London. 1854. Or. ed. London. 1628), in Hakluyt society. "Works," 1 ser., XVI. The author was the nephew of the admiral. The remarks cited to Fletcher in this chapter are from this volume. 2. "New Light on Drake; a collection of documents relating to his voyage of circumnavigation, 1577-1580." Tr. ed. by Mrs. Zelia Nuttall (London. 1914), in Hakluyt society. "Works," 2 ser., XXXIV.

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Not Later than 1855.)

Judge A. W. Oliver, native of Maine, aged 86; came around the Horn in 1849; was a close friend of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), several pages of the latter's "Innocents Abroad" being a description of their journey out of Virginia City, Nevada State; was closely identified with the development of the public schools, and at one time was superintendent in San Jose; died at Alameda, survived by a widow and three sons, among them Ernest W. Oliver, a member of Grizzly Bear Parlor, No. 239, N.S.G.W. (Long Beach) of Douglas, Oregon.

Mrs. Sarah Smyth, native of Louisiana, aged 85; came in 1852, and took up her residence at Horse-shoe Bar, Placer County, where she died, survived by nine children.

Henry Clay Ferrel, native of Iowa, aged 87; came via Panama in 1853, and settled in Shasta County; died at Redding, survived by three children.

In Memoriam

DR. EDWARD H. GARRETT.

To the Officers and Members of Ramona Parlor, No. 109, Native Sons of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret on account of the death of Brother Dr. Edward H. Garrett, respectfully submit the following:

Brother Edward H. Garrett, the son of Robt. L. and Sarah E. Garrett, was born November 21, 1872, at Wilmington, California. After his attendance at the public schools at Wilmington and Los Angeles, he completed his medical training at the University of Southern California. He became a member of Ramona Parlor, in January, 1904, and served the Parlor, in the capacity of one of its examining physicians, for a number of years. He died in Los Angeles February 17, 1921, leaving the following near relatives to mourn his departure: Mrs. Josephine Garrett, his beloved wife; Miss Elizabeth Garrett, a daughter; Banning C. and Robert B. Garrett, brothers.

Whereas, By dispensation of a Divine Providence, the Angel of Death has taken from Ramona Parlor, No. 109, Native Sons of the Golden West, a dear and beloved member, who was respected and loved by all who knew him and whose loss is deeply felt by all, especially those nearest and dearest to him; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That while bowing in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been called to the Grand Parlor on High; that in the passing of Brother Edward H. Garrett, this Parlor has lost an honored and faithful member; his family a devoted husband and father, and this city a man who has stood among the highest in his profession; and be it further resolved, that Ramona Parlor, No. 109, Native Sons of the Golden West, extends to the bereaved family its sincere sympathy in their sad affliction; that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor; that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased brother, a copy to his surviving brothers, and a copy to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

IRVING BAXTER,

WALTER F. KEEN,

LON S. MCCOY,

Committee.

Attest, Seal: WALTER F. KEEN, President; GROVE T. VAIL, Secretary.
Los Angeles, March 4, 1921.

MARY E. BAIN.

To the Officers and Members of Piedmont Parlor, No. 87, N.D.G.W.—We, the Condolence Committee, respectfully submit the following resolution of respect:

Whereas, In the wisdom of God Almighty, Sister Mary E. Bain, one of our beloved and honored members, was called to her eternal rest, be it Resolved, That by the death of Sister Mary E. Bain Piedmont Parlor, No. 87, N.D.G.W., suffers the loss of a member worthy of the highest respect and esteem; and be it further resolved, that we tender our sincere sympathy to the bereaved husband and family in their hour of sad affliction; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that they be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

GRETTE MURDEN,
HARRIET EMERSON,
EMMA FLOOD,

Condolence Committee.

Oakland, February 21, 1921.

V. BACELLIA.

Whereas, Our dearly beloved brother, V. Bacellia, has been called to the Great Reward; and, whereas, our Brother Bacellia was a member of Oak Park Parlor which was consolidated with Sunset Parlor, was always an honorable member and in good standing, always seeking to uphold the moral standing of the Native Sons of the Golden West; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of Sunset Parlor, No. 26, Native Sons of the Golden West, do hereby extend to the bereaved wife and family of our beloved brother our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor and published in The Grizzly Bear, and that a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

GREATEST IN UNITED STATES.

Admission that the University of California numerically leads the thirty largest universities in the United States and probably in the world in full-time regular enrollment and in entire number of persons instructed has been made by Raymond Walters, secretary American Association of College Registrars.

In his statistics of registration of thirty American universities for 1920, he gives first place to the University of California, with a registration of full-time regular students of 11,071, a grand total of resident students of 16,379, and a final sum total of all students instructed of 36,904 persons. Columbia University is given second place, with 8,485 students.

James Sutton, Recorder of the Faculties in the State University, declares the figures in this report are based on enrollment data to November 1, 1920, only; that later figures have brought the total of regular students at the University of California to 12,316 persons, and have increased by at least 5 percent the final total of persons under instruction during the current academic year.

Annual Luncheon.

San Francisco—The Native Daughters' annual "boosters" luncheon will be held April 9. Officers and committee chairwomen in charge are: Mrs. E. O'Donnell (chairman), Mrs. William Army (secretary), Mrs. May Barry (treasurer), Mrs. Helen Mann (ways and means), Mrs. May Noble (reception), Mrs. Marguerite Kaufmann (ushers), Mrs. J. Greene (decorations). Among the invited guests are:

Native Sons—Grand President James F. Hoey, United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Senator James D. Phelan, Congressman John I. Nolan, Mayor James Rolph, Federal Judge Maurice T. Doelling, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, Angello Rossi, president San Francisco Booster Committee, Louis H. Mooser, president San Francisco Real Estate Board. Native Daughters—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley. "Outsiders"—United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Congressman Julius Kahn, Governor William D. Stephens, Mrs. James Rolph, Mrs. Sanborn, Mrs. A. W. Hamilton, Samuel Breyer, Mrs. Adriana Thompson, Mrs. W. F. Bon-files (Annie Laurie), Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, Athol McBean.

Whole County Welcomes Grand President.

San Luis Obispo—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs made her official visit to San Luisita 108 February 24. The welcome visitor was met at the train by relatives, friends and a committee appointed by the Parlor. Notices had been sent to all members to be present at 6:30 p. m. for "refreshments" before the meeting of the Parlor. At the appointed hour the doors were thrown open, and the banquet hall presented a beautiful scene, about the room being potted plants of palms and ferns, bouquets of poppies, jonquils and daffodils; the tables were laden with steaming hot turkey and all the trimmings. At 8:30 the Parlor meeting was called to order, and one candidate was initiated. The Grand President was pleased and surprised at the increase of membership of the Parlor and the large number present; she spoke of the aims and objects of the Order, and gave helpful instructions. D.D.G.P. Margaret Palmer of San Miguel and Sister Jepson of Copa de Ora 105 (Hollister) were also guests. The former invited the members of San Luisita to be present at San Miguel the following Saturday afternoon, the occasion of the visit of the Grand President, installation of officers, and the reception of eleven candidates; the cordial invitation was accepted. Sister Spence, in behalf of the Parlor, presented Grand President Briggs with a cut-glass bud vase, and to D.D.G.P. Palmer a bouquet.

The following day the Grand President made the trip to Cambria, to visit El Pinal 163. She was accompanied by Sisters Bell and Hankenson, Mr. Bell and Mr. Hankenson, the party returning to San Luis Obispo in the small hours of the morning.

Saturday, a most perfect spring day, at 11 a. m. a delegation of thirty-seven members of San Luisita Parlor were ready to accompany the Grand President on an auto trip to San Miguel. The party arrived there at 1 p. m. After greetings and introductions all were escorted to the banquet hall, where dinner was served, consisting of hot roast chicken, hot vegetables, salads, cold meats, relishes, fruit, cake, hot buns, coffee, real ranch cream, butter and milk; after a ride of thirty-nine miles, justice was done to the dinner and much praise was bestowed on the cooks. The preparation of this banquet, and every thing served in abundance, to thirty-eight guests and eleven candidates was the work of a committee of six, almost the entire membership of the Parlor now at home. The ritualistic work of the officers, some of them giving two charges, and the perfect installation work of D.D.G.P. Palmer were certainly inspirations to the members of San Luisita. When goodbyes were spoken, both Parlors declared that this visit was the first of many more both for that side and this side of the mountains. The visitors reached home at 8 p. m.—certainly "the end of a perfect day."

Big Class for Largest Parlor.

Stockton—April 3 at 2:30 p. m., Joaquin 5 will hold Arbor Day exercises at Victory Park, where a tree will be planted in honor of the G. A. R., who will hold their convention in this city in May. A committee consisting of Misses Florence Board, Margaret Nolan, Lorraine Kalek, Eleanor Lacey is preparing the program of addresses and patriotic songs. President Ward is greatly interested in civic and club work, and much credit is due her for untiring efforts to make the Parlor's meetings both beneficial and enjoyable; with a charming personality, she is loved by all the members.

April 12 Joaquin Parlor will entertain Grand President Bertha A. Briggs. So that all members may have an enjoyable evening, the committee has decided to "come out of the kitchen" and a banquet will be served at 6:30, after which the members will adjourn to Native Sons' Hall for the regular meeting. A class of about thirty candidates will be initiated, which will make Joaquin by far the largest Parlor, and will entitle it to seven delegates at Grand Parlor in June. The invited guests for the banquet, besides the Grand President, are Grand Marshal Mattie Stein of Lodi, Grand Outside Sentinel Pearl Lamb of Tracy, and D.D.G.P. Nina Williams of Manteca. A social is planned after the regular meeting, at which time a program will be enjoyed and light refreshments served. Past Grand President Mamie Peyton is chairman of the committee in charge of the evening, and a most enjoyable time is being looked forward to.

"Home Club" Activities.

San Francisco—Mrs. D. C. Goldstone is now matron at the Native Daughters' Home Club. 555 Baker street, succeeding Miss Lucy A. Condrin upon her marriage to Edward J. Waugh.

The following donations have been received: Box of fruit and nuts, J. O. Wilkinson, Calistoga; box of preserved fruit and jelly, Sutter 111 (Sacramento); bank check, Stirling 146 (Pittsburg); Boston fern, Mary J. Ansbro, Orinda 56 (San Francisco); dressed chicken, Helen Weaver, Camellia 41 (Anderson); jar of mince meat, Evelyn Calanan, Laurel 6 (Nevada City).

Guests, permanent and transient: Misses Edith and Adelaide Odell, Nelle Grant, Joaquin 5; Mrs. Lenore Hieronimus, Miss Freda Hieronimus, Miss Evelyn Calanan, Mrs. Penrose, Laurel 6; Miss Edna Bryant, Golden Rod 165; Miss Mary McLaughlin, Argonaut 166; Mrs. Weaver, Miss Helen Weaver, Camellia 41; Mrs. Huhs, El Pescadero 82; Miss Louise Wyckoff, Aloha 106; Mrs. Esler, Vendome 100; Mrs. Mary Corcoran, Los Angeles 124; Mrs. Noonie Boulton, Miss Margaret White, Miss Grace Williams, Alta 3. Three members of the Order, who had been ill in a hospital, came to the Home Club for convalescence.

Prosperous Returns Wished.

Oakland—March 15 Aloha 106 fittingly celebrated its twenty-third institution anniversary, when many past presidents were in attendance. Agnes G. McFeeley, chairman of the social committee, added the finishing touches to a greatly-enjoyed evening when she ushered those present into the banquet-room where the tables, prettily decorated with spring flowers and St. Patrick's Day colors, were weighted down with delicious refreshments. At departure all wished Aloha many prosperous returns.

Officers and members of the Parlor are putting forth their best efforts to make the term ending June 30 one of the most successful in Aloha's history. Many applications are being received, and a big class initiation is in early prospect. March 1 a whist party was given, Alice Block, Alta Cunningham, Alice Powers forming the committee in charge.

Institution Anniversary Celebrated.

Daly City—A jolly time was enjoyed by members of El Carmelo 181 March 2, when the Parlor's birthday was celebrated. Five candidates were initiated, the work being exceptionally well put on by the officers. Following the close of the meeting a supper was served. The table was prettily decorated with California wild flowers, and a beautiful white cake, holding eleven lighted candles, occupied the place of honor in the center of the table. The birthday gift of the members to the Parlor was two handsome silk flags—the United States and the California (Bear)—each mounted on a staff. The Parlor held its monthly whist party March 30.

Special Decorations a Feature.

Woodland—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs was given an elaborate welcome to Woodland 90 March 8 on the occasion of her official visit. Other visitors were Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, secretary State Senate, and Miss E. Kinney of Redding. One candidate was initiated. Much time and effort were devoted to the special decorations, which eclipsed any other attempt to honor a visiting grand officer. Members of the committee arranged for the collection of large bunches of California poppies, emblem of the Order, and hundreds of branches of the Red Bud, Yolo County's celebrated wild flower. These, in bounteous display, with yellow ribbon streamers, greenery, kewpie dolls in dainty yellow dress, all offset with the national colors draped about the hall, made the place a bower of beauty long to be remembered by all who had either to do with the event, or attended the inspiring Parlor session. A delightful banquet was served. Miss Harriett Lee was mistress of ceremonies, and short talks were made by Mrs. Margaret Hutchings, Mrs. Lillian Kitts, Mrs. Anna Kinkade, Past Grand President Stoermer, Miss Kinney, Grand President Briggs.

Committees of the Parlor in charge included: Banquet—Abbie Murray (chairman), Adelaide Keene, Nettie Hadsall, Caroline Simpson, Mae Ludden. Decorations—Hazel Weider (chairman), Florence Weider, Grace Kraft, Nellie Heberner, Ruth

Since 1890, when this bank was one year old, the population of the city has increased 12 times; the area nine times; the assessed valuation 13 times; the total of all bank deposits has increased 48 times. The deposits of this bank since it was one year old have increased 370 times.

In 1890 this bank held $247,645 deposits and the deposits in all Los Angeles banks were $9,319,943, so the percentage of the total held by the Security Bank was only 2.6%. January 1, 1921, the deposits of this bank were $91,727,113, and the deposits of all Los Angeles banks were $443,480,349. The proportion of all Los Angeles bank deposits now held by this bank is greater than 20 per cent.

BRISQ A Unique Shortening

The Globe mark—the "A1" that signifies Quality—has come to stand as the protector of California cookery. That Brisq, California's pure vegetable shortening, bears this mark is proof that it is worthy to take place in the front rank of fine quality foods.

Brisq is manufactured entirely from the finest vegetable oil that California harvests yield. It is made here—there is never any doubt as to the freshness of Brisq. This delicate shortening gives no fatty taste nor odor to cakes or pastries. It is excellent for frying; foods cooked in it are crisp and wholesome.

Say "BRISK"—it is California's "A1" Shortening.

Asks Help of All Parlors.

San Francisco—The Progressive Committee of

Oro Fino 9 has decided to dispose of a beautiful hope-chest containing fifty handsome hand-made articles, the proceeds to go into the Parlor's treasury which, on account of heavy sick and death benefit drains, has become greatly depleted. This is one of the oldest Parlors in the Order, has cheerfully responded to all calls, and now asks every Parlor of Native Daughters and Native Sons to give it a helping hand.

Tickets on the hope-chest are now on sale at 10c each, or three for 25c, and may be obtained by addressing Miss Margaret J. Smith, secretary, 4096 Eighteenth street. A liberal and quick response from all Parlors of both Orders is requested.

Is Growing Fast.

Tracy—El Pescadero 82 celebrated Arbor Day by planting trees in the yards of the new West and South schools and the grounds about the just-completed American Legion hut. The Parlor is fast growing in membership, a class of candidates being initiated March 4, and the meetings are "peppy." A whist contest is under way; at its close the losers must banquet the winners. Officers were recently installed by D.D.G.P. Nina E. Williams of Manteca, Millie Schmidt becoming president. A turkey supper followed the installation ceremonies, which were largely attended, among the number being several Manteca visitors.

Has County Meet.

Pescadero—Año Nuevo 180 had a county organization meeting March 16, about twenty-five guests being in attendance. After a very successful business session, at which a number of remarks were made, the sixty-five present enjoyed a feast of "eats." The banquet-room was decorated in huckleberry and green tissue paper, and the tables in yellow daffodils and asparagus fern; the favors were in green.

Initiates Twelve.

San Diego—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited San Diego 108 February 21, when twelve candidates were initiated. D.D.G.P. Hattie M. Ziegler and D.D.G.P.-at-Large Dr. Louise C. Heilbron looked after the entertainment of the visitor, and Emma Robinson had charge of the refreshments. Mrs. Briggs was delighted with her visit, and in a pleasing manner outlined the Order's projects.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Stork Shower.

San Rafael—Several members and friends of Marinita 198 perpetrated a perfect surprise on Past President Anna Andrade when they called at her home to do honor to Robert William, a new arrival. It was a stork shower for the young native, and the visitors were loaded with innumerable gifts. A pleasant evening was spent with games and music, and a splendid repast was served. Marinita now has a membership of 101, and has bright prospects.

Has Whist Party.

San Francisco—Linda Rosa 170 held a whist party March 30, for the success of which a committee worked hard. Several prizes were awarded. Among those assisting President E. Tyrell in the affair were: E. Heilman, M. Garfield, L. Weisheimer, B. Scott, M. Cassidy, N. Fields, E. Cochran, F. Eoff, G. Ross, P. Lassett, L. Hogan, L. Dunn, A. Prior, N. Cahill.

Has Many Visitors.

Oakland—They all came because they knew a welcome awaited them in Bahia Vista 167. Sixteen Parlors were represented by over 100 visitors, among them Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher and D.D.G.P. Myra Sackett. The occasion was the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs March 16. The meeting was conducted with dispatch, and at its close refreshments were served. The decorations were in keeping with the season, true green and shamrocks; even the yellow flowers used had green edges—brought about by a chemical process. Four candidates were initiated. The Grand President complimented the members for their patriotism, the Parlor being the first among those of Alameda County to contribute to the Jap exclusion fund, donating $17.

February 16 the Parlor had an indoor picnic which created a lot of fun. The "girls" brought lunch boxes, and there were all sorts of picnic amusements. Chester Case, president Oakland 50, N.S.G.W., gave some enlightening information on the Jap situation. Bahia Vista has a "live wire" president, Marion Garthorne, who has planned several special features, California history reading being among them.

Social Activity Its Specialty.

San Jose—Vendome 100 is making splendid progress, and is specializing in social affairs. Great preparations are being made for a monster card party March 29, and the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs March 31. Mrs. I. L. Koppel is chairman of the committee arranging the card party, and is being assisted by Mesdames H. J. Dougherty, D. J. Gairaud, John Corotto, Wallace T. Morton, Georgia Ingalls.

After the meeting March 3 members of the Parlor were treated to a surprise party given in honor of the birthdays of Mesdames Wallace Morton and Ernest C. Fairchild. A birthday cake with suitable inscriptions and lighted candles was in the center of the long banquet table. Everybody was given half a valentine and was bidden to find his partner. These partners were the possessors of dainty boxed lunches, more than enough for two. Mrs. Earl Bickford and Mrs. I. L. Koppel were the instigators and were given jolly send offs.

Circus Thrills 'Em.

Placerville—Twenty-eight members and visitors were present at the February 16 meeting of Marguerite 12, when six candidates were initiated. An indoor "circus" was the great entertainment feature, all the usual thrills being presented by Etta Kramp, Jessie Lyon, Nora Gray, Bertha Reeg, Nellie McBeth, Alice Hagee, Mrs. Travelle, Mary Swansborough, Mabel Myers, Elizabeth Christian, Elizabeth Stewart, Mattie Plank, Mayme Limpensil, Emma McGumsey, Margaret Smith, Cora (Continued on Page 16.)

Miller. After the show refreshments were served in the banquet-room, where the decorations were exceptionally beautiful. Among the many who responded to the call of President Jessis Lyon, toastmistress, were D.D.G.P. Nettie Plank and Jane McCusker, who recited one of her original poems.

Dedicates Tree to School Children.

Fort Bragg—Fort Bragg 210 joined the school children in the observance of Arbor Day and, following its usual custom, planted an acacia tree dedicated to the fourth grades. Bearing American and State (Bear) Flags, the children marched to the campus, where this program was rendered: Salute to the Flag, and "Star Spangled Banner," school; welcome to Native Daughters, P. W. Smith; tree presentation, Mrs. Ruth Fuller; response, fourth grade pupils; recitation, "The Tree We Plant," Gladys Berryhill; tree dedication, Mrs. H. Conway; "The Useful Tree," fourth grade B; salute to State Flag, and "I Love You, California," Native Daughters. During the rendition of the last number members of the Parlor marched around the tree, each depositing earth at its roots.

Has "Some" Cooks.

San Francisco—Hannah Barry became president of La Estrella 89 when the officers were installed by D.D.G.P. Helen Mann. Birdie Hartman, recording secretary, was tendered a valentine birthday party, the hall being appropriately decorated. Many unique games were played, prizes being awarded as follows: First, toy washboard, Past Grand President May C. Boldemann; second, toy furniture, D.D.G.P. Helen Mann; third, rattle, Alma Buhr. Home-made "eats" were served, and proved that La Estrella has "some" cooks. Secretary Hartman was the recipient of many gifts, and was completely surprised. The Parlor is now arranging a "big" time in celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary.

Cupid Busy.

Hollister—Washington's Birthday was fittingly celebrated by Copa de Oro 105 with an appropriate program, games and refreshments. A splendid evening was enjoyed by the large number in attendance. February 25 the Parlor celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of its institution by giving a big birthday party which was attended by a large number of members. The minutes of the first meeting of the Parlor were read. Following an enjoyable program refreshments, including a large cake with twenty-one candles, were served. During its twenty-one years of existence the Parlor has been responsible for many civic movements and has always been a credit to Hollister and San Benito County.

March 11 a class of five candidates was initiated. A kitchen shower was tendered Myrtle O'Connor Palmtag, a recent bride, to whom many useful gifts were presented. The banquet tables were prettily decorated with poppies and sprays of myrtle, in honor of the bride. Dame Rumor whispers that very soon wedding bells will ring for five more members of Copa de Oro.

Well Entertained.

Oroville—A membership contest in Gold of Ophir 190, of which Mrs. Edward Steadman was chairman, terminated March 16 with the initiation of an additional candidate. After the ceremonies the losers in the contest entertained; refreshments were served, and a musical program was rendered by Miss Alma Black, Miss Ellice Black and Mrs. Black.

Gold of Ophir's members were recently entertained at a dancing party given by Argonaut 8, N.S.G.W. The two Parlors went by special car to Chico, where they were the guests of Chico 21, N.S.G.W., at a dance and banquet; they declare the Chicoites splendid hosts.

Has Hard Times' Danes.

Byron—Donner 193 closed the winter season with a hard times' dance March 4; the "girls" came dressed in bungalow aprons, and the "boys" in overalls. A Livermore orchestra kept the dancers busy, and its cornetist, Vernon Sangmaster, entertained with two clever songs. At midnight the Parlor members served a supper which was pronounced royal. April 6 Donner will have a whist party for the benefit of the homeless children.

March 4, following the initiation of three candidates, the Parlor had a public card party. First prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Roht. Armstrong, and the "booby" to Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. Anna Frerichs of El Pescadero 82 (Tracy) was a welcome visitor at the initiation ceremonies.

Birthday Observed.

San Francisco—The anniversary of Alta 3 was fittingly observed March 12, the exact date of institution of the Parlor in the pioneer days of the Order. Seventy-five members, including twelve charter members and D.D.G.P. Mae Edwards, enjoyed a daintily-prepared banquet, which was supplemented by extempore speech-making and a general feeling of good-fellowship. The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Julia Hardesty, Annie Thuesen, Jennie Murphy, Emma Fraser, Belle Thompson, Nettie Low, Catherine Gately, Anida Bastian. Another of the Parlor's monthly whist parties will be given April 2. The Boosters' Committee of Alta for the get-together luncheon April 9 consists of Mary Howell of the executive committee; Isabel Pomeroy, representing the Past Presidents' Association; Past Grand Presidents Julia Steinbach and Margaret Hill; President Katherine O'Reilly and Past President Margaret Grant.

Applications Come Regularly.

Red Bluff—The annual Washington's Birthday ball given by Berendos 23 was a great social and financial success. The hall was tastefully decorated in garlands of smilax, acacia blooms and American flags. The meeting of March 1 was most enjoyable and, as is usual at most meetings recently, applications for membership were received. A musical program was presented and refreshments were served.

Out in Large Numbers.

Mountain View—A large crowd, including visitors from all nearby Parlors, was present at the March 4 meeting of El Monte 205, when several candidates were initiated and the officers installed by D.D.G.P. Mrs. Raymond Plamondon of San Jose. The Parlor presented a pair of cut-glass candlesticks to Mrs. Eldora McCarty, retiring president, a cut-glass vase to D.D.G.P. Plamondon, and hequets to Grand Trustee Mary F. Mitchell, Miss Gene Belloli, acting marshal, and Miss Nettie Collins, the newly-installed president.

Native Sons to a large number were permitted to witness the installation, and at the close of those ceremonies all invaded the beautifully-decorated banquet-room, where a splendid feast was enjoyed. Miss Nettie Collins, president El Monte Parlor, was toastmistress, and responses were made by the following: Native Sons—D.D.G.P. Roll, President Randall of Mountain View Parlor, Harry Hauser, Robley Morgan. Native Daughters—D.D.G.P. Plamondon, Grand Trustee Mitchell, Presidents Belloli of San Jose Parlor, McCrone of Vendome Parlor, Granger of Bonita Parlor, Doyle of Menlo Parlor.

Grand Vice-president Visits.

San Francisco—Officers of Twin Peaks 185 were publicly installed by D.D.G.P. May C. Nohle; after the ceremonies gifts and flowers were distributed, and then a social dance was enjoyed until midnight. Sickness preventing Grand President Bertha A. Briggs from making her official visit to this Parlor, Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Grand Vice-president, acted in her stead. She expressed herself as much pleased with the ritualistic work, and under "Good of the Order" gave a delightful talk. Many visitors were present, and the occasion was concluded with refreshments.

Dinner as Interest Producer.

Nevada City—Laurel 6 is active these days, and is initiating candidates right along. February 24 thirty members partook of a four-course banquet, in the form of a Kentucky treat. To increase interest, a dinner is to be a monthly feature.

District Deputy Visits.

Oakland—During March Piedmont 87 initiated four candidates, and several applicants are in waiting for the April class initiation. D.D.G.P. Nell Crowley visited the Parlor on the social night, and made an interesting address. Refreshments were served by the Birthday Committee, with Mrs. Harriet Emerson in charge of the evening. For the benefit of the Parlor's general fund, a theater party was given March 29 and the following night a whist party.

On the occasion of the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs there was a large attendance. Under the guidance of Jennie L. Jordan, the Parlor's silver anniversary celebration was a huge success; seven of the eight remaining charter members were in attendance. Piedmont has a splendid corps of officers, with Mrs. Margaret Canty as president, and is in a very prosperous condition.

Has Grand Parlor Officers Candidate.

San Francisco—Dolores 169, one of the most popular Parlors in this city, entertained Grand President Bertha A. Briggs on the occasion of her official visit March 9. This Parlor of energetic and enthusiastic young women holds the record of having turned into the homeless children's fund over $500, one of the largest sums from a single Parlor in the history of the Order. For the visit of the Grand President, always a gala event, the hall was beautifully decorated; all the officers were present, as well as fifty members, and the exemplification of the ritual was perfect in every detail. The Grand President showed her appreciation by her kind words of praise and commendation, and said that enthusiasm manifested itself in the spirit of good-fellowship which was evident at the meeting. Seventeen visitors were entertained, among them being D.D.G.P. Agnes McVerry.

Announcement was made that Dolores intends to place Miss Emma Jess, a past president and a member of the Past Presidents' Association, in the field for the office of Grand Trustee. She is a faithful worker, has represented the Parlor on all important committees, and is well known throughout the Order. After closing the meeting, Grand President Briggs and visitors retired to the banquet-hall, where tables were spread with many choice dainties. A gift of silver was presented to the Grand President, April 3 the Parlor, in conjunction with Dolores 208, N.S.G.W., will give a social and dance.

Tells of Order's Objects.

Fresno—On the occasion of her official visit to Fresno 187, Grand President Bertha A. Briggs was entertained at a banquet, which was well attended by members and visitors. She gave a very interesting talk on the Order's objects. As a reminder of her visit, the Grand President was presented with a silver spoon and a spray of silk poppies, the latter the handiwork of Organist Florence Clanton.

In Memory of Pioneers.

Redding—Hiawatha 140 celebrated Arbor Day by planting trees in memory of these Pioneers: Joseph H. Bailey, Alexander Andrews, Major P. B. Reading, Benjamin F. Swasey. For the city, the trees were accepted by Trustee Camills Brouillard. The following program was rendered: Selection, orchestra; piano solo, Thelma Alward; address, Laurence J. Kennedy; selection, orchestra.

All the Favorites Thers.

San Francisco—The married members of Golden State 50 entertained March 2 with this program: "Garibaldi Caruso," Italian opera singer, Emily Frank; "Baby Dotty Dimples," song, Ethel Abbott; "Robert Emmet" in an Irish ballad, accompanied by "Mrs. O'Shaunessy," Jennie Flick, Hattis Mullane; "Sis Hopkins" and "Buddie," specialties, Grace Carrick, Lillian Spillane; "Little Egypt," fancy dancing, Mamie Carrick; "Pick-aniny Sis" and "Tom Sawyer" in minstrel song and dance, Tina Wende, Adele Neumann. Refreshments were served.

FORTY-FOURTH GRAND PARLOR, N.S.G.W.

PRE-MEETING NEWS OF THE BIG STOCKTON GATHERING

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

ONDAY, APRIL 18, AT 10:30 A. M., the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will assemble in Stockton, San Joaquin County. Grand President James F. Hoey of Martinez will preside at all the sessions, which will be held in Masonic Auditorium. The Grand Parlor will be in session four days—Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

One faithful and valuable official of the Grand Parlor will not be at his accustomed post, Grand Secretary Fred H. Jung having transferred to the Grand Parlor on High, and he will be sadly missed. The afternoon of the opening day of the session the annual Lodge of Sorrow will be held, and impressive tributes paid all members of the Order who have passed on during the year.

Because the vacancy in the most important of all the Grand Parlor offices, the Grand Secretaryship, must be filled, is one reason why the Forty-fourth will be the most important Grand Parlor session in many years. The Board of Grand Officers made every effort to supply the vacancy with the "right" man, but was not successful because of the "system" prevailing and the inadequate salary provided for, and the Board had no power to increase the pay and could not assure election by the Grand Parlor of any one whom it may have selected. The result is, that this office, too, will be thrown into the "politics" of the Grand Parlor, unless the filling of the vacancy, by the best fitted man whose services are available at commensurate salary, is made the first order of business of the Grand Parlor and the selection brought about in committee of the whole after the qualification of all those suggested for the office—both announced and unannounced candidates—have been carefully considered from the viewpoint of the Order's best interests.

South San Francisco Parlor

No. 157, N.S.G.W.

Announces Candidacy of

JOHN T. REGAN

MEMBER GRAND PARLOR FINANCE COMMITTEE, PAST PRESIDENT, RECORDING SECRETARY OF PARLOR FOR FOURTEEN YEARS

—FOR—

GRAND SECRETARY
(STOCKTON GRAND PARLOR)

It cannot be successfully urged that this course is impossible because the law of the Order provides otherwise, for the Grand Parlor, being the law-making body, can provide the way. And this course, if followed, will be an injustice to no one concerned, will be eminently satisfactory to all Subordinate Parlor, and, best of all, assure the tendering of the office by the whole Grand Parlor to the one best and peculiarly fitted to render the expected service. If this course be not followed, the Grand Secretary will be selected after a campaign, and the office will go to the one able to line up the most votes on election day; it may be possible, too, that he will prove adequately qualified.

MEMBERSHIP

At the close of December 1920 the Subordinate Parlor had a total of 24,425 members, an increase for the calendar year 1920 of 1,507. For the same period, the assets of the Parlor increased $34,551.83 to a total of $969,420.28.

Between December 31, 1920, and the day in March when delegates were elected the Parlor made a further increase in membership. Returns to The Grizzly Bear show the total membership in March as 25,044. All Parlor did not supply the information requested, so the total was arrived at by crediting to non-reporting Parlor their membership December 31; had all reported, even a better increase could be recorded. The gain in membership for the first three months of 1920 is conservatively placed, therefore, at 519.

One Parlor had over 500 members at the close of the calendar year, and seven additional Parlor were in the 500-class. These, with their membership at

THREE IMPORTANT FEATURES

Make the Preferred Stock of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation Very Attractive to Conservative Investors

Non-Callable

When you buy the preferred stock of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation it is yours without reservation or restriction. The Corporation holds no option to repurchase such shares. In other words, this preferred stock is not subject to call, so that you profit by any advance in its market price—a provision which evidences full consideration for the preferred stockholder.

Cumulative

The permit under which the preferred stock of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is offered provides that dividends shall be paid quarterly and shall be cumulative. This, in substance means that even should any dividend period be passed, the dividend on the preferred stock constitutes an obligation of the Corporation and must be paid before any dividend can be paid on the common stock.

Priority

The preferred stock of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation holds priority over the common stock both as to dividends and assets. In other words, it has absolute priority and preference over common stock, even to the point that should liquidation occur the outstanding preferred stock and dividends due on it would constitute a first claim. Thus the most far-reaching provision has been made for the protection of the preferred stockholder.

This issue of preferred stock, authorized by the State Railroad Commission, is backed by the twenty-five-million-dollar plant of this Corporation. The fact that the Corporation has never in 27 years failed to pay a regular dividend and that its earning capacity is greater today than it has ever been, establishes the stability of the investment.

This stock has a par value of $100 per share. It is offered at $85 and will pay better than 7% on the amount invested, and may be converted into cash at any time.

If you desire further particulars they will be cordially furnished if you will call at Room 201 or telephone Main 8920 or 100-03 or fill out and mail the coupon.

AN OLD-FASHIONED GARDEN

(MAY C. LASSEN.)

AS THE SWEETLY BLUSHING AND UN-sophisticated girl of the past is deemed old-fashioned and out-of-date, in this, "our great age of speed," so, likewise, are our many beautiful flowers, which not so very long ago adorned our gardens in profusion everywhere. They, too, are now dubbed "old-fashioned and out-of-date," and are rarely seen anywhere, save in some of the country towns throughout the state.

Where are the beds of the fragrant mignonette? Where are the delicately scented wall-flowers, with their varied tinted colors of dark reddish browns to golden yellows, wonderfully attractive to the eyes of their beholders? Gone are the thickly planted beds of candy-tuft, white as the gleaming snows of winter, and the dainty lobelia, lifting their tiny blue and white beads to the bluest of skies, while nodding gracefully in the soft breezes of the early spring. Departed from our gardens are the bleeding-hearts, that once amazed us with their wonderful beauty, hanging mathematically on slender stems while whispering a pathetic story in the language of flowers.

And oh, what has become of our glorious bolly-hocks? Not only were they in single and double flower, but of every hue of the rainbow! They would grow taller and taller, away up and over the stone walls and fences, while the humming-birds and the busy bees sipped honey from their silky petals all summer long. The finely perfumed china-pinks, the many and variegated sweet-williams and the much-beloved heliotrope are no longer cultivated as of yore.

But now at last, but not least, why have we so shamefully neglected our dear old garden daisies, that at one time bordered our old-fashioned garden-paths and were always seen in our parks? Occasionally one will find them in some little old country town, white, white and pink, or red! They have been almost forgotten in the introduction of the former field-daisies which were brought into the gardens, fostered, and then called "marguerites," and have been of recent years so highly cultivated that they grow to a phenomenal size and are today known as the "Shasta daisy."

Still, by all lovers of the old-fashioned daisy or bachelor-button, the original daisy will always be cherished, for did we not all love it in our childhood, pluck it, and make daisy-chains to adorn our little selves with?

"Old-fashioned and out-of-date they may be,
But bring ever vividly back to me

HISTORIC TREE SPOT TO*BE MARKED BY N. S. WITH TABLET.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, through its Historic Landmarks Committee, will, as soon as the road is opened, place an enduring bronze tablet at the summit of Kit Carson Pass, across the Sierra Nevadas, to mark the spot where stood a tree which bore the carved name and date inscribed by Kit Carson, famous scout and fighter, when, in 1844, he led Colonel John C. Fremont and a Government exploration expedition across the mountains. The tablet bears this inscription:

"On this spot, which marks the summit of the Kit Carson Pass, stood what is known as the Kit Carson tree on which the famous scout, Kit Carson, inscribed his name in 1844, when he guided the then John C. Fremont, head of a Government exploring expedition, over the Sierra Nevada mountains. Above is a replica of the original inscription cut from the tree in 1888 and now in Sutter Fort, Sacramento."

Above the inscription is a replica of a section of the tree, showing the "blazed" surface upon which Carson himself carved his name and the date.

The plan of the Native Sons of the Golden West to mark the Kit Carson Pass road, by way of Jackson, Amador County, has been acclaimed by Californians generally, and motorists particularly, as it is considered to be one of the most picturesque roadways in the high Sierras and one of deep sentimental interest to everyone familiar with the history of this state. It is but carrying out the Order's policy of marking all the state's historic spots.

The Kit Carson Pass road, known as the road between Jackson and Silver Lake, passes through a country of unusual scenic beauty and numbers many points of distinct historic interest, including old stations, graves and camping sites which since have figured in pioneer-day tales and narratives. At times it crosses altitudes reaching 8,600 feet.

YOSEMITE PARLOR NATIVE SONS*NOT AMONG THE "DEAD" ONES.

Merced—April 19 Yosemite Parlor, No. 24, N.S. G.W., will hold its annual "Los Banos night" gathering in honor of its many members residing there. A "big" time is promised, Frank Cirimele, Robert Puccinelli, Robert Thomas and Joe L. Degregori composing the Los Banos committee. The main feature of the evening will be the initiation of a large class of candidates, among them several of the little city's most prominent businessmen.

Immediately following the Parlor ceremonials, an elaborate banquet will be served, high-class entertainers from San Francisco furnishing entertainment during the discussion of the menu. There will also be a program of speaking. Judge Hubert R. McNoble of Stockton, Past Grand President, will speak on "Native Sonism," and Sol P. Elias (Modesto 11) of Modesto, who has contributed several Stanislaus County history articles to The Grizzly Bear, will address the newly-elected members. A. P. Giannini (Stanford 76) of San Francisco, president Bank of Italy, is down on the program, too, with several others, including grand officers.

Yosemite Parlor is always to the front in civic matters. Recently it requested of the Bank of Italy, through a committee composed of I. H. Reuter and D. K. Stoddard, that an attractive electric sign, similar to the one over the Modesto branch, be placed above the Merced branch. In responding, President Giannini said: "As a Native Son and an admirer of the Order, I shall be pleased to recommend the installation of such a sign—on one condition, however—that before ordering the work to proceed you induce our estimable manager, Emmett T. Cunningham, to become a member of your Parlor." Merced's going to have that sign, for Cunningham will be among those initiated a member of Yosemite Parlor at Los Banos April 9.

CONFER ON IMPORTANT MATTERS AFFECTING ORDER'S WELFARE.

GRAND PRESIDENT JAMES F. HOEY called a conference for February 26 of grand officers and Past Grand Presidents and others active in the Order in San Francisco and vicinity. The meeting was held in Native Sons' Building, San Francisco, and was well attended.

In opening the conference, the Grand President stated its purpose was to discuss various matters of importance, and he expressed the hope that out of it would come a course of action which would bring to the Order definite results. His main object in calling the conference, he said, was to get the Order's course so fixed that his successor in office may have an unobstructed opportunity to put his plans into operation immediately upon installation.

There were many addresses, the speakers voicing their opinions and offering suggestions. The result of the conference was the authorization of Grand President Hoey to appoint committees to investigate several perplexing questions in which the Order's welfare is involved, with the purpose in view of having satisfactory legislation enacted at the Stockton Grand Parlor.

Among the few who unburdened themselves regarding the Order's progress and projects, and the several who participated in the discussion following, were: Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, Junior Past Grand President William P. Cauhu, Acting Grand Secretary Louis H. Mooser, Past Grand President John F. Davis, Clarence M. Hunt, Rush Bronson, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, Charles L. McEnery, Historiographer Frank C. Merritt, Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Senator John Nelson, Grand Trustee Charles A. Thompson, Stanley McGovern, Grand Trustee Arthur Deau, Frank Buckley, Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin.—C.M.H.

Nearly $2,000 for Homeless Children.

Fresno—Chaperoned by Secretary A. J. Turner and accompanied by a good-sized delegation, the officers of Stockton 7 came down by auto March 8 and exemplified the ritual for a large class of candidates rounded up by Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker for Fresno 25. The visitors were the Parlor's guests at a splendid supper banquet prior to the meeting, which was largely attended. The ritual was exemplified in letter perfect manner, and these officers of Stockton Parlor, who participated, were showered with deserved compliments: M. J. Foley, P.; Thomas Averie, Jr.P.P.; Harry Hermann, Sr.P.P.; Ernest Pool, IV.P.; Ivan Houlst, 2V.P.; Julius Gaedtker, 3V.P.; W. P. Rothenbush, M.; Len Shepherd, I.S. Music for the ritual was furnished by Will Isel, piano, and George Richardson, drums, also of Stockton Parlor.

Fresno Parlor's drive for funds for the homeless children was a wonderful success, netting $1,625—breaking the record, it is thought, for the contribution of any one Parlor. F. M. Lane was in charge, and had the assistance of the membership in general, the Native Daughters, and the school-children. How'd they do it? Why, by selling California's beautiful golden poppy for the benefit of a price-less asset of the state—her homeless children.

Native, Named by Parlor, Initiated.

St. Helena—At a largely-attended meeting of St. Helena 53 March 7, Marshall Philo Grant was initiated. The event was of peculiar interest, for at the time of his birth, eighteen years ago, his father, P. S. Grant, a past president, consented to having the Parlor give him a name, and that of Marshall was chosen, in honor of the gold discoverer, and the boy was presented with a loving cup, which he still cherishes. It is believed this is the first time in the Order's history such a thing has occurred, and so the following past presidents exemplified the ritual: Walter Metzner, P.; Louis Vasconio, Jr.P.P.; Julius Goodman, Sr.P.P.; Everett Risley, IV.P.; Albert Griffith, 2V.P.; Arthur Forni, 3V.P.; Edwin L. Paulson, M.; Jake Goodman, I.S.; Warren Steves, O.S.; E. L. Bonhate, R.S.; Chas. A. Davis, P.S.; H. J. Giugni, T. After a splendid supper, addresses pertinent to the occasion were made by Past Grand President Bismarck Bruck, D.D.G.P. Felix Salmina and the initiate's father, Philo S. Grant.

In April St. Helena Parlor will have a class initiation, and at that time the officers and past presidents will contest for ritual honors, the winners to be supper guests of the losers. The past presidents' team has received and accepted an invitation to exemplify the ritual at a class initiation soon to be held by Calistoga 86.

"Monty" Tells 'Em.

Elk Grove—A stag party March 11 occasioned the largest attendance in the history of Elk Grove 41. Members and visitors made up the crowd, Sunset 26 (Sacramento), Courtland 106, Sutter Fort 241 (Sacramento) and Galt 243 being largely represented. Local and Sacramento talent furnished the evening's entertainment, and at midnight a buffet lunch was served.

Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde delivered a very impressive address on "What the Native Sons Are Doing for California," and among the other speakers were Wm. Bates (Sunset 26), G. H. Berthaud (Berkeley 210) and G. G. Foulks (Elk Grove 41).

Reception for Grand Officers.

San Francisco—At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Grizzly Bear Club, which occupies the entire top floor of Native Sons' Building, 414 Mason street, these officers were elected for the ensuing year: Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel, president; Judge James G. Conlan, vice-president; Edward Tietjen, secretary; Edward Barton, treasurer.

The night of Saturday, April 16, the club will have a reception in honor of Grand President James F. Hoey and other grand officers, and delegates to the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor. A large attendance is anticipated, as many will be in San Francisco on their way to Stockton. All members of the Order are invited, and a "big" time is promised.

Sebastopol Outpulls Santa Rosa.

Sebastopol—Sebastopol 143 recently entertained the Parlors of Sonoma County at a get-together meeting. The affair was of a social nature, the principal entertainment feature being a return tug-of-war contest between teams of Santa Rosa 28 and Sebastopol Parlors. Previously the local huskies had outpulled their neighbor brothers at Santa Rosa, and brought home a beautiful loving-cup; so, Santa Rosa sent over a large delegation to boost its team and to help carry back the eup. After a 30-minute pull, however, the Sebastopolians were declared victors again, and will retain undisputed possession of the eup. The local team, which is confident it can outpull any team within a radius of fifty miles, consists of O. A. McChristian, Geo. Ragle, Perry Sullivan, E. R. McChristian, E. F. Sharp and Grand Marshal Hubert B. Seudder (captain).

After this contest there were several good boxing bouts, and vaudeville entertainers brought over from Santa Rosa put a lively finish to an enjoyable program. Then followed a sumptuous repast, and talks. It was a wonderful evening (and morning), and the many who participated are looking forward to the next county reunion.

Liberal Contribution to Good Cause.

Redding—To assist the local committee in raising funds to carry on the work of the Japanese Exclusion League of California, McCloud 149 gave all the proceeds—$123—of its annual Washington's Birthday dance to the cause.

Capture the Prizes.

San Diego—In the monster pageant parade held February 22 in connection with the annual spring frolic day celebration, both San Diego 108 and San Diego 208, N.D.G.W., were represented, the former being awarded first prize and the latter second prize. The Native Sons' entry included two pack-mules led by a miner completely outfitted as in days of old; following came a prairie schooner and the original stagecoach used in the early '50s on the coast run, with bucheiros on either side. The Native Daughters had an auto beautifully decorated with flowers and containing four members costumed in white. The prize-winners were lustily cheered along the route of march.

The annual benefit ball recently given for the homeless children's fund by both Parlors was very successful, both socially and financially. Already plans are being made for next year's benefit, which will be held on Shrove Tuesday; special entertainment features will be introduced.

San Diego Parlor of Native Sons initiated a class of six recently, the newly-installed officers exemplifying the ritual, for the first time, in a very creditable manner. Initiation will be an event one meeting night each month in future, and several large classes are in prospect.

Makes 34% Gain.

San Francisco—James Lick 242 has gone over the top in the campaign to bring its membership past the 151-mark, and thus will have a third delegate at the Stockton Grand Parlor. Thirty-eight additional members have been enrolled, representing a 34% increase. The "boys" have not ceased their efforts with this fine showing, and expect to have the Parlor in the 200-membership class by June 30.

Officers Installed.

Oakdale—D.D.G.P. Chester W. Conklin of Stockton installed these officers of Oakdale 142 February 28: William Meyer, Jr.P.P.; Hugh Appling, P.; Carl Muheim, IV.P.; E. C. Wood, 2V.P.; M. F. McNamara, 3V.P.; Will Gray, M.; C. C. Byington, I.S.; Adm Ferreira, O.S. Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker addressed the Parlor, and a banquet was enjoyed.

Ball a Success.

Quincy—The masquerade ball given by Quincy 131 February 21 was a complete success in every particular, and brought out a good crowd of merry-makers. At midnight supper was served, and dancing was continued until the early morning hours.

Banner Presented Legion.

Tracy—Tracy 186 at a recent open meeting presented a silk banner to the local post of the American Legion, McDermott, No. 172. At the conclusion of Past President D. J. Looney's presentation address, Paul Sorensen, sergeant-at-arms of the Legion, received the banner from Frank Schultz, president of the Parlor; the address of acceptance was made by Chaplain E. C. Woodruff. A musical program was presented, and at the close of the presentation ceremonies dancing was enjoyed. During the evening Peter Knowlberg, a G. A. R. veteran, had Secretary Marraccini of the Parlor call the names of the officers of the local Legion post, and as each responded he was presented with an American Flag; he told them to do in future as they and he had done in the past—keep the best flag in the world proudly floating in the breeze.

March 10 Tracy Parlor initiated a class of nine candidates. A delegation of fifty was present from Las Positas 96 (Livermore), and its team exemplified that Parlor's "side degree" to the delight of the 110 members in attendance. Visitors were also on hand from Stockton, San Jose and San Francisco. After a program of speeches, in which C. L. McEnery (James Lick 242) was the shining light, a splendid banquet was served.

Grand President Entertained.

Sutter Creek—At the joint installation of officers of Amador 17 and Amapola 80, N.D.G.W., February 18, the guest of honor was Grand President James F. Hoey of Martinez. D.D.G.P. Laura G. Butler and D.D.G.P. William Case officiated during the installation ceremonies.

Grand President Hoey delivered an eloquent and instructive address, which was listened to with great interest by the large company present, and was followed by Past Grand President Clarence E. Jarvis and the district deputies. At midnight over 100 members from all parts of Amador County sat down to a turkey and ravioli banquet prepared by members of Anapola Parlor. The banquet room was appropriately decorated in patriotic colors; music and games completed a most enjoyable evening.

To Exemplify Proposed New Ritual.

Oakland—The Grand Parlor Ritual Committee, with the assistance of a team from San Francisco Assembly, No. 1, P.P.A., will exemplify a proposed new ritual for the Order at Athens 195 April 5. The affair will be under the auspices of East Bay Counties Assembly, No. 3, P.P.A., which has a committee composed of R. B. Felton, J. J. Dignan and G. Barnett arranging details.

Class of Twelve Initiated.

Halfmoon Bay—Seaside 195 is making fine progress, and Secretary Alvin S. Hatch says it will not be long until the 100-mark in membership is topped. Recently a class of twelve was initiated, the following officers of Redwood 66 (Redwood City) exemplifying the ritual: Harold Hexner, P.; H. W. Lampkin, Jr.P.P.; A. S. Liguori, Sr.P.P.; Stanley Marcus, IV.P.; Charles Curran, 2V.P.; Charles Rockwell, 3V.P.; Erid Coats, M. Members of Vista Del Mar 155, N.D.G.W., furnished the entertainment, which consisted of musical numbers and an initiation "stunt" in which the Misses Agnes Gilcrest, Agnes Gonzales and Louisa Pitcher took prominent parts. Delicious refreshments were served.

Seaside's officers, installed by D.D.G.P. A. S. Liguori of Redwood City and D.D.G.P. Wm. I. Forrest of Oakland, include: Ed. Gonzales, P.; John Bettencourt, IV.P.; Harry Nelson, 2V.P.; Joe Gravance, 3V.P.; Joe George, M.; Lock Nelson, I.S.; F. T. Cunha, O.S.; Alvin S. Hatch, Sec.; Ed. Albrecht, P. M. Gonzales, H. C. Hall, Trs.; Dr. W. A. Brookes, Sr.P.P.; Fred Albrecht, Jr.P.P.

Treated to Convincing Eloquence.

Oroville—Argonaut S's members enjoyed a real talk-treat March 2 when C. L. McEnerney of San Francisco told them of the Order's aims and accomplishments. A big banquet, which followed initiation of a class of candidates, was the occasion. It was an occasion that will long be remembered—a dual feast—for the mind and for the stomach—and the eloquent speaker convinced all his hearers that membership in the Order was something to be exceedingly proud of. The Parlor has voted to plant five trees along the Oroville lateral of the state highway.

Triple Affair Largely Attended.

Fort Bragg—Everybody, for miles around, was invited to the "big time" of Alder Glenn 200 and Fort Bragg 200, N.D.G.W., February 19, and many were the responses. It was a triple affair—a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Clay, newly-weds; the occasion for the furling of Alder Glenn's service flag, and a welcome to the thirty-three recruits rounded up in that Parlor's membership drive. Dancing and cards were provided, and also a sumptuous supper, served from a flower-bedecked table in the center of which was a wonderful bride's cake.

A girls' chorus opened the program with "In an Old-fashioned Garden"; then Prof. Smith spoke eloquently of the Order's flags and touched briefly upon the significance of the Stars and Stripes and the State (Bear) Flag in the work of the Parlor. Attention was then called to the service flag, with its blue stars, each with a name embroidered underneath; as the names were read each was given hearty applause, with an extra gusto for Leslie Clay, soldier of love as well as of war. Escorted by Lucian Carlson, he joined his bride, who was accompanied by Mrs. Scheper; the happy couple were then presented with two beautiful gifts, and loads of good wishes from both Parlor; on behalf of his bride and himself, Clay acknowledged appreciation for the reception. After the assemblage had rendered "The Star Spangled Banner," Elmer Nielsen, president Alder Glenn Parlor, furling the service flag, and the program concluded with "I Love You, California," beautifully sung by Miss Etta Stubbs.

Entertains Grand Officers.

San Francisco—April 9 Bay City 104, one of the "live" Parlor which is going ahead in splendid manner, was pleased to entertain past and present grand officers. Grand Organist Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel, a past president of the Parlor, presided, and Past President Max E. Licht delivered the wel-

LINGERIE FROCKS ARE NOW THOUGHT of, and long sleeves, narrow at the wrist, mark some of the new ones.

Imported organdie dresses, which are promised to wash and retain their original crispness, are found adorable. Some have fobus and turn-back cuffs of hand-embroidered batiste and filet lace.

Another charming novelty shows plaited aprons with back and front of striped handkerchief linen in white and color to match the frock, the waist being outlined by a wide, crepe ribbon pulled through hand-embroidered button-holes. Another model has French voile in Chinese blue-and-white horizontal inch stripes hanging in bird-cage effects over an underslip of white organdie. The outer voile is caught at the waist line under a ribbon sash, knotted with blossoms, while about the hips it stands out sharply in a corded hoop effect.

Black organdie frocks are extremely modish. They are made up with entire tunics of black lace, tiny platings and ruchings, and are worn over white crepe slips, with white slippers and hose. With a wide-brimmed black picture hat of organdie, trimmed with flowers of the same and a brilliant gay Oriental parasol, what could be more summery and smart?

Some of the very last style notes show that very wide belts, with large square buckles, are worn with the new slip-on sweaters, matching in shade the contrasting colors.

Separate petals of millinery roses are scattered, face up, underneath a sheer white or orchid colored organdie and basted in place by a darning stitch in heavy silk floss.

Foundations of brilliant contrasting colors show through the eyelet embroideries of big button-holes, which are found in many of the taffeta frocks.

The new sand lynx caracal in various shades, squirrel, mole and fox are all being made up into captivating light-weight summer wraps and scarfs, besides forming high, wide collars on the majority of the latest wraps. A big, soft bow is posed in back, a little to one side, on some of the new high collars.

You simply cannot have too many capes—of brushed wool, angora, satin, or tricollete. Dolmans and butterfly sleeved coats are now so smart. A new coat is of light tan twill, cut semi-fitted to the low hip line. Embroideries of self-colored soutache braid are set on a very full circular tunic, which falls below the knees.

Change of national administration has brought many new colors into the shops, such as Harding lavender, a lustrous orchid; Marion blue, which is between electric and sapphire in tone; Coolidge gray, clear and cool, and Coolidge blue, which hovers between midnight and marine.

Gray and navy blue promise, it is said, to be the leading spring colors, as well as brown in its varying shades, while black is most popular for dress wear. Vivid colorings, so lovely and becoming and so desired by all women to give life and tone to the wardrobe, are to be confined more to sports wear and informal occasions.

Orange crepe lines the loose panels of a brown Moroccan crepe. Bright royal blue, jade, henna, rose and mandarin yellow are all favorites. Applique effects of leather and contrasting materials trim some of the latest models.

It is not a far cry from evening gowns to bathing suits and the rubber-lined, brush-wool capes. The frivolous little two-toned satin bathing suits, with their short scalloped or vandyked skirts, show glimpses of short bloomers covered with fringed ruchings of the same. The brilliant little celluloid or rubber fruits and blossoms, which trim bodice and cap, all speak of an especially pleasing beach picture.

To some, the coat dress is decidedly an all-around style made to please and fit almost any woman. Such frocks are often made up in taffeta and are effective for the stout when planned on long lines, and are very attractive to youth when slightly frilled.

Although skirts are neat and trim, one may select any one of the many fancy jackets. The eton, for example, which is not only smart but picturesque, or the "coolie" coat, which is very stylish. There are, of course, many novelties, but those are best avoided, unless one has the price to cater to whims.

Every woman, tall or short, fat or slender, loves a sash, and this year that love is satisfied by the gypsyish charm of a knotted, low, hip-line scarf heavily fringed and brilliant in color. Visions of Carmen come when the corsetless, graceful girl of today, with her high heels, fluttering plaits, ruffles and tossing fringes, goes flashing by.

Fancy hose for dress occasions seems to be about the only thing possible this year. No matter if the hosiery be black or colorful, the lace stripe, the lace insets and the fancy weaves are alluring. For every-day wear, plain or drop-stitch stockings are in vogue, but if one would be absolutely "right" the party hose must be elaborate.

Lace hats in black and brown are especially liked for dress wear, but with the afternoon gowns crepe and fancy braids, and for sports clothes and gingham hats of the same material or of novelty basket straws and raffia, bound about the edges with ribbons. Crush hats of embroidered silks or wide belting ribbons are especially smart. Rough effects in fanciful weaves, which are very artistic and becoming, are found rivaling the ever-popular Milan.

Leghorns, tuscan straw and the sheer horse-hair are among the most popular for dressy hats. Smartly tailored are the high-crowned sailors and tricorne, in which browns, grays, and a deep purple seem to be favorites. Within the last few days, a few in gay sealing-wax red have appeared. Raffia, combined with silk chenille and wooden beads, makes an attractive trimming on a wide-brimmed hat.

A SKIRT-WAIST QUERY.

When I was a lad, about 'steven years ago, Women wore skirts clear down to the toe. And when I was a youth, with casual eye, Smart skirts were cut about ankle high. At thirty, I noted they exposed about half, Or, to speak with frankness, hung to the calf. Now that I'm forty, they're up to the knee. If at sixty I'm spared, how high will they be?

While the trend of skirts has been higher and higher, It is now about waists I'd like to inquire. As years have sped by they've grown lower and lower, Making Queen Cleopatra look slower and slower. Now, this is my query—hope it's not indiscreet: How long will it be 'til the two extremes meet? —John H. Miller, in Sunday News.

come address. Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker, who was installing officer when the Parlor was instituted, told of that occasion; Past Grand President Judge John F. Davis gave one of his usual eloquent and forceful talks, and was followed by Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Grand Trustee Edward J. Lyueh, D.D.G.P. Mazzini and Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242), all of whom spoke enthusiastically of the Order. Refreshments were served, and an interesting vaudeville program carried out.

April 15 Bay City Parlor will celebrate its thirty-fourth institution anniversary with a ball at Native Sons' Building.

Plenty of "Pep."

Suisun—These officers of Solano 39 have been installed by D.D.G.P. John J. McCarron: J. A. Wing, P.P.; Lloyd Grotheer, P.; Leslie Gordon, I.V.P.; Howard Goosen, 2.V.P.; Warren Burrell, 3.V.P.; Albert Bransford, M.; J. J. McCarron, Sec.; E. E. Long, T.; Percy Neitzel, O.S.; Herbert Roland, I.S.; A. C. Tillman Sr., Tr.

At a banquet which followed, remarks were made by E. E. Long and Dan H. White. The Parlor is progressing favorably, there being plenty of "pep," and several new members have been added to the rolls.

California Entertains Sea Pointers.

Sausalito—Shortly after the 1906 San Francisco catastrophe Sea Point 158 came into possession of a large photo of the charter members of California 1; it was later presented to the oldest Parlor, and a close friendship between the two Parlor sprang up. February 17 California invited Sea Point's members to be its guests, and forty responded, and were royally entertained. Officers of the visiting Parlor exemplified the ritual in a creditable manner. Among the big crowd in attendance were several grand officers. Many addresses, touching upon the Order and the state's history, were delivered, and some good stories related.

Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald, who is also treasurer of San Francisco, in the course of a talk on finances said there was enough coin in the city's coffers to build a solid wall twenty feet high and eight feet thick from the Ferry to the Cliff House. This reminded F. A. Fiedler of the small schoolboy who, when his father remarked his school report was not very good, said it was his dad's fault. "What have I to do with it?" queried the father. "Well," said the boy, "when I asked you what a million is, you said 'It is a hell of a pile,' and the teacher says that is not the correct answer."

It was midnight when the gay party broke up, and California was declared a host that "knows how." Sea Point has asked California's members to be its guests in April, and arrangements are being made to entertain a big crowd.

Save the Redwoods.

Oakland—At its meeting March 3, Piedmont 120 passed a resolution favoring the passage by the Legislature of a bill which carries an appropriation of $300,000 with which to purchase groves of Redwoods along the state highway in Humboldt County. Unless action is taken these magnificent trees, among the state's greatest natural assets and of

DANDRUFF REMEDY

CACTUS CURE KILLS DANDRUFF

Dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp are ailments of civilization; but relief may be had by turning to Nature's Product, CACTUS CURE. There would be no bald-headed people if they had not had dandruff, but this does not mean that even all those who are afflicted with dandruff are doomed to be bald, at least not since the discovery of CACTUS CURE.

This preparation is one of Nature's products. POSITIVELY CONTAINS NOTHING INJURIOUS, and if applied to the skin or scalp for any burning or itching sensation, will give INSTANT RELIEF.

NATIVE SON NEWS

wonderful scene value, will be destroyed through lumbering operations.

(Editor's Note—Resolutions of similar import were passed by every Parlor of Native Sons and Native Daughters the past month, and copies sent members of the Legislature and state officials.)

The Parlor's thirty-third anniversary was celebrated with a dance and entertainment in the Auditorium. A rattling good time was enjoyed by the big crowd in attendance. The affair also brought to a close the membership campaign, and prizes were awarded.

Looks Good for New Home.

Palo Alto—The committee recently appointed by Palo Alto 216—E. A. Hettinger, Frank D. Moore, George W. Tinney—to consider the advisability and feasibility of the Parlor erecting its own home feels greatly encouraged and will likely make a favorable report. It is now the intention, should Palo Alto be awarded the 1923 Grand Parlor, to dedicate the home at that time, and also to dedicate the Palo Alto Tree monument. E. P. Cashel, representing the Parlor in the Chamber of Commerce, reports things look good for the construction of a large, first-class, much-needed hotel in this city in the near future.

The Parlor's baseball team, under the guidance of President I. P. Vandervoort, started the season by trimming the Redmen in a close game March 13; the team is in fine condition. The league season opens April 3, and some good games are looked forward to.

"Veterans" Are Top-liners.

Oakland—Claremont 240 celebrated its thirteenth birthday anniversary February 18, the affair proving a gala occasion for both the older and younger members. Following the regular meeting, which was full of "pep," the Good of the Order requested members and visitors to adjourn to the banquet room, where a fine repast was enjoyed. Then the chairman of the evening called upon the Parlor's "veterans," and their remarks were well received; the address of George Clark, instrumental in organizing Claremont, was given special attention, as he reviewed the Parlor's progress from the time of institution to the present, and related incidents forgotten even by the old-timers.

In Pete Carroll, Claremont has a president overflowing with "pep" and enthusiasm. If record-breaking progress is not made during his term it will not be his fault. Watch Claremont's stride in running up its membership.

PERSONAL MENTION.

A new native daughter was added to the family of Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynch and wife of San Francisco February 25.

Ed. Van Vranken (Stockton 7), District Attorney of San Joaquin County, is the proud "daddy" of a native son, born in February.

R. R. Veale (General Winn 32) of Martinez, Sheriff Contra Costa County, made a trip last month to Sydney, Australia, on official business.

Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10) of San Francisco, Assistant Grand Secretary, was a visitor to Stockton last month, arranging for Grand Parlor.

William H. Waste (Berkeley 210) of Berkeley, Presiding Justice First District Court of Appeal, delivered a lecture on "California and the Early Missions" at Stockton March 20.

Charles A. Root (Sacramento 3) of Sacramento, Recorder of Sacramento County, has for the sixth consecutive time been re-elected secretary-treasurer of the state organization of county recorders.

Grand Organist Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel of San Francisco is receiving the hearty congratulations of his friends because of the conferring upon him of the "Order of the Crown of Siam" by the king.

Judge W. A. Beasley (Observatory 177) of San Jose, who resigned from the Superior Court bench of Santa Clara County the first of the year, with Mrs. Beasley has started on an extended trip around the world.

BLACK WALNUT TREES FOR MEMORIALS.

Planting of black walnut trees as memorials to soldiers is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is pointed out that the black walnut played a valiant part in the world war. The wood was used for gunstocks and airplane propellers, and the nutshells contributed carbon for gas masks, while the kernels were used in many delicacies for the boys in the trenches. Demand for the wood for war purposes depleted the number of fine old trees, and this method is suggested for filling their places.

HUNDRED YEAR OLD NATIVE PASSES

(CHARLES J. PRUDHOMME.)

FEBRUARY 10 THERE DIED AT SAN Gabriel Mission, at the age of 100 years, a Christian Indian concerning whom much that was not fact appeared in the daily papers, which also failed to record his correct name. A short time previous to his demise—June 28, 1920, to be exact,—the writer interviewed this person, known as "Santos," and secured from his own lips the following concerning his parents and life:

Jose de los Santos Junques was the son of Jose Ugenio Junques and Maria Valencia Mocha, both members of the San Juanenos tribe. They were married at Mission San Juan Capistrano, in Orange County on the state highway between Los Angeles and San Diego, where the father was engaged as a shoemaker, having learned that trade at the mission. They had a family of six boys and four girls. In 1817 the family moved to the Pueblo of Los Angeles, where "Santos" was born on the day of the feast of the innocents, December 28, 1820. The event occurred at the Indian Village, situated on what is now Aliso street, between Alameda street and the Aliso, or sycamore tree, a landmark of the pueblo days that stood where Maier's brewery now stands.

At the age of 14 (in 1834) "Santos" accompanied his father to Capistrano Mission, and described the country traversed as unsettled and the soil uncultivated, with numerous cattle, horse and sheep roaming over the grassy plains. Following El Camino Real, they passed the Rancho de San Antonio, then owned by Don Antonio Maria Lugo; crossing the San Gabriel River at Paso de Corruna, they came to Los Nietos, a small settlement of farming "paisanos;" a short distance beyond was El Llano Verde, the year-round green valley a little south of where Whittier now stands; further on they came to a place at a later date known as Los Coyotes; then, proceeding up the Santa Ana River, past the Don Bernardo Yorba rancho, they finally arrived at the mission. After a week's rest they returned to Los Angeles, where but a few adobe houses stood on the north side of the Plaza church.

In 1835 the family removed to San Gabriel Mission, where the mother, father and all the children passed away. "Santos" never married, and when asked why he had never taken unto himself a wife said, "It is cheaper to care for one than for two. By being single I kept myself out of many troubles. Had I been matched, some other Indian might have come along and stolen my wife."

In the course of the interview, "Santos" recalled the fact that in those days there were some Indians villages in the vicinity of San Gabriel Mission: At Santa Anita, later known as "Lucky" Baldwin's ranch; near the spring, later known as Don Benito Wilson's place; just across the street, south of the old San Gabriel church; at San Pasqual, near the spring, now known as South Pasadena. The tribe inhabiting these villages was known as Gabrelinos. He remembered Padre Tomas Esterne, much loved in his day, and stated that at the mission the Indian men were taught practical farming and the trades of carpenter, silversmith and blacksmith, while the girls were taught housework, needlework, etc. He stated he never drank liquor, but confessed that he had gambled at pion and pique, Indian games. He had worked as a page for Don Benito Wilson, and later for Colonel Kewen and Judge Volney E. Howard.

Jose de los Santos Junques, after living more than a century, died February 10, 1921, and some of his own race bore his remains to the burial ground near San Gabriel Mission where, with full ceremonies of the Catholic church, they were laid to rest in consecrated ground beside those of many of his kindred who had long since passed away. The night before his passing he said, "I am tired now," and retired to his couch, for his final, long sleep. His having lived far beyond the allotted span, his freedom from sickness, and his quiet passing, give proof to the contention that it is well to live an honest, quiet, peaceful life.

NOTABLE EXERCISES FOR

U. S. C. COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA has attained the respectable age of forty years, and may be regarded as the pioneer institution of higher learning of the great southwest. It has come up through its "critical period," surviving many vicissitudes, until this year its student body numbers 5,000, being second only to the great University of California at Berkeley. Its expansion has kept pace with the phenomenal growth of Los Angeles.

During commencement week of this year—beginning June 19—the university will present a notable series of exercises in connection with the dedication of the great George Finley Bovard administration building, which is now receiving its finishing touches. These will include the baccalaureate sermon by Bishop A. W. Leonard, a great organ recital, rendition of the oratorio "The Creation," dedication of James Harmon Hoose hall of philosophy and of Thomas Blanchard Stowell hall of education, greetings from educational leaders, addresses by specialists, and the president's reception, all culminating in commencement exercises in Exposition Park, June 23.

Perhaps the most significant educational development of the year has been the phenomenal expansion of the newly-organized College of Commerce and Business Administration. This year upwards of 550 students have enrolled in the regular classes of the day and evening divisions. The college has received the hearty endorsement of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and of financial and business houses. Its four-year course leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration. The ideal is to combine liberality of culture with mastery of technique and true social vision. The enthusiastic response is such as to indicate that within a few years the commerce students will be numbered not by hundreds but by thousands, and the University of Southern California will have one of the strongest and most successful colleges of commerce in the United States. Certainly the university is to be commended for thus meeting the future needs of the community and of the Golden State, of which it is a worthy product.

SEE "THE MISSION PLAY" FIRST.

"The Mission Play" by John Steven McGroarty tells the story of the birth of the great southwest. The Spanish padres, led by Father Junipero Serra, were not only the pioneers of Christianity, but also the first captains of industry, commerce and agriculture. The first irrigation dam of the southwest was built by the Franciscans in 1774—the first irrigation project in America. This dam may still be seen at River Gap, six miles east of the Mission San Diego de Aleala. From the dam the padres built a brick ditch extending about one mile down the canyon, and from there an earthen ditch extending throughout the valley for almost twenty-five miles. This system irrigated the palm, olive and pepper trees which the padres planted from seed brought from Spain, and the vineyards and orange groves which they likewise introduced. The first grape vine and the first orange tree were planted at the Mission San Gabriel, which is the home of "The Mission Play."

See "The Mission Play" first, then see California and understand its history and romance, is the best advice to give any visitor to the Golden State. Performances are given every afternoon except Monday, and every Wednesday and Saturday nights in the old mission playhouse at San Gabriel.

FRIENDS HAND SHERIFF TRAEGER PACKAGE.

March 18 was "Traeger" night at Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., and Ramona Hall proved inadequate to hold the crowd that came. The occasion was brought about by the Supervisors of Los Angeles County having appointed Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, a member of Ramona, sheriff, and it was a real Native Son congratulation party—the extending of well-wishes by friends to another friend who has made good and won additional deserved honors. Incidentally, "Big Bill" started in on the job of sheriff March 9, the oath being administered by Superior Judge John York (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.).

Sheriff "Bill" knew Ramona was pulling a party, but he did not have the least idea that he was to receive from Native Sons of the city, without regard to Parlor affiliation, a beautiful six-pointed gold star, appropriately inscribed and each point of the star set with a large diamond. So, when Edwin A. Meserve, after telling him just what the Natives think of him, handed him the star, he was both surprised and overcome, and, for once, "words were inadequate" for "Bill," but tears expressed his appreciation for the package handed him by his friends. Past Grand President H. C. Liechtenberger was master of ceremonies. A program was presented by the Farnum Lyceum, refreshments were served, and it was a late hour when the party was concluded. Chief of Police Lyle Pendegast, also of Ramona, was on band, and but for his interference the sheriff would likely have gone home handless—from handshaking.

TO HONOR FAMOUS AUTHOR.

In observance of Shakespeare's birthday, children from every school in the city will participate in a monster pageant and celebration April 23. Mrs. Isabel McR. Gray, teacher of dramas at Manual Arts high school, is the directress.

The pageant will pass through the downtown streets, and will be a gorgeous spectacle. At the celebration following, scenes from many of Shakespeare's plays will be presented.

PIONEER MOTHER MAKES GIFTS.

On the occasion of her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary, March 8, Mrs. Eliza P. Donner-Houghton, a member of the Donner Party who arrived in California in 1846 and an honorary member of the Order of Native Daughters, presented Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W., and Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W., each a handsomely-bound copy of "The Expedition of the Donner Party and Its Tragic Fate." Mrs. Houghton, one of California's most-loved Pioneer Mothers, is the author of this book of history, an autographed copy of which she recently presented to the library of Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.

FLAG PRESENTED LINER.

A large party of Native Sons, headed by Past Grand President H. C. Lichtenberger, went to the harbor March 5 to greet the "Golden State," a new liner. Greetings were extended by Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, after which Frank G. Tyrrell presented the ship, on behalf of the Native Sons, with a State (Bear) Flag; he spoke of the state's early history, referring particularly to the "Bear Flag" days.

After Captain Yardley had expressed thanks for the gift, and the flag had been hoisted to the foremast, the party was entertained in the dining-room of the "Golden State."

CLOSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

March 31 closed the fiscal year of the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' Homeless Children Committee. The joint local committee, of which Irving Baxter is chairman and Annie L. Adair secretary, has worked earnestly and successfully. Many homes have been found for homeless children, and the committee is keeping a watchful eye on a large number of children.

GET-TOGETHER MEET FOR N. Ds.

Some time in April, the annual get-together meeting of Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W., and Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W., will be held and an attractive program presented. The affair is being arranged by D.D.G.P. Kate McFadyen of Long Beach Parlor and Mrs. Paul Robinson, president Los Angeles Parlor.

ARROWHEAD HAS BIG PARTY.

Notice having been received that there would be "somethin' doing" at Arrowhead 110, N.S.G.W., March 23, about fifty local Native Sons autoed to San Bernardino. Some 250 members of Arrowhead were assembled to greet them, and it was one of these "peppy" meetings that revive enthusiasm. Arrowhead's orchestra dispensed jazz music, and there was not a dull moment. A class of twenty-eight candidates was initiated, giving Arrowhead another big boost ahead on the road to the biggest Parlor in the south, and also assuring it another Grand Parlor delegate; that it is the liveliest Parlor in the south, even the Angelenos admit. The ritual was exemplified by this team, picked from among the visitors: Charles R. Thomas (Ramona 109), Sr.P.P.; Henry G. Bodkin (Corona 196), Jr.P.P.; William I. Traeger (Ramona 109), P.; Walter Baskerville (Ramona 109), 1.V.P.; John J. Herlihy (Corona 196), 2.V.P.; Al Cron (Los Angeles 124), 3.V.P.; Joseph P. Sproul (Corona 196), M.; John Dockweiler (Ramona 109), I.S.

After the business had been transacted, with dispatch, short addresses were made by Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin and Superior Judge Rex B. Goodcell. Then came a program which held the attention of the crowd for quite a while; particularly attractive, to some of the visitors, was the dashing, daring Oriental dancer who was deluged with a shower of silver, in exchange for which "she" disclosed "ber" identity—simply a man! After that came the "cats," prepared and served by "Chef" John Andreson and his assistants. It was a long-to-be-remembered occasion, and the visitors are anxiously awaiting word of another Arrowhead party.

BETTER RESERVE A SEAT.

Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., is making a specialty of entertainment features every Thursday night, the show starting about 9:30, and concluding with refreshments. The only way to be sure and not miss something good, is to be at every meeting. All Native Sons are invited. Applications are being received regularly, and if every member will just do his small bit, and sign up an eligible, the Parlor will quickly double in numbers. Now's the time!

During April, under the direction of Walter C. Farnum, these entertainers may be seen and heard at Los Angeles Parlor: Bettie Beardsley, premiere danseuse; Fern Melrose, prima donna, formerly on a big vaudeville circuit; Lucile De Wolfe and Dorothy Avens, dancing; J. H. Hickson, character impersonator; Stahl's Hawaiian quartet, the "jazzie four"; Jake Clifford, monologist, in a

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

April 14, Corona 196, N.S.G.W., will fittingly celebrate the twenty-fifth year of its institution. The committee making the arrangements has some surprises in store and is giving out little information, except that there will be a banquet, to be followed by the initiation of a class of twenty, who will be guests of the Parlor at the "feed."

All Native Sons are invited. Tickets and further information may be secured from Corona's new recording secretary, Lawrence D. Carter, at 622 Charles C. Chapman building, Eighth and Broadway.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS TO GIVE DANCE.

Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W., will hold its annual ball April 7 at Ramona Hall, which will be handsomely decorated in the California colors. The grand march will be led by Mrs. Paul D. Robinson, president of the Parlor, and husband; H. C. Lichtenberger, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W., and wife; Sheriff William I. Traeger, Grand First Vice-president, N.S.G.W., and wife. The committee in charge of arrangements is: Mesdames Mildred Duffy, Gertrude Allen, Susan Kennedy, Grace Haven, Agnes Chester. These, with Mesdames Paul Robinson, Joseph A. Adair, Josephine Jones and Misses Susan Donohue, M. J. Labory, Kathryn Peters, Grace Ducasse will make up the reception committee.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. M. Billings (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) has taken up his residence in Visalia.

A. F. Palethorpe (Corona 196, N.S.G.W.) was a visitor to San Diego last month.

J. P. Kiefer (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) was a visitor to San Francisco the latter part of February.

The smile of J. F. Lyon (Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W.) has considerably broadened—he's a granddaddy.

Announcement has come from William T. Paul (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) of Miami, Arizona, that he is a happy father.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President, N.D.G.W.), secretary State Senate, will not be a candidate for the council at the coming city primaries, although urged by several women's organizations to do so.

Among those who successfully took the recent bar examination were J. A. Adair Jr. (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and Wayne E. Jordan and E. N. Sharp (both Corona 196, N.S.G.W.). The former is a son of Joseph A. Adair Sr. (Ramona 109, N.S.G.W.) and Annie L. Adair (Los Angeles 124, N.D.G.W.).

ments frequently occurred. Seventy-six witnesses testified. The jury was out forty minutes and then brought in a verdict of guilty in the first degree, which meant hanging. Mrs. Fair burst into tears, and reports were rife for a day or two that she tried to commit suicide. But she was created of stronger stuff, and soon began a legal battle for a new trial, which lasted for several years and resulted in her obtaining it and finally an acquittal.

"Rising Stars" and "Hoodlums" Serap.

Mary Sweiz of Jackson, Amador County, popularly known there as "Madame Pantaloons," a French woman who worked in the mines and owned a vineyard for many years in that vicinity and dressed in men's clothing, was arrested in San Francisco for this offense. On a promise to wear the apparel of her sex she was let off with a $5 fine. She always looked neat and natty in trousers, and a reporter wrote she made a better looking man than woman.

The Rising Star Social Club of San Francisco, more popularly known as the "Hoodlums," had a picnic April 9 at Schuetzen Park, and the Swiss guard had one also in an adjacent park across the bay. Both associations returned from Oakland on the same boat, one occupying the lower deck and the other the upper. But the "Rising Stars" could not obey orders, and an invasion by them precipitated a free fight, one of the biggest on record on the bay. Half a hundred of the participants were badly used up. Some of the guns of the guard were thrown into the bay, and only the arrival of the boat at the wharf stopped the conflict.

A rancher named Bowie, living between Marysville and Wheatland in Yuba County, riding home the evening of April 23 was attacked by a highwayman who shot at him four times before his frightened horse threw him. The robber obtained $500 from him, but Bowie, the next day in Marysville, recognized in a hotel there a man named Henry Stumps as the robber and jailed him.

A man named Linehan, convicted of robbing Chinamen on Chinese testimony, was discharged by order of the Supreme Court, it deciding that a man could not be legally convicted on Chinese testimony. After his conviction by a jury his wife obtained a divorce on that ground and married another man. He now began a suit to annul her marriage and divorce, and the unfortunate woman was in a quandary.

Voizin Ris & Co., merchants of San Francisco, failed with liabilities of $250,000 and assets of $70,000.

E. Great of Napa City invented a churn, which was a great improvement in butter making. He had it patented.

In Tulare County, April 7, Lemuel Perkins and W. F. Burthenurth were digging a ditch, and a dispute as to who was doing the most work ended in blows. Perkins was hit on the head with a shovel and died a short time after.

Claiborne Wright, in the sheep business with his son-in-law, Judd Moore, at Visalia, had a row April 7 and Moore shot Wright three times, dangerously wounding him.

A riot among the Chinese laborers grading the Santa Rosa railroad occurred April 5, and two of the fighters were killed.

Isaac Cleighborn and A. B. Hawkins, in Colusa, had a shooting affray in front of the postoffice April 19 and fired seven shots. Cleighborn was wounded in the shoulder, and several citizens had narrow escapes from the flying bullets.

Accidents Continue Numerous.

John Webster, a prominent mining man of Nevada County, was killed April 9 by a boulder, weighing many tons, rolling upon him.

Timothy Haw, a miner in the Amador mine at Sutter Creek, Amador County, April 4 fell down the shaft 500 feet and was shockingly killed.

Dennis Arsick, a 7-year-old lad, playing about a foundry in San Francisco, April 12 was struck on the head and killed by a piece of iron that fell off a shelf.

Mrs. J. H. Jacobs, a prominent society woman of San Francisco, in getting off a moving train at Oakland April 19 fell, and her legs were so badly crushed she died while amputation was being performed.

John Manlon, at work taking down an adobe building at San Jose April 19, was crushed to death under a falling wall.

The 2-year-old child of Nelson Owen, at Georgetown, El Dorado County, April 18 fell into a mining ditch and was drowned.

A train struck a carriage on a crossing April 2 near Elmira, Solano County. B. Meyer of Dixon and Miss Mary Gratton, with the vehicle, were thrown down an embankment and painfully injured.

Wm. Richards, a miner in Nevada County, was struck by a car of rock and had his leg broken April 10.

April 10 the body of Frank H. Skiuner, clerk in the U. S. Surveyor-General's office, San Francisco, was washed ashore after being drowned in the bay. When or where was unknown.

Major Vernon and wife, prominent in San Jose, April 22 were riding in a carriage. The horses ran away and, colliding with another vehicle, threw them out, and they were severely injured.

A. Netter, April 18 in San Jose, was thrown down a bank by his wagon upsetting and had a leg broken.

Henry Lane, a 4-year-old boy playing around his father's flour mill in Stockton April 20, had his right arm caught in the machinery and so badly crushed it had to be amputated at the shoulder joint.

The little 2-year-old daughter of John McGahan, in Petaluma, Sonoma County, April 28 overturned off the kitchen stove a kettle of boiling water upon her body and was fearfully scalded.

Johnny Cummins, a 10-year-old boy running across a street in San Francisco April 27, was struck by a galloping horse, ridden by a citizen of that city, and fatally injured.

An Indian named "Billy" at Folsom, Sacramento County, was claimed to be the champion pie biter and eater of the state. His backer bet $50 that "Billy" could eat eight pumpkin pies by taking less than forty bites, and he won with an average of four bites to a pie. He had a mouth that compared favorably with that of a catfish.

For Big Tree Park—Tulare County has appropriated $100,000 to buy the last remaining privately-owned land in Giant Forest, Sequoia National Park, for the purpose of deeding Sequoia completely to the Federal Government.

More membership the Order must have, if its ambitions are to be fully and completely realized.
Many Parlors are growing, some of them to a near-phenomenal extent, while a few continue, year after year, to "hold their own," and a small number are dead—for any organization that does not grow is life defunct. In some sections conditions resultant from the war make a Parlor's growth impossible; it is indeed firmly rooted if it does "hold its own." In growing sections, however, when a Parlor does not show a consistent membership increase, the reason is truthfully assignable to but one cause, laziness on the part of the members—generally referred to as "inactivity."

Every Native Son should realize this fact: his Parlor must reflect the nature of his home-town; that is, if it be located in a growing community, the Parlor must be a growing one; if the Parlor be a stand still or dead one, it must be doing business in a non-progressing community. Every Native Son should link community-pride with Parlor pride, and give his best that the one may truthfully reflect the nature of the other; otherwise, he is not doing his full duty either for his community or his Parlor.
Then will a great percentage of the Parlors show a material increase in membership each year, and soon the Order will enjoy its rightful "place in the sun."

Stockton 7 is both the largest and the richest Parlor in the Order. At the close of 1919 its membership had increased to 554; at the close of 1920 it had gone up to 717; on March 21, the night of delegates' election, it had reached 837. And the Parlor is still growing, and will very likely have a thousand members when the Grand Parlor meets.

Arrowhead 110 (San Bernardino) is unquestion-ably the "wonder" Parlor. Here's its membership-increase record: End of 1918, 175; end of 1919, 329; end of 1920, 397; March 31, 466. By the end of 1921 it will be well up in the 500 class. To the members of the Parlor alone belongs all credit for Arrowhead's splendid record, as it has had no assistance from an organizer.

Las Positas 96 (Livermore) more than doubled its membership last year, having 85 members at the close of 1919 and 181 at the close of 1920; March 31 the membership was 183. To have doubled in membership is a record that Las Positas may well be proud of, just at it is rightfully proud, too, of the fact that it contributed the largest percentage of membership of any Parlor to the world-war.

San Diego 108 had hard work getting started, but for some time has been going strong. At the close of 1918 it had 44 members; the number increased to 79 at the close of 1919, to 144 at the close of 1920, and to 151 March 14. This should be at least a 500-class Parlor, for it represents the city where California had her beginning.

These Parlors have so increased in membership since the last Grand Parlor, according to returns received by The Grizzly Bear, that they will each have an additional delegate: Stockton 7, Humboldt 14 (Eureka), San Jose 22 [through consolidation with Garden City 82], El Dorado 52 (San Francisco), Colusa 69, Rincon 72 (San Francisco), Ferndale 93,
Las Positas 96 (Livermore), Mount Diablo 101
(Martinez), Arrowhead 110 (San Bernardino), South
San Francisco 157 (San Francisco), Dolores 208
(San Francisco), Berkeley 210, Pebble Beach 230
(Pescadero), Guadalupe 231 (San Francisco), James Lick 242 (San Francisco), Fruitvale 252 (Oakland).

LEGISLATION

Much legislation, some of it declared "radical" by those who still hold to the belief that there should be no deviation from the course adopted when the Order was started, will be proposed.

Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger will endeavor, among other things, to have provision made for the formation of women's auxiliaries, to include the near feminine relatives of members of the Order. This, we understand, will not conflict with the Order of Native Daughters, for provision will be made that any such native daughter relative must first affiliate with that Order before she can become a member of the auxiliary.

The Ritual Committee will present a revision of the initiation ceremony, introducing a considerable amount of California history and, incidentally, shortening the present ceremony. It will also recommend the approval, for use in Subordinate Parlors,

THE "GATEWAY COUNTY"

which absorbed the Mokelumne River trade. Wood-bridge, laid out in 1859, was long known as Wood's Ferry. Lockeford, settled by Locke in 1855, was not laid out until 1862.

Due to the fact that San Joaquin County became the gateway from the sea to the mines and from the mines to the sea, two industries developed there early. These were ship-building and wagon-making, both of which date from 1850-1. Navigation has been facilitated by dredging the Stockton channel and the river and controlling the flood waters of the Mokelumne. Besides the water transportation three transcontinental railroads traverse the county, while these are supplemented by three interurban electric lines and 350 miles of highway system. All of these factors led to tremendous manufacturing development, until now the county is one of the chief manufacturing centers in the state.

The population increased from 5,029 in 1852 to 24,349 in 1880, to 50,731 in 1910, and to 79,905 in 1920. The increase in prosperity and population has produced many flourishing towns. Stockton, Lodi and Tracy stand out above the others.

STOCKTON

As San Joaquin County is the "Gateway County" for the great interior valley, so is Stockton the "Gateway City." The early history of the city and of its founder, Captain Charles M. Weber, reads like a romance, but as it was presented to readers of The Grizzly Bear in the September 1912 number, only an outline will be given here.

The first permanent settlement at Stockton dates from 1847. Captain Weber's endeavors to settle his rancho previous to that date failed. In that year, as the immigrants began coming across the Sierras, he rode into the mountains to meet them and tried to induce them to locate at Tuleberg, as they called the place. Even the free grant of 160 acres of land, a town lot, farm implements, seed and provisions for a year would not tempt them. Finally he did induce some twenty adventurous trappers and sailors to settle there. One of them, Joe Buzzell, built a log cabin with a tulle roof. He married Lizzie Kelsey that same year and in September, 1848, to them was born Stockton's first native daughter. The previous year Stockton's first native son was born to the wife of John Gans while they were camped on Weber's Point, on their way to San Jose.

In 1847 Captain Weber decided to locate on his rancho. He bought a small boat and, loading it with lumber and supplies, sailed up to the village then called Tuleberg, or sometimes New Albany after the birthplace of Gualnae, Weber's partner, and from now on frequently called Webersville after the founder. Here he opened a small general merchandise store like the one he had at San Jose.

In March, 1848, two messengers from Sutter's Fort on their way to San Jose stopped over night at Webersville and told of the gold discovery at Coloma. The village was at once almost depopulated. Weber now organized the first mining company in California, called the "Stockton Mining and Trading Company." The venture proved very successful, but Weber, convinced that his village would become a city, returned to it in September, 1848. He enlarged his store and at once began to establish the place as an entrepot for the southern mines. The village was very favorably located for this as it was not only at the head of summer navigation on the San Joaquin, but it was intermediate between the southern mines and on the established route through Livermore Pass to them and to Sacramento.

In 1849 Major Hammond, the father of John Hayes Hammond, was employed by Weber to lay out a city one mile square to which he gave the more pretentious name of Stockton, after the commodore. Settlers came in rapidly and a tent city appeared as if by magic. Before the close of the year it had a permanent population of 1,000 and a still larger floating population estimated at 2,000 of miners on their way to the mines, traders, and in the winter miners waiting for the weather to clear.

Transportation on the river was improved materially in a remarkably short time. The whale-boats were soon replaced by schooners, and these in part soon gave way to steamboats. Water traffic was mostly imports, and Stockton's water front was a busy place. In 1855 as much as 2,800 tons of freight was landed in one week. The exports went out to the mines chiefly by wagons and by pack train. In the fall of 1850 there were counted seventy teams and over two hundred pack mules on the road between Stockton and the Stanislaus. In 1851 seven stages were leaving Stockton daily for the mines.

As a place where the miners could spend their gold or pass the winter, Stockton displayed the usual life of the gold days. Drinking and gambling saloons were in full blast, and with the usual mixture of criminals that gave the vigilance committee plenty of opportunity to exercise its power. Two men were hanged in the county as early as 1849.

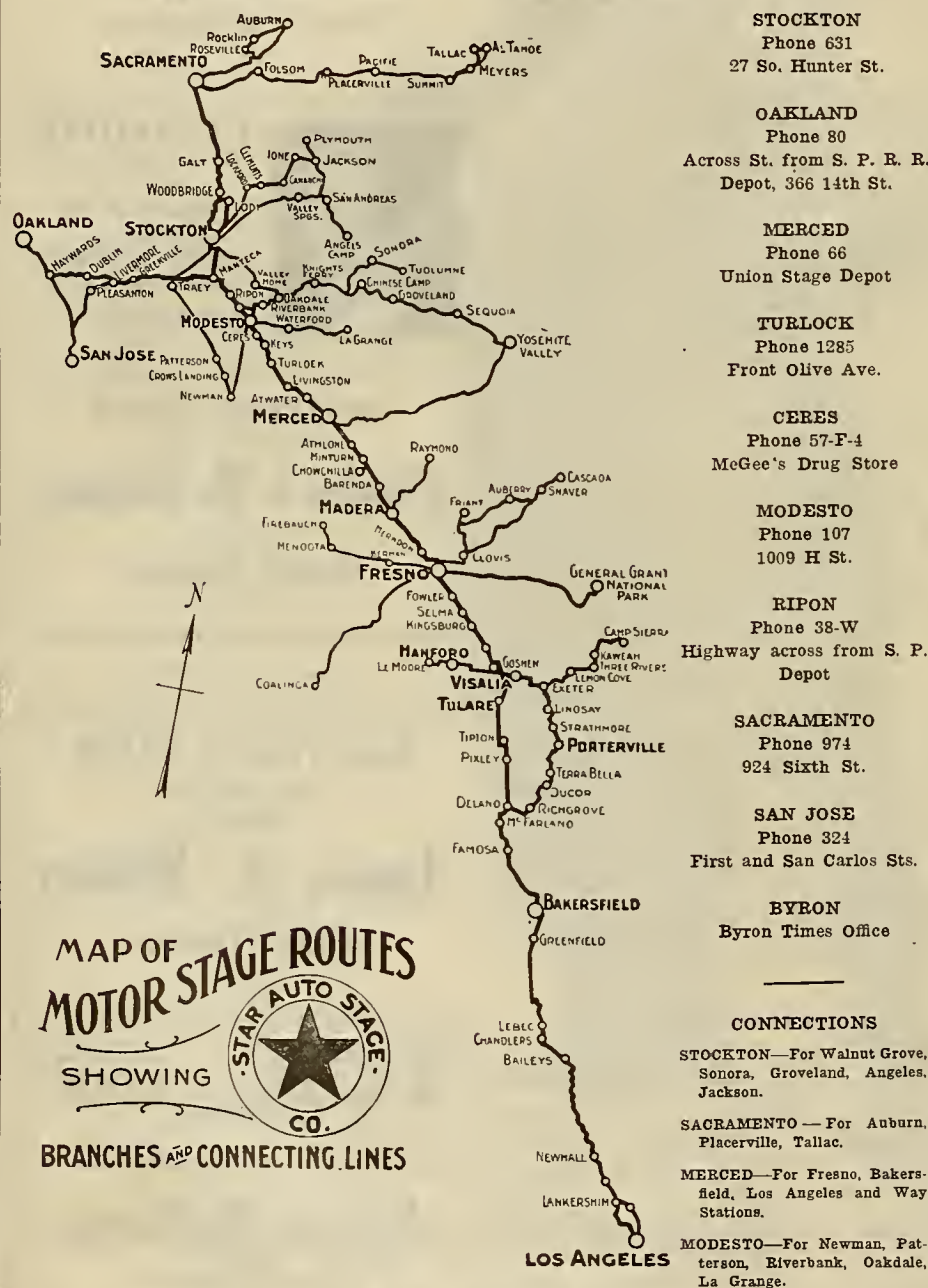

December 23, 1849, the first of a series of fires that occurred in all the California towns broke out. Nearly half of this tent city disappeared in a few minutes into a smoking waste, and damage of at least $200,000 was sustained. The ruins soon disappeared and, sprinkled among the tents, some substantial wooden buildings were put up. In 1850 a large number of substantial wooden buildings replaced the tents, and a more stable existence began.

Stockton was of such importance by this time that some form of city government was deemed necessary. It had been made the county seat in February, 1850. The first newspaper, the "Stockton Weekly Times," appeared March 16, 1850, followed in June by the "Stockton Journal." Schools and churches were constructed in the same year. After a preliminary organization Stockton was incorporated July 23, 1850, and municipal officers were elected in August. Samuel Purdy was chosen mayor and C. M. Leak as recorder. About 700 votes was the total polled.

The city grew rapidly day by day until, on May 6, 1851, the great calamity of the second fire occurred. The very heart of the city, together with the greater portion of the residence and suburbs, were destroyed. The property damage was estimated at $1,500,000. Undaunted, the rebuilding commenced at once and a new and better city sprang from the ashes. Many brick buildings were erected and Stockton, reviving, continued to progress. In 1852 the city voted $200,000 in bonds for a city hall, plank the streets, improving the levee and other public purposes. In 1855 alone, forty brick buildings were constructed. In the next year the property value was placed at $2,616,000. By 1877 it had risen to $17,000,000.

In 1869 railroad connections were established with Sacramento and Oakland, and one more link was forged in making Stockton the "Gateway City." In this year the city was reincorporated and in 1870 the population was over 10,000, making it one of the notable cities of the Golden State. Today, fifty years later, Stockton is a city of metropolitan standing. The manufactured and industrial products are valued at more than $40,000,000 per year. Its location makes it the distributing point of Central California, while the proposed $4,000,000 harbor will make it a deep-water port for world trade in the center of the richest agricultural district in the state. The 1920 census gave Stockton a population of 40,296.

LODI

Lodi, the metropolis of northern San Joaquin County, was artificially brought into existence almost over night by the completion of the Central Pacific railroad in 1869. In that year, A. T. Ayres, J. W. Magley and R. L. Wardrobe petitioned the railroad company to establish a station at what is now Lodi. They offered to give the company an individual one-half of 160 acres on which to lay out a town. This offer was accepted, and a town called Mokelumne Station was laid out. The name was so near like that of two other towns in the state that it led to confusion in mail, shipment of freight, etc., so it was changed to Lodi in 1874.

The town was located on high ground, about one-half mile south of the Mokelumne River, with the railroad running north and south through its center.

In August, 1869, the first buildings were constructed by J. I. Stretch, consisting of a store and a dwelling. In the same year the "Hooker House," a kind of a wandering hotel, which had been first built at Lancha Plana, in Amador County, in 1861, then moved to Campo Seco, in Calaveras County, and now on the way to Dover, on the San Joaquin River, was moved to the new town and set up. By 1870 the town was prospering, with a depot, a post-office, a stage line, a church, and a growing population. In 1872 a two-story school building, thirty by forty feet, was constructed. In 1876 the Lodi Mill and Warehouse Company put up a substantial brick building and installed a steam flour mill with a capacity of 200 barrels per twenty-four hours. In 1877 the Lodi Land and Lumber Company built the finest sawmill on the Pacific coast, about one mile from Lodi on the Mokelumne River; the capacity was 40,000 board feet per day. The logs were cut in the mountains in the summer and floated down the river in the high water to the mill. By 1879 Lodi was able to support a newspaper. "The Valley Review" was established there under the editorship of Mrs. Certe D. Force Cluff, and soon earned the reputation of being "the liveliest and spiciest little country sheet in the state."

Lodi by 1880 was one of the most prosperous and enterprising villages in the state. It had a population of about 400, with bright prospects from the increasing agricultural wealth. It soon became the center of the agricultural district of the county north of Stockton, and the breaking up of the large ranches brought added prosperity and population. By 1901 the population had increased to 1,700 and in 1906 it was incorporated under the general state law. The official census of 1910 gave Lodi a population of 2,697, while the surrounding country had 5,000 population. Lodi is famous for its orchards, dairies, alfalfa and vineyards. From its home here the flame tokay grape goes out to the world markets to bring renown and prosperity to its growers.

TRACY

Tracy, the largest city in the northern end of the "West Side Empire" of the San Joaquin Valley, was founded in 1878 at the new departure of the Central Pacific railroad line to Oakland. It was from its beginning primarily a railroad center in the midst of a rich agricultural region. Its red clay and sandy loam soil has always been particularly adapted to grain production. The town grew rapidly and was incorporated under the general law in 1883 and in 1910 as a city of the sixth class with a population of 1,129. The completion of the Southern Pacific lines through Tracy made it a division point on the main line and with four main-line branches, with from fifty to eighty trains per day. This made the city one of the most important transfer points in the state. The railroad shops and four oil pumping stations with a payroll of $185,000 brought in a considerable population. The break-up of the larger grain ranches and the development of intensive agriculture and irrigation projects beginning about 1910 has brought added prosperity. By 1915 the city was a modern up-to-date community of nearly 3,000 population. It supported a newspaper, banks, churches and excellent schools, and had good homes and modern stores.

Tracy has kept pace with the splendid development of the part of San Joaquin County for which it is the center. The county has advanced very rapidly since it was founded. The 1920 census placed San Joaquin County twelfth in the nation's productiveness and gave it a population of 79,905. The immense development of irrigation projects since 1910 has given water to nearly 85,000 acres. This has broken up the large grain acreage, but the transition to small farms and diversified crops is just beginning. San Joaquin County is still one of the big cereal producing areas, having approximately 150,000 acres given to barley production, 50,000 acres devoted to wheat, and some 20,000 acres planted to corn.

The network of railroads traversing the county, together with the river transportation with its 2,000,000 tons of freight and 240,000 passengers annually, assures San Joaquin of its position as the "Gateway County."

CALIFORNIA'S OIL RECORD—During February 9,111,228 barrels of crude oil were produced in, and 8,887,474 barrels shipped out of the state; 299,433 barrels were added to storage, which at the month's close totaled 20,228,207 barrels, an increase since the first of the year of 609,361 barrels.

Gilbert Keitle

(ASSISTANT SECRETARY, STOCKTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

STOCKTON IS OFTEN REFERRED to as an industrial city. It is true that nature has been particularly generous in bestowing advantages which appeal to the manufacturer, but the city is not dependent alone upon its industrial resources, as powerful as they are.

The city is in the center of an agricultural empire as rich and as productive as any similar area in the world. It is yet too early to secure any of the census figures upon the relative wealth of the various sections of the United States, but there is every reason to believe that San Joaquin County will be among the leaders as it was ten years ago. The value of its agricultural products now exceeds $40,000,000 each year.

In spite of this record, the resources of the country surrounding Stockton have been merely touched. In comparison with some sections of the state, a large portion of the land might be considered undeveloped; in consequence the opportunities are numerous. In 1910 the population in San Joaquin County was but thirty-seven per square mile; it has now increased to fifty-four. Consider a country as productive as San Joaquin supporting but fifty-four people to the square mile, and it is possible to gain some idea of the opportunities in store!

The geographical position of Stockton is also a big asset. Because of its place at the head of tide-water navigation and its commanding position to the San Joaquin Valley and southern mine territory, it is sometimes called the "Gateway City." Looking at the map of California, Stockton appears to be the most centrally located city in the state. It is almost equidistant from the two extremities of the great interior plain, Red Bluff on the north and Bakersfield on the south.

No city in California is better situated in regard to rail lines. They approach the city from every angle, numbering ten in all. Stockton is located on the main lines of the state's three transcontinental railroads. It is connected with neighboring towns by three interurban lines and one branch road.

Improved highways radiate from Stockton to every point in the county and form connecting links with the state highway system. The county was one of the leaders in road construction in the state, bonding originally for 238 miles of highway. This has been increased, until today more than 320 miles of highway have been laid.

Stockton harbor, penetrating into the heart of the city, is lined with warehouses, flour mills, lumber yards and shipyards. Of the nearly six miles of waterfront available, the city owns more than four miles. There are about 16,500 feet of wharves. A charter provision provides that four percent of the entire revenue of the city be set aside each year for the permanent improvement of the harbor.

A nine-foot channel from Stockton to the sea is now maintained, the project being completed during 1920. In making such a channel, fourteen river bend cut-offs were made at various points which have shortened the navigable channel by nearly six miles, have increased securing effects of the tide and have reduced the flood water plane. The commerce on the river for the calendar year 1919 amounted to 649,156 short tons, valued at $54,160,043.

Strike troubles during the latter part of that year caused a loss to the river transportation companies estimated at about 30 percent of the total freight tonnage reported, or 192,000 tons, which, if added to the reported tonnage, would have shown an increase of 10 percent over the corresponding tonnage of 1918. Of the total tonnage, beans formed about 3 percent; crushed rock, 4 percent; grain and mill-stuffs, 24 percent; lumber, 5 percent; fuel oil, 7 percent; general merchandise, 11 percent; onions, 11 percent, and potatoes, 21 percent. The total number of passengers carried on the river for the same year was 219,259.

Considerable progress has been made by the city toward securing a deep water channel, capable of accommodating vessels engaged in the coastwise business. The district engineer, in charge of rivers and harbors, has prepared a survey to be submitted to the rivers and harbors board, to show the exact amount of work necessary for such a project. As Stockton is on tidewater, the plan is entirely feasible. It is only a question of money before the city can become a seaport through which the products of the valley can be shipped.

INDUSTRIES INCREASING

Since the beginning of the grain industry in the state, Stockton has been the principal grain market for the interior valley. Fourteen hay, grain and produce warehouses in the city have an aggregate capacity of 170,000 tons, all being conveniently located to handle shipments by both rail and water. Each of the transcontinental railroads reaching the city touch the waterfront and all maintain warehouses.

All of these conditions have been instrumental in the development of Stockton. In addition, they have proved a magnet to manufacturers. It has never been the policy of the city to attract manufacturers by donating free sites or by giving cash bonuses.

All of the industries which Stockton possesses, now totaling some 175, have been attracted because of the city's natural advantages as a manufacturing center. They have appreciated its shipping and distributing facilities, and have recognized its enviable position among all of the cities of the state. They have discovered that labor conditions are good, climatic conditions advantageous for the operation of their plants 365 days out of the year, that it is possible to obtain an unlimited supply of water under the surface of the city, and that power rates and other operating costs are as economical here as at any other point in California.

In 1852 the first flour mill was established. During all of these years Stockton has held its supremacy in the milling field, and three large mills are located on its waterfront. Another manufacturing plant, established in 1883, has been extended to all parts of the world and its products are internationally known. The reclamation of the delta also brought the development of the clam-shell dredger, and the recognition of another pioneer Stockton industry. The city has the distinction of being the home of the largest exclusive factory for combined harvesters in the world. Practically all of the cardboard boxes in which California fruit is now shipped from the state are manufactured in Stockton.

The canning industry of Stockton has been expanding rapidly. The three plants now operating are equipped to turn out 750,000 cases of fruit and vegetables annually. The reputation for turning out the highest standard of tanned leather in the United States is enjoyed by a Stockton firm, established in 1856. One of the few window glass plants west of the Rocky Mountains is located in Stockton. A large wool-scouring plant forms an important link in the city's industries. Wool from all parts of the state is shipped to Stockton for cleaning and scouring, and then re-shipped to various mills for manufacture into cloth.

The iron foundries and iron works are recognized to be one of Stockton's leading industries. These turn out pumps, gasoline engines, plows, and many other products. Two brick plants supply not only Stockton but other portions of the state with their quality product. Recent additions to the industrial field include a tool-handle plant, a plant to manufacture an improved type of tractor, and an overall factory. All will add considerably to the payroll. Automobile storage batteries, too, are among the varied products of Stockton.

An industrial census taken by the Chamber of Commerce, in January, showed that the payroll of the industrial plants had increased by over 1,000 employees during 1920, 6,600 people being the average number employed in the strictly manufacturing establishments. The payroll increased by over $400,000, jumping to $5,400,000 annually. This big growth was recorded during the period of readjustment, when conditions were not especially attractive to the expansion of industry. With conditions back to normal, a greater development can be expected.

In the Stockton trading district live some 190,000 people, who contribute to the commercial prestige of the city. Three of the largest and best-known business firms in this nation maintain distributing warehouses in the community, because of its distribution advantages.

Bank clearings reveal the growing importance of Stockton as a commercial center. In 1915 the total just exceeded the $50,000,000 mark. For the year 1920 business transacted by the banks reached the surprising figure of $295,000,000. The aggregate resources of the banks total more than $50,000,000.

In the five-year period from 1915 to 1920 building permits increased 156 percent. From 597 permits issued, representing work costing $1,019,452, they jumped to 861 permits, valued at $2,617,527. With prices of building material lower, it is expected that the current year will exceed all previous records. The municipality itself will likely lead in the construction of new buildings, as the citizens have voted bonds for the construction of a $600,000 auditorium and a $600,000 city hall.

NOT A "BOOM" CITY

All religious denominations are represented, and several churches have planned new edifices. The Masonic lodges are erecting a handsome five-story temple on a principal business corner, and work has likewise started on a three-story Odd Fellows' hall. Many new homes will be erected to relieve the housing shortage, and the business district will be extended by new business blocks.

Postal receipts, regarded by many as being the most accurate indicator of growth, have increased 62 percent in the five-year period from 1915 to 1920. In 1915 they amounted to $138,698, while in 1920 they totaled $225,117. The postal business has so increased that an addition to the postoffice building is essential.

Property values are constantly increasing in Stockton, as is shown by the figures of the city assessor. The city is now assessed for more than $52,000,000. The county assessment is constantly increasing, and today approximates $97,000,000.

Stockton is particularly proud of its school system. To keep pace with the rapidly increasing enrollment, it has been necessary to vote two bond issues in the past ten years. Of the seventeen grade schools, twelve have been erected since 1913. A total of $372,500 has been invested by the city in its high school group of buildings, and $973,670 in the grammar school buildings. Recently it was necessary to vote bonds, totaling $1,225,000, for additional buildings, some of which are now under construction. The educational system is complete, embracing a high school accredited to the universities of California and other states, grammar schools highly developed, as well as kindergartens and pre-vocational schools.

Stockton is a home city. Tenement districts are unknown. Every street outside of the business district has its long lines of shade trees. Every visitor to the city is impressed by the beautiful yards, revealing the pride of the home-maker.

Captain C. M. Weber, the founder of the city, planned for the future and wisely dedicated nine square blocks in various sections for public parks. In addition to these, the municipality has since acquired Oak Park, an attractive amusement park, which it is now engaged in developing. It has also been presented a twenty-seven-acre tract in the western portion of the city, which has been dedicated Victory Park, and Louis Park, located on the banks of the San Joaquin River. All of these are being improved to provide outing places for the citizens.

Stockton enjoys a delightful climate. The normal annual temperature is about 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Normal monthly temperatures vary from a maximum of about 72.5 degrees F. for the months of July and August to about 46.5 degrees F. for the month of January. The average annual precipitation amounts to about 15.5 inches, taking place

ATHLETIC CLUB MEETING WITH SUCCESS

(J. M. LIEBERT.)

THE RALLY OF THE NATIVE SONS' Athletic Club, February 19, in San Francisco, which was the culmination of the membership campaign carried on during that month, proved a great boost for the workers who are promoting the organization. It was presided over by C. K. Grady, secretary of the club, and was addressed by Grand Trustee Edward J. Lynch and Charles L. McEnerney. An interesting program was offered the several hundred enthusiasts present, and everybody left with the feeling that a big step forward towards the realization of the ambitions of the committee had been taken.

Throughout the evening one keynote was struck again and again. That was, that faith, in the project, coupled with unremitting effort, would cause final success. There is nothing in the project which is impossible, and the united endeavors of all those who believe in an athletic club for San Francisco will "put it over." The Order has a habit of doing things for others; this is a thing that should be done for the Order, and it will pay big in membership gains and in health and happiness for many members when the job has been accomplished.

Gratifying news has reached those interested in the club, to the effect that an advisory board of governors, consisting of the most prominent Native Sons of San Francisco, is to give aid and advice in carrying the club to success. With the experience of these men, many of whom were prominent in the erection of the Native Sons' Building some years ago, there is no question that the best possible results will be achieved, and a tremendous impetus given the membership list.

Grand President James F. Hoey, as well as all the other grand officers, has given the movement appreciated and valued assistance. Largely through the efforts of Secretary Grady, 1,200 members have already been signed up. The committee in charge of the project, whose names appeared in a previous issue of The Grizzly Bear, is composed of delegates from the San Francisco Parlor; J. M. Liebert is the chairman. With the aid of these many loyal members, the Native Sons' Athletic Club will before many months be a standing testimonial to the progressiveness of the Order of Native Sons.

Women for
L. A. CITY COUNCIL

EMMA B. SWINDELL.

Emma B. Swindell, who is a candidate for the City Council of Los Angeles, states that she believes women should not attempt to get into the City Council with revolutionary ideas, but should work in harmony with the existing ideas along constructive and conservative lines, seeking the good in the old methods, and adopting from the new, such principles as will make Los Angeles' an up-to-date government. She further states that she believes in economical and efficient plans whereby the greatest benefit may be derived from public funds expended.

Mrs. Swindell is a member of several clubs in the city and has devoted a life time to the advancement of the interests of women and children particularly, and of the citizenship at large. She is a woman who is known to the voters of Los Angeles as one of refinement, and possesses unusual intellect. In an interview she stated that she believed in the development of the city's streets, public buildings, harbor and railroad facilities, and concluded by stating that she did not believe in class legislation, but thought that every government administration should be careful to enact laws and provide means whereby both labor and capital should be given equal consideration. Those who know Mrs. Swindell predict that after she has been elected a member of the City Council she will see to it that the rights and privileges of all classes, from the working man to the banker, shall be carefully considered.

Mrs. Swindell's knowledge of civic affairs will make her services of inestimable value to the taxpayers and the community. Thorough understanding of conditions in general in Los Angeles is a very essential point for a member of the City Council, and as Mrs. Swindell has resided here for many years and has been a diligent student along those lines, her ideas will certainly be useful in directing the welfare of the city. She could almost lay claim to being a native daughter.

IDA WORKS DARLING.

The women voters of Los Angeles, enforced by some of the best men voters of the city, are endorsing Ida Works Darling as a candidate for the Los Angeles City Council. Mrs. Darling has been a resident of Los Angeles for twenty-six years, ten of which she has been closely in touch with municipal affairs, having been identified actively with the Woman's City Club, of which she was president for the last two years.

Mrs. Darling was also a member of the City Planning Commission, the Republican County Central committee and of the Philanthropy and Civics Club, in addition to which she has been and is now a director of the Big Sisters' League. She is a firm believer in all possible developments that can be made in Los Angeles Harbor, so that the city's commercial interest may be in close touch with the trade of South America, the Panama Canal, and Oriental ports.

She believes Los Angeles City is destined to be one of the greatest in the United States. She realizes that by reason of its rich back country and the great possible power and "by-products" from the aqueduct, Los Angeles' future is definitely assured.

The great progress which is destined to be made in the way of city planning, working toward a civic center for the benefit of the city at large, has caused her to become much interested in that work. She is a firm believer that Los Angeles needs a new city hall and a new public library. She has proclaimed herself as an ardent advocate for a "square deal" in this time of re-adjustment and possible reduction of wages, and believes that all should endeavor to do the most possible for both private individuals and properly administered corporations.

Mrs. Darling has been quite active in social service work in Los Angeles and has always looked toward the advancement of the humanitarian side of the city's work.

TRANSPORTATION INSTRUCTIONS.

The Transportation Committee has arranged for a one-and-one-half round-trip fare for the Stockton Grand Parlor, open to all members of the Order and those accompanying, on the receipt-certificate plan. The rate will be in effect on all main-line railroads. Tickets will be on sale April 15 to 21, inclusive, good returning until April 24. No stop-over privileges, going or returning, will be allowed, and trip must be made by most direct route.

Grand Parlor members will be allowed mileage only via the shortest route. Those going in autos will be allowed the regular railroad mileage. Return tickets will be sold at Stockton only to point almost entirely during the period from November to April, inclusive. The rains commonly occur as gentle, steady showers, or in rainy periods continuing from one to three days, interspersed with periods of clear or foggy weather.

Since earliest time, Stockton has been the starting point to the southern mine territory. The Calaveras grove of Big Trees, relics of prehistoric ages, is but seventy-eight miles from Stockton, and the trip can be comfortably made in five hours by automobile. It is on the direct road to Lake Tahoe, some 160 miles distant, and commands the entrance to the Big Oak Flat road to Yosemite Valley, placing this scenic wonder within an easy day's journey.

Stockton now has a population of approximately 47,000. The official 1920 census placed the figures at 40,296, but since that time a number of adjoining subdivisions have been annexed which, with the natural growth of the city, would give it an estimated population of over 47,000. Some localities point with pride to their phenomenal growth, almost mushroom-like in character. Stockton points with pride to the fact that it has never experienced a boom!

In the period from 1890 to 1900 a gain of 21.3 percent was made in population. During the following decade the population increased from 17,506 to 23,253, or a gain of 32.8 percent. In recent years the development has been more rapid, and the last census showed that Stockton, with a gain of 73.3 percent in population, had made one of the best growths of any city in California.

STOCKTON THE HOME OF THE STAR AUTO STAGES.

In addition to being the center of rail and water transportation, Stockton is the headquarters of the Star Auto Stage Company, which maintains a fleet of high-class auto buses, in charge of careful, experienced drivers, that run direct to, or make close connections with other auto transportation lines for, all points of the state.

The company maintains a regular schedule, giving frequent and rapid service between important centers. Travel de luxe over the state highways, from Los Angeles to Lake Tahoe, has been made possible by the Star Auto Stage Company.

MARIN COUNTY N. S. PAST PRESIDENTS ORGANIZE ASSEMBLY.

San Francisco—Past presidents of the Marin County Parlor, N.S.G.W., have organized Marin County Assembly, P.P.A., and elected these officers, who will be installed at a meeting in San Rafael April 11 by the officers of San Francisco Assembly, No. 1:

Newman Cohn, governor; Harry Thomas, first vice-governor; Frank Rogers, second vice-governor; George Murray, third vice-governor; Harry Hook, secretary; E. Connell, treasurer; Lewis Hughes, sergeant-at-arms; William Strittmatter, R. H. Warden, J. R. Hogan, trustees; Frank Daily, chaplain.

PIONEER MOTHER PASSES AT STOCKTON.

Stockton—Mrs. Amanda Harris, who came to California via the Santa Fe Trail, arriving at San Diego in January, 1850, died here March 31 at the age of nearly 88. Surviving deceased are eleven children. She had made her home in this city the past thirty years.

PREPARE EARLY FOR SPRAYING.

APHIS, COMMONLY CALLED PLANT lice, become serious pests during the early summer on many ornamentals, fruits, and vegetables, including roses, plums, peas, etc. Control measures are simple if properly and promptly applied. Tobacco sprays are most effective. The various nicotine sulphate preparations, such as black leaf "40," a 40% solution of nicotine sulphate, are the best because of their standard known strength and due to the fact that they are easily obtained at drug stores or houses supplying spray materials. Any 40% nicotine should be diluted one part to one thousand parts of water, except for rose aphid in which case it is better to use one part to eight hundred parts of water to which should be added a strong soap solution. This solution should be prepared by dissolving three pounds of soap in three gallons of water and add to one hundred gallons of spray solution. The best soap for this purpose is whale oil soap. If it cannot be obtained, ordinary laundry soap will do. The purpose of the soap is to serve as a spreader and to make the spray stick to the aphid.

Application should be made as soon as the first leaves commence to show signs of aphid, and these may generally be found on the under sides of the youngest leaves on the new growth. After the leaves have begun to curl it is practically impossible to secure satisfactory control; hence the necessity for early application. In spraying use high pressure and cover thoroughly the under surface of the leaves. Success in this work depends largely upon covering ALL the aphid. Do not miss any portion of the tree.

For home use on bushes or small trees a hand spraying pump may be employed but greater care must be exercised to see that the spray material actually reaches every leaf. High pressure cannot be attained, and this must be overcome by getting the nozzle close to the parts to be covered.

The coddling moth is what makes wormy apples and pears. In the control of this pest there are two objects to be attained—first, the thorough control of the pest itself at a minimum of cost and, second, the elimination as far as possible of dangerous poison residue. During the past year the rejection of pears on Eastern markets on account of spray residue makes it necessary to outline a spraying program which will eliminate this difficulty. The State Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Federal Department and the pear growers' association, makes the following recommendations:

EQUIPMENT.

Use only power spray machines supplying at least

Editor, The Grizzly Bear,
Los Angeles, California.
Dear Sir and Brother:

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I read your new page in The Grizzly Bear entitled "A Bit O' Farming" by R. H. Taylor of the State Department of Agriculture. I suppose that I am particularly interested because I have a small ranch of twenty-five acres, which I have only had about two years, and anything that pertains to farming always interests me and should interest every Native Son to a certain extent.

As California first made her great reputation by the discovery and production of gold, and that product decreases in amount, which it is yearly doing, we must again build up our reputation of being the best state in the Union and one of the finest countries in the world in which to live, by fostering and encouraging the growth of our fruits, both in quantity and quality. This will again bring as much gold to our Golden State as was ever taken out of the beds of the many rivers and from the depths of the mountains.

I believe that a page given over to the encouragement of agriculture in each issue will be a wonderful thing for the good of the state, and will create more interest in the country than in the city, which is the tendency among young men of today.

With best wishes for your future success with this page,

Yours very fraternally,
(Signed) CHAS. R. BLAKE,
Past President,

Richmond Parlor No. 217, N.S.G.W.
Richmond, March 2, 1921.

(Editor's Note—"A Bit O' Farming," which made its initial appearance in the March Grizzly Bear, will be continued as a regular feature of the magazine. It is because so many of our readers, all over California, are engaged in the state's chief industry—farming—that this new feature was decided upon. And being edited by R. H. Taylor, an expert in his line, this department will be both of interest and of benefit to California "farmers."—C.M.H.)

200 pounds or preferably 250 pounds pressure. The machines must furnish ample agitation to keep all the ingredients thoroughly mixed at all times and prevent the spray becoming more concentrated in the bottom of the tank. Use good nozzles, preferably large eddy chamber type with small openings in the discs. Discs wear out rapidly and should be changed often. If spray guns are used keep them so regulated as to give out only a fine mist spray. Use 10 pounds paste or 5 pounds powdered arsenate of lead to 200 gallons.

TIME OF APPLICATION.

(a) If possible, begin first spray as soon as half of the petals have fallen. Go over the orchard a second time not later than seven to ten days after the beginning of the first application.

(b) First cover spray should begin four weeks from the time of beginning the first calyx spray. Go over the orchard a second time not later than seven to ten days after the beginning of the cover spray.

(c) Go over the orchard again with a light spray finishing not later than four weeks before picking time.

PICKING.

If at time of picking a conspicuous amount of spray residue shows up, be careful that it is removed before picking.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

It is believed that spray residue difficulties can be eliminated by using care in spraying. Use standard brands of lead arsenate, see that you have good pressure, the proper type of nozzle, and a good agitator in your tank. Pay particular attention to the calyx spray. The possibility of eliminating the later sprays, which have caused the trouble, will depend on how thoroughly the worm is controlled by the early sprays.

In all the cover sprays the greatest possible care should be exercised to give a complete, uniform coating on all the fruit and foliage but not to allow any excessive dripping or splashing. This necessitates the use of nozzles with very small openings in the disc and very high pressure in the pumps to produce a fog-like spray.

The trees must of course be sprayed from all sides and on the large, old pear trees better results will be obtained if the inside of the tree is sprayed first. Therefore the operators should be instructed to get the nozzle or spray gun inside the spread of the branches before it is opened. Then spray as well as possible all of the fruit and foliage on the inner part of the tree, after which the outer and remaining portion may be sprayed more advantageously by going completely around each tree. The desirable thing to do is to spray each pear and each leaf from every possible angle.

The methods recommended above should insure pears and also apples free from worms whether applied to large orchards or individual trees in home yards.

LIQUID vs. DUST SPRAYS.

For the owner of a few trees application of liquid sprays under high pressure for the control of pests or diseases is a difficult problem owing to the general inability to secure the use of adequate machinery. There is yet much to be done in determining the relative efficacy of the two methods, but with our present knowledge the situation seems to be as follows: Liquid sprays may be more evenly applied and consequently, generally secure more perfect control. Expensive machinery, however, is necessary in connection therewith. It is more difficult to secure even distribution of dust sprays. Atmospheric conditions at the time of application must be close to ideal. On the other hand, relatively inexpensive equipment can be satisfactorily used especially where small amounts of material are required. For small areas that are to be treated one can afford to secure some of the small dusting outfits and can apply preventive measures more often than would be necessary or advisable with liquid sprays. Another advantage of dust sprays around a house is that there is not nearly the likelihood of injury to the house paint as is the case when liquid sprays containing injurious ingredients such as lead arsenate, lime sulphur, etc., are blown against the house by the wind. It is almost impossible to thoroughly spray a tree near a building without getting some of the material on it. Dusting material will of course stick to the paint but not as much as a liquid spray, and what is more important the dry material will not react on the paint, especially during dry weather, and the tendency will be for all or most of it to blow off the house before rains make it possible to injure the paint.

Limited space prohibits a more thorough discussion of this subject. However, our readers can always obtain further information on application to their local hardware store or through the advertising columns of this or any agricultural magazine.

POTATOES FOR PLANTING.

The selection of seed stock for the potato garden is of utmost importance. Potato diseases are becoming more widespread every year and many of them when they are once in the ground are difficult to eradicate. Under no circumstances should diseased potatoes be planted. Certified seed potatoes are now being grown in the state, and those not familiar with potato diseases would do well to buy stock from reliable dealers which they are sure is clean and which is true to varietal name. As a further disinfection precaution all potatoes for seed should be dipped before planting in a corrosive sublimate solution consisting of four ounces to fifteen gallons of water. Dissolve the corrosive sublimate in hot water and then allow to cool before using. The potatoes can be dipped in this solution a sack at a time and allow to remain in it from one-half to two hours. After two sacks have been dipped it is advisable to add about 25% more of the strong solution to maintain the strength.

SETTING HENS AND YOUNG CHICKS.

Healthy chicks may be insured by attention to a few important details long before they are hatched. The best eggs are none too good for hatching purposes. When selecting them use only those of normal size, uniform in shape, and less than two weeks old. Abnormal, small and poorly shaped eggs should be discarded. Do not take eggs which have thin or very porous looking shells. The selection of uniformly large eggs of the same color is one of the quickest ways of securing uniformity in the offspring and to increase the size of the eggs. Eggs being kept for hatching purposes should be turned daily when they are held for more than a week or so.

Before setting the hen dust her thoroughly with insect powder. In doing so hold the hen by the feet with the head down and work the powder well into the feathers, especially those around the vent and under the wings. The same thing should be done again about the eighth day of incubation to be sure no lice are present when the chicks are hatched. The powder should also be sprinkled in the nest. For this purpose sodium fluorid may be used.

Nests should be partially darkened as the hen is not so likely to become restless under these conditions. Examine the nests periodically and remove all extraneous matter and be careful to remove all broken eggs and all portions of these should any breakage occur. Nests containing broken eggs soon become infested with mites and lice and this is likely to cause the hen to become uneasy and leave the nest.

Modern conveniences make it possible to raise chicks without the use of setting hens. Thousands of chicks are hatched in incubators on a wholesale scale and shipped to various purchasers immediately upon hatching. These are commonly called "day old chicks." This enables one to get started with a few dozen poultry promptly in the spring simply by the use of a small brooder to keep the chicks warm until they are old enough to care for themselves. Choice of breed makes little difference in ordering chicks. They should be started as soon as possible if eggs are to be produced for the high price period of fall and winter. This method is particularly advantageous with white leghorns, the leading laying breed at the present time, since the hens of this breed are admittedly poor mothers. Detailed instructions as to the building of stoveless brooders may be secured upon application to the College of Agriculture, Berkeley, or to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

PLANT QUARANTINE VITAL.

Every Californian should be vitally interested in the problem of protecting the agriculture of this state through preventing the introduction of pests and diseases not now existing here or which may be limited to a restricted locality within the state. The state's geographical position and climatic condition render it particularly susceptible to the introduction of pests from all parts of the world. Ships coming into our ports from many points are constantly bringing in infested or infected material. The Quarantine Service of the State Department of Agriculture is a most important branch serving to protect our interests in an unostentatious yet most effective manner. Its best service, however, can only be rendered through active co-operation of every individual within the state. Outsiders are continually endeavoring to ship into this state contraband material and the eagle-eyed inspector cannot catch everything. The entire citizenry should become familiar with the provisions of the plant quarantines and report any violations which may come to their attention.

Imagine, for instance, what would happen if the Mediterranean fruitfly were to secure a foothold in California. Immediately an annual fruit crop of approximately 2,530,000 tons, valued to the grower at close to $237,000,000, would be a drug on the market. The Federal Horticultural Board would immediately quarantine this state and prevent the shipment of fruit to other states in the Union, and these states would also place quarantines against us. This small fly where it now exists has practically ruined the commercial fruit industry, especially such fruits as are grown extensively here. It has traveled from the Mediterranean country almost around the world to Australia and from there made a big jump to the Hawaiian Islands and has been knocking at our doors for the last twenty years. Hardly a month passes by without infested fruit material being intercepted at the ports of entry by the quarantine service. In spite of this fact, however, the uninformed are continually endeavoring to smuggle in fruits, especially tropical fruits, containing larvae of this fly.

The dairyman of the state on the other hand are vitally interested in keeping out the alfalfa weevil now established in the intermountain states. As a matter of fact, it is at the present time within a few miles of the California line in Washoe County, Nevada. This pest is most likely to be introduced in emigrant movables, especially in packing material. Any railroad office can supply information as to the regulations covering moving of materials from the quarantine area into this state, but it behooves every citizen to be on the lookout for violations. The introduction of the alfalfa weevil would probably result in the complete destruction of the first crop of alfalfa and most of the second and how much more we do not know. This is based on actual observations in other states. It is possible that this pest might be even more serious here than in the other states because of our more equitable climate. The failure of California's basic industry—agriculture—cannot help but materially affect the success of all our commercial lines of business. The alfalfa crop alone in a normal year will average over three and one-half million tons.

The citrus industry would be practically wiped out were the citrus canker to secure a foothold within the state, yet uninformed people are continually endeavoring to bring in citrus fruits, especially grapefruit, from quarantine areas.

from which through ticket to Stockton was purchased; you can't beat the no-stopover regulation by buying tickets from one point to another. Any member, of course, may pay out as much as he desires in railroad fare, irrespective of instructions, but will be reimbursed by the Grand Parlor only on the basis of the least possible mileage figure. To be safe, and not sorry afterward, read the committee's circular to instructions before starting, and then follow them carefully.

Remember, as most important, to get a receipt when purchasing ticket TO Stockton; and don't lose it. If you can't produce it, you will be out of pocket just one-half your fare home, for the half-fare FROM Stockton can be had only upon presentation of receipt.

"OUT IN CALIFORNIA"

AT STOCKTON N. S. GRAND PARLOR

Alfred Dalton, a member of Sutter Fort Parlor, No. 242, N.S.G.W. (Sacramento), at present residing in Los Angeles, as a representative of the State Real Estate Department has traveled extensively over California, and because of the numerous verse he has composed describing the state's wonders and beauties, has become known as the "wandering minstrel."

Dalton's latest composition, which has been favorably commented upon, is a song entitled "Out in California." The words express his version of the state's glories, while the title page, a gem in colors, shows the setting sun, the redwoods and pines, the grape, olive and fig, sea and mountains, and also the state flower, eschscholtzia, or golden poppy.

Dalton plans to present "Out in California" to the Grand Parlor of Native Sons at Stockton for endorsement. He feels that he has produced a lyric worthy of the appreciation and approval of all Californians, and wants the assistance of the Native Sons and Native Daughters in popularizing it.

PALO ALTO INSTALLING TEAM

Palo Alto—At the close of the Fortieth Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W. (Redding 1917), Grand President Jo V. Snyder appointed as district deputy for district 49 Past President I. P. Vandervoort of Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216. When entering upon his duties he conceived the idea of installing the officers of the Parlor in the district with an installing team composed of a full set of acting grand officers. This necessitated each acting officer learning and delivering the charge to the officer-elect on assuming his station; the floor-work, which was carefully carried out, was in charge of an acting grand marshal. So, July 23, 1917, D.D.G.P. Vandervoort with a well-drilled team and in the presence of a large number of Native Sons, installed the officers of Garden City Parlor, No. 82, at San Jose. The installation ceremony, as exemplified on this occasion, met with the hearty approval of every one present, and the team was highly complimented. It has been the policy of every district deputy since appointed from Palo Alto Parlor to continue the good work thus originated.

For the past two years District Deputy Geo. W. Tinney has followed in the footsteps of his predecessor to such an extent that the work of his installing team has been appreciated and approved by every Parlor in Santa Clara County. During the year just about to close D.D.G.P. Fred. L. Thomas of San Jose Parlor, No. 22, and D.D.G.P. Andrew J.

Roll of Santa Clara Parlor, No. 100, have also adopted the plan, and both have well-organized and drilled installing teams.

In Santa Clara County it is believed that this plan of installation not only creates greater interest and enthusiasm than the old plan of having the district deputy unassisted; it also relieves the latter of the necessity of delivering all the charges, and thus often causing the ceremonies to become tiresome. The new policy, too, creates a friendly rivalry in the mastering of the charges not only among the members of each team, but also the different teams.

A WELL-KNOWN "NATIVE SON"— THE BROADWAY DEPARTMENT STORE.

In "Roughing It De Luxe," our genial friend, Irvin S. Cobb, defines a native son as "One who has acquired special merit by being born in California." Those who come from other parts may just as well admit that it's a great state to be born in, too, and grow up in as well, and to continue to live in; and, last of all, to end one's days in! Leastwise, lots of folks from Iowa, and Missouri, and Ohio (not to mention others who hie to this balmy clime each year in order to escape King Winter's wrath)—having been unable to control the first two or three chapters of their destiny—have decided that half, or even a quarter, of a loaf is better than none at all; and the privilege of dying in California more than makes up for the misfortune of having been born "Back East!"

Be that as it may, it is our present purpose to apply this definition of a "native son" to an institution familiar to native sons and daughters of Los Angeles, at least, and its environs—we refer to The Broadway Department Store which, on February 24, 1921, celebrated the silver anniversary of its birth in Los Angeles just twenty-five years ago. On that occasion, the 1,700 employes of Arthur Letts, the founder and president of the Broadway, presented him with a silver replica of the present store-building, perfect in miniature detail, "as an expression of gratitude for his thoughtfulness and consideration for their comfort, happiness and progress."

Standing at Fourth street and Broadway, on the site of its modest housing a quarter-century ago, the handsome, completely and modernly equipped Broadway Department Store of today, with its area of over eleven acres, is in itself a monument which attests the growth of the City of Los Angeles, as well as of this store's business—a record of its founder's vision, and ability to progress with the times.

The question may well be asked, "What factors have been responsible for the almost phenomenal growth and progress of the Broadway?" Part of the answer, at least, is to be found in the fact that not only was this store founded upon the basic cornerstones of Truth, Courtesy, Liberality and Value, but in that these qualities have been put into practice as well—Truth in Advertising, Courtesy from Employees, Liberality and Value in the Merchandise offered, and in the house's returned-goods policy. Thus has The Broadway Department Store earned the confidence of this Southern California community.—Advertising.

Heart of the San Joaquin Valley-- Gateway to Yosemite

(BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

VACATION TIME IS DRAWING NEAR, train schedules and automobile road maps are making their appearance on office desks and on the dining-room tables. The foremost question of the day is, "Where shall we go for a vacation?"

Now, you Native Sons and Native Daughters, do you remember that within the confines of our own state we have a number of the beauty spots of the world, none of which are greater than Yosemite Valley?

Have you been to the Yosemite National Park, of which the famous Yosemite Valley is only a small portion? If so, you are ready for another trip; if not, do not delay any longer. A day from San Francisco and two days from Los Angeles, if you are in a great hurry, will put you into the great Valley, where you may either live in the luxury of fine hotels or out under the pines with only the sky and trees for a roof. Can't you feel the call of the whispering pines, the falling waters, the colorful flowers? Here the wild animal becomes friend of man, the squirrels will eat out of your hand, and the song birds do not take to flight or cease singing at your approach.

Leaving Oakland, you travel through the cherry orchards of Haywards, over well-paved highway through the smiling Livermore Valley, on into the San Joaquin Valley, the home of butter, milk, peaches, apricots, almonds, grapes and the more tropical fig. One hundred and twenty miles of prosperous cities, farms, and orchards greet the eye, revealing to you California's great inland empire that feeds thousands of people in all parts of the world.

MERCED is your objective point, for from here you can enter the great playground of Yosemite National Park over the Wawona Road in your own car, by railroad, or by automobile stage. Out of Merced you have forty miles of paved highway, extending into the midst of peach and fig orchards on into the cattle and grain country of the foothills and a gradual ascent into the Yosemite region.

If you so desire, your car can be shipped to El Portal, via the Yosemite Valley Railroad, for use in the park, for there are many interesting points to visit.

If you are coming from Southern California, you have the choice of the great inland highway skirting the desert, crossing the Tehachapi Mountains into the great oil section and on into the region of grapes, peaches, figs, and even your familiar oranges and grapefruit, for Merced is in the heart of the great San Joaquin Valley storehouse. A second route for you is the great coast highway following the ocean, crossing the Coast Range via Pacheco Pass, hence traveling across the famous cattle country of the West-side of Merced County.

Over either route you have traversed upwards of 300 miles and night overtakes you, but you have reached MERCED, "THE GATEWAY TO YOSEMITE." Let's pause, for you are in the home of abundance—the home of every kind of crop that can be grown in California. Here you meet peaches by the tons for drying, canning, don't say that you have failed to feast more than the eye. Hasn't all this made you want to rest under your own fig tree and gather your own grapes? It is all a possibility if you will just stop and think it over. If you are an ex-service man or woman, find out what the State is offering you at Delhi.

Now, you must pull yourself away, for you have ninety miles yet to travel before you reach Yosemite Valley. But let's stretch that ninety miles out and take in the old town of Hornitos (meaning "ovens"), the oldest incorporated and fresh for immediate use; apricots flaunt their yellow coats and fragrant breath before you; mound after mound of cantaloupes and watermelons greet your eye; sweet potatoes that have no equal in the entire world are filling car after car on the railroad tracks; grapes for immediate use and for raisins are calling for your attention, for these red, green, purple bells have brought great wealth to our county; the newest to the public, for California wealth, yet the oldest in the world's history, is the fig, 85% sugar, growing in abundance, for Merced County alone has over 10,000 acres planted to that luscious fruit. Why mention more of these things? It will only make you too hungry to start on that needed vacation trip.

You have undoubtedly feasted the eye, but town in the state, still incorporated and with many old buildings yielding up early history of California. And as long as we are stretching, let's take in the Mariposa Big Trees, which every Californian is familiar with from the geography books. Now on to Yosemite Valley, that great path worn away by the Merced River which you saw down in the San Joaquin Valley, the river that is irrigating Merced County and making possible that great storehouse of food.

When you are tired of the grandeur of Yosemite come back to the fruit country and let us tell you more and show you more of what man has done, for it is not all done yet and there is plenty of room for you to come and join us in the greatest garden in the world—

STOCKTON ARRANGES PROGRAM OF ENTERTAINMENT FOR NATIVE SON GRAND PARLOR GUESTS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

STOCKTON IS ALL READY TO welcome and entertain the members of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West. Although the home of one of the oldest and the largest and wealthiest Parlors in the Order—Stockton No. 7—as well as one of the oldest and the largest Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West—Joaquin No. 5—this will be Stockton's first Native Son Grand Parlor. When the history of the Forty-fourth session is written, it is safe to say it will refer to Stockton as being one of the best host cities the Grand Parlor has ever had the pleasure and honor of being the guest of.

Naturally, Stockton Parlor No. 7 is in direct charge of the entertainment features, but the whole city—citizens generally, officials, Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations—has joined with it, that nothing may be left undone that will assure a successful meeting. "Give Them the Best That Stockton Has," is the adopted slogan expressing the "Gateway City's" intentions toward the visitors.

Stockton Parlor, in arranging the details, is represented by a committee of its members composed of the following, notation in parenthesis referring to the particular sub-committee of which the party is chairman: W. E. O'Connor, general chairman; W. C. Neumiller, vice-chairman; A. J. Turner, secretary; George E. Catts, treasurer; H. R. McNoble (reception), Ray Friedberger (accommodations), Thomas H. Luke (finances), Chester W. Conklin (decorations), H. W. Dunlap (badges), George E. Catts (printing and programs), A. C. Oullahan (publicity), M. J. Foley (music), J. Carroll Skinner (transportation), Julius Gaedke (grand ball), Harry H. Hermann (banquet and refreshments), C. P. Reardon (entertainments), F. W. Wurster (parade).

The Grand Parlor itself will be in session four days—Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday—and all members of the Order are privileged to attend. Many of the state's brightest and most eloquent men will be in attendance, and it is well worth any member's time to hear the discussions of the various questions presented for consideration. Details of the program outside the Grand Parlor follow:

SUNDAY visitors will be met and escorted to Native Sons' Hall, to register, receive their badges, tickets, etc. Accommodations will be provided, too, for those who have not made advance reservations.

MONDAY evening there will be a reception, open to the public, at Masonic Auditorium. Judge Hubert R. McNoble (Stockton 7), Past Grand President, will preside, and Mayor Dana P. Eicke will deliver the city's official welcome, which will be responded to, on behalf of the Grand Parlor, by Grand President James F. Hoey of Martinez. Miss Marie E. Brusie (Argonaut 166, N.D.G.W.) of San Francisco, Secretary of the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' Central Committee, will give an illustrated talk on the work of the Order's unselfish homeless children charity. Among the ten-minute speakers will be Judge Charles E. McLaughlin, Past Grand President, of Sacramento; Seth Millington (Colusa 69) of Colusa; Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) of San Francisco, and Sheriff William I. Traeger, Grand First Vice-president, of Los Angeles. Assisting in receiving on this occasion will be large delegations from the two local Native Daughter Parlors—Joaquin 5 and Caliz de Oro 206. The evening will be concluded with dancing and refreshments. Members of the State Legislature have been invited to attend this reception.

TUESDAY evening the grand ball will be held in Masonic Auditorium. The affair will be informal, and admission will be by invitation only.

WEDNESDAY will be "Lodi Day." Starting at 10:30 a.m., there will be an auto trip through a portion of San Joaquin County—from Stockton to the historic Fremont tree at Loekeford, thence through the world-famous tokay grape territory over highways flanked on either side by miles of vineyards and blossoming apricot, peach and almond orchards, through the old pioneer town of Woodbridge, arriving at the thriving City of Lodi, the richest and most progressive city, according to size and population, in the world. Here the citizens of Lodi, assisted by a committee representing Lodi Parlor, No. 18, N.S.G.W., consisting of Hilliard E. Welch, Theodore G. Elwert, William C. Brown, James S. Gerard, Mel Graffigna, Clyde H. Gregg, Michael O. Holt, Adolph P. Krumb, Victor R. Larson, Fred L. Marehand, Joseph K. Newfield and Ernest M. Setzer, will take the visitors in hand. They will be escorted to the

That same evening, members only of the Grand Parlor will be Stockton Parlor's guests at a hot turkey banquet-supper at 6:30 in Masonic Auditorium. At 8 o'clock the doors will be opened, and members of the Order as well as friends may occupy seats in the gallery and listen to the addresses. Governor William D. Stephens has been invited to be one of the speakers on this occasion. While the visiting Native Sons are being banquetted, their accompanying women will be entertained as guests of the Native Daughters at a function at Native Sons' Hall.

THURSDAY evening there will be an elaborate entertainment at Native Sons' Hall, as well as theater parties, etc.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS WILL LOOK AFTER THE WOMEN VISITORS.

The two local Native Daughter Parlors are giving Stockton Parlor every assistance in arranging for the entertainment of all visitors; they will especially look after the women-folks and see that time does not hang heavy on their hands while the men-folks are at work. Members of the Parlors' co-operating committee include:

Joaquin No. 5—Miss Hannah Gray, Miss Clara Stier, Mrs. Isabell Stockwell (all charter members), Past Grand President Mamie G. Peyton, Mrs. A. J. Turner, Mrs. J. W. Herrick, Mrs. Mamie Mantley, Mrs. George E. Catts, Miss Ida Safferhill, Miss Catherine Tully.

Caliz de Oro 206—Mrs. H. J. F. Berkeley, Miss Norma Del Monte, Miss Edna Hooper, Miss May Madden, Miss Maybelle McDonald, Mrs. Tom Hinkley, Mrs. Thomas Weeks, Miss Ella Chisholm, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, Mrs. Will Quevillon.

STOCKTON PARLOR'S HOME AND DISTINCTIVE FEATURES.

Stockton Parlor, No. 7, holds a position in the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West that both its members and its home-city may well be proud of. Originally organized March 12, 1881, with fifteen charter members—four of whom, Ralph P. Lane, Dr. W. G. Wallace, Leroy S. Atwood, Frank E. Lane, are still on the membership roll—it has far outdistanced all Parlors in the run for membership. The Parlor did not prosper at first, but following the Fifth Grand Parlor at Sacramento in 1882 several grand officers went there and gave it the needed "boost," and it has not stopped going ahead since. The Parlor has thrice been host for the general Admission Day celebration—in 1883, 1896 and 1912. Since its institution it has been well represented at all Grand Parlors, and its delegates have sponsored and supported some of the most progressive legislation. Its membership is made up of many of Stockton City's leading business and professional men, and it enjoys the confidence and esteem of every citizen.

Stockton Parlor's new home, fitted up at a cost of close to $30,000, will appeal especially to the visitors. It is located in the very heart of the city, in the Smith & Lang building at Main and San Joaquin streets. Meeting-hall and club-rooms are provided, the latter fronting San Joaquin street. Both are provided with every modern convenience, and beautifully finished and furnished in harmonizing colors. In the club-rooms, where the visitors will be welcome to make their headquarters, are reading and writing accommodations, billiard, pool and card tables, phonograph, player-piano, buffet, etc. W. P. "Dutch" Rothenbush, marshal of the Parlor, is the club steward.

The lodge-room, back from the noise of busy thoroughfares, is commodious and provided with leather-covered seats. Three decorations, designed by Recording Secretary A. J. Turner and executed in mission style, are the pride of the Parlor and distinctive ornaments. One is an easel with solid base, holding the charter, which is topped by a mission bell. The second is a frame of mission posts with tile roof, containing the Great Seal of

STOCKTON PARLOR'S CHARTER.

State in colors and electric lighted. Both are set on the stage containing the president's station. The third is a handsome frame, plush draped, containing an electric-lighted map of California, in colors, and is so hung on the wall next to the marshal's station as to be plainly seen in its entirety from all parts of the room when illuminated.

HISTORIC SPOTS IN S. F.

TO BE MARKED BY N. S.

San Francisco—April 16, with appropriate ceremonies, there will be unveiled in this city bronze tablets, placed by the Historic Landmarks Committee of the Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., to mark historic spots.

One, at the corner of First and Market streets, has this inscription: "Twenty-five feet northeast of this tablet the shore line of San Francisco Bay extended at the time gold was discovered by James W. Marshall at Coloma, California, January 24, 1848."

The other, on the base of the Donahue monument on the other side of Market street, has a raised map of the water line from Mission street to Water street, as shown by William M. Eddy's map of 1851, and an inscription to the effect that the spot marks the shore line of the bay on January 24, 1848, and that the tablet has been placed by the Historic Landmarks Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, 1921.

"Most any man can be an editor," states a Missouri newspaper. "All he has to do is to sit at his desk six days a week, four weeks a month, twelve months a year, and edit such stuff as this: 'Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry. John Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leak and fell, landing on his back porch. While Harold Green was escorting Miss Viola Wise from the church social last Saturday night a savage dog attacked them and bit Green on the public square. Mr. Frang, while harnessing a broncho last Saturday was kicked south of his corn crib.'"—Trinity Journal (Weaverville).

*Why the Burnham
is Best*

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

THE PICNIC SEASON IN MAY, 1871, had ideal weather conditions, balmy and sunny days prevailing. The Sunday-schools appear to have taken the lead in nearly every town for frolic in the fields. One of the largest of these picnics was on May 6, when 2,500 Sunday-school children of San Francisco went by steamboat to Vallejo and then by rail to Holly Grove, in Napa County. The military companies, civic societies, and even the colored people, where numerous enough, had their day in the groves. Several sad accidents marred the pleasure of some of the parties.

S. G. Myers and family accompanied by Mrs. Nichols and family of Silveyville, Solano County, were returning in a wagon from a picnic near Vacaville May 1. One of the children lost its hat, which caused Myers to stop and get off the wagon to recover it. On starting the team down a hill, he found it unmanageable on account of the lines, when he stopped, becoming caught on the harness and the team ran away. They soon upset the wagon off the grade into a gulley twenty feet below. Mrs. Myers was killed, Mrs. Nicholls had a leg broken, and the children were all badly bruised.

May 6, Sister Camita, a nun from the Benicia, Solano County, convent, returning from a picnic was knocked off the wharf at Martinez, Contra Costa County, by a frightened horse and fatally injured.

Mrs. August Lincoln of Bird Valley, Yolo County, May 10 was thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team upsetting it and had a leg broken.

On a Pioneers' excursion to Calistoga, Napa County, May 21, M. Manuel, a native Californian of pioneer days, slipped off the steps of a car at St. Helena and had his legs so badly mangled he soon expired.

A few showers fell May 15, but on May 27 a cold storm prevailed that did much damage to the strawberry and cherry crops. May 30 a violent wind and rain storm swept over Los Angeles County, doing much damage previous to the rain. About forty tons of strawberries were being received daily from the Santa Clara Valley in San Francisco, and selling at three cents a pound.

The mining stock excitement due to the development in Crown Point, grew intense this month and a thousand or more new investors appeared on California street, San Francisco, to harvest the eagles. The situation was likened to a radiant rainbow arching, with hopefulness, over the state; one end in San Francisco the other in Virginia City, Nevada State, with a pot of gold and silver at each end, which the pilgrim financiers were clutching for. A slight break during the first week of the month caused Crown Point to recede in price to $180 and Belcher to $70 a share, from which figures they advanced May 7 to $260 for Crown Point and $130 for Belcher.

May 9 a "bear" attack broke the price of Crown Point to $210 and Belcher to $120, but during the next week the "bears" made a rush and, like a rocket, Crown Point went to $320 and Belcher to $142. It was nip and tuck during the balance of the month, "bears" pulling down the price, with the help of profit-taking holders, at one time to $260 for Crown Point and $120 for Belcher. They closed at the end of the month with Crown Point at $275 and Belcher at $130.

A battalion of erstwhile barbers and bartenders now appeared on California street, San Francisco, as wealth speculators and wisecracks. Listening to the talk of mining men who were on the "inside" while they were being shaved in the shops and treating at the bars, they took the tips, got in while prices were low, and were now harvesting their opportunity. A bevy of landladies, chambermaids and milliners, whose patrons had told them to buy, now flocked in the brokers' offices, and watched quotations and their wealth increase. When the "winter of discontent" came with falling prices, they stayed with the market. When, in the parlance of Californian street, they had to "dig more mud" to keep up their margins, their speculating brothers dubbed them "mud hens," and the name stuck.

Gambling Wave Passes Over State.

There was a week of trotting and pacing races at Agricultural Park course, San Francisco, beginning May 1. The principal event was the first race, a trot of mile heats, best three in five, for a purse of $5,000. "Blackbird," "Harvest Queen," "McMann," and five others of the fastest trotters in the state were entered. Pools were sold, beginning the day before, in large number, with "Blackbird" the favorite. "Harvest Queen" won the first heat in 2:34½, "Blackbird" the second in 2:35½, "McMann" the third in 2:35, but "Harvest Queen" took the fourth and fifth heats in 2:33½ and won the race, which was a great contest.

Then followed a week of running races over the Alameda course. The principal event was a running race, mile heats, three in five, for a $5,000 purse, May 9. "Tom Atchison," "Nell Flaherty," "Bois d'Arc," "Al Bascom," and "Mamie Hall," the fleetest in the state, contended. It was a big betting affair, pools selling with "Nell Flaherty" the favorite, for two days before the race in San Francisco. "Tom Atchison" won in three straight heats; best time made, 1:47½.

Racing in San Jose followed, and then came a week of trotting and pacing races beginning May 22 over the Alameda track. A trot of mile heats, three in five, for a $5,000 purse, May 23, was a great attraction. "Harvest Queen," "McMann," "Lady Dooley," "May Fly," "California Dexter" and "Lady Signal" were the contenders. In the pools, "Harvest Queen" sold for $1,200, "McMann" at $1,100 and the others for $400. "May Fly" won the first heat, but "Harvest Queen" took the other three; best time, 2:30.

Another illustration of the uncertainty of horse racing was given May 24, when in a pacing race "Defiance," selling as second choice in the pools, through a lot of mishaps distanced his five rivals in the first heat which he paced in 2:23 and took the purse.

The Sacramento Jockey Club commenced its spring meet of a week of racing May 29. May 30 there was a sensational trot of mile heats, three in five, for a $500 purse, in which "Mayflower" sold as favorite at $100 to $50 on the others. She won the first heat in 2:34 3-5. "Copperhead" took the second heat in 2:35 3-5; then "Mary Davis" won the third heat in 2:34 1-5; "Mayflower" encouraged her backers by winning the fourth heat in 2:37 1-5, but "Mary Davis" took the fifth and sixth, and the race, in 2:37.

Governor Leland Stanford's phenomenal trotter, "Occident," now being trained by Jim Eoff in Sacramento, received his first mention this month. It was claimed he could trot a mile inside of 2:20, and his advent was subsequently the cause of the Governor going into the breeding of trotters.

L. H. Titus, a horseman of Los Angeles, bought the trotting stallion "Echo" in New York for $8,000, and brought him to California and located him on his stock farm near that city. "Echo" was a half-brother of the famous "Dexter," the fastest trotter in his day in America.

The Marysville gift concert, in aid of the Northern District Agricultural Society, was drawn May 16. There were 50,000 tickets at $3 each, and 950 prizes. Owing to not more than half the tickets being sold, the prizes were cut 50% and the capital prize was only $10,000, much to the disgust of the ticket holders; otherwise they got a square deal. The first prize of $10,000 was won by ticket 22,806, held by a club of five Marysville citizens, T. W. Kent, Chas. Bometter, August Rupert, Chas. Smith and D. H. Harney. The vendor, Harry Marker, when he sold the ticket treated the quintet with part of the purchase money to wish them good luck. A teamster named Dyer, hauling Washoe, Nevada State, freight, won the second prize of $5,000, and Charles T. Pender, a telegraph operator at Elko, Nevada State, won the third prize of $2,500.

The next lottery to be drawn was the Sacramento Pioneer Association and library scheme, with 1,317 prizes ranging from $15,000 down, and announced for June 1. Owing to non-sale of all the tickets, a postponement was probable. Notwithstanding this apparent slump in the sale of lottery tickets other schemes blossomed as follows:

The Calaveras County Relief Association, managed by the supervisors of the county to pay off the indebtedness, was to give a gift concert at San Andreas August 10, with 200,000 tickets at $2.50 each and $250,000 in prizes. M. G. Lewis was business manager.

The Davisville, Yolo County, Benevolent Society announced a gift concert for July 4; 60,000 tickets were to be sold at $2 each and $60,000 in prizes to be returned to holders. Thos. Allen was manager.

J. Davis & Co. of Sacramento announced a real estate gift concert for their own benefit, to be given August 10; 60,000 tickets at $3 each were to be offered, and prizes of real estate to the value of $125,000 to be given ticket holders.

As a commission of 15% was paid for selling tickets, vendors were as thick as flies in a livery stable.

A gambling wave seemed to be passing over the state, with its crest in San Francisco. With the mining stock excitement, the lottery schemes being promoted in the state, and the pools sold on horse races, Congress Hall, a large billiard parlor in San Francisco, in order to gather in more dollars, was transformed into a keno palace. Tables and seats to accommodate a thousand players were arranged, and the place was thronged nightly with devotees of chance who were willing to try their luck with the numbered cubes.

First Carload of Peanuts Sent From State.

There were no billiard matches this month. Evidently the betting public had gotten tired, and were obeying the axiom, "Never bet on anything that can talk."

The firemen of the Marysville, Yuba County, fire department paid a visit to the Stockton firemen May 10. They chartered a train of six coaches. At Stockton there was a parade and a banquet. On their return trip they were received with a band and a big delegation of the Sacramento firemen on their arrival there and induced to remain over until the next day. They were given a rousing reception.

One hundred lamps, to burn gasoline, a new illuminating substance, were erected in Sacramento and the system was pronounced a success.

The tent tabernacle used by revivalists during April in Sacramento was set up in San Francisco and the saving of souls was being successfully carried on there.

The first carloads of peanuts to be shipped from this state left for Omaha, Nebraska, May 16.

A woman's suffrage convention met in San Francisco May 16 with forty-two delegates. Mrs. John A. Collins was made president and Mrs. DeWolf secretary.

The American Medical Association met in San Francisco May 3. Its annual meeting was attended by several hundred physicians and surgeons from all states of the Union. Dr. D. W. Yardell of Kentucky was selected as president. It refused to seat a female delegate, deciding there was an inequality in sex.

The Americus Club, composed of a score of prominent Tammany, New York City, politicians, came to the state in a special car named "Wm. M. Tweed" for a good time, and had it.

There was a rush of prominent people from San (Continued on page 24.)

SPREAD THE TRUTH

When you have finished reading your Grizzly Bear, mark the Jap articles and SEND THE NUMBER TO EASTERN ACQUAINTANCES, and ask them to pass it on to their friends.

The East reads and wants to be informed of the true situation regarding the yellow peril, and the East must be enlightened before it will join forces with the West to ront the Asiatics.

The Japs see to it that the East gets limitless quantities of lying and misleading propaganda, and all White-Americans should unite to meet that situation with a flood of facts.

The Grizzly Bear will do its part by publishing articles dealing with the truth. Will you do your part, by keeping the truth in circulation?

It is suggested, too, that every Parlor of Native Sons not now doing so, subscribe to the magazine for its local libraries—public and high school.

THINK IT OVER!

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, we believe, with the exception of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, the only organization that limits membership exclusively to NATIVE-BORN AMERICANS.

Knowing the serious conditions in this country today, this fact alone should impel every Native Son of California to immediately SEEK AFFILIATION with that American-born and American-operated institution, the man-power and wealth of which are pledged to the protection of American institutions in times of peace as well as in times of war.

FORTY-FOURTH GRAND PARLOR, N. S. G. W. FULL, BUT SUMMARIZED, ACCOUNT OF THE STOCKTON GATHERING

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE FORTY-FOURTH GRAND PARLOR, Native Sons of the Golden West, in session at Stockton, April 18, 19 and 21, was one of the largest attended in the Order's history, and the younger members were far in the majority. Grand President James F. Hoey presided. A mass of business was before the Grand Parlor for consideration but, harmony prevailing, it was promptly dispatched in accordance with the desires of the majority. Questions directly affecting the Order alone, as well as many of general importance, came up for consideration and each, in its turn, was given a full and fair hearing. Verily, the Grand Parlor is, indeed, a school for educating the Native Son in public affairs. A complete, though brief, account of the Grand Parlor proceedings follows:

GRAND PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

Grand President James F. Hoey was frequently interrupted by approving applause when rendering his report. He dwelt upon conditions in the Order, familiar to readers of The Grizzly Bear, and in addition said, among other things:

"The value and worth of our organization is today appreciated even to a greater degree than it has been before. The fact that a larger percent of our membership than that of any other fraternity answered the call of the colors in the recent world conflict has convinced the people that our teachings in time of peace are founded upon the highest of principles and that it is these teachings that bear fruit in time of war. The past year has been one of peace, goodwill and happiness and our state and Order are now confronted with an era of prosperity. We are assembled today in annual session to legislate for the best interests of our fraternity, and let me assure you that the progress and welfare of our Order depend upon the wisdom and character of our deliberations. * * *

"The Grand Parlor displayed its wisdom when it decided to return to the state celebration [of Admission Day], and it should never again be abolished, as there is no other occurrence which puts our Order before the public in a more pleasing light than this manner of recognizing the anniversary of our admission to the Union. I would strongly urge, however, that only the larger cities be designated as a place of holding the state celebration. I was advised that a bill introduced in the present Legislature which provided for school holidays eliminated Admission Day as such holiday, and it was only the quick action on the part of the Native Sons and Native Daughters that caused an amendment to be offered, and thus give the young minds of the state an opportunity to pause for a time and consider the importance of this day in our state's history. * * *

"A severe shock to the people of this commonwealth and an irreparable loss to the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West occurred when the death of our beloved brother, Fred H. Jung, was chronicled. A more capable and efficient secretary, a more sincere Native Son, or a more loyal friend never crossed the threshold of a Parlor of our Order. It has often been said that no question could be framed concerning our Order which could not instantly be answered by our former Grand Secretary. He guided many Grand Presidents through the storm, and it was a source of great relief to them when they knew that they could take down the telephone receiver and instantly receive solutions of knotty problems that otherwise would cause them much sober and serious thought. His timely suggestions have lightened their tasks, and only they who have had the honor of Grand President bestowed upon them during this incumbency of Brother Jung can fully realize and appreciate the worth and value of this lamented brother to the Order. Having had the advantage of the counsel and advice of Brother Jung but for a short time, I believe that I realize more fully than any other the loss that our fraternity has sustained and the task that confronts the delegates of this Grand Parlor to select a successor to our departed brother.

"I am much indebted for the able assistance given me during my administration by the district deputies and the members of committees appointed by me at the commencement of my term. I deemed it for the best interest of our Order to recognize only the merit system, and with this thought in mind I appointed district deputies only upon the recommendations of their Parlor, as I am convinced that this is the better plan, if efficiency is our goal, as the Parlor knows best the qualifications of its members. For Grand Parlor committees I endeavored to select only those who had special training that would enable them to efficiently perform the duties of the committee. * * *

"With a full realization of the ability of Brother Andrew Moeker as an organizer, I reappointed him as Grand Organizer and, like Grand Presidents before me, I am pleased to report that he has devoted the same persistent efforts towards the upbuilding of our Order during my term in office that he displayed during the terms of my predecessors. Many years of training have resulted in making Brother Moeker an expert in this line. He is quick to detect weak points in a Parlor and he has no hesitancy in presenting the remedy, if any there be. He is not afraid of work, and I would recommend to my successor a continuation of his services. * * *

"There should be at least 100,000 young men born in our state who, prompted by their pride of nativity, love for state and their interest in the welfare of this commonwealth, are seeking the portals of an organization the prime purpose of which is to advance such noble principles as those which are the foundation stones of our fraternity. I have given the matter of increasing our membership much thought and study, and have concluded that it would be advantageous to the ultimate result sought if a change was made in our system of organization. * * * During the last year the Order has made the substantial gain of 1,682 members, for which I feel quite proud, but as the last year was one of reconstruction I predict that the term of my successor will be one of the most productive during the history of this Order. * * *

"I regret that a copy of our official organ [The Grizzly Bear] does not find its way monthly into the home of every member of our fraternity, as it is a valuable publication and has accomplished a great deal during its existence along the lines for which it was created. Each issue contains valuable and interesting matter, and it is often the reading of the success of one Parlor that encourages the members of another to renew their efforts with additional energy. I cannot commend too highly its efficient editor, Clarence M. Hunt, who is a painstaking publisher and a sincere Native Son. The Grizzly Bear would be a valuable asset for the Grand Parlor, and it would be a progressive step if the Grand Parlor secured all the stock of this publication which, I am advised, may be done. I am convinced that the Grand Parlor can operate this paper at a considerable profit. The Grizzly Bear is of the greatest value in giving general information to all the Parlor in the state, and its files are an accurate and complete history of the Order.

"The first impression is usually the lasting one, and therefore the value and beauty of the lessons first taught a candidate should not be sacrificed for a desire to have the elective officers render the ritual. From Parlor in the larger cities we may expect an efficient set of officers at all times, but in the smaller Parlor a demand for a strict compliance with the rule that the regular officers must learn the ritualistic charges has often prevented loyal Native Sons from becoming past presidents and candidates from being initiated. I would recommend the encouragement of initiatory teams, to conduct the candidates through the mysteries of our fraternity when the regular officers are not capable so to do. * * *

"Through the channels of the Past President's Association much good has been accomplished, and as this association is only in its infancy a continuation of its achievements may be expected. There is here presented an opportunity to carry on those labors commenced in the Subordinate Parlor, which a past president is more able to perform by reason of the experience received as an officer in his Parlor. I appreciate the many offers of co-operation from the assemblies, as well as the invitations received to attend their functions. Every Past President should be enrolled as a member of one of the assemblies. * * *

"I was honored by an appointment as a member of the Executive Committee of the Japanese Exclusion League [of California] which carried on a campaign of education throughout the state, that our people might be fully advised as to the seriousness of the situation that confronts California as a result of the peaceful penetration of the yellow race. Past Grand President Lichtenberger and Grand First Vice-president Traeger were also members of this committee, and through the experience gained in a like organization in Southern California their services were of great value to this league. I congratulate the Parlor on the liberal response to the call for funds, and also those loyal Native

Sons who devoted their time and energy that California might be preserved as a white man's home. * * *

"I cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing my heartfelt and sincere thanks to Past Grand President Mooser who, prompted by his sincerity and loyalty to the Order, volunteered his services as Grand Secretary until a successor to Brother Jung was appointed. Brother Mooser is a secretary of rare ability, and he was indeed the man of the hour because, had it not been for his generous offer, it would have been difficult for the grand officers to solve the problem that confronted them. The Grand Parlor, as well as myself, owes an everlasting debt of gratitude to Brother Mooser for the services rendered, as he was at all times ready and willing to assist me in whatever manner lay within his power. * * *

"Now that I am to surrender the trust you have reposed in me, I do so with an honest feeling that I attempted at all times to perform my duties carefully, faithfully, and with all the ability that I possessed, and my only regret is that I could not have accomplished more on behalf of our beloved Order, and my fondest hope is that my efforts may be of some permanent and lasting value. To the grand officers who served with me but not under me I desire to register my appreciation for your persistent efforts during the past year; my sense of obligation and gratitude has been deepened, and my love for you at this parting is stronger and purer than ever before. To the membership of our Order that has honored me I can only say that words have not been coined that can adequately express my devotion and gratitude, but as deeds speak louder than words let me assure you that it will be my every desire to manifest my feeling of love for you and my appreciation for the confidence and trust you reposed in me, by my actions after I am retired to the ranks. May my successor enjoy the same co-operation and assistance that was extended to me, for thus will his burdens be lightened. May we all lay aside our personal ambitions and keep our hands clasped in union, then will our Order continue its prosperity and our dreams, hopes and aspirations of today will be fully realized on the morrow."

OTHER REPORTS.

Historiographer Frank C. Merritt's report gave an account of his activities, which show that he has, to use his own words, "taken seriously the functions of my office."

The report of Louis H. Mooser, Grand Secretary Pro-tem, set out in detail the transactions of that office. It showed the membership to be 24,600 at the close of 1920, an increase of 1,682; that Subordinate Parlor paid out $105,728.18 in benefits the past year, and had total assets December 31 of $987,709.92.

Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald reported a balance of $18,406.86 in all Grand Parlor funds. From Subordinate Parlor he received donations to the Japanese Exclusion League of California totaling $540.50. [Many Parlor made contributions direct.]

The History Committee reported that, with the approval of the Department of History, University of California, Rolland Vandegrift and Ralph S. Kuykendall (principals) and Lawrence F. Hill and David Bjork (alternates) had been named as Native Sons Fellows in Pacific Coast History for the year 1921-22. [Vandegrift and Kuykendall are well known to Grizzly Bear readers, for they have contributed many valuable history articles to its columns.]

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

The Forty-fourth may well be designated the "resolution" Grand Parlor, for "resolves" on nearly every conceivable subject were presented in quantity, and of general interest as well as pertaining exclusively to the work of the Order. Those of general interest adopted by the Grand Parlor are summarized here; no reference is made to those rejected:

Endorsing the refusal of the Federal Department of State to recognize any attempted grant of the Island of Yap, or any other of said islands in the Pacific, to Japan, whether under the form of mandatory or otherwise; and that there should be no compromise on this question, as it involves the safety of the Nation.

Giving hearty endorsement to the recruiting drive being conducted for the superdreadnaught "California," and urging that the crew be composed of Californians.

Thanking Troop 82, Boy Scouts of America (San Francisco) for caring for a grove of memorial trees planted by the Native Sons and Native Daughters in San Francisco in memory of those Native Sons who died in the world war.

Thanking the people of Stockton generally, and the members of Stockton Parlor, No. 7, N.S.S.W., Joaquin Parlor, No. 5, N.D.G.W., and Caliz de Oro Parlor, No. 206, N.D.G.W., in particular, for courtesies extended and entertainment provided during the session.

Asking all citizens to refrain from thoughtless or wanton destruction of the eschscholtzia (California poppy) plants, and to use their best efforts to prevent others from destroying them.

Urgently requesting the State Legislature to make provision for having paved, at public expense, the state highway in El Dorado County between Placerville and Coloma, the site of the Marshall monument.

Declaring that the picture of George Washington, the first President, should be prominently displayed in every school building, and requesting the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and all county superintendents to take action to this effect.

Extending greetings to San Francisco and felicitating that city upon the wonderful progress made since the terrible disaster that befell it April 18, 1906.

Commending the splendid scientific and educational work being carried on, free from any political consideration, by the California Historical Survey Commission; urging that the commission be not included in any state government reorganization scheme, and approving the appropriation by the State Legislature of $15,000 for carrying on its work.

Endorsing the proposal to create a public park on Mount Diablo, and petitioning the State Legislature to appropriate funds to carry out the project.

Endorsing the movement, now well under way, to preserve the giant redwoods along the state highway in Humboldt County, and favoring the appropriation of $300,000 by the State Legislature to purchase the land upon which these trees, unequalled in all the world for size, age, and grandeur, stand.

Commending and congratulating the American Geologic Society for purchasing and presenting to the Federal Government privately-owned tracts of land in Sequoia National Park upon which are growing many specimens of the giant redwoods, "the oldest living thing in the world."

Expressing gratitude to M. H. De Young for having presented to San Francisco a museum building in which are housed objects of interest and of historic value from all parts of the world.

Favoring appropriation by the State Legislature of $10,000 to aid in the restoration of San Diego Mission, the first to be erected in California. [The Grand Parlor itself appropriated $5,000.]

CONSTITUTIONS' CHANGES. (GRAND PARLOR.)

Art. V, Sec. 2, amended to provide that the office of Grand Secretary "shall be open to any member of the Order."

Art. VI, Sec. 4, amended to provide that the Grand Secretary "shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by the Grand Parlor or by the Board of Grand Officers."

Art. VI, Sec. 15, amended to provide that the "Grand President, on request of one or more Subordinate Parlors, may appoint special Grand Organizers and fix the compensation, which shall be paid by the Parlors making the request."

Art. VI, Sec. 12 and Art. XI, Sec. 11, amended to make the Constitution comply with action of a former Grand Parlor which legislated that the per-capita tax may be paid quarterly.

(SUBORDINATE PARLORS.)

Art. VI, Sec. 3, amended by adding after the word "membership" (line 25, 1920 Edn.) the words "initiated or received on card." In effect, prescribing that the recording secretary shall immediately report to the Grand Secretary required information concerning any person initiated or received on card.

Art. VIII, Sec. 2, amended by adding a provision that a Subordinate Parlor may provide in its by-laws "that a member may name his beneficiary to whom the funeral benefits will be paid."

Order of Business, amended by striking out No. 23, "Suggestions Upon the Promotion of Home Industry."

THE TAX, AND WHERE IT GOES.

The budget, presented by the Finance Committee—Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate 29), John T. Regan (South San Francisco 157) and J. Clem Bates (Halcyon 146)—and approved by the Grand Parlor, carried regular appropriations totaling $30,490. Included are these, among other allowances: History Fellowships, $3,000; organization work, $3,600; landmarks work (other than San

AGGRESSIVE ACTION NEEDED

AGGRESSIVE action, within the law, is urgently needed, if California is to get anywhere in the Jap crisis, for the yellow Japs, aided and encouraged by the dollar-worshipping white Japs, are continuing to violate the laws of the state and thereby acquiring land.

Not only must the People's servants, public officials, be compelled to enforce the laws, but action should be taken by The People to see that all land in California to which the Japs have acquired illegal title since the enactment of the 1913 land law is confiscated to the state, as in that law provided. When confiscated, that land should be turned over to the Land Settlement Board and parceled out to ex-service men.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is unanimously anti-Jap, to the extent that it wants none of the mikado's worshippers holding land in California. The Order has repeatedly gone on record to this effect, and at the Stockton Grand Parlor last month unanimously, and with prolonged cheers, adopted this resolution:

Whereas, The Japanese Exclusion League of California has adopted a statement of policy recommended for adoption by the Government of the United States as urgently required in protection of the Nation's interest against the growing menace of Japanese immigration and colonization; and whereas, said declaration of principles has been approved by the organizations affiliated with the League—the Los Angeles County Anti-Asiatic Association and the Japanese Exclusion League of California; and whereas, said declaration of principles is in words and figures as follows, to-wit:

First—Absolute exclusion for the future of all Japanese immigration, not only male, but female, and not only laborers, skilled and unskilled, but "farmers," and men of small trades and professions, as recommended by Theodore Roosevelt. Per-Diego Mission) $500; salary Grand Secretary $3,300 (not increased) and of assistants $4,000 (increased $820); mileage Stockton Grand Parlor, $3,500. A special fund of $5,000 for San Diego Mission restoration was created; it will be raised in three installments, payable November 1 this year, 1922 and 1923.

To take care of all authorized expenditures, regular and special and including operating expenses and investments, the per-capita tax was fixed at $1.30, payable in installments of 40 cents the first quarter and 30 cents each the second, third, and fourth quarters.

OFFICERS SELECTED.

Following the announcement of the vote by the Election Board—E. F. Garrison (Athens 195), John Andreson (Arrowhead 110), James F. Foley (Twin Peaks 214) and Seth Millington (Colusa 69)—Grand President James F. Hoey declared these grand officers duly elected. 406 votes were cast:

JOHN T. REGAN OF SAN FRANCISCO.
The Newly-elected Grand Secretary

Grand President—William I. Traeger (Ramona 109) of Los Angeles.

Grand First Vice-president—Harry G. Williams (Oakland 50) of Oakland.

Grand Second Vice-president—William J. Hayes (Berkeley 210) of Oakland.

Grand Third Vice-president—Edward J. Lynch (Pacific 10) of San Francisco.

mission for temporary residence only for tourists, students, artists and commercial men, teachers, etc.

Second—Such exclusion to be enforced by United States officials, under United States laws and regulations, as done with immigration, admitted or excluded, from all other countries; and not, as at present, under an agreement whereby control and regulation is surrendered by us to Japan.

Third—Compliance on the part of all departments of the Federal Government with the Constitution, and the abandonment of the threat or attempt to take advantage of certain phrasing of that document as to treaties, which it is claimed gives the treaty-making power authority to violate plain provision of the Constitution in the following matters: (a) To nullify state rights and state laws for control of lands and other matters plainly within the state's jurisdiction. (b) To grant American citizenship to races of yellow color, which are made ineligible for such citizenship.

Fourth—For the Japanese legally entitled to residence in California, fair treatment, protection in property rights legally acquired, and the privilege of engaging in any business desired, except such as may be now or hereafter denied by law to all aliens, or to aliens ineligible to citizenship; and provided particularly they may not hereafter buy or lease agricultural lands; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Native Sons of the Golden West in Grand Parlor assembled, hereby endorse said declaration of principles and urge that the President, the Department of State, and the Congress of the United States adopt and observe the policy herein stated; and be it further resolved, that the secretary of this body be and he is hereby directed to transmit copies of these resolutions to the President and the Secretary of State of the United States and to each of California's Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Grand Secretary—John T. Regan (South San Francisco 157) of San Francisco.

Grand Treasurer—John E. McDougald (California 1) of San Francisco.

Grand Marshal—Isadore H. Reuter (Yosemite 24) of Merced.

Grand Inside Sentinel—John S. Ramsay (Castro 232) of San Francisco.

Grand Outside Sentinel—Harvey A. Reynolds (Alder Glen 200) of Fort Bragg.

Grand Trustees (in order of vote received)—James A. Wilson (Kincon 72) of San Francisco; Charles L. McEuerney (James Lick 242) of San Francisco; Hilliard E. Welch (Lodi 18) of Lodi; Arthur M. Dean (McCloud 149) of Redding; Fletcher A. Cutler (Humboldt 14) of Eureka; Charles A. Thompson (Santa Clara 100) of Santa Clara; Henry G. Bodkin (Corona 196) of Los Angeles.

James F. Hoey (Mount Diablo 101) of Martinez, retiring Grand President, automatically became the Junior Past Grand President.

Henry G. W. Diukelspiel (Bay City 104) of San Francisco and Frank C. Merritt (Piedmont 120) of Oakland, being reappointed by Grand President William I. Traeger, respectively, Grand Organist and Historiographer, complete the list of grand officers.

Just prior to sine-die adjournment, the above were installed by Past Grand President William F. Toomey of Fresno, assisted by Past Grand President Louis H. Mooser of San Francisco as acting junior past grand president, and Albert J. Turner (Stockton 7) of Stockton as acting grand marshal. As the several officers were conducted to their stations, they were greeted with applause.

RITUAL EXEMPLIFICATION.

The ritual, with several proposed changes, was exemplified during a recess the afternoon of the first day. Some of the less-important suggested changes were approved, but the main one—the star-mat and accompanying charges—was rejected, with a suggestion to the Ritual Committee that it be worked over and submitted again next year. The proposal to eliminate some of the "signs" and a portion of the secret work was not accepted.

The following team from San Francisco Assembly, No. 1, P.P.A., gave a splendid exemplification of the proposed ritual, and their efforts were deservedly applauded: J. F. Stanley (Stanford 76), senior past president; H. Toomey (Golden Gate 29), junior past president; F. Buckley (National 115), president; A. McKnew (San Francisco 49), first vice-president; H. J. Gavert (National 115), second vice-president; T. B. Lynch (Olympus 189), third vice-president; A. Gudehus (Sequoia 160), marshal; F. A. Bonivert (El Dorado 52), inside sentinel; G. Cuthbertson (Castro 232), organist. Henry Minore (Mission 38) was the candidate.

"CALIFORNIA ELIZABETH" TO WORK FOR STATE'S HOMELESS CHILDREN

(Logan Studio, Stockton, Photo.)

THIS IS A PICTURE OF "CALIFORNIA Elizabeth," presented to Miss Mary E. Brusie, the always-smiling, ever-efficient secretary of the Homeless Children Committee, by the Native Sons and Native Daughters of California at the Stockton N.S.G.W. Grand Parlor April 19. Was she surprised? We'll say she was, and the surprise made her more beautiful than ever.

"California Elizabeth" did "some" word-traveling before it finally reached Miss Brusie, and it will do "some" road traveling, for she answers the call of California's homeless children, as the representative of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, from one end of the state to the other, and at any and all hours of the day or night. Harry G. Williams of Oakland, now Grand First Vice-president, N.S.G.W., "passed" "Elizabeth" to the then Grand President, James F. Hoey; he "handed" it on to Federal Judge Maurice T. Dooling, chairman of the Central Committee on Homeless Children, and from him it went to its future owner. Surprised, almost to being overcome, Miss Brusie said: "My heart is in high gear, but my brain is slow. What I want to know most of all is, do the girls [referring to four little girls who occupied the car] go with it?" She expressed her utmost thanks, declared no gift could have been more needed, and said it would result in a great saving of time and expense to the Agency.

Miss Brusie is pictured sitting on "Elizabeth"; alongside her, seated, is Judge Dooling, and next to him, standing, James F. Hoey; to the left of the little girl, standing, is Harry G. Williams, and next to him William I. Traeger, now Grand President, N.S.G.W. Lined up, in full regalia, are the other grand officers, and standing in back are the Grand Parlor delegates.

Monday afternoon, Miss Brusie had addressed the Grand Parlor regarding the home-finding work. "It has been a joy and privilege to be allied and identified with a work that is so big and fine and broad, so humanitarian and constructive," she said. "There comes a time, to be sure, when things go wrong and we do feel like the old woman who lived in a shoe; there are times, many of them, when there comes with renewed and overwhelming force the conviction that we have taken upon ourselves a very delicate, grave and tremendous responsibility in attempting to decide who shall be the mother, who shall be the father, and what shall be the future environment of from eighteen to twenty children placed each month in the year."

In discussing in detail cost items in connection with the child home-finding work as carried on by the Native Sons and Native Daughters, she said: "In the eleven years since the Agency has been instituted, it has spent $92,000 and has found homes for 2,000 children, practically all of whom have been adopted, and has cared for 200 more."—C.M.H.

FOR FIFTY YEARS DATES GROWN IN NORTHERN PART OF STATE.

West of Winters, Yolo County, there is a seedling date palm which has been ripening its fruit annually for not less than fifty years. The fruit is dark red in color, about an inch and a quarter long, and the average weight of each cluster is about thirty pounds. There usually are fifteen or sixteen clusters on the tree, making the usual crop about 450 pounds. This tree resulted from the interest which an early Pioneer took in experimenting with all kinds of fruit.

J. R. Wolfskill came to California from Missouri in 1837 and finally settled on the bank of Putah Creek, west of the present site of Winters. Some time before 1860 it occurred to him to plant the seeds from some dates he had bought, and he planted them in a row. From this row two tall date palms were shipped to the World's Fair at New Orleans in 1884; another was sent to the Columbia Exposition in 1893. It is not known in what year Wolfskill discovered that one of his seedlings was producing a choice fruit in great abundance, but he then removed the tree to the neighborhood of his house, where it stands today, and he set a male tree about twenty feet distant.

This male tree today is over fifty feet high, and the female tree is about thirty-five feet high. Clusters of the fruit are known to have been exhibited at the Mechanics' Fair in San Francisco as early as 1877. One close observer got his first lesson in date culture from seeing one of the ripe clusters there in 1883, namely, Alfred A. Wheeler, who spread much information on the subject of dates in letters and articles between 1890 and 1895.

Unfortunately the offshoots from the fine Wolfskill date had always been removed and thrown away, so that the variety is limited to a single tree which now has lost the habit of making offshoots from its tall, dry stem. The fruit sometimes ripens as early as September 1, and as it ripens perfectly in this locality, it is evident that an orchard of this variety would have proven most profitable, as the tree absolutely is free from any scale pests which have proven such an evil in Arizona since their introduction from Africa in 1900.—Fairfield Enterprise.

PEPPER TREES

(ESTHER CRONE.)

What marvelous grace is borne by thee,
With limbs together met;
While ruby gems there seem to be
Along with emerald set.
Thy branches bend and droop and dip
Fanned by each gentle breeze,
And fernlike softness meets each tip,
Beautiful pepper trees.

UNITED ACTION MEANS REAL SUCCESS CAUTIONS NEW GRAND PRESIDENT OF NATIVE SONS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

N OVATION THAT CONTINUED until the members of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor spontaneously jumped to their feet and gave three long, lusty cheers, greeted William I. Traeger as he stepped to the altar in the Masonic auditorium at Stockton, April 21, to take the oath as Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. "Sheriff Bill" was so affected by the reception which attested his popularity, that he came mighty tears—for he has a heart proportionately as large as his body. By the time Grand President Traeger had been conducted to his station, clothed in regalia, and handed the gavel of authority, he had entirely recovered his composure, and addressed the Grand Parlor as follows:

"Much has been said in recent years urging an increase in the membership of the Order. Such increase has been the ambition and the chief effort of each succeeding Grand President. A sure, healthful gain has been made each year, but, in my opinion, not as large as the Order is deserving of."

"There is no need of apology for the Order and its work. It is an association of men of high ideals loyal to their birth-state, and the work done is unselfish and highly commendable. Every native Californian is, or should be, interested in its history research, which will result in giving to the world the authentic story of California's wonderful life. Every native Californian should support this work; he can do so only by maintaining a membership in the Order of Native Sons. The preservation of landmarks and the marking of historic spots are supplemental to history research, and should keenly interest all natives of this state."

"Each member of our Order should point with pride to the success gained in the homeless children work. Surely, no more useful endeavor was ever put forth by any body of people."

"The best and surest way to increase the efficiency of our Order in its labors is to increase its membership. An intensive membership campaign should be conducted. The burden of such campaign each year falls upon the Grand President; in fact, his success in office is determined almost solely upon the number of members added to the roll. This should not be; each member has taken the same obligation, and should take the same interest in the Order's growth to highest efficiency. The Grand President can do only one man's work; real success will come only from united action on the part of the entire membership."

"The Order of Native Sons is not dead; it has just started to grow. Abraham Lincoln said, 'You may stand still a little while, but you never should go backward.' The Order has been standing still for a little while; now is the time for it to go ahead, and that with leaps and bounds."

"Brothers, this is your Order. If it is worth while to you, it is worth your time to boost and advertise it and its work to all native Californians. If you value your membership in the Order, you ought to value it enough to have someone not now a member share it with you. If you are interested in the Order's work, you ought to be enough interested to take the time to tell someone about it and to secure his aid in it. Let us unite our efforts, for the Order's sake, during the coming year. Added and greater responsibilities are coming to our Order; let us prepare for them."

"Our Order is a monument to perpetuate the glorious history of the Pioneers."

"Our hearts where they rocked our cradles,

Our love where they spent their toil;

Our faith, our hope, our honor,

We pledge to our native soil."

To our Order, let us pledge our best efforts, unceasingly, untiringly, and unselfishly."

At the conclusion of his address, which was received with more cheers, Grand President Traeger announced the following appointments:

44th GRAND PARLOR

Immediately after the ritual's exemplification the "side degree," "The Trail of Trials," prepared by Edwin Kennedy (Las Positas 96) of Livermore and successfully used in that Parlor, was "put on" by a team from that Parlor constituted as follows: J. M. Baughman, president; H. W. Anderson, bear; G. F. Peters, pioneer; Edwin Kennedy, truckee; E. G. Wentz, marshal; H. W. Johnson, master of property; C. E. Crane, electrician; P. R. Johnson, mechanic; V. M. Sangmaster, organist. Dan E. Shaffer (San Diego 108) was the candidate. The "degree" created a great deal of merriment, was favorably commented upon by many, particularly those of the "country" Parlors, and the participants were roundly cheered.

SUMMARIZED PROCEEDINGS.

Many matters, all requiring time to consider, were before the Grand Parlor, and embraced all phases of the Order's work. The following paragraphs record what was done, in addition to matters specially referred to otherwheres in this account of the proceedings:

Oakland was selected for the meeting-place of the Forty-fifth (1922) Grand Parlor.

Three thousand dollars was appropriated to continue the Fellowships in Pacific Coast History at the University of California (Berkeley).

That a full set of suitable portraits of the Past Grand Presidents may be procured, 2 cents was ordered to be added to the per-capita tax each year hereafter and to be placed in a special fund; two portraits and suitable frames are to be procured each year at a cost of not to exceed $250 each.

Fifty dollars was appropriated to pay the incidental expenses of the Historiographer, and $75 to reimburse San Francisco Assembly, No. 1, P.P.A., for moneys expended in preparing a proposed new ritual.

The Grand President was authorized to appoint a committee of five to devise ways and means for financing the homeless children work and to report to the next Grand Parlor.

One year's further time was granted the special committee to arrange for a silver service to be presented the battleship "California."

The Grand President was directed to have made, at a cost of not to exceed $100, a suitable bronze plaque to be presented Las Positas Parlor, No. 96 (Livermore) for its 114% gain in membership during 1920. Each year hereafter a similar plaque will be presented the Parlor making the greatest membership increase in excess of 100%, provided such increase shall exceed forty-nine members.

An illustrated map of California, submitted by Historiographer Frank C. Merritt for use in Subordinate Parlors, was referred to the Board of Grand Officers, with power to act.

Two hundred dollars was appropriated to the Donner Monument Committee with which to secure an option on land surrounding the Pioneer Monument on the shore of Donner Lake, in Nevada county.

Expenses of various grand officers in visiting Parlors other than those assigned them were allowed, and fines levied against several Parlors were remitted.

Endorsement was given the project, launched by the Parlors in San Francisco, to build and maintain an athletic club in that city for Native Sons.

The thanks of the Grand Parlor were tendered Past Grand President Louis H. Mooser of San Francisco "for his loyal, thorough and painstaking work in the office of Grand Secretary, both during our recent bereavement and during a former occasion."

A committee was authorized, to report to the next Grand Parlor, to determine upon ways and means of having the Grand Parlor assume the management and control of The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the official organ of the Order, as recommended by Grand President James F. Hoey and approved by the State of the Order Committee.

An affidavit by Dr. C. W. Chapman of Nevada City, chairman of the Donner Monument Committee, relative to the much-disputed situation of the Breen cabin on Donner Lake, was made a permanent record by being ordered printed in the Proceedings.

By appropriating $5,000 for the purpose, the Grand Parlor agreed to aid in the restoration of Mission San Diego. The appropriation is made conditional upon San Diego Parlor, No. 108, raising an additional $10,000, and upon permission being secured to place a suitable tablet upon the mission structure. The Grand Parlor fund is to be spent by a committee to be appointed by San Diego Parlor under the direction of the Grand Parlor Landmarks Committee.

The thanks of the Grand Parlor were extended Grand Second Vice-president Harry G. Williams of Oakland for his good work in behalf of the homeless children.

Greetings of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West were received in a telegram from Grand President Bertha A. Briggs.

A telegram of greetings and good-cheer was sent the first day of the session to Superior Judge J. E. Barber of Redding, a former Grand Trustee, who is dangerously ill in a San Francisco hotel.

Adjournment at the close of the first day's session was had out of respect to the memory of the late Grand Secretary Fred H. Jung.

Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) of San Francisco was given a hearty vote of thanks for his ritual efforts.

Recess was declared the afternoon of the first day to permit Secretary Mary E. Brusie to tell of the homeless children work; the afternoon of the second day to hear a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on the Jap menace by State Controller John S. Chambers of Sacramento; the afternoon of the last day to hear what Dr. Herbert E. Bolton of Berkeley, head of the History Department of the University of California, had to say of the Order's history efforts. All the addresses were well received, and the speakers roundly applauded.

The State Legislature sent a committee of four—Senator Will R. Sharkley (Mount Diablo 101), Senator Frank M. Carr (Eden 113), Assemblyman Frank L. Coombs (Past Grand President) and Assemblyman Clarence Morris (California 1)—over from Sacramento to extend its official greetings.

Las Positas Parlor, No. 96 (Livermore) sent a telegram thanking the Grand Parlor for permitting its "side degree" team to present "Trial of the Trails" during a recess.

Proposals to create a new standing committee—"California Missions Restoration Committee"—and to erect in San Francisco a suitable tablet to the memory of the late Fairfax H. Wheelan, founder of the Homeless Children Committee, were referred to the Historic Landmarks Committee, to report at next Grand Parlor.

Deserved recognition was given long and faithful service by the appropriation of funds with which the Grand President is to procure a set of china, embellished with designs emblematic of the Order, and present the same, in the name of all Native Sons, to Miss Eva E. Digges, who has left the Grand Secretary's office after more than ten years of loyal service in that office and to the Order at large. She has always been painstaking, cheerful, and ready to serve, and the remembrance is to be given her in recognition of her sterling worth as a woman and a friend of the Order.

The Grand Parlor resolved itself into a Lodge of Sorrow Thursday afternoon and heard Judge Fletcher A. Cutler (Humboldt 14) of Eureka extol the virtues of Fred H. Jung (Stanford 76), deceased Grand Secretary, and Harry I. Mulerevy (Olympus 189) of San Francisco those of the many other members who journeyed to the Grand Parlor on High the past Grand Parlor year.

The annual letter of greetings from Max Weiss (Mount Diablo 101) was read.

Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde submitted a verbal report on the condition of the Sacramento Native Sons' Building, in which the Grand Parlor is a stockholder, and stated it is a money-making venture and that its future looks most bright.

Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker of San Francisco gave notice that Palo Alto would next year ask for the Forty-sixth (1923) Grand Parlor.

Shortly after the convening of the Grand Parlor the greetings of Joaquin Parlor, No. 5, and Caliz de Oro Parlor, No. 206, N.D.G.W., both of Stockton, were extended with bouquets of beautiful flowers.

The morning of the last day the Grand Parlor stood in silence for one minute out of respect to the memory of the American soldiers and sailors who made the supreme sacrifice during the world-war.

The matter of a joint installation ceremony, proposed at last year's (San Diego) Grand Parlor, was referred to the Ritual Committee, to report next (Oakland) Grand Parlor.

The Grand Secretary was directed to have prepared, "for use at the conclusion of the receipts now in stock," a new design for an official receipt, which "shall be approximately 2½ x 3¾ inches in size;" and an endeavor is to be made to have Subordinate Parlor "procure a neat folding leather case for the carrying of said receipt."

The Installation Ceremony was amended to provide that an officer succeeding himself need not be re-ohligated, but shall be confirmed in his office for the ensuing term by the installing officer. Also, by abolishing the second obligation directed to the financial secretary, the treasurer, and the trustee.

ENCOURAGING HISTORY STUDY; PRESENTS FARCE AND ESSAY TROPHY.

Oroville—Argonaut 8 had charge of the Social Center program April 15, when a farce depicting scenes at "Diggin's Bar" in early days was presented and essays by students in the local public schools on Butte County's early history were read. The Parlor offered a prize of a silver cup for the best essay, and there were six contestants—Charles Corbin, Will Wilson, Ruth Layton, Myrel Grubbs, Helen Rutherford, George Good. The judges were Miss Essae Culver, president Social Center; Rev. Johnson and Superior Judge H. D. Gregory, representing the citizens of Oroville; Mrs. W. B. Hengy and Gladstone Lawrence, representing, respectively, the Native Daughters and Native Sons.

The essay of Charles Corbin, entitled "The Early Towns of Butte County," was declared the prize-winner, and he was presented the silver cup by A. L. Smith, president Argonaut Parlor. (Note—Due to so much space in this number being devoted to the Stockton Grand Parlor proceedings, the presentation address of President Smith and the prize-winning essay of Corbin are omitted, but will be presented in their entirety in the June Grizzly Bear.—Editor.) The Oroville "Mercury" gives this account of the farce:

The Social Center program depicting the '49er spirit in California attracted a large audience, which was greatly pleased with the farce presented to represent actions at "Diggin's Bar." Emory Sutherland could have been no more natural in a true enough bar-room scene than he was in the bar-room scene at the Social Center; he was "there" with the girls, too. Professor Summers and Miss Rosemary Sadowski kept the people in the bar-room, as well as those in the audience, happy with their violins. Solos were sung by Mrs. Florence Boyle, Mrs. Alta Baldwin and J. E. Sutherland. Mrs. L. H. Wasley was the accompanist. The audience had many a good laugh during the presentation of this scene. Others who appeared on the stage were Arthur Smith as Beau Brummel Sheriff; Ed Shreve as the Indian; Frank Boyle and Billy Paxton as ideal bartenders; Lorene Gurney, Avis Bivens and Marie Amaral as bar-room beauties, and J. L. Looney as Diggin's Bar's biggest patron.

On, to Success, With the H. C. Work.

Berkeley—Under the guidance of President Emmet Bertheaud of Berkeley 210 the Parlor's committees are very active, and good results are noticeable all along the line. The activities of the Membership Committee have resulted in a material increase in membership, the Parlor having gained a new Grand Parlor delegate, its fourth.

The article of Joe Berry (Courtland 106) in the March Grizzly Bear about the raising of funds to support the homeless children's work created much discussion in all Parlors, and particularly Berkeley.

Secretary E. J. Curran gives expression to his views in the following:

"It is my opinion, and I think those who attend to the ordinary routine affairs of the Parlors will agree with me, that steps should be taken to finance the work of the Homeless Children's Committee without resort to begging from the general public; it should be the policy of the Parlors generally, and the Grand Parlor in particular, to aim to finance all social and charitable work (in future undertaken) within our own ranks and without continual appeal for outside aid. We are a fraternal and not a charity organization, and work calling for public begging should be left to those good people who are already established and who are devoting their entire time to social welfare work, many serving without compensation, as is the case of the religious charity organizations. If the Homeless Children's Committee is doing a service of benefit to our state, such service should be recognized and encouraged by our State Board of Charities and Corrections and carried on as a public necessity. We believe in the necessity for the work, but it would appear that the time has not arrived for the recognition of this by the state. Such being the attitude of the public at present, we should of necessity and out of self-respect shoulder the burden which we ourselves have found and assumed, and show the people of this state that this work, undertaken, will be successfully established to the benefit of the commonwealth."

Has Dinner-Dansant.

San Francisco—Another of a series of informal social affairs planned to bring closer together its members and their friends was given by Stanford 76 in Native Sons' auditorium April 26. It was a dinner-dansant, and was in charge of Frank F. Morris. Dinner was served at 7 p.m. and dancing continued until midnight. About 400 members were in attendance.

A DOLLAR INVESTMENT FOR YOU? NOW'S THE TIME!

Editor "Grizzly Bear,"

Dear Sir and Brother:

Herewith send a renewal of my subscription to your valued paper, each copy of which is worth to me a whole year's subscription. Wishing you renewed success,

Fraternally and sincerely yours,

MARK A. DEVINE.

San Francisco, April 6th.

Big Crowd Sees "Side Degree."

Livermore—About thirty members of Las Positas 96 journeyed to San Francisco April 2 to witness the exemplification of the proposed new ritual by a team from San Francisco Assembly, No. 1, P.P.A., and also to see Las Positas' "side degree" team put on the "Trial of the Trails." About 400 members were in attendance, and their applause indicated they greatly enjoyed the "side degree" and approved of the proposed new ritual for the Order.

During the evening Las Positas presented Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) of San Francisco with a beautiful Gladstone bag, in appreciation for his wonderful help in the Parlor's recent successful membership drive.

"Old Guard" Has Inning.

Hayward—Nearly 200 members and visitors were present at the meeting of Eden 113 April 13, when the Parlor's thirty-third institution anniversary was celebrated with an "Old Timers' Night." Two of the charter members—George A. Oakes and Dr. A. J. Powell—were among the crowd. Members of the "Old Guard" filled the several stations, there was music by Eden's band, and a program of speeches, stories and music presided over by Dr. Henry Powell, master of ceremonies, was contributed by G. A. Oakes, E. K. Strobbridge, D.D.G.P. C. E. Snook, William Andrade, Frank M. Smith, Joseph Vargas, D.D.G.P. James J. Dignan, Herman Thorndyke, Dr. A. J. Powell, Frank Lake and Peter Leonard. Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) of San Francisco delivered the oration, "The Spirit of '49."

A banquet followed the Parlor meeting, Jacob Harder Jr. being the toastmaster. Responses were made by Grand Second Vice-president Harry G. Williams of Oakland, C. E. Corrigan, Auditor Frank Garrison, M. B. Templeton, John Madsen, John E. Geary, Dr. Amy Powell, and many other members of Eden Parlor and visitors. A splendid banquet was served by the Good of the Order Committee.

Children's Benefit A Success.

Antioch—The twelfth annual entertainment of General Winn 32, in aid of the homeless children, was a big success, both socially and financially. J. P. Taylor Jr. was floor manager, and the arrangements committee consisted of W. B. Juett, C. R. McElheney and J. F. Belshaw.

Views Collection Historic Relics.

Marysville—William C. Latham (Berkeley 210), who was born in this city but has long resided in Berkeley, visited Marysville 6 April 13 and delighted the members with an interesting collection of early-day historic souvenirs.

Among the many documents exhibited by Latham were a deed, signed by General John A. Sutter, transferring a piece of Yuba County land, and a letter, written by General Sutter to General A. M. Winn, Founder of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West.

Men Shouldn't Smoke?

Ferndale—Ferndale 93 entertained the women at a recent meeting, and there was a large attendance. Much laughter was created by a debate on the question "Resolved, That Men Should Smoke," which was decided in the negative.

John Lund, Louis Lanini and Meredith Ring argued for the smokers, while Raymond Grinsell, Cyril Collins and H. Friel appeared against them. Joseph Bagnuda, Elmo Reidy and John Trigg were the judges. Dancing followed the debate.

Pep and Energy Keep Things Moving.

Pittsburg—Diamond 246 is enjoying wonderful prosperity, due to the fact that every one of its members is full of "pep" and works energetically and continually for the Parlor's welfare. Several new names have been recently added to the membership roll. To aid in keeping California white, a committee from the Parlor secured subscriptions totaling nearly $300 and the sum has been turned into the Japanese Exclusion League's campaign fund.

April 13 there was a large attendance at the meeting of the Parlor, and a fine "spread," prepared by the excellent Good of the Order Committee was enjoyed. D.D.G.P. McCormick was the toastmaster, and many enthusiastic addresses were listened to. A "degree" team has been organized, composed of the five Buckley brothers, Dempsey and Ginollo, and they are arranging to stir things up on auspicious occasions.

To Award History Essay Medal.

San Francisco—Mission 38 has arranged with the Board of Education to annually award to the pupil writing the best essay on California history a handsome gold medal. The committee looking after the details for the Parlor is Dan Q. Troy, Herbert De La Rosa and John M. Glennon.

Big Crowd At Los Banos.

Merced—The "Los Banos Night" function of Yosemite 24, referred to in last month's Grizzly Bear, was attended by a large number of members of the Order from all parts of Merced and Stanislaus Counties. The following ritual team of the Parlor initiated a large class of candidates: C. R. Rodenour, P.P.; C. W. Croop, P.; Lloyd Robinson, IV.P.; T. W. Ward, 2V.P.; Robert Murray, 3V.P.; I. H. Reuter, M.; Earl Kendrick, L.S.; H. P. Stanley, pianist. After initiation Sol P. Elias (Modesto 11) of Modesto addressed the initiates.

Then came the turkey banquet. Terry W. Ward, in his address of welcome, introduced Grand Inside Sentinel I. H. Reuter as toastmaster, and he, in turn, introduced these speakers: Past Grand President Hubert R. McNoble of Stockton, George Finck (Orestimba 247) of Crows Landing, Ed Hunsucker (Modesto 11) of Modesto, W. R. Bibby, (Yosemite 24) of Los Banos, and E. T. Cunningham, who spoke for the newly-initiated members.

Biggest Parlor Continues to Grow.

Stockton—Stockton 7 had two more class initiations last month, forty-seven new names being added to its growing membership-roll April 11 and fifty more April 16. Its membership is now 937. Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker deserves much of the credit for the success of this Parlor in its membership drive; he will continue his efforts there until the goal of 1,000 has been reached—and that will not be for long.

At the initiation April 16, an adjourned meeting, there was an immense attendance, among the many visitors being Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker and Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald of San Francisco and J. Ashton Flynn (Berkeley 210) of Berkeley. These, with several members of Stockton Parlor, made up the list of speakers.

EL DORADO'S FIRST BORN WHITE CHILD DIES ON BIRTHDAY.

Georgetown—Lewis Lane Myers, the first white child born in El Dorado County, died near Newcastle, Placer County, March 25, the seventy-first anniversary of his birth. His father, the late L. B. Myers, was a mountaineer around Pike's Peak as early as 1835; in the spring of 1849 he left with a train of horses and ox teams for the land of gold; in Utah the party was joined by Miss Catherine Lane, who was coming West to be with her brother, who had been in the Mexican War and settled in California; in this party was a man named Threlkel, who became a life-long friend of the Myers' and it was at the home of his son, L. L. Threlkel, that Lewis died.

Myers and Miss Lane became interested in each other and were married en route, at Ragtown, Nevada. They reached Hangtown, El Dorado County, now Placerville, in August, 1849, and shortly afterward settled in the valley now called Greenwood, in the same county. Here Lewis was born, March 25, 1850. The family moved to Penobscot, three miles away, soon after, and there the greater part of Lewis' life was spent, he being agent for the ditch company for many years, and also followed mining. A few years ago he went to Hammon, Yuba County, where he was head gardener of a dredging company. He was the last of a family of six children. He never married, but is survived by five nephews and nieces.

Myers had been a member of Georgetown Lodge of Masons and Georgetown Parlor, No. 91, N.S.G.W., for many years. The funeral took place at Greenwood, the little town of his birth, on Easter Monday, and was under the auspices of the former lodge, the Native Sons attending in a body. "Uncle Lew," as he was familiarly called, was a man of splendid character, loved and respected by all who knew him.—M. A. H.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

WE SHOULD BE THANKFUL THAT dame fashion has been so liberal in her offerings this season, for again we may dress to suit according to our own individuality and personality, rather than after any one prescribed manner, which means that the waist line may be high or low, or bloused.

Of course, a good deal depends on the material used. The woollens call for rather dignified treatment while, on the other hand, the chiffons, georgette crepes, crepe de chine and taffetas may incline toward the frivolous and be absolutely in the fashion frame. And by frivolous is meant flounces, draperies, wide distended skirts, floating sashes, airy sleeves, collarless necks, and many other features that seem to revert to the old-time idea of what constitutes the beautiful in feminine attire. Many of the new models have girdles of sharply contrasting color.

A clever woman is always a well-gowned woman. Dresses seem to be resolving themselves into things of taffeta, satin, crepe, fine serge, and triolette. One may combine two or more of the fabrics and be in high style, but the manner of the combination has changed since last spring, and now it is in better keeping to have the skirt of one fabric and the bodice of another.

For instance, a skirt of satin-barred taffeta cut on the ample lines characteristic of the very newest things is wide through the hem and softly gathered at the top. A sash of the fabric is worn with this skirt, also a perfectly plain blouse, of knitted silk to match the basic color of the skirt, with round neck and short sleeves. The only trimming, if such it may be called, is expressed in the buttons, which should be of the skirt color. The waist has a back fastening.

Crepe de chine has lost none of its attractiveness as a blouse material. At present it is fancied in rather a pebble weave and in such colors as gray, tan, blue, yellow, and white, of course. The blouse for dressy occasions continues to exploit beautiful embroideries interspersed with beads.

No longer are we forced to wear the conventional shirt-waist with a tailored skirt—the severe-looking shirt-waist, so unbecoming and with its beauty so modified. All the prime plainness of the straight lines has been transformed into softness, grace, beauty, and richness. Today we use every kind of material to suit one's own taste, whether the blouse be tailored or fancy.

Very fine, and dressy to say the least, are the silk jersey blouses embroidered in silk—basque style, slip over, or buttoned down the back. The frilly, dainty wash blouses that are generally favored, whether it be winter or summer, are prettier than ever, for they display themselves in linens with much lace, embroidery, drawn work, cut work, plaiting, ruffles, fichu effects, vestees, and every conceivable form of lace trimmings. Some of the most stunning blouses this year are being crocheted out of floss, and are called sweater blouses.

Most of us gasp when we see the loud designs in cretonne and figured crepe made up into entire skirts, chiefly for sport wear. But, as a matter of fact, this is a favorite. Black and white cretonne is an instance, the figures being enormous white flowers and the background black.

Dyed laces, especially of the delicate silk variety, are very smart combined with georgettes and chiffons. For instance, an underskirt of smoke-gray chiffon made with a very deep hem is covered by another, scalloped and edged with lace dyed the same color. Over this, as over the camisole of satin and underblouse of chiffon, hangs a straight strip of dyed lace. A velvet ribbon girdle, catching a knot of pansies and ferns, softly confines the waist.

Gray dyed lace or gray organdie vestees are exceedingly smart just now, in combination with the brown suit. With such a suit a brown crepe-de-chine hat, encircled with gray glycerined ostrich, is worn with gray-and-brown sport shoes.

Neckwear gives the touch of ultra newness to many a frock. A black gros-grain ribbon is edged on either side with a wide closely-plaited ruching of fine organdie or net. Gilets and waistcoats, with very wide revers and turnover collars, are the newest modes.

A vestee of gingham, with round buster brown collar, cuffs to match and wee pearl buttons decorating the center plait, is liked for wearing with the twill or wool dresses.

Tassels and deep fringe play a very important and conspicuous part this summer. Accordion pleats are as popular as ever.

Exquisite hats, in a variety, are now on view at all the smart shops. Harding-blue leads the colors, with tangerine, copper, jade, orange, gray, tomato, brick, and dust shades running close rivals.

To wear with the new quilted satin wraps, I noticed a dainty hat of silk horse-hair, in a beautiful orchid shade. It has a narrow brim and deep crown.

Smartly hatted, shod and gloved, a woman is well gowned. Following the silhouette of the frocks, showing width rather than thickness, many of the cleverest hats are narrow of brim front and back but wide as to the sides.

With the exception of flower wreaths, trimmings are but few. Cire quills and wings, black cherries, painted leaves and fruits vie with ribbons as trimmings.

Fabric hats will not be downed this season by the straws, so a compromise has been struck, and softly crushed crowns of bright-hued silk, satin, or georgette crepe are placed upon the brims of leg-horns.

Since veils are to play a leading part in the costumes of early spring, a brunette chooses a black veil, a gray-eyed woman a gray one, and so on. With the lace gowns, lace veils are worn.

Such a gay trifle, and a sure-to-be-liked gift for a young girl would be a very fine chain bracelet of white gold. It must be so fine as to be a mere

TWO WAYS TO COOK RICE.

Some people like to cook rice with a little water in a double boiler, so that none of the food material is lost. If rice is cooked in this way use only two and one-half or three cups of water to one cup of rice. Have the water boiling in the upper part of the double boiler, add a teaspoon of salt and a cup of well-washed rice. Cover and allow to cook over water until the grains are soft.

When rice is cooked in this way the product is more moist than when cooked southern style, so when it is used in scalloped dishes or in bread less liquid is required.

Where plenty of skim milk is available, the home economics kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture advocates, as a variation, the following method of cooking rice: Use four or four and one-half cups milk to one cup of rice. Add the rice to the hot salted milk and cook until the milk is absorbed and the grains soft. The milk greatly increases the food value of the dish.

MARGARINE, A HOME PRODUCT, AS NUTRITIOUS AS BUTTER.

Margarine is fast becoming one of the staple food products of the world, and Los Angeles now boasts of having one of the most up-to-date and sanitary plants in the United States manufacturing this article of food, operated by Morris & Company, 734 Terminal street, manufacturers of the famous "Mileco" and "Supreme" brands.

Investigation into the composition of this product, and how it is made, shows that the prejudice of many people against margarine is ill-advised, and brought out these facts: that it is a cooked product, practically sterile and free from anything that would be injurious to health; that the highest authorities on food products claim margarine is as nutritious as butter and can be used wherever butter is used with equal satisfaction, as a spread for bread or for cooking and baking purposes; that it costs from one-third to one-half less than butter; that it is manufactured under Government supervision, insuring hygienic methods in the manufacture and handling of the product; that there were 375,000,000 pounds of margarine consumed in the United States last year, equalling 3¾ pounds per capita per year, and that people in some other countries consume more of it than the people in the United States.

It is amazing to know the vast amount of margarine that is consumed throughout the world, and how much more will be consumed when the people thoroughly recognize the full merit of the product.

Grand President's Itinerary.

Hollister—During May, Grand President Bertha A. Briggs will officially visit these Subordinate Parlors on the dates noted:

- 2nd—Darina 114, San Francisco.
- 3rd—Calaveras 103, San Francisco.
- 4th—Brooklyn 157, Oakland.
- 5th (jointly)—Clear Lake 135, Middletown, Laguna 189, Lower Lake.
- 10th—Aloha 106, Oakland.
- 13th—Copa de Oro 105, Hollister.

These will conclude the Grand President's official visits, which commenced shortly after her installation in June and have taken her to all parts of the state. On the occasion of her visit to her home-parlor, Copa de Oro, May 13, she will be accorded a splendid reception.

"Booster" Luncheon Big Success.

San Francisco—The second annual N.D.G.W. "booster" luncheon—a real Native Daughter affair and full of the true California spirit—was attended by 464 members and friends and was a glorious success in every particular. Grand President Bertha A. Briggs presided and Past Grand President Mary E. Bell delivered the invocation. In addition to a program of splendid vocal and instrumental numbers, these addresses were made: "San Francisco," Mayor James Rolph (Hesperian 137, N.S.G.W.); "California," County Clerk Harry I. Mulcrevy (Olympus 189, N.S.G.W.); "The Flag," Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand President, N.D.G.W.; "Native Daughters," Dr. Victory A. Derriek, Grand Vice-president, N.D.G.W.; "Native Sons," James F. Hoey, Grand President, N.S.G.W.; "Mills Scholarship," Dr. Anna Cox; "Be a 'Booster,'" Colbert Coldwell; "Homeless Children," Miss Mary Brusie (Argonaut 166, N.D.G.W.); "Pioneers," Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W.; "San Francisco Around the World," Samuel Breyer; "Native Daughters' Home-club," Emma Gruber-Foley, Past Grand President, N.D.G.W. Mrs. Emma E. O'Donnell was chairman, Mrs. May Barry treasurer, and Mrs. William H. Army secretary of the committee in charge of the affair.

A Memorable Occasion.

Stockton—In the history of Joaquin 5 April 12 will be set down as an important date, for it marked the Parlor's thirty-fourth anniversary, the official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, and the initiation of a class of thirty-one candidates. Dinner was served at 6:30, and to the strains of "California" 196 took their places at the rose-hedged tables; among the number, in addition to the Grand President, were Grand Marshal Mattie Stein of Lodi, D.D.G.P. Nina Williams of Manteca, and three of Joaquin's five living charter members—Miss Hannah Gray, Mrs. Isabelle Stockwell and Miss Clara Stier. A fourth charter member, Past Grand President Carrie Roesch-Durham, arrived home late that day from an Eastern trip and was at the meeting-place to surprise the crowd when they arrived there.

Past Grand President Mamie G. Peyton was the toastmistress, and called upon President Hattie B. Ward to extend Joaquin's greetings. In response, Grand President Briggs said, "I cannot find words to express my pleasure in attending this beautifully appointed dinner, for the affair is remarkable in many ways. It is remarkable that a Parlor so old in years is so youthful in enthusiasm, in spirit and in personnel. It is not only the largest Parlor in the Order, but it is splendid in its personnel, and the stride it is making ahead is most gratifying." Other speakers, and their toasts, included: "The Native Daughters," D.D.G.P. Williams; "The Native Sons," Grand Marshal Stein; "Our State," Miss Clara Stier; "Our City," Miss Emma Newport; "The Tie That Binds," Mrs. Isabelle Stockwell; "Our Flag," Miss Hannah Gray. All stood and joined in singing the "Star Spangled Banner" as a concluding number.

At the Parlor meeting in Native Sons' Hall a class of thirty-one candidates was initiated. Here Grand President Briggs gave a most inspiring talk on the purposes and aims of the Order and congratulated the Parlor on the initiation of thirty-one candidates, the largest class she had seen this year. Past Grand President Durham was also a speaker here, extending her greetings and telling briefly of her nine-months' Eastern trip.

Cheering the War "Boys."

Santa Cruz—The thirty-second anniversary of the institution of Santa Cruz 26 was celebrated March 21. This was also the occasion of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs' official visit to the Parlor, so was doubly enjoyable. Mrs. Callista Duke, chairman of the Good of the Order Committee, gathered the many beautiful wild flowers which decorated the banquet tables, and the lodge-room was brightened by the use of dozens of daffodils or spring flowers. The Grand President was presented with a beautifully hand-colored picture of the famous Cliff drive and Past President Anita Triplett, who celebrates her birthday March 17, was surprised with a large birthday cake, decorated with candles. The Parlor is planning for a grand ball, to be given early in May. At the San Francisco Grand Parlor next month the Parlor will present the name of Grand Trustee May L. Williamson, its recording secretary, for Grand Vice-president; she has served both as Grand Marshal and Grand Trustee, and the Parlor feels confident that, if elected, she will fill the office with credit to the Order, the Parlor, and herself.

Among the "outside" activities of Santa Cruz Parlor is the sending of flowers every week to the Red Cross House at Letterman Hospital, San Francisco, for the convalescent soldier boys. At Easter, one hundred tulips were sent, to brighten the joys of Easter. At Christmas time the Parlor filled fifteen of the two hundred Christmas stockings sent to the convalescents at this hospital by the Santa Cruz Chapter of American War Mothers.

Has "Ad" Jinks.

San Francisco—Orinda 56 had a novel entertainment April 8 in the impersonation of advertisements. To add to the worth of the goods represented free samples were distributed, and the various "ads" extolled their wares in appropriate jingles. Miss Anna A. Gruber and Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley were the prize-winners. Refreshments were served. The Parlor intends working out the "ad" jinks idea on a bigger scale, and knows there will be no end of fun.

Commended for Quality.

San Jose—Vendome 100 and El Monte 205 (Mountain View) united March 31 to receive an official visit from Grand President Bertha A.

Briggs. The beautifully-decorated hall was filled with members, and visitors from all near-by Parlors; among the number was Past Grand President Mamie Pierce-Carmichael of Vendome. Fifteen candidates were initiated, officers from both Parlors exemplifying the ritual. Grand President Briggs, in her address, complimented the work of both Parlors, and paid tribute to the high quality of membership maintained by Vendome Parlor; in her own delightful way she thanked President Nettie Collins of El Monte and President Mrs. Rush McCrone of Vendome for the gifts of solid silver presented her in behalf of those Parlors.

At the banquet which followed Past Grand President Carmichael was the toastmistress. The usual speeches were dispensed with, and games were enjoyed. A genuine surprise came here, when Vendome Parlor presented its president, Mrs. Rush McCrone with a handsome pair of silver candlesticks.

Sons Entertained With Skit.

Oroville—Members of Argonaut 8, N.S.G.W., were entertained April 6 by Gold of Ophir 190 with a skit entitled "The Restville Auction Sale," which caused a lot of merriment. Included in the cast were: Virginia Sharkey, Catherine Gilmore, Avis Bivens, Alta Hengy, Gladys Strang, Helen Smith, Lornc Gurney, Marie Amaral, Florence Boyle, Lena Kister, Eva Curnow. Piano solos were rendered by the Misses Hazel Gray and Lotta Peterson, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Bert Baldwin. Refreshments were served.

More'n Hundred Greet Grand President.

Vallejo—Including fifty visitors from seven Parlors, more than one hundred members of the Order were present at Vallejo 195 April 6 to welcome Grand President Bertha A. Briggs on her official visit. She was accompanied by Past Grand President Mary E. Bell of San Francisco, and they were entertained at the home of Winnie Cassidy during their stay here.

The meeting-place was beautifully decorated in poppies. After the ritual's exemplification the Grand President delivered an inspiring address, and complimented the members on their homeless children's work. Past Grand President Bell, who is loved by all for her pleasing personality, congratulated the Parlor on its increase in membership. For the Parlor, President Agnes Hunter presented both visitors with remembrances. Sisters Ostello and Johnson, in remembrance of long ago when they all resided in Hollister, presented Mrs. Briggs with a beautiful piece of cut-glass. An excellent banquet was served at the meeting's close.

"Come Through," Voluntarily.

San Francisco—Oro Fino 9 will not tell the world, just the members of the Order, how busy all its members are, filling that hope-chest, mentioned in last month's Grizzly Bear, with most beautiful hand-made lingerie. Strange, too, how news travels and interest grows in the raffle for the hope-chest, for even from Manila, 3,000 miles away, is to come a beautiful hand-made contribution to this already valuable collection from a member residing there. Members of the San Francisco Parlors are taking great interest in this affair, for they have seen some of this dainty and exquisite work and express astonishment at the low price of the tickets, 10 cents each or the bargain price of 3 for 25 cents. The committee in charge has decided to afford members of the interior Parlors also an opportunity of viewing the contents of this beautiful chest, which will be on exhibition during the sessions of the Grand Parlor next month.

The raffle of the hope-chest is to be held for the benefit of Oro Fino's sick fund, and should be liberally supported by both Native Daughters and Native Sons. Orders for tickets, with amount enclosed, will receive prompt attention if sent to Miss Margaret J. Smith, secretary, 4096 Eighteenth street, San Francisco. Visiting sisters will be most cordially welcomed to the Parlor's meetings, which are held the first and third Thursday of each month in Native Sons' Building, 414 Mason street. The "boys," too, are welcome, and a recess to greet them will be declared.

A Bank's Growth

Since 1890, when this bank was one year old, the population of the city has increased 12 times; the area nine times; the assessed valuation 13 times; the total of all bank deposits has increased 48 times. The deposits of this bank since it was one year old have increased 370 times.

In 1890 this bank held $247,645 deposits and the deposits in all Los Angeles banks were $9,319,943, so the percentage of the total held by the Security Bank was only 2.6%. January 1, 1921, the deposits of this bank were $91,727,113, and the deposits of all Los Angeles banks were $443,480,349. The proportion of all Los Angeles bank deposits now held by this bank is greater than 20 per cent.

A Worthy Companion to Globe "A1" Flour

BRISQ—the newest product of the Globe Mills is a worthy companion to Globe "A1" Flour. It is a pure vegetable shortening, made from the finest California oils. It is economical, dependable and altogether delightful for all manner of fine cookery.

Quality Maintained

During the quarter century existence of the Globe Mills, quality constantly maintained has developed the first, single, small mill into a great modern institution where thousands of men and women are daily engaged in the making of fine foods.

Continuous improvements in laboratory and milling methods have brought the milling of Globe "A1" Flour to an exact science—have made Globe "A1" Flour uniform and absolutely dependable for home baking. Constant adherence to the ideal of "Quality First" has made the Globe "A1" mark more than a trade mark—it is grade and has long been recognized by California housewives as a symbol of Quality.

decorated in poppies and the Order's colors. Six of the guests—Mesdames Josephine Miles, Susie Simmons, Martha Copsey, Mary Rannels, Thomas Parker, Annie Smith—have been residents of Lower Lake for over fifty years.

Mrs. Dnorie Knauer read a paper, prepared by 80-year-old Mrs. Josephine Miles, giving reminiscences of her trip across the plains in 1846 and the early days in California. [Note—The Grizzly Bear has been furnished this story, but so much space having been required to record the doings of the N.S.G.W. Grand Parlor in Stockton last month it cannot be presented in this issue; it will appear in the June issue.—Editor.] Mrs. Hattie Tennyson read a poem, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," and there were several old songs, but the afternoon was spent principally in talking over old times. Dainty refreshments were served, and all declared the occasion an enjoyable one.

Doubles in Membership.

San Diego—San Diego 208 initiated seventeen candidates April 18, and the members are much elated over this addition to their ranks, which have been doubled during the past year; it is expected another larger class will be ready for initiation May 16. Election of delegates to the San Francisco Grand Parlor will be held May 2, and much interest is being displayed as to who will represent the Parlor in addition to Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, who was made a permanent delegate several years ago in token of her labors in behalf of the Parlor; the Parlor has endorsed her candidacy for the office of Grand Marshal; her work in behalf of the homeless children is well known and never ceases.

A very pleasant dancing party was given by the Parlor April 4, after a short business session. The guests were members of San Diego 108, N.S.G.W., and friends eligible to both Parlors. That the affair was successful, was evidenced by the numerous requests for an early repetition, and it has been practically decided that the Native Daughters and Native Sons will alternate in these monthly social affairs. At present the members of the Parlor are looking forward with pleasure to the "housewarming" to be given by the Native Sons in their new home at Eagles' Hall May 9.

Initiates Twelve.

San Jose—Members of San Jose 81 were treated to a surprise by Mesdames Helen Trengrove and Amelia Hartman April 7, when a program was presented by talented members. The decorations were beautiful, and delicious refreshments were served. A card party is being arranged for May.

April 8 a successful ball was given, Mrs. Augusta Singleton and an efficient committee being in charge. The following Native Sons served on the Floor Committee: James Payne (chairman),

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

STANDARDIZE YOUR FARM PRODUCTS.

HIS IS AN AGE OF STANDARDIZATION. In every walk of life standards are becoming more perfectly defined and better known. The effectiveness of the large advertising campaigns carried on in the leading publications of the country is the result of the development of well-defined grades or standards. From the manufacturer of safety pins to tractors a tendency is noted to reduce the wide range of materials used to a relatively small number of variations. Dealers do not carry as many different lines as formerly, and their salesmen continually urge the value of the few special grades or lines which they handle. The storekeeper standardizes in exactly the same way, the modern store carrying fewer lines of better-selected materials than heretofore. The grower, too, must standardize if he is to compete satisfactorily in such an age.

"Standard" is defined as that which is established by authority, custom or general consent as a model or example. Commercial standards are generally those established by custom or general consent only, and those which are established by authority are generally based upon custom.

Wise standardization operates for the benefit of all concerned. The producer selling at long distances from the source of supply finds it impossible in many cases to submit samples to all prospective purchasers. This is especially true with perishable products and those involving high unit cost. Where a definite standard has been established, sales can be made on the basis of such standards without seeing the goods. The greatest benefit to the producer, however, comes by securing specific benefits to the consumer, and anything which will induce the consumer to purchase will be to the producer's advantage.

Standardization is of value to the consumer in that it enables him to determine by experiment or otherwise the grade of goods which he prefers, and then enables him to thereafter procure the same grade continuously.

To increase consumption in fruits and vegetables, for instance, it is necessary to produce an article that is wanted in sufficient quantities to make it available through as long a season as possible, and to provide the consumer with uniform quality from day to day of such a kind that he will go back for more. California's success in the selling of fruits and vegetables at long distances is largely due to the fact that the consumer may buy the same quality time after time simply by ordering a definite grade. The same thing holds true with dairy products, whether it be butter, cheese, milk, cream, or what-not.

With such obvious benefits to be derived from standardization, it seems surprising that it should be necessary to enforce standardization by law. The reason is, that when a man develops a standard there is always a tendency on the part of others to endeavor to secure the benefits of such a procedure by labeling an inferior product with the name of something superior. California producers have united in demanding a fruit and vegetable standardization law which will protect the honest packer in assuring him that no other goods will be marketed under grade designations that do not conform to those grades as laid down by law. Every individual who sells under a grade designation whose goods do not conform to that grade in every particular is not only damaging himself but all the other shippers. The importance of this has been recognized in the shipment of green grapes, green oranges, immature plums, etc., during the early part of the season. The shipment of sour, immature oranges during the first week of the season has been known to completely demoralize the orange market for several weeks to follow. Many shippers, in an effort to secure the highest prices for the first products of the season, have destroyed their own market for the bulk of their crop without recognizing that they themselves were responsible for it.

Standardization laws, therefore, are among the very best that are on our statute books today, and are designed to aid everyone in securing a staple market, which is a necessity a long distance from home.

The application to production is this: The grower who will produce a relatively smaller number of varieties or kinds of fruit in large quantities, carefully graded and packed, will in the long run receive far greater returns than by any other method. In the same way, growers in a given district should concentrate on a small number of varieties, producing those which are known to be the most successful in the district. Before planting ask questions of your neighbors. Join in neighborhood movements looking toward mass production of the most desirable kinds of fruit or other product and then pack honestly.

BETTER LIVESTOCK NEEDED.

The day of the scrub is past. The grower and breeder of livestock must also recognize that this is an age of standardization. Quality counts materially. Livestock men generally are beginning to realize that it costs considerably more to produce low-grade stock and that the returns are a great deal less. They are also beginning to learn that the cost of grading up a herd is practically no more than it is to continue to produce the same old scrub stock. One does not need to replace an entire herd. Dispose of the scrub sires, replace them with pure-bred stock, and in a very few generations the grower will have such a marked improvement in quality that he himself will be surprised. The value of pure-bred sires in a common herd cannot be overestimated. The first generation progeny will be half-bloods, the second generation three-quarter-bloods, and the third generation seven-eighth-bloods. With only one-eighth of the original stock remaining in such a short time, even the poorest breeder cannot afford to continue the old method of using even-grade sires.

To accomplish satisfactory results, some well-known and adaptable breed should be selected and one or more pure-bred sires secured of that breed. When the necessity for changing sires comes, do not change the breed. By this method a first-class grade herd, hardly distinguishable from a pure-bred herd, can be secured in five or six years.

Building up a grade herd need not in any way interfere with a gradual change to a pure-bred herd. As finances permit, a pure-bred cow may be secured and her progeny will, of course, be pure bred, while the progeny from the original scrub cows will never be 100% pure bred even though they will be practically so. The addition of such animals will gradually mean the replacement of all grades, if such is desired.

CAUSES OF SPRING FRUIT DROP.

At this season of the year many of our stone fruits, particularly almonds, apricots, and cherries, are shedding their young fruits which had apparently set on the tree. In some cases such quantities are shed as to leave practically no crop to mature. The causes are not readily apparent. Generally speaking, the cause may be due to one or all of three things: First, lack of pollination; second, inherent weakness in the fruit buds producing the small fruits and their inability to withstand the varying conditions of spring; and, third, injury by frost, excessive or insufficient moisture, or excessive or sudden changes in weather conditions.

Lack of pollination can very readily be detected by dissecting the small fruits. If pollination has not taken place, there will be no evidence of a developing kernel.

Inherent weakness of the buds and inability to produce fruits which can hold on to the tree is the result of unfavorable conditions during the previous season. It must be remembered that the strength of the fruit buds is determined during the period from July or August to October or November when the buds are developing for the next season's crop. Trees lacking in vitality, unless in the last stages of debility, blossom more heavily as a rule than those that are vigorous and healthy. During the time the fruit is on the tree, the bulk of the energy of the tree is expended in developing and ripening the fruit. During the remainder of the season the leaves should continue green and plump in order to manufacture and provide for the storage of sufficient food material to insure a highly concentrated sap and the storage of adequate material for the development of the fruit buds during the fall and winter. Fruit buds do not stop their development when the tree becomes dormant, but growth continues throughout the winter, slowly but surely, as is evidenced by their gradual swelling as they approach the early spring season. This enlargement continues throughout the winter and is plainly evident to a close observer.

An insufficient supply of food material in the branch immediately surrounding the buds results in a pronounced weakening of the attachment to the branch due to the manner in which the young fruit draws upon the food materials for its relatively rapid growth during the first few weeks of spring after the blossoms have developed. This occurs at a time when weather conditions are variable, and when the young fruit must endure greater hardship than at any other time. These conditions may be discussed more fully a little later. An insufficient supply for the proper development of the fruit itself, and also the stem upon which the fruit is attached, nearly always results in the growth of the small fruit at the expense of the attachment; hence the tendency to drop.

The less concentrated the sap during the winter and spring period, the greater the liability of injury by frost due to the higher freezing point of the thinner sap. It is a well-recognized fact that the more concentrated a solution the lower its freezing point. This applies equally to the cell sap of the small fruits as well as the blossoms. Should there be no frost, the fruits may still be subject to other troubles. Unusual spring rains or an excessive amount of moisture in the soil during the early growing period, before the leaves have developed sufficiently to evaporate a large amount of water from the tree, may literally drown the young fruit. With an oversupply of moisture in the soil, the roots take up this moisture faster than the top of the tree can get rid of it, with the result that oftentimes the same condition which causes sour sap in the trunk and branches causes the above mentioned drowning. After the leaves are developed sufficiently to evaporate the moisture as fast as it is supplied by the roots, such danger is past, but before that time considerable damage may be done. The only way to remedy this is to provide better drainage in the soil, either by artificial drainage, surface or subsurface, or by keeping the soil open by the growth of deep-rooted cover crops, such as alfalfa, and by the maintenance of a relatively high content of decayed organic matter in the soil so as to insure the soil being kept open to well-drained layers below. The method which will best suit any particular soil must be determined by an examination of the subsoil. Excessive moisture in the soil and tree is liable to cause much more damage if accompanied by sudden warm spells, and this in turn may be further augmented if followed by sudden checking of the growth by cold weather, which is a common occurrence in the spring.

Weather conditions cannot be changed. The drainage in the soil, however, can be materially improved, and the health and vigor of the tree during the fall can be maintained by judicious irrigation where natural moisture in the soil is insufficient and by preventing the injury to the leaves and defoliation by red spider and other pests.

This spring, conditions over the state as a whole seem to be worse than usual, probably due to the excessive dryness of the soil from the shortage of rainfall for the past few seasons.

One apparent difficulty in explaining the situation lies in the fact that trees growing on poorer, thinner soils have not suffered as badly from fruit drop as those which are growing on deep, rich, valley loams. This is accounted for by the fact that trees growing on the poorer soils never have grown as large, neither in the tops nor in the roots, and conditions during the dry seasons are more nearly normal for them than is the case on the deeper, richer soils. A tree which during a portion of its life has been used to relatively larger amounts of water will suffer more when deprived of that moisture than those which must continually grow and develop with a shortage of moisture. Under such conditions the trees do not grow as large and when a drought comes they naturally suffer less.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Charles Hurt, James Higgins, Frank Nelsen, James Cushing, Artie Gilbert.

Twelve candidates were initiated March 17, when Grand President Bertha A. Briggs visited San Jose Parlor. Included among the large number present were several grand officers and many other visitors. The Grand President complimented the Parlor on its progress, and was the recipient of a lovely gift. Dinner was served prior to the meeting and was followed by a program; at the meeting's close there was a feast of oratory. Assisting President Jean Belloli in making a success of this occasion was the following committee: Grand Trustee Mary Frances Mitchell (chairman), Mesdames Rene Thompson, Amelia Hartman, Anna Lea Bommer, Pearl Grunelund, Katherine Nelsen, Augusta Singleton, Perle Johnson, Lillie Lawrence, Mariel Blass, Helen Trengrove, Carrie Trowbridge, Clara B. Briggs, Nellie Haum.

Anniversary Celebrated.

Elk Grove—A "musical wedding" entertained the members of Liberty 213 April 11, when homemade ice cream and cake were served. The committee in charge was: Rowena Kimball, Emma Baker, Florence Markofer, Emma Polhemus, Fannie Carr.

April 21 the Parlor celebrated the third anniversary of its institution, and also received an official visit from Grand President Bertha A. Briggs. Among the large number present were delegations from all the Sacramento County Parlors.

Eight Charter Members Present.

Tracy—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid an official visit to El Pescadero 82 April 15. She was met at the train by Emma Cox and Vesta Ludwig, who escorted her to the home of Grand Inside Sentinel Pearl Lamb, where she was entertained during her stay here. Sixty members were present to welcome the honored visitor at the Parlor meeting, among them eight charter members—Lena Steinmetz, Susie Frerichs, Emma Frerichs, Emma Von Sosten, Emma Cox, Kate Von Sosten, Alice Murrell, Claire Ludwig. Five candidates were initiated, bringing the Parlor's membership to nearly 150.

Grand President Briggs gave a delightful and beneficial address, at the conclusion of which she was presented by Claire Ludwig, for the Parlor, with a cut-glass dish. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served in the banquet room.

To Celebrate Children's Day.

Bieber—Mount Lassen 215 initiated four candidates March 24, and enjoyed a delicious chicken lunch. May 12 the Parlor will celebrate Children's Day.

Complimented by Grand President.

Alameda—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, on the occasion of her official visit to Encinal 156, was greeted by a large number of members and visitors, all of whom were charmed by her sweet and gracious manner. Among the visitors were Grand vice president Dr. Victory A. Derriek, Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher, D.D.G.P. Ada Spillman, and large delegations from Aloha, Argonaut, El Cereso, Bahia Vista, Mauzanita and Joaquin Parlors. The meeting-room was beautifully decorated with potted ferns and flags.

Grand President Briggs made an interesting address; she complimented President Elizabeth La Croix on her manner of conducting the Parlor's business and all the officers on their very excellent work; expressed herself as much pleased with the Parlor's accomplishments, and spoke of its beautiful flags. She was the recipient of a remembrance from the Parlor, which presented gifts also to D.D.G.P. Spillman and Grand Vice president Derriek. After the meeting all were escorted to the banquet-room, where a buffet supper was served from tables decorated appropriate to Easter. The ## Mothers Guests on Anniversary.

San Francisco—Golden Gate 158 recently celebrated its thirteenth anniversary by asking the mothers of members, and those of the Parlor who are fortunate enough to have daughters in the Parlor, to be its guests at a supper. A very tasty menu was served, Sister Franzen making the birthday cake. The banquet table was appropriately decorated in the national colors, with a little yellow mingled, and the sentiment of the Parlor was fittingly expressed in the verses on the cards presented to each mother. The mothers present included: Mesdames L. Gorman, A. Franzen, Siebe, Kamm, Murry, N. McNeerney, V. Seyden, C. Seyden, Runge, Bertfield, Hedrich. After hearing from the mothers, and a little entertainment on the part of the members, for their benefit, good nights were said, the honored guests and all others stating a swiftly passing evening had been much enjoyed. The committee in charge was: B. Severance, J. Knuss, E. Maignre, E. Griffin, K. Ringen, C. McNeerney. Plans are now under way for an indoor picnic, to be held before the members begin thinking too seriously of vacation time.

Has Easter Social for Friends.

Oakland—Bahia Vista 167 entertained its friends with an Easter social March 30. A splendid program was rendered by the visiting children, of whom about fifty were present, the participants being Dorothy Asher, Catharine Mulqueaney, Loraine Piper, Baby Freda, Lelia Baker, Lucille Richardson, Rhoda Edwards, Jessie Carroll, Little Billy, Imelda and Mae Mills, Joseph Mulqueaney, Dorothy and Evelyn Kennedy, Mildred Cleary, Vera Krul, Edward and Genevieve Miranda. Prizes were given the children in an egg hunt and egg race. The men present were judges in a bonnet-making contest for the women, and awarded Mrs. R. R. Powell the prize.

After the entertainment and games the guests were escorted to the beautifully-decorated banquet-room, where refreshments were served to all. Little baskets filled with Easter eggs were given to the children, and little chicks in sail boats to the older guests. On leaving all reported a most enjoyable evening. President Marion Garthorne, Anna Quinn and Louise McDougall were in charge of the affair.

Card Parties Ended for Season.

Byron—April 6 Donner 193 initiated a candidate and brought its series of card parties to a close. Prizes were awarded as follows: Men's first, Mr. Burdewick; women's first, Mrs. B. Grove; "hooby," Mrs. J. L. Frerichs. Refreshments were served during the evening.

April 14 the Parlor was honored with an official visit from Grand President Bertha A. Briggs. Visitors were present from El Pescadero and Sterling Parlors. The Grand President, at the conclusion of an instructive address, was presented with a dainty cut glass bon bon dish. Games were played, and a delicious chicken supper was served at midnight.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Virginia Leut (Donner 193), who for some time has been employed in a Martinez bank, recently became the bride of Henry Boltzen, a prosperous farmer of Byron.

Among the San Joseans who attended the "booster" luncheon in San Francisco last month were these members of Vendome 100: Mesdames Plamondon, Rush McCrone, J. M. Howell, Wallace Morton, David Gairaud.

Mesdames Jas. Sheehy, A. Morse, J. V. Piratsky, M. Aston, P. Storm, J. Williamson, M. McGowan, S. French, Minnie Peterson and Miss Sara Cox (El Pajaro 35) of Watsonville were among those who attended the "booster" luncheon in San Francisco last month.

Among the guests at some of the many entertainment functions in connection with the N.S.G.W. Grand Parlor at Stockton last month were: Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister, Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher of Oakland, Maud Wagner (Bear Flag 151) of Berkeley, Past Grand President Mary E. Bell and Margaret Sullivan (Alta 3) of San Francisco, Grand Marshal Mattie Stein of Lodi.

JAPS UNITE TO WIN TEMPORARY VICTORY

WHITE-JAPS FROM SOUTH OF TE-hachapi, along with yellow-Japs whose "very honorable" mikado-controlled dollars they fall easy prey to, have succeeded in winning a temporary victory in the Assembly of the State Legislature by defeating a proposed law to prohibit aliens ineligible to citizenship from fishing in California waters. Those responsible for the defeat of the fishing bill are of the same ilk as those other white-Jap citizens who are assisting the yellow-Japs in land-stealing—more concerned with fattening their pocketbooks than with the welfare of California.

Routing of the Japs from the fishing industry will be but temporarily postponed, for Assemblyman Ivan Parker of Placer County, who has first-hand knowledge of what the white-Japs and yellow-Japs, working hand in hand, have done to that county and made a glorious fight for the fishing bill, has given assurance that the measure will be submitted to The People, via the referendum.

That they will enact the law, is a foregone conclusion, but during the necessary delay the "Yamato race will push forward" rapidly, become more firmly entrenched in the fishing industry, and add strength to their already near-stranglehold on California—getting control of all the waters as well as all the lands and, eventually, all that therein and thereon is.

During the forced delay, The People should do for the white-Japs that which they claimed the fishing bill would do if enacted—wreck their industries. This can be lawfully done, and should be done, by refusing to purchase the products of those fish-canneries who fought the bill.

Sentiment, talk, resolves, aye, even laws, accomplish nothing in this contest with the Japs for California. The People must take aggressive action by ostracizing the white-Japs. A little such action will convince that California means what she has said, and the yellow horde will take the "hunch" and defeat. Hasten the day when The People realize that aggressive action on their part is the only thing that will save this state from the Japs; and hasten, too, the day when California is free of both the white and the yellow variety!—C.M.H.

PRIMARY SUGGESTIONS.

Los Angeles is right now suffering from the ills of a city election; they will be considerably lessened May 3, when the primary weeds out a considerable number of the office-seekers, and by June 7, when the finals are run, the agony will be ended.

Out of such a large list of entries, the city should get a corps of honest and efficient public-servants. And it will, if the citizens go to the polls and vote, for the best man for each office irrespective of his religious creed. For, it must be said, religion has become too powerful and, also, too dangerous for the city's well-being, in local political "scraps."

One proposition on the primary ballot has created a great deal of fuss between rival newspapers. Incidentally, it may be said right here, that Los Angeles has become a newspaper-governed city, and the sooner the citizens realize that fact and vote accordingly the better for all concerned. Right should decide the "Bullock's" squabble, and if right prevails the city will accept a fair rental from the firm for the use of the blind-alley. The city, through its agents-officials, made a mistake, it is conceded, and the voters should rectify the mistake in fairness to both the city and the firm. To penalize the firm would be unjust. Don't hold Los Angeles up to ridicule by following the advice of newspapers to exact the "pound of flesh," but vote as you would want your fellow-citizens to vote if you were placed in the firm's position.—C.M.H.

Grizzly Bear. He told of the several "Digger" tribes, and said that because they were impossible of Christianizing accounted for missions never have been established beyond Sonoma. The "Diggers" never ventured south of Tehachapi, he said, and were not quarrelsome. Many amusing incidents related, punctuated the address with laughter.

The Parlor continues to initiate candidates, and his plans well perfected for a systematic membership campaign. In fact, Ramona hopes to show its appreciation for the honor of Grand President having been conferred upon one of its members—Sheriff "Bill" Traeger—by reporting a membership of not less than 1,000 December 31.

GET TICKETS FOR THE MAY EVENT.

An event of unusual interest will be the presentation of the four-act comedy drama, "Tempest and Sunshine," by the "Marion Warde Players" under the auspices of Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., at the Gamut Club theatre, 1044 South Hope street, Tuesday evening May 17, at 8:15 sharp. Tickets are $1 each. The "Warde Players" make up an organization of professional student-players, professionally directed by Miss Warde, and have a reputation for artistic and finished performances seldom seen outside of professional companies. Miss Warde is one of Los Angeles' leading teachers of dramatic arts, and the splendid training, together with the professional direction, she has given her players has made that organization popular for entertainments where a high-class program is desired.

"Tempest and Sunshine" will be given in costumes of 1860, with stage settings in accordance with that period. Wm. G. Newell of Los Angeles

What dazzling brilliance meets the eye,
As we thy glory behold;
You gleam and sparkle 'neath the sky
Like the Burning Bush of old.
We feel that God indeed is near;
As Moses looked and found,
We stand in a sacred presence here,
And this must be Holy Ground.

Los Angeles, California.

Parlor, although not a member of the company, has consented to play one of the leading parts; his many friends will be on hand to give him an ovation upon his debut as an actor. Miss Warde says, "judging from rehearsals, he will cover himself with glory and prove to be an actor of no mean ability." Rehearsals have been going on for some time, and the play is now almost ready for presentation. As the seating capacity is limited, and tickets are much in demand, better get in touch at once with Secretary W. D. Gilman if you want to see this show. Besides the four-act play, a quartet of mixed voices will sing during the action of the play all the old familiar Southern airs. A dozen children from the dancing classes of the school, dressed as picninnies, will do step dancing, and a full orchestra will furnish music.

Los Angeles Parlor, under the auspices of its Good of the Order Committee, will continue to have an entertainment every Thursday evening at Native Sons' Hall, 134 West Seventeenth street. Some exceptionally good acts have been obtained for the month of May.

RECEPTION FOR GRAND PRESIDENT.

Corona 196, N.S.G.W., celebrated its silver institution anniversary with a banquet April 14 which was largely attended by members of the Parlor and visitors from the other local Parlor. President J. M. Lynch introduced Dr. D. W. Edelman, the charter president, as the toastmaster. In addition to him, three other charter members—W. T. Craig, L. S. Nordlinger and Ed Zobelein—were in attendance and addressed the gathering. Other speakers were: W. J. Ford, E. B. Lovie, Dan Lauberscheimer, F. B. Kitts, Grand First Vice-president William I. Traeger, Eugene ("Knock-em-Dead") Murphy, Superior Judge John M. York and J. O'B. Bodkin.

Monday, May 9, Corona will give a reception to Grand President William I. Traeger. All Native Sons are invited. The Good of the Order Committee, with Marshal A. F. Palethorpe as chairman, has charge and promises an out-of-the-ordinary function. Ramona Hall, 349 South Hill street, is the place.

NATIVE DAUGHTER GRAND PARLOR

JUNE 14 (FLAG DAY) THE THIRTY-FIFTH Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West will assemble in San Francisco for a four-day session. Delegates will be elected during the month of May.

Arrangements for the meeting are in the hands of the following Grand Parlor Committee: Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, May Barry, Mae Edwards, Marguerite Sullivan, Jeanette G. Powell, Elinor Bulger, Lucie Hammersmith, Nell R. Boege, Grand Trustee Dr. Winifred M. Byrne, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty, Dora Bloom, Lillian B. Troy.

Rumors of candidates are frequent, but definite announcements are being withheld until after the elections. It is almost certain that Dr. Victory A.

Derrick of Oakland, Grand Vice-president, will be unopposed for Grand President.

For Grand Vice-president—the "stepping-stone" to the Grand Presidency—there are already two candidates in the field: Grand Trustee May L. Williamson (Santa Cruz 26) of Santa Cruz, and Grand Marshal Mattie M. Stein (Ivy 88) of Lodi.

Dr. Louise C. Heilbron (San Diego 208) of San Diego is the only candidate so far announced for Grand Marshal, and Grand Inside Sentinel Pearl Lamb (El Pescadero 82) is the first to announce her candidacy for the Board of Grand Trustees, seven to be selected.

The closing Grand Parlor year has been one of the most successful in the Order's history, particularly as regards membership increase, and the reports of officers and committee will show it to be in a flourishing condition.—C.M.H.

cars of wool for the East left California. A large quantity in bags in a San Francisco warehouse was found to be unsalable, on account of producers mixing sand in the wool to increase its weight. The bags were found to exceed the average weight so greatly an investigation revealed the trick. One bag contained a stone weighing fifty-six pounds and the bagger was bagged, on a charge of fraudulent intent.

Plint, Bixby & Co. of San Juan, Monterey County, were the largest sheep raisers in the state. They pastured 75,000 sheep on 200,000 acres of land in Monterey and adjacent counties. Their spring clip exceeded 300,000 pounds, and was sold for $95,000.

Chas. Lewis at Salinas, Monterey County, had raised a hog that weighed 1,200 pounds.

Malcolm Bros., near Hollister, San Benito County, planted 300 acres in flax. The seed was selling at six cents a pound.

Mrs. Anna Nelson and Mrs. Ellen Lynch, daughters of Catherine Broderick of Ireland and claiming to be cousins of the deceased Senator D. C. Broderick, created a big sensation in legal and real estate circles in San Francisco by commencing legal proceedings to obtain the Broderick estate. They lived in Australia and claimed they did not learn of Broderick's death in 1859 until ten years later, hence the delay in making their claim. A will, purporting to have been made in September, 1859, was filed for probate in December, 1859, and made no mention of or provision for any relatives, and it was believed the deceased Senator left none. The real estate owned by him had since changed hands a number of times and its value had tripled, and now there promised to be, if the will was knocked out, a big financial loss to many concerned.

Sheriffs and Desperadoes in Fight.

The California Pacific Railroad Company, Eastern Extension, was incorporated with $50,000,000 capital to build from Davis, Yolo County, 943 miles Eastward via Beckwith Pass to a connection with the Union Pacific Railroad. M. S. Latham, J. B. Frisbie, I. Friedlander, E. L. Sullivan, I. Gansel, agent for the Rothschilds, and R. Sulzbach of Germany were named directors. Ten percent of the capital was paid in, and active operations were to begin in sixty days.

The Smartsville, Yuba County, hydraulic mine, after three months of washing down its banks, cleaned up $54,000.

Bordwell and Cooley, near LaPorte, Plumas County, had been running a tunnel through a ridge for nine years. At a distance of 1,700 feet they struck, this month, a gravel channel that was paying $1 to the pan.

Joseph K. Emmet, then a star of the first magnitude, was touring the coast as "Fritz Vonderhinkenstofer" in the play of "Fritz, Our German Cousin."

The Calaveras County hospital, at San Andreas, was burned May 2, and two unfortunate inmates were cremated.

The Government wharf and warchouse on Goat Island, San Francisco Bay, were destroyed by fire May 3, causing a $60,000 loss.

A fire at Folsom, Sacramento County, May 6, destroyed a block of stores and caused $135,000 loss. The heaviest loser was B. N. Bugbey, who had stored in a cellar $85,000 worth of wine and brandy in casks. He carried $29,000 insurance.

A fire in San Bernardino, May 8, destroyed six business houses, with a $30,000 loss.

Thirteen carnivorous wild animals at Woodward's Gardens, San Francisco, including all the lions and tigers except one, were May 11 poisoned in some unknown manner and died. It was a great loss to the gardens.

A desperate fight in the Panoche Mountains, Monterey County, May 11, took place between a band of desperadoes and Sheriff Morse of Alameda County and Sheriff Harris of Monterey County with their deputies. Sheriff Morse killed Manuel Soto, wanted for killing three men at Sunol, and another Mexican was captured. The balance of the gang escaped, but were being pursued.

The stage from Los Angeles was robbed near Salinas, Monterey County, May 5, by two road agents who took Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express box which contained only $50.

The store of R. H. Duncan at Nashville, E. Dorado County, was burglarized the night of May 14. The safe was drilled open and $1,600 in gold coin taken. Three Chinamen were arrested for the crime.

The store of D. B. Carver at St. Helena, Napa County, was robbed the night of May 22. The safe was broken into and $4,000 in coin taken May 25 two men were arrested in Napa City and nearly all of the loot recovered.

W. Wheeler, an agent for the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Co., while driving on the road near Ukiah, Mendocino County, May 15 was stopped by two highwaymen and robbed of $100.

Johnny Devine, alias "The Chicken," a notorious rounder in San Francisco, who had his hand slashed off while on a spree two years before, buncoed sailer named Kamp out of $20. Meeting him the next day, Kamp started to make him refund, where he shot Kamp in the head and caused his death a few days later. "The Chicken's" predator cruising along the Barbary Coast bid fair to be permanently stopped.

Union Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles

MANAGED BY NATIVE SONS

Union Bank & Trust Co. of Los Angeles is constructing a modern, six-story, fire-proof class A bank and office building on the northeast corner of Eighth and Hill streets, Los Angeles.

The entire ground floor and basement will be occupied exclusively for banking and safety deposit purposes. Every facility and all the equipment required to render modern, high-class banking services will be provided.

This bank in the second floor location at 740 South Broadway, which it has occupied since its organization in 1914, has shown a steady and remarkable growth. From an initial capitalization of $300,000 and deposits of about an equal amount, its capital and surplus is now $1,133,000 and its deposits have grown to well over $6,000,000.

The story of the Union Bank is a financial romance rarely encountered. More than fifty years ago Kasparo Cohn came to Southern California and engaged in the wool brokerage business. In those early days the sheepmen did not so well understand banks and their uses and purposes, and having confidence in Mr. Cohn, the money they received for their wool they chose to leave with him until they might have need for it. The money so entrusted to Mr. Cohn grew in volume until in the summer of 1914 several hundred thousand dollars had so accumulated.

It was then decided to organize a bank, and accordingly the Kasparo Cohn Commercial and Savings bank, was formed, with Mr. Cohn as its president and Ben R. Meyer and Milton E. Getz vice presidents, the latter two being Native Sons.

In 1918 a modern trust department, in charge of A. L. Lathrop, was added to the commercial and savings departments already in operation and the name of the institution changed to Union Bank & Trust Co. of Los Angeles.

When this bank moves into the spacious quarters now in course of preparation, it will assume a well-defined place in the financial sun of Southern California and the steady growth it has maintained in the past will undoubtedly be augmented in the future.

The officers of Union Bank & Trust Co. of Los Angeles are:

Ben R. Meyer, president; Milton E. Getz, vice president; J. O. Lipman, vice president; P. O. Thurman, cashier; J. W. Lewis, assistant cashier; P. E. Nusschaefter, assistant cashier; A. L. Lathrop, trust officer and secretary, of whom three are Native Sons of California.

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

Why the Burnham
is Best

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

"OUR STRENGTH IS IN UNION"

Bertha A. Briggs
(GRAND PRESIDENT, N.D.G.W.)

NOTHER YEAR WITH ITS sunshine and its shadows, its joys and its sorrows, has numbered itself among the many that have gone before, and we are now forcibly reminded of the lessons which the hour-glass teaches—"behold how swiftly the sands run." We cannot, without astonishment, behold the little particles which are contained in the glass, how they pass almost imperceptibly, yet, to our surprise, in the short space of an hour they are all exhausted. Thus have the sands of the year passed so rapidly that it is difficult to realize that they have all disappeared, and that we are once again upon the threshold of another convention.

Within a few short weeks the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will assemble in San Francisco in thirty-fifth annual session to review the results of the year's labors and to formulate plans for the future welfare and prosperity of the Order. That the greatest good may be accomplished for the upbuilding of our wonderful fraternity, each Subordinate Parlor will send alert and interested workers that they may participate in the deliberations and assume their responsibility in formulating our policies and shaping our future destiny. In all our sessions, may we be imbued with wisdom and strength to legislate wisely and for the best interests of our entire membership; may our words and actions be governed by the Golden Rule; may we be stimulated by a sincere and earnest desire to forward the great principles for which we stand and, by wise counsel and prudent legislation, strengthen and improve our great organization; may our efforts develop still higher standards, honor the great institution to which we have sworn allegiance, and justify to the world our existence as an Order.

It is well to stop and reflect upon the accomplishments of the past, that we may increase our efforts and improve our opportunities for the future. During the past twelve months, our members have given freely of their time to the vital work of the Order, and have put forth their best efforts to make the Order more attractive to those eligibles who are not members, that they may desire to become of us and with us, ever bearing in mind that the more members we receive the larger and greater will be the field in which we are working and the scope of our activities will be that much broader. As a result of this earnest effort, we have enjoyed a healthy and substantial growth in membership. With very few exceptions, the Subordinate Parlors in all sections report a satisfactory increase in numbers. While our outer door has been well guarded, we have grown without sacrificing quality or character for quantity. Those who have identified themselves with us are women of promise, a credit to the individual Parlors with which they have allied themselves, and of a character and personnel that we are proud to welcome to our ranks.

At no time in the history of our Order has the spirit of fraternal love swept through the hearts and manifested itself in the lives of our members as at present. Look where we will, turn where we may, the voice of fraternity greets us, and willing hands are held out to help others. This means a better, a nobler, and a more loving life. It is true that no one can long be identified with our Order without becoming broader-minded and more charitable in her views of life—without having higher aspirations and a greater desire to be useful and to do good. No individual in the universe stands alone; he is a component part of a system of mutual dependencies and by his several acts he increases or diminishes the sum of general good, now and forever. Every human being has a work to carry on within; duties to perform abroad; influences to exert, which are peculiarly his own, and which no conscience but his own can teach. The principles and teachings of our Order help us to exert those influences for the encouragement and betterment of those about us.

There has been a greater effort to further strengthen the already strong bond of fraternity and co-operation that exists between our Order and that of our kindred organization—the Native Sons of the Golden West. As sons and daughters of California, imbued with similar aims and objects, with hearts beating in union in a common cause, we should ever meet together in friendly fraternalism. There is nothing that so strongly links mankind together as does fraternity. It means the uniting of our power, our knowledge, and our force to promote and advance the general good of all. Let there ever be a fraternity among us, not of words, but of deeds and acts, and then let us extend it to our relations to the world at large. Let our fraternity be a thought to make the world better and brighter, a thought to advance, not alone ourselves, but all mankind. As our strength is in union, by our united efforts we may promote the interests of our beloved California and prove ourselves to be worthy sons and daughters of those noble Pioneers who "blazed their way through wood and wild" and gave to us our proud heritage of "California the Beautiful—California the Golden."

Our natal state, sitting on the extreme western rim of the continent, occupies a position unique among the states of the Union. We, natives of the Golden West, occupy a position unique in the fraternal world. We are something more than mere social, secret, fraternal organizations. We are engaged in the solution of some of the weightiest problems of the present day—matters of vital importance to our community and to our state. There is a call today for Native Sons and Native Daughters of true moral fibre and steadfast purpose. Today we are afforded the opportunity to demonstrate the sterling worth of our love of state and our devotion to the principles upon which our beautiful Orders are built. If we fail to give the best that is in us, we are a hindrance to the cause! Who would willingly fill that role?

California, dating back beyond the United States itself, has ever been the land of the pathfinder and the pioneer. It has been suggested that their work is done, that they rest from their labors; but, if that were true, if there were an end to pathfinding and pioneering, this would be a day of universal sadness, rather than of unbounded exultation. The pathfinder and the pioneer will be as needful for the future as they have been to the past. We, of the present generation, have our problems in the solution of which we must be pioneers. We cannot rest upon the great work accomplished and the honors won by the Argonauts of '49, who endured untold hardships and privations and gave to us our wondrous state—"the Nation's brightest Star." As they discharged the problems of their day with courage and thoughtfulness, so, with equal wisdom and loyalty, must we give our best efforts to the solution of the problems that we are called upon to face in this, the world's "hour of unrest," if we are to preserve undimmed the great heritage that has been bequeathed to us. The call that comes to us is the call that came to our fathers—as they responded, so shall we.

BERTHA ADELE BRIGGS,
Grand President, N.D.G.W.

ROBBER JOAQUIN

AS SEEN IN STATUTES OF CALIFORNIA, LEGISLATURE JOURNALS AND BY ONE LIVING RANGER

May S. Corcoran

CALIFORNIA, LIKE ENGLAND, HAS her romantic outlaw, about whom much that is unreal was written. Like Robin Hood, Joaquin Murietta's wrongs were great, his revenge atrocious, his hiding places the woodlands, mountains and lakes, his companion a wife as beautiful and in many ways as seemingly fictitious as "Maid Marian"; but, unlike the highwayman of Nottingham Forest, our bandit left no record of merry moods, and his deeds were too recent for forgiveness.

Among California historians, Hubert Howe Bancroft tells very little, Theodore Hittell much that by an eye-witness and county records can be disproven, and other writers, with one exception, a great deal that is too lurid for belief; yet, besides the newspapers of his day, three reliable sources remain. They are the statutes of California, Senate and Assembly Journals of 1853, and Captain William J. Howard, who was Harry Love's assistant in the ranger band authorized by a legislative act of May 17, 1853, by which "Harry S. Love is hereby authorized and empowered to raise a Company of Mounted Rangers not to exceed twenty men, and muster them into the service of the State for the period of three months, unless sooner disbanded by order of the Governor, for the purpose of capturing the party or gang of robbers commanded by the five Joaquins whose names are Joaquin Murietta, Ocomorenia, Valenzuela, Botellier and Carrillo, and their band of associates."<sup>1</sup> Said rangers were to furnish their own equipment, and to receive from the State of California "the sum of $150 each per month, while in actual service."

Previous to this act of the Legislature, as cause leading to effect, were others restricting foreign miners, which ironically made the word "foreign" synonymous to "Mexican," and in 1853 led to "An Act to provide for the protection of Foreigners and to define their Liabilities and Privileges," by requiring from them "good clean gold dust at seventeen dollars per ounce," in exchange for the following: "FORM OF LICENSE: No. .... County. .... Date. .... 185... This certifies that. .... has this day paid the Sheriff of. .... County, four dollars, which entitles him to work in the mines of this State for one month from this date. Controller of State, by. .... Sheriff. (At side, to be removed at expiration of term) No. .... County. .... Date. .... 185... has paid four dollars mining license, which entitles him to work in the mines one month."<sup>2</sup>

In the quickly recurring demands for four dollars and various ways of computing the "seventeen dollars per ounce" gold dust, the foreigners failed to find protection. Some camps paid the tax at the point of the sheriff's pistol, while others pulled up stakes and pressed on to less-frequented places, or, hunted at last from the very heart of the forest, became highwaymen on the plains of the San Joaquin where, as they congregated, a well-organized robber band with the Joaquin, or "five," or "three Joaquins," as designated in subsequent acts, as leader, was formed. They stole and herded horses from Marysville to Los Angeles, but dwelt chiefly in Calaveras and Mariposa Counties, and on the plains west of Tulare Lake between Tejon and Pacheco Passes, where Pioneer settlers still relate the fearful crimes perpetrated against Americans, the most conspicuous of which was the deadly shot in the neck from the pistol of a lone rider "with velvety eyes." These Latin-Americans doubtless had grievances, but if half the stories told are true, and our legislative journal indicates that they are, the murders committed on innocent strangers exceeded the provocation.

As early as March 26, 1853, Mr. Herbert introduced a joint resolution in the Assembly requiring the comptroller to draw a warrant for $5,000 for the arrest or killing of Robber Joaquin.<sup>3</sup> This was referred to the committee on military affairs, who reported favorably and recommended its passage,<sup>4</sup> but Mr. Covarrubias of the minority objected on the ground that, while "The glaring nature and boldness of the atrocities ascribed to this individual, and the failure of all attempts hitherto to capture him, induced them unanimously at first to recommend the adoption of the resolution," on more mature deliberation the principle involved in offering such a reward was not conformable with equity, in that setting a price "upon the head of an individual who has not been examined and convicted by due process of law, is to proceed upon the assumption of his guilt," and that floating rumors and newspaper statements were not conclusive evidence, for "Unless the said Joaquin be endowed with supernatural qualities, he could not have been seen at the same time in several places, widely separated from each other," and that many persons might resemble Joaquin. Mr. Covarrubias added: "It may not be improper here to remark, that there are citizens of this State, descendants of ancient and honorable families, who bear the name of Joaquin Carrillo, the name by which the individual is known for whose capture this reward is proposed to be offered. The minority of your committee will allude to two who are well known to them. One is a very respectable citizen of the County of Sonoma, and the other is the District Judge of the Second Judicial District, who enjoys a distinguished reputation, and discharges his high and delicate duties with the integrity befitting an honorable and renowned magistrate."<sup>5</sup>

As a result of this logic which, while sound, showed a slight tinge of race prejudice, the bill was laid on the table and Joaquin of the velvety eyes continued to shoot people in the neck. Then, on May 4, 1853, Mr. Wade presented to the Senate of California a memorial from the citizens of Mariposa County asking for the passage of an act to authorize some discreet person to organize a company of twenty or twenty-five horsemen, well armed and equipped, to traverse Mariposa and other counties for the purpose of arresting Joaquin and his associate robbers.<sup>6</sup> This occasioned many lengthy debates and votes in Senate and Assembly; before the final act of May 17, 1853, gave to Captain Harry Love the right to organize his Rangers.

May 23, 1853, the company, called the California Rangers, was organized at Captain William J. Howard's ranch, Buena Vista, on Burns Creek, four miles west of Hornitos, in Mariposa County, with Harry Love of Quartzburg, a Mexican War veteran, as captain. The personnel was: Harry Love, later killed in Santa Cruz; P. Edward Conner, died in San Francisco; W. J. Howard, living in Oregon; Bill Burns, died in Stockton; Charles Bladworth, at rest in the old Snellings cemetery; Thomas J. Howard, buried in Galveston, Texas; William J. Henderson, died in Fresno; John White, later killed near Fort Tejon; Edward Campbell, died on Kings River; William Campbell, killed on Kings River; Augustus Black, killed in the Civil War; Dr. Hollister, died in San Jose; Bob McMasters, died in Sacramento; George Evans, killed in Santa Cruz; John Nutall, killed in Nicaragua; George Nutall, died in Stockton; Nick Ashmore, killed in Salt Lake; James Norton, killed in Salt Lake; Ned Van Burn, killed in Contra Costa; George Chase, drowned in Fraser River.

The Rangers entered at once upon their search, adding to their own efforts the request for help from the public in the following notice which was posted on trees all the way from Marysville to Los Angeles: "Three thousand dollars reward for the head of one Joaquin Murietta, murderer and horse-thief, a menace to the life of every American in California, whether in tent, cabin, gulch, or village." Thus, although only one Joaquin was specified, three were being hunted. Joaquin Carrillo and Joaquin Valenzuela, of whom no clear description is anywhere found, may have been only waifs of the one redoubtable desperado.

July 1, 1853, learning that horses had been stolen in Los Angeles, the Rangers formed a plan whereby one division of the company would follow the coast and the other go through Fort Tejon. The downward march was futile and the prey eluded them, but returning through Fort Tejon, the bandits were found encamped in a little cup-like valley in the mountains near the fort and easily surrounded, the numbers being almost equal. Murietta was killed, his head severed from his body, taken to Millerton, the first county-seat of Fresno but at that time in Mariposa, placed in alcohol, taken to Hornitos for identification, then to San Francisco, later to New York, returned to San Francisco to the Robinson Museum, and finally, in the earthquake and fire of 1906, lost—probably at last cremated.

May 15, 1854, the Legislature passed an act for the reward of Harry Love. "The sum of five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated to be paid out of the general fund to Captain Harry Love for expenses incurred in the capture of the notorious robber Joaquin, and the comptroller is hereby directed to issue warrants to the above mentioned sum to be paid out of any monies in the treasury not otherwise appropriated."<sup>7</sup> And, whether Murietta, Carrillo, or Valenzuela was his name, the being "endowed with superhuman powers" existed no longer; California's banditta became history.

Many fabulous tales are told of Joaquin, but the one living Ranger discredits most of them, particularly those concerning his wife, of whom Captain Howard says: "I had the best opportunity of knowing the woman because, for a considerable time, she lived near me when I was camped near Hornitos. She was an extremely beautiful woman and was known as 'Queen,' on account of her beauty and regal ways."

Still one tender human fancy circles with its tread of gold a graceful hour in the erstwhile clouded bandit life. Six miles from Mariposa, on the western slope of a mountain that rises steeply from a gently undulating plateau, a spring of deliciously cool water flows softly out upon slanting moss and glides silently over a broad sweep of perpetually green grass. So long ago that no one remembers the date, this spot was given the name of Agua Fria. A few adobes still mark the place where, long before the Mexican War, existed a pueblo under a governing alcalde, and later the first county seat of Mariposa. Here, on a full moon night in June, 1854, a mau who had ridden hard all day through the unbroken poppy fields of the San Joaquin, fleeing northward from Los Angeles, slipped from his horse, bent his face to the purple anemones and cooling maiden-hair of the little spring, and, rising refreshed, saw on the big oak tree beneath which stood his weary horse, a reward for his head. With interest he read it by the match which he struck for his cigarette, gazed from it to his drooping steed, and sighed. The horse must rest a while at least, and the spot at night was secluded, but his way was long and each moment counted.

From the town a half-mile distant came the sound of violin and harp playing a Spanish waltz. Instinctively the gilded spurs beat time on the moss; then, stooping again, he flung them aside, straightened the knotted silk scarf at his throat, tossed away his sombrero, smoothed back his hair, and with a low word, perhaps to the horse, rushed out into the broad moonlight, straight across the plaza and into the ballroom. As is often with those on the brink of eternity, his daring was not bravado, but rather the real man as he had been before troubles came. With a joy that was real, he swung gracefully into the waltz. Those who recognized him and knew of the notices tacked to trees all the way from Marysville to Los Angeles, drew courteously aside until the dance ended, with a bow he left them. None followed. A few days later the candle flickered and went out, even while the full moon silvered the purple anemones around the little spring in Agua Fria.

WILL GIVE FLAGS TO ## PUBLIC SCHOOLS ON FLAG DAY.

San Francisco—Native Sons of this city will celebrate Flag Day, June 14, by presenting American and State (Bear) Flags to public schools. At the presentations, speakers of the Order will tell what the American Flag stands for, will acquaint the pupils with the State Flag's history, and urge constant allegiance to both flags.

Pacific Parlor No. 10 will present flags to Lowell high school, South San Francisco No. 157 to the Bay View and Daniel Webster schools, Guadalupe No. 231 to the Monroe, Longfellow and Excelsior schools, and James Lick No. 242 to the Lick school.

MILLIONS SUCH THE NEED!

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;

Men whom the lust of office cannot kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor—men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue,
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking.

THIRTY-FIFTH GRAND PARLOR, N. D. G. W.

CANDIDATES, ENTERTAINMENT, COMPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO SESSION

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

prevents, the Grand Parlor will adjourn Friday night, after the installation.

The first day will be given over largely to hearing the reports of Grand President Briggs, other grand officers, and committees. These will show the Order to be in splendid condition.

MEMBERSHIP

During the closing Grand Parlor year the membership increase in the Subordinate Parlors has been most encouraging—the greatest, it is said, in the history of the Order.

The Grizzly Bear requested all Parlors to supply their membership figures among other information at the time of election of delegates; one or two declined to do so, and a half-dozen or so others failed to respond at all. From the reports received, this bit of interesting information has been extracted:

Joaquin 5 (Stockton) is the largest Parlor in the Order, having 340 members. Its nearest competitor, in membership, is Alta 3 (San Francisco), with 260.

Four Parlors are in the 200-class: Laurel 6 (Nevada City), with 218 members; Piedmont 87 (Oakland), with 210; Marguerite 12 (Placerville), with 204; Sutter 111 (Sacramento), with 200.

Four Parlors are also in the 150-to-200-class: Manzanita 29 (Grass Valley), with 178 members; Buena Vista 68 (San Francisco), with 165 [estimated]; Presidio 148 (San Francisco), with 155; San Jose 51 (San Jose), with 151.

Parlors in the 100-to-150-class include: La Bandera 110 (Sacramento), 147 members; Ursula 1 (Jackson), 143; El Pescadero 82 (Tracy), 143; Castro 178 (San Francisco), 133; Caliz de Oro 206 (Stockton), 131; Fruitvale 177 (Oakland), 130; Capa de Oro 105 (Hollister), 121; Aleli 102 (Salinas), 120; Dolores 169 (San Francisco), 120; Aloha 106 (Oakland), 117; El Pajaro 35 (Watsonville), 115; Golden State 50 (San Francisco), 115; Woodland 90 (Woodland), 115; Yosemite 83 (San Francisco), 114; Hiawatha 140 (Redding), 112; Santa Cruz 26 (Santa Cruz), 111; Ivy 88 (Lodi), 110; Vendome 100 (San Jose), 110; Gabrielle 139 (San Francisco), 107; Mariuita 198 (San Rafael), 107; San Luisita 108 (San Luis Obispo), 106; Oneonta 71 (Ferndale), 101; Stirling 146 (Pittsburg), 101.

LAKE TAHOE

(MARTHA H. SANDERS.)

I bless thee, O beautiful lake,
Thy waters, sparkling clear!
'Tis like a dream once more,
The music of your thousand waves to hear.

The gorgeous sun's bright gleam
Bathes thee gladly in his noontide ray;
And o'er thy headlands green
With loving light the tints of morning play.

The wondrous moon hangs in the sky
And, shedding its pallid sheen,
Watches, as do the angel-stars,
As you lie in your cradle green.

The whispering zephyrs, gliding by,
Rock you upon their way;
They see the wavelets come and go,
As though a child at play.

Here in your green domain
Nature's sovereignty is crowned;
And in your regal robe you reign,
As fits a queen world renowned.

O, beautiful Tahoe, fare thee well!
Where'er my changeful life may be,
A deep and hallowed spell
Is on thy waters and thy woods for me.

Lincoln, California.

All the other Parlors have less than 100 members, Dardanelle 66 (Souora), Darina 114 (San Francisco), and San Diego 208 (San Diego), each with 97 members, being the largest in the 50-to-100-class.

In the less-than-50 class, Berendos 23 (Red Bluff), Mariposa 63 (Mariposa), and El Dorado 186 (Georgetown), each with 47 members, are the largest. The smallest Parlor in the Order is Imogen 134 (Sierraville), with 6 members.

During the year one Parlor, La Esperanza 24 (Los Angeles) surrendered its charter, consolidating with Long Beach 154 (Long Beach).

Before the Grand Parlor meets, two new Parlors will have been instituted, one at Wheatland, Yuba County, May 27, and the other at Quincy, Plumas County, May 28.

CANDIDATES

The Grizzly Bear has communicated with all Subordinate Parlors and rumored office-seekers, in an endeavor to procure a complete list of the candidates for the several Grand Parlor offices. The results are listed below, but it is certain there will be other candidates:

Grand President—Grand Vice-president Dr. Victor A. Derriek (Aloha 106) of Oakland.

Grand Vice-president—Grand Trustee May L. Williamson (Santa Cruz 26) of Santa Cruz; Grand Marshal Mattie M. Stein (Ivy 88) of Lodi.

Grand Secretary—Alice H. Dougherty (Angelita 32) of Livermore (incumbent); Jennie Greene (Buena Vista 68) of San Francisco.

Grand Treasurer—Susie K. Christ (Yosemite 83) of San Francisco (incumbent).

Grand Marshal—Grand Trustee Mary Frances Mitchell (San Jose 51) of San Jose; Grand Trustee Amy V. McAvoy (Stirling 146) of Pittsburg; Dr. Louise C. Heilbron (San Diego 208) of San Diego.

Grand Inside Sentinel—Grand Outside Sentinel Harriet M. Eames (Annie K. Bidwell 168) of Chico.

Grand Outside Sentinel—Lucie E. Hammersmith (Darina 114) of San Francisco; Jeanette G. Powell (Presidio 148) of San Francisco; Mary E. Wright (Bahia Vista 167) of San Francisco.

Grand Organist—Rebecca Kemp Van Ee (Alta 3) of San Francisco (incumbent).

Grand Trustee (seven to be elected)—Dr. Winifred M. Byrne (Minerva 2) of San Francisco (incumbent); Hattie E. Roberts (Oneonta 71) of Ferndale; Grand Inside Sentinel Pearl Lamb (El Pescadero 82) of Tracy; Dora Bloom (Sans Sonci 96) of San Francisco; Anna G. Andresen (Aleli 102) of Salinas (incumbent); Lily Tilden (Sutter 111) of Sacramento; Catherine E. Gloster (Alturas 159) of Alturas (incumbent); Emma Jess (Dolores 169) of San Francisco; Mae Himes-Noonan (Portola 172) of San Francisco.

Retiring from the Grand Presidency, Bertha A. Briggs (Copa de Oro 105) of Hollister will automatically become the Past Grand President.

ENTERTAINMENT

The arrangements for, and entertainment of the Grand Parlor are in the hands of a Grand Parlor committee, appointed for that purpose, which is being assisted by a joint committee representing all the San Francisco Parlors. This combined committee has mapped out the following attractive program of entertainment:

Monday evening, Native Sons' Auditorium, reception to Grand Parlor at which the public will be admitted.

Tuesday afternoon, Flag Day exercises, for members of the Order only; Tuesday evening, grand ball complimentary to Grand Parlor, Native Sons' Auditorium, to which all Native Sons and Native Daughters are invited.

Wednesday afternoon, auto sight-seeing trip; Wednesday evening, theater party. Arrangements for these two features had not been perfected at this writing, so details cannot be given.

Thursday evening, exemplification of the ritual by a picked team from the San Francisco Subordinate Parlors under the direction of D.D.G.P. May Noble.

Friday evening, installation of the newly-selected grand officers.

The committees in charge are constituted as follows: Arrangements (appointed by Grand President)—Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, May Barry, Mae Edwards, Marguerite Sullivan, Jeanette G. Powell, Elinor Bulger, Lucie Hammersmith, Nell R. Boege, Grand Trustee Dr. Winifred M. Byrne, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty, Dora Bloom, Lillian B. Troy. Accommodations—Alice H. Dougherty, Mesdames Mae Noonan, Elizabeth Muller, Mary E. Bell. Reception Program—Mesdames May Noble, Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Edna Hughes.

Ball and Reception—Mary E. Bell, Dr. Winifred Byrne, May C. Boldemann, Eliza D. Keith, Dr. M. Bertola, Clara K. Wittenmyer, Dr. Elizabeth Spencer, Genevieve W. Baker, Louis W. Morris, Clara Metcalf, Henrietta Negodich, Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Marguerite Sullivan, Margaret G. Hill, Louise R. Burridge, Belle Wirtner, Josephine Morrissey, Elizabeth Muller, Sadie Haley, Millie Tietjen, Emma G. Foley, Mary Connerton, Mae Joseph, Nellie Bulger, May Dwyer, Pearl Crone, Jennie M. Greene, May L. Noble, Emily Ryan, Rosa Muller, Mary Waters, Susie K. Christ, May Larroche, Marguerite Kaufman, May Barry, Hannah Barry, Louise Cases, Dora Bloom, Emma Carr, Minnie Bobbin, Lucie E. Hammersmith, Edna E. Hughes, Bessie Peters, Nellie Boege, Mary McCormack, Emilie Schultz, Annie Prauzen, Louise Anderson, Margaret Ramm, Mabel Lyons, Hazel Kirk, Emma Jess, Mae H. Noonan, Agnes Curry, Inez Tesch, Margaret Griffiths, Gabrielle Sandersfeldt, Louise Streller, Frances M. Kenny, Dell Eden, Etta Milley, Agnes Troy, Lillian Troy, Clara Penguillan, Helen Mann, Genevieve Carroll, Lillian Herzog, E. Wilson, Jeannette Powell, Claire S. Clark, Ella M. Gilbert, Mae McCarthy, Agnes Gallagher, Anita Moroncelli, Martha Garfield, Gussie Meyer, Lena Weisheimer, Alice H. Dougherty, Agnes McVerry, Ella Owens, Harriet Cate.

COMPOSITION

The Grand Parlor is composed of the grand officers, permanent members, past grand presidents, and delegates representing the several Subordinate Parlors. The list includes:

Founder of the Order—Lilly O. Reichling-Dyer.

Past Grand Secretaries—Georgia Watson-Cotter-Ryan, Laura J. Frakes.

Past Grand Presidents—Louise Watson-Morris, Carrie Roesch-Durham, Clara K. Wittenmyer, Mac B. Wilkin, Minnie Coulter, Dr. Elizabeth A. Spencer, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Mary E. Tillman, Ema Gett, Genevieve Watson-Baker, Eliza D. Keith, Stella Finkeldey, Ella E. Caminetti, Ariana W. Stirling, Emma Gruber-Foley, Anna L. Monroe, Emma W. Humphrey, Mamie G. Peyton, Olive Bedford-Matlock, Alison F. Watt, May C. Boldemann, Margaret Grote-Hill, Mamie P. Carmichael, Grace S. Stoermer, Addie L. Mosher.

Members First Grand Parlor (1888) retaining continuous membership in Order—Grace S. Williams, Lizzie Winkley-Pfenninger, Josie Hofmeister-Pratt, Kate Even-Stewart, Mary Hutchings.

Grand Officers—Mary E. Bell, Past Grand President; Bertha Adele Briggs, Grand President; Dr. Victor A. Derriek, Grand Vice-president; Alice H. Dougherty, Grand Secretary; Susie K. Christ, Grand Treasurer; Mattie M. Stein, Grand Marshal; Pearl Lamb, Grand Inside Sentinel; Harriet M. Eames, Grand Outside Sentinel; Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Grand Organist; May L. Williamson, Catherine E. Gloster, Anna Gell Andresen, Amy McAvoy, Anne Almeda, Dr. Winifred M. Byrne, Mary Frances Mitchell, Grand Trustees.

Subordinate Parlor Delegates—The list includes all those reported to The Grizzly Bear at the time of going to press:

Ursula 1—Henrietta O'Neill, Ella Mercer, Esther Dal Porto.

Minerva 2—Lucy E. Maloney.

Alta 3—Catherine O'Reilly, Mary Warren, Elizabeth Douglass, Marguerite Sullivan, Margaret Grant, Rose Peterson.

Joaquin 5—Hattie B. Ward, Edith Lyon, Lucy Leiginger, Harriett Corr, Margaret Nolan, Katherine Butenuth, Florence Board.

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

BUD SELECTION: A PRACTICAL PROGRAM.

MUCH IS HEARD THESE DAYS OF THE subject of bud selection of selected stock, pedigreed stock, record bearers, and other such terms. Many of these terms are inappropriately applied by the layman not through any misconception of the ordinary meaning but through a failure to recognize the far-reaching effects of the full meaning of these terms.

The principles of bud selection apply not only to fruit trees but to crops such as sugar-cane and any crops grown from vegetative portions of the plant.

Briefly stated, bud selection involves in its commonly accepted meaning the testing and proving of buds from known sources to determine their value as producers and the uniformity and regularity of the production of the desired type.

To the orchardist or other fruit-grower, the problem is to determine just how the principles of bud selection may be applied to his own work. A few suggestions, therefore, may be in order.

It is a well-known fact that practically all kinds of fruit trees produce at times what are known as "sports," these developing generally from a single bud. The growth of this bud into a branch or group of branches may show characteristics differing from the rest of the tree; either the leaves may vary, or the fruit may vary, or both. This has been particularly noticeable with citrus fruits although evidences have been found of the same variation in prunes, apples, peaches, plums, and other deciduous fruits.

The definite and careful observation of the behavior of such branches covering a series of years, or at least more than one year, will indicate whether this characteristic is a uniform trait of the branch in question and whether it actually differs materially from the balance of the tree. Many orchardists who become thoroughly familiar with the trees under their care may from time to time observe such variations. These should not be neglected; here lies the groundwork for a further development of the most effective type of bud selection.

Any grower may with the loss of little time note the behavior of such branches from year to year by tagging the branch while the variation is evident. For example, if the fruit is different from that on the balance of the tree, place a distinctive label on the branch while the fruit is actually on the tree. There can then be no mistake later on. Observe and make written notes on the differences between the product of the branch in question and the rest of the tree both as to quality, quantity, size, peculiarities of any kind, and time of blossoming and ripening as compared with the balance of the tree. Very often the date of blossoming and ripening will be of considerable importance in determining the commercial value of the "sport."

When the behavior of the "sport" has proven to the satisfaction of the observer that it is worth while propagating, buds from the desired branch may be secured and budded into nursery stock or into other trees for further testing. These should be watched very carefully to insure certainty as to the origin of the resulting trees. Oftentimes the bud itself may die and adventitious buds may grow up from the stock without the knowledge of the grower and considerable confusion result therefrom.

These trees may then be planted out in orchard form and cared for as the balance of the orchard. In order to provide an adequate check, however, buds from normal portions of the tree should be taken at the same time and treated in the same manner so as to have trees to plant in the orchard from both types—the old and the new—for the purposes of comparison under similar conditions. It is generally best to take at least three trees and preferably from five to ten trees of each kind for testing purposes. When these trees have not only attained bearing age, but have produced for a sufficient number of years to determine their actual bearing qualities the grower will then have what are known as "bud selected" or "pedigreed" trees. This is the simplest and most easily observed method of bud selection.

Where variation consists in increased or decreased yield without noticeable differences in the type of tree or fruit, then the problem is an entirely different one.

Much work has been done in the past in making observations on the relative production of different trees in the same orchard under similar care. Buds have been taken from the highest producing trees and the trees produced therefrom have been called pedigreed buds or bud selected trees. It is true that they do represent selection of buds from the general run of the orchard, but they may or may not be such as will transmit their qualities of heavy bearing to the offspring. Heavy bearing may be the result of inherent differences in the buds themselves, or, as is most generally the case, the difference in bearing may be due to differences in root stock, differences in soil or moisture conditions surrounding individual trees which are not readily observable from the surface, or possibly other factors. Under these conditions buds will most likely show fully as much variation in production as trees in the orchard from which these buds were taken.

Many desirable bud "sports" have been lost forever due to lack of appreciation of their merits. They have been pruned out and thrown away because of their variation which was thought to be an abnormal condition. That was true, but the abnormality might have been a highly desirable one which if observed carefully might have shown itself to be worth propagating.

Buds selected from high bearing trees must be tested out for at least two generations before one can be certain that he has a normally high producing strain. By planting at least a dozen trees from the high producers and bringing these trees into bearing under uniform conditions, the first generation should give a fairly good indication as to whether all of the trees are heavier bearing trees than those from low producers in the same orchard. To determine this a similar number of trees should be propagated and planted from low producing trees. If the characteristics of the high producers are continued in all of the offspring, then one may be reasonably certain he has an actual bud "sport." In such a case another generation should be propagated to be certain that the high producing characteristics will be transmitted continuously. If this develops the second time, then one may be quite certain.

In purchasing bud selected stock one should determine if possible the method by which bud selection was made. By such a simple procedure much disappointment and financial loss may be saved through the indiscriminate purchase of supposedly selected stock which had been selected without any definite principle in mind. On the other hand where scientific selection has been carried on as indicated above, increased production of high quality fruits may be secured to the great financial profit of the planter.

ORGANIC MATTER IN THE SOIL.

Utilization of Stable Manure—One of the largest problems in California agriculture is the maintenance in the soil of adequate amounts of decayed organic matter, commonly known as "humus." With this present in sufficient quantities an otherwise too loose soil becomes firmer, while a heavy sticky soil is loosened up; a sandy soil becomes more like a loam soil; a poorly drained soil becomes more easily drained; a leachy soil, or one that ordinarily will not hold adequate amounts of water, increases its water-holding capacity; a soil which tends to form heavy clods when cultivated will pulverize more easily; blow sand will be held together thus largely eliminating its movement by winds; and, what is most important of all, a greater amount of plant food, ordinarily locked up in the soil in unavailable form, is rendered available in adequate amounts for all the needs of the plants or trees.

This list of attributes sounds as if "humus" were a panacea for all soil ills. That is not the case, but it is one of the most important constituents of soils and one which, under California conditions, is most often lacking. This is largely due to the natural aridity of the climate and the high temperatures to which the soil is subject during the long dry summer. Continued clean cultivation is one of the quickest means of "burning" most of the organic matter out of the soil. Under conditions of culture common in orchard practice the depletion of organic matter in the soil has brought on many tree ills, such as lack of vitality, from shortage of moisture and plant food, and failure to bear regularly or adequately, including inability of blossoms to set fruit and inability of what fruit does set to attain proper size and quality.

The problem is how to return sufficient organic matter to the soil in such a form as to be most effective. Stable manure is about the best, provided it is properly cared for until it is ready to apply to the soil. Few orchardists or other farmers recognize the ultimate economic value of manure and provide a definite place for it in their system of agriculture. To preserve the available manure in best condition for use later a few principles must first be well understood.

Manure exposed to the weather loses its value rapidly through decomposition, in presence of air, to soluble forms of plant food which in turn are washed away by the winter rains. It should therefore be stored in piles and well packed and protected from leaching rains. It should also be kept out of the sunshine to prevent undue heating or drying.

Half-rotted manure is usually of greatest manurial value, and well rotted of least value, while fresh manure is intermediate. If the manure is stored in piles, thoroughly compacted and kept moist but not wet decomposition will proceed at a most desirable rate with least undue destruction or loss of the desired elements. In the outer portions of the pile the fermentation is the most active in the presence of air. Here the bacteria change the nitrogenous portions of the manure into soluble nitrates, the form in which nitrogen is most readily available to plants. Considerable heat is generated by the fermentation and the temperature may rise to 140° F. or even higher. A temperature of about 130° F. is generally considered most favorable.

The mixture of the manure with bedding material, such as straw, leaves, etc., has considerable value especially in the outer portions of the pile because it absorbs the liquid portions of the manure and prevents its loss by drainage, makes the manure easier to handle and tends to check and control its decomposition. It also has the added value of increasing the total amount of half-rotted manurial substances available for use in orchard or field. Straw is probably the best material for use under California conditions.

A too-rapid fermentation of the manure tends to a loss of nitrogen and humus. This fermentation is less rapid in moist compact heaps than in loose open heaps. The common and harmful "fire fang-ling" is caused by a too-rapid fermentation in the absence of sufficient moisture. This may be controlled by periodic sprinkling with water. Care in this matter is particularly necessary with horse and sheep manure. In the center of the manure pile away from the air bacteria break up the more complex material of the manure. If properly compacted the temperature in this portion should not ordinarily rise above 95° F.

In practice there are a number of methods which may be safely used to secure most favorable decomposition. Probably the best method is the construction of concrete manure pits. These should slope toward a sump either in the center or on one side where any excess moisture which may drain from the pile will be preserved. This is always richest in plant food. It may from time to time be pumped out and sprinkled over the pile to keep it moist and at the same time avoid the collection of excessive quantities of liquid manure. The pit and sump should be coated with a good thick coating of asphalt to prevent the injurious action of the manure on the concrete itself.

If this is not feasible, a very effective method is to fix a covered corral where the horses, cows, sheep or other stock can exercise, first sloping the floor either to the center or one side where a sump may be installed. Then puddle the entire floor with clay to prevent the excess moisture from draining away into the ground. Then pile in the manure as fast as gathered after mixing with litter of some sort, spread it evenly and deeply and let the stock pack it well by tramping it down. If properly arranged this floor may be made to carry manure to a depth of two or three feet or more. This should be removed once in six months or so and spread on the land where, for best results, it should be quickly disked or plowed under.

Green Manures—In addition to the use of stable manure, especially in orchard practice, it is possible to augment the supply of organic matter in the soil by plowing under cover crops, otherwise known as green manure crops. Where possible these should be sown in the early fall, allowed to grow all winter, and plowed under in the spring, as late as possible consistent with getting them under and thoroughly decayed before dry weather comes on. Where irrigation is available they may be left to grow longer in the spring. The more nearly mature the crops are when plowed in the greater the amount of actual organic matter secured. The immature plants are largely water. Leguminous plants such as bur clover, vetches, melilotus and lupines grown singly or in combination with barley or rye generally make the best crops for such purposes.

The best results come from the use of both green manures and partially decayed stable manure. These together will gradually build up the physical condition of the soil to the point where its moisture holding and bacteria bearing capacity will be so great that the constant addition of organic matter need be no problem because of the extreme rapidity with which it will decay. Tree prunings may actually be cut up and plowed under, or even disked in, and cause little or no inconvenience in the care of the orchard because of the rapid disintegration. The end of such a treatment will be an orchard soil similar to a forest carpet of leaf and wood-mould, under which conditions the ability of an orchard to produce regular and heavy crops is very greatly increased and orchard operations made very much easier.

THE EARLY TOWNS OF BUTTE COUNTY

Charles Corbin

ARAGONAUT PARLOR, NO. 8, NATIVE Sons of the Golden West (Oroville), is encouraging California history study in the public schools, and each year awards a silver trophy to the student presenting the best essay on Butte County's early history. April 15, as reported in the May Grizzly Bear, the 1921 trophy was awarded Charles Corbin, the subject of his prize-winning essay being "The Early Towns of Butte County." In presenting the trophy, President A. L. Smith of Argonaut Parlor said:

"No truer words have ever been said than these, 'What the citizens of a country are, so is the country.' This has been proven time and again.

"Where the growth of the United States has been surprising, the growth of California has been miraculous. Only a few short years ago; only yesterday, in fact, we might say, this state was a vast wilderness inhabited only by a few tribes of Indians. Then came the Spaniards, pushing up from the south, their growth only retarded by their love of indolence. Then came the discovery of gold in California. The Spaniards only shrugged their shoulders. 'Of what use was it to dig for gold?'

"But over on the eastern coast there came a stirring among the whites. All love of adventure had not perished in the wars of 1776 and 1812. So across the vast deserts and the then unmapped wilderness came the canvas-covered prairie schooners of the Pioneers. Around the Horn came wooden sailing vessels hearing their share of the Argonauts. Only the hardiest survived, and from the day when the bronzed adventurer, the '49er, set foot on California soil, our real history began.

"Where other states had taken years we took months, and where they took months we took days. From panning the creeks for gold to sinking shafts for vast mines; from the Vigilantes of the late '40s and early '50s to our present-day courts, and from a Spanish province to a republic and then to a state in the Union, was but a step, and evermore people came and newer blood poured in. Today they are still coming, and the native Californians, realizing it was only yesterday their fathers and grandfathers came from the East, welcome them to this golden land of opportunity.

"But now in our own schools are being taught the future executives of our state. They will in days to come govern the destiny of California, and Argonaut Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, realizing this, is presenting this silver essay cup. Many will try for it, and in doing so will gain a knowledge of our state that will govern their actions in the days to come, making them better citizens not only of California, but of the United States as well.

"We who hear it will also take away with us a spirit that will help us in gaining that ultimate goal—that of all the stars that shine in the blue Union of our flag, one will shine with a greater radiance than the others—a radiance, however, that will not detract from but add to the beauties of the other stars. Or, to find a more fitting allegory, that as a jewel gives the fitting finish to a wonderfully worked gold ring, so the other states of this, the grandest Republic in the world, will be present to point to this golden land of opportunity, the wonderland of America and the paradise of the world—California."

THE PRIZE ESSAY.

The essay prepared by Charles Corbin, and awarded the prize by the judges, follows, in full:

"After the discovery of gold in Butte County, Bidwell's Bar increased rapidly in importance. In 1850 the population was easily 600. By this increased population it was able to get the county-seat from Hamilton City, and there was talk of incorporating it. Bidwell's decline was as rapid as its upbuilding. In 1853 the gold was becoming exhausted, and the people began to leave. They settled further down the river, at Oroville, with new and greater inducements.

"At Hamilton Bend, just below Oroville, was the first county-seat of Butte County, where gold was first discovered in the Feather River, and for three years Hamilton Bend flourished, but losing the county-seat sent it into a decline. It never recovered from the loss, and the only mark left of the once-promising city is a grain field.

"Between Hamilton City and Oroville was Columbus. Its population was largely Chinese. During the brief period when the steamboats operated to Oroville in the '50s Columbus was a stopping-place. On the opposite bank of the river was Ophir (now Oroville). The first discovery of gold there was made in 1849, and the first settlement made in October of the same year. In 1853 a strike, at White Rock, four miles above Ophir, almost depopulated the latter place.

"Two miles above Ophir was Long's Bar, established in 1849 when the Long Brothers opened a store there. Long's Bar was one of the principal settlements of the very early periods. In 1849 gold was discovered there, and for three years the place showed great promise, but for some unaccountable reason began to decline in 1852.

"Lynchburg, a flourishing town of the middle '50s, was located at the present site of Oro Vista. It was a rival of Oroville, and when the county-seat was taken from Bidwell's Bar the people of Lynchburg tried to have the county-seat moved there. The surface diggings were very rich, and the people of Lynchburg were very boastful of their climate and location over Oroville.

"Between Oroville and Lynchburg was another settlement, generally referred to as Centerville. The location of this place was approximately at the sight of the Southern Pacific depot in the present City of Oroville.

"Two miles north of Oroville was Thompson's Flats, first settled by a man named Davis, in 1848. This place was first called Rich Gulch. In 1852 gold was discovered, and in 1854 the population became so numerous that the town was moved from its site upon the hill to the flat that now bears its name. George Thompson led in this emigration, and the place was named after him. There were saloons, stores, express offices, a hotel, a blacksmith shop, and numerous other establishments. The decline of this town dates from the fire in April, 1856.

"On the South Fork of the Feather River was the historic settlement of Stringtown, which derived its name from the manner in which its buildings were strung out. The place was settled in 1849, and became thickly populated in 1850. In July 1856 the 'Butte Record' published the following phrase about it: 'The string of Stringtown has been pulled out. It's giv' out.'

"Enterprise was located one mile above Stringtown. The river was flumed at this place, in 1852 by the Union Enterprise Company, and a place called Enterprise was founded. The fluming operations were on a large scale, and in 1855 Enterprise was selected as a starting-place for the canal of the Feather River and Ophir Water Company.

"Above Enterprise was Forbestown, founded in September 1850 by B. F. Forbes. Between 1850 and 1860 there were fully 3,000 people living in and about the place. In Forbestown alone there were five hotels, two dance halls, two drug stores, one bank, three merchandise stores, and a number of smaller shops. There was an Odd Fellows' Hall, of which Forbestown was particularly proud, as it also was of its brass band.

"On the North Fork watershed there were a number of well-known places. Concow Township included a number of these early camps. The list includes many, the memory of which has completely passed away.

"Morris Ravine, which was one of the earliest mining towns, received its name from an employee of Samuel Neal who, in 1848, guided a party of Oregonians from the Neal ranch to the Feather diggings.

"Oregon City was started in 1849 by emigrants from Oregon. The placer mining of the district was very promising. In 1853 and 1854 it was a lively town with three hustling stores. The decline of this settlement dates from 1857.

"Wyandotte was first located in 1850 by Wyandotte Indians who were seeking gold. It attained its greatest prominence in 1852 and 1853. In June 1857 notice was made of the fact that 'Wyandotte boasted a magnificent brick and fireproof hotel, the only one in the county.'

"Dogtown received its name from the dogs of an old French woman who lived there. She had a kennel of hounds and mastiffs that were known all over the countryside, and that gave the name Dogtown not only to the settlement, but to the whole ridge as well.

"Inship was located in 1859 by a man named Kelley. The mines of this place were exceptionally rich, and hundreds of miners congregated there. When Inship was at its height it had five hotels, several stores, and the usual proportion of saloons, and every one did a rushing business."

REMINISCENCES OF LONG AGO

(MRS. JOSEPHINE MILES.)

WE STARTED FROM MISSOURI FOR California the first of April 1846 and arrived in October at the home-place of George Younts, who had been living for thirteen years in Napa Valley, at the present site of Yountville. His place was the headquarters for all the emigrants until they could rest up and find homes for themselves. I was then just 6 years old. Some of the Donner-Reed Party arrived late in winter, among them the Reeds and some of the Donner family. I remember "Patty" and Virginia Reed, and George Donner I knew well. I will say here, that Virginia Reed-Murphy died just a few weeks ago; she married one of the famous Murphy family of San Jose, also old Pioneers. We were fortunate to get in so early; they took the ill-fated Hastings route, and were snowed in. The snow was seventeen feet deep, and starvation was the doom of many of them. Major Stephen Cooper and my father, James Harbin, were the captains of our train, which consisted of ninety ox-wagons. We were well armed with guns. I remember the incidents of the plains, and although being only 5½ years old when my parents started, my recollection was very vivid even at that age.

We had no trouble with the Indians, although we saw a great many. We passed through some Pawnee villages. My mother and I went into a wigwam and saw the squaws boiling buffalo tongues. There seemed to be only squaws and children. After we had traveled a few days further, there came some 500 warriors, all on ponies, over some rising ground near us. The chief was splendidly mounted, had on war paint, and was covered with feathers of all colors from his head almost to his feet. I remember the horse was bright spotted. The chief waved his warriors back, and rode up and down our lines. There was a man and his wife in the train that he recognized. He jumped off his horse, and threw his arms around them. They knew him, too; he had been to a mission, where they had lived for a while. They could talk his language some, and made him understand that we were traveling to a far-off country. They also told him they would give him a cow for his warriors to feast on; that made peace. The Indians were afraid of our guns, as we had several for every wagon. Most all of our women could shoot. We passed on without any further trouble. It would have been a striking scene for a motion picture.

My brother, Matt Harbin, came to California in 1844. His train, for he was the guide, was the first wagon train that ever got across the Sierra Nevada Mountains. His company built their cabins where some members of the Donner-Reed Party two years afterward perished. That is where the Pioneer Monument has been erected by the Native Sons and Native Daughters. Matt Harbin joined the forces under Commander Stockton in 1846. He was with the army until peace was established, when he was honorably discharged from service. General Fremont signed his discharge in the Bell building, Los Angeles, about March or April, 1847. He then came north and brought with him 4,650 head of horses. He bought the Hardy Mexican land grant that touched the Sacramento River; it was seventeen miles long and four miles wide and within the limits was the present site of the City of Woodland. A power company has built a dam here, on Cache Creek, to store the water in Clear Lake to irrigate Yolo County. I hope our lost heritage will always be kept green, "a jewel of earth's choicest spots."

Mr. Yount's place and my father's, James Harbin's, were the headquarters for all the mountaineers of those early days. I remember a great many of them, especially Pegleg Smith; like that of his comrades, his life was full of those heroic exploits that made the settlement of our Western wilds. He was the man who cut his own leg off.

Our immigrant women in 1847 cooked the first Fourth of July dinner in California at Mr. Yount's place. All the men who had gone had returned from the war, as peace had been declared. Everybody from far and near was at the dinner, including General Sutter, Commodore Stockton and his men, and a great many others. I saw the first person buried in the Yountville graveyard, in 1847, —Captain Grant, companion of Kit Carson and other pathfinders. When the steamer brought the news of California's admission into the Union I was in San Francisco. It was hailed with great rejoicing on the 18th of October, 1850.

My father was allied with the early history of California and he built the first ferryboat to operate across the Sacramento River, in 1849. Sacramento was mostly tents then. The men in charge of the ferry took all the toll, $32,000, of a few months and left for parts unknown.

There was a fleet of our navy in Benicia in 1849; the largest man-of-war was the "Ohio," with seventy guns. There were several frigates and some fifteen transports; "Congress," "Vandalia" and "Petrel" were the names of some of them. The fleet was in command of Commodore Apolby Jones. I was 9 years old then, and was taken aboard the "Ohio" by Commodore Jones. It was a grand sight to see the ships, but they were only wooden "tubs," by the side of our giants of today.

An act of Congress was passed in 1852 authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to select a site on San Francisco Bay for a navy yard and a navy depot, and Mare Island was chosen. I saw the first drydock put up there. It was shipped from New York in four vessels named the "Empire," "California Packet," "Queen of the Pacific," and "Defiance" around the Horn; all arrived at Mare Island in 1852.

In those days there were only adobe houses covered with a thatch of tule fastened down with thongs of bullock hide. One could travel all day without seeing a habitation or house of any kind. Thus were the solitary denizens housed in the midst of scenery that no pen can describe nor limner paint. The Pioneers who blazed the trail for civilization in California are passing away, very few remaining to tell the tales of which I could write a volume, but this is enough to read before this company.

(Note—This is the paper read at the reception to the Pioneer Women of Lower Lake given by Laguna Parlor, No. 189, N.D.G.W., of that place, and referred to in last month's Grizzly Bear. The paper was prepared by Mrs. Josephine Miles, 80-year-old Pioneer of 1846, who was among the guests, and was read by Mrs. Donnie Knauer, secretary of the Parlor.—Editor.)

NEIGHBORING COUNTIES' NATIVES ANNOUNCE MONSTER OUTING.

Lodi—At a most enthusiastic meeting here May 18 of representatives from nearly every Parlor in Sacramento and San Joaquin Counties it was decided to hold a monster outing and basket lunch, with games and dancing, in Locke's Grove at Lockwood, San Joaquin County, June 5, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The purpose is to establish closer relationship between Sacramento, San Joaquin and neighboring counties. All Native Sons and Native Daughters are invited to participate, and a record-breaking attendance is anticipated.

Representatives of the various Native Son Parlors at the Lodi meeting where the outing was decided upon included: Sacramento 3—T. W. McAuliffe, Roy C. Cothrin, Wilbur Green. Stockton 7—Julius Gaedtker, Ray Friedberger, Andrew Del Monte, Fred Benjamin, Stanley Arndt. Lodi 18—Dr. E. M. Setzer, Emil Graffigna, J. A. Covey. Sunset 26 (Sacramento)—D. C. Cook, W. E. Rust, R. BECAUSE—He gives the city a clean, sound business administration.

Here is Mayor Snyder's Platform:

I stand for a clean, moral and safe Los Angeles—a City in which the business men are protected from the greed of special interests, and where all may pursue health, prosperity and happiness in accordance with law.

LEGISLATION

I am unalterably opposed to freak, foolish or fanatical laws, and I shall veto legislation of this kind whenever presented to me.

MEDICAL FREEDOM

In an interview published on February 3, 1921, I publicly declared that I stood for medical freedom—that is to say—the right of the individual to choose for himself and his family the method of healing which he deems most efficient. I stand for this now. I believe that medical freedom is equally important with political and religious freedom, and these are guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

GOVERNMENTAL EFFICIENCY

I am opposed to the introduction of party politics in City affairs, and shall at all times appoint only those who can render wise and efficient service to the city regardless of political affiliations. I shall continue to enforce the laws and administer the government of this city upon an economical and efficient basis.

MEREDITH P. SNYDER.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

IN THE PARLANCE OF THE POLITICAL writers of the time, the "political pot was boiling furiously," and candidates for office were as "thick as the falling leaves of Val-lombrosa." Primaries and conventions to select county office candidates and delegates to the two state conventions were being held in every county of the state. One of the nominations made by the Sacramento County Democratic Convention was that of Grove L. Johnson, father of United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson, for state senator.

The Democratic State Convention was held in the Assembly Chamber at Sacramento June 20, with J. W. Coffroth as chairman and Henry George secretary. As the party was in the saddle, filling all the state offices, it had an enthusiastic three-day gabfest, every old warhorse making a speech and prophesying a victory at the polls in September. Governor H. H. Haight was renominated by acclamation, and the following ticket named: Lieutenant-governor, E. J. Lewis of Tehama; Secretary of State, W. B. C. Brown of Sacramento; Controller, R. DeWitt of Siskiyou; Attorney-general, Jo Hamilton of Placer; Treasurer, H. F. Coronel of Los Angeles; Surveyor-general, J. W. Bost of Mariposa; State Printer, John T. Barry of San Francisco; Harbor Commissioner, John Rosenfeld of San Francisco; Clerk Supreme Court, Thos. Laspierre of San Joaquin; Superintendent Public Instruction, Rev. O. P. Fitzgerald of San Francisco; Justices Supreme Court, Jackson Temple of Sonoma and S. S. Wright of San Francisco; Congress, (first district) L. Archer of Santa Clara, (second district) J. W. Coffroth of Sacramento, (third district) George Pearce of Sonoma.

The Republican State Convention met in Sacramento June 28. It was quickly and harmoniously organized by naming Judge Chas. E. Filkins of Yuba chairman and M. D. Boruck of San Francisco secretary. Mayor T. H. Selby of San Francisco and Newton Booth of Sacramento were contenders for the nomination for governor. Mayor Selby got the San Francisco vote, but Booth had the interior delegates and won out. The following ticket was nominated: Lieutenant-governor, Romualdo Pacheco of San Luis Obispo; Secretary of State, Drury Melone of San Francisco; Controller, J. J. Green of Contra Costa; Attorney-general, John Lord Love of San Francisco; Treasurer, Ferd Baehr of San Francisco; Surveyor-general, Robt. E. Gardner of Humboldt; State Printer, Thos. A. Springer of Amador; Harbor Commissioner, John A. McGlynn of San Francisco; Clerk Supreme Court, Grant I. Taggart of Shasta; Superintendent Public Instruction, H. N. Bolander of San Francisco; Justices Supreme Court, A. C. Niles of Nevada and A. L. Rhodes of Santa Clara; Congress, (first district) S. O. Houghton of Los Angeles, (second district) A. A. Sargent of Nevada, (third district) John M. Coghlan of Solano.

It was at this time considered good political acumen to have an Irishman, a German, and a native Californian on the state ticket to favorably influence the votes of their people, and both parties did it. Both had a strong railroad anti-subsidy plank, too, as subsidizing the railroad was considered the "burning" question confronting the state.

Strike Closes Amador Mines.

The San Francisco mining stock excitement continued on the uneven tenor of its way. Crown Point was $280 and Belcher $130 the first of the month. June 6 Crown Point declared a monthly $10 dividend, and on report that Alvinza Hayward, mining capitalist, had bought 4,100 shares at $300 a share, it advanced to $335. June 13 came a report that Belcher had cut into the extension of the Crown Point ore body and that stock advanced in a few days from $140 to $240 a share. The market at these prices continued active until June 29, when a sudden break dropped prices of Crown Point to $285 and of Belcher to $165, at which they closed a month of enormous trading.

It was estimated the transactions in mining stocks exceeded $20,000,000. Brokers were making as high as $2,000 a day from commissions. The failure of a prominent broker, who was "short" on the Belcher rise for over $100,000, caused the great expectations of a half-hundred investors to wilt and fade. A herd of new millionaires appeared, and with the influx of luck, investors from Virginia City and other places made night life in San Francisco a continuous round of unconfined joy. "It's always so—with easy come, and easy go."

The postponement until July 14 of the Sacramento Pioneer Association lottery drawing, on account of all tickets not being sold, was a discouragement to the lottery ticket business. Brooklyn, Alameda County, advertised a gift concert for July 4 with 50,000 tickets at $2 each, and 2,166 prizes from $10,000 down to $25. Adam Munk was manager.

The 15% and 25% commission paid vendors for selling lottery tickets brought into existence a flock of itinerant Jew peddlers in San Francisco that was said to exceed in numbers the Hebrews in the clothing business. They were wearing a specially made style of trousers that had seven pockets, so that they could keep the tickets of the different schemes segregated.

H. L. Spencer, at San Jose, bought a mare of unknown pedigree for $500. June 1 he gave her a trial trot of a mile at the race track, but did not time her. Shortly afterward a gentleman stepped up to him and asked what the mare could be bought for. "$1500," replied Spencer. "I'll take her," the man replied, and paying the amount led away the mare. Two weeks later Spencer learned the mare had trotted a mile in 2:16 and had been sold for $20,000 and shipped East.

The Amador Miners' Union struck at Sutter Creek June 20 and caused closing down of the mines. They claimed the owners intended to reduce their pay, and the union presented a schedule and rules for the mine owners to accept. Being refused, they quit work. On an appeal to the governor by the mine owners for military protection, claiming local authorities were powerless, the First Regiment of the National Guard was ordered from San Francisco to Sutter Creek. June 23 Governor Haight, M. S. Latham and J. McDonald went to Sutter Creek and had a conference with the mine owners and the miners' union in an effort to adjust the differences, but were unsuccessful. The First Regiment, with 400 men, went by boat to Sacramento, thence by rail to Latrobe, and marched from there to Sutter Creek. Their arrival was viewed with sullen silence by the striking miners, and there was no disturbance during the rest of the month.

Hoerchner and Siegler, in Mosquito Gulch, Calaveras County, opened a vein of decomposed quartz that yielded several thousand dollars in gold in a few hours.

Exiles Come to Liberate Ireland.

John Yule's hydraulic mine at Last Chance, Placer County, yielded $2,100 in a week's run.

The Weske hydraulic mine at Michigan Bluff, Placer County, cleaned up $9,140 for a week's run.

Judd & Co., hydraulicicking at Gold Run, Placer County, cleaned up $7,400 after a three weeks' run.

Wm. Michels picked up in the wagon road six miles from Nevada City a nugget worth $8. With a pan, pick and shovel, in a space about eighty feet long and a few feet wide, and with a partner he panned out nearly $600 in gold dust in a few days. While the excitement lasted a large number of placer claims were located. It developed that Hank Place, a stage driver, in 1861 coming from Omega, to Nevada City, lost from the stage seat a buckskin purse containing about $800 in gold dust. As it was never found Place had to make the amount good.

George Alfred Townsend, a newspaper man with a national reputation gained as a war correspondent and political writer over the cognomen of "Goth," with a party of Eastern journalists was visiting Yosemite Valley and other parts of the state.

General Thos. T. Burke and Dr. T. C. Luby, Irish exiles, came to the state June 4 and were received and entertained by a committee of the Fenian Brotherhood at Sacramento. On arrival at San Francisco they were met with brass bands, the third Irish regiment and thousands of people. In a barouche drawn by four white horses they were escorted to the Occidental Hotel and given a tremendous reception. They stated they came to California to organize an effort to liberate Ireland, and it is still going on.

Prince Ogaki, with a retinue of twenty-one Japanese students, arrived in San Francisco June 15 en route to Washington. Most of the students changed their native dress for American apparel. They were said to have had much difficulty climbing the stairs of the Occidental Hotel, their inexperience and short legs causing it.

Seth Greene, a pisciculturist of New York, arrived at Sacramento June 26 with 15,000 young shad 10 days old. He was met by B. B. Redding, secretary of the State Fish Commission, and together they went to Tehama and planted the fry in the Sacramento River. Now, the annual run of shad in that river come from these ancestors. It is not a popular fish, as it will not rise to a fly or take bait, and its fine-toothcomb-like, bony structure makes it difficult eating to many.

June 30 Judge Dwinelle, in San Francisco, sentenced Mrs. Laura D. Fair to be hanged July 28. An appeal to the Supreme Court prevented the carrying out of the sentence.

Miss Sue Robinson, leading woman in Proctor's company, a talented and popular actress, died suddenly at Sacramento June 17. She was 27 years of age, and had been on the stage in California since she was a girl. She had just accepted an offer as leading woman at McVicker's theater, Chicago. Her untimely death was greatly deplored.

The Emmet Guard of San Francisco with the Emmet Guard of Sacramento picnicked at Davisville, Yolo County, June 11. Over 2,000 excursionists, requiring two steamboats to take them to Vallejo, went from San Francisco and over 1,000 from Sacramento. There were many combats of a fist nature, but nothing serious happened.

Four sea lions and two seals, captured along the Southern California coast, were shipped by steamer from Santa Barbara to P. T. Barnum, New York. One of the sea lions weighed 1,200 pounds.

A train load of live hogs from Iowa arrived in San Francisco, and sold for 8 cents a pound.

John Ingham killed a grizzly on San Lorenzo Creek in Santa Cruz County that weighed dressed 500 pounds.

Two hunters reported killing ninety-five rattlesnakes at Arethusa Springs in Lake County.

Grasshoppers were appearing in myriads and damaging vineyards in Los Angeles County.

"The Unknown" Unshorn.

W. B. Churchill's sawmill, located about twenty miles east of Nevada City, was burned with his lumberyard June 11, causing a $40,000 loss.

June 27 another fire in Folsom destroyed Chinatown, Patterson's hotel and several other buildings.

June 29 a fire that broke out in the Central Pacific snowsheds at Cisco, Placer County, burned the Cisco hotel, several other buildings, and nearly a mile of snowsheds, blocking trains for twenty-four hours.

A shocking murder was committed at Cherokee Flat, Butte County, June 1. Austrian George Shakovich, a miner, attacked Miss Susie McDaniel and cut her throat. Arming himself with a rifle he escaped into the hills, where he was pursued by a posse of citizens. He was captured a few days later, but afterwards, attempting to escape, was shot and killed by one of his keepers. The people there then took the body to his cabin, which was demolished. A pyre was made, saturated with coal oil, and the body cremated.

A man brought a revolver into the tailor shop of a Kearny-street tailor named Kemper in San Francisco June 12 and offered to trade it for a pair of trousers. Kemper took the weapon next door to have the storekeeper pass on its value. The wife of the storekeeper, while examining it, accidentally discharged it and the bullet passed through Kemper's body, killing him.

Dr. Phillips of San Buenaventura examining a revolver June 13, accidentally fired it, and the ball went through his heart.

John Palm, a shoemaker from Sacramento, in trying to cross San Francisco Bay in a boat June 13 was upset and drowned. He left a widow and five children.

Michael Flinn, a Pioneer of Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, was found drowned in a spring on his ranch June 17. He fell in head foremost in an unaccountable way.

A little son of John Dockery in Sequel, Santa Cruz County, was playing in the hay in a barn unknown to his brother, 12 years old, who, with a pitchfork, begnu to throw hay into a manger. He ran a tine of the pitchfork four inches into the eye of his brother; it penetrated his brain and caused his death.

June 29 n girl named Clark, 14 years old, at Tehama attempted to start a fire with kerosene. The can exploded, covering the poor little girl with the flaming fluid, and she was burned to death.

A crowd of boys on Mission street, San Francisco, June 4 stoned and beat a Chiuaman so brutally as to cause his death. Three were arrested, but from lack of direct evidence discharged.

At Cherokee, Nevada County, June 19, Wm. McGill, a youth of 18 years, was sent hurriedly for a nurse named Mrs. Kelly, his mother being taken ill. In driving rapidly over a log bridge the buggy was upset and he was thrown out and instantly killed. Mrs. Kelly had several ribs broken.

"Slim Fain" and "The Unknown," two notorious local characters of San Francisco, had a fight on Montgomery street. "The Unknown" was standing in a contemplative mood on the curb when "Slim Fain" approached and in a fit of jealous anger assaulted him in the rear. As soon as "The Unknown" could gather himself he, with an uppercut, sent "Slim Fain" to the pavement and before the latter could come back a policeman arrested and took both to the police station.

The police court-room and corridors were crowded the next morning by people curious to learn who "The Unknown" was. "Slim Fain" was proven the aggressor and sent to jail for thirty days. All that was learned of "The Unknown" was concerning his hair. He wore an abnormal growth of hair upon his head; many believed it to be a wig, but it was ascertained it was a natural growth and, like Samson, his head had never known a razor or, rather, never been shorn with a scissors. The free advertising this incident gave caused him to make a tour of exhibition as far east as Salt Lake City. He charged an admission fee of 50 cents for a look and conversation. He claimed to have prophetic vision, and predicted a terrible earthquake for San Francisco, October 21.

WHAT IS CALIFORNIA?

(EDWIN KENNEDY.)

Is this California?
A Maid of beauty rare
Who stands with sand-white feet laved by the sea,
Who pins a fleecy cloud o'er sun-beamed hair,
And with perfume of flowers scents the air.
Is this California? No, for she
Was here age upon age before
Was born the Spirit of the Western Shore.

Is this California?
A Man of strength untold
Who harnesses the stream and cleaves the tree,
Who tears the fields, to serve his purpose bold,
And moves the mountains in his quest for gold.
Is this California? No, for he,
A mortal, soon will go to rest,
But never sleeps the Spirit of the West!

This is California!
A Child of mighty destiny
Born when stalwart Man woos this fair Maid:
Who comes unfettered by tradition, free
To live, to love, to grow in liberty.
This is California! A Spirit unafraid
To fight for that which reason says is best,
The Great Immortal Spirit of the West!

(Editor's Note—The above lines were composed by Edwin Kennedy of Livermore, a member of Las Positas Parlor, No. 96, N.S.G.W., who is also the originator of "Trial of the Trails," a fun-creating "side degree" exemplified before the Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., at Stockton in April, and highly commended.)

New Oil Production Record—April oil production in California set a new record, 338,981 barrels daily; shipments were 300,887 barrels; storage increased 1,143,142 barrels during the month. Fifty-eight new wells were completed.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOEEMER.

WITH THE WIDE SKIRT, THE Tendency is to use the semi-fitted bodice, slightly elongated and with a neck of oval outline, sometimes finished with a lingerie collar and sometimes devoid of any softening touch. While crepes, satins and taffetas lend themselves charmingly to the expanding skirt, they have been made in cloth serge, wool jersey, and twills. Checked and striped silks have not been neglected, one of the new dresses being of beige taffeta checked in dull red, black, and bright blue.

The dance frock occupies a conspicuous place in the summer wardrobe. It is chiefly concerned with youths and gayety, although its composition is generally simple enough.

Taffetas are as popular now as they were a year ago. They are worn plain and in two-tone effects, trimmed with lace, or quite devoid of garniture.

There is a fancy for the very plain bodice, accompanied by the rather bouffant skirt whose hem is scalloped and self bound. Also, there is a persistent liking for the two or three flounce skirt, such as lends itself so consistently to exploitation in taffeta, organdy, or lace.

Even young girls are going in for the black frock. It is something of a fad, and doubtless has its reason in the flattering foil it makes for the youthful faces and fresh complexions. Among the successful models one finds again and again the little dress of demure black, the only bit of color permitted being found in the girdle.

It is quite the smart thing to have the hems of little dresses uneven. There are instances where the uneven hem is merely a matter of panels hanging below the hem-edge, or of draperies whose sashlike ends run below. And there are models purposely cut with the front longer or with the back sagging three or four inches beyond the sides.

Graceful are the filmy dresses in semi-harem effect. The front and back are caught in a full drooping loop up to the underslip hem, the loose panels, embroidered or beaded, hanging straight and a bit longer.

Lace and silks, the latter soft and pliable, are combined in some of the newest summer dinner and dance frocks. Fillet laces embroidered with black-and-white or black-and-gray wool which gives the appearance of fur are often used, or fillet flouncings on which are set medallions of organdy delicately embroidered.

The Roman sash, which adorns any dress of plain design and lines or graces the shirt-waist-and-skirt or the single one-piece suit, the butterfly crushed girdle, the large bow now worn in the back or sides, the wide flat embroidered girdle, the Egyptian or Indian lavishly-beaded or jeweled sash, and the ever-popular string girdle are much-used accessories.

Flowers of every nature are being used today—leather, velvet, chiffon, organdy, taffeta, waxen blossoms, and also posies delightfully painted and shellacked. Fruits grow in abundance, too.

Buttercup yellow, one of the very brilliant shades, is favored particularly in woollens, laces, and silks. Garden and lawn parties will sport this shade in gowns, hats, and even suits.

Dotted swiss and organdy make an adorable summery combination, and fit in beautifully for any time with one of those delightful picture hats with floppy, graceful brim, spring flowers that have a dainty wreath effect upon the crown, and long, narrow streamers.

Chiffon weight silk hose are extremely popular now, and grays and taupe, in various shades, are worn with all kinds and shades of shoes.

The bronze Colonial pump, with big buckle, is being featured by some of the smartly dressed women, while the white kid is also being chosen for wear with lingerie frocks.

Harmonizing combinations of leather mark the newest and smartest shoes in which the strap motif prevails. A new oxford has appeared with leather trim, while white and black are extremely smart. Very new is the black patent leather with a French tongue in Colonial effect. Heels vary from the extremely high for dress wear and dancing to the low for street and sports wear.

Gay jewelry remains with us—select pieces for every and any costume. A pretty and inexpensive necklace, that has risen into favor, is made of heavy knotted silk cord, and strung upon this, in irregular fashion, are quaint combinations of peacock and blue Venetian, or Hawaiian yellow and coral beads. It is colorful and, most of all, becoming.

Jet and jade are close running mates in the race for popular favor, being extensively used for beads, chains, pendants, belts, bracelets, bag ornaments, hat pins, hair combs, shoe huckles, garter clasps, vanity cases; in fact, never has so much fancy jewelry been worn.

Boleros are more and more to the fore. Some of the smartest are high in front, reaching to the girdle top, while in the back they drop down over the waist line.

Quite new little silk suits—the skirts of check or plaid, the coat of plain taffeta, with the gayer stuff showing in cuffs, facings and pocket innings—are much liked by the younger set. Summer tub frocks show few favorites in color, other than flame shades. Tangerine, tomato, and coral are among the most popular of these. For the rest, all of the brilliant shades of red, green, blue, and yellow will be worn.

For the smartly dressed woman, there is an endless variety of new fabrics. Organdies, perhaps, show the widest variety, and of these, the most interesting are the shadow organdies, which may be had in all colors. Quaint, old-fashioned, flowered organdies are also very smart.

Handkerchief batiste is one of the smartest cotton fabrics, and it may be had in a wide range of color combinations with striped and dotted designs.

English sateens, which came into instant popularity when first shown last year, may be had this season in many new patterns.

Among the new gingham is one of interesting pattern, with a silky finish and a raised stripe that resembles the rib of pique.

The bathing-suits of the summer season exhibit many of the most favored points of the present-day frocks and also display an unexpected ingenuity in the fashioning of knickerbockers.

Maribou is very much to the front again. Picture a short, gracefully-cut wrap all of maribou in delicate gray shades, light as down, yet with a pleasant warmth! Such is one of the new creations. Long scarfs of chiffon, bordered with maribou, are taking the place of the fur stoles. Colored aces, used as thrown wraps, are softened by fluffy maribou, which is so becoming.

National Suicide—Too many girls are trained up the silk-stocking and georgette-crepe-waist standards of living, who cannot darn their own stockings, cook a plain meal, or make children's clothes. Dudes and dudettes mean national suicide.—Big Valley Gazette.

STATE HISTORY EDUCATIONAL NECESSITY

(ANNA G. ANDRESEN.)

THE KNOWLEDGE AND PRESERVATION of our state history is of the highest importance. We all know that a knowledge of general history is very essential, in order that the achievements of the past may be known. Experience has shown us that it is necessary for each generation to be familiar with what has been accomplished by former generations.

A record of the struggles, victories and defeats of the toilers of yesterday, will be either an inspiration or a warning to those who toil today. It is inevitable then, that the story of the past, if utilized, will help to light the pathway in making the history of the present. If this is true of history in general, it applies with equal force to the history of the state, county, or even the small community in which one lives.

The California History Committee, Native Daughters of the Golden West, fully realizing the importance of this subject, is endeavoring to awaken an interest generally in the study of the history of California. Believing that the public schools are the most available medium, much of the time and efforts of the committee have been spent in urging our educators to take up in a thorough manner the study of state history.

It is quite gratifying to learn that a course in state history is now compulsory in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades of our public schools, and that a supplement to the Beard and Bagley history now in use is under consideration of the State Board of Education. This supplement will contain from sixty to seventy pages of California history.

"California, the Golden," by Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt of the University of Southern California, is now the required textbook in the eighth grade of all the schools of Monterey County, including the schools of the town of Salinas. Books entitled "The Spanish in the Southwest" and "Pacific Coast Stories" are now used for reference in the Monterey County schools.

It is almost unbelievable that students in the past could take all the successive steps of our educational system from the grades to the universities, and yet come out most ignorant of the history of their state. And that if they knew anything about their state history they had afterwards gleaned it from some chamber of commerce pamphlet, or some work with no higher incentive back of it than an advertising medium for vain glorious citizens.

It is true that we have had truly legitimate histories of California for many years, but they were simply passed by and, in many instances, were not known to exist, for the public schools did not present the subject and did not awaken desire or interest for further knowledge in this field. The public school is the true solution of a respectable knowledge of one's state history and it is a wonder that there should be an indifference on a subject so obvious.

The California History Committee of the Native Daughters believes that the state history should also be taught in the high schools, either as a separate course or as a supplement to the United States history now in use, and believes that it is the duty of every native Californian, son or daughter, to lend his or her assistance to this work, and see to it that our history has a proper place in the curriculum of study in our high schools.

As chairman of this committee, I would like to offer the following suggestions: Let each Parlor appoint a history and landmarks committee whose duty it shall be to awaken an interest in the history of our state and in the preservation of our landmarks, that they may present suitable programs at open meetings. Have a "California history and landmarks evening," and in this program, besides one or two topics on the history and landmarks of the state, include a reading by a California writer and appropriate music by California composers. In this way the younger native daughters will become familiar not only with the history of their state, but with the literature and music of California; and not only an entertaining but a most instructive evening can be spent.

Work singly, or co-operate with other organizations in the present movement to restore the California missions. This movement is not a sectional or sectarian project. It is a state project in which every one, regardless of creed, should play a vital part. What do these missions mean to you? Are they a heap of ruins, a group of buildings to be passed by without a glance, or are they precious relics of early California days, speaking a story of self-sacrifice, heroism, and religious endeavor?

Look around your communities and see if there is not some trace of a Pioneer, now laid to rest, who contributed to your well-being. Have you the knowledge of some courageous soul who fought California's fight and contributed to our fame and glory? Is there some spot in your town which you have passed heedlessly many times but which has a thrilling story of toil and sacrifice? Have you any clippings or files in your possession? If so, let the facts be known.

In conclusion: Every Parlor can be of valuable assistance in furthering the aims and objects of our committee, by doing some constructive work on its own initiative. If each Parlor would send to the chairman one single item of work done pertaining to the study of California history and the preservation or restoration of our landmarks or to the lives of the Pioneers, something substantial will have been done to preserve the glorious story of our Golden State and that of its builders.

Parlor a Prize Winner.

Woodland—Woodland 90 captured the first prize in the gorgeous parade held May 6 in connection with the city's annual floral pageant. In point of beauty, energy expended, duration of labor in the making, and general detail, the float was one of the successes of the pageant. It was inspiring, timely, dainty, and distinctive both in conception and construction. It presented a spring garden with its two blossom-laden cherry trees, every blossom made by willing Native Daughters. The molding of the material to construct the float consumed some six weeks and the entire Parlor participated in the handiwork. Clustered about the two cherry trees in bloom were seven handsome Native Daughters, attired in ruffled organdie frocks of the pastoral shades. Each carried a golden basket laden with pinkest rosebuds, adding color, life and richness to the presentation. Those who made up the galaxy of youth and beauty were Mesdames William Weider, Neal Chalmers, Emil K. Kraft, Julia Picchi of Capay, Vernon Hoffman, and the Misses Henrietta Toothaker and Vina Clover.

May 24 the Parlor entertained the Pioneer Mothers and mothers of its members with an elaborate program and banquet. Edna Richter was chairman of the program committee, Edna Woods of the banquet committee, Anna Kinkade of the invitation committee, and Kathryn Simmons of the reception committee.

Monthly Whists Being Featured.

San Francisco—Yosemite 83 is holding monthly whist parties the first Tuesday of each month, and they are popular and well attended. An active committee, headed by Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, sees that all have a pleasant time. Refreshments are served, and attractive prizes awarded. A social hour concludes the evening, entertainment being furnished by the Parlor's talented members.

Four Parlors Join to Greet Grand President.

Sacramento—Califa 22, La Bandera 110, Sutter 111 and Coloma 212 were officially visited by Grand President Bertha A. Briggs at a joint meeting, April 22. Among the many in attendance were visiting delegations from the Parlors at Elk Grove, Marysville, Chico, Placerville, San Francisco, Folsom, Stockton, Nevada City, Roseville and Grass Valley.

A banquet was served, and the Grand President was the recipient of many beautiful remembrances. Among the speakers of the evening were Grand President Briggs, Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, Grand Marshal Mattie M. Stein, Grand Trustee Anna Almeda, Grand Outside Sentinel Harriet Eames.

Entertains Soldier Invalids.

San Jose—San Jose 81 is making wonderful progress, both in membership and in finances. Many splendid young women have been brought into the Parlor, thus giving it renewed vigor and interests, and creating a wonderful spirit of friendliness and cooperation. April 24 the Parlor entertained the convalescent soldiers at the base hospital in Palo Alto with the following program: Piano solo, Clarence Walton; fancy dance, Myrtle Newton; whistling solo, Irma Hoffman; readings, Mrs. Wilson; acrobatic stunts, Dorothy and Marjorie Lua; vocal solo, Nellie Gerrans; humorous recitations, Howard Sweet. Books, magazines, and oranges were distributed to the boys. Mary Newton, Katherine Nelson and Nellie Gerrans were on the committee.

A birthday party was given April 28 to all the members having a birthday in April, and lovely gifts were presented them. Mrs. Mary Barrieklo was the chairman of the committee and prepared an elaborate banquet. The Parlor is very happy to endorse Grand Trustee Mary Frauces Mitchell for the office of Grand Marshal; she takes an active part in all Parlor affairs as well as in civic affairs. A number of the girls went to Santa Clara May 4 to assist Santa Clara 100, N.S.G.W., in preparing stuffed prunes for the boys at the base hospital, and they were given a royal good time.

Grand President Well Entertained.

Pittsburg—In observance of the official visit to Stirling 146, the Parlor presented one of its most attractive appearances and made an especial effort to entertain well the worthy official. A committee consisting of Miss Julia Moran, Grand Trustee Amy McAvoy, Mrs. G. B. Arntz and W. E. McDermott dined the distinguished visitor at a local hotel at 6 o'clock, and later repaired to the hall, where were gathered together about fifty members of the Parlor in readiness to receive the guest of the evening. Four candidates for membership were received, and the work was put on in errorless fashion. The Grand President took occasion to note the excellency of the work, and spoke many words of praise for the evidence of interest shown in the welfare of the Order.

A chicken supper followed, at which there reigned supreme the spirit of the Native Daughters. A handsome cut-glass vase was presented Grand President Briggs as a slight token of esteem; Grand Trustee Amy McAvoy was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of carnations, and Recording Secretary Hannah McVey and Financial Secretary Mary Reber each received a beautiful picture. Mrs. Estelle Evans supplied the music for the evening.

Home-club Gives Dinner.

San Francisco—A dinner was given at the N.D.G.W. Home-club May 2. Beside Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, who was the guest of honor, there were present Past Grand Presidents Dr. Mariana Bertola, Carrie Roesch-Durham, Clara Wittenmyer, Emma Gruber-Foley, Addie L. Mosher, Mary E. Bell; Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derick; Grand Trustees May L. Williamson, Amy McAvoy; Jennie Greene, Millie Tietjen, Mary McLaughlin, Edith Odell, Edna Bryant, Evelyn Calanan, Louise Wyckoff, Grace Williams.

Dance From Early Night Till Early Morn.

Mariposa—A large crowd, including visitors from all near-by places in three counties—Merced, Mariposa and Stanislaus—attended the dance of Mariposa 63 April 23, which lasted from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. At midnight a delicious supper was served, the banquet-room and tables being handsomely decorated with flowers and ferns.

Initiates Several.

Oakland—During May, Piedmont 87 initiated several candidates. The regular birthday social meeting was held May 11, with Miss Marian Ring as the chairman. Officers for the July-December term will be nominated May 25 and elected June 1. The regular monthly whist was held May 25.

An Auspicious Occasion.

Elk Grove—Liberty 213 had the best and most largely-attended meeting since its institution, May 2, 1918, April 21, when 100 members of the Order were in attendance, including Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, who was making her official visit. Past Grand President Mary E. Bell of San Francisco, Grand Marshal Mattie M. Stein of Lodi, D.D.G.P. Mae Lucas of Folsom, and visitors from all Parlors in Sacramento County, Stockton, San Francisco and Weaverville. Incidentally, the Parlor has passed the $1,000-mark in finances and has 94 members. Two candidates were initiated. The lodge-room was beautifully decorated in pink, and the banquet-room in yellow. Grand President Briggs addressed the Parlor, speaking only words of pleasure and praise, telling of the many excellent projects of the Order. She was followed by other grand officers and visitors, all expressing their pleasure at being present.

Upon adjournment of the Parlor, all went to the lodge-room of Elk Grove 41, N.S.G.W., where the Native Sons and other guests had been enjoying themselves with cards and music while the "girls" were in session. Here, Anna Ring, president Liberty Parlor, presented Grand President Briggs with a silver bud vase, and C. C. Wackman, on behalf of the Native Sons, presented Liberty Parlor with a birthday gift—a $25 check as a starter for the silverware fund—and to President Ring, "with love from the boys," a beautiful bouquet of carnations. For Liberty Parlor, Belle Bradford presented nosegays to Past Grand President Bell, Grand Marshal Stein and District Deputy Lucas. After Creedythe Wackman had read "Her First Call on the Butcher," which won much applause, an excellent banquet was served. Several speeches were made here, the one most enjoyed being by Guy G. Foulks of the Native Sons.

For this auspicious occasion, the lodge-room was decorated by Marie Ajax, Alice Murphy and Agnes Ring, the banquet-room by Vivian Weleh, Hazel Polhemus and Ernestine Smith, while the supper committee was composed of Frances Wackman, Clara Windmiller, Lucy Sehlmeier, Helen Elliott, Dana Colton and Mary Waterman.

Entertains Mothers.

Grass Valley—Manzanita 29 held its annual reception for the mothers of the community May 3. A large number responded to the invitation, and each was presented with a white carnation. Refreshments were served, and the following program was presented:

Recitation, Lorraine Collins; fashion show, presenting twelve characters; song, Beatrice George; duet, Esther and Reta Fuller; recitation, Mrs. Fraser; solo, Reta George; recitation, Mrs. Curry; farce, introducing the Jones family. The Parlor has donated $100 to the Memorial Park fund.

Hope Chest at Grand Parlor.

San Francisco—Oro Fino 9's Hope Chest Committee is appreciative of the responses so far received from Parlors for raffle tickets; a great many, however, have not yet responded. The committee has been told the price of the tickets, 10 cents, is too low, considering the beautiful articles in the chest, but made such a low price that all may have an opportunity to participate in the drawing. The hope chest will be on exhibition at the Grand Parlor. Tickets may be obtained by writing Miss Margaret J. Smith, 4096 Eighteenth street, San Francisco.

Newly-weds Entertained.

Byron—May 4 Donner 193 entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boltzen, newly-weds. Mrs. Boltzen was Miss Virginia Lent, and is a popular member of the Parlor. Friends of the members were invited guests. Games were played, a ravioli feast spread, and the bride was presented with a silver tray.

Hears Delightful Talks.

Salinas—On the occasion of her official visit to Aleli 102 April 30 Grand President Bertha A. Briggs outlined the work of the Order. Officers were installed by D.D.G.P. Anna Linscott of Santa Cruz assisted by Grand Trustee May Williamson of that city, Clara Kalar becoming president.

Among other visitors were Past Grand Presidents Ariana Stirling and Dr. Mariana Bertola. Delightful talks were features of the evening, the speakers including the visitors and Grand Trustee Anna G. Andresen of Aleli. A chicken supper, served by a committee with Miss Etta Bramers as chairman, concluded an enjoyable evening.

Large Class Initiated.

Modesto—Morada 199 initiated a large class of candidates April 27. There was a big attendance, and refreshments were served.

Cakes' Raffle Swells Treasury.

Colusa—Colus 194 entertained the members of Colusa 69, N.S.G.W., April 18, the evening being spent at cards, dancing, several interesting readings and dainty refreshments. Several extra cakes had been made by the members, and these were raffled, creating a lot of amusement and adding a neat sum to the treasury. The guests expressed themselves as anxious for another get-together meeting in the near future.

May 2 the Parlor gave a progressive whist party, which was such a success that another was given the 16th. Handsome prizes were awarded, and all had a delightful time.

Clears Good Sum on Whist Parties.

Oakland—A very enjoyable evening was spent May 4, when Brooklyn 157 entertained Grand President Bertha A. Briggs on her official visit. Delegations from all the Bay Parlor were in attendance and also Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory Derrick, D.D.G.P. Gertrude Morrison, and Mrs. Anna Berwick, organizer of the Parlor. The hall was beautifully decorated with potted plants, white iris and yellow marigolds. The officers were gowned in dark dresses with corsage bouquets of yellow cosmos.

Grand President Briggs in her address complimented the officers on the ritualistic work, and spoke of the many fine projects that have been undertaken by the Order in general. Grand Vice-president Derrick and District Deputy Morrison were also called on for remarks, and both responded most gracefully. Mrs. Minnie Luhr, who was chairman of the evening, made a report on the whist

Picnic at Historic Spot.

Sacramento—Sacramento 3 and Sunset 26 arranged a May Day picnic at the historic Marshall monument at Coloma, El Dorado County, which proved one of the greatest outings ever held herabouts. About 300 autos were required to transport the 1,500 Native Sons and Native Daughters from all the Parlors in Sacramento, Placer and El Dorado Counties who participated. Every one brought a basket lunch, and the committee provided ice-cream and coffee; when the picnickers were at lunch on the lawn surrounding the monument a sight was presented that will ever be remembered.

The grounds about the Marshall monument are in splendid condition, thanks to Galen W. ("General Carranza") Morrill (Sacramento 3), the keeper, and his good wife. The site is one that makes the heart of any true Californian swell with pride. After lunch the picnickers visited the several places of interest about Coloma, including Marshall's cabin, the unmarked twin graves of the first two men lynched in California, and the old hotel which stands on the twenty-three-acre orchard owned by the Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., and which, it is hoped, will some day be improved and utilized as a home for age-weary members. Every one present was bubbling over with enthusiasm, inspired by the scenery enroute, and about Coloma, and Thomas W. McAuliffe (Sacramento 3) was thanked on all sides for being the promoter of the outing.

History Fellow Recounts Experiences.

Alameda—Haleyon 146 spent one of the most enjoyable evenings in its history May 5. Brothers Clark and Behneman, delegates to the Stockton Grand Parlor, rendered their reports of the doings there, and Brother Bates, as a member of the Finance Committee, accounted for the business transacted at the session. The Parlor voted to take The Grizzly Bear Magazine for one year, and each member will, commencing with the June issue, have the same mailed to his address.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and chairs arranged in a circle. Arthur S. Aiton, just returned from Spain as member of the University of California faculty, being one of the Traveling History Fellows maintained by the Order of Native Sons, gave a most interesting account of his experiences in Europe. Brother Aiton has the knack of not only observing all things, but of imparting these observations in a most entertaining way. The meeting broke up at a late hour, and all departed with a feeling that their time had been well spent.

New Grand Trustee on the Job.

San Francisco—Since the Stockton Grand Parlor, where he was elected a Grand Trustee, to May 13, Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) has visited eight Parlors other than his own, and at all the affairs was a speaker—and a roundly applauded one. May 4 visited San Miguel 150; went by train to Castroville, where he was autoed the remaining 100 miles of the distance by Bro. Stewart of that Parlor. Sixty were present, including visitors from Cambria 152 and Los Osos 61 (San Luis Obispo), and six candidates were initiated, bringing the Parlor's membership to its highest mark—106; a banquet was served, and there were several speeches, including one by George Sonnenberg Jr., the "soul and spirit of the Parlor," full of "pep" and "go get 'em."

April 27 Grand Trustee McEnerney went to the annual banquet of Dolores 208 (San Francisco) at which A. McKevitt was toastmaster; seventy were present, and all had a dandy time.

May 6, along with Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams and Historiographer Frank C. Merritt, attended the dinner of Piedmont 120 (Oakland) at which Dick Hamb, toastmaster, personally greeted the 118 present by name; J. J. McElroy reported a handsome profit from the 1920 operations of the Native Sons' Hall Association of Oakland.

May 11 Grand Trustee McEnerney put some ginger into the meeting for eligibles of Alameda 47; Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes was a speaker, too. May 10 was at Washington 169 (Centerville), being accompanied by Jim Cronin, Special Grand Organizer; suggested the Parlor hold a public celebration on Flag Day, June 14, and to make that occasion the beginning of an intensive membership drive. May 12, when this report was mailed to The Grizzly Bear, the Grand Trustee was on his way to Pleasanton 244.

Has Banner Meeting.

Sausalito—With more than 100 visitors present, Sea Point 158 had its banner meeting May 4, when members of California 1 (San Francisco) were its guests. Other visitors included those from Pacific 10, South San Francisco 157, Presidio 194 and Castro 232 (San Francisco), Mount Tamalpais 64 (San Rafael) and Nicasio 183. California's officers exemplified the ritual for the benefit of seven candidates in a most impressive manner.

After the regular business the hall was cleared and a fine "spread" served, along with an entertainment. H. J. Thomas was the toastmaster, and among those who contributed to the evening's enjoyment with speech, song, or story, were: R. Hunter, W. Bright, Perry brothers (boxing contest), Ben F. Hanlon, W. P. Carroll, Seipo G. Ratto. It was midnight when the party broke up, and all declared that Sea Point had made a fine host and requested another such gathering at an early date.

Startling Jap Facts Presented.

Sacramento—May 4 Sutter Fort 241 celebrated its thirteenth birthday. Roll call showed a large percentage of the members present, including several of the first officers of the Parlor and quite a few other charter members. A. W. Katzenstein and his committee provided an excellent program; one of the most entertaining that has been offered for the enjoyment of the members for some time.

State Controller John S. Chambers, the principal speaker of the evening, presented some startling facts on the "Japanese Invasion of California." He stated that the Japs, realizing they could not subdue this country by force of arms, had taken up peaceful penetration as a means of gaining control of this side of the Pacific. Striking examples of the success of this plan, as illustrated by several communities in the immediate vicinity of Sacramento and other parts of the state, were brought to the attention of those present by the speaker, who urged every Native Son to do everything possible to save California for the whites.

A. S. Dndley, secretary of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, gave a real inspiring talk on "Sacramento and Its Outlook." During the evening vocal selections were given by Mrs. J. V. Hines, Miss A. O'Connor and Miss Eleanor McLaughlin. A jazz orchestra furnished several numbers, and Dick Richards furnished the crowd with a big bunch of laughs by his clever impersonations and rapid-fire monologue. As one number in the program, A. W. Katzenstein pulled a great big surprise upon himself. He called for a few remarks from Dr. C. B. McKee, who has continually held the office of surgeon since the institution of the Parlor. Dr. McKee referred to some incidents in the history of the Parlor, promised Colonel Chambers the moral and financial support of the Parlor in his fight against the Japs, and then called the attention of those present to the fact that Katzenstein had been treasurer of the Parlor during its entire life and that he had always served it in every way with the greatest faithfulness. He declared that Katzenstein has been the Parlor's most zealous worker, and that he had spent many, many hours of his own time in his efforts to build it up. At the conclusion of his remarks, on behalf of those present, he presented Treasurer Katzenstein with a beautiful solid silver flower dish with a cut-glass center, as a token of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow-members. Katzenstein prides himself on knowing almost everything that is going to happen in the Parlor, a little while before it happens, but this time the "boys" slipped one over on him; in fact, he was so much taken by surprise that he could hardly reply to Dr. McKee, but he managed to express his sincere thanks for the gift and promised to continue his efforts for the upbuilding of the Parlor. During the evening T. S. Lages was presented with a handsome past president's emblem. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

WANTS NAME KEPT ON LIST;

Editor Grizzly Bear:

For twenty-eight years have been a member of Humboldt Parlor, No. 14, N.S.G.W. (Eureka), and a subscriber to The Grizzly Bear ever since its publication.

Want to keep a subscriber as long as I live, so never take my name off the list. May be a little slow in getting my dollar there, but it will come without fail.

C. J. SCHARDIN.

Sacramento, April 28, 1921.

Has Orchestra.

Fort Bragg—Alder Glenn 200 has an orchestra, composed of Lucian Carlson, Glenn Carlson, Poinsett Chapman, Kimbell Dodge, Elmer Nielson, Ervin Roberts and Aver Dahl. The number is expected to be augmented by additional talented musicians in the Parlor. The orchestra made its initial appearance at a party gotten up to speed the Parlor's delegates on their way to the Stockton Grand Parlor.

Would Mark Historic Site.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead 110 at its meeting May 4 took action looking to the erection of a fitting monument at a historic spot just about opposite Bunker Hill, on the west side of Colton highway, where a "capilla" was erected May 20, 1810. The first white man who ever entered what was then called "Valley de San Jose" took shelter at this spot, which is now marked by a mission hell.

Has Dansant.

San Francisco—Under the auspices of its Social Committee, Presidio 194 held a dansant May 12 which was well attended. A "jazz" orchestra furnished peppy music, and refreshments were served. May 23 the Parlor initiated a large class of candidates.

Busy With the Ritual.

Courtland—The chair officers and the past presidents' initiatory team of Courtland 106 held a banquet April 28 at a Sacramento hotel, thirty-four members and their guests being present. Past Grand President Charles E. McLaughlin was the principal speaker of the evening, and John J. Monteverde (Sunset 26) gave a short address. Following the banquet Courtland's officers exemplified the ritual for Sacramento 3. About twenty-five members of the Parlor, with their families, attended the May Day picnic at the Marshall monument, Coloma, El Dorado County.

The banquet above referred to resulted from a competitive initiation held April 2 between the Parlor's present officers and a team of past presidents composed of Emil Lample, George Dobbins, Elmer Fawcett, J. B. Miller, W. N. Kurtz, C. E. Bunnell and E. G. Kirtlan. After each team had initiated a candidate the judges—Past Grand President Charles E. McLaughlin, J. Ashton Flynn (Berkeley 210) and Grand Trustee John J. Monteverde—declared the contest a draw. After initiation there was a banquet dance, at which members of Victory 216, N.D.G.W., were guests. March 22 the officers of Courtland Parlor exemplified the ritual for Berkeley 210 at the College City and were royally entertained by the members of that Parlor.

NATIVE SON NEWS

Delegates Honored.

Oakland—Piedmont 120 had a reception and jinks in honor of its Grand Parlor delegates May 5. Up-to-date music, a snappy entertainment and delicious refreshments, in addition to the reports of the Stockton doings, were on the evening's program. The affair was under the auspices of the Good of the Order Committee. Piedmont continues its membership campaign, and is meeting with fine success.

Have District Meeting.

Marysville—Many members of Marysville 6, Rainbow 40 (Wheatland) and Silver Star 63 (Lincoln) attended the district meeting April 20. It was one of the most interesting and enjoyable fraternal affairs ever held here. At a sumptuous banquet Past Grand President Fred H. Greeley acted as toastmaster and several enthusiastic addresses were received with favor and applause.

Grand Officer Reception Guest.

Berkeley—Berkeley 210 and Bear Flag 151, N.D.G.W., after short separate meetings to initiate candidates May 6, joined forces at the former's meeting-place in a reception in honor of William J. Hayes (Berkeley 210) advanced to Grand Second Vice-president at the Stockton Grand Parlor.

Berkeley Parlor's Good of the Order Committee had prepared a banquet, and at the festive board some very impressive speeches were made, among the speakers being Grand Second Vice-president Hayes and D.D.G.P. Nell Crowley (Fruitvale 177), who told of the work the Orders are engaged in. Mrs. Maud Wagner was highly complimented for the splendid showing made by Bear Flag Parlor since she reorganized it four years ago; it has become one of the largest Parlors in Alameda County, with 80 members.

Getting 'Em In.

Suisun—Solano 39 initiated several candidates May 17, and has many more applications on file. The Parlor is making satisfactory progress, and a busy term is in prospect. At an early date a smoker will be held, Brothers Gordon, Roland and Williams having the arrangements in charge. The Parlor's baseball team is making great progress.

Entertains Daughters.

Pescadero—May 11 Pebble Beach 230 was host to Ano Nuevo 180, N.D.G.W., and a very enjoyable evening was spent. President James A. Moore asked for remarks from the "girls" and First Vice-president Ellen R. Bell suggested the president get married; all agreed he should do so. After various remarks Tony Silva invited all to join in a game of "cat," in which he made a most wonderful "tom." Other games followed until midnight, when Brother Woodhams asked all present into the banquet-room, which was prettily decorated with

RADIUM SULPHATE

BETTER THAN RADIUM BROMIDE

If you have lines on your finger nails, then you have catarrh, and that very catarrh can cause every disease in the body.

This device filled with RADIUM SULPHATE, 95 percent pure, which lasts forever, cleans out disease of catarrh. Sold under money-back guarantee for $2.50 (half price) to prove power of RADIUM for all diseases. The quantity needed depends on nature and size of the disease. $15 worth of it will cure more and severer diseases than $50,000 worth of Radium Bromide will cure. RADIUM SULPHATE cures disease—tuberculosis and cancer down.

ferns and huckleberry, and the tables were loaded with "goodies." After the "feed" games were continued until a late hour. The Ano Nuevaus were loud in their praise for the hospitality of the "boys," and another get-together meeting is promised for the near future.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Past Grand President Jo V. Snyder of Nevada City will deliver the address at the memorial exercises of Rainbow 40 (Wheatland), May 30.

Historiographer Frank C. Merritt of Oakland is a member of Brooklyn 151 of that city, and uot Piedmont 120, as erroneously stated in last month's Grizzly Bear.

Robert Knox Frakes arrived at Willits, Mendocino County, March 27. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Frakes (respectively, Amador 17, N.S.G.W., and San Jose 81, N.D.G.W.). San Jose Parlor presented the little native son with a solid silver spoon.

Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams is deserving of credit and also commendation for originating and "putting over" the plan to present "California Elizabeth" to Miss Mary Brusie, secretary of the Homeless Children's Committee, at the Stockton Grand Parlor.

"When men speak ill of thee, live so as nobody will believe them."—Plato.

Dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp are ailments of civilization; but relief may be had by turning to Nature's Product, CACTUS CURE. There would be no bald-headed people if they had not had dandruff, but this does not mean that even all those who are afflicted with dandruff are doomed to be bald, at least not since the discovery of CACTUS CURE.

This preparation is one of Nature's products. POSITIVELY CONTAINS NOTHING INJURIOUS, and if applied to the skin or scalp for any burning or itching sensation, will give INSTANT RELIEF.

Santa Barbara, Cal.

N.S.G.W., has lost one of its most loyal and faithful members and his wife a loving and devoted husband; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Santa Barbara Parlor, No. 116, N.S.G.W., extend to his sorrowing wife and relatives our sincerest sympathy in this, their sad hour of bereavement; and be it further resolved, that the charter of the Parlor be draped in loving respect for our departed brother, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the widow of our departed brother, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

W. H. MARIS,
W. B. METCALF,
J. B. SANBY,
Committee.

Santa Barbara, May 5, 1921.

JOHN MILTON SOBBE.

Whereas, The Creator, in His infinite wisdom, has removed from our midst to the Eternal Parlor on High our beloved and respected brother, John Milton Sobbe, and whereas, in the passing away of Brother Sobbe, Glenn Ellen Parlor, No. 102, and the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West have lost a conscientious and loyal member, the community an honest and respected citizen, and the family a loving son and brother; therefore, be it

Resolved, That bowing in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, we deeply and sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family, and in token hereby direct that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days in memory of our departed brother; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, and that they be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the official organ of our Order.

JULIUS PANCRÁZI,
JOHN H. WEISE,
Committee.

Glen Ellen, April 30, 1921.

CHARLES E. RUIZ.

To the Officers and Members of Santa Barbara Parlor, No. 116, Native Sons of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret and condolence for the death of Brother Charles E. Ruiz, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, The Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved and respected brother, Charles E. Ruiz; therefore, be it Resolved, That by the death of Brother Charles E. Ruiz, Santa Barbara Parlor, No. 116, N.S.G.W., has lost a member worthy of the highest respect and esteem; and be it further resolved, that Santa Barbara Parlor tenders its most sincere sympathy to the bereaved wife and family in the hour of their sad affliction; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, that they be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, and that the charter of the Parlor be draped in mourning.

W. B. STAFFORD,
W. H. MARIS,
D. P. TAYLOR,
Committee.

Santa Barbara, May 5, 1921.

ARTHUR HENRY JONES.

Whereas, The Almighty, in His great and profound providence, called into His kingdom and took unto Himself on Tuesday, the tenth day of this month of May, and in His year, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, one of His servants, Brother Arthur Henry Jones, and by so doing called him from this vale of tears and took him from the sweet companionship of his beloved wife and the happy circle of his family, and the midst of his friends; and whereas, our beloved brother, in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity had spanned the course of forty-five years, during which time he devoted his whole Christian endeavor in the practice of the cardinal virtues of the Native Sons of the Golden West; and whereas, Brother Jones leaves behind him to grieve his departure and his absence his beloved wife, Anna Jones, and a son and a daughter of tender years, his friends and brothers of Ramona Parlor; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Ramona Parlor, No. 109, N.S.G.W., the place of our brother's recreation and diversion in life, hereby unanimously, during this time after his death, notifies his wife and two children of our profound and heartfelt sympathy in this, their hour of deep grief and overwhelming sorrow; and be it further resolved, that this resolution be read into the minutes of this regular meeting, there to ever remain as a sign of the undying testimony of our mutual grief at the loss of our lately departed brother, and as a token of sympathy to his family in sorrow.

parties given at the homes of the members during the month of March, stating $96 was cleared. She then presented Grand President Briggs and D.D.G.P. Morrison with beautiful pieces of hand painting and Dr. Derriek with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the Parlor. The phasant evening was brought to a close with refreshments served in the banquet hall.

Entertains Invited Guests.

Mokelumne Hill—At the conclusion of its business meeting May 2 Sequoia 160 entertained several invited guests at singing and dancing and a splendid supper. In the early morning hours good nights were said and hopes expressed that similar occasions would come often.

Entertains Charter Members.

Fresno—April 26 a birthday party was given by Fresno 187 in honor of the charter members. About eighty members and friends were present. At the completion of a nicely arranged musical program, which every one enjoyed, cards were played, many prizes being won. Amid a profusion of beautiful California poppies and ferns, a wonderful birthday cake was much in evidence. A delightful repast was enjoyed by all.

Thirteen Initiated.

Lodi—April 20 Grand President Bertha A. Briggs officially visited Ivy 88, being accompanied by Past Grand President Mary E. Bell and Marguerite Sullivan (Alta 3), both of San Francisco. Thirteen candidates were initiated, bringing the Parlor's membership to 107, and it is still growing. Grand President Briggs told of the wonderful work the Order is doing, and her pleasing remarks were well received. A banquet concluded an eventful occasion.

While in this city, Grand President Briggs, Past Grand President Bell and Mrs. Sullivan were guests of Grand Marshal Mattie M. Stein. Mrs. Stein is being urged by Ivy Parlor, of which she is a popular member, for Grand Vice-president.

School Days Revived.

St. Helena—April 19 La Junta 203 entertained a large number of invited guests, the members arranging a program in the form of a district school. "Boys" and "girls" marched in when the bell was rung, and when the teacher, Miss Pinchem (President Ada Quigley) called the roll such names as Sallie Prune and Susie Shortstop were responded to. Supt. Keturoh Mushroom (Theresa Kennelly) arrived, and for her edification there were recitations, songs and dances. After school refreshments were served, a la cafeteria, some "stunt" being required for every article of food. All declared this one of the most enjoyable evenings ever spent.

May 17 a candidate was initiated and memorial services conducted by the officers in memory of deceased members. Memorial Day the Parlor will attend in a body services to be held by the American Legion.

Raises Goodly Sum for Children.

Vallejo—Vallejo 195 had a card party for the benefit of the homeless children May 17 and cleared over $100. Prizes were donated by the city's merchants and over fifty tables were filled by players. The committee in charge was: Winnie Cassidy, Lillie Olsen, Mary Combs, Agnes Hunter.

Officers Complimented.

San Francisco—The official visit of Grand President Bertha A. Briggs to Linda Rosa 170 was a pleasurable success. Two candidates were initiated, and the officers were complimented for the manner in which they executed their work. Among the many visitors was Past Grand President Mary E. Bell. The Grand President gave an interesting address, in which she told of her visits to other parlors, and there were many short talks.

Gifts were presented Mrs. Briggs and D.D.G.P. Kaufmann, who has been a conscientious and untiring worker, always responding when called upon. Supper was served, and more speeches followed. All declared the visit a most enjoyable one and expressed the hope that Linda Rosa would gain during the new Grand Parlor year as many new members as it has in the one about to close.

Brides Entertained.

Red Bluff—Berendos 23 had initiation April 26 and entertained two recent bride members—Mrs. Orlena J. Exley-Chase and Mrs. Alice G. Stewart-Heavey, trustee—in a most delightful manner. Mrs. Wilbur Westlake gave a reading and Mrs.

Edna Wiese a vocal selection. Then, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Wiese, all proceeded to the banquet-room.

The table decorations and refreshments carried out the bridal idea, orange blossoms, pink roses and smilax mingling; a delicious fruit salad was served in orange baskets decorated with orange blossoms. Miss Golda Schoenfeld responded to a toast, and Past Grand President Olive Bedford-Matlock, in a charming manner, presented each bride with a beautiful potted fern, gifts of the Parlor.

Initiates Seven.

Oakland—Grand President Bertha A. Briggs paid an official visit to Aloha 106 May 10. She was entertained at dinner, after which the party went to the meeting hall, which was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers. More than 100 visitors were present, representing twenty-four Parlors. Among the grand officers in attendance were: Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Grand Marshal Mattie Stein, Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, Grand Trustee Dr. Winifred Byrne.

Seven candidates were initiated, following which Grand President Briggs delivered an inspiring address and complimented Aloha. On the Parlor's behalf Sallie Rutherford presented Mrs. Briggs, Dr. Derrick and the district deputy with remembrances. Delicious refreshments were served in the banquet-room, which had been converted into a fairyland with wild flowers. Members of Athens 195, N.S.G.W., acted as waiters, and did wonderfully well.

Clever Sketch Well Received.

San Francisco—May 12 Presidio 148 celebrated Mother's Night in a way its "live" committee knows how. Past President Elizabeth M. Schmidt wrote a sketch for the occasion, "Mrs. Dew Nothin's Academy of Du Little," the scene for which was a school-room. Those appearing in the cast were: Elizabeth M. Schmidt, Edith M. Belden, Lillian P. Hansell, Edith Besozzi, Jewel Strei, Della Denning, Elizabeth Tierney, Katherine A. Devoto, Bessie Rumbold, Honour C. Hansell, Gladys E. Regan, Freida Grumhof. It was truly "some party," and after a sumptuous spread, flashlight picture, songs, speeches and recitations good-night was reluctantly said, all had had such a wonderful time. The Parlor has selected Mrs. Jeanette G. Powell as a candidate for Grand Outside Sentinel.

Comic Opera for Visitors.

Chico—April 21 Annie K. Bidwell 168 entertained the Parlors of Oroville and Marysville, fifteen coming from the former place and eighteen from the latter; forty-five members of the Parlor were in attendance to welcome the visitors. A three-act comic opera was greatly enjoyed; between the acts fancy dancing and readings were given by Misses Annie Kennedy, Carnille Gruss and Little Fordyce. A banquet followed, the tables being beautifully decorated, and each sister being given a beautiful La France rose to wear. At a late hour the visitors left for home, delighted with their visit. The Parlor has endorsed the candidacy of Grand Outside Sentinel Harriett Eames, one of its members, for Grand Inside Sentinel.

Public Reception for Grand President.

Oakland—A reception, arranged by the presidents of the Alameda County Parlors, was tendered Grand President Bertha A. Briggs May 9 on the roof-garden of the Pacific building. It was of a public nature, and was largely attended by Native Sons and Native Daughters, friends of both Orders and public officials.

Grand Vice-president Dr. Victory A. Derrick presided, and in addition to the Grand President, who told of the Order's work, the list of speakers included Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher and these Native Sons: Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams, District Attorney Ezra Decoto, Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes, Harold Webber and Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland. Musical numbers were contributed by Herbert Townsend, Mrs. Gladys Gnider and Miss Vivian Heims. Dancing concluded the evening's festivities.

Grand President at Home.

Hollister—Bertha A. Briggs paid her last official visit as Grand President to her home Parlor, Copa de Oro 105 May 13, and was greeted not only by a large outpouring of the Parlor's members but many visitors from neighboring Parlors and grand officers. Before the meeting a dinner was served, the tables and hall being decorated in red, white and yellow, the Order's colors.

Six candidates were initiated. Through Miss Justina Moran, Copa de Oro presented the Grand President with a set of solid silver salad forks, Fremont 44, N.S.G.W., presented her with a bouquet of beautiful flowers, and other flowers and gifts were presented by individual members. Mrs. Briggs responded with a pleasing address, and there were short talks by some of the visitors. During the dinner a program was presented by Luella Radcliffe, Mrs. Mabel Adams, Helen Hudner, Kathryn Ladd, Janesie Wilson, Mrs. P. W. Breen. Mrs. George T. Wright was chairman of the Arrangements Committee in charge of the successful welcome home to the popular Grand President.

Organizes Drill Team.

San Francisco—May 9 Portola 172 organized a drill team of thirty members, with Milo Kent as drillmaster. Meetings of the Parlor are largely attended and there is much interest manifested, due to the efforts of the splendid Good of the Order Committee, which introduces a surprise at each meeting. At the Grand Parlor, Portola will present the name of Mae Himes-Noonan, charter member, past president and recording secretary, for Grand Trustee.

A Good Habit—Initiation.

Oroville—May 4 Gold of Ophir 190 initiated four candidates, and on the 18th an additional candidate. Refreshments were served on both occasions, and social times enjoyed. Initiation has become a habit in Gold of Ophir, and the Parlor is making fine progress.

Newly-Arrived Native to Get Spoon.

San Francisco—Orinda 56 had a "high jinks" May 13, with the unmarried members as hostesses. Games were played, prizes distributed, and refreshments served. The married members will entertain next.

Congratulations were ordered sent Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marsden Giannini on the birth of a son April 24; a month spoon, suitably inscribed, will be presented Raymond Marsden Jr. in the name of the Parlor. Giannini is a past president of Niantic 105, N.S.G.W., and his wife enjoys the distinction of being the first namesake of Orinda, of which she is at present a trustee.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Orlena Chase (Berendos 23) of Red Bluff has been in Santa Rosa undergoing treatment for a badly infected eye.

Grand Trustee Anna G. Andresen of Salinas has been chosen third vice-president of the San Francisco District, Federation of California Women's Clubs.

Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey of Reno, Nevada State, will attend a national conference of women's agencies in Salt Lake City, Utah, this month.

Mrs. Kate McFadyen (Long Beach 154) of Long Beach is visiting relatives and friends in Berkeley, Woodland, Auburn, Dixon and Sacramento, and will not return home until after the San Francisco Grand Parlor.

Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer of Los Angeles, who has been in Sacramento since the first of the year serving in the important capacity of Secretary of the State Senate, returned home the latter part of last month.

Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola of San Francisco, retiring president of the San Francisco District, Federation of California Women's Clubs, was presented by her executive board at the Salinas meeting last month with an oil painting of a Monterey Bay scene.

Miss Marie McFadyen (Long Beach 154) of Long Beach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadyen (respectively, Grizzly Bear 239, N.S.G.W., and Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W.) of that city, was among the large class graduated last month from the University of California.

Grand Trustee May L. Williamson of Santa Cruz, accompanied by her husband (Santa Cruz 90, N.S.G.W.) and two daughters, enjoyed an auto tour of the southern part of the state last month, going by the coast route as far as San Diego and returning the valley route, and visiting all important centers and places of interest along the way.

Big Almond Plant—At Sacramento has been completed the largest plant in the world for processing almonds.

GRAND OFFICERS HAVE IMPORTANT MEET

SAN FRANCISCO—The Board of Grand Officers, Native Sons of the Golden West, held its first meeting since the Stockton Grand Parlor at Native Sons' Building, May 14. Grand President William I. Traeger presided, and these other grand officers were in attendance: James F. Hoey, Junior Past Grand President; Harry G. Williams, Grand First Vice-president; William J. Hayes, Grand Second Vice-president; Edward J. Lynch, Grand Third Vice-president; John T. Regan, Grand Secretary; James A. Wilson, Charles L. McEnerney, William E. Welch, Arthur M. Dean, Fletcher A. Cutler, Charles A. Thompson, Grand Trustees. A summary of the business transacted follows:

An American Flag was ordered donated to the Joint Arbor Day Committee of the San Francisco Parlors, to be raised at the Memorial Grove on Junipero Serra boulevard.

[This grove of thirty-nine trees, planted in memory of Native Sons who died in the world war, is opposite the site where the City of San Francisco is now erecting the $500,000 Commodore Sloat school; May 29, Native Sons will erect two flagpoles there, and they will be dedicated with appropriate exercises; Troop 82, Boy Scouts of America, has been designated custodian of the grove; each Decoration Day the trees in this grove are decorated with American and State (Bear) Flags, the same as are the graves of all deceased Native Sons.]

The bond of the Grand Treasurer was fixed at $5,000. Ordered that Subordinate Parlors' surety bond shall be in form prescribed for years 1916-17. First Federal Trust Company, Crocker National Bank and San Francisco Savings and Loan Society designated depositories for Grand Parlor funds. Ordered that all negotiable securities shall be kept in special safe-deposit box in name of the Grand Parlor, to be opened only in presence of both Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer, who shall have joint control and whose bonds shall cover such custody. Ordered that there be purchased $1,700 par value third issue Liberty bonds, and $5,000 U. S. Treasury certificates of May 16 issue.

Arthur E. Curtis (Precita 187) and Joseph B. Keenan (Niantic 105) were named to represent the Grand Parlor on the board of directors of the Native Sons' Hall Association of San Francisco. The chairman of the Home Industry Committee or, if he is unable to act, some other member of that committee to be designated by the Grand President, was appointed as representative of the Grand Parlor to the Home Industry League of California. Grand Third Vice-president Lynch and Grand Trustees Wilson and McEnerney were named a committee to procure and present to Miss Eva E. Digges, for years a faithful employee in the Grand Secretary's office, a gift provided for by the Stockton Grand Parlor; also, to consider uniform size and style of flags for decorating deceased members' graves. A committee was authorized to design the plaque awarded by the Stockton Grand Parlor to Las Positas 96 (Livermore) for its 100% membership gain.

Grand President Traeger was directed to procure, and submit at the Board's next meeting, further data relative to the purchase by the Grand Parlor of The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the official organ. New forms of reports, bids on a printing press and type in the Grand Secretary's office, and bids for reprinting Grand Parlor Proceedings of earlier years will also be considered at that time.

The period for the Subordinate Parlors' membership campaign was fixed to commence July 1, 1921, and terminate March 31, 1922, both dates inclusive. The Grand Secretary will classify the Parlors according to membership.

The chairman of the History Committee was directed to have Historiographer Frank C. Merritt correct that portion of his report to the Stockton Grand Parlor in which reference was made to the legal recognition of dueling in California, dueling never having been recognized as legal in this state.

The administrator and beneficiaries of the estate of the late Charles Mortimer Belshaw (General Winn 32), through Junior Past Grand President Hoey, tendered the Grand Parlor his Past Grand President's emblem. The gift was accepted, and a committee composed of Past Grand President Hoey, Grand First Vice-president Williams and Grand Second Vice-president Hayes authorized to receive the emblem.

Grand Trustee Thompson was directed to get the true status of the painting, "Crossing the Plains," and report to Grand President Traeger who, in turn, will advise the Subordinate Parlors thereon.

John J. Monteverde, chairman of the Grand Parlor committee appointed for that purpose, will be requested by Grand President Traeger to take immediate action on the proposal to present a silver service to the battleship "California." [It is understood the "California" will be put into service in August.]

Grand Secretary Regan was directed to: Base his 1921-22 per capita tax on the membership as it actually appears in the semi-annual reports of December 31, 1920; request those members of the last Board of Grand Officers who have not done so, to forward their pictures to his office; include in the minutes of the Stockton Grand Parlor names of all members voting for grand officers; bill Subordinate Parlors quarterly for supplies; keep a separate record of the transfer of members in his tabulated list.

Ordered that the photograph of the late Grand Secretary Fred H. Jung and the eulogy delivered in his memory be incorporated in the Proceedings of the Stockton Grand Parlor.

Ordered that $75 be allowed San Francisco Assembly, P.P.A., for expenses incurred in exemplifying the ritual at the Stockton Grand Parlor. Also, that the expense to be incurred for a meeting of the Grand Parlor Committee on Installation Ceremony be allowed.

The Board recessed at 7:15 p.m. to witness an exemplification of the revised ritual, and later made these orders pertaining thereto: That the qualification form be adopted; that the officers' square be adopted; that the trustees' seats in Subordinate Parlors shall be the first three in the front row to left of president; that the ballot-box shall not be placed on Bible or Flag in meeting-hall; that when the new ritual is promulgated all old ones be called in.

MARKET AND BUYERS' WEEK.

THE LOS ANGELES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE having for a number of years labored strenuously and successfully to build up the industries of Los Angeles and bring in needed new factories, believes that the time has arrived when the most modern business methods should be employed in extending the markets of the city's manufacturers and jobbers and so, has decided for a "Market and Buyers' Week," to be held August 8 to 13.

Los Angeles' industries are many, and their products are numerous and varied, and it is believed the proposed exhibit will considerably enlarge its markets. Products will be grouped as to classification, and displayed to best possible advantage, the exhibit being gotten up purely for the benefit of the buyer.

Arrangements will be made for entertaining the buyers and their families who attend, and the Entertainment Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will arrange for daily luncheons and dinners for the various groups of buyers.

Very few of our home people realize the extent of the industries of the city—that practically all the necessities and many of the luxuries of life

PERSHING SQUARE

(ESTHER CRONE.)

I wandered through the park one morn
To exercise a bit,
And there on rows of seats forlorn,
I saw men sit and sit.

I passed that way again at noon,
Around this selfsame plat,
And looking where the seats were strewn,
These same men sat and sat.

At eventime I strolled again
Across this famous spot,
And lo! it seemed these very men
Still sit, and sat, and sat.

Los Angeles, California.

are produced right here. The reason for this lack of knowledge, however, is due to the fact that most of the manufacturers fail to bring their products to the attention of the home-consumer through advertising. People should give preference to home products, quality and price being equal, and most of them would, were they properly enlightened as to what is manufactured here.

U. C. SUMMER SESSION.

With 104 members of the faculty from twenty-three collegiate institutions of twelve states in the Union giving 143 courses in twenty-six separate departments, the University of California Summer Session in Los Angeles promises to break all records for quality, variety, usefulness, interest, and attendance, according to the 1921 complete circular of Dean Baldwin M. Woods now available for free distribution to prospective students for the six weeks' session, June 20 to July 30.

Distinguished instructors and eminent educators have been secured for the session from the Universities of California, Arizona, Chicago, Minnesota, Illinois, North Carolina, Texas, Wisconsin, Columbia and Indiana; California Institute of Technology, Occidental College, Oregon Agricultural College, Chaffee Junior College, Riverside Junior College, Rice Institute, Wisconsin State Normal School, Institute of Musical Art of New York, Wesleyan University, State College of Washington, Stanford University, Massachusetts State Normal School, and East Texas State Normal School.

VOTE THE LIBRARY BONDS.

Several bond propositions will be submitted to the voters on the June 7 ballot, and one—$2,500,000 for a library building—should receive a "yes" vote from every citizen—even from the fellow who is "ferminist" all bond propositions regardless of merit.

The present home of the Free Public Library is a disgrace to a city of Los Angeles' wealth, population and importance. No argument should be necessary—just an inspection of the present quarters—to assure a 100% vote for these bonds.

Next to public-school buildings, nothing is so vitally important to any community as a commodious, well-stocked public library, and the voters of Los Angeles owe it to themselves and to their children to see that this city is not longer without such.

The present quarters, for which big rent is paid private parties, are overcrowded. Either more room must be rented, or the library service curtailed, for the number of patrons increases daily. It is inconceivable that any thinking taxpayer can neglect or refuse to vote for the public library bonds—an investment of his tax-money from which he will derive direct benefit—for the library is for everybody and everybody should be for the library.—C.M.H.

PRACTICE RECIPROCITY.

When in need of anything, readers of The Grizzly Bear are urged to scan its pages and buy from those who advertise therein. In the case of the manufacturer who does not sell direct to the consumer, see that his brand is specified when ordering from the retailer. It will be appreciated, too, if mention is made that you saw the ad in The Grizzly Bear. Reciprocity is co-operation put into practice, and is vital to the success of any undertaking.

BIG ELECTRIC PARADE FOR ELKS.

Fifty thousand Elks will be in Los Angeles July 10 to 16 to join in the Grand Lodge Reunion, and an elaborate program of entertainment is being arranged by Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99. Several parades are on the bill; that of the Elks themselves being set down for Thursday, July 14.

An electrical parade, that will far eclipse any previous effort along this line, is to be one of the evening attractions. The several motion-picture companies are looking after this feature, and because of the friendly rivalry aroused numerous floats of undreamed-of gorgeousness are assured. It is promised that this one, among the many other attractions, will be worth traveling thousands of miles to behold, and, what is more, it is said its like will never again be presented.

NEW FACTORY TO MAKE FURNACES.

Owing to the tremendous growth of the Phillips Heating, Ventilating and Manufacturing Company, it has been forced to secure larger quarters in the building of a new and modern factory at 1710-12 West Washington street. The building, which is now in course of construction, is of brick and steel. This calls attention to the development of the heating industry in Los Angeles and adjacent territory, as well as Arizona and New Mexico.

The company is one of the oldest manufacturing industries in Southern California, having been established since 1893, during which time it has installed over 12,000 heating plants in residences and public buildings of all kinds.

The Phillips gas furnace has no condensation, owing to patented burning device scientifically constructed throughout, being based on the laws of nature, particularly along the lines of combustion and air travel. Consequently its furnace is claimed to be superior in its effectiveness.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS IN COUNTY MEET.

Los Angeles 124 and Long Beach 154, N.D.G.W., had a county reunion at Ramona Hall May 5. There was a fair attendance, considering the very stormy night. D.D.G.P. Kate McFadyen presided, and there was a program of vocal and instrumental music, readings, and an address by William I. Traeger, Grand President, N.S.G.W. Refreshments were served.

ANNIVERSARY BANQUET JUNE 11.

The biggest crowd ever at a meeting of Ramona 109, N.S.G.W., was present April 29 to informally greet Grand President William I. Traeger. Visitors were numerous, including a big delegation from Arrowhead 110 (San Bernardino). Complimentary speeches were in order, and in response to the many expressions of co-operation and good-wishes, the Grand President said his fondest hope was, that during his term the Parlor of the south would get busy and double their membership; that, he said, would be the best evidence that sincerity prompted the promises made him.

Ramona's institution anniversary will be observed with a banquet at the Union League the night of Saturday, June 11. Invitations will be sent to all the Parlor from Santa Barbara south, and an immense outpouring is looked for, as the occasion will also be a formal tribute to Grand President Traeger. All Native Sons are invited to participate, and may procure tickets, at $2 each, (Continued on Page 30.)

MORE JAPS, OR NO JAPS THAT'S THE QUESTION

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

NOW IS THE TIME FOR ACTION AGAINST the Japs—aggressive action, against both the yellow and white varieties, within the laws that have been approved and adopted by The People. The time for "resolving" and "educating" has passed; propaganda by the mile and resolutions by the million bring nothing but a smile of disgust from the wily Japs who, because the laws directed against them are not enforced, continue to "push forward" in their "peaceful invasion" scheme. And, too, our Federal Government and the people of the Eastern states doubt California's sincerity of purpose because the Japs are permitted to willfully and continually violate every law not to their liking. If those of our citizens who desire that this state shall be free of the yellow pests—and they are a great majority, as shown by the November election returns,—are satisfied with resolutions and propaganda as weapons to dislodge the Japs, then they may as well tell the mikado-worshippers to come on, for such a decision means but a surrender of California to the Japs.

Aggressive action, within the adequate laws provided, is the only course that will convince the people of this and the Eastern states that California means business; the only course that will bring prompt action on the part of our own Government; the only course that may possibly cause the Japanese government to call off its pests who have been sent here by that government for colonization purposes. To even consider, for one moment, the idea of permitting the Japs to retain title to the thousands of acres of land they have illegally acquired, is to consider sacrificing California to them, for they now own and control more than sufficient land to accomplish their purpose.

Aggressive action should be started NOW, and continued strenuously until the last foot of ground that the Japs have no legal or moral right to possess has been recovered. This is no time for extending mercy to these unwanted and unassimilable people; it is a time to DO SOMETHING effective to save California from a terrible fate.

Aggressive action should start with an investigation of the office of the Attorney-General of this state; he has the sole authority to enforce the 1913 Land Law, and it is because of his inaction that the Japs have made such enormous strides in land-acquirement. True, he has, since just before the November election, brought three or four actions under this law, but has done so, we surmise, because, like the Governor, he realizes that a display of some activity is necessary for his political well-being. Why has he let the Japs openly violate that law for nearly thirteen years? Unless he can justify his course of inaction he should be forced to make way for one who has both the "guts" and the desire to have the laws respected and obeyed by both the yellow-Japs and the white-Japs.

Actions to recover every acre of land acquired by the Japs since the 1913 Land Law went into effect must be instituted and pressed, either by the Attorney-General or, if he cannot or will not bring them, by some competent all-white lawyer, given authority by him to act. Means to do this will be forthcoming in abundance, if assurance be given that the cases will be vigorously and impartially prosecuted.

Aggressive action, too, should include a careful and continuous watch to see that, if a single provision of the more-drastring law adopted in November be violated, punishment will be promptly inflicted. This is far the better of the two laws, for it inflicts punishment upon both the white-Jap and the yellow-Jap. And really, the white-Jap land-owner who sells or leases to the yellow-Jap is far more dangerous to California, for he is a traitor to the state, while the yellow-Jap land-buyer is loyal to his worshiped mikado. But every provision of both laws must be enforced.

And aggressive action should include compilation and publication of a list of those "honorable select prominent citizens" who are willing to wreck California for the sake of a few yellow dollars. They are Jap agents, masquerading as preachers, attorneys, school-teachers, real-estate agents, land-owners, and heads of big commercial and financial institutions, and the loyal white people of the state should be made acquainted with their names, that they may be always on their guard.

California's land laws are both just and constitutional, and not in conflict with any treaty. If they are rigidly enforced, thereby letting it be known that Japs cannot possibly get land here and will lose their investment in any temporarily acquired illegally, the Japs are going to give this state a wide berth. If they are rigidly enforced, thereby indicating that the people mean what they have said at the polls, the Federal Government is going to take action to back up California's determination; it cannot safely do otherwise. If they are rigidly enforced, thereby indicating that the Jap is not wanted here, the government of Japan is going to abandon its colonization scheme in California and call its nationals now here elsewhere. And if those laws are not rigidly enforced, the Federal Government and the government of Japan are going to enact a treaty that will force the Japs on California, all laws, resolutions, and propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding.

There are but two courses to choose between: A so-called "campaign of education," meagerly financed, and more Japs. Or an aggressive campaign of law-enforcement, and a driving out of the Japs thereby. The latter course is the one a great majority of the people of California are desirous of having pursued, and they will give it the necessary moral and financial support.

TO PRESENT FLAG TO SCHOOL;

GRAND TRUSTEE GIVEN CAKE.

Livermore—May 19 Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney of San Francisco made his first official visit, at Las Positas 96 N.S.G.W., and presented the Parlor with a new set of altar flags, as an expression of his appreciation of their efforts during the past year. Following a suggestion of Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler at the meeting of the Board of Grand officers, he requested the Parlor to present a set of the flags to Livermore high school, and the suggestion was enthusiastically received.

As this day was also Grand Trustee McEnerney's birthday, the Parlor served a banquet in his honor, the piece-de-resistance being a monster birthday cake, with plenty of candles. The cake had a blue frosting with a white star in the center—"the white star on a field of blue." On being invited to cut the cake, McEnerney discovered that it was a block of pine! The joke made a big hit. Talks were made by the Grand Trustee, C. K. Grady (Pacific 10) and Jos. Aurecocheo (Las Positas 96).

from Secretary Grove T. Vail at Ramona Club-rooms, 349 South Hill. The details of the celebration, which will be on a grander scale than any of Ramona's previous anniversary efforts—and that's going "some!"—are in charge of a committee composed of A. E. Hamilton (chairman), C. R. Thomas, J. F. Dockweiler, E. N. Fletcher, S. A. Rehart, W. E. Baskerville, E. A. Meserve, I. Baxter, W. C. Taylor, President W. Keene.

RECEPTION FOR GRAND PRESIDENT.

Corona 196, N.S.G.W., devoted its meeting of May 9 to a reception to Grand President William I. Traeger. It brought out many of the "old guard" and several visitors, including a delegation from Cabrillo 114 (Ventura). President J. M. Lynch introduced C. C. Smith as chairman of the evening. Following a short program of speeches by Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin, Superior Judge Bertin A. Weyl, Joseph P. Sproul, Grand President Traeger, Dr. D. W. Edelman, Frank Orr, Walter Keene and R. M. Sheridan, an exceptionally clever lot of entertainers were introduced. Refreshments were served. The affair, one of the most successful given by Corona in some time, was arranged by the Parlor's Good of the Order Committee, headed by A. E. Palethorpe.

Monday, June 6, Corona will have a class initiation for which several candidates are in waiting. A program will be presented, and refreshments served.

WEEK END OUTING.

The afternoon of Saturday, June 18, and all the following day, Los Angeles 45, N.S.G.W., will have its second week-end outing at the country homes of J. D. Hunter and J. T. Newell, at the gates of the Malibu. All members of the Order are invited, there are ample accommodations, and a continuous round of fun-creating entertainment is promised—so, be present, the committee urges. There will be music, games, fishing, and plenty of eats; in fact "Chef" T. W. Golding promises one of his famous muscle stews, as well as a steak supper—oh, boy! Autos will leave Native Sons' Hall, 134 West Seventeenth street, for the scene of action, at 1 p. m., Saturday. To make reservations get in touch with Secretary W. D. Gilman (Main 32) or J. T. Newell (25173).

The entertainments featured every Thursday night at the Parlor by Walter Farnum are drawing the crowds, and, incidentally, attracting new members. Five candidates were initiated during May, and several applications are on file. A membership "drive" is about ready to launch, and the assistance of every member, to double the membership of Los Angeles, is wanted. There's something doing every Thursday night, and all members are invited to attend, enjoy the show, and partake of refreshments.

"Tempest and Sunshine," a four-act comedy-drama presented for the Parlor's benefit by the Marion Warde players at the Gamut theater May 17 was well received. The cast included Misses Dorothy Keeler, Sara Cooley, Nell Fletcher, Ruth Tweedy; J. Newton Thompson, Leonard Zellers, William G. Newell, Hugh Griffin. An orchestra, directed by Mrs. Speck, furnished appropriate music, and Miss Fern Melrose appeared in clever darkey characterizations. Miss Marion Warde directed the performance, and Walter Gilman was the business agent.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Walter A. Larson (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) died May 18, survived by a widow and two children. He was a native of this city, aged 31.

Arthur Henry Jones (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) died May 10, survived by a widow and two children. He was a native of Niles, aged 45.

Charles H. Bodie, brother of Edward Bodie (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) died at Santa Barbara May 2 at the age of 57.

Domingo Henry Recarte (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) died suddenly May 22. The remains were sent for interment to San Francisco, where deceased was born December 27, 1857, and had resided to the time of the 1906 disaster.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. J. Ford (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) was in the East all last month on legal business.

Roland Murphy (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) returned last month from a trip to Tennessee.

J. L. Grimaud (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) leaves this month for an extended Eastern tour.

Gene Murphy (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) was among last month's Eastern visitors, on a business trip.

Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) was in Arizona last month on legal business.

John T. Newell (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.), wife, daughter and mother were visitors to Yosemite last month.

A. B. Conrad and Walter Mallard (both Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) are candidates for the City Council at the June 7 election.

Arthur A. Schmidt (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) and wife have gone by auto to Seattle, where they will take the steamer for Alaska on a vacation outing.

Sheriff William I. Traeger, Charles R. Thomas, Sydney G. Neighbours and Walter Baskerville (all Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) were among last month's visitors to San Francisco.

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

Why the Burnham
is Best

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

TUESDAY, JULY 4, 1871, THE NINETEENTH anniversary of America's independence was celebrated in the usual patriotic manner throughout California. In San Francisco, on the sand lots at the west end of Market street, there was an immense display of fireworks at night which was viewed by more than 50,000 people. In their quarters, the Chinese residents discharged firecrackers incessantly for several hours, creating more noise than during Chinese new year. In Sacramento, the hackmen loaded their vehicles with hundreds of small children and paraded the streets for several hours. From Mount St. Helena, 5,000 feet high, Sam Brannan arranged for the firing of a battery of rockets; the display was viewed for miles.

At Folsom, Sacramento County, the premature discharge of a cannon destroyed the eye of Harry Gibson and sent "Old Billy," a colored handy man, and Milton Rose to the county hospital badly disfigured. From the side of "Old Billy's" body a piece of ramrod nine inches long was extracted. Henry Hildebrand, in San Francisco, discharged a pistol believing it had only a powder cartridge; the bullet struck a girl named Alice Benson in the breast, causing a dangerous wound. A number of minor accidents occurred, but the great disaster of the day was the partial burning of Yreka, Siskiyou County. The afternoon of the Fourth a fire broke out in a Chinese wash-house that rapidly spread and caused the destruction of over half of the prosperous mining town, with a loss of over $300,000.

The political campaign opened July 21, Governor Haight and Jo Hamilton, for the Democratic party, Newton Booth and J. G. Eastman, for the Republican party, making horse-drawn-vehicle tours of the state, the speaking being done at the county seat of each county.

July 2 the Catholics of San Francisco celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the pontificate of Pope Pius IX. A big parade, that took nearly three hours to pass from California into Montgomery street, was composed of nearly 12,000 people, 400 carriages and a large number of floats representing the nineteen centuries and names of the popes living in each. The floats bore little girls dressed in white with garlands upon their heads. The little misses represented thirty-one different nationalities living in San Francisco. On one float was a Digger Indian, a Negro, a Chinaman, and a White man, representing the brotherhood of man in the Catholic Church. A salute was fired, and literary exercises were held in the Mechanics pavilion. Archbishop Alemany and Vicar-general James Croke headed the procession, while James R. Kelly was the grand marshal.

The mining stock excitement developed this month into what was termed a broker's market. The public became onlookers, while the "bears" and "bulls" dominated prices. Crown Point was $295 and Belcher $205 a share July 1. July 7 Crown Point declared a $10 dividend, which sent its price up to $330; Belcher advanced to $240. July 18 a report of striking an ore body in Hale & Norcross caused that stock to jump from $82 to $170 a share. An official denial July 21 caused the price to drop like a plummet down to $86. A large number of speculators had their wings singed in the violent movements up and down, and some had to retire until their financial feathers grew. Fluctuations of a few dollars a share daily continued, and at the end of the month Crown Point was $295 and Belcher $205 a share.

The Pioneer Association and library gift concert was pulled off in the Metropolitan theater, Sacramento, July 21. At 9 a. m. the theater was thronged with impatient ticket holders as James McClatchy, president of the Pioneers, addressed the crowd, telling them why, wherefore and how the drawing would be conducted. Four little children from the Protestant Orphan Asylum drew the numbers from the wheels, and thirty prominent pioneer citizens of Sacramento sat upon the stage to see that a square deal was given. Ticket 55,687 won the capital prize of $15,000; it was first sold to L. Weil of Grass Valley, who sold it to G. N. Brown, a miner of You Bet, Nevada County, who cashed it. The second prize, $10,000, was won by Mrs. McDermott, Sacramento; she was a washerwoman, and was delivering washing to a patron when the lucky blow struck her. There were 4,300 tickets unsold and the association took them. One of these won the third prize, $5,000. Other prizes won by these tickets amounted to $2,500, so it was about even on the transaction. All the other schemes advertised for other July dates, on account of nonsale of tickets, were postponed into the future.

Miners' Strike Ends in Killing.

An ominous feature, foreboding future financial complications, was the insistence of newspaper men that advertisements be paid for in advance. This caused a few of the schemes to disappear from the advertising columns of the daily press. Notwithstanding the slump in the sale of lottery tickets, other new schemes were announced this month.

There were now ten gift concert schemes being promoted in the state and several from abroad, to separate the public from its money. Many people felt they were now minus coin and plus paper of doubtful value in their pockets. The Democratic governor was being vigorously blamed by the Republican partisans for bringing the evil upon the state by signing the bill for the mercantile library lottery.

The First Regiment of the N.G.C. remained in watchful waiting at Sutter Creek, Amador County, until July 16, when an agreement between the mine owners and the Miners' Union appeared to settle the strike and they were marched home. July 21 some of the turbulent members of the union notified the miners in the Keystone mine, at Amador City, who had worked during the strike, that they must quit or the mine would be forced to close.

The 23d, due to this agitation, John W. Bennett, an employee of the mine owners, had Hughey McMenomy and Wm. Deneen, leaders of the Miners' Union, arrested for assault with deadly weapons, and they were taken by officers to Jackson. They were let out on bail and the afternoon of the 24th Bennett and McMenomy met on Main street, Sutter Creek, in front of the Amador mine office; both drew revolvers, and began firing. E. W. Hatch, a young man, secretary of the Amador mine, standing in the doorway of the office, was mortally wounded by one of the fighters; which one, was never determined. McMenomy was also mortally wounded, while Bennett was uninjured. Bennett was afterward taken to San Francisco, to prevent direct action threatened by members of the union. McMenomy, by the Miners' Union, and Hatch, by the Odd Fellows, were both buried the 28th without any disturbance from either side. The deplorable result seemed to make sane all parties to the controversy and the strike soon became a past event.

Major J. F. Bronson, secretary of the Board of Harbor Commissioners in San Francisco, who was in command of a company of the militia, contracted a fever at Sutter Creek which caused his death July 27. He was given a large military funeral the 30th.

All the savings banks in the state declared semi-annual dividends of 1% a month, except the Capital Savings Bank of Sacramento, which cut to 10% per annum.

M. Ralston of San Francisco received from New Zealand sixty-two plants of wanunu, a species of flax, which he sent to different parts of the state to be experimented with.

John Briggs' big orchard, two miles from Yuba City, Sutter County, was described as having 426 acres; 120 acres were planted in castor oil beans and oil was made on the place. There were 600 peach, 2,200 apricot, 3,000 cherry, 2,500 plum, and 500 apple trees in bearing. In a nursery were 25,000 peach, 16,000 plum, 31,000 walnut, 2,000 apple, and 500 chestnut trees, all of which were to be sold or set out next season.

Vicente Peralta, one of the four sons of Louis Peralta who, in 1822, received a grant from the Mexican government to the San Antonio Rancho in Alameda County, died in Temescal July 1. The rancho was divided by the father among the sons. Vicente received as his portion what is now the site of the City of Oakland. He sold all but a few hundred acres at Temescal for a few thousand dollars, but this holding made him a wealthy man. He was 59 years of age.

Another of Colonel Von Schmidt's water schemes was incorporated. It was called the Alta Water Company, and proposed to bring water from the upper forks of the American River and supply mines and the Sacramento Valley. The Colonel also proposed to the Central Pacific to jointly build a tunnel seven miles long under the summit of the Sierras, to accommodate trains and his Lake Tahoe water-pipe line.

A whale ninety feet long was washed ashore July 26 on the beach about a mile below the Cliff House, San Francisco. Its black bulk could be seen from a long distance, and in a few days it could be smelled still further.

Fires Many; Highwaymen Active.

The Weske hydraulic mine at Michigan Bluff, Placer County, yielded $23,000 this month.

Three Swede miners near Ophir, Placer County, discovered a quartz vein that yielded $7,000 in a few days. The rock was paying at the rate of $5 a pound.

The Buena Vista Vinicultural Company of Sonoma County shipped 20,000 gallons of white wine to a firm in New York, which caused enthusiastic predictions to be made of California's greatness and prosperity as a wine-making state.

An earthquake shock in Inyo County July 5 was felt in Visalia at 1 p. m. It caused a large number of wells in Inyo County to become dry.

The De Young brothers, Charles and Michael, publishers of the San Francisco "Chronicle," then a dramatic sheet, were having a troublesome time this month. The grand jury indicted them for libel on R. H. Sinton, and both were in custody part of the time. July 3 Charles was caged by Judge McKinstry, on account of an article which angered the latter.

The Great New York circus arrived by rail from the East and began a tour of the state at Sacramento July 21. It had fifty performers and seventy-five horses. J. A. Rowe was the manager.

Madame Agatha States returned after an absence of six years with an Italian opera troupe and opened in San Francisco July 22. She was a popular singer with Californians.

Joe Murphy, the minstrel, returned with Charley Backus, famed as a minstrel in the '50s, and in a play called "Help," written to display his specialties, was playing to crowded houses. He was claimed to be the best rattler of bones in minstrelsy.

Mrs. Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Cady Stanton, prominent national lecturers and advocates of woman's rights, were here visiting Yosemite and lecturing on "Free Love" and other kindred subjects. Visiting in jail and championing Mrs. Laura D. Fair, "queered" them with a great many women who espoused woman's suffrage. As a result of their agitation Emily Pitt Stevens, a California lecturer on woman's rights, made application to the county clerk of San Francisco to be registered as a voter and, being refused, threatened to bring suit. Her example was followed by suffragists in San Joaquin and other counties.

The Irish exiles, Dr. Luby and General Burke, were organizing clubs of Irishmen in different cities to make Ireland free.

The stage from Cloverdale, Sonoma County, was stopped by two men July 12 who disappeared with the express box containing $400. They were captured a few days later.

Lewis Boyle, July 15 near Knights Ferry, Stanislaus County, was stopped by three highwaymen who robbed him of $242 and a gold watch.

J. M. Starr, deputy county assessor of Nevada County, met two highwaymen July 29 on Poorman Creek, and they relieved him of $50.

A fire in Marysville July 14 destroyed the Cosmopolitan hotel and other property, causing a $25,000 loss. This was followed by another fire the 17th which burned Swain's planing mill on D street, several stores and other factories, causing $100,000 loss.

July 18, for the third time this year, the town of Truckee, Nevada County, was burned. Over forty buildings, most of them in the rebuilt section of the March fire, were destroyed with a $90,000 loss.

July 22 a fire on Mission street, near First, San Francisco, destroyed ten manufacturing plants, in-

THIRTY-FIFTH GRAND PARLOR, N. D. G. W. TERMINATED MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR IN ORDER'S HISTORY

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE THIRTY-FIFTH GRAND PARLOR, Native Daughters of the Golden West, in session in the auditorium of Native Sons' Building, San Francisco, June 14, 15, 16 and 17, terminated the most successful year in the history of the Order. Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister presided throughout the session. Careful attention was given all projects of the Order, noted for its unselfish endeavors, as well as to many public questions, and action was taken only after full and harmonious discussion of the subjects under consideration. The future, for the Order, is most encouraging; it is well on the way to achieving its rightful place in the world of women's fraternal organizations—its real "place in the sun."

The Grizzly Bear presents a full and authentic, but necessarily summarized, account of the Grand Parlor proceedings:

GRAND PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

"To the officers and members of the Grand Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West—Sisters:

"Another page within the book of time
By the Recording Angel has been turned,
On it the story of a year is told.

"To this proud and wondrous city [San Francisco] that sitteth by the Golden Gate, we have come from all sections of our glorious state, from mountain and lakeside, valley and plain; from populous cities and from tiny hamlets, to meet in the Thirty-Fifth Annual Session of our Grand Parlor. To this meeting of happiness and pleasure, of earnest thought and unity of purpose, it is a great and glad privilege to bid you thrice welcome.

"We gladly grasp the hands of those with whom we have often mingled in yearly deliberations of the past, as well as of those who are here for the first time, heartily assuring each of a deep personal pleasure in her presence. A cordial greeting is extended to all, trusting that you may return to the Parlors you represent with increased zeal for the Order and with much useful information regarding its laws and teachings, gleaned from this session.

"To the absent, loving thoughts go out with genuine regret that circumstances forbid their presence here. Others are absent to return in more-rejoiced from active service to their fellowmen but living in our hearts."

"Laying aside the vocations of our daily lives, we have come to review the work of the past year and to give serious and thoughtful consideration to important questions that will come before us for solution. It behooves us to perform our duties faithfully and well, for our Subordinate Parlors look to this governing body for counsel, wisdom and example. May every delegate be guided in the expression of her sentiments, the intelligent vote may be taken in the endeavor to develop still higher standards. Let us not forget for one moment that our success rests upon the individual members of this Grand Body, and may each breathe a devout prayer that our session may be fraught with the spirit of 'sunshine, sweetness and song.'

"With joy and satisfaction, the Grand President brings the glad tidings that fraternal love has prevailed; that the tree of good fellowship is deep-rooted and of vigorous growth, manifesting itself in a phenomenal increase in membership. The loyalty and interest displayed is most encouraging, and the outlook is for continued growth and increased usefulness, for ours is the day and age of fraternalism based upon the Golden Rule. There has been an awakening to the fact that in unity is our strength and that by holding out helping hands to our fellows, we live broader, longer and sweeter lives."

"We are placed in this world to do with our might what our hands find to do. If the object is not worthy the effort, leave it undone; but try not to neglect the little opportunities to do good that are found all along life's pathway. Great opportunities come to but few, and the one who faithfully and cheerfully performs all duties as they come from day to day is preparing for greater things in the future. Let us take a farewell backward look through the sunshine and the shadows to see whether we have truly exemplified in our daily lives the noble and elevating principles for which our Order stands."

"For the efforts of the past year, whatever of failure may be charged, the Grand President assumes the burden and responsibility, assuring you that the mistakes have been errors of judgment following the kindest dictates of the heart; whatever of success may be conceded, is the result of the united efforts of our entire membership throughout the length and breadth of this fair state of ours. Retrospection always brings a two-fold thought—satisfaction for the successes and regret for the failures. In bringing her sheaves for your inspection, the Grand President fully realizes that, at best, we are but gleaners in the field of opportunity, and she is well aware that her gleanings have not measured up to the hopes she has cherished. Unending is the work the soul presses forward to do, achievement remains ever short of desire."

"In relinquishing the pleasures and responsibilities of this exalted office to another, she does so with a heart filled with loving gratitude for the privilege of having served such dear and loyal friends; with the assurance that she has ever given her best efforts to the tasks of the year, in the hope that unto eternity she may be considered the true friend of each and every member of our Order; and with the prayer that when Time gently extinguishes her candle and she returns to the darkness whence she came, it may be said of her, 'You have served your purpose well.'"

"When to the sessions of sweet, silent thought
I summon up remembrances of things past,
I sigh the lack of many things I sought,
But if the while, I think on thee, dear friends,
All losses are restored and sorrows end."

Referring to her official visit to every Subordinate Parlor, accounts of which have appeared throughout the year in The Grizzly Bear, Grand President Briggs said: "With a heart filled with gratitude to the members who so generously gave this opportunity, the Grand President set forth upon the performance of her duty with high hopes and pleasurable anticipations, yet with a keen appreciation of her own limitations in this great responsibility entrusted to her care. With the thought of helpfulness and encouragement rather than criticism, she has endeavored, in the interests of uniformity, to make corrections in the work of the Parlors where found necessary, to offer suggestions where needed, and to render praise where due. This has been done in the endeavor to impress upon the members the necessity and importance of perfect ritualistic work, and, at the same time, there has been an earnest endeavor to keep before their minds the benefits of living up to our obligation and to our beautiful and inspiring teachings."

"In the discharge of official duties, the Grand President has traveled more than fourteen thousand miles, passing through all but seven of the counties of the state, and journeying from within a few miles of the Oregon line almost to the Mexican border, from the shores of the blue Pacific on the west, to Fernley, in our neighboring State of Nevada, on the east. . . . Everywhere and always she has been met with that same big hearted, generous hospitality, that true spirit of the West, a characteristic inherited from our Pioneer Fathers and Mothers and which it is our aim to foster and keep alive as the days go by."

"Our Order has kept pace with the times and is numerically, financially and fraternally stronger. Upon the occasion of official visits, our golden chain of membership has been lengthened and strengthened by the addition of three hundred eighty-eight links, and the number of initiates for the entire year has reached a total of 1,636. In a large majority of the Parlors, peace, harmony, prosperity and an increase in membership are characteristic conditions, but, in a few, the membership has either decreased or been at a standstill because of industrial conditions and the consequent decrease in population."

"The year has been a happy one, crowded with earnest work, brightened by pleasant experiences and happy memories. Every moment of the time devoted to the fulfillment of official duties has been as a fragrant flower in the garden of memory. What a great privilege it has been to form so many lasting friendships throughout the state; to become stronger and better and richer because of meeting and knowing these true-hearted members of our Order!

"For me the months have hung, twelve jewels bright
Upon the golden chain
Which binds the swift year in its flight
Adown Time's misty lane."

Continuing her report, the Grand President said, in part:

"Projects—Upon the occasion of every official visit, attention has been directed to the progress and the needs of the big undertakings of our Order, with the earnest plea that every Parlor should rally to their support."

"Our Mills College Scholarship has almost reached the greatly-desired goal of completion, and the pro rata of only a very few Parlors now remains unpaid. . . . A strenuous effort has been made to complete this splendid project and, to that end, your Grand President sent personal letters to delinquent Parlors, meeting with a gratifying response. Sincere appreciation is extended to those Parlors making the sacrifice to place themselves upon the honor roll."

"Our Native Daughter Home has received hearty support and, by successful management, is accomplishing its mission in rendering aid to needy sisters and in furnishing an abiding place to visiting members residing temporarily in San Francisco. It has proved to be a veritable haven of rest and a home in every sense of the word."

"There has been an increasing activity in the work for the homeless children, that great unselfish labor that has brought greater merited recognition than any other of our undertakings. People of the outside world have given wonderful support for in it they recognize an effort to start aright the future citizens of California. More public benefits have been given and larger donations made by individual Parlors than ever before. To the exceptionally capable and gracious secretary, Mary E. Brusie, the Order owes a deep debt of gratitude for her great worth, her charming personality and her consecrated efforts in behalf of this great cause. 'Thou doest well, true and faithful worker; thy reward shall follow thee.'

"County Organization—With the thought and purpose in mind of sustaining a stronger bond of fraternalism, increasing our membership, and of giving greater publicity to our work, county organization has been perfected in many sections. . . . When the vast amount of good resulting from these gatherings shall become more apparent, many other counties and districts will fall into line, and we shall be recognized as a closely united people ready for concerted action in the fulfillment of all our undertakings."

"Publicity—Sustained interest is essential to growth, and one method which keeps us in close touch with our fellows is that of publicity. In our Grizzly Bear Magazine we have an organ that is entitled to our increased and generous support. The editor, Clarence M. Hunt, is deserving of consideration in his efforts to make this publication a helpful and interesting medium of information. If not now a subscriber, it is possible for you to become one; if you are not one already, become a contributor and let our Fraternity participate in that which interests you."

"Responding to the oft-repeated admonition to seek publicity of the right sort through the columns of the local press, the majority of Parlors have active and energetic press committees who are endeavoring to promote their standing in their communities by the publication of timely accounts of social functions and of all benefits for fraternal advancement and civic improvements. The work of these committees is bringing to the outside world a realization of our great worth as a power for the betterment of mankind. . . ."

"In Memoriam—Today we open a book—sacred and dear—a book called 'Memory.' Reverently we turn the leaves and, with tearful eyes and trembling lips, we read the long silent roll, the record of a vanished year. During the summer and the autumn, the winter and the spring of the past twelve months sixty-four members of our Order have passed on to the Land of Eternal Rest."

"They are passing away, these dear friends,
Like a leaf on the current cast;
With never a break in the rapid flow,
We watch them as one by one they go
Into the beautiful past."

Fondly we linger over the page of 'Memory' freshly inscribed with the name of Past Grand President Julia A. Steinbach, who left us but a few short weeks ago. She passed over the brow of the hill without faltering and without fear, and like a shadow faded softly at close of day. Whatever stations in life our departed Sisters may have filled, they have left their trace on some page in the book of 'Memory.' But we have not lost our dear ones forever—only for a time. Let us be comforted, for He has gathered them lovingly in His arms."

"I cannot say, and I will not say,
That they are dead. They are just away!
With a cheery salute and a wave of the hand
They have wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since they linger there."

"Thanks—are tendered from a grateful heart: To the Supreme Grand President of the Universe Who, in His infinite wisdom and goodness, gave health, strength and inspiration to fulfill the duties of the year."

"To our gracious and efficient Grand Secretary, Alice H. Dougherty, careful pilot of our Order, who ceaselessly watches to warn against the currents and rocks that beset our path and, by steady, gentle guidance, steers our ship around or through them; that dear friend who is always ready to lighten the burdens of her associates by helpful deeds and words of encouragement. To our capable and charming Assistant Grand Secretary, Kathryn Schoensted, for thoughtful and solicitous attention to the needs and comforts of the Grand President. To our gracious Grand Vice-President [Dr. Victor A. Derrick] who has extended innumerable courtesies, with whom the happiest of relations have been enjoyed throughout the year, and who has been ready and willing, when called upon, to perform valuable services for the good of the Order. To all other Grand Officers for their unfailing cordiality, assistance and co-operation at all times. To our Past Grand President, who sold his heart to our Order, for wise counsel and wholesome advice; for their untiring efforts which have brought our Order to its present high standard of efficiency and success. Especially to Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher and her good husband, who made their home the home of the Grand President upon the occasion of visits to Alameda County Parlors."

"To the District Deputy Grand Presidents for cordial and zealous support; for earnest and persevering work that has been productive of untold good to the individual Parlors. To the various committees, whose labors have been of the highest type and faithfully executed. To The Grizzly Bear Magazine, that beacon light of love and cheer, whose columns have brought information of great import into the homes of countless numbers of our membership; through whose pages our Parlors have been able to exchange fraternal greetings and to keep in touch with one another. To the members of the Grand Parlor who gave this greatest privilege and honor that may come to a member of the Order, and who deemed the recipient worthy of the trust. To members of all Subordinate Parlors for smiling welcomes and cordial greetings; for elaborate banquets and royal receptions; for beautiful flowers and exquisite gifts; for lavishly-decorated meetings and ritual work well done; for the courteous hospitality of their homes, and for journeys made pleasant in private motor cars."

"To the members of Copa de Oro, the dear home Parlor, whose loving consideration at all times, whose staunch loyalty and kind and helpful deeds and words have been of untold assistance, and whose sweet messages of cheer and friendship have brightened many a long journey. To the loving and patient sister (Mrs. W. W. Black) and her kind and indulgent husband who made the year possible for whom no sacrifice was too great to insure the welfare of their own at the Head of the Order; and whose thoughts were ever with her as she journeyed. 'Who, having a grateful memory, can forget these things!'"

"Conclusion—Thus ends the year's work, begun with high hopes, fraught with many pleasures, and ended with less accomplished than hoped for. (Llumbly for the report of the official acts submitted to the Grand Parlor to be judged. As the poet can never impart all his dreams or the artist depict with pencil; brush or color all he sees, so, in the time allotted to her, the Grand President has been able to lay before you but little of the harvest of the year. While the work is far from perfect, there has been an earnest and conscientious effort to fulfill pledges assumed to become familiar with existing conditions; to bring the members into closer touch with one another; and, above all, to instill into the hearts of each a realization

FLAG PRAYER

Delivered during the Flag Day exercises of the Grand Parlor by Past Grand President Mary E. Bell:

"Exalted Ruler of Destinies, we thank Thee for the Divine Gift of Liberty. We thank Thee for this great country of human dignity. God grant that we may never lose the light and sunshine of that great emblem, The Star Spangled Banner."

"O, God of Nations! We this day thank Thee for the innumerable blessings bestowed upon us—for life, for liberty, for this noble Flag of our Nation and for the lesson of this anniversary. May it increase within our hearts love of country, unwavering faith in the Republic of America, love of home, and love of righteousness; may the influence of our Flag advance the cause of justice in every land, inspire universal peace and brotherhood to the honor and glory of Thy name."

"Guide, O Heavenly Father, our noble Ship of State over billows and through storms undaunted and imperishable. Keep aloft our peerless Flag, for within is enthroned the fair Goddess of Liberty in whose keeping are the dreams and hopes of humanity."

"God grant that we may keep our Flag flying where, like an uttered benediction, it will float over us. Grant that it shall be a voice to speak of the unity and purpose of our Nation; a voice—a tender voice—Thy voice, entreating us to prize this Flag and every day asking us 'to carry on' and to pledge allegiance for a better world, a new brotherhood of man. Grant us, O Heavenly Father, strength and zeal to inspire true patriotism and to guard well ourselves, that our Flag will be ever free from blemish and will breathe her fragrance of love and liberty upon this Order and upon Thy children. All honor to that Flag of ours! God bless the Standard of our land—The Red, the White, the Blue."

that perfect ritualistic work is but the stepping stone to the noble influence that our beautiful lessons may have upon our lives and the lives of those about us.

"In relinquishing the gavel of authority to her successor, the Grand President does so, happy in the assurance that, with her innate nobility of character and strength of purpose, she will nobly advance our cause and that hers will be the joy of accomplishing much that is worthy. May God's choicest blessings rest upon her, and may she enjoy health, happiness and the very best that life can give throughout this year and all the years that are to come."

"And if any sheaves I have brought at last,
Now that the harvest work is done,
And the burden here at your feet is cast,
I will thank these trusting ones.
And I will say with proud, yet humble head,
Not mine should the harvest be,
For my best was nourished, tended and fed
By those who believe in me."

OTHER GRAND OFFICERS' REPORTS.

Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty gave a detailed account of the numerous transactions of her office. Referring to the membership, she said: "During the past three years there has been a very substantial gain in membership each year, but the record of the year just past has surpassed that of all former years. Over 1,600 applications, including the charter members of the two new Parlors, were entered on the Grand Parlor records."

Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ submitted a report showing the condition of the several funds, as follows: General—Receipts $10,946.58, disbursements $9,138.75, balance $4,225.14. Death Benefit—Receipts $5,330.05, disbursements $4,575, balance $2,726.35. Mills College Scholarship—Receipts $1,549.08, disbursements (including $4,000 for revenue-producing surities) $4,024.57, cash balance $1,488.69. Native Daughter Home—Receipts $7,171.62, disbursements $2,000, balance $6,094.47.

LEGISLATION ENACTED.

Requiring every Subordinate Parlor to file a correct semi-annual report in the Grand Secretary's office not later than the 31st of July and January of each year; failure to do so automatically imposes a $5 fine on the Parlor.

Candidates for membership failing to pass the required physical examination may affiliate with a Subordinate Parlor by signing a benefit waiver.

Allowing each Subordinate Parlor one Grand Parlor delegate at large and an additional delegate for every seventy-five members. [This will have the effect, it is believed, of materially increasing the Order's membership.]

The Registration Blank now in use was ordered eliminated, and the necessary data contained thereon will be added to that of the Beneficiary Blank.

The special committee designated "Education (Americanization—Mills College Scholarship)" was eliminated, and in its stead three new special committees created: "Education," "Americanization" and "Mills College Scholarship."

ACTION TAKEN.

San Rafael, Marin County, was named as the meeting-place for the Thirty-sixth (1922) Grand Parlor.

"Out in California," a "boost" song composed by Alfred Dalton (Sutter Fort 241, N.S.G.W.) was given official endorsement.

The per-capita, payable in June and December, was fixed at $1. The approved budget and other expenditures authorized total $10,200.

Salaries of officers were increased as follows: Grand Secretary, $135 to $150 per month; Assistant Grand Secretary, $60 to $75 per month; Grand Treasurer, $25 to $40 per month.

Each Subordinate Parlor will be asked to contribute $1 with which to purchase cases for relics at the Marshall Memorial Museum, Kelsey, El Dorado County.

It was ordered that the new Constitutions for the Grand Parlor and the Subordinate Parlors, adopted at the 1918 Grand Parlor, be printed at once; also the Manual of Instruction, adopted at the 1920 Grand Parlor.

The Grand Secretary was authorized to purchase for Past Grand President Anna L. Monroe a new regalia, her original one having been lost.

Legislation of a former Grand Parlor pertaining to the taking over of the Native Daughters' Home, San Francisco, by the Grand Parlor, was interpreted to mean that the Home moneys from Subordinate Parlors shall be turned over to the Grand Parlor Home Committee in their entirety.

The Grand President's action in donating $50 from her special fund to the Pueblo, Colorado, flood-sufferers, and $50 to the restoration fund for San Juan Bautista Mission, in San Benito County, was approved.

Granting of charters to Camp Far West 218 (Wheatland) and Plumas Pioneer 219 (Quincy) was approved, as was also the consolidation of La Esperanza 24 (Los Angeles) with Long Beach 154 (Long Beach), and of La Palma 131 (San Francisco) with Keith 137 (San Francisco).

The Grizzly Bear Magazine was re-endorsed as the official organ of the Order, and a sum appro-

"SEED OF THE SUN"

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

"SEED OF THE SUN" IS THE TITLE OF a book from the press of George H. Doran Company, New York, for which the author, Wallace Irwin, is deserving of the thanks of those people of California who are determined to keep this state White—and they are a vast majority.

Facts dealing with the Japs' determination to win California for their own are interestingly woven into a romance, the result being a pleasing story. Many of the scenes are laid in Sacramento County, and the contents of the book bear evidence that the author had thoroughly informed himself on the Jap situation.

Here is an extract from "Seed of the Sun;" it was translated from a Jap paper, for which it was written by one of the numerous Jap government officials who infest this country, and particularly this state:

"Be of stout heart, my people, for ye are sprung from the land of the gods. Even though you go forth into the outlands to toil among mocking tribes, yet heaven is with you because the divine Emperor is with you.

"They cannot check our peaceful progress in this land, or in any other where our divine Emperor has sent us to toil in his name. If they build laws to wall themselves about and exclude us we will tear down those laws or dig under them. In America we are already inside, and we shall remain for the glory of the Emperor.

"Small as we are in numbers here, let us see to it that our race shall increase. Seed of Yamato, germinate anew! Beget, heget, heget! While the Emperor permitted it, it was well that you brought wives from the homeland—young wives, and fertile. And now it is more important still that we marry into this American stock. Prove your race equality in the blood of your children. Choose white women if you can. Where this is not practicable, marry Negroes, Indians, Hawaiians.

"Do not fear that our race shall be lost in such a mingling of blood. The blood of Japan is immortal, because it is descended from the sun goddess, Amaterasu. Plant it where you will. Yamato's seed shall never die. Even unto the tenth generation Japanese with blond skins and blue eyes will still be Japanese, quick with the one God-given virtue—loyalty to empire and the Emperor."

priated, to be paid monthly, for the publication of the Official Directory therein and for the sending of one copy of the magazine to each Subordinate Parlor.

New regalias were decided upon, for use in Subordinate Parlors, to be procured as needed. The collar style was approved, in place of the sash now in use.

The movement to aid the starving Indians of California was endorsed, and letters to the Governor and Secretary of the Interior were ordered sent, urging relief.

Membership in the Travelers' Aid was continued, and $25 appropriated for annual dues therein.

A letter was ordered sent the Governor, urging that ample attention be given the University of California Medical College, and that it be enlarged. [It was reported that many Japs and other foreigners are being accommodated, to the exclusion of California citizens.]

July 4 was declared "New Citizenship Day;" patriotic programs are to be held for all newly-naturalized citizens, thus inculcating the national spirit of friendship.

Letters were ordered sent Governor Stephens, and Senator Nelson and Assemblyman Cummings of Humboldt County, for services rendered in behalf of the redwoods.

A permanent fund for the emergency relief of disabled American veterans of the world war was established with a subscription of $25 from the Grand President's special fund.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Reiterating the Order's opposition to the Japs' "peaceful invasion" of California, by endorsing the declaration of purposes in the campaign against the yellow pests as set forth in a joint resolution adopted by the Legislature.

Pledging co-operation in the movement that has for its object the preservation and planting of native growths along the highways of the state.

Pledging undivided support to the law keeping inviolate from private exploitation national parks and monuments; favoring the acquirement of necessary added areas of the Sequoia National Park and the Northern Redwood tracts, and favoring the study of forestry and kindred subjects in the public schools.

Asking all citizens to refrain from destroying the

ROOT UP THE SEED

Those Americans who, after considering the White side of the California Jap question, can continue to honestly believe that the "poor little yellow men and women" are here, and coming in large numbers right along, for any good except that of their worshiped emperor, are sadly deficient in thinking ability. Every Jap in this state is here for a purpose; each has a part to play in the Jap government's "peaceful invasion" scheme; each was sent here by that government, and every dollar invested in land and other property is Jap government money.

By becoming derelicts in the fulfillment of their official duties, if nothing worse, public servants—the Attorney-general for one—have aided the Japs. They have, for close to fourteen years, permitted both aboveboard and underhanded violations of the 1917 Land Law by the hundreds, thus permitting the Yamato race to push forward unmolested. It is time that The People rid themselves of these derelicts, else California will soon be governed from Tokio.

And it is time, too, that The People take unto themselves the solving of the Jap question by united, direct action. Texas has the proper system; she does not permit the Japs to light. But they have already alighted here, and dug in, in large numbers; and they are here to stay and to spread, unless the law is invoked to uproot them and force them back whence they came—to their worshiped emperor.

The "East and West News," a Jap propaganda bulletin, February 9 said: "The California question can only be solved by, or in co-operation with, the Californians, and right at the spot, not elsewhere." Which bears out The Grizzly Bear's repeated contention, that the Jap question cannot be solved satisfactory to California by dilly-dallying around waiting for the Federal Administration to act or to create favorable Eastern sentiment. "Peaceful waiting" but aids "peaceful invasion." Every day California delays in rigidly enforcing the laws directed against the Japs adds strength to their position and also to their contention that the laws are not enforced because they are unjust and illegal.

Legal action should at once be taken to wrest every foot of land, both agricultural and otherwise, from every Jap directly or indirectly in possession. That will prove to the world—the peoples of our Eastern states, the Federal Administration, and the Japs, white or yellow, included—that we firmly believe in the justness and the legality of our position, and it will bring about a speedy and, we believe, satisfactory settlement of this vital question—and it is the only course that will.

plants bearing the California state flower, eschscholtzia (golden poppy), and requesting all loyal Californians to plant and nurture it.

Expressing opposition to the proposed changing of the old Spanish names of many of the state's towns and cities. [San Jose was particularly mentioned.]

Thanking all who had contributed to the comfort and pleasure of the Grand Parlor members; also the San Francisco daily papers, for liberal publicity.

Expressing regret at the sudden recent passing of Past Grand President Julia A. Steinbach (Alta 3) of San Francisco. Adjournment the first day was taken out of respect to her memory.

NEW OFFICIALS.

Officers were elected Thursday. Two hundred and ninety-six ballots were cast, and the following were chosen to serve throughout the new Grand Parlor year:

Grand President—Dr. Victory A. Derrick (Aloha 106) of Oakland.

Grand Vice-president—Mattie M. Stein (Ivy 88) of Lodi.

Grand Secretary—Alice H. Dougherty (Angelita 32) of Livermore (re-elected.)

Grand Treasurer—Susie K. Christ (Yosemite 83) of San Francisco (re-elected.)

Grand Marshal—Amy McAvoy (Stirling 146) of Pittsburg.

Grand Inside Sentinel—Harriet M. Eames (Annie K. Bidwell 168) of Chico.

Grand Outside Sentinel—Lucie E. Hammersmith (Darina 114) of San Francisco.

Grand Organist—Rebecca Kemp Van Ee (Alta 3) of San Francisco (re-elected.)

Grand Trustees (in order of vote received)—Hattie E. Roberts (Oneonta 71) of Ferndale; Pearl Lamb (El Pescadero 82) of Tracy; Lily Tilden (Sutter 111) of Sacramento; Catherine E. Glover

HERO'S BODY FROM OVERSEAS

NOW RESTS IN NATIVE SOIL.

Weaverville—Harold Henry Mansfield, killed in the battle of the Argonne July 20, 1918, was buried May 22 under the auspices of Mount Bally Parlor, No. 87, N.S.G.W., of which he was a member. Trinity Post of the American Legion acted as a military escort.

Deceased was the first Trinity County "boy" to make the supreme sacrifice in the world war, and his was the first body to be returned home for final burial. The funeral procession was one of the largest in the history of Weaverville.

SUFFERINGS ENDED.

Palo Alto—After several years of illness, William George and Manuel Alves, members of Palo Alto Parlor, No. 216, N.S.G.W., have passed beyond. Officers of the Parlor officiated at both funerals.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. FORD.

San Francisco—Mrs. Emma Byington-Ford, sister of Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President, N.S.G.W., died June 10. She was a native of Downville, Sierra County, aged 58.

ENTHUSIASTIC NATIVE SON DEAD.

Weaverville—William Ware Young, an enthusiastic and zealous member of Mount Bally Parlor, No. 87, N.S.G.W., died suddenly May 28 at the age of 58. Since 1857 deceased had been affiliated with the Parlor, and for twenty years had served in the capacity of financial secretary; his presence from the Parlor's councils will be sadly missed.

In Memoriam

ETHEL FOLEY.

The Angel of Death has again entered our sacred portals and taken from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Ethel Foley. We tenderly condole with the bereaved family in their hour of trial and affliction, and commend them for consolation to Him Who doeth all things well. Let us not think of her as dead, but as having preceded us to that Golden Shore where she now dwells as one of the Daughters of that Better Land and where she waits to welcome us as we, too, shall pass through that Golden Gate. By her death, a devoted mother and father lost a loving daughter, Dolores Parlor, No. 169, N.D.G.W., a sister whose noble character and kind disposition endeared herself to all, and the Order a loyal Native Daughter of the Golden West.

Then let our sorrows cease to flow.

God has recalled His own.

But let our hearts in every way,

Still say, "Thy will be done."

Resolved, That our charter he draped in mourning, that an engrossed copy of this memorial be sent the family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

ESTANISLADO S. CORDERO.

To the officers and members of Santa Barbara Parlor, No. 116, Native Sons of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret on account of the death of Brother Estanislado S. Cordero, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, God Almighty, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved and respected brother, Estanislado S. Cordero; therefore, he it Resolved, That in the passing of Brother Cordero, Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116, Native Sons of the Golden West, has lost one of its oldest and most respected members and the community a loyal citizen; and he it further resolved, that we, the members of Santa Barbara Parlor, No. 116, N.S.G.W., do hereby extend to the sorrowing family of our departed brother our sincerest sympathy; and be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of our departed brother, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, that it be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine, and that the charter of the Parlor be draped in mourning in tribute to his memory.

W. B. STAFFORD,
S. B. SILVA,

MARTHA KEEN.

The Angel of Death has again entered our sacred portals and taken from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Martha Keen. We tenderly condole with the bereaved family in their hour of trial and affliction, and commend them for consolation to Him Who doeth all things well. Let us not think of her as dead, but as having preceded us to that Golden Shore where she now dwells as one of the Daughters of that Better Land, and where she waits to welcome us as we, too, shall pass through that Golden Gate. ### SITE OF HISTORIC SAN PASQUAL

BATTLE DEFINITELY LOCATED.

"The Battle of San Pasqual" is the title of a most interesting booklet just issued by the California Historical Survey Commission under the direction of Owen C. Coy, Ph.D., secretary and archivist. The booklet is in reality a report which the commission was directed by the Legislature of 1919 to prepare, with special reference to the site of the historic battle, after the State had "accepted as a gift from William G. Henshaw and Ed Fletcher one acre of land said to be the site of the battle of San Pasqual, fought between the forces of General S. W. Kearny and the native Californians (Mexican), December 6 and 7, 1846."

In his conclusion, following an historical account of the battle, Dr. Coy says he is, after due examination of available records and going over the ground, "fully satisfied that the land deeded to the State is the site of the battle of December 6, 1846." He gives the site of the first engagement as the Indian village, San Pasqual, at the upper end of the valley of that name. "The scene of the second battle" was "about two miles from the first, at a place where the valley widens." The third engagement took place upon the peak now known as Battle Mountain. The most desperate of the engagements was the second, fought December 6, 1846, on the open plain, where the Americans camped. It is here that the land deeded to the State is located.

HONEST-TO-GOD WORK WILL SOLVE THE COUNTRY'S PROBLEMS.

In the course of a recent address, D. R. Crissinger, Comptroller of the National Treasury, uttered this timely warning:

"I hope everybody understands that we must have an honest-to-God day's work from every wage-earner if we shall restore economic poise and prosper our industry. Prosperity cannot be based on idleness, nor can national resources be increased by half-hearted work. The need of the hour is work and saving, and then work more and thrice save. And when our people follow these cardinal truths their happiness and contentment will be permanently assured.

"Our economic evolution will be a failure unless The People—yes, all the people—begin now to put their conscience into their business and their work. A conscience left at the altar of the church does no useful service. It must be brought into our daily work and business. This is absolutely necessary to bring about a correct understanding between those who serve and those who are served."

MARIPOSA COUNTY HAS ONE OF STATE'S OLDEST TOWNS.

Coulterville [Mariposa County] is one of the oldest towns of the state, built, as were all of the mountain villages, in the midst of the richest placer diggings. In the latter part of 1849, George W. Coulter, who at that time was running a store on the Merced River near Pleasant Valley, was told of rich placers and a large body of miners on Maxwell Creek, several miles higher up in the mountains. He at once started for the new diggings with a tent and a supply of merchandise. He swung his tent, which was a large round one, to a limb of a tree, fastened a little American Flag to its top, and commenced selling flour at one dollar a pound and wet goods in proportion.

The Mexicans, who were in the majority, gave the place the name of Banderita, in recognition of the little flag flying from the tent top. Afterward, when the place had assumed larger proportions, the name was changed by the miners to Coulterville, in honor of Coulter, the first merchant. The name of the postoffice was also changed from Maxwell Creek to Coulterville.—Mariposa Gazette.

First Fair—Trinity County is to have its first fair, at Hayfork, September 22, 23.

New School—Antioch, Contra Costa County, dedicated a handsome new $100,000 school building, June 16.

"PRESENT OUR FIELD OF OPPORTUNITY" SAYS GRAND PRESIDENT NATIVE DAUGHTERS--APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

R. VICTORY A. DERRICK OF OAKland is now the Grand President of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, having been installed as such just previous to the close of the Thirty-fifth Grand Parlor in San Francisco June 17. After the applause which accompanied her induction into this, the highest office in the gift of the fraternity, had ceased, Dr. Derrick addressed the assembled representatives of the Order as follows, her message being received with eminent satisfaction:

"Worthy grand officers and members of the Grand Parlor: It is with pride that I assume the highest office in this splendid organization of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. Daughters, by birth and by allegiance to California, our own Golden State, so lavishly supplied with Nature's choicest blessings, in perfection of climate, in productiveness of agricultural and mineral wealth, and in beauty and variety of marvelous scenery.

"Our membership is so loyal in the maintenance of the principles of our Order, so earnest in the preservation of California's romantic history and landmarks, so jealous of its institutions and distinctions, that I cannot but feel that to be your Grand President is an honor to be highly appreciated.

"There is no land like our land
Beneath the shining sun;
There is no flag like our flag
In all the world. Not one!"

"But with every position of honor come responsibilities not lightly to be assumed. Realizing this, I accept this office with some misgiving. I will no doubt make mistakes, will err often in judgment, will undoubtedly omit things that should be done, and say or do that which may not be best. I wish, however, to assure you that my intent is to serve this Order to the best of my ability; that my one absorbing aim is to be impartial and true to every member; that whatever mistakes are made, will be of the head and not of the heart. With the utmost sincerity I can say that I begin my duties 'With malice toward none, but with good will toward all.'

"Our Past Grand Presidents have served our Order with credit, and singleness of purpose, so that the past is illustrious, and worthy of imitation; the present has great and unsurpassed opportunities; and to the future we expectantly look with eager eyes, for the fulfillment of a high and glorious destiny. The fate of our Order lies, however, in the acts and deeds, the interest and the enthusiasm, of the individual member. The choice of grand officers is of importance to our fraternity, but the personnel and devotion of its entire membership are of greater import. It is not necessary to be even an officer in a local Parlor to be a power for good among its members. It is not necessary to be great to be happy, nor necessary to be rich to be generous; it is not necessary to have a college education to be broad-minded, but to fulfill our duties honestly and well in the sphere in which we are called to act our part in the battle of life, is fulfilling as great a destiny as to wear the purple of royalty.

"At our altar we assume obligations which should make us better women—shining lights, pointing the way to patriotism, love of country, devotion to the ties of home; in fact, models of worth to our neighbors and our community. Our influence as an Order will be commensurate to the manner in which we exemplify these principles in our daily lives. When a spirit of helpfulness and consideration shall supplant the spirit of criticism, jealousy and self-advantage, many of the troubles which so often confront us will disappear.

"My great desire is that this year may be one of harmony, which means success, and one of growth, for there are countless numbers of splendid women, natives of California who are waiting for us to interest them in the work of our Order. While the past is an inspiration, the present is our field of opportunity, and by our united efforts we shall decide what the future of our Order will be.

"And so, loving California and working for California, our lives will be enriched, our hearts become purer; we will see greater charms in the scenes about us; the sunset tints will have more delicate hues, there will be more loveliness in the stretch of plain, in the orchards which are robed by the touch of spring in snowy whiteness and later laden with autumn's luscious fruits; more beauty in the towering mountains, the gigantic trees, and the fertile valleys; a new brilliancy will be noted in the poppy's gorgeous coloring; our ears will discern a softer sigh in the breath of the wind, tenderer music in the murmur of the stream, more harmony in the rush of the river, and an added grandeur in the dashings of the Pacific. With all our senses quickened and satisfied, we will look from Nature up to Nature's God, till we almost feel the benediction that is wafted from above.

"And in 'the sweet by and by,' when we have finished our work, and perchance been laid to rest in some sunny spot on the bosom of the state we have loved in life, may it be found that the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West shall continue on and on, in full accomplishment of its lofty mission."

At the conclusion of her installation address, Grand President Derrick named her assistants for the new Grand Parlor year, the appointments including:

MEMORY GROVE

(CHANCELLOR K. GRADY.)

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES WERE HELD Sunday, June 5, at the grove of trees planted last year in San Francisco as a living memorial to the thirty nine local Native Sons of the Golden West who gave their lives to their country in the great war. At this time two flagpoles, erected by the Grove of Memory Association, were dedicated with appropriate exercises, and two flags, an American and a State (Bear) Flag were raised for the first time.

Troop 82, Boy Scouts of America, received the flags and flagpoles into their custody, and will act as guardians of the grove. This troop is composed of pupils of the Commodore Sloat school, which faces the grove, and has cared for the trees since they were planted in 1920 by the Joint Arbor Day Committee of San Francisco Native Daughters and Native Sons.

James A. Wilson, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W., acted as chairman of the day, and made the dedication address. Clara K. Wittenmeyer, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., delivered the invocation, following which the Boy Scouts raised the two flags and recited the "Scout Oath." Bertha Mauser of Keith Parlor, No. 137, N.D.G.W., then read the roll of the hero dead, after which the flags were lowered to half-mast.

Charles L. McEnerney, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W. and president of the Grove of Memory Association, delivered the oration of the day. He declared the grove to be a living memorial to the fidelity of those Native Sons who died in war to the Native Son oath, "I will ever be ready to serve my country whether in peace or in war." They made the ultimate sacrifice, he said, and "we who gather at such times to do honor to their memory rededicate ourselves to the fulfillment of that oath in peace, as they did in war."

The speaker gave out the news that the Grove of Memory Association has undertaken to create a monument unsurpassed for beauty in the world, to perpetuate the memory of these heroic Native Sons. It is planned to mark each of the trees with boulders of water-borne granite, to erect a bronze fence about the grove, and finally to place a statue at the upper end of the grove, which shall stand for all time as a testimonial to the loyalty and patriotism of Native Sons. The estimated cost of the project is $40,000, and the time to complete is about five years. The ablest sculptors in America and Europe will be invited to submit designs for the statue, so that the very best obtainable may be adopted.

The Grove of Memory Association, under whose auspices the exercises were held, is composed of delegates from all the San Francisco Parlor of the Native Sons and Native Daughters. Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242) is chairman, Miss Ella Teeling (Las Lunas 72) vice-chairman, Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10) secretary, and Eugene M. Levy (Mission 38) treasurer.

The Grove of Memory, Junipero Serra boulevard and Ocean avenue, consists of thirty-nine acacia trees, each marked with a bronze tablet bearing this inscription: "In the year 1920 this tree was dedicated as a living memorial to ———, a Native Son of the Golden West who gave his life for his country in the great war." The "hoys" to whose memories the trees have been planted include: Brady, Thomas Joseph; Brilliant, S.; Cassens, Herman; Cincotta, Angelo; Davis, Victor H.; De Santi, Narciso; Dineen, D. # Native Sons of the Golden West

PRESENTING FLAGS

THE ORDER OF THE NATIVE SONS OF the Golden West during the past few weeks added still another to its long list of achievements for public welfare work, when eleven Subordinate Parlor made gifts of flags to some twenty schools. A set of American and State (Bear) Flags was given to each of the schools, for use in their auditoriums or class-rooms, and the public response more than justified the action of the Parlor. At the meeting of the Board of Grand Officers in May, Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler made the suggestion, and it was immediately taken up by Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney; these two grand officers have worked to good purpose, as the result demonstrates.

James Lick 242 (San Francisco) made the first presentation, giving a set of flags to the California School of Mechanical Arts (Lick high school). Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney was the speaker of the evening.

On behalf of Humboldt 14 (Eureka), Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler presented a set of the flags to the high school at Eureka. The teachers and pupils had arranged a very pretty program, and the climax was reached in an eloquent address by Judge Cutler. At this writing, there are still two sets of flags to be presented by this Parlor to other schools in that district.

Several unusual features marked the presentation of flags to the Pleasanton grammar school by Pleasanton 244, June 9. The exercises were held in the opera house, and not only the schoolchildren, but a large part of the population of the town, were present. The Parlor had a very interesting program arranged, and the affair aroused a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. Older members of the Parlor declared they had never received a visit from so many grand officers at one time, as on this occasion. The visitors present included Grand Third Vice-president Edward J. Lynch, who delivered an address on the principles and purposes of the Order; Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, orator of the day; Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Organizer James P. Cronin, E. F. Garrison (Athens 195), Charles Corrigan (Athens 195), B. Farley (Athens 195), Thos. B. Lynch (Olympus 189), Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10). It was a "big" night, and will be productive of results for Pleasanton Parlor.

Of particular interest to those who recall the reports as to Mount Tamalpais 64 (San Rafael) at the last Grand Parlor, was the presentation by that Parlor of sets of flags to San Rafael grammar school and San Anselmo grammar school. The presentations were made by Jordan L. Martinelli, newly-elected president who, by his enthusiasm and capable direction, is bringing this Parlor rapidly to the front. At this writing, the Parlor is arranging to present sets of flags to three additional schools.

Excelsior 31 (Jackson) presented a set of the flags to the school there with impressive ceremonies.

Space does not permit of a detailed report in each of the other cases, but suffice to say that sets of flags were presented by Guadalupe 231 (San Francisco) to the Cleveland, Excelsior, Longfellow and Monroe schools; by South San Francisco 157 to the Bay View and Daniel Webster schools; by Rincon 72 (San Francisco) to the Rincon and Lincoln schools; by Dolores 208 (San Francisco) to the Horace Mann school; by Pacific 10 (San Francisco) to the Lowell high school; all these schools are in San Francisco. Also by Las Positas 96 (Livermore) to the high school there.

It is to be hoped that the example thus set by these Parlor will be followed by others. It is in the schools that the native sons of tomorrow are found today, and it is well to teach them what the Order stands for, and to use every effort to impress upon them the necessity of patriotism, and loyalty to flag and country. The sight of these flags constantly before them will help to achieve the Order's purpose, and will make it easier, in the years to come, to secure the aid of these junior natives in carrying out the purposes to which the Order stands committed.—Chancellor K. Grady.

(Editor's Note—Members of Parlor that are not progressing satisfactorily frequently inquire, "What's the matter that my Parlor does not grow?" The correct answer, generally, is, because the Parlor is engaged in nothing to attract, being content to drift along in a course that was productive of results a quarter-century ago. A Parlor, to progress, must be up and doing continually—engaged in some "live" endeavor that will win attention. Like with the individual, so results must come to the Parlor that DOES, not the one that is perpetually going to do, something. The presentation of the flags above referred to is but one of several up-to-date undertakings that will bring numbers and prestige to any Parlor.)

GRAND PRESIDENT MAKES IMPORTANT APPOINTMENTS.

Grand President William I. Traeger of Los Angeles has made the following additional appointments, the deputies-at-large being divided into three classes, including orators and supervisors; it is presumed the orators will be available to Parlor wanting speakers, and the idea is an excellent one:

Deputy Grand Presidents-at-Large—Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Organizer Andrew Moeck, Grand Organizer James P. Cronin, Clarence M. Hunt (Sacramento 3), Joseph Berry (Courtland 106), G. J. Valladon (Bay View 238), Simeon Nathan (McCloud 149), Wm. H. Pike (Goldeu Anchor 182), C. A. Ostrowski (Vallejo 77), W. W. Cox (Orestimba 247), Chas. E. Newton (Santa Clara 100), L. N. Barbour (Fresno 25), C. W. Kahl (Yosemite 24). Orators: Philip M. Carey (Berkeley 210), Judge J. M. Morrissey (Marysville 6), Judge Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa 28), John J. Monteverde (Sunset 26), A. P. Johnson Jr. (San Diego 108), Edward Van Vranken (Stockton 7), Judge Rex B. Goodcell (Arrowhead 110). Supervisors: John Lund (Ferndale 93), district 5; Thos. V. Butts (Santa Rosa 28), districts 20, 21, 22; Harry J. Thomas (Sea Point 158), district 23; John A. Kennedy (Byron 170), districts 24, 25; T. S. Lages (Sutter Fort 241), districts 28, 29, 30; J. C. Hourtane (Oakland 50), districts 37, 38, 39; W. B. White (Brooklyn 151), districts 40, 41, 42; Geo. A. Wilson (Bay View 238), districts 43, 44, 45; H. J. Dougherty (Observatory 177), districts 46, 47, 48; A. S. Liguori (Redwood 66), district 49; Frank A. Boniver (El Dorado 52), districts 60, 61, 62; C. R. O'Donnell (Hesperian 137), districts 63, 64, 65; Jas. F. Stanley (Stanford 76), districts 66, 67, 68, 69; Fred T. Greenblatt (El Capitan 222), districts 70, 71, 72. [The district numbers refer to the district deputy grand presidents' districts.]

Special committees provided for in resolutions adopted by Stockton Grand Parlor—Acquisition of Grizzly Bear Magazine [to report to Board Grand Officers]: H. C. Lichtenberger (P.G.P.), C. L. McEnerney (G.T.), Fletcher A. Cutler (G.T.), Clarence M. Hunt (Sacramento 3), H. J. Lelaude (Ramona 109), John T. Newell (Los Angeles 45), A. A. Schmidt (Corona 196). Funds for Homeless Children [to devise ways and means to procure same within the Order]: M. T. Dooling (P.G.P.), Joseph Berry (Courtland 106), Wm. J. Hayes (G.2V.P.), Irving Baxter (Ramona 109), I. M. Peckham (Olympus 189).

CELEBRATE ADMISSION DAY.

The Stockton Grand Parlor designated no place for the holding of a general Admission Day celebration this year, but California's birthday anniversary should be generally observed in every city, town and hamlet where there is a Parlor of Native Sons. Where possible, a county celebration should be arranged for some central location.

Admission Day must not be left to die because of inattention to its observance. It affords a splendid opportunity for the spreading of Native Sonism, which means patriotism. Parades, of course, are possible in but few localities, but appropriate exercises, open to the public, are impossible in no locality. Every Parlor should begin now to arrange for the observance of Admission Day, September 9; good speakers are available. Remember that if the Parlor ignore this day, legislated a holiday at the request of the Native Sons, it will eventually be removed from the list of state holidays and both the Order and the State will be the losers.—C.M.H.

July 14th's the Date.

Oakland—The seventeen Parlor of Alameda County have organized a Grand Parlor Committee to arrange for the meeting here next April; incidentally, it is planned to make this the greatest Grand Parlor in the Order's history.

The committee plans to raise $6,000, and will give an entertainment each month to get it. The first will be a masque ball at Areadia July 14. It will be "some" affair, and a big crowd is anticipated.

The Extension Committee, made up from these Parlor, is doing good work throughout Alameda County, giving valuable help in the membership drive.

Big Crowd at Outing.

Sacramento—About 2,500 attended the Sacramento and San Joaquin Counties Parlor's outing at Lockeford, San Joaquin County, June 5; Elk Grove 41 and Courtland 106 sent immense delegations, displaying an interest in affairs of the Order that may well be emulated by the Parlor of the cities. J. B. Miller of Courtland was chairman of the day, Judge A. Steel of Lodi delivered an address. Dancing was provided, and there were several contests, among them a tug-of-war and a baseball game. A plan to line the highway between Sacramento and Stockton with palm trees was discussed, and it is hoped this will have been done by the time next year's Sacramento-San Joaquin outing is held—all present voting to "do it over again" next year. Great credit for the success of the affair is due Stanley Arndt of Stockton 7; he does not belong to the "Run Out Kids."

The general committee that handled the outing was made up as follows: T. W. McAuliffe, R. C. Cothrin, Wilbur Green, Sacramento 3; Ray Friedberger, Julius Gaedtke, Andrew Del Monte, Fred Benjamin, Stanley Arndt, Harry Herman, R. Carey, Stockton 7; Dr. E. M. Setzer, Emil Grafigna, Lodi 18; Del Cook, Glenn E. Rust, R. L. Poston, Sunset 26; C. E. Wakeman, Geo. Rboads, Walter Martin, L. E. Beach, Ralph Hooper, Ray Hugaboom, Elk Grove 41; Dennis Leary Jr., G. P. Wilson, Courtland 106; R. J. Maracchini, Frank Schult, John Schult, Emil Hondaa, Tracy 186; C. S. Shaw, H. A. Naumann, J. E. Mahan, Sutter Fort 241. Meetings of the committee were held in the Eagles' clubrooms at Lodi, San Joaquin County, the wealthiest little city in the world.

Provides for Decoration Day's Observance.

Ferndale—Decoration Day was patriotically observed here, the exercises being under the auspices of Ferndale 93. President John Lund was chairman of the day, and Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler the orator, delivering one of the best addresses ever heard here. Music was furnished by the boys' band of Loleta, directed by Prof. Ellsworth. Occupying seats of honor on the platform were the four surviving local members of the G.A.R.—J. J. Sage, J. W. Miller, J. B. Davis, Geo. Corbett.

Following the program a large number of members of Ferndale Parlor, junior native sons, ex-service men and schoolchildren, headed by the band, marched to the cemetery. After the children had decorated the graves a squad of ex-service men—Pacific Genzoli, Frank Gregis, Elton Jennings, Meredith King, Carl Helgestad, James Host, Leland Nielsen, Lloyd Kansen—commanded by Gus Putney bled a salute, taps were sounded, and "America" sung. The "kiddies" who participated in the parade were treated to ice-cream cones by the Parlor.

Ferndale continues to grow numerically. Five candidates were initiated June 6, and 300 names will be on the roster-roll by next Grand Parlor.

Anniversary Well Celebrated.

Oakland—Fruitvale 252 began the celebration of its eleventh institution anniversary May 26 with an "old timers' night" which was a "hummer." Nearly all the charter members were on hand, as well as representatives from practically all the San Francisco and East Bay Parlor, and also Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney and Historiographer Frank C. Merritt May 27 members of the Parlor were banqueted by Fruitvale 177, N.D.G.W., and on this occasion the "boys" presented a banner-case to the "girls" in which to keep the banner given them previously June 3 both Parlor united for an anniversary dance which was attended by a record-breaking crowd.

Organizer James P. Cronin is directing a membership drive for Fruitvale Parlor; one hundred new members is the goal. A class was initiated June 9 and additional classes are booked for initiation June 23 and 30. The Parlor is full of "pep," and its permanency and prosperity are assured.

Something New; Good to Imitate.

Fresno—Fresno 25 has originated something new in the way of contests—an attendance contest which began June 14 and will close July 12. There are five teams, the "Reds," "Whites," "Blues," "Golds" and "Bears," captained, respectively, by Blasingame, Cobb, Pratt, Lopez and Wolfe, and each containing five members. Three judges—

Frank Lane, Past Grand President W. F. Toomey and Ed. Burke—will decide the winner of the contest, which will be the team having the least number of members absent during the five weeks. Each night during the contest one of the teams will provide entertainment, and the team presenting the best "show" will also be given a prize. Arthur Drew is the newly elected president of the Parlor. Several hundred members of Fresno Parlor, reinforced by large delegations from Seema 107 and Fresno 187, N.D.G.W., enjoyed a picnic and barbeque at Lane's ranch May 29. All kinds of contests were featured, and among the speakers were Judge M. P. McCormick, L. J. Price and L. E. Winchell. The committee in charge included Arthur Drew, Ed. Burke, Frank Lane, Phil. Wolfe.

Entertains Daughters.

Oroville Argonaut 8 entertained members of Gold of Ophir 190 at a dancing party June 15. Old fashioned dances were on the program, and an original dance by J. Emory Sutherland and Earle Ward created a lot of amusement. Refreshments were served.

Hold Memorial Services.

Weaverville—Sunday, May 29, Memorial Day services were held jointly by Mount Baldy 87 and Eltapome 55, N.D.G.W. There was a large attendance of members of both Parlors.

Outing Pleases Numerous "Kiddies."

San Jose—Observatory 177 June 7 elected officers for the ensuing term, re-electing A. O. Kayser treasurer, H. C. Jung financial secretary and H. J. Dougherty recording secretary, to the respective positions which they have held successively for a period of over twelve years. Much interest centered in the election, not as in many other organizations for the highest station in the gift of the Parlor, but for the lowly office of outside sentinel, for it is at this station that the president of a few years later makes his start, and there is always a friendly rivalry for the office, and a president speaks with pride when he says "he filled every station." Retiring President J. M. Waterman has just completed his second term, having stepped into a vacancy caused by a president-elect having enlisted in the country's call, and leaving for France before being installed.

Observatory held its family outing and picnic at Cannon's Resort, a beautiful picnic ground above the New Almaden quicksilver mines. Shaded with massive oaks, beside a running stream, the tables were spread, and it would have delighted our beloved former President Theodore Roosevelt to have seen the great number of little ones enjoying themselves around the board. The day was passed with dancing and swimming, the creek affording ample opportunity for many contests. During the afternoon President Waterman was presented with a loving cup for his faithful service during the term.

August 14 the Parlor celebrates its thirtieth anniversary with a barbecue near Gilroy dam. This will be largely attended, as the older members, who do not regularly attend Parlor meetings, make it a point to attend the barbecue to renew old friendships and make acquaintance with the new members.

Initiates Class.

Menlo Park—Menlo 185 initiated a class of candidates June 23, among the number being the oldest son, "Sam," of United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. Among the large number of visitors were several members of Palo Alto 216.

Flag Day Observed.

Oakland—A large crowd responded to the invitation of the Native Sons of Alameda County to celebrate Flag Day in Native Sons' Hall June 12. The Extension Committee, of which James P. Cronin is chairman, had charge, the entertainment being given under the auspices of Oakland 50, Piedmont 120, Brooklyn 151, Athens 195, Bay View 238, Claremont 240, Fruitvale 252.

Chester H. Chase was chairman of the evening, and the musical program included: Violin solos, Miss Marian Nicholson; patriotic trios, Eddie Lewis, Clarence Reed, H. H. Ughle; piano solos, Eugene Blanchard; vocal solos, Mrs. E. Blanchard; reading, Mrs. Mae Cronin. Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland delivered an address on "The Order," and the oration was delivered by Philip M. Carey (Berkeley 210), who had for his subject "The Flag."

Future Is Promising.

Courtland—The anniversary ball of Courtland 106 is the "big" social event of the year; the thirty-fifth, held June 11, proved no exception, and was a grand success in every particular. A committee is arranging festivities for July, when the

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

WILL WOMEN PERMIT AGE TO BE foisted upon them—will they forego the garments of youth, for those which will add years to their appearance? Will women give up without a struggle the slender silhouette, the skirt which, because of its shortness and narrowness, has caused the critical moralist to complain? More radical changes are proposed by fashion designers this autumn than have been suggested for several seasons, but whether or not the women will accept suggestions made by leading designers is a question which is causing much debate among the men and women whose business it is, months ahead, to foretell with accuracy just what the feminine world, as a whole, will demand.

Blue laws, the legislation of states, have all worked against what some have termed women's immodesty in dress, but women have smiled, and read or listened, then gone on ordering.

There is a decided vogue now for the hand-crocheted jumper. The fillet patterns are combined with borders and heavy fringes at edge of skirt and about the sleeves. Also the shorter ones, of twisted popcorn or other fancy stitches, are equally liked. Some are knitted and have skirts to match, the whole being done in ribbed stitch with gay Roman-striped borderings.

The knitted sleeveless sports dress is offered, following the fashionable no-sleeve vogue. But these are worn usually over a soft crepe blouse.

Tailored suits are being welcomed. Each day sees new designs, and at any of the morning social affairs women are smartly trim and trig in house-spuns, chevots, tweeds, twills, or serges, keen and severe of line.

A bit longer of skirt are the newest ones. The woman who wants the smartly tailored effect, yet who, when traveling, does not wish to bother herself with the care of seeing that lingerie blouses and frills are always ready in spick-and-span freshness, chooses a suit whose skirt is mounted to a jumper-length straight bodice top of Canton crepe. Touches of wool embroidery link the two most effectively, and the tracery often appears again in a tiny touch on the collar and cuffs. When she wishes to appear still more tailored, she tucks under the open fronts of the coat.

One of the new waistcoats is of heavy silk, or probably one of finely-plaited organdie. The designers cling very closely, in tailored suits, to the strictly mannish effects with tuxedo or shawl collars, patch or slit pockets, and trim cuffs. A tailored frock of navy cheviot is embroidered in metal thread.

Here to stay is the slip-on open-front blouse, tucked in the skirt, or finished in smock or Russian style to fall outside. The blouse plays an important role.

Whispers of early fall designs and styles are interesting, especially when it is foretold that very brilliant colors will again be used. From the French, we are assured will come, for blouses, a bright but soft red, practically a geranium tone, Chinese blue and duck green, while mochas and league gray are among the darker tones. For the lighter blouse there will be dawn pink, taupe, champagne, buff shades of deep yellow, rust, known as mohawk, and very light pigeon's breast gray, touched with violet. Some of the neatest blouses are showing a return to the tuxedo lines, with inset vestee and a plaited jabot of fine lace.

The return of the soft blouse, whose collar and cuffs turn back over the coat or sweater, is hailed with delight. It is popular both because of its tubbing qualities and because it is becomingly worn without a coat. With a plain linen or sports silk skirt, it shows its new smartness in the very long and full-drooping overhous, or by the surplice cut which drapes gracefully about the waist, ending in a bow at the back.

Several sports skirts—silk, crepe, prunella, flannel and cheviot—with sweaters to match are an excellent investment for summer wear, and also when accompanied by the right accessories as to shoes, hose, gloves and hats are extremely modish. Gray has not lost its popularity, and some of the very prettiest have been seen in gray of various tones, often combined with white.

Just the thing for warm days are the cool, fresh-looking pongee silk dresses. The skirts are sometimes box plaited at the side, giving the very new fullness, or a circular effect is attached by straight panels front and back with swirling sides. One of the pongee frocks was trimmed with emerald green, another had a touch of red in buttons, bindings and sash linings, while a third was combined with a warm chocolate brown.

The lovely organdie frocks have girdles of colored chiffon with the ends etched in gold and silver, wound loosely about the waist, and knotted once at the side. The deep "U" front and back is a new finish at the neck of some late models.

Separate linen or crepe jumpers, knee length, some hemstitched, others embroidered, have just appeared and are taking the place of the popular sweater. Occasionally they are worn with the plaited silk or cotton skirt.

Among the new felt hats which are leaping into favor are some directly modeled after those now used in Paris. They are large, high and rounding of crown and wide and drooping of brim. One in white is edged with a narrow piping of old-rose velvet, the same material appearing as lining and forming a contrast in the flower design.

Waxed flowers are being used even more than a few months ago. Mushroom shapes, so becoming

N. D. GRAND PARLOR

(Alturas 159) of Alturas (re-elected); Dr. Winifred M. Byrne (Minerva 2) of San Francisco (re-elected); Mae Himes-Noonan (Portola 172) of San Francisco; Nina E. Williams (Phoebe A. Hearst 214) of Manteca.

Bertha Adele Briggs (Copa de Oro 105) of Hollister, having completed her term as Grand President, became the Junior Past Grand President.

The above officers were installed Friday night just prior to the Grand Parlor's adjournment. Past Grand President Genevieve Watson-Baker was the chairman, and Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, as Supreme Grand President, was the installing officer; she was assisted by May C. Williamson as Supreme Grand Marshal and Mary F. Mitchell as Supreme Grand Sentinel. At the ceremonies' conclusion the official Grand Parlor ring was presented Past Grand President Briggs by Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher, and she was also the recipient of numerous other gifts, including a silver order from the district deputies and grand officers who helped to make her term such a success. Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek, too, and all the past grand presidents and new grand officers were the recipients of numerous remembrances.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND COMPLETED.

The committee in charge of the Mills College scholarship reported, through Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, that the $5,000 fund had been completed, and that more than $300 annually was now available for an applicant. One of the largest scholarships offered anywhere is, therefore, assured, and the Native Daughters are justly proud that this worth-while project has been carried to success.

The following rules and regulations governing the scholarship were submitted, and approved by the Grand Parlor: 1. The applicant must be a native of California and a daughter of a member of the Order. 2. She must be a graduate of an accredited high school, and of good moral character. 3. If more than one applicant apply for the scholarship, the one to receive it will be determined by an entrance examination given by Mills College; if there is but one applicant, no entrance examination is required. 4. Said successful applicant shall receive the interest of said scholarship each and every year for four years, provided that she complies with the rules and regulations of Mills College. 5. At the end of four years, the scholarship shall go to another applicant complying with the above regulations. 6. If no applicant appears, the interest of the Mills Scholarship Fund shall be added to the principal sum. 7. Any beneficiary of this scholarship shall be honor bound to become a member of the Order within a reasonable time after her graduation from Mills College. 8. If a beneficiary for some reason severs her connections with Mills College before she finishes the four-years course, the scholarship shall go to another eligible applicant. 9. Applicants shall send their recommendations to the Committee on Mills Scholarship, whose duty it shall be to pass upon recommendations submitted by the applicants, and then present them to the authorities of Mills College.

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

Every afternoon the San Francisco Parlors served refreshments to the Grand Parlor members.

Among those in attendance were Lily O. Reichling-Dyer, Founder of the Order, and Past Grand President Carrie Roesch-Durham of Stockton, who has not missed a single one of the thirty-five Grand Parlors.

NATIVE SON NEWS

officers of the Parlor are jointly installed with those of Victory 216, N.D.G.W. The Parlor was largely represented at the Lockford outing June 4; its baseball team met defeat at the hands of the team of Tracy 186.

Courtland's newly-elected president is Joseph E. Berry, well known throughout the Order. He has the confidence and support of every member, and it is predicted his will be the most successful term in the Parlor's history. Good roads that now lead to Courtland should insure increased attendance at the meetings. Walter L. Goodman, one of the most popular members of 106, is convalescing in Sacramento after a serious illness.

Baseball Team Not Prospering.

Palo Alto—Palo Alto 216 continues to grow, having added several new members since the Grand Parlor. These officers have been elected for the ensuing term and will be installed by D.D.G.P. Fred L. Thomas of San Jose July 18 with a rousing good time: Leland Johns, Jr., P.P.; Joseph Curran, P.; Frank D. Moore, 1.V.P.; Edward Contard, 2.V.P.; Geo. Cleese, 3.V.P.; K. Byrd, M.; A. A. Quinn, R.S.; Wm. Clemo, F.S.; I. P. Vandervoort, T.; M. L. Freedman, I.S.; N. L. Nelson, O.S.; E. A. Hettinger, Tr.; Dr. Geo. E. Hall, Sgn. The faithful financier, E. A. Hettinger, who has been ill the past month, has recovered and is again watching the treasury.

The Parlor has named a committee to consider the holding of an Admission Day celebration. The baseball team, so successful last year, is this season meeting defeat, having so far won only one of nine games. The season of the Community League of six teams will end July 9; after that, each team will play independently with outside teams.

Town's History Related.

Livermore—June 16, a delegation of fifteen members of Brooklyn 151 (Oakland), accompanied Historiographer Frank C. Merritt on a visit to Las Positas 96 and witnessed initiation of a candidate by the 100% Livermore "boys," after which M. D. Cooney of Brooklyn was given the degree of "Trials of Trails."

Historiographer Merritt addressed the Parlor on the life of Robert Livermore, a Pioneer of 1830, after whom the town of Livermore was named, and related the history of the township from its establishment as an adjunct of the Las Positas Rancho in 1835; several descendants of Robert Livermore are members of the Parlor. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served and a piano recital was given by the gifted organist of Las Positas Parlor.

a stirring address which was most favorably received. The attendance of both members and citizens was larger than on any previous occasion.

June 9, after a spirited but friendly contest, the Parlor elected officers for the ensuing term. R. G. Cunningham, who worked hard and tirelessly in organizing the new Native Daughter Parlor, was elected secretary. Incidentally, Rainbow footed all the bills arising from the new Parlor's organization.

N. D. GRAND PARLOR

Official greetings from the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West were received in a telegram from Grand President William I. Tracer of Los Angeles. Wednesday morning, as the Grand President's representative, Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler of Eureka delivered an eloquent address. At the same time, Grand Secretary John T. Regan extended words of welcome.

Miss Mary E. Brusie (Argonaut 166), the cheer-spreading secretary of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Committee on Homeless Children, gave an interesting illustrated talk on the home-finding work.

During the session a "suggestion box" was well patronized; when the contents were read before adjournment much fun was created; also, some worth-while suggestions were noted.

Jonnie Lego, a chief, was given the privilege of addressing the Grand Parlor in behalf of the Pitt River Indians. A collection that followed netted $115, which amount was given into the keeping of Edna Saygrover (Iliawathia 140) of Redding, to be used in the Indians' behalf as she may see fit.

Members from different Subordinate Parlors, relating their experiences with county meetings, unanimously agreed they were of great benefit to the Order.

Mileage for the Grand Parlor members totaled $2,007.28. That for next year's session will amount to about the same.

A stirring appeal in behalf of the disabled service "boys" was made by Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey of Santa Cruz.

Past Grand President Anna L. Monroe reported, with pleasure, that the bill appropriating $300,000 to save the Humboldt County redwoods had passed the Legislature and been signed by the Governor.

For the Home Committee, Past Grand President Clara K. Wittemyer reported that a library was being installed.

Anna G. Andresen (Aleli 102) of Salinas, could not be present on account of her husband's serious illness, but her History Committee report was presented and contained suggestions substantially as appeared in the June Grizzly Bear.

Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty reported that Colus 194 (Colusa), with a 1.78 gain, had been awarded the prize offered the Parlor showing the greatest percentage gain in membership by Mary E. Bell during her term as Grand President.

Five Subordinate Parlors were not represented at the Grand Parlor, for various good reasons: Eltapooe 55 (Weaverville), Junipero 141 (Monterey), Sequoia 160 (Mokelumne Hill), Gold of Ophir 190 (Orville), El Monte 205 (Mountain View).

For the Travelers' Aid, Past Grand President Ariana W. Stirling reported splendid accomplishments. In San Francisco and the bay cities 50,154 people were assisted during the year.

The Past Grand Presidents had their annual banquet at which were discussed matters pertaining to the Order's welfare. Genevieve Watson-Baker presided.

The Grand Parlor was given an abundance of valuable publicity, thanks to the generosity of the San Francisco dailies and also to the Publicity Committee of which Past Grand President Grace S. Stoerner was chairman. Each paper detailed a courteous and ambitious newsgetter to see that nothing was overlooked, and but little escaped them.

So many of the Grand Parlor members live in San Francisco or "across the bay," Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley, chairman of the Transportation Committee, had to scurry around to get the necessary 150 railroad ticket receipts to assure a half-fare home.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES.

Tuesday afternoon the Grand Parlor paused in its deliberations to observe Flag Day. The following program was carried out: "Star Spangled Banner," assemblage; "Prayer to the Flag," Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, address, "The Significance of the Flag," Past Grand President Genevieve Watson-Baker, vocal solo, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Eugene Sullivan (Stanford 76 N.S.G.W.), accompanied by Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee; "America," assemblage.

LODGE OF SORROW.

In memory of those members of the Order who departed during the year, a Lodge of Sorrow was held Thursday afternoon, with Grand President Bertha A. Briggs presiding. The program consisted of vocal solos by Lottie A. Crawford and Mrs. James H. Kelly, an address by Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey, a beautiful eulogy by Past Grand President Genevieve Watson-Baker, and a prayer by Past Grand President Mary E. Bell.

RITUAL EXEMPLIFIED.

Thursday evening "Mary E. Bell Parlor, No. 1921," in charge of D.D.G.P. May L. Noble, exemplified the ritual. The hall was packed with the Grand Parlor members and visitors from all the San Francisco and surrounding Parlors. Those who filled the various stations included:

Annie Franzen (Golden Gate 158), president; Helen Mann (Keith 137), first vice-president; Henrietta Wiese (Bahia Vista 167), second vice-president; Madeline King (Orinda 56), third vice-president; Addie Barren (Castro 178), recording secretary; Alice Boldemann (La Estrella 89), financial secretary; Elizabeth Muller (Golden State 50), treasurer; Eleanor Teeling (Las Lomas 72), marshal; Dell Eden (Twin Peaks 185), assistant marshal; Celia James (Calaveras 103), inside sentinel; Pearl Young (Darina 114), outside sentinel; Jewel Strer (Presidio 148), Emile Schultz (El Vespero 118), Julia Pierce (Genevieve 132), trustees; Rebecca Kemp Van Ee (Alta 3), organist; Mae Himes-Noonan (Portola 173), past president; May Marchant (Guadalupe 152), junior past president; Ethel Madden (Linda Rosa 170), senior past president.

"OUTSIDE" FEATURES.

Monday night the Grand Parlor members were guests at a public reception. Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, chairman of the local arrangements committee, presided; Mayor James Ralph Jr. (Hesperian 137 N.S.G.W.) extended San Francisco's welcome; Grand President Bertha A. Briggs responded for the Native Daughters; Frank Hill (Stanford 76 N.S.G.W.) was the soloist of the evening.

Tuesday evening was the ball. The grand march, participated in by 200 couples, was led by Grand President Briggs and Dr. Bell (Stanford 76 N.S.G.W.).

Wednesday afternoon was given over to a sight-seeing auto tour. In the evening the San Francisco Native Sons entertained in the Grizzly Bear Clubrooms; elaborate entertainment, dancing and refreshments were provided. During the whole week the clubrooms were open to the visitors.

State Resources To Be Shown—The State Fair, an annual exposition of California's varied resources, will be held at Sacramento September 3-11.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

TWO NEW PARLORS TO CLOSE GRAND PARLOR YEAR.

ALMOST THE LAST OFFICIAL ACT OF Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister was the institution of two new Parlors—Camp Far West 218 at Wheatland, Yuba County, and Plumas Pioneer 219 at Quincy, Plumas County. Credit for the organization of both Parlors is accorded Native Sons—the members of Rainbow 40 in the first instance, and of Quincy 131 in the second. A banquet concluded each ceremony.

Camp Far West was instituted May 27 with twenty-nine charter members, the Grand President being assisted by Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty and the following members of Marysville 162 as acting grand officers: Esther R. Sullivan, past grand president; Pearl Meek, grand marshal; Celia Weber, grand organizer. Fred H. Greeley, Past Grand President, on behalf of Marysville 6, N.S.G.W., presented the Parlor with a beautiful silver-ornamented gavel, and Arthur Dam, on behalf of Rainbow 40, N.S.G.W., presented a check for the $10 charter fee. Installation of the Parlor's following officers was witnessed by many Native Sons and Native Daughters: Ethel Brock, Charter P.P.; Merle Davis, P.; Edna Baun, 1 V.P.; Anna Boswell, 2 V.P.; Isabel Barton, 3 V.P.; Flora Cunningham, R.S.; Caddie Dam, R.S.; Ellen Tindell, T.; Roxie McKinney, M.; Julia Herzog, L.S.; Maida Jasper, O.S.; Louise Stagner, O.; Alene Jasper, Mildred Phillips, Esther Roddan, Trs.

Plumas Pioneer was instituted May 28 with fifty charter members, Grand President Briggs being assisted by Grand Secretary Dougherty, Marguerite Geney (Eschscholtzia 112) as acting grand marshal and Eleanor Duffy (Ottittiewa 197) as acting past grand president. Installation of the following officers was witnessed by members of Quincy Parlor, N.S.G.W., Pioneers and friends: Verberna Phelps Hall, Charter P.P.; Birdena Haun Curtis, P.; Emily Geney Bar, 1 V.P.; Violet Cole Mori, 2 V.P.; Kathryn L. Sobrero, 3 V.P.; Minerva Hyde Mattoon, R.S.; Florence Jacks Reynolds, F.S.; Josephine Jones Braden, T.; Mary Quinn McLaughlin, M.; Verberna Moseley, L.S.; Janie Maxwell Hogan, O.S.; Viola Forbes McKenzie, O.; Edith Gill Kerr, Laurene Mattoon Pieratt, Bertha Morton Smith, Trs. The first meeting following its institution the Parlor received eleven applications for membership, and Secretary Mattoon says it will have more than 150 members at the time of next year's Grand Parlor.

County's Products Boosted.

San Jose—The meetings and other features of the San Francisco Grand Parlor last month were attended by many members of Vendome 100. Officers for the ensuing term have been elected, with Mrs. Rush McCrone as president. Vendome was officially represented at the great "booster" ball in San Francisco June 18 by Mrs. Sadye Clingy, Miss Margaret Russell and Miss Dorothy Morrill; they boosted "Santa Clara County with their 'prunes and apricots'" slogan.

(Editor's Note—No Parlor in the Order has a more efficient press agent than Vendome, in the person of Mrs. David J. Gairaud. She not only "boosts" her own Parlor, but everything in which the Order is interested. In stance this appreciated notice which appeared in the San Jose "Mercury-Herald" of June 12, thanks to Mrs. Gairaud: "All members of the Native Daughters are urgently asked to subscribe for The Grizzly Bear, the official organ of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. . . . One dollar a year, only, is asked for this great magazine to be in your homes. Subscribe immediately.")

Entertained at Novel Party.

San Francisco—Keith 137 entertained at a most unique and delightful apron party, May 26. Each member appeared wearing an apron. The attractive prize, which was offered for the most original apron worn, was awarded Jeanette Lochbaum, the president. Lillian Herzog, the very efficient retiring secretary, was presented with a beautiful gift. The hall was most artistically decorated, and a delightful musical program was rendered, after which delicious refreshments were served. The efficient committee which made the evening such a success was composed of Alice Golly (chairman), Helen Mann, Helen Fairhair, Elizabeth Graham, Bertha Mauser.

Splendid Entertainment for Pioneers.

Oroville—Many guests responded to the annual Pioneer reunion arranged by Gold of Ophir 190 and Argonaut 8, N.S.G.W., and an exceptionally clever and enjoyable entertainment was presented, concluding with refreshments. Mrs. Florence Boyle was in charge, and Arthur Smith, president of Argonaut, delivered an address of welcome, which ended with an original poem, "Pioneers." Judge J. V. Parks read two poems on the subject of "Twenty Years Ago," and there were several splendid music and dance numbers contributed by Emory Sutherland, Charles Belding, Frank Boyle, Rosemary Sadowski, Maynard Hickok, Miss Gray, Francis Wilson, Mrs. Williams, Miss Milnes, Miss Harvard, Alta Baldwin, Mrs. Hickok, Arthur Smith, Florence Boyle, Freida Rippey, Ellen McCoy.

How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Away?

Native Sons, and Daughters fair, of the Golden West,

Let us get together and boost
To make our members all come home to roost;
Let's not have to coax them out
With eats and other things,
But make them want to come and join us
When they hear our praises ring:

(Chorus)

How ya gonna get 'em to come out to lodge,
Those that stay away?
How ya gonna keep 'em interested?
That's what you say. Oh, there is a way:
Let's do our work well, so they'll be proud
To be one of us.

Let us practice every chance we get,
So when they're asked to fill a chair, you bet,
They'll not say "excuse me" or "I forget"
After they've seen our way.

(Editor's Note—The above lines came to The Grizzly Bear from Lucille A. Parsons, marshal Stirling Parlor, No. 146 (Pittsburg), with the notation: "Tune of 'How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?'" )

Initiates Seven.

San Francisco—The regular monthly social of Dolores 169 May 27 was in honor of Emma Jess, the Parlor's first candidate for Grand Parlor office. Members of Dolores 208, N.S.G.W., Sister Owens (Calaveras 103) and the Parlor's dearly-loved district deputy, Agnes McVerry, were guests. Refreshments were served, and a very pleasant evening was spent. During May, Dolores added seven new names to its membership-roll.

Has New Meeting Place.

Oakland—Officers of Piedmont 87, with Marion Ring as president, have been elected for the ensuing term. June 22 another successful whist party was held, with Mrs. Harriet Emerson as chairman. June 29 a reception was tendered the San Francisco Grand Parlor delegates; the birthday committee for June, with Mrs. Lillian Smith as chairman, provided a most pleasant evening and served refreshments. Commencing July 1, Piedmont will meet Thursdays in Corinthian hall, Pacific building, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets.

Has Card Party.

Fresno—Fresno 187 gave a successful card party May 31. Progressive whist was played, prizes were awarded, and refreshments were served. The following program was presented: Song, "California the Land of Dreams," Mr. Miller; dance, Virginia Staudin; recitation and parasol dance, Phyllis Rutledge; dance, Edith Brown, followed by recitation in costume, "Rags."

The Parlor gave a cup-and-saucer shower June 3 at the home of Mrs. Eva Paul in honor of Miss Walker, a bride-elect. Dainty refreshments were served, and a delightful afternoon was spent.

Membership Increasing.

San Francisco—Twin Peaks 185 entertained its friends at a banquet in celebration of its institution anniversary which was well attended and greatly enjoyed. Dell Eden gave a toast and several songs, Daisy Barrett a fancy dance exhibition, and Brother Parley of Twin Peaks 214, N.S.G.W., character impersonations. There followed a social dance which lasted until midnight. The Parlor is steadily increasing in membership; eight candidates made up a recent class, and another is expected for early initiation.

Mothers Entertained.

Fort Bragg—Fort Bragg 210 entertained the mothers of the community May 19. Cards and social converse filled the early part of the evening. When the doors of the banquet-hall were thrown open all marched in to take their places at tables beautifully decorated with bowls of white carnations and fern. Baskets of white roses and greenery were artistically placed in the room, while at each plate was a small corsage bouquet of white carnations and fern. Delicious refreshments were served and an entertaining program presented. President Fuller explained the origin of Mothers' Day; a girl's quartet—Mrs. Ruth White, Mrs. Phyllis Mathews, Miss Jennie Dahl, Miss Etta Stubbs—with Miss Elvira Melo as accompanist, sang several selections; Miss Ruth Young gave humorous readings, and Miss Ruth Faulkner and Etta Stubbs rendered solos. Much credit for the success of the affair is due this committee: Mesdames Schepher, Arthur, Reynolds, Todd, DeChaine, Gibney, Nolan, Cooney, Dennick, Thurman.

Entertains Native Sons.

Pescadero—Ano Nuevo 180 entertained the members of Pebble Beach 230 June 1, a very pleasant evening being spent. Remarks were made by several, including Edwin Benardo (Seaside 95), Peter Peterson (Las Positas 96) and members of Pebble Beach. Games were played until a late hour, when all did justice to Madeline Granloa's tamale pie. Another party is anxiously awaited.

June 15, prior to their departure for San Francisco, the Parlor presented two of its members, Corene Roe and Violet Hoenig, with bouquets; the former will enter the state normal school and the latter will teach.

Indoor Picnic Closes Social Activities.

San Francisco—Golden Gate 158 ended its social affairs until after vacation with an indoor picnic at which members of Golden Gate 29, N.S.G.W., were guests. Nifty paper aprons for the women and neckties for the men were distributed as a means of finding one's luncheon partner. Some time was then spent in playing various games, the circumstances of which caused much fun and laughter. Lunch was spread on the "grass," and everything from sody-pop to "hot dogs" was relished. Dancing started as soon as all things edible could be cleared away, and continued until close to the midnight hour. All proclaimed the evening one

Safety for Savings

CALIFORNIANS should take a special pride in their State Banking Law, which has been very carefully framed to ENCOURAGE THRIFT by making it certain that the man who deposits his money in a STATE savings bank will have it so invested that it will return the maximum amount of interest consistent with safety, and will be SAFE.

This Bank is a STATE Bank. It is a complete bank, a departmental bank under the California Bank Act, giving every banking service. Its size, its strength, its safety, its completeness of service, the ideals of kindly consideration which guide its transaction, its loyalty to California investments are all matters of pride for those who love California.

"California's Yesterdays"

In thousands of forward-looking yesterdays was built—step by step—the Globe "A1" quality of today. Not a chance, not fate—simply desire and the daring to discard the old and adopt the new methods—methods then in embryo, but which vision correctly interpreted to be the coming requirement.

Pioneers in scientific laboratory control—pioneers in improved milling methods—pioneers in the establishment of a standard of quality—raised sometimes but never lowered, the makers of Globe "A1" Products have ever progressed with the times.

Today, as in the yesterdays, the same principles govern the preparation of each Globe "A1" Product. Quality has become a tradition, continuously upheld.

GLOBE MILLS

of California

A Worthy Companion to Globe "A1" Flour

BRISQ—the newest product of the Globe Mills is a worthy companion to Globe "A1" Flour. It is a pure vegetable shortening, made from the finest California oils. It is economical, dependable and altogether delightful for all manner of fine cookery.

well spent and greatly enjoyed. The committee in charge included B. Severance, J. Knuss, E. Maguire, K. Ringer, E. Griffin, C. McNeerney.

Bride Showered.

Menlo Park—May 25 Menlo 211 celebrated the fifth anniversary of its institution with a dinner, thirty of the members being present. The table was decorated with greens, gold and white flowers and in the center stood a large birthday cake, gaily decorated with five candles, one for each year. Music and songs were in order during the evening, each member responding with a toast to the future of the Parlor. After dinner the members filled five autos and journeyed to Palo Alto to enjoy a show. All voted they had the best time ever, and hope to enjoy more of these affairs in the future.

May 30 the members of the Parlor surprised Miss Margaret Walsh with a miscellaneous shower. After the meeting she was escorted to the banquet-room, and in the center of the table stood a large, beautifully-decorated basket overflowing with all kinds of useful and pretty gifts. The table was decorated with greens and pink carnations, and the hall with colored streamers, greens and gold-colored flowers, the color of the Order. Music and songs were in order after all had partaken of a bountiful feast. Miss Walsh leaves Menlo Park with the best wishes of her sisters in Menlo Parlor for many years of happy wedded life.

Celebrates Anniversary.

San Rafael—June 1 President Verna Strittmatter was summoned to the lodge-room of Marinita

198 supposedly to attend a card party, but upon arrival was informed the occasion was also a stork shower, in honor of her baby son, William H. Strittmatter; it was indeed a joyful surprise to the little mother. Whist was played, prizes being won by Mesdames L. Covalt and Grace McLeod. Refreshments were served in the banquet-room, the decorations being in pink and white daisies; in the center of the table was a huge pink baby basket laden with pretty and useful gifts for Baby William.

Seventy-five members of Marinita celebrated its ninth institution anniversary with a banquet at a San Francisco cafe, and the event was unanimously voted one of the most enjoyable in the Parlor's history. Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley was the honor guest. Addresses, songs and "stunts" enlivened the feast, which was followed by dancing. Those members not in attendance, learning of the success of the party, have already begun to plan to attend next year's anniversary observance.

Raffle Date Draws Near.

San Francisco—The hope chest of Oro Fino 9, with its numerous dainty and useful articles, that is to be raffled July 21, was on exhibition in Native Sons' Building during Grand Parlor week and brought forth a great deal of favorable comment.

Tickets at 10 cents each, or three for a quarter, are still on sale, and will be promptly forwarded by Secretary M. J. Smith, 4096 Eighteenth street, upon receipt of remittance.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Emma Jess (Dolores 169) of San Francisco spent a week's vacation in Long Beach immediately following the Grand Parlor.

Past Grand President Ariana W. Stirling of Berkeley left with her family last month for a vacation tour of Alaska.

Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola of San Francisco, vice-president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, was a visitor to Salt Lake City, Utah, last month.

Mrs. Wallace T. Morton (Vendome 100) has returned to her San Jose home after a delightful motor trip through the southern part of the state and the Yosemite.

Annie E. McCaughey (Reina del Mar 126) of Santa Barbara was in San Francisco last month during the Grand Parlor.

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL.

IN MANY SECTIONS OF CALIFORNIA THE large areas of uncultivated land contiguous to farming land favor the development of grasshoppers in such immense numbers as to cause their sudden migration to fields of cultivated crops where they do untold damage in a very short time. Owing to unfavorable conditions of various kinds breeding of injurious numbers may be prevented in many years, and then, with a favorable year, they may suddenly appear in excessive numbers without warning. The injury to orchards, through defoliation and chewing of the tender bark of the young twigs, will often not only cause the destruction of the crop that year but very largely for the following year as well.

For most effective control, community action is highly desirable. Much lost motion can be overcome and more good accomplished with less money or time than where each individual attempts to work independently. Control methods are of two general types: first, the destruction of the eggs in the breeding grounds, and second, the destruction of the hoppers themselves, either by fire, trapping, or poison.

The effectiveness of recent methods of poisoning has been fully demonstrated. This discussion, therefore, deals with the last-named method of control. The use of a wet bran mash with sufficient poison to kill the hoppers and enough molasses and lemon to make it attractive has proven most satisfactory. The amount of moisture to be maintained in the mash will depend somewhat on the weather conditions existing at the time it is spread out. For an amount sufficient to cover about five acres use the following formula: Paris green, or white arsenic, 1 pound; molasses, cheap blackstrap, 2 quarts; lemons, 1/2 dozen; water, about 4 gallons; wheat bran, or alfalfa meal, 25 pounds. This formula is recommended both by the State and the United States Departments of Agriculture. The molasses, paris green, ground lemons, and water should be mixed thoroughly together, and then poured slowly over the bran and stirred with a shovel until an even mixture is secured. White arsenic may be found as effective as paris green but it is much more difficult to properly mix it. Wheat bran is much better than alfalfa meal, though the latter may be used successfully if the former is not available or too expensive. Sour oranges and grapefruit may be used in place of the lemons.

The poison is spread while it is wet and within twenty-four hours after it is mixed. Generally hot dry weather is the best, when the newly-hatched hoppers feed most freely. Do not wait until the damage has been done; it is then too late. Preparations should be made early, and the needed materials secured and held in readiness for mixing at the proper time, as soon as the small hoppers become abundant. Over large open areas the spreading may best be done with an end-gate grain seeder. Along fences, ditches and other inconvenient places it may be spread by hand from a bucket. Lumps should be avoided, and it should be spread as finely as possible, so that it can hardly be seen on the ground.

The best time of day to spread is ordinarily in the late afternoon. This applies particularly to alfalfa fields and meadows. In orchards or on bare lands where the grasshoppers come out from under the clods in the morning, it may prove advantageous to spread in the early morning. The maximum amount of kill will not always be noticed before the end of the second or third day. Due to irregularity in hatching, it may be necessary to spread twice. Remember you are handling poison attractive to chickens and stock. If poultry are liable to have access to the poisoned hoppers, keep them fed up well in the morning for awhile to prevent them eating too many dead hoppers.

THE ARGENTINE ANT.

One of the most annoying pests, both in the house, garden and orchard, occurring in many parts of California, is the small, dark-brown ant known as the Argentine ant, thought to have been brought to this country from Brazil. It will eat almost any food, but has a marked preference for sirups, moist sweet things such as jellies, cakes, etc., fruits, and meats of all kinds.

They have a particular fondness for the honeydew excreted by aphids and scale insects, and, in order to secure as much of it as possible, the worker ants protect them from their enemies and even carry them to the new, tender growth of the trees and plants in large numbers so that the honeydew-yielding species can more easily suck the juices from the plants. They have been very aptly described as dairymen staking out their milk cows. As a result of this habit, ant districts are much more seriously infested with aphids and scale insects. This has been noticed particularly in the citrus groves where the scale insects are far more abundant than where there are no ants. In vegetable gardens and in many orchards, such as prune and apple, the aphids may be planted by the ants in such numbers as to render control measures very difficult and the damage to the crops very extensive.

Methods of control vary with conditions. In the house they may be kept out of refrigerators and other furniture by painting 25 percent bichloride of mercury mixed in shellac around the legs of the furniture to be protected. Extreme caution is advised in handling bichloride of mercury as it is a violent poison if taken internally. The use of poison sirups offers probably the best means of control. There are two general types, the strong antimony or arsenical sirups and the weakly-poisoned sirups. The former kills the worker ants quickly but it does not reach the nest. It is only effective in temporarily driving the ants away from the house. After feeding on such a sirup for a time the ants soon learn that it is harmful and vacate the building for a time.

A weakly-poisoned sirup, on the other hand, may be taken by the ants for a long time, carried to the nests and fed to the queens and larvae, eventually exterminating the entire colony. The formula found most effective and recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture is prepared as follows: Granulated sugar, 9 pounds; water, 9 pints; tartaric acid (crystallized), 6 grams; benzoate of soda, 8.4 grams; boil slowly for 30 minutes; allow to cool. Dissolve sodium arsenite (C. P.), 15 grams, in hot water, 1/2 pint; cool; add poison solution to sirup and stir well. Add to the poisoned sirup honey, 1 1/4 pounds; mix thoroughly. To be successful with its use, the formula must be followed exactly and all weights and measurements made accurately.

The most effective time to poison is in the early spring when other sources of food supply, particularly insects furnishing honeydew, are at a minimum. In houses this formula may be used throughout the year to good advantage.

The sirup may be put in any containers that will hold it satisfactorily. Paraffin-coated paper bags with holes punched in the sides to permit the entry of the ants, may be hung up in the trees, or on posts or walls, near the ant trails. The ants prefer to climb for their food. Small tin cans with friction covers are excellent. Dents must be made in the upper end of the cans to permit the ants to get under the covers and yet prevent the entrance of rain. If bags are used, a second coated bag should be inverted over the first one holding the sirup, and the two nailed to the tree or other object. This will protect the sirup from moisture and permit the ants to crawl up under the outer bag and into the holes of the inner one. In either case, small bits of sponge should be immersed in the sirup to enable a larger number of ants to feed at a time. "Grass" sponges are sufficiently good for this purpose.

STUDY MARKET REPORTS.

The farmer is, in many instances, failing to take advantage of that for which he pays good money in the form of taxes. The market reports furnished by the Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture are full of valuable information to the shipper of agricultural products such as fruits, vegetables, hogs, sheep, cattle, butter, eggs, etc.

Watch the markets closely on the commodities you have to offer. Countless instances are on record showing that through ill-advised shipments to glutted markets farmers have gotten less for their products than the actual cost of delivery to market alone. This can be avoided by a daily study of market conditions.

Do not wait until ready to sell. Familiarize yourself with conditions prior to that time and when the time does come to sell you will be able to properly interpret market conditions and sell to best advantage. If you are not familiar with the service of the Bureau of Markets write for information on their "Market News Service" and other data that they have. Headquarters are at Washington, D. C.

LOS ANGELES BULLETIN

BUSY MONTH

BURBANK WILL HAVE A CELEBRATION July 2, 3 and 4 which will include an air carnival, rodeo, electrical parade, the first showing of a sacred film "The Visualized Version of the Bible," mardi gras and street carnival. There will be free camping grounds and a tent city with accommodations for 10,000. The celebration, given by the Burbank Memorial Association, is to assist in raising funds for a Memorial Hall.

Venice will have a four-day carnival, ending at midnight July 4, to celebrate the formal opening of the new pier and million-dollar ballroom.

At San Gabriel plans are well under way for an elaborate pageant, the latter part of July, to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the arrival of the mission fathers at San Gabriel.

July 10 to 16, when Elks by the thousands will be in Los Angeles from all parts of the country for their national reunion, there will be continuous festivity. Numerous parades, among them a floral and an electrical, will be special features.

WOMEN INVITED TO ENTERTAINMENTS.

During the summer months, the entertainments at Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W. will be featured twice a month—the second and fourth Thursdays; the latter night the women folks and children will be welcome. The week-end outing June 18 and 19 was such a complete success that another is being arranged for the near future.

Officers will be installed this month. Initiation will be held once a month in future, and it is hoped the members will see to it that a big class is presented every month. Many new members have been welcomed recently.

CHARTER MEMBERS HONORED.

Ramona 109 N.S.G.W. celebrated its thirty-fourth initiation anniversary with a banquet at the Union League June 11. After the menu, President Walter Keene introduced Edwin A. Meserve as toastmaster, and the following responded to these toasts: "Our Order," Grand President William I. Traeger; "The World War," Robert Bartley (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.); "Fraternity," Thomas P. White; "Charter Members," Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger. The latter, in the course of his remarks, and in behalf of the Parlor, presented the five charter members in attendance—R. F. Del Valle, Fred Eaton, John Schumacher, W. H. Holmes and Frank Elder—with life memberships. In responding, Senator Del Valle recounted some early history of the state and the Parlor. An orchestra and entertainers added to the evening's enjoyment.

July 15 officers will be installed by D.D.G.P. W. G. Newell, Julius Plath becoming president. New members are being admitted regularly, and there's "something doing" after each Friday night's meeting in the clubrooms.

INITIATES CLASS.

Corona 196 N.S.G.W. initiated a class of candidates June 6, and has several applications on file. A team from the Past Presidents' Association exemplified the ritual, there was an entertainment program, and refreshments were served. July 11 D.D.G.P. W. G. Newell will install the officers, with Peter H. Muller as president.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. Alice Carter, who came to California via Panama in 1851, died June 23. She was a native of Ireland, aged 86, and is survived by three children, among them Senator Henry E. Carter (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.).

Miss Aldonza Rieco, daughter of Bert E. Rieco (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) passed away May 23, at the age of 27.

Leslie Roy Weyl, brother of Superior Judge Bertin A. Weyl (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) died May 30, at the age of 21.

Mrs. Charles Bennett, wife of Charles Bennett (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) passed away June 14.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Among the visitors to San Francisco last month were Cal W. Grayson (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.), Sheriff William I. Traeger and Arthur W. Kennedy (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) and W. T. Craig (Corona 196).

FIFTY YEARS AGO

cluding Garrett & Co.'s brass foundry, causing a loss of $275,000.

Snelling, Merced County, July 22 had its Chinatown and about twenty other buildings burned, with a $50,000 loss. Belle Mann, a 15-year-old girl, saved three little children in the house where the fire started and had her arm badly burned.

Elijah Thompson, a tan-bark shipper on Sequel Creek, Santa Cruz County, on July 4 was struck by a falling tree and killed.

Fatal Accidents Numerous.

The afternoon of July 5 a gang of boys were playing under a house on Leavenworth street near Sacramento, in San Francisco, and knocked out a support. The house fell and killed Charles Beach and badly injured Martin Redding and James Flanders, all lads in their fourteenth year.

Captain Sorman, on the bark "Glimpe" leaving San Francisco harbor July 1, had a quarrel with a sailor. He struck the latter with an iron bar; then the sailor drew a knife and slashed the captain's abdomen open, inflicting a fatal wound.

Edward Mills, a farmer in Cobb Valley west of Calistoga, Napa County, driving along the road July 21, was struck in the chest by a bullet that passed into his lung. A deer hunter, who was never seen by anyone to know him, fired the shot.

A. Schdartzwalter and Robert Sherlock, miners on Kanaka Creek, Sierra County, started to make a Chinese company vacate a mining claim July 24. All disappeared, and a few days afterward the bodies of the two men were found buried in shallow graves, after the Chinamen had killed them. The Chinamen had gone, and nobody knew where.

The boiler in Rice & Rice's sawmill near Forest Hill, Placer County, exploded July 7. A. Rice, one of the owners, and Charles Philbrow, the engineer, were instantly killed.

Joseph Johnson of Antioch, Contra Costa County, July 7 shot and wounded a hare. In striking it with the butt of his shotgun, to kill it, he fired the other barrel. The charge tore through his abdomen, killing him.

July 4 Robert Ray and eight shepherders in Tulare County were driving the flocks into the Sierras and camped that night on White River. About 11 p.m. a tree fell across their camp, killing Ray and seriously injuring four of the herders.

Peter Carr fell from the steeple of a Catholic church in San Francisco July 8 and was killed.

Walter Pence, a 14-months-old boy at Railroad Flat, Calaveras County, wandered from home July 2, fell into a shallow spring, and drowned.

The 18-months-old son of Daniel Fay in Scotts Valley, Siskiyou County, July 14 wandered from his home and was lost. Neighbors searched in vain until July 20, when the little dead body was found on the side of a steep hill in a clump of bushes about two miles from the home. The infant had died from exposure and starvation.

Jefferson Johnson, a young man, July 6 at Firebaugh's Ferry, Tulare County, was thrown by a horse and killed.

Mrs. Catherine Brennan, 63 years old, walking on the railroad track near Stockton July 24, was run over and killed by a train.

Willie Graham, a lad 10 years old, fell off the wharf at the foot of Mission street, San Francisco, and was drowned.

Joseph Kraft, a miner in the Gwin mine near Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, was crushed to death July 26 by the bucket, when being hoisted, rolling off the skids and striking him.

A 9-year-old lad named Roland, in attempting to catch a horse in South San Francisco July 31, was kicked on the head and killed.

HISTORIC PLACES GET ATTENTION

SUNDAY, AUGUST 7, HAS BEEN SELECTED by the Historic Landmarks Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West as the date for placing the bronze tablet at the Kit Carson Pass, near the summit of the Sierras, to mark the spot where the tree stood upon which the pioneer guide, Kit Carson, carved his name in the early part of the year 1844, when he conducted Colonel John C. Fremont and his expedition into California. Appropriate ceremonies will be held at the spot, and it is expected that Grand President William I. Traeger and a number of the grand officers and past grand presidents will be present. The Stockton Chamber of Commerce will promote a trophy automobile run to the pass on that day, and many automobile parties from California and Nevada will attend, and great interest is being manifested in the event.

The Alpine Highway, leading to Kit Carson Pass, and along the boundary between Amador and El Dorado Counties and to Round Top, passes through some of the grandest and most impressive scenery in California. Native Sons and others, contemplating an outing this summer, may go to the summit by the Alpine Highway and return by the Placerville-Tahoe route. The tablet will be but a short run from Lake Tahoe.

A section of the tree, containing the name Kit Carson and the date 1844, carved by this old frontier guide, is now in the museum at Sutter Fort, Sacramento. In the fall of 1919 Past Grand Presidents Joseph R. Knowland, the late Charles M. Belshaw, Lewis F. Byington and Clarence E. Jarvis, and the then Grand President William P. Caubu, drove by auto to the Summit and inspected the spot and arranged for the placing of the tablet.

FAMED MOUNTAIN DEDICATED AS PUBLIC PLAYGROUND.

Martinez—A big crowd gathered here June 19 at the invitation of Mount Diablo Parlor, No. 101, N.S.G.W., to participate in the exercises commemorating the dedication of Mount Diablo, noted as the survey meridian point for the northern and central sections of California, as a state park. Senator Will R. Sharkey (Mount Diablo 101 N.S.G.W.) was the author of the bill, passed by the recent Legislature and signed by the Governor, setting aside a portion of the mountain as a playground for the public.

The dedicatory exercises were held in the amphitheater at the base of the mountain, and the speakers included Lieutenant-governor C. C. Young; James F. Hoey, Past Grand President N.S.G.W.; Dr. Victory A. Derriek, Grand President N.D.G.W.; Charles L. McEnerney, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W.; Senator Will R. Sharkey; A. B. Tinning, District Attorney Contra Costa County, and Mrs. Frances Wilson Kidd. The committee of Mount Diablo Parlor in charge of the arrangements included: James F. Hoey, Will R. Sharkey, C. A. Ricks, George B. Upham, A. B. Tinning, G. O. Meese, J. A. Schweinitzer (president).

EL DORADO COUNTY LANDMARK, RESTORED, FORMALLY DEDICATED.

Kelsey—The James W. Marshall Memorial Building, erected by the State at this El Dorado County site at the instigation of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West to preserve the historic blacksmith shop of James W. Marshall, discoverer of gold at Coloma in 1848, was formally dedicated and opened to the public Sunday, June 26.

The exercises were in charge of Miss Margaret A. Kelly, who labored so long and faithfully to gain for Marshall his rightful place in California history. The program included music and many addresses, the principal speakers being Miss Grace S. Stoermer of Los Angeles, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., who told of the "Pioneer Mother," and Jo V. Snyder of Nevada City, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., who took for his theme, "Marshall."

In the memorial building, which houses the blacksmith shop, is a rare and interesting collection of early-day relics, including the manuscripts and implements of Marshall, gathered together by Marguerite Parlor, No. 12, N.D.G.W. (Placerville) and El Dorado Parlor, No. 186, N.D.G.W. (Georgetown), arranged in sections about the shop. The old Marshall tunnel, opposite the building, is also being opened and will add interest to those visiting this landmark.

CALIFORNIA'S FIRST MISSION WILL NOW BE RESTORED.

The Legislature having passed, and the Governor signed, A. B. 1187, the State will contribute $10,000 toward the restoration of San Diego, the first in the chain of missions erected in California by the Franciscan fathers. It is estimated $25,000 will be required, and of this sum an additional $5,000 was appropriated by the Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, in April, and the remaining $10,000 will be raised by San Diego Parlor, No. 108, N.S.G.W., and the citizens of California's "first" city—San Diego.

From Miss Grace S. Stoermer, secretary of the State Senate, who has been in Sacramento since the Legislature's adjournment compiling the Senate's history, The Grizzly Bear has received the good news, too, that S. B. 63, appropriating $1,000 for San Francisco de Solano Mission, at Sonoma and the property of the State, was passed by both houses and has been signed by the Governor.

*Why the Burnham
is Best*

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

MOB ACTION WRONG

State Officials, Responsible for Jap Conditions, Should Be Deported via the Ballot-box -- "Japan and the California Problem."

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

DURING THE PAST MONTH, FROM THE San Joaquin Valley—Livingston in Merced County and Turlock in Stanislaus County—have come reports of yellow Japs, brought into the fields by white Japs to work—and to displace White laborers—being forcibly deported.

Great as no doubt was the provocation in both instances, these unlawful acts are sincerely regretted by those who are devoting their best efforts toward ridding All California of the yellow pests who have come to this state unminvited by its people but as colonizers in the interest of Japan, and who have neither respect for our laws nor regard for the wishes of our citizens. Rather than assisting California's cause, however, such acts result in benefit to the Japs, for they create public sentiment in their favor.

No thinking loyal American condones the employment of force, other than by legally-constituted authorities, in the correction of any evil, no matter what its nature. Law and order must prevail, at all times and under every circumstance, if our Government, with all its faults by far the best in the world, is to survive. Any man who advocates disrespect for and practices disobedience of the law, be that man citizen or alien, is a dangerous enemy of our political, social, and commercial institutions. California must rid herself, by lawful means, of all such, be they white or yellow.

It is true that this state has an abundance of such enemies, and it is undeniable that they are directly responsible for creating the present situation. On the one hand are the white-Japs, citizens of the state, who advocate law-disrespect by conniving with the yellow-Japs to defeat the law's intent; on the other hand are the alien yellow-Japs, who persistently and knowingly defy the land law, the health-regulatory measures, the weights-and-standards act, and every other law that is not to their liking. Of the two, the white-Japs are the more dangerous enemies, for they both practice law-evasion and advocate law-disobedience on the part of subjects of a country whose greatest ambition is to conquer America. Were it not for these white-Jap enemies—traitors to California—this state would have no serious yellow-Jap problem to solve. For, if the yellow-Jap aliens could not get possession of property, could not secure employment, and could not find consumers for their products, they would not be here.

During the reign of the present State Administration, mob violence in California has been of more frequent occurrence than at any other time. Why? Because we are enmeshed with some lazy state officials whose duty it is to enforce the laws but who, instead, devote what little energy they are possessed of to talking, building up a political machine, and drawing their unearned salaries. While affording no justification, the inaction and dilly-dallying tactics of such officials are, to a considerable extent, responsible not only for the unlawful deportation of the San Joaquin Valley yellow-Japs but for the recent Sonoma County lynchings and other outbreaks.

California has a Governor who talks a plenty about the Jap menace, but who has done absolutely nothing, except talk, to curb that menace; has he ever made any attempt to compel, as the law gives him power to do, the proper state authorities to prosecute the land law violators? California has an Attorney-General, too, who, until just recently, made but one effort to enforce the 1913 land law which he is given the sole authority to enforce; his one effort, in Riverside County, met with failure, not because of the law's provisions but because he did not, as the presiding judge ruled, bring a proper action. And California has, too, a Corporation Commissioner who has given official sanction to numerous corporations formed purposely to evade the land law. Now, pray enlighten us, can the Japs' progress in California be stopped, with such public officials holding sway? They should be deported from office, via the ballot box, and The People should not wait until the general election next November to do it, but should accomplish it NOW, with the recall!

If the Governor, the Attorney-General, and the Corporation Commissioner had the desire and the "guts" to invoke the laws against both the yellow and the white Japs, the Jap menace in California would be cured p.d.q. Have they either the "guts" or the desire? Will the Governor compel the Attorney-General to bring escheat proceedings for every foot of land now illegally possessed by yellow-Japs? Will the Governor compel the Corporation Commissioner, his appointee, to invoke the law which gives him the legal right to examine into the workings of all corporations and to revoke the charters of those violating or evading the laws of the state? If their political well-being demands such action, they will get busy; otherwise, they will not. There will, possibly, be a few isolated cases of attempted law-enforcement, for the purpose of getting the "dear people" to retain them in office.

Direct action without further delay, but always within the law, will solve the Jap question satisfactorily to the White People of California. The Japs themselves know full well that we have on our statute book laws which, if enforced rigidly and impartially, will make their continued presence here impossible. The thing to do, then, is to force our state officials to enforce those laws; if they continue to neglect or refuse to do so, then compel them to make way for officials who will. To employ mob-force will never settle the Jap question; rather will the situation, now serious enough, be aggravated. We have always the ballot, the only and all-powerful weapon which should ever be employed by a loyal American citizen; its thoughtful use, on the part of all citizens, will solve all public questions to the majority's entire satisfaction and will make of these United States a more-powerful nation.

"JAPAN AND THE CALIFORNIA PROBLEM"

"Japan and the California Problem" has come to The Grizzly Bear from the publishers, G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. The authors are T. Iyenaga, Ph. D., lecturer in the Department of Political Science, University of Chicago, and Kenoske Sato, a former fellow in the same university; they claim the book is published that the Japs may be better understood, believing this will result in a satisfactory solution of the California Jap question. To begin with, it is because the Japs, both here and in Japan, are so well understood, their purpose so apparent, that the White People of this state have determined that California does not want them.

This book is another installment of Jap propa-

SUNKIST CALIFORNIA

(ESTHER CRONE.)

California, land of wonder, powerful in thy might,
Glorious are thy days and sunny heavens fair and bright;

Fragrant waft thy gentle breezes from off thy orange groves,
Beauty meets the eye resplendent as far as vision
roves;

Trees abound all kinds and plenty in thy orchards fair,
Flowers spring up of every color, delicate and rare.

California, land of citrus, grapes and walnuts, peaches, too,

Varied are thy fruits abundant as we take the country through;

Beans and peas and beets of sugar on thy acres grow;

Underground lie vaster fortunes, where the oil wells flow;

Gold and silver grace thy mountains to reward the miners' toil;

Fortune favors California, both beneath and on the soil.

California, sunkist splendor, where there's nothing left undone,

Cities full to overflowing lie basking in the sun.
Here the tourist finds a welcome and the seeker of a home

Finds his heart's desire is granted and we gladly bid him come.

No place like old California, loud her praise she speaks,

Sunkist ocean, plains and valleys crowned with sun-kist mountain peaks.

Los Angeles, California.

ganda, but is unlike most of the numerous books that have appeared from Jap sources, for it sets down some of the faults of Japan as a government, and calls attention to a few of the objectionable characteristics of the Japs; of course, care is taken to excuse both the faults and the characteristics. The authors make this statement, with which we agree: "The fact that the Japanese are looked upon rather favorably in the East is because there they are comparatively few in number and are not competitors of the Americans in the struggles for existence."

Two chapters are devoted to "Facts About the Japanese in California," wherein are recorded what are no doubt Jap facts, for they are plain, every-day lies. The Grizzly Bear has too often published and proved the contrary of these so-called "facts" to use space to again deny them separately. Here's a sample: "Most of the products which are monopolized by the Japanese are newly introduced kinds, total crop values of which are small, a very limited amount of acreage being used for their cultivation." The Japs produce nothing in California that was not grown in quantities sufficient to satisfy all needs, and sold at far less prices, long before the pests ever alighted on our agricultural lands; the records prove that through law infraction and evasion they now own and control a great quantity of the best land in the state, not desert wastes which, many of the Jap propagandists have contended, they have made to "blossom as the rose."

The question of assimilation is extensively dealt with and, of course, the contention is made that, if given a fair opportunity, the Japs can be assimilated and Americanized. The authors say, "That the Japanese in America have been able to make rapid progress in the Christian religion has been due to the generous aid and wise direction of the American churches." How that progress has been determined is not set forth, and care has been taken, too, not to refer to the number, and increasing, of Buddhist temples. Suffice to say in this regard, that these Buddhist temples—where the Japs' national religion is expounded on Sunday and the Jap language taught and loyalty to the emperor preached at least six days of every week—are springing up, out here in California, like mushrooms, their number now being somewhere near, if not exceeding, 100.

The intent of these authors, we surmise, is to bring about joint action by the Washington and Tokio governments which will stop—just like the "gentlemen's agreement"—has (not) stopped—further Jap immigration and will guarantee the Japs now here the right to hold the land they illegally possess. The book is but one in the vast quantity of propaganda in circulation for this purpose, and for which many anti-Jap publications and individuals have "fallen." The Japs well know that, with their breeding proclivities, if such a deal can

THE STORY OF ESTANISLAO

S. P. Elias

HERE IS A THREAD OF ROMANTIC interest as well as of exciting adventure in the story of Estanislao, the swarthy Indian chieftain who embraced Christianity in the early decades of the last century and who, after several years of religious life and training at the Mission of San Jose, fled from the quiet environment of the Spanish padres, returned to the wild existence of his youth on the pristine plains of old Stanislans, and became a freebooting bandit, rivaling the exploits of the brigands Joaquin Murieta and Tiburcio Vasquez of a later era, and harassing the inhabitants of the settlements and of the missions. It was Estanislao who gave his name to the river and the county of Stanislaus.

The historical background from which Estanislao emerged was suitable for the development of such a career as this crafty neophyte made for himself in the annals of the state. Aside from the fact of the constant warfare between the spiritual and the temporal authorities of the Mexican territory, there were friction and intense jealousy among the political leaders of the northern and the southern jurisdictions of California which plunged the state into constant turmoil, halted the execution of the law, and prevented the co-operative progress of the sparsely-settled province. These incessant broils—bespeaking a lack of cohesion among the various elements of the state—prepared the way for its subsequent conquest by the United States.

Echeandia was the governor of the state at this critical epoch. He and his following accorded to the fathers the severest kind of treatment. They belittled the work and the efforts of the padres. In their campaign for the secularization of the missions, in order to alienate the affection of the natives from their religious instructors and friends, they preached to the superficially educated, partially civilized, and none-too-loyal neophytes the doctrine of liberty and the equality of the converted Indians with the Spaniards. This course of speech and action produced an unexpected effect on the neophytes attached to the missions. Where they had previously accepted religious instruction with docility and had performed the menial tasks allotted them in and about the missious with contentment, after Echeandia and those who shared his views had harangued them with their lofty talks about equality and liberty, these peculiar ideas, instilled into the immature minds of the religious novitiates, caused a distinct change in their attitude. Thereafter they were neither as contented nor as obedient as they had previously been. They were prepared to embark on any adventure that promised excitement or loot of the whites. The seed thus planted for political purposes produced a crop of Indian disturbance and warfare.

The records of history are silent as to the date when Estanislao became a resident of the Mission of San Jose. He unquestionably came up from the Valley of the San Joaquin some time during the early years of the last century during the administration of Fathers Buenaventura Fortuni and Narciso Duran, the latter afterwards becoming a friend of Estanislao. The population of the pueblo was perhaps 250 whites and about from 500 to 600 neophytes—the latter result being accomplished through nearly 1,400 baptisms. The industries were of community stock raising, agriculture, and the cultivation of hemp. The town was generally fairly prosperous. It was into this primitive community of Spaniards, Mexicans, and Indian neophytes that Estanislao came for religious instruction and education, and perhaps to gain a larger knowledge of the habits and customs of the whites. He was baptised in the pueblo chapel.

An Indian of considerable native intelligence, he received his education at the mission. It may have been possible that he attended the pueblo school and became intimate with those old-time teachers, Buchna, Labistido, and the one-legged soldier, Romero. He was apparently punctual in his devotions at divine worship. Showing more than ordinary ability and apparently a degree of loyalty to the mission that merited confidence, he was appointed one of its native alcaldes. In this position he unquestionably acquired an influence over the neophytes, and the office being that of a minor magistrate it was his duty, under the Mexican law, to dispense justice among them. Throughout his residence at the mission he must have witnessed all the notable events that transpired both at the mission and at the pueblo. He must have viewed with some interest the boundary contests between the mission and the pueblo of San Jose, for at this place the mission and the pueblo were separate jurisdictions. The exasperating boundary disputes between the Missions of San Jose and Santa Clara must have impressed the Indian mind. He may even have assisted in the raids after the Gentle assassins of the Christian Indians, and may have been sent forth with the contingents that were dispatched after fugitive neophytes.

The visits of Kotzenbue, of Beechey, of Duhant-Cilly, and of Robinson—world navigators from the Eastern Hemisphere—to San Jose may have filled Estanislao with the yearning to explore the further ends of the world from which these fair-haired and white-faced people came. When the citizens assembled in the plaza May 10, 1825, to take the oath of allegiance to the Mexican constitution which was administered by Alcalde Higuera, the change of government and the manifestation of patriotism on the part of the Californians perhaps made some impression on the future outlaw, while the florid address of Juan Miranda may not have fallen on ears deaf to the flights of the oratory of the speaker. Estanislao may have even participated in the three days' hull-fighting and the other festivities that succeeded this notable event. Nor indeed did the lack of good order and of thrift on the part of the San Jose citizenry fail to escape the crafty intellect of Estanislao, for it was only a few years thereafter that the fugitive neophyte made the San Jose Mission the object of his brigandage.

Whether it was due to the mixed feelings engendered by this peculiar panorama of events, to the brutal treatment of the neophytes with the frequent floggings administered by those in authority, to the alarming mortality among the apparently converted Indians, to the menial tasks allotted to them, to the high-flown political philosophy of Echeandia in his harangues about liberty and equality, to a fancied rebuff from some superior, or to just the plain call of the wild, Estanislao, either in the fall of 1827 or in the spring of 1828, induced a number of neophytes from the Missions of San Jose and Santa Clara to flee with him to the San Joaquin Valley. On the Rio Laquimes, near the San Joaquin River, in company with other Gentle Indians, Estanislao and his associate, Cipriano, erected fortifications. After the fatal contest of the following year in which Estanislao was defeated and in commemoration of this battle between his forces and the troops under General M. G. Vallejo, the name of this river was changed to the Rio Estanislao.

The flight of so able a leader with so many Indians, their fortification on the Rio Estanislao and the daring with which they conducted their operations against the missions and the soldiers of Mexico, caused the padres of San Jose and Santa Clara to assume that Estanislao was instigating an uprising of all the neophytes at these two missions. In stealing cattle, in looting, and in killing the inhabitants, the Indians under Estanislao made themselves the terror of the ranches of the neighborhood. The authorities of the state were confronted with a large problem in the quelling of the activities of Estanislao and his associate, Cipriano. Father Duran immediately called upon Commandante Martinez for troops to destroy the fortifications and to bring back the fugitives to the missions.

An expedition of twenty men was organized to move against the rebellious Indians, but it was not made ready to start until May of 1829. In the meantime the Indians continued their onslaughts and their insulting challenges to the soldiers. May 5, 1829, Sergeant Sanchez, with forty men and a swivel gun, left San Francisco for the location of the fortifications of Estanislao. In two days after, reinforced by troops from San Jose, he reached the spot where the Indians had entrenched on the banks of the Rio Estanislao near the junction of the San Joaquin. It was in a dense and extensive thicket, which was difficult of penetration. Through this the soldiers endeavored to make their way. While this operation was proceeding the Indians charged upon the force under Sanchez. The battle raged all day. Muskets were used by the men under Sanchez; muskets and arrows were the weapons of the Indians. The swivel gun was ineffective. At sunset Sanchez withdrew. On the following morning Sanchez and his forces returned to the combat. As before, it continued throughout the entire day. The siege was ineffective. Two of the assaulting troops were killed after entering the woods and eight were wounded. Of the Indian allies eleven were wounded, one mortally. The exhaustion of the men and the ammunition caused the siege to be abandoned. The Sanchez contingent retreated to San Jose. Sergeant Soto died from the effects of his wounds. Estanislao was unconquered.

The victory of the Indians over the Spanish soldiers was due to the insufficiency of the force sent against them. Estanislao and his ex-neophytes and their Gentle companions, elated at their success, celebrated their triumph with the most extravagant feasting and dancing. The inhabitants of the neighboring rancherias, after the battle, admiring the pluck and the valor of the victors and allured by the victory, joined the forces under Estanislao, and made common fight against the soldiers of the missions.

A new expedition was prepared to dislodge the Indians on the Rio Estanislao. A contingent of forty men, under Sergeant Sanchez from San Francisco, marched to the thicket where the Indians were encamped. Observation showed that the Indians were too strongly entrenched. Sanchez reported that a larger force was necessary to fight the Indians successfully. An expedition from Monterey was at once organized to reinforce Sanchez. It was under the command of General M. G. Vallejo, who had risen to the rank of commander-in-chief of the army. This army was fully equipped with infantry, cavalry and artillery, and took with it a field piece for battering the palisades which the Indians had erected among their fortifications. It joined the contingent of Sanchez at San Jose, to which city he had previously retreated. Though not greatly experienced as an Indian fighter, Vallejo had just returned from a campaign in the Tulares, where he had, with thirty-five men, slain forty-eight Indians.

This combined force crossed the San Joaquin River May 29, 1829, by the use of rafts. On the next day they were at the scene of the former battle. They were met by a hail of arrows. Vallejo set fire to the wood. As the Indians came to the edge of the thicket the three-pounder on the opposite bank of the river destroyed many of them. In the afternoon Sanchez attacked the foe in the thicket, fighting for over two hours with a force of twenty-five men under him in the burning brush and retiring at dusk. On the next morning Vallejo entered the thicket with thirty-seven men. He found the place defended by pits, ditches, and barricades skillfully arranged. Blood was seen everywhere. The Indians had fled in the night. Vallejo pursued them. The next day he attacked them in another thicket near their rancheria on a small stream near the Rio Estanislao. Vallejo surrounded this thicket. The Indians retired to their ditches and embankments. When his ammunition gave out, Vallejo was compelled to retreat. During the night the Indians tried to escape. Many were killed, though a few did succeed in evading the sentries. On the next morning not an Indian, with the exception of three squaws, was found alive in the fortress of Estanislao. Vallejo then returned to San Jose, where he arrived June 4, 1829. Though Estanislao was conquered, none of the neophytes were taken back to the mission. It was charged that after this battle numerous atrocities were indulged in by the Spanish soldiers and their Indian auxiliaries on the members of the tribe of Estanislao.

The most interesting feature of the entire campaign was the fact that though he fought with his men constantly, Estanislao in the last extremity managed to escape from the slaughter. He delivered himself to Father Duran, who concealed the penitent neophyte for some time and then procured his pardon from Echeandia. The subsequent career of Estanislao is clouded in obscurity. It is possible that he remained at the Mission of San Jose for a few years, during which time he pursued the path of an Indian of peace and religious predilection. He however appeared again in the annals of the year 1836, when the police judges of the pueblo of San Jose complained of the ever-increasing horse-stealing by the runaway Indians. One of those named as an evil-doer in this regard was Estanislao, who was accused of raising a band of renegades and Gentle Indians with whom he overran the settlements, driving away the livestock, and causing the death of several colonists.

When the first American came into this part of California in the early '40s and settled in the mountains of the Sierras to the east of what is now Stanislaus County, the river still, among the Mexicans and the Indians, bore the name of the "Rio Estanislao." The Americans anglicized it into "Stanislaus," and the territory surrounding it was known as the "Stanislaus country." When the Legislature, in 1854, created the county, it was given the name from the principal river that courses through it and from the title by which the country was generally known. The Rancheria del Rio Estanislao, one of the five Mexican land grants within the limits of Stanislaus County and located in the eastern part thereof, derives its name from the Rio Estanislao that courses through it.

HISTORY REPEATED

TABLET TO BE DEDICATED IN SIERRAS

SAN FRANCISCO—THE SEVENTY-FIFTH anniversary of the raising of the American Flag in this city was celebrated July 9 at Portsmouth Square. On the same spot where, July 9, 1846, Captain John B. Montgomery of the United States sloop-of-war "Portsmouth" hoisted the flag and proclaimed the territory under American control, Admiral Edward H. Eberle, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, repeated the flag-raising while the band played and a chorus of thousands sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

A parade of six divisions, in which appeared many Native Sons and Native Daughters, proceeded from the Civic Center to Portsmouth Square, where exercises commemorative of the historic day were held, with County Clerk Harry I. Mulerevy (Olympus 139 N.S.G.W.) presiding as chairman of the day. Father Martin delivered the invocation, E. A. Douthitt read an original poem by Edward Robeson Taylor, there were brief addresses by John Hays Hammond and Senator James D. Phelan (Pacific 10 N.S.G.W.), and the Boy Scouts, led by Captain R. A. Carter, recited "The Pledge to the Flag." Lewis F. Byington (Past Grand President N.S.G.W.) was the orator of the day, and in the course of his address said:

"No event meant more to the Union than did the raising of the American Flag on this plaza by Commander Montgomery of the United States Navy, seventy-five years ago this day at 8 o'clock in the morning. It planted the Nation's outposts on the shores of the Pacific. It gave to the United States the finest harbor in the world, with the trade of the Orient to the west, and the waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers reaching the most fertile valleys on earth, and the mighty Sierra to the east clothed with magnificent forests and seamed with veins of gold.

"Junipero Serra, listening with pious zeal to the mission bells calling the heathen to Christianity and salvation; Portola, with plumed hat, gazing from the brown hillside at the lower reaches of the bay of St. Francis; the courtly Arguello, comandante of the presidio by the Golden Gate, were but the advance guard who blazed the way for the coming of the Argonauts, the American Pioneers of the West. They came in search of the golden fleece and laid strong and deep the foundations of an American commonwealth. By the side of the school, reared for the education of the citizen, they raised the flag, a symbol of loyalty.

"No such an era as the days of '49 and '50 was ever before known, nor shall it be known again. The brave, the venturesome, the chivalrous, the kind, the charitable, from every land came in through the Golden Gate and down from the canyons of our mountains, to work our mines, to till our soil, to build our cities, and make the name of San Francisco, and of California, the symbol of wealth and hospitality and romance, loved and praised by every race and in every clime. There is no other land so lovely or so generous or so progressive as this to which Commodore Sloat and Commander Montgomery brought the American Flag in July, 1846. There is no citizenship more loyal to that for which the flag stands."

CALAVERAS COUNTY HAS LARGE NUMBER HISTORIC LANDMARKS.

There is work in Calaveras County for community councils, the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, and other patriotic citizens, in preserving our historic landmarks. As the years go on, these will become of more and more interest. The old Pioneers, who participated in the events of the romantic era of our history are rapidly passing and it will soon be too late to obtain authentic data of many of the early-day scenes. The East is studded with tablets marking the historic events, which are always objects of interest.

Here, close to San Andreas, are many places that should be preserved and marked. Beside the road near the old Riley place, now owned by Neilson, stands a large oak tree from which was hung the first man in the county condemned by a miners' jury. Near it is a pioneer graveyard, probably one of the oldest in the county if not the oldest; close at hand is the site of the first organized mining camp in the county. Just across the river is the site of the old Indian rancharia, the largest in the county, and the bones of whose warriors who perished in desperate battle with foes, lower down the river, and the finding of whose bleached skulls gave the name of the river and county.

There also, was probably the first discovery of gold by the Mexican soldiers who found the bones and skulls, and so named the river. We might mention many other places of historic interest, such as the old court house at Double Springs, but the naming of these may lead to the suggestion of others.—Calaveras Prospect.

TO DEDICATE TABLET MARKING HISTORIC SPOT IN HIGH SIERRAS.

Sunday, August 7, the Historic Landmarks Committee of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West—Joseph R. Knowland, Lewis F. Byington, Judge John F. Davis, Louis H. Mosser, Herman C. Lichtenberger (all Past Grand Presidents), Judge William H. Waste and Max E. Licht—will dedicate the bronze tablet which is to be placed at the summit of the Sierras, in Alpine County, to mark the spot where the tree stood upon which the pioneer guide and scout, Kit Carson, carved his name and the date, 1844, when he conducted Colonel John C. Fremont and his expedition into California. An appropriate program will be presented, among the speakers being Grand President William I. Traeger. The public generally are invited to attend the dedicatory ceremonies.

It is expected a large number of people from California and Nevada will attend the dedication ceremonies. The spot can be reached by automobile over the road leading from Jackson and Sutter Creek and along the boundary line between El Dorado and Amador counties. This road over the Sierras is one of the most picturesque in the state, and will be in good condition by August. The Kit Carson Pass is not far from Lake Tahoe, and after the dedication one may proceed to the lake and return home by any of the roads leading from the wonderful surrounding mountain country.

GIFTS TO CRUISER "CALIFORNIA" TO BE ON SUPERDREADNAUGHT.

August 10 is the date set for the official commissioning of the superdreadnaught "California," built at the Mare Island Navy Yard. At the same time 1,400 bluejackets, all natives of California and all in training for some time past, will go aboard. January 1 the "California" will become the flagship of the Pacific fleet.

In a prominent place on board this magnificent new fighting-ship of Uncle Sam's Navy will be encased the silver service presented to the cruiser "California"—which made the memorable journey to the Atlantic Coast during the Spanish-American war and was later wrecked—by the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. The set is made up of sterling silver decorated with solid gold; the name "California" is on each piece of silver in raised letters, and each piece carries a seal of the state on a foundation of gold; the small "grizzly bears" which are used as handles on all covers are of solid gold, as is the ladle.

On board the superdreadnaught, too, is to be placed a bronze tablet, made from pennies donated by California's schoolchildren, originally presented to the cruiser "California" by the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West. The tablet was removed from the cruiser when it was rechristened the "San Diego."

THE PIONEER

—Copyrighted, 1920, by the Author—
In this far-famed land of health and gold
Where the sun shines bright and warm,
Where the warm south wind so gently blows
And tempers the fierce north storm,

There lives a man of the primitive type,
Of long and long ago—
A man who lives in the dim dead past
Of fifty years ago.

Of nimble foot and giant frame,
Though his years are many and long,
The fire of youth still burns in his veins
And his sinews are tough and strong.

He lives not the life of the hermit man,
Where the mountain echoes ring,
But he goes about this land of his choice
With the mein of a medieval king.

The wise folklore of his ancient time
He dispenses free to all,
And no storm too fierce or gale too strong
To go when he hears the call.

Though his sight is dim, and his aim not true,
And his nerves are all unstrung,
Yet he loves the wilds of the mountain rills,
And his faithful dog and gun.

To fears that are oft expressed by men,
Of the beast of the mountain wild,
He will say, "My friend, are you afraid?
"Why, he would not harm a child!

"I have lived my years of life with him,
"Have braved him in his lair
"With nothing save these horny fists
"And arms most covered with hair."

How oft you see his aged form
Climb up the crooked way,
To the base of towering peaks above,
In search of antlered prey.

No city life for him, my friend,
"Mid misery, want and dearth;
The wild and rugged mountain
Is his heaven here on earth.

His hat is slouched, his shoes are worn
Most through at both the toes,
And his hairy breast can plain be seen
Through the rents in his threadbare clothes;

For his life has been of hardships,
His years been full of toil,
In that mad race for the golden wealth
Of the rocks and the shifting soil.

The children gather 'round his knee
In the sunny village street,
And listen to the tales of old,
To them a boon and a treat;

They listen to the oft-told tales
Of the mad, mad rush of man,
To gather the yellow grains of gold
From the rocks and the river's sand.

The weight of his many years of life
Is fast bowing his hoary head,
And leaving him just a relie
Of the days that are past and dead.

The rush and roar of the fast new life—
Of wheel and flitting wing—
As it hurries by from morn 'till night,
Does not appeal to him.

His way is not of this later life,
Of things both new and strange;
But his way is that of the primitive time,
And the wild, rough mountain range.

He opened up the dangerous ways
To the feet of modern man,
He marked the rough and crooked trails
With the work of his old hand.

The day is drawing very near
When his time on earth is done,
When no more he'll turn his rugged face
Toward the setting sun.

May his journey to that other land,
That other golden shore,
Be made in peace, not hardships,
As the one that's now most o'er.

And when you gather at his bier,
To say your last farewell,
Take off your hats, you men of wealth,
And bow to the aged Pioneer.

(Editor's Note—The above copyrighted lines came to The Grizzly Bear from S. E. Goldsbey of Junction City, Trinity County, who styles himself "an adopted son of the Golden West from Sunny Tennessee." Accompanying the contribution was this statement by Mr. Goldsbey:

("The annexed verses are respectfully dedicated to the remnant of that fast-disappearing band of rugged heroes who, by their brave and untiring efforts, opened up to the march of Civilization an unexplored region so varied and vast in its entirety as to be entirely beyond the descriptive possibilities of man. To the scattered remnant of this noble band of uncrowned kings, many of whom are without home or honor in this vast empire that was reclaimed from a wilderness by the work of their hands, these verses are respectfully dedicated.")

THE PRESENT, THE OPPORTUNE TIME.

The present hour is the only one a man controls. In it he finds his sole opportunity for service, for achievement, for happiness. He may plan and provide for the future, but he lives only in the present. Tomorrow, next month, next year, if they come, turn out to be only todays. It is what a man does now that makes or breaks him.

We build only in the present. This does not mean that we are responsible only for the present. We all owe much to the future. But the future of our past lives faces us today. There is no time for us to do anything worth while but in the present hour.—Pacific Grove Review.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

DURING AUGUST 1871 THE POLITICAL campaign developed into one of the most strenuous and energetic California had ever experienced. The gubernatorial candidates—Newton Booth, Republican, and Governor Henry F. Haight and Jo Hamilton, Democrats, assisted by a score of stump-speakers, traveled over the whole state, and processions and hilarious crowds were of frequent occurrence in the towns. Driving behind a team over dusty and rocky mountain roads and getting the limited fare and accommodations of the interior hotels made a stumping tour an arduous duty. Hannibal Hamlin, Vice-president of the United States during President Lincoln's first term, came to the state August 17 and made several speeches for the Republican party, as did Congressman John A. Bingham of Ohio and Senator J. W. Nye of Nevada. Aiding the Democrats were "Brick" Pomeroy, the noted editor of a Democratic Eastern journal, and Congressman "Sunset" A. Cox, of New York.

Reports of large and enthusiastic meetings and united strength for both parties made the result in September look like a close finish, and the betting men were not anxious to back either party. The only betting being done was by enthusiastic partisans at even money. The Miners' Union of Amador County, dissatisfied with Governor Haight's action in seceding the militia there, and the Negro vote to be polled for the first time, were considered to give the Republicans some advantage and as that party carried the state by a small majority in '68 it was, by shrewd figurers, considered to have a little the best of it.

Mrs. Laura Deforec-Gordon announced herself an independent candidate for State Senator from San Joaquin County. Mrs. Van Valkenburg at Santa Cruz sued for a writ of mandamus to compel the county clerk to put her name on the great register as a voter; it was denied. John M. Coghlin and George Pearce, rival candidates for Congress in the Third district, were stumping the district together and, in joint debate, discussing the issues before big crowds composed of partisans of both parties. The Taxpayers' party, with a local ticket headed by Wm. Alvord for mayor in opposition to the two regular parties, was confusing matters in San Francisco. The party took no side in state politics, and devoted its efforts entirely to local affairs.

Frank M. Pixley, Jack Stratman and other turbulent politicians bolted the Republican city and county convention in San Francisco and organized an opposition convention. They were dubbed the "Bell Ringers" party, from the fact they sent out bell ringers to announce their first meeting and proceeded to put a legislative and city officers ticket in the field. The first night saw a fight between Pixley and W. W. Stow, in which a gun was displayed, but the antagonists were separated before any physical damage was done. Stratman, too, had a couple of fistfights.

The largest demonstration of the campaign was that of the Republicans in Sacramento, Newton Booth's home town, on the evening of August 25. Six special trains from Chico, Dutch Flat, Vallejo, Stockton, Folsom, Woodland and way points brought several thousand participants. Captain Wm. M. Siddons was grand marshal of the torchlight procession, which was over an hour passing Second and J streets. On Second street, in front of the Orleans hotel, seats of fourteen tiers, 300 feet long, were built and they and the balconies held 5,000 listeners, while the street was filled, the crowd being estimated at 12,000. The friends of Booth illuminated their business places and homes and the meeting was as enthusiastic as any partisan could desire.

Valuable Boulder Found in Sierra.

The Mechanics' Fair was opened in San Francisco, August 8. An exhibit from Japan, the first ever made in America, attracted much favorable attention. A cologne fountain that found popular favor with the fair sex suddenly ceased to play. An investigation found that thieves, from beneath the floor, had ingeniously tapped a forty-gallon cask of cologne and carried the contents off.

The mining stock market appears to have lost its pep this month and the number of speculators on California street, San Francisco, instead of increasing, decreased. Crown Point opened at $296 and Belcher at $204 a share. August 7 Crown Point declared its third consecutive monthly dividend of $10 a share and advanced to $320. Ophir, on a reported improvement, jumped from $10 to $27 a share, and Hale & Norcross from $85 to $100 during the middle of the month. Then came a deal in Yellow Jacket, which advanced from $40 to $70 a share. Two brokers failed for over $150,000 and one of them committed suicide. Crown Point at $305 and Belcher at $240 closed the month.

A quartz boulder found in a hydraulic mine at St. Charles Hill, Sierra County, weighed seventy-seven pounds and contained over $12,000 in gold.

Don Abel Stearns, who came to California in 1828 and at one time owned an immense ranch near Los Angeles, died in San Francisco August 23. He found gold in San Francisco Canyon in 1843 and sent it to the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia, but it attracted no attention. He was 80 years old and left no family.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers, a talented actress, arrived from the East August 28 to fill an engagement at the California theater, San Francisco.

None of the gift concerts now advertised were pulled off this month, and all were postponed to future dates on account of the non-sale of all their tickets.

Seven thousand barrels of flour were shipped to China August 1.

John W. Bidwell's ranch at Chico, Butte County, harvested 76,000 bushels of grain and the flour mill there was running night and day filling an order for flour from China.

Strawberry peaches from Coloma, El Dorado County, pronounced to be the finest ever seen, were selling in San Francisco for 10 cents a pound.

A fire on King street, San Francisco, August 4 destroyed several manufacturing plants with a $30,000 loss.

A fire at Emigrant Gap, Placer County, August 10, destroyed a store and hotel and half a mile of snowshed.

Nesbit's quartz mill at Oregon City, Butte County, was burned August 5, causing a $20,000 loss.

A fire at Jackson, Amador County, August 7, destroyed the "Ledger" office, published by Thos. A. Springer, Republican candidate for state printer, and several other buildings.

Cloverdale, Sonoma County, during a Democratic meeting, August 30, had a fire break out that destroyed several business houses and caused a $20,000 loss.

The stage for Visalia, Tulare County, from Gilroy, Santa Clara County, August 11 was stopped by four road agents and the passengers robbed of $400. Contrary to the usual procedure, the highwaymen did not take the express box or make any search for it. The robbery was committed by a gang of Mexicans led by Tiburcio Vasquez, who afterwards robbed a Democratic candidate named Moore of $55 and several teamsters.

Rattlesnakes in Publicity Light.

An attempt was made by three masked men to stop the Cloverdale, Sonoma County, stage on August 11, three miles from town. The driver applied his whip and the horses, dashing away, frustrated their plan. August 20 evidently the same highwaymen repeated the performance. There were ten passengers on the stage and the driver, Sandy Woodworth, attempted to again whip and dash away, but a bullet fired by one of the robbers hit his cheek and stopped him. A passenger named Truett then opened fire on the robbers, who answered in kind, killing T. H. Benton of Ukiah and mortally wounding B. S. Coffman of San Francisco.

The Red Bluff, Tehama County, and Yreka, Siskiyou County, stage was stopped near Cottonwood, August 21 by four masked men armed with Henry rifles. They took the express box, containing $4,300, and decamped.

The mother of a family of three little children between 12 and 7 years of age, near Elk Grove, Sacramento County, became insane and was taken to Stockton. The father, to conceal her sad fate from the children, kept telling them she had gone to Sacramento and would return soon. But one afternoon they slipped away, went to the station, and got on a train for Sacramento. They told the conductor their mother was in Sacramento and would pay their fare there. On arrival they began a search for their mamma, which, of course, was futile, and when it became fearful they were taken in charge by the city officials and returned home.

A farmer named Haskell in San Joaquin County heard a disturbance in his hen house one night and went there to investigate. Seeing nothing to alarm the hens, he noticed a setting hen became agitated and, putting his hand under her in the nest, grasped a rattlesnake, which he threw on the ground, but it immediately returned to the nest. Getting fire tongs and a shovel he again removed and killed the snake. It had a newly-hatched chicken in its mouth, which prevented it from striking Haskell with its fangs.

Sammy Frakes, a boy on Willow Creek, Fresno County, driving cattle, dropped his whip in a clump of weeds and jumped off his horse to pick it up. Reaching for it he was struck on the hand by a rattlesnake. The fangs made a wound which Sammy immediately began sucking and rode home as quickly as he could. There he was dosed liberally with whiskey, and though his arm was badly swollen for three days the injury passed off without leaving any ill effects.

A newspaper man in Los Angeles saw, while strolling in his garden, a wasp and a tarantula in mortal combat while a toad interestedly looked on. Finally the combatants rolled close to the toad, when flip out went its tongue and in went the fighters. But the toad did not enjoy the meal long, for it soon died in great agony. As no post-mortem was held, it was not ascertained which one of the insiders caused the demise.

MINING CONDITIONS NOT ENCOURAGING

METAL MINING IN CALIFORNIA DURING the first half of 1921 has been even more depressed than in 1920, according to Charles G. Yale of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. Owing to the low prices of most of the metals and the increasing cost of production many mines have shut down and others reduced operations.

During the first six months of 1921 the United States Mint at San Francisco and local smelters and refiners received from the mines of the state $7,362,294 in gold, or $482,000 less than during the first six months of 1920, when the receipts were $1,086,739 less than in 1919.

The silver received during the first half of 1921 by the mint, smelters, and refineries amounted to 1,235,520 ounces, or 726,535 ounces more than in the first half of 1920, and the first half of 1920 showed an increase of 376,310 ounces over the same period in 1919. This is somewhat remarkable, for several of the large copper mines of the state, from which most of the silver produced in California has usually been derived, have remained closed in 1920 and 1921. By far the largest producer of silver in the state is the Rand, in San Bernardino County, opened in 1919.

No signs of immediate improvement in gold mining in California can be seen. The cost of supplies has diminished somewhat, but wages continue to be a source of contention between the operators and the miners' union. The decrease in output does not affect equally the deep and the placer mines. The output of the deep mines appears to be falling off about 16 percent, whereas that of the placers is falling off only 12 percent. The placer gold output is kept up mainly by the dredgers, which show little total loss, but other forms of placer mining are not so prosperous as formerly. Unfavorable conditions exist not only at the gold mines, but at those yielding copper and other metals. Most of the larger copper mines and nearly all the smaller ones are still closed down as they were in 1920; the largest producer in the state is the Engels mine, in Plumas County, which continues its large production in the face of adverse conditions. There has been an increase in the output of both lead and zinc, due almost entirely to the mines in Inyo County, although some zinc comes from Shasta County.

Oil Production Increases.

California oil wells during June produced a total of 26,768,643 barrels. The average daily production was 337,625 barrels, an increase, compared with June of last year, of 524 barrels. Oil stocks during the month increased 1,713,933 barrels. Seventy-six new wells were added to the producers' list.

DISARMAMENT STUPENDOUS BLUNDER

WHEREAS, THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA and the Pacific Coast constitute the frontier of Caucasian and Christian civilization and are particularly jeopardized by the "rising tide of color," heathenism and retrogression; and whereas, Japan, the leader of this rising tide, is arming and preparing herself for the penetration, the subjugation of the entire White Race, and the eradication of Christianity and civilization, with our beloved state as the starting point; and whereas, we recognize that the only effectual protection for ourselves and our homeland lies in thorough military and naval preparedness on the part of the State and the Nation, and that we cannot rely on any promises made by any nation whose national creed is one of deceit and treachery; be it, therefore,

Resolved, by Ramona Parlor, No. 109, Native Sons of the Golden West, that we unqualifiedly condemn all unlimited proposals for disarmament on the part of the United States or by international agreement; that we believe this is a time when American thought and aspiration should be turned toward preparedness and unblinking recognition of the danger which confronts us, and of the further fact that no international agreement which we have heretofore accepted can now or ever give security; and be it further

Resolved, that we regret that the House of Representatives of the United States Congress has placed itself on record as being in favor of a conference on disarmament without first taking steps to provide the nation with proper safeguards in the event of the failure of such conference, and that we extend our heartiest thanks to Messrs. Carew, O'Brien and Moore for their stand in opposition to this ill-advised measure; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be submitted to all the Subordinate Parlor of the Native Sons and the Native Daughters of the Golden West, as well as to other patriotic orders and organizations, with the plea that they assist in speeding the campaign for state and national preparedness, and to tread down the pacifist and near-pacifist sentiment which constitutes the great menace to our beloved state and nation; and be it further resolved, that copies of these resolutions be forwarded to the Congressmen hereinbefore named, to the Senators and Representatives of the State of California, to the press, and to such other agencies as may assure full publicity for the sentiments herein expressed.

(Editor's Note—These resolutions, submitted by A. E. Hamilton, A. R. Hinton, Sidney Neighbors, Grove T. Vail and W. L. Coffey, were unanimously adopted by Ramona Parlor, No. 109, N.S.G.W., of Los Angeles at the July 8 meeting, following a discussion of the question of disarmament which was participated in by many ex-service members of the Parlor.

(The people of this country, we believe, and assuredly those of California and the West, are opposed to disarmament but in favor of complete preparedness at whatever necessary monetary cost until such time as there can be no reasonable doubt as to Japan's intentions—until such time as that country's colonization scouts in California, Hawaii, and other parts of the United States and in other countries are recalled to their homeland. Any promise or agreement, verbal or written, on the part of Japan, is not to be relied upon; deceit and treachery are well-known characteristics of that country, both its people and its government, and the diplomatic victories it has already achieved have resulted from the fact that its representatives have been well schooled in the "art" of camouflage.

(To rely upon diplomacy and treaties, when dealing with Japan, is to court a national disaster which will surely come unless this Government is prepared to enforce its demands. And any demand upon Japan that does not include the withdrawal of its subjects holding land contrary to law and treaty-rights in California and other states is virtually a death-stab on the part of our National Government at those states.

(Japan is a noted "bluffer," and has intentionally involved itself in many serious problems with the United States because it has in mind the accomplishment of one "big" purpose for which it hopes to gain success by "magnanimously" acceding to the wishes of this country in all the other lesser disputes. That one "big" purpose, we surmise, is to have the right of naturalization extended to Japs. Such concession would nullify the land laws; would give the mikado's subjects all rights guaranteed every American citizen. Then will flock in thousands of Japs and, being worshippers as well as subjects of the Japanese emperor, regardless of their naturalization, Japan will have won a priceless victory—a victory which will

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

KEEP "COOTIES" OFF THE POULTRY.

POULTRY PARASITES ARE AMONG THE most important enemies of the poultry industry. They may be found in every flock the country over, and it is only by careful and constant attention that these pests are kept under control. Their reproduction is very rapid and their life history covers a long period, so that the poultry owner must not only clean up thoroughly but regularly.

The long period of warm weather in California renders their control more difficult, but at the same time more important. In cool weather they are not as active. Clean-up work must be simultaneous with the poultry and the houses in which they live.

There are two groups of parasites that are always to be distinguished, and once a person finds both and compares them the differences are easily distinguished. Chicken mite is the common name for the red mite, which is the most common of the mites on poultry. They feed principally on the blood of the fowl, which they secure by puncturing the skin with the proboscis, or sucking mouth part of the mite, and sucking the blood while the bird is on the roost at night. This is a peculiar characteristic of the mite. Live mites do not stay on the bird during the day, but fill themselves with blood at night and then retire to the cracks and crevices of the poultry house, barn, nests, and cleats supporting the roost. The following night the process is repeated. Setting hens are often forced to leave the nests on account of the severity of their attacks. Birds living in heavily infested quarters become weak and drowsy and they then become extremely susceptible to other troubles.

Control measures are not complicated. They cannot live long in sunshine. More windows with greater air circulation are helpful in control work. No cracks or crevices should be left in the nests or roosts as far as possible. Spraying or painting the roosts, nest boxes, and house is effective. For this purpose some of the prepared poultry remedies are good, or one of the following may be prepared:

1. Kerosene, 3 parts; crude carbolic acid, 1 part.
2. Soap solution, 1/2 pound; kerosene, 2 gallons; water, 1 gallon; agitate thoroughly until an emulsion is formed.
3. Boiled lime sulphur solution, 1 gallon; water, 8 gallons. To be most effective the first application should be followed in warm weather by another five or six days later, or in cool weather, about ten days later. Apply to all the cracks and crevices under pressure and cover the entire surface as well.

The other parasite is the chicken louse and, unlike the mite, spends its entire life on the body of the bird, constantly sapping the vitality of its host. The louse is much longer than the mite and of a pale grayish color. The louse does not suck its food but lives on the hair, feathers and scales of the fowl by means of its biting mouthparts. There are several species of lice, one living on the body, most often found under the wings and around the vent. The head louse is always on the head and neck, while the shaft louse lives at the base of the larger feathers of the body. Weakness resulting from their attacks is similar to that resulting from the work of mites. Often the attacks are so severe as to cause the death of the bird. Even though death does not result, egg production is curtailed or stopped completely and the bird will be very pale and thin, especially about the head.

Control must be on the fowls themselves, where the lice stay. The live lice must be killed and eggs and nits at the base of the feathers killed as well. Powdered sodium fluoride applied directly to the parts affected, particularly the head, neck, back, tail, under the wings, and around the vent, is effective if taken in pinches and dusted thoroughly into the feathers at these places so that it gets clear to the base of the feathers. A good powder can be made at home by mixing one part of stock dip and three parts of gasoline with enough dry cement to take up the liquid. Sprinkle this powder thoroughly through the feathers. The head louse can be easily controlled by rubbing in a salve made of one tablespoon of stock dip mixed with one cup of melted lard or vaseline.

Above all, it must be remembered that control measures to be effective must be used throughout the year without waiting for the flock to show the effects of these parasites. Then much damage has already been done and financial losses necessarily sustained. Success with poultry depends upon attention to these details early and late.

CULLING THE HENS.

The poor producing hens have probably begun to molt already, and as early molting hens extend their resting period over a much longer time than do the late molters, it is generally economy to get rid of the early ones and save a big feed bill.

Associated with egg production are certain fairly definite color changes. Before a hen begins to lay a rich yellow color is generally found in the beak, legs and skin of the common varieties of fowls such as the Leghorns, Rocks, Wyandottes, and Reds. As the hen commences laying this color disappears first around the vent. Next the ear lobes fade out and become pale pink or white. This does not hold true with the Minorcas, which are always white skinned. Later the beak loses its color and finally the shanks. Consequently if a hen is examined in the summer months and her legs and beak are well bleached out to a white or pinkish color it is good evidence that she is a good producer. This is particularly true if she is not molting.

Another point of importance is that of capacity, by which is meant the distance from the breast bone to the pelvic bones. When a fowl is producing heavily at any time during the year her capacity will be good for the size of the hen. When she ceases laying the abdomen becomes shrunken and hard and the distance much less from the keel bone to the pelvic bones. This test, however, is only of value when taken in conjunction with color tests and time of molting.

DISPOSING OF FRUIT AT A PROFIT.

One of the least-appreciated problems in the disposition of fruit is that of uniformity of ripeness. This is particularly true with California fruits, because of the distance from the principal distributing centers.

The writer had the privilege, a number of years ago, and again within the past month, of visiting the auction markets in New York, looking over the fruit from California as it arrived on Erie Pier and then going into the auction-rooms and seeing it sold. On the pier each lot of fruit was piled separately and given a lot number. The top box in each pile of from four to ten boxes was open for examination. All buyers inspected the fruit and noted the condition in their catalog, for every lot of fruit is catalogued before the sale. This was all done before the sale in the morning. The auction began at 8:30 a. m. (daylight saving time).

Cherries and apricots were the principal deciduous fruits in the market from California at that time.

The first thing that was noticeable was the variation in ripeness of different fruits in the same box. Many boxes had some fruits that were still firm and not fully colored, while others in the same box or basket were overripe, crushed, and partially moldy. In some lots the fruits were all practically uniform. In the salesroom these uniform lots sold readily at good prices, while on the uneven lots the bidding was spiritless and sales were made at very much lower figures. The only visible difference between two such lots was the difference in ripeness. In two particular lots, neither of which showed decay in more than a cherry or two, the prices received were very different, one lot being uniformly ripe throughout and bringing a good price; the other lot, showing variation in ripeness but otherwise apparently as good as the first, selling for considerably less.

This simply points out the necessity of the California shipper exercising the utmost care to see that fruits of one degree of ripeness only go into a container. Invariably the price paid for the lot is on the basis of the value of the poorest fruit in the lot. Slight differences in apparent ripeness at the shipping end may become big differences by the time the fruit has been from ten to fifteen days on the road and has ripened materially during that time.

Another related difficulty was that some shippers did not know how ripe to pick and pack the fruit in California. Some lots received were from one-third to two-thirds overripe and decayed on arrival in New York. Such lots were practically worthless. Others arrived too green and had shrunk considerably. It is a well-known fact that fruit picked too green will shrink much more in transit than will fruit picked when more nearly ripe. When the fruit shrinks it is battered and bruised more, as it does not entirely fill the container; consequently injury is greater and decay sets in more quickly.

It is difficult for the shipper to know exactly what ripeness will give the best results. He should, therefore, make notes on the condition of given lots that he ships and then ask for definite reports on the condition of these lots on arrival at destination. Most receivers will gladly give such reports. In this way the grower can pick earlier or later as the need may require. Underripe fruit should be left on the trees, or at least packed separately, and overripe fruit should be sold to the canneries or local markets to avoid waste and loss. Above all, maintain as nearly absolute uniformity of ripeness within containers as is humanly possible, and this applies doubly strong to the early fruits, though the same conditions are being found now in peaches here in the Eastern markets.

SELF-FEEDERS FOR HOGS.

The advantages of the self-feeder for hogs are too self-evident to require enumeration. Nevertheless, the time required to make one or the money necessary to buy one has prevented many from taking advantage of them. The first thought is of the convenience in using them, particularly for feeding grain when the hogs are on full feed. The value of such an arrangement in giving the pigs a mixed ration is often overlooked. To mix grain and tankage, for instance, in the same compartment would not be good and would save little work, but fortunately hogs have a habit, if given the opportunity, of balancing their own rations. By placing the grain in one compartment and the tankage in another, the hogs will feed first from one and then from the other until satisfied.

If the hogs are not accustomed to full feed, before putting them on the self-feeder gradually increase their ration by hand feeding until they get all they want. They may then be transferred to the self-feeder without harm.

"A PLACE FOR EVERYTHING."

Efficiency on the farm implies, first, the necessary tools with which to work; second, a proper place to put them; and third, acquiring the habit of putting them there whenever they are not in use. Of these three, the first is of no greater importance than the last two.

The farmer must at times act as a carpenter, blacksmith, mason, painter, and a dozen other tradesmen combined, and he cannot do so properly without good tools. The borrowing and lending habit on the part of farmers is most obnoxious, unsatisfactory to both parties, and not conducive to the best work of either. If an expert tradesman requires good tools in first-class condition to do his work properly, how much more the farmer.

We have known farmers to use a 2x4 scantling and a box in greasing their wagons year after year, simply for the lack of a few simple tools needed to make a wagon jack, in a place where they could readily be found. A proper equipment of farm tools, and the same thing applies to the tools needed by the housewife in the kitchen, need not cost excessive amounts of money, nor need they all be purchased at once. The first thing to do is to take a pencil and note down the tools most needed, and in the order of their importance. Then plan as definitely as possible as to when and how to purchase them.

As soon as these preliminaries are disposed of, provide, without further delay, for a definite place to put them when they have been secured. On asking a farmer once where he kept his tools, the reply was, "In the barn." Further questioning elicited the remark, "Oh! wherever it's handy to put them." An examination of the barn in question showed the harness hung in such slovenly fashion directly behind the horses that portions dangled in the manure, which was rapidly destroying the leather through the absorption of the injurious liquids and the fumes rising from the floor. Parts of the harness were patched, some with wire and that was rusty. The harness punch lay on the sill above the last harness repaired, where the fumes from the manure had rusted it badly, particularly the cutting edge, so that it was almost valueless. A hammer that had been used to fix a stall had been left in the window and in pitching out the manure it had been knocked off into the pile and was only found by a portion of the handlo protruding in a position where it could be easily seen. That was pure luck. So it went. Where his memory failed him as to the last place the tool was used, it was as good as lost until by chance he happened onto it at some future date. Provide a tool chest, cupboard, or other similar container in a convenient, dry place and have a peg or shelf space for each individual tool.

The next, and most important point, is to promptly acquire the habit of putting each tool in its proper place as soon as it has served its present purpose. Even though it may involve extra steps to put it away when only done with it temporarily, in the long run it will actually save time trying to find lost tools, and also the cost of new tools. Never lay a tool down expecting to return to it later. More often than not it will be needed elsewhere before the occasion takes one back to the original job. Without such a habit, tools will soon be scattered over every piece of work on the place. Farm implements and machinery come in the same category. An implement shed or house will pay for itself many times over by protecting the needful machinery from weathering when not in use. The application of hot linseed oil on the wooden parts and thick oil or grease on the metal parts of stored implements will lengthen their lives immeasurably and result in actual economy of both time and money. Try it.

—Aristotle.

BOARD GRAND OFFICERS

HAS AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

SATURDAY, JULY 9, THE BOARD OF Grand Officers met in Native Sons' Building, San Francisco, Grand President William I. Traeger of Los Angeles presiding. The several committees appointed at the previous meeting reported progress on the subjects referred to them and were given further time. Several matters of minor importance were discussed and disposed of.

A motion by Grand Second Vice-president Hayes, seconded by Grand Trustee Cutler, was adopted, commending Grand Secretary Regan for the efficient manner in which the Proceedings of the Stockton Grand Parlor, issued the first of the month, were compiled.

Following a discussion of the sale of foreign-made (largely Jap) American Flags in this country, a committee of three—Grand Trustee McEnerney, Grand Trustee Wilson and Grand Secretary Regan—was appointed to investigate the situation and report either to the Board's next meeting or to the Oakland (1922) Grand Parlor.

A committee of three—Grand Trustee McEnerney, Grand Trustee Welch and Grand Secretary Regan—was appointed to investigate the condition of the Santa Rosa N.S.G.W. Hall and report to Grand President Traeger, who will communicate the findings to members of the Board for action.

Regalia will be provided the several District Deputies-at-Large designated as "Supervisors" and "Orators," action to that end having been taken.

Grand Secretary Regan was directed to issue the following instructions to Subordinate Parlors and District Deputies: "(1) That a copy of the Constitution must be issued to every candidate initiated into the Order. (2) That a Native Son 'Bear Flag' emblem shall be furnished every candidate initiated. (3) That it is compulsory to sing the opening and closing odes at all meetings. (4) That Parlors must not obligate a candidate on one night and put him through the balance of the initiatory ceremony at a later date. (5) That the Grand Secretary shall be notified of the election to membership of all candidates, so that a search of the black list can be made to determine if they are eligible. (6) That Parlors in cities where more than one Parlor is located shall notify each Parlor therein, whenever they receive a petition for membership. (7) That Parlors shall not ask, nor shall a D.D.G.P. grant, a dispensation to initiate any candidate unless a search has been made to determine his eligibility, unless it is a very urgent case."

The new ritual, adopted at the Stockton Grand Parlor in April will not be put into effect until September 1.

Get Them In.

July 1 the membership campaign for the eighteen Grand Parlor trophy banners established by the Modesto (1916) Grand Parlor commenced, and it will continue through March 31. From the July semi-annual reports, Grand Secretary John T. Regan will classify the Subordinate Parlors into eighteen classes of membership as nearly equal as possible.

The present campaign should prove a record-breaker for results, and it will if, recognizing their duty to the State and the Order, the members of all Subordinate Parlors will unite in spreading the real aims and purposes of the Native Sons of the Golden West. What this Order and its members have done, and are doing to wipe out the yellow pest in California, is one of many endeavors which should be especially featured, for it will produce a favorable response from every eligible who is 100% White American—and that's the only kind of native Californians the Order wants.—C. M. H.

Anniversary Flag's Return Celebrated.

Oakland—The second anniversary of the return from France of an American Flag presented to Company A, Eighteenth Engineers, by Claremont 240 was celebrated July 10 at Golden Gate playground. This flag, it is said, is the only fraternally-owned standard taken overseas by an American Army unit during the recent war. In the course of the ceremonies the Parlor planted in the playground a redwood tree; little Annette C. Hopp was the tree's sponsor, and Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney delivered the memorial address; a plaque bears this inscription: "In memory of the boys of this district who made the supreme sacrifice. Dedicated July 10, 1921, by Claremont Parlor, No. 240, N.S.G.W."

Preceding the flag ceremonies there was a parade, marshaled by Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams. H. T. Burns of Claremont Parlor was chairman of the day, and the program included addresses by ex-Governor George C. Pardee, Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes and Fred L. Campbell, and musical numbers by Edwin Kearns, Miss Elizabeth Irwin, Miss Lillian Simonsen, Chas. Jensen, Miss Katherine Hurl, C. P. Davison, Wm. R. Ellis, Mrs. Lois Hutchinson, Firemen's band and Rincon 72 (San Francisco) band. The occasion proved such a success that the anniversary of the flag's return will be annually celebrated in future.

Parlors to Unite for Admission Day.

Halfmoon Bay—Seaside 95, assisted by Vista del Mar 155, N.D.G.W., is arranging a grand celebration for Admission Day in which all the San Mateo County Parlors will join. Grand President William I. Traeger of Los Angeles will be the orator of the day, while other well-known Native Sons will deliver addresses.

A parade is scheduled, in which the various county organizations will take part. A free barbeque will be held, but as the crowds will be great everyone is expected to bring his own basket lunch to help satisfy the pangs of hunger that no doubt will arise from the invigorating atmosphere of the coast. Baseball teams of Menlo Park and Halfmoon Bay will compete in the afternoon, and there will be other amusements. During the entire afternoon and evening the local band will furnish music for dancing.

Baseball League in Action.

San Francisco—The Native Sons' Baseball League is in full swing. Two games are played each Sunday, at 12:30 and 2:30 at Ewing field. The second half of the series commenced July 10 and will terminate August 28. The schedule of games follows: July 10—Twin Peaks vs. Pacific; South San Francisco vs. Castro. July 17—South San Francisco vs. Pacific; Guadalupe vs. California. July 24—California vs. Pacific; Twin Peaks vs. South San Francisco. July 31—Castro vs. California; Guadalupe vs. South San Francisco. August 7—Pacific vs. Castro; Twin Peaks vs. California. August 14—California vs. South San Francisco; Twin Peaks vs. Guadalupe. August 21—Pacific vs. Twin Peaks; Castro vs. Guadalupe. August 28—Guadalupe vs. Pacific; Castro vs. Twin Peaks.

Anniversary Outing.

San Bernardino—The thirty-fourth anniversary of the institution of Arrowhead 110 was celebrated July 20 with an outing at Harlem Springs. A barbecue was served, dancing and swimming were enjoyed, and there was a feast of oratory.

Continues to Go Forward.

Stockton—When the report of Stockton 7 for the term ending June 30 was read July 11 it showed the Parlor has a membership of 1,008 and assets of $68,000—by far the largest and wealthiest Parlor in the Order. Much of this increase in membership is due to the efforts of Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker, who devoted the greater part of six months to Stockton. Later on the Parlor will start another campaign, to increase the membership to 1,250. Officers were installed by D.D.G.P. Victor Larson of Lodi.

Stockton will have an Admission Day celebration, in which the Parlors of San Joaquin, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Calaveras, Tuolumne and Amador Counties have been extended invitations to participate. There will be a parade in the morning, the afternoon will be devoted to sports, literary exercises and daylight fireworks at the park, and the evening to a grand ball. The committee in charge includes: Law T. Freitas (chairman), Stanley Arndt, Julius Gadtke, Ray Friedberger, Walter Rothenbush, Harry Herman.

Benefit Ball Great Success.

Oakland—The masque ball given July 14 to raise funds with which to entertain the 1922 Native Sons' Grand Parlor was a great success. While under the auspices of the Grand Parlor Committee, of which the officers are Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams, Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes, Historiographer Frank C. Merritt and E. F. Garrison (Athens 195), it was sponsored by the Alameda County Extension Committee, N.S.G.W., and the Past President Association of both the Native Daughters and Native Sons, and attended in large numbers by the members and friends of all the Parlors in Alameda County, San Francisco, and Marin County. Combined with the flags of all nations, the several Parlors' banners provided beautiful decorations. Prizes to the amount of $200 were awarded.

Committees in charge included: Arrangements—James P. Cronin, George Leidecker, J. C. Bates, J. A. Flinn, A. E. Willard, George H. Sackett. Decorations—W. H. Dunlap, R. G. Barnett, Ferdinand Waldear, Wm. J. DeBlois, R. Fenelon, A. F. Souza. Reception—E. F. Garrison, C. M. Case, Louis Pierotti, Wm. Forrest, W. G. Muntz, James J. Dignan. Prizes—R. B. Felton, H. B. Farley, R. M. Hamb, W. K. Smith, J. M. Ansel, P. J. Carroll.

Enthusiastic and Advancing.

Courtland—Although the summer season is considered a dull one in lodge circles, Courtland 106 reports enthusiasm and advancement. During the term just closed the membership was increased, there was a general stimulus in all activities, and the attendance showed a substantial increase. One of the features of the term of Joseph Green, retiring president, was the unusual steady attendance of chair officers; President Green himself missed not a single meeting, and his assistants were nearly as punctual.

July 2 D.D.G.P. Walter Martin installed the Parlor's officers; he was assisted by members of Elk Grove 41, and conducted the ceremonies in a highly creditable manner. The installation was public, in conjunction with that of Victory 216, N.D.G.W. Under the regime of the new president, Joseph E. Berry, there is every assurance that Courtland Parlor's good work will continue. J. B. Miller announces that he is preparing a resolution to abolish sick benefits, which are a great drain on the Parlor's finances; the proposal will be threshed out at several future meetings.

Baseball Team Establishes Record.

Suisun—The baseball team of Solano 39 has been dispensing an exceptionally good brand of ball and has established a record worth having. Out of thirteen games played, ten were won, and of those lost one was a fifteen-inning and another a ten-inning game. July 19 the Parlor's officers were installed by D.D.G.P. L. Grotheer, and in the near future a class of candidates will be initiated.

Piedmont Was There.

Oakland—Piedmont 120, with its forty-piece band, went to Livermore to participate in the Independence Day parade which was one of the features of that city's annual wild west show and rodeo, July 2, 3 and 4. Monday was Alameda County day, and all Parlors were guests of Las Positas 96; at the conclusion of the parade that Parlor served lunch to all Native Son participants, and provided free admissions to the rodeo. Herman W. Hulén, Harold H. Flood, Louis Pierotti, William B. White and Charles Morando had charge of Piedmont's arrangements for the affair.

Jointly with Piedmont 87, N.D.G.W., officers of Piedmont Parlor were publicly installed July 21 by D.D.G.P. R. E. Fenelon, Herman W. Hulén becoming president. Harold H. Flood, retiring junior past president, was the recipient of a diamond past president's badge. June 30, at the close of the semi-annual term, Piedmont had 472 members, and assets amounting to $20,898; during the term $1,190 sick benefits were paid, and $110 was donated for public betterment.

Two Good-sized Bunches Enrolled.

Lodi—June 22, at one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held, a class of eleven candidates, signed up by Grand Trustee Hilliard E. Welch, were initiated by Lodi 18, the officers of Stockton 7 exemplifying the ritual in a very creditable manner. As a climax for competitive honors in a baseball contest with Courtland 106 June 5, C. P. Rendon of Stockton Parlor presented a loving cup to Tracy 186. Refreshments were served.

July 13, at another largely-attended meeting, including a big delegation from Stockton, Lodi Parlor initiated a second class of candidates, thirteen in number, composed of prominent businessmen and vineyardists. Grand Organizer Andrew Moecker assisted in bringing this bunch into the fold.

Enjoys Fishing Trip.

San Diego—At an exceptionally well attended meeting of San Diego 108 July 11 officers were installed by D.D.G.P. Dr. J. Ross Hardy, C. C. Ghio becoming president. July 16 a fishing trip to San Onofre was enjoyed, and the 25th a social dance complimentary to the members of San Diego 208, N.D.G.W., was given.

The Parlor has plans for the celebration of Admission Day well under way. The Pioneer Society, Old Timers' Club and Native Daughters have been invited to participate.

Have Joint Installation.

Oakland—Fruitvale 252 and Fruitvale 177 N.D.G.W. had joint public installation of officers July 21, D.D.G.P. Sally Rutherford and D.D.G.P. William Forrest officiating. In charge of the evening's activities was the Native Sons' white-uniformed Good of the Order Committee. Both Parlors made an excellent showing in the Fourth of July parade at Livermore.

Out After Record.

San Rafael—Officers of Mount Tamalpais 64 and Marinita 198 N.D.G.W. were installed at a joint public ceremony July 7, with P.G.P. Emma Gruber-Foley and D.D.G.P. Wm. Strittmatter officiating. The ceremonies were very impressive and the large gathering of members and their friends took great interest in the proceedings. Dancing and refreshments constituted the balance of the program. Jordan L. Martinelli is the new president of Mount Tamalpais, and Floy Beyries of Marinita.

Mount Tamalpais has just been rejuvenated through the efforts of Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, assisted by C. K. Grady (Pacific 10), and with its new corps of officers has set out to establish a record for growth and activity. The Parlor expects to double its membership before the end of the year, and there is every reason to believe it will succeed.

Officers Installed.

San Francisco—Pacific 10 held a public installation of officers July 26. The installation ritual was impressively reundered by D.D.G.P. Henry Toomey, assisted by an able corps of officers. Following the ceremony, dancing was indulged in by the members and their guests, and a most enjoyable evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic. William C. Gilmore is now the president.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Bismarck Bruck (Past Grand President) with his son is touring Europe.

A native daughter arrived at the Wheelaud, Yuba County, home of Aden Wright (Rainbow 40) and wife July 2.

Dr. Charles W. Decker (Past Grand President), Lewis F. Byington (Past Grand President) and Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel (Grand Organizer) of San Francisco, and Ed. H. Kraus (Sacramento 3) of Sacramento were among those who attended the Elks' national reunion in Los Angeles last month.

Anthony Caminetti (Excelsior 31) and his wife (Past Grand President N.D.G.W.) have returned from Washington, D. C., to their Jackson, Sutter County, home; for the past eight years Caminetti had been stationed at the National Capital as Federal Immigration Commissioner.

Increase Continues—For the fiscal year commencing July 1, California will collect the largest state tax in its history—$33,954,544.85; this is $11,611,583.19 more than the previous year.

For Street-car Line—The citizens of Eureka, Humboldt County, have voted bonds with which to purchase the local street railway.

EL DORADO COUNTY N.D.

LOSES HUSBAND AND FATHER.

Georgetown—Mrs. Maude A. Horn, past president of El Dorado Parlor, No. 186, N.D.G.W., and publisher of the "Georgetown Gazette," has been doubly afflicted, her husband, John Christian Horn, being cremated in the fire which destroyed the Ohio house at Placerville July 2. He was a native of Pennsylvania, aged 57; three children survive.

July 9, at Auburn, Placer County, her father, Horace W. Hulbert, a veteran newspaperman, answered the final summons. Born in Wisconsin in 1844, he crossed the plains in 1861, locating in Colusa County. For many years he published the "Sutter Banner" at Yuba City, then the "Colusa Independent," "Auburn Advance," "Georgetown Gazette," and a few years ago established the "Glendale (Oregon) News."

DEATH CLAIMS SISTERS—

PIONEER AND NATIVE DAUGHTER.

San Andreas—Within three days two devoted sisters, popular throughout Calaveras County, passed suddenly away from the effects of the "flu." At the double funeral, which was largely attended, members of San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, N.D.G.W., acted as escort.

Mrs. Kate McAllen-Cleary was a native of Connecticut, aged 72; she was a Pioneer, having come to California in 1854 and was the first white child to arrive in San Andreas; she is survived by five children.

Miss Margaret McAllen was a native of San Andreas, aged 67; for forty-four years she taught in the schools of Calaveras County, and had served as a member of the County Board of Education; at the time of her passing she was president of San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, N.D.G.W. Of the McAllen family, but one sister, Mrs. Addie Biasch, survives.

Mrs. Isabelle Harrison, native of Michigan, aged nearly 80; crossed the plains with her parents (the Springers) in 1851 and resided in Sacramento City, Lake and Napa Counties; died at Napa City, survived by two children.

Mrs. Themasine Rutter, native of England, aged 93; crossed the plains in 1851 and settled in Sacramento County; died at Florin, survived by a daughter.

Cassius M. Blowers, native of Ohio, aged 77; came in 1855 and until 1874, when he went to Kings County and engaged in farming, resided in Yolo County; died near Hanford, survived by a widow and six children.

Mrs. Almira Lucinda Rutledge, native of Iowa, aged 79; crossed the plains in 1852; died at Woodbridge, San Joaquin County, survived by a son.

Hiram H. Thurstin, aged 96; came in 1851 and settled in San Joaquin County, where for a half-century he farmed; died at Stockton, survived by a widow and four daughters.

Charles E. Taber, native of Maine, aged 91; came in 1852 and for many years mined in Nevada County; died at Grass Valley, survived by a widow.

necticut, aged 72; she was a Pioneer, having come to California in 1854 and was the first white child to arrive in San Andreas; she is survived by five children.

Miss Margaret McAllen was a native of San Andreas, aged 67; for forty-four years she taught in the schools of Calaveras County, and had served as a member of the County Board of Education; at the time of her passing she was president of San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, N.D.G.W. Of the McAllen family, but one sister, Mrs. Addie Biasch, survives.

THE DEATH RECORD OF #### NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

Belmont—Louise M. Roussel-Burridge, for many years assistant to Miss Laura J. Frakes, former Grand Secretary, N.D.G.W., passed away June 24, survived by a husband. She was a native of San Francisco, affiliated with Oro Fino Parlor, No. 9, of that city. Deceased attended several Grand Parlors, was thoroughly posted on the laws and work of the Order, and, because of her ability and geniality, had hosts of friends and admirers.

Stockton—John B. King, favorably known throughout San Joaquin County, where he was born, passed away recently, the end coming suddenly. A widow survives. Deceased was an old-time and active member of Stockton Parlor, No. 7, N.S.G.W.; he was particularly interested in the homeless children work, and devoted considerable of his time, as well as his money, to that worthy cause. No enemies had "Jack" King, it is said, for he would not listen to the recounting of the faults of his fellow-men.

Ferndale—Lillian Stewart Stone, a member of Golden Rod Parlor, No. 165, N.D.G.W. (Alton), died here recently from pneumonia. Surviving are a husband, a sister—Mrs. Bird Shields of this place, at whose home she passed away,—and a brother.

San Jose—William J. Boschken, a leading hardware merchant, died July 6 after a short illness. For many years he was a loyal member of Observatory Parlor, No. 177, N.S.G.W., and never failed to attend an Admission Day celebration. An only brother, Joseph C. Boschken, survives.

Antioch—William J. Laird, an old-time member of General Winn Parlor, No. 32, N.S.G.W., of which he was recording secretary, died recently.

IN MEMORIAM

JULIA A. STEINBACH, P.G.P.

To the Officers and Members of the Grand Parlor,
N.D.G.W.—We, the committee appointed by the Grand President to present resolutions of respect in memory of Past Grand President Julia A. Steinbach, herewith submit the following:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has summoned our dear Past Grand President, Julia A.
Steinbach, to her eternal rest in the great beyond;

Resolved, That by the death of Past Grand President Julia A. Steinbach our Order has lost one of its most loyal members, who for the past thirty-four years has participated in the annual conventions of the Grand Parlor, always taking a keen and most active interest in the deliberations. As an able and valued co-worker she did her whole duty with credit to herself and honor to the Order she so dearly loved. She was always held in the highest esteem, being a woman of most gracious personality, in which her kindly thoughtfulness was ever apparent.
We shall cherish the memory of her sterling qualities, for she was a woman of deep friendships, utmost sincerity, and absolutely fearless in upholding whatever she believed to be right, just and fair, to the best interests of the Order.
Her only son has lost a devoted mother, her dear sister a cherished companion, and Alta Parlor, No. 3, N.D.G.W., a faithful, energetic and untiring officer and charter member. To these bereaved ones the Grand Parlor, N.D.G.W., extends deepest and most heartfelt sympathy, with the earnest hope that our Heavenly Father will give them strength to bear their great loss and the comfort and consolation that can only come from the Supreme Master
"Who doeth all things well."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the herenved family, to Alta Parlor, No. 3, N.D.G.W., and to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

Respectfully submitted in loving memory,

MARGARET GROTE-HILL, P.G.P.
GENEVIEVE W. BAKER, P.G.P.
ANNA L. MONROE, P.G.P.

Adopted by the Grand Parlor, N.D.G.W., in session in San Francisco June 14-17, 1921.

WILLIAM J. LAIRD.

Whereas, In the infinite wisdom of Almighty God our friend and brother, William J. Laird, has passed on to take up his duties in the Heavenly Parlor on High; and whereas, in the passing of Brother Laird, General Winn Parlor, No. 32, N.S.G.W., has lost one of its most loyal members and earnest workers, the City of Antioch one of its most respected citizens, and Brother Laird's family a loving husband and a true brother; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of General Winn Parlor,
No. 32, N.S.G.W., extend our most heartfelt sympathy to the members of Brother Laird's family in this, their sad hour of bereavement, and sincerely pray that their sorrow may be tempered in the thought that God, in His infinite mercy, knows best; and be it further resolved, that our charter be draped in mourning and that General Winn Parlor, at its next regular meeting, close in loving respect to the memory of our departed brother; and be it further resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to the members of Brother Laird's family, that they be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine and the "Antioch Ledger," and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of General Winn Parlor.

Respectfully submitted in F. L. & C.

Committee.

Antioch, July 1, 1921.

MARGARET E. McALLEN.

To the Officers and Members of San Andreas Parlor, No.
113, N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect for our departed president and sister, Margaret E. McAllen, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Our beloved sister and friend has entered into eternal rest; and whereas, in the passing of Sister Mc-Allen, San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, and the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West have lost a loyal and respected member, and her family a devoted loved one;
therefore, be it

Resolved, That San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, N.D.G.W., mourns the passing of a faithful member, and while we deeply grieve, we express our greatest admiration for her exceptional qualities—they must ever serve as an inspiration to those with whom she was associated; resolved, that this Parlor extends its sincerest sympathy to the bereaved relatives, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent the family of our deceased sister and also that a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor.

DORA B. WASHBURN,
THERESA LEONARD,
MAYME O'CONNELL,

Committee.

San Andreas, July 1, 1921.

AGNES WILKINS DeCRAY.

To the Officers and Members of Santa Cruz Parlor,
No. 26, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Whereas,
Our Heavenly Father has called to her eternal home our dearly beloved sister, Agnes Wilkins DeCray, we, the committee appointed to draft resolutions, submit the following:

Whereas, she has been a loyal sister of our Order and a loving and devoted wife, and in her death her husband and the City of Santa Cruz have sustained a great loss; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Santa Cruz Parlor,
No. 26, Native Daughters of the Golden West, extend to the bereaved husband our most heartfelt sympathy, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent her husband, The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication, and a copy spread upon the minutes of our Parlor.

FACTS TOLD ABOUT INDIANS;

LEGO AN IMPOSTOR.

DURING THE SAN FRANCISCO GRAND Parlor there was considerable discussion about the condition of the Indians in the northern part of the state. Edna Saygrover of Redding, representing Hiawatha 140, from personal knowledge told of the Indians' pitiable condition. John Lego, claiming to represent the Pitt River Indians, was given a hearing, too. Others spoke, all urging the Grand Parlor's moral and financial support.

Resolutions asking prompt action on the part of the Federal and State Governments were passed, and a goodly sum of money was collected among the delegates and turned over to Lego for the Indians' benefit. Later in the session, a suspicion arising that he may not properly use the funds, Mrs. Saygrover was appointed to get the money from him and, along with a committee of which she was made chairman, to spend it as she saw fit. The suspicions as to Lego, a self-styled Indian chief, proved well founded, for he went to Sacramento and spent the money for himself. As a result he was arrested and lodged in the Shasta County jail at Redding, Mrs. Saygrover swearing to the warrant.

It was largely through the statements and appeal of Mrs. Saygrover that the Grand Parlor acted in the Indians' behalf. Everything that she said was true, as evidenced by a report of Dr. Albert F. Gilliam of the State Board of Health who, after a two months' investigation of the condition of the Indians in Siskiyou, Modoc, Shasta and Lassen Counties, filed a voluminous report July 12 in which he said: "The inhuman treatment of the Indians of California in years gone by and even at the present time, is such a disgrace to our American civilization, with its principles of right and equality, that it can never be obliterated." Both the State and Federal Governments are now giving the Indians much-needed attention.—C. M. H.

Interested in Civic Affairs.

San Jose—Vendome 100 is taking up a series of stories of California for discussion and education. "The History of the Bear Flag" was the first one, being given by Mrs. Wallace T. Morton, who used as her authority a book highly prized as an heirloom. Much interest is being taken in civic affairs. The first of each month the Parlor has charge of the community shop; Mmes. Mabel Southeimer and Sadie Howell represent it on the general committee that is interested in securing a new civic auditorium; Past Grand President Mamie P. Carmichael, Mrs. D. J. Gairaud and Miss Ella Tagnazzini assisted in the general Fourth of July celebration.

July 7 the Parlor's officers, with Mrs. Ruth McCrone as president, were installed by D.D.G.P. Mary Meyer, assisted by Miss Cecilia Schirle, Mrs. Josie Barboni, P.G.P. Mamie P. Carmichael and Miss Adelaide Freeman. The officers' stations were decorated with mammoth dahlias sent from Pacific Grove by Miss Eileen Barber and her mother. A class of candidates was initiated, there were several presentations, and refreshments were served. The affair was largely attended, including a delegation from El Monte 205 (Mountain View) in which was Miss Nellie Garliepp, who has been in China for two years.

Members of Vendome and their escorts were guests June 28 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Corotto. A barbecue supper was served; Judge Southeimer was toastmaster, and responses were given by Thomas Monahan, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., and Mrs. Ruth McCrone, president Vendome Parlor. Dancing in the home and on the spacious lawn followed. Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Koppel assisted in the management of the event. September 15 the Parlor will open the winter social season with a card party. The committee in charge includes Mmes. David J. Gairaud, H. J. Dougherty, Raymond Plamondon, M. D. Pearl, J. M. Howell.

New Parlor in Prospect.

San Bernardino—The organization of a Parlor in this city at an early date seems certain. Arrowhead 110 N.S.G.W. is doing the promotion work, and at its outing July 20, attended by close to a thousand members and their friends, fifty-two daughters signed the charter application. If the proposed Parlor grows like Arrowhead, which had 487 members June 30, it will not be long getting to a prominent membership place in the Order.

Grand President's August Itinerary.

Oakland—During the month of August Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick will officially visit the following Subordinate Parlors on the dates noted:

- 3rd—Occident 28, Eureka.
- 4th (jointly)—Reichling 97, Fortuna; Golden Rod 165, Alton.
- 5th—Oneonta 71, Ferndale.
- 8th—Santa Cruz 26, Santa Cruz.
- 9th—El Pajaro 35, Watsonville.
- 10th—Junipero 141, Monterey.
- 11th (jointly)—Vista del Mar 155, Halfmoon Bay; Ano Nuevo 180, Pescadero.
- 12th—Keith 137, San Francisco.
- 24th (jointly)—Naomi 36, Downieville; Golden Bar 30, Sierra City.
- 25th—Imogen 134, Sierraville.
- 26th—Snow Peak 176, Truckee.
- 27th—Plumas Pioneer 219, Quincy.
- 29th—Nataqua 152, Standish.
- 30th—Alturas 159, Alturas.
- 31st—Mount Lassen 215, Bieber.

Has Beautiful Float in July Fourth Parade.

Jackson—Independence Day was observed in the county-seat of Amador County by a three-day celebration given under the auspices of Amador Post of the American Legion. The leading event was the parade given the morning of July 4, and in this parade the float "California," introduced by Ursula 1, was a crowning feature.

The body of the float was a solid hank of golden poppies and native grasses, surmounted by eight golden pillars flanking the dais on which stood Miss California, regal in cloth of gold, holding aloft the staff of Fortune, her left hand lightly caressing the shaggy shoulders of the lordly monarch of the Rockies. The part of California was portrayed by Miss Rowena ("Bohhy") Daugherty, one of the most recent accessions to the Mother Parlor; she is a sweet and accomplished little woman, a native of Jackson; a graduate of the Berkeley high school and the San Francisco normal, she is now a teacher in the Sacramento schools. The Ursula Parlor float was constructed at an expense of nearly $150, and in the decorations there were used upwards of ten thousand golden poppies, made by the deft fingers of the Ursula girls.

Alta Honored With First Visit.

San Francisco—The first official visit of Grand

President Dr. Victory A. Derrick was paid to Alta 3 June 26. Notwithstanding that this visit was made so early in the new term, the Parlor did itself credit, judging from the praises bestowed by the Grand President and visiting grand officers, among whom were Grand Vice-president Mattie Stein, Grand Trustees Winifred Byrne and Mae Noonan, Past Grand Presidents Addie Mosher, May Boldeman, Margaret Hill and Clara Wittenmyer. Margaret Cunha (Richmond 147) is the district deputy for Alta. Initiation of four candidates and installation of new officers will be held July 30.

Banquet Guest of Past Presidents.

Oakland—Elizabeth Sylvester Smith was a guest of Past Presidents' Association No. 2 at a banquet July 11. Yellow was the color scheme portrayed; the seat of honor was elaborately decorated with yellow ribbons, coriopsis and asparagus ferns, while the tables were decorated with huge bouquets of coriopsis and ferns and illuminated with yellow candles in candelabra; candy corsages, tied with yellow baby ribbon, were the favors. A large cake, fittingly adorned and presented by Minnie E. Flynn, newly-elected president, was cut by the honor-guest and distributed as souvenirs.

On the Association's behalf, Mabel Buss, in well chosen remarks, presented Mrs. Smith with a sugar and creamer, also a remembrance from Past Grand President Margaret Grote-Hill, founder of the Association, Leah Williams and Grace Magner; the recipient responded in her usual pleasant and cheerful manner. The committee in charge of the affair was: Mabel Buss, Bada Pacheco, Minnie E. Flynn, Ada Spilman, R. Murden, Christine Bartlett.

Shower for Wounded Soldiers.

Hollister—Complimentary to Irma Schwab Beaman, a recent bride, Copa de Oro 135 held its regulation kitchen shower June 24. Light refreshments and games were enjoyed after the guest of honor had opened the many packages of useful gifts for the kitchen of the new home.

With their usual patriotic interest in the welfare of the disabled veterans of the recent world war, members of the Parlor held on July 8 a miscellaneous shower of magazines, books, playing-cards, graphophone records, beads, cigarettes, games, and other articles that will tend to assist the wounded men in passing the hours. These have been forwarded to Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, with the hope that they may assist in alleviating the sufferings of the brave heroes.

July 13 a delightful moonlight picnic and swimming party was given by Copa de Oro and Fremont 44 N.S.G.W. at Smith's ranch, in the Ausaymas district. Singing and games around a huge bonfire occupied the time until the coffee, rolls, "hot-dogs" pickles, doughnuts, etc., were ready. All did ample justice to the appetizing "eat," prepared by an active committee. Other similar events are in view for the near future.

Moonlight Dance a Success.

Niles—Laura Loma 182 and Niles 250 N.S.G.W. gave their first moonlight dance at Fernbrook park, Niles Canyon. It was a splendid success, the gate receipts amounting to $394.

A Wonderful Installation.

Oakland—Officers of Aloha 106 and Athens 195 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed July 12 by D.D.G.P. Gertrude Morrison and D.D.G.P. R. G. Barnett, Alyce Bloek and H. C. Rumstch becoming presidents. Beyond doubt, it was one of the most wonderful installations ever witnessed—a credit not only to the Parlors but the two Orders as a whole. The wigwam in the Pacific building was beautifully decorated, and as the "girls" saw fit to appear in gorgeous evening gowns the "boys" did their part by wearing tuxedos. Following the ceremonies all participated in dancing to the strains of wonderful music, after which refreshments were served.

Drill Team Progressing.

San Francisco—Six candidates were admitted to membership in Portola 172 June 26. The newly-organized drill team is making rapid progress under the leadership of Capt. Milo Kent, and expects to participate in the Admission Day parade with twenty-four members. The matter of the solec-

Safety for Savings

CALIFORNIANS should take a special pride in their State Banking Law, which has been very carefully framed to ENCOURAGE THRIFT by making it certain that the man who deposits his money in a STATE savings bank will have it so invested that it will return the maximum amount of interest consistent with safety, and will be SAFE.

This Bank is a STATE Bank. It is a complete bank, a departmental bank under the California Bank Act, giving every banking service. ## "California's Yesterdays"

In thousands of forward-looking yesterdays was built—step by step—the Globe "A1" quality of today. Not a chance, not fate—simply desire and the daring to discard the old and adopt the new methods—methods then in embryo, but which vision correctly interpreted to be the coming requirement.

Pioneers in scientific laboratory control—pioneers in improved milling methods—pioneers in the establishment of a standard of quality—raised sometimes but never lowered, the makers of Globe "A1" Products have ever progressed with the times.

Today, as in the yesterdays, the same principles govern the preparation of each Globe "A1" Product. Quality has become a tradition, continuously upheld.

A Worthy Companion to Globe "A1" Flour

BRISQ—the newest product of the Globe Mills is a worthy companion to Globe "A1" Flour. It is a pure vegetable shortening, made from the finest California oils. It is economical, dependable and altogether delightful for all manner of fine cookery.

tion of uniforms is under consideration at the present time.

In order to promote interest and to increase the attendance at regular meetings, four members are appointed on the Good of the Order Committee each meeting night and at the following meeting they arrange for a surprise in the way of refreshments and entertainment. This has proved a splendid plan and the attendance at the present time is never less than thirty-five. The Parlor appreciates the splendid support given to Mae Himes-Noonan at the last Grand Parlor, when she was elected Grand Trustee, and also the many letters and words of congratulation which have been extended to the Parlor on the election of its first grand officer.

President Remembered.

Colusa—Colus 194 initiated three candidates June 20. For bringing in the most members during her term, President Georgia Louth presented Alice Critchfield with a hand-embroidered buffet set. President Louth, about to leave for Vallejo to make her home, was presented by Past President Myrtle St. Louis with a cut-glass vase. Refreshments were served.

Anticipates Grand President's Visit.

Oakland—July 21 officers of Piedmont 87 were installed by D.D.G.P. Louise McDougal, Marion Ring becoming president. Past President Emma G. Flood was presented with an emblem in appreciation for efficient and faithful service during her term as head of the Parlor. Piedmont 120 N.S.G.W. installing the same night, after the ceremonies dancing was enjoyed and light refreshments were served. With great pleasure Piedmont anticipates the first official visit of Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick in Alameda County in the near future.

"Some" Pie.

Oroville—Officers of Gold of Ophir 190 were installed July 6 by D.D.G.P. Alta B. Baldwin, assisted by Mattie Lund as acting grand marshal, Maybelle Burns becoming president. Refreshments were served.

July 13 the Parlor tendered a miscellaneous shower to Mrs. James Walker (nee Ellen McCoy) at the home of Mrs. Mae Hickok. The evening's feature was an act presented by Mrs. Alta Hengy and Miss Mattie Lund; the former told a story of the making of a huge bird pie and at its close the latter, attired as a cook, appeared with the pie which, when cut, disclosed many beautiful and useful presents. Musical numbers were given by Miss Florence Boyle, Miss Lotta Peterson, Mrs. Alta Baldwin. Refreshments were served.

(Editor's Note—The Grizzly Bear last month erroneously stated that Gold of Ophir Parlor was not represented at the San Francisco Grand Parlor; Maybelle Burns and Edna Corbin were the delegates, and they were in attendance throughout the session.)

Grand Trustee Given Reception.

Tracy—In honor of Mrs. Pearl Lamb, elected Grand Trustee at the San Francisco Grand Parlor, El Pescadero 82 held an informal reception July 1. The president expressed the hope of the Parlor, that she may go onward and upward to the highest office in the gift of the Order.

July 15, jointly with Tracy 186 N.S.G.W., officers were installed, D.D.G.P. V. R. Larsen of Lodi and D.D.G.P. Pearl Lamb officiating. Grand Trustee Hilliard E. Welch and Law T. Freitas were present, and urged participation of the Parlor in Stockton's Admission Day celebration. A most inviting banquet concluded the ceremonies.

Senior Past Presidents Get Emblems.

Oakland—Many visitors attended the joint public installation of Brooklyn 157 and Brooklyn 151 N.S.G.W. July 13, among them being Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher and Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney. D.D.G.P. Nell Crowley and D.D.G.P. R. G. Barnett were the installing officers, and

Evelyn Perry and Eugene Cuney became the new presidents. Speeches and presentations followed, D.D.G.P. Crowley receiving hand-painted china, and Alice Gallagher and Walter Feeley, senior past presidents, emblematic jewelry. Mrs. William Lahr was chairman of the affair, which was concluded with dancing.

Hand Decorated Baskets for Favors.

San Jose—A big crowd, including many visitors, was present July 14 to witness the installation of officers of San Jose 81 by D.D.G.P. Mary R. Meyer. Augusta Singleton is the new president. Beautiful gifts were presented Miss Jenn Belloli, outgoing president, D.D.G.P. Meyer and Past President Mary Baricklo. Delicious refreshments were served in the beautifully-decorated dining-room by the following committee: Mmes. Nettie Richmond, Iva Belloli, Rene Thompson, Doris Caubiano, Ida Veit and Miss Elsie Fisher. The favors were tiny candy baskets daintily decorated in water colors by members of the committee.

Officers Jointly Installed.

San Francisco—Twin Peaks 185 held joint installation with Twin Peaks 214 N.S.G.W. July 6, D.D.G.Ps. Noble and Alvarez acting as installing officers. President Agnes Dougherty was the recipient of many beautiful gifts of silver, china-ware, embroidery and flowers. A jeweled emblem was presented Brother Spiegel and a token to Sister Eugene Schwarz, both junior past presidents, by J. May, who spoke of the exceptionally good work performed by these members. Gifts were also presented to May Noble, Dell Eden and Harriet Cate. After the ceremonies, refreshments were served and dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

Late San Francisco Grand Parlor Notes.

As an innovation in the usual social functions of Grand Parlor week, the grand officers met at a dinner on Wednesday and spent an hour in social converse. Arrangements were in the hands of Grand Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee. So very enjoyable was the affair that it was unanimously decided to make the dinner an annual event, during the session of each succeeding Grand Parlor.

At the close of the Thursday afternoon session, members of the M.K.Y. Club gave a dinner complimentary to Grand President Bertha A. Briggs. Covers were laid for sixteen, and a jolly time was enjoyed by the happy party in attendance. Song and verse caused the hours to pass all too soon. The guest of honor was presented with silver butter spreaders with the sweet thoughts of the members of this club, who are ever interested in the higher aims of life.

Relic of the Past—A relic of unusual character was unearthed in Yreka, Siskiyou County, when Mrs. Charles Payot, while digging in her garden, turned up a ten-dollar gold piece which was coined in San Francisco in 1852, previous to the establishment of a mint in that city. On one side there is an inscription, "United States Assay Office of Gold, San Francisco, Cal., 1852." On the other side is an American eagle with shield and an inscription, "$84 thous." The coin is larger than the present ten-dollar gold piece and the gold remarkably yellow.—Sacramento Bee.

DISARMAMENT

insure its possession of California and the Western United States in comparatively few years, and, eventually, of the whole Western Hemisphere.

(Such contention may be pushed on the part of the white-Japs who have been lulled to sleep by the deceitful tactics of the yellow-Japs, but such is the intention of Japan, and its every act, at home and abroad, is a carefully-studied part in its campaign for world domination. Japan is not to be feared, for its victories at arms have been won in competition with nations politically rotten at their core. But Japan is to be distrusted, and that distrust, born of its own acts, must continue until its subjects—and that includes ALL Japs, natives of this country included,—are forced back where God Almighty planted the seed of the Asiatics and where they should be forced to remain and work out their destiny. And until they are forced back, the White countries of the world, particularly the United States, England and France, will invite annihilation of the White Race by becoming parties to any disarmament scheme.—C. M. H.)

Handsome Edifice Opened—Over 100,000 people attended the opening of the Bank of Italy's new head office building at Market, Powell and Eddy streets, San Francisco; the handsome new edifice is the second largest building in the United States devoted exclusively to banking service; the building and property represent an investment of over $2,500,000.

Appetizer by Carload—It is expected 11,000 earloads of cantaloupes will be shipped from Imperial Valley this year.

Here hath been dawning another blue day; think, wilt thou let it slip useless away?—Carlyle.

GREAT SEAL OF STATE, IN

FLOWERS, SHOWN VISITORS.
CALIFORNIA'S GREAT SEAL OF STATE was the main feature of a gorgeous float entered by the Native Sons of the Golden West in the floral parade held July 15 in connection with the Elks' national reunion. The exhibit, except for a stuffed bear and beautiful silk flags—the American and State (Bear)—was made entirely of flowers, not one of them grown by or purchased from a Jap. The float was arranged for by the three local Parlor—Los Angeles 45, Ramona 109, Corona 196—and the decorating was done by O. C. Saake.

Exposition, August 15 to 20. Invitations issued by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, whose Committee on Manufacturing is managing the undertaking, have reached 30,000 commercial establishments in eleven Western states alone, besides hundreds of buyers in Mexico and Central and South America.

The display is in part a celebration of the fact that Los Angeles has prospered and that as a "white spot" on the economic map of the country, so designated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is offering to share its opportunities and favorable business conditions by giving a trade demonstration.

NATIVE SONS' FLOAT IN ELKS' FLORAL PARADE.

Along the line of march it was greeted by continuous cheers; next to the exquisite all-flowers float of Glendale, it was unquestionably the finest exhibit, from all points of view, among the numerous entries. On the float were six junior native sons and native daughters—Jane Krukeberg, Patricia Grainger, Margaret Grainger, Walter E. Baskerville Jr., Junior Short and Glenn Short. The illustration herewith, which gives an idea of the elaborateness of the display, is from a photograph by Hal Krukeberg.

HOW LOS ANGELES DOES GROW!

Here are some figures, just recently made public, which tell, better than words, of Los Angeles' continued wonderful growth, and which warrant the prediction, too, that its future is absolutely secure: Average daily public-school attendance for 1921, 68,359, an increase of 9,338 compared with 1920.

Bank clearings for the first six months of 1921 were $2,062,295,265.54; for the same period last year $1,909,446,038.71; 1921 increase, $152,849,226.83.

Building permits for first six months of 1921 had a value of $34,175,000; for the same period last year they had a value of $24,170,639; 1921 increase, $10,004,361.

Property values have increased $57,504,480; in 1920 the assessed valuation was $636,147,965; this year it is $693,652,445. These figures do not include steam railroad and other "operative" property upon which taxes are paid direct to the state. Showing the almost unbelievable growth in property values, these figures are of interest: 1860, $1,425,648; 1885, $16,273,535; 1900, $67,576,047; 1915, $404,362,700.

Los Angeles County, like the city, is forging fast ahead, both in population and development, as these comparative figures indicate: Average daily public-school attendance—1920, 95,267; 1921, 113,266; 1921 increase, 17,999. Assessed valuation (including all property)—1920, $1,275,735,264; 1921, $1,388,913,970; 1921 increase, $113,178,706.

TO SHOW INDUSTRIES' OUTPUT.

Twenty-five thousand buyers and dealers are expected in Los Angeles for the Industrial and Trade

Practically 1,000 different articles are made by the 3,500 local industries. Many of these firms are well known throughout the country, while some are new and are taking advantage of the opportunity to make their wares known.

NOTABLE OCCASION.

Ramona 109 N.S.G.W. had the pleasure July 15 of listening to a discourse on "Patriotism" by Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington of San Francisco and the relation of early Grand Parlor reminiscences by Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker of Palo Alto; other speakers of the evening were Grand President William I. Traeger, Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin and Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger. Secretary Grove T. Vail rendered a vocal solo, and the Elks' quartet of Bakersfield favored with several numbers.

The Parlor has arranged for the purchase of twenty-five emblematic rings, which will be presented that number of past presidents who have not heretofore been so honored. Many books on California history have recently been added to the library of Ramona's clubrooms. While no large classes of candidates have been initiated, new members are being received right along, and plans are being made for a membership drive, to start right after the vacation season.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. Alice Patton, wife of Clarence A. Patton (Los Angeles 15 N.S.G.W.) passed away June 28 at the age of 44.

A. A. Niemeyer, a member of Corona Parlor, No. 196, N.S.G.W., died suddenly July 7.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Fletcher Ford (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) went to Chicago last month on a hurried business trip.

Louis S. Nordlinger, D. J. Brownstein, A. C. Brownstein and A. E. Palethorpe (all Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) spent the Fourth at Coronado.

Miss Grace S. Stoerner (Past Grand President N.D.G.W.), secretary State Senate, returned home from Sacramento the early part of last month.

A native daughter recently arrived at the home of William A. McNeil (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) and wife; and one also at the home of Byron C. Beach (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) and wife.

Mrs. Arthur Kennedy (Los Angeles 124 N.D.G.W.) returned the middle of July from San Francisco, where she had been visiting relatives and friends since the Native Daughter Grand Parlor in June.

Sheriff William I. Traeger (Grand President N.S.G.W.), Henry G. Bodkin (Grand Trustee N.S.G.W.) and Charles R. Thomas (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) were among last month's visitors to San Francisco.

Henry G. Bodkin (Grand Trustee N.S.G.W.) left the 27th by auto for a three weeks' tour of Marin, Sonoma, Humboldt and Mendocino Counties, where he will officially visit the several Subordinate Parlor there located.

William M. Conley (Stanford 76 N.S.G.W.) of Madera, Superior Judge Madera County, and Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa 28 N.S.G.W.) of Santa Rosa, Superior Judge Sonoma County, were here last month holding court.

Eugene W. Biscailuz (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) has been appointed Under Sheriff of Los Angeles County by Sheriff William I. Traeger. At Native Sons' Hall, July 28, his numerous admirers in the Order presented him with a gold-and-diamond badge.

In Memoriam

ATALUS NEIMEYER.

Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has called to His heavenly home, Brother Atalus Neimeyer Jr., be it Resolved, That by the death of Brother Atalus Neimeyer Jr. Corona Parlor, No. 196, Native Sons of the Golden West, suffers the loss of a highly respected and esteemed member; and be it further resolved, that we extend our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved members of his family in their affliction; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that a copy thereof be spread upon the minutes of this regular meeting, there to ever remain as a sign of the undying testimony of our mutual grief at the loss of our lately departed brother and as a token of sympathy to his family in their sorrow, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

JOS. J. HERLIHY,
HENRY G. BODKIN,
J. M. HOLMES,
Committee.

Los Angeles, July 18, 1921.

U. C. TUITION FEES

FIXED BY REGENTS BOARD

At the July meeting of the Board of Regents of the University of California, a tuition fee of $500 per annum was approved for non-resident students in the medical school. This fee was adopted in accordance with the program instituted by the Board of Regents on May 12, when a tuition fee of $150 per annum was placed upon non-resident students in the academic colleges to cover the cost of their instruction. Under the combined provisions of the two rulings, all students at the university who are not residents of California are now subject to a tuition fee with the exception of graduate students in other than professional colleges, who were exempted by a bill of the last Legislature. The fee of $150 in the academic college applies both to the main university at Berkeley and the branch at Los Angeles.

The regents voted to increase the miscellaneous fees, including the infirmary, gymnasium, book, syllabus, and library fees, and to consolidate them into a single incidental fee of $25 a semester. This incidental fee will cover the cost of services rendered the student other than instruction. Since the Southern Branch in Los Angeles is a junior college, giving only two years of university work instead of four, the incidental fee there will be $12.50 per semester, payable by every student before his study card is filed.

HOPE CHEST AWARDED.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

A MIDSUMMER FROCK OF BLACK canton crepe, cut along straight lines with both upper and lower portion laid in fine plaits, has the favored neck line and flowing sleeves. The high light is given by a broad girdle, sumptuously beaded, so brilliant as to just escape being barbaric. Short panels of the beading extend effectively over either hip, with the use of broad circular bands of white or ivory georgette as inserts. In frocks of navy or black printed taffeta this style is one which the willowy figure may adopt with impunity, but which is distinctly unkind of avordupois.

Now is the time to buy the extra hat of taffeta felt or hair braid matching the between-seasons gown and completing a costume which "fills in" for a thousand occasions and returns, in satisfaction and service, 100% on the investment.

Beach parasols in all the colors of the rainbow and mammoth sunshades in gayety of tinting are approved of by even the critical audience enclosed in the awning-striped beach chairs. The up-to-the-minute bathing costume is of sea green duvetyne under a cape of gay rubberized silk.

Sports skirts of striped flannel are worn with plain jackets.

A parasol of bright green silk is gayly hand painted.

Tailored wash cotton shirtwaists are worn with suits.

Eyeflet embroidery linen is used for some charming frocks.

Crepe dresses have matching silk fringe from hips to hem.

A taffeta hat has a brightly colored design of French knots. Angora wool points are embroidered on a novelty straw hat.

For summer the straight-line silhouette continues in favor. Combinations of black and white, and navy and white, are popular.

Bias stripes of taffeta are used as bindings on organdy dresses.

Morning frocks and simple afternoon dresses have elbow sleeves.

Narrow silver ribbon is used to finish the edges of lace tunics.

Colored organdie flowers are still popular trimming for hats and dresses.

Enveloping wraps of grey crepe-de-chine have large crushed collar of flame color chiffon to give life to their soft neutrality. Fringe in two tones, and very deep borders of great squares of gray chiffon or of black lined with jade, are used. These square wraps drape themselves in the most graceful silhouettes and frequently appear with a very simple one-piece frock of silk.

Flame color fabrics and all the shades of red are smart for evening, and are generally made with flying panels or uneven hems and always devoid of trimming. The smartness of these frocks depends on an entire lack of ornamentation and a severe neck line unrelieved except by a string of white coral or other beads.

The makers of trifles are putting forth a special effort to create new vanities—distractingly pretty touches which will individualize the toilette. It may be the clock on a stocking, or the hem of a striking kerchief, or any of the thousand novelties which have their "mad success" each season and die in a day or a week after their appearance.

A quilted crepe frock of brilliant coloring is one of the latest sports costumes. Very plain, it is straight of line, and has a little white vestee as its only adornment.

A sweater that attracts by its beauty is fashioned after the fancy short coat model. It is made of white wool, has a collar of a rolling nature, and wide cuffs and deep band, all of henna wool. One wool henna button clasps it together, and about the waist hangs a white wool string girdle.

Jumper frocks are just the things for the little ones. They may be worn with a variety of style of guimpes, and always look sweet and attractive. White is really a good idea for the dress, and colors for the guimpes, for then the little miss always feels as if she were wearing a different dress.

The corset question has been settled at last. Noted dressmakers say it will be worn by all stylish women this fall, although it will not be extreme in height. Thus the waistline will return and govern the fitting of gowns. For a correct figure a corset is indispensable. A pliable corset must support the abdomen, or the woman appears deformed.

The new blue for autumn is one vouched for by the same authority which previously sponsored the browns and the grays. In naming it, the list of presidential notables which supplied "Alice" and "Harding" handles to shades in heaven's own color has been discarded, and a name has been brought across from the Italian coast, the new blue being designated "Sorrento." It is neither light nor dark, and it is, of all things, not glarry, but is the blue of blues to set off gray fur and such fabrics as velvety marvella, which is the latest offspring of duvetyne. The lapis-lazuli will be the favored beads to be worn with the costume of new blue.

In neck chains we are, it seems, to rival in richness the maidens of Babylon. The most-sated bead collector would exclaim over the stunning necklace of white onyx and topaz I was shown the other day by a leading jeweler. Designed to be the final and utterly effective touch to a sports outfit in black and white, it is waist long in its doubled loveliness, and consists of oval-shaped beads of onyx, exquisitely cut, strung between rondlets of topaz. A shorter chain of lapis-lazuli is of rounded beads separated by tiny flat discs of crystal.

IS THERE A "BETTY" TO ASSIST IN YOUR HOME?

For years the thing that bothered women in making their own dresses was the difficulty encountered in getting the garment properly fitted. They had to take some one's word for it usually, or if they went to a dressmaker they were obliged to have several try-ons, and this took time that should have been used for other things.

Then came "Betty." The home demonstration agents sent out by the state agricultural colleges, in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture, introduced "Betty" to thousands of farm homes, and also to other thousands in towns and cities. "Betty" is a dress form made of strips of gummed paper tape molded on the figure over a tight fitting undervest. This homemade form is, naturally, an exact replica of the figure.

The idea was instantly popular. Every state in the Union now has "Betties" by the hundreds, and the reports received by the Department of Agriculture show they have not only saved money for the owners but they have caused women and girls to see themselves as others see them, to straighten up, to stand with the shoulders back, to avoid the slouchy attitudes too common among human beings. "Well," exclaimed a large fat woman in a group, "that's the first time I ever saw my back as it really is."

GETTING READY FOR ADMISSION DAY

REPRESENTATIVES OF ALL THE NATIVE Son Parlors in San Francisco have organized the Joint Admission Day Committee to arrange for a due observance of California's natal day, September 9. Clarence Morris (California 1) was made chairman, Thomas F. Duffy (Pacific 10) first vice-chairman, James L. Foley (Twin Peaks 214) second vice-chairman, Ray Fellom (Stanford 76) secretary, Frank L. Bonivert (El Dorado 52) treasurer. Supervisor J. Emmet Hayden (Mount Tamalpais 64) was named chairman of a committee to endeavor to have the Board of Supervisors assist in making the celebration a general one and to appoint a committee to aid in the arrangements.

A tentative program, which may be later changed, agreed upon, includes: Morning, regatta at the foot of Van Ness avenue, in which all the rowing clubs will participate; afternoon, literary exercises at Civic Auditorium, and a rodeo at Ewing Field under direction Native Sons' Athletic Club; evening, grand ball at Civic Auditorium.

While this year no place has been designated for a state-wide celebration, Admission Day will perhaps be more generally observed all over the state than for some years previous. As will be noted in the "Native Sons of the Golden West" department of this issue, Stockton is arranging a celebration which will be participated in by all surrounding counties; San Diego has outlined a program; all San Mateo County, and probably the neighboring counties, will be at Halfmoon Bay. Information has come to The Grizzly Bear, too, that Quincy, Plumas County, plans a celebration in which all the northern mountain counties will be invited to join, and that Oakland will be the celebration point for all Alameda County.

be "put over" their worshiped emperor will have accomplished his "peaceful invasion."

"Japan and the California Problem" contains this assertion, made use of by many Jap propagandists and heretofore referred to in these columns: "The California question can only be settled by or in co-operation with the Californians, and right on the spot, not elsewhere." Which means that if the California land law is nullified the problem will be solved to the Japs' satisfaction; if rigidly enforced, and the Japs driven by that law from land now unlawfully in their keeping, the question will be settled to the Whites' satisfaction. Perhaps the above-quoted suggestion, coming from Jap aliens, may cause California's state officials chagrined with law enforcement to do something—to have the land law, which for many, many years they have permitted the Japs to violate, repealed, or to wage a vigorous and unrelenting campaign of land law enforcement; appeals and expressed wishes of American citizens have so far accomplished nothing.—C. M. H.

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

Why the Burnham
is Best

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

ADMISSION DAY

Birthday of Beautiful, Bounteous, Sun-Kissed California Will Be Fittingly Celebrated Throughout the State

THREE SCORE AND ELEVEN years ago there was welcomed into the great Sisterhood of States "the youthful Queen of the Pacific, in robes of freedom gorgeously inlaid with gold." As Minerva, the chosen goddess of our state, sprang from the brain of the mighty Jupiter, fully armed and agleam with glittering panoply, so was our Golden California admitted into the Union of Commonwealths a full-fledged and loyal state without probation as a territory, and the thirty-first star was added to the glorious firmament of stars to commemorate this noteworthy event.

September 9, beautiful, bounteous, sun-kissed California will have reached the seventy-first milestone along her way. To fittingly celebrate this anniversary of the natal day of our "Land of Heart's Desire," Native Daughters, Native Sons, and all who love this great wonderland will endeavor to express in appropriate manner, in every nook and cranny of this fair commonwealth, their joy and pride in this land of peace, prosperity and plenty; of gold, sunshine, fruits and flowers, replete with material prosperity of marvelous accomplishment.

With a keen appreciation of the glory of this inheritance of beauty and richness, those who have banded themselves together as Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West have set aside Admission Day to extol the wonders of their native state and "to perpetuate in memory the glorious deeds of our Pioneer Fathers and Mothers," who blazed the way through wood and wild and gave to us

"Our proud heritage—boast of Nations—

California, peer among peers—

Then three cheers for the men of '49,

The brave, the true, the bold—

We'll show them our heartstrings round them twine—

We'll honor them as of old."

Inspired with wisdom and foresight far beyond the ordinary lot of mortals, these staunch Pioneers laid the foundation of our state government. Seldom have men been called upon so suddenly to create for themselves a new mode of life. Overcoming physical and political obstacles, they builded better than they knew, for, from a position of almost complete isolation from the world, and within a few short decades of her existence as a state, California has been thrust into the very center of world movement. Today we are witnessing the first fruits of Seward's prophetic vision, "The mighty Pacific shall become the chief theater of the world's great hereafter."

The torch of progress is handed on from generation to generation, and to allow that light to be extinguished must not be the fate of the daughters and sons of such staunch and heroic sires. As we celebrate the birth of this golden, sunlit land, the crowning gem of all, may the achievements of the sturdy Pioneers and of their loyal sons and daughters ever remind us that

"Men look to the EAST for dawning things,

For the light of the rising sun,

But they look to the WEST, the crimson West,

For the things that are truly done.

For there in the EAST, they dream the dreams
Of the things they hope to do;

But here in the WEST, the crimson West,

The dreams of the EAST come true."

(Editor's Note—The above was prepared by P.G.P. Bertha A. Briggs of Hollister, chairman of the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. Publicity Committee. Accounts that follow, of the various Admission Day celebrations, have been received by The Grizzly Bear direct from the several Parlor that will participate therein. Admission Day, it appears, will be more generally observed this year than ever before.)

SAN MATEO COUNTY.

Halfmoon Bay—Admission Day will find this romantic little coastside town of Halfmoon Bay ablaze with holiday deckings, ready and eager to receive and honor the Native Sons and Native Daughters of San Mateo County who will gather here to do honor to the birthday of the great State of California. This hamlet is an unusually fitting place for the assembling of men and women who hold in high esteem the history and welfare of the state, for it was from near here, over 150 years ago, after a long and weary march overland from San Diego, that Portola, in a final attempt to discover the great bay, dispatched Lieutenant Ortega to climb the mountains just behind the town from which the Bay of San Francisco was first sighted by White men. Here, for a hundred years, ruled undisputed "the descendants of that proud race which conquered the Montezumas;" here still exists that genuine hospitality and kindness for which California has become so famous; and here is the home of Seaside 95 N.S.G.W., in direct charge of the celebration. The idea of a joint celebration in San Mateo County is the result of the close co-operation which exists between the Parlor. Upon the invitation of Seaside the various Parlor of both Native Sons and Native Daughters enthusiastically planned to make the celebration a fitting commemoration of the state's natal day. A general committee was formed with representatives from all the Parlor, which selected as chairman Alvin S. Hatch (Seaside 95).

The program for the day includes: Parade, 10 a.m., Fred Vallejo marshal. Literary exercises, 11 a.m., including music by the Halfmoon Bay band; introduction master ceremonies, Judge H. W. Lampkin; vocal selections, Mrs. M. A. Sharkey; oration, "Admission Day," William I. Traeger, Grand President N.S.G.W.; chorus, schoolchildren. 12 m., barbecue, in charge of Jos. Greer. 1 p.m., baseball game (Menlo vs. Seaside), foot, bicycle, obstacle races, etc. 3 p.m., baseball game (Halfmoon Bay vs. Redwood City), band concert. Dancing will be in progress during the afternoon, and there will be a grand ball at night.

SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco—The twenty-seven Native Son and twenty-five Native Daughter Parlor have united, with Assemblyman Clarence W. Morris (California 1) as general chairman, to celebrate in patriotic manner; the joint committee is being assisted by a citizens' committee appointed by Mayor James Rolph Jr (Hesperian 137). The Society of California Pioneers has been invited to participate, and special guests will be Captain Henry J. Ziegmeier and enlisted men of the U.S.S. "California." Parlor of Alameda and Marin Counties will also join in the day's observance here.

The program for the day will include: Regatta and swimming races at Aquatic Park in the morning; patriotic exercises of a literary and musical nature at Exposition Auditorium in the afternoon; grand ball at Exposition Auditorium in the evening. Many Parlor of Native Sons will maintain "open house" at various places during the afternoon and evening.

(Editor's Note—In San Francisco, too, there will be a three-day rodeo, an account of which appears elsewhere in this issue of The Grizzly Bear.)

SAN JOAQUIN COUNTY.

Stockton—Parlor of both Native Sons and Native Daughters from San Joaquin, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Contra Costa and Calaveras Counties will gather here to join in the celebration being arranged by Stockton 7 N.S.G.W. There will be a parade in the morning, and in the afternoon, at Oak Park, literary exercises and sports, the latter including a baseball game between the Sperry and Lodi teams for the championship of San Joaquin County. A ball in the evening will conclude the day's program.

PLUMAS COUNTY.

Quincy—The American Legion, Quincy 131 N.S.G.W. and Plumas Pioneer 219 N.D.G.W. will have charge, and the main event will be the dedication of the handsome new County Court House and Memorial Hall. There will be literary exercises in the morning, a barbecue in the afternoon and a grand ball at night. At the exercises A. W. Keddle will preside as chairman of the day, Rev. C. H. Stephens will be the chaplain, Mrs. Phil Blume the reader; a band will furnish music, and Mrs. L. L. Clough will direct the vocal chorus; Judge J. O. Moncur will deliver the address dedicating the court house, Senator W. W. Kellogg the address

KIT CARSON MONUMENT DEDICATED

MARKS NEAR-END OF REMARKABLE JOURNEY IN WEST'S HISTORY

AR UP IN THE MOUNTAIN fastness of scenic Alpine County, in a pass between two rugged, cloud-bathed peaks where, at an elevation of 8,600 feet above the sea, one of the old immigrant trails crosses the summit of the Sierra from Nevada, the Silver State, into California, the Land of Gold, the Historic Landmarks Committee of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West unveiled a monument August 7 to the revered memory of Kit Carson, celebrated scout, pathfinder and Indian fighter, whose name is so indelibly written into the great epic of the winning of the West," is the introduction to an illustrated article in the "Stockton Record" of August 13, written by Editor G. E. Reynolds (Stockton 7 N.S.G.W.), giving a splendid, detailed account of the Kit Carson tablet unveiling.

The monument, an eight-foot slab of granite bearing a five-foot tablet of bronze, has been erected in the very crest of the pass within four feet of an old tree stump. Nearby are the rotting remains of its trunk. The bronze tablet bears a replica in bas-relief of a cross section of that tree showing an early trail-marker's blaze with the inscription, "Kit Carson, 1844," carved across its face. Beneath the bas-relief appears the legend:

On this spot, which marks the summit of Kit Carson Pass, stood what was known as the Kit Carson tree on which the famous scout, Kit Carson, inscribed his name in 1844, when he guided the then Colonel John C. Fremont, head of a government exploring expedition, over the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Above is a replica of the original inscription cut from the tree in 1888 and now in Sutter's Fort, Sacramento.

It is estimated that 1,000 people from all parts of the States of California and Nevada were in attendance; in the crowd were Pioneers, Native Sons, Native Daughters, and officials of state, counties and cities. Four hundred and seventy-one autos were parked on either side of the pass—260 on the Nevada side and 211 on the California side. A brass band was in attendance, as was also Kit Carson III, a grandson of the famous scout, who unveiled the monument.

"As the crowd assembled," continues Reynolds' account, "the clouds gathered. The band played on, but just as the final notes were sounded zigzag flashes of lightning pierced the darkened eastern horizon, a signal for the magnificent crashes of thunder that followed. All along the Sierran ramparts the salute was fired. And then, when the cracking of thunder ceased, a few drops came down, just enough to sweeten the atmosphere without uncomfortably wetting garments. Thus, dramatically, the program was launched, with God, Himself, taking part."

Louis H. Mosser, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., opened the formal ceremonies by introducing William I. Traeger, Grand President N.S.G.W., who was presented with a gavel made from the wood of the historic Kit Carson tree. Grant Merrill, Supervisor of Alpine County, extended the welcome, and was followed by Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President N.S.G.W. and chairman of the Order's Historic Landmarks Committee, who said, in part:

"The Historic Landmarks Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West today places this bronze tablet with the primary object of permanently marking the pass over which the pathfinder, John C. Fremont, guided by the famous scout, Kit Carson, crossed the Sierra Nevada Mountains on his initial trip to California during the winter of 1843-4."

"In marking this pass the Native Sons are not alone honoring John C. Fremont and Kit Carson but they are at the same time delineating one of the historic immigrant trails over which later passed thousands of fortune seekers with ox-teams, on horseback and on foot, with California their mecca, lured by the news of the discovery of gold by James W. Marshall in the tail race of Sutter's mill."

"This tablet is one of many placed throughout the state by the Native Sons of the Golden West in an effort to carry out one of the chief purposes of our Order—to perpetuate the memory of the men and days of forty-nine."

Clarence E. Jarvis, Past Grand President N.S.G.W. and member of the State Board of Control, accepted the monument for California, concluding his address with: "Today, in the name of California, I accept from the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West this bronze tablet, a replica

KIT CARSON

(HARRY T. FEE.)

He knew the end beyond the dream,
He saw the pulsing mart,
He bore the fragrant valley's gleam
Within his valiant heart.
To him there were no tangled woods,
Nor could grim Fate forbid
The passage of those solitudes
That spirit intruded.

He saw the snow flanked mountainside
Enwrought with hazard, still
He saw beyond, and pondered
Its might to balk his will.
He saw the valleys bathed in light
Beneath their azure skies,
And knew that from his stalwart might
An empire should arise.

And so he came with purpose such
Across the wastes untrod,
That life and hope and love might touch
This wilderness of God.
To make for you and me a land
Our hearts might e'er revere—
Such was the soul destiny planned—
Kit Carson, Pioneer.

—Stockton Record.

of that blaze, which will mark this spot for all time as the trail that Kit Carson blazed for those grand old Pioneers who made possible, through trials and hardships unspeakable, this great and glorious state." Mrs. Henrietta O'Neil (Ursula 1 N.D.G.W.) spoke eloquently and impressively for the Native Daughters, and a benediction was pronounced by Rev. Stephen E. Crowe.

"Kit Carson's Place in History," was the subject assigned Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., the orator of the day, and those who have frequently heard this gifted speaker declare that, on this occasion, he excelled all previous efforts. "Lew," himself coming from the mountains, being a product of Sierra County, was probably inspired as much by the surroundings as by the occasion. His address follows:

"To the man who loves California her history, her traditions, her mountains and her valleys, it is an inspiration to stand here at the summit of the Sierras and gaze out over the magnificent vista which spreads before us. The breath of the pine, the leaping waters that spring from crag and ravine, the distant lakes, the snow-capped peaks, the soft breeze that stirs the trees and invigoratingly quickens the blood, the deep blue of the heavens heading above, all thrill the heart and exalt the soul of those who love nature and appreciate her matchless beauty and charm. And when day fades and the myriad stars come forth spreading a glory o'er the firmament, the traveler resting by the wayside or beneath the pines looks up and is thrilled by the beauty of the night."

"But when the winter blast drives the snow before it, and canyon, path and wood are covered by the frozen drift, and the streams choked with ice, the bravest heart and the most courageous soul hesitates to face the dangers of the mountain pass. In all the pages of history, no people have shown more dauntless courage, more indomitable spirit, more strength and determination in overcoming difficulties and dangers, than did the hardy Pioneers who brought American civilization and American institutions of free government across the deserts, through the forests, and over the snow-clad peaks of the Rockies and Sierras to the fruitful valleys, the gold-veined mountains, and the broad-armed ports of California."

"Kit Carson typified the spirit which won the West for America and made the admission of California and Nevada into the Union possible. Kentucky, and the year 1809, gave to the Nation two sons, born of humble parents and in log cabins upon our then extreme frontier, who were to leave a lasting impression upon the future of the Republic. They were truly American in all their hopes and aspirations—Abraham Lincoln and Kit Carson. Lincoln, with his great love for knowledge, rose to the highest position within the gift of the people, and Carson, untutored, but with a love for the forest, the broad prairies and the mountains of the West, became a trapper and a pathfinder, blazing the way from the Missouri through the Rockies, across the deserts, and to the shores of the Pacific, long before the discovery of gold in California. He had crossed the plains to California in 1829, when but twenty years of age, and as a trapper followed the windings of the San Joaquin and Sacramento Rivers through their fertile valleys. He was among those who brought to the East the first reports of the agricultural richness of this state, and it was the settlers who came here prior to 1846 and with the hope of ultimately seeing the confines of the United States extended to the Pacific, who made possible the acquisition of California and the raising of the Stars and Stripes at Monterey and San Francisco in July 1846."

"The expedition which resulted in the discovery of Kit Carson Pass through the Sierras and the ultimate construction of the Alpine highways along which we have traveled today, was a surveying expedition sent out by the Government at Washington in 1843, under command of John C. Fremont, a lieutenant in the army. Fremont selected Kit Carson on account of his experience as a guide and his knowledge of the country to accompany the expedition. Fremont had been ordered to connect up a survey which he had made part way to Oregon in 1842 with one made by Commander Wilkes on the Pacific Coast, so as to give a connected survey of the interior of the continent. The officers led him through Utah, to the South Pass in Idaho, and over the Oregon trail to the Columbia River. The survey completed, the expedition could select its own route home. It is said the arid waste stretching for 700 miles through what is now Utah and Nevada, and known as the Great Basin, haunted Fremont, principally from the danger to his horses. Turning south from the Columbia to Klamath Lake, he discovered and named many of the lakes of Southern Oregon. He then struck into what is now Nevada and reached and named Pyramid Lake. The party then continued south with the intention of eventually turning eastward to the Missouri River. It was in the dead of winter, snow impeded their pathway and covered the trails; the rivers were frozen and the cold intense. If they traveled the sparsely-timbered highlands they were frozen and hocked by snow-drifts; if they descended to the lowlands they were starved and their horses without water or feed. They had the alternative of perishing on the desert or of crossing the snow-covered mountains.

"With his footsore and weary animals he hesitated to cross the Great Basin, and finally determined to go over the Sierra Nevada Mountains into California. Carson had told Fremont that the pleasant valleys of California were not more than seventy miles away. The land of which he had heard so many glowing descriptions appealed to him. The two young men, fired with the spirit of exploration and with the desire of accomplishing something for their country. They had traveled south to the Walker River, but now turned north intending to follow the Truckee, but came to a branch of the Carson and followed it to the summit. Through a part of January and all through the month of February they fought their way through the deep snows. The Indians dwelling near the mountains had refused to accompany or guide them and by signs conveyed the information that the snow fell to a depth reaching the topmost branches of the trees, that the trails were frozen and slippery, and that the horses would be dashed over cliffs thousands of feet high. By the present of a most brilliantly colored blanket they finally induced a young Indian to act as guide, but when a fierce mountain storm came on, filling the air with sleet and blocking the trails with snow and ice, the young huck at night abandoned the party."

"The Indian deserted, but that wasn't the spirit of the American Pioneer. Nothing could daunt the fearless and undying spirit of these American Pioneers and pathfinders, and day by day with their animals and packs, foot by foot they fought their way up the rugged gorges, through the drifting snows, over the frozen streams, meeting and conquering the most implacable forces of the elements. Their stores ran so low that many of their horses and mules were killed to provide food for the famished men. Thirty-four of the sixty-seven animals perished in the storm or were killed for food. They at last reached the summit, at an elevation of almost 9,000 feet, and at the spot where we stand today. On a tree since felled, but the stump of which stands there by the side of the road, Kit Carson carved his name and the date, 1844. It was on the afternoon of February 20. This is one of the few authentic spots bearing the mark of the earliest pathfinder, and closely linked with the pioneer spirit of the first settlers. It appropriated and marked the future trail of the forty-niners."

"Fremont wrote that after their long wanderings in rugged mountains, where so frequently they had met with disappointments and where the crossing of every ridge displayed some unknown lake or river, they were yet almost afraid to believe that they had at last found the way into the genial country of which they had heard so many glowing descriptions and dreaded to find some vast, interior lake whose bitter waters would bring disappointment. They had many miles of snow-filled canyons yet to cross, and it was not until March 8 that they reached the hospitable home of General Sutter. It was a woefully famished band of half-starved men leading skeleton horses that reached Sutter's Fort. From that summer they had followed down a little ice-covered creek which was a tributary of the American River."

"When they were within ten miles of Sutter's Fort, Fremont states that they had the inexpressible joy of meeting a well-dressed Indian who came up and made his salutations in Spanish, and in answer to the inquiry of Fremont informed them that they were upon the Rio de los Americanos (the River of the Americans). Never did a name sound more sweetly, he said. 'We felt ourselves among our countrymen; for the name of American in these distant parts, was applied to the citizens of the United States.' Sutter received them with open arms, as he did all travelers who came to his gates. The most remarkable journey in the history of the West was completed."

"Many thousands have followed where Carson and Fremont led, and have secured the wealth and opportunities here in California. The young, the old, the adventurous, the brave, and the stalwart, liberty-loving Americans, and those with high ideals from other lands, have come over this trail, down through these canyons and ravines, to people our valleys and hillsides."

"Within a little more than two years after Carson and Fremont reached California, a band of American settlers, in June, 1846, raised the Bear Flag at Sonoma and declared the independence of this state from Mexican rule. In the following month, however, when Commodore Sloat raised the American Flag at Monterey, these settlers gladly hauled down the Bear Flag of the new republic and replaced it with the Stars and Stripes. There is no doubt but that Fremont and Carson, with prophetic vision, when they first gazed from this summit of the Sierras, saw the flag of their country floating over the Western land, and was with the hope of winning California for that Union that they blazed their way through forest and over mountain to the shores of the Pacific."

"The gold seekers and Pioneers of '49 followed in their footsteps. As we came up this morning from the valley, along the mountain streams, we passed the old mining camps and towns where were enacted the stirring dramas of the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49. In dim perspective, the canyons, ravines and hillsides were once more peopled with the hardy American miners who dug the gold from the beds of the streams and the veins of the mountains. Here moved the characters depicted by Bret Harte and Mark Twain, and immortalized in story and song."

Above the pines the moon was slowly drifting,

The river sang below;

The dim Sierras, far beyond, uplifting

Their minarets of snow.

The roaring camp-fire, with rude humor, painted

The ruddy tints of health

On haggard face and form that dropped and fainted

In the fierce race for wealth.

"But the leading characters of those stirring times have passed on. The characters are no more; their camps are silent. Too often the sole monument which stands to commemorate their greatness and nobility of soul is a dismantled cabin, or crumbling chimney, around which the wild vines trail their creeping tendrils. The spirit of the Pioneers is, however, felt in every breeze that stirs the pines on these mountain sides. It is an inspiration to the citizenship of the West to come to these places and recall the stories of the past."

"And wherever the footsteps of the Pioneer led, whether across heat parched deserts, treading the unbroken forests, through the deep and freezing snows of winter, or over the most rugged mountain heights, there, close by his side, with undying faith and love, was the Pioneer Mother of the West. No danger could appal, no hardships break, the spirit which moved her heroic soul to share the fortune and to stand with her comforting arm around the man she loved and trusted. In the canyons, on the hillsides, and in the valleys of California she made, and blessed, the American home, and reared her children to become the bulwark of the State and the Nation.

"May the sons of California, moved by a patriotic reverence for the pathfinders and the builders of our State and Nation, cherish their memory, rear monuments to commemorate their achievements, and seek out and appropriately mark the roads and trails along which they have passed, carrying the torch of civilization and progress."

ATTENDANCE RECORD

BOLLING MEMORIAL GROVE

BIG TREES DEDICATED.

Bolling Memorial Grove, an eighty-acre stand of Humboldt County's big trees, near Eureka, donated to California by Dr. John C. Phillips of Boston, was dedicated with fitting ceremonies August 6. Among the organizations represented at the exercises were the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

A granite boulder in the grove bears a bronze tablet with this inscription: "This grove is dedicated to the memory of Colonel Raynal C. Bolling, S. C., U. S. A., lawyer, patriot, soldier. Born September 1, 1887, at Hot Springs, Arkansas. Killed in action during the German offensive near Amiens, France, March 26, 1918. The first American officer of high rank to fall in the world war."

Highway Bonds—Bonds of $206,000 have been voted by Santa Cruz County to complete the highway system; this brings the total highway bonds authorized to $900,000.

Millions for Water—Madera County's citizens have voted $28,000,000 bonds to provide an irrigation project embracing 335,000 acres of land.

Patriotic Licenses—The 1922 auto license-plates will be patriotic in color—red, white and blue.

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

MISSION DAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1871, was celebrated in San Francisco by 150 members of the Society of California Pioneers forming a procession and, headed by a brass band, marching from Pioneer hall to Pacific hall, on Bush street. There, after a prayer by Rev. J. E. Benton, Judge McKinstry delivered an able and appropriate address.

At Sacramento, members of the Pioneer Society celebrated the day with a banquet at Pioneer hall; $500 was subscribed for the relief of James W. Marshall, discoverer of gold at Coloma, El Dorado County, who was reported in need and of being desirous of going East and delivering lectures upon his experiences in the California gold mines.

September 6 the general election for state and county officers was held. Probably due to its closeness, the last week of the campaign of the gubernatorial candidates was one of the most intense ever witnessed in California. Stumping the state in the interest of Newton Booth, Republican candidate, were Henry Edgerton, J. B. Felton, J. G. Eastmon, J. F. Swift, George C. Gorham, E. S. Lippitt, George M. Bromley, T. G. Phelps, A. A. Sargent, and United States Senators Hannibal Hamlin of Missouri, Cornelius Cole of California and Nye of Nevada. Aiding Governor H. H. Haight in his campaign for re-election as the Democratic candidate were Jo Hamilton, Creed Haymond, Senator Casserly, J. D. Hambleton, Dr. Short, J. W. Coffroth, James T. Farley, John R. Conwell, Grove L. Johnson, A. P. Dudley and Congressman "Sunset" S. Cox of New York. The speakers dramatically expounded the principles of the parties, and warned their hearers that only the success at the polls of the particular party which each represented could the country be saved from eternal damnation.

Torchlight processions were numerous; one in San Francisco September 4 took several hours to pass, and the same night there was one in Nevada City of 2,000 marchers; both were made up of Republican adherents.

September 2 was a day of fatal political fights. In a saloon row in San Francisco Marion Wilson, a wharfinger, fired two shots at Markey Gurschinski, a ward politician; both missed their mark, but a bystander, Patrick Burnes, was killed. A Marysville Republican club went to Chico; when the train started on the return trip a fight between Democrats and members of the club broke out and resulted in the killing of Phil Rupert, and the wounding of Constable Pouley and C. R. Dilley. A free-for-all in Sacramento cost Timothy V. Lynch his life, and Barney Kiernan was dangerously stabbed.

More than 120,000 votes were polled in the state election. Newton Booth, Republican, received 62,581 and Governor Haight, Democrat, 57,520; Booth's majority 5,061. With the exception of John A. McGlynn, who was defeated by John Rosenfeld, Democrat, for harbor commissioner, by 1716 votes, the Republicans elected all state officers. They also elected fifty-four assemblymen and fourteen senators, which gave them control of the State Legislature and the election of a United States Senator.

In San Francisco, the Taxpayers' Union elected Mayor Wm. Alvord and nearly all their ticket. One exception, and a heavy betting proposition, was the defeat of Alex Budlum for assessor by Levi Rosener by 18 votes. Friends of Budlum claimed it was done by applying nitrate of silver solution across Budlum's name on the ballot, which, not noticed at voting time, would obliterate the ink by counting time. This was found to be a fact, but not in sufficient number to change the result.

MONTH OF FESTIVITIES.

The annual State Fair opened at Sacramento, September 18 and continued until the 25th. T. G. Phelps delivered the annual address. As usual, the city was wide open, all kinds of gambling games, with rondo the most popular, running. The Academy of Music, a large theater, was transformed into an academy of gambling, with rows of tables around the room, an orchestra, and a crowd of players; it kept open two days, when public opinion forced the authorities to close it. The exhibits and the attendance were larger than at any previous fair, the receipts being $30,021.

The San Joaquin Valley district fair opened at Stockton September 12 and continued five days. It was a success, both in exhibits and horse races.

The Butte County Fair at Chico, held during the last week of the month, had a splendid exhibition of thoroughbred stock and was a success.

The Japanese who came to San Francisco with the exhibit from Japan for the Mechanics' Fair decided to remain, and opened the first Japanese business house on the coast.

Richard Hoskins of Dutch Flat, Placer County, announced he had discovered that, by lowering cream to a depth of twenty or more feet into his well, in four hours it changed into butter and buttermilk without any churning.

Owing to the dry season reducing the yield of crops, wheat went to $2.75 and barley to $2.10 a cental and hay to $23 a ton. Onions and potatoes were 1 cent a pound. Grapes were selling at $20 a ton in Los Angeles County, and it was estimated 1,500,000 gallons of wine would be made there this season.

Stanislaus County changed its county seat, by vote of its citizens, from Knights Ferry to Modesto, a growing railroad town, which has since become one of the most flourishing little cities of the state.

The Pacific Turner Bund held its twelfth annual bundfest at Oakland, September 16, continuing three days. A torchlight parade through Oakland streets started proceedings.

The anniversary of Mexican independence, September 16, was celebrated by the Mexican population of Los Angeles with salutes, a parade in which most of participants were mounted, literary exercises, and fireworks.

Col. J. P. Jackson of San Francisco, late manager of the California Pacific railroad, was presented by the employees of that road, as a token of their esteem, with a $3,000 silver table service. Milton S. Latham made the presentation speech.

A fire in Pacheco, Contra Costa County, September 5, destroyed the Odd Fellows' hall, "Gazette" office and other buildings, causing a $30,000 loss.

The Pacific barrel factory at the Potrero, San Francisco, burned September 8, with a $50,000 loss.

The Harpending block on Market Street, opposite Sansome, San Francisco, burned September 23. The building was occupied by Redington & Co., wholesale druggists; John Rohr & Sons, furniture, and several other wholesale firms, and the loss was over a million dollars, with $400,000 insurance.

The works of the Julian Valley Mining Company at Greenville, Plumas County, were destroyed by fire September 18, entailing a $50,000 loss.

The mill of the St. Patrick mine at Ophir, Placer County, burned September 28, with a $20,000 loss.

Harrigan & Co., working the Whisky Slide mine in Calaveras County, cleaned up $1,502 from a crushing of twenty-five tons of rock.

The Blue Point Gravel mine at Smartsville, Yuba County, cleaned up for this month $71,000.

The mining stock excitement took an unexpected and surprising turn this month. Crown Point at $305 and Belcher at $240 a share opened the San Francisco market September 1. On the 7th Crown Point announced a monthly dividend of $10 a share and advanced to $325, from which figure it dropped back, while Belcher, on the contrary, steadily advanced until September 26, when it ceased to be an appendage to the Crown Point kite, and went kiting on its own account. The 27th it jumped to $350 and on the 30th, with the greatest excitement of the year on the street, sold for $405 a share. Holders of Belcher, who bought at less than $7 a share in January, were the envy of the street.

Raymond and Ely, an Eastern Nevada mine, on a report it was producing $7,000 a day, jumped from $40 to $96, and Overman, on account of being adjacent to Belcher, bounded from $20 to $50 a share. The prices of all other Comstock shares had a buoyant look.

TRAGEDIES SUPPLY MUCH OF NEWS.

None of the gift concert lottery schemes were pulled off this month, being postponed on account of non-sale of tickets, to future dates. Some died from lack of nutriment, and their promoters were heavy losers; public pap was unobtainable to supply their need.

Sheriff Lincoln of Santa Cruz County and posse, pursuing the band of Mexican stage-robbers, came upon them at Pike's Pole September 15 and in the attack killed Pancho Borcumes and wounded another bandit.

Ramon Amador was hung in San Leandro, Alameda County, jail by Sheriff Morse September 22 for killing a hunter named Hiseock near Pleasanton. It was necessary for the sheriff and his deputies to use force to put on the black cap and get him on the scaffold; he cursed, wept and prayed, in turn, and was totally unnerved.

The Shasta stage was stopped near Cottonwood by three men September 26, apparently by the same gang who robbed it August 21. They secured the express box, with several hundred dollars.

Martin Herges, at Monterey September 4, was stabbed in five places and killed. Some time previous he had a fight in San Luis Obispo with James Bushton, and shot him. The cutting was a sequel of that trouble, Bushton doing the killing.

In a street fight in Los Angeles, September 3, Ysidro Altimoro shot and killed E. L. Taboorvea.

Wm. George, at the Good Friday mine at Ophir, Placer County, September 1 descended the shaft in the ore bucket; it uncoupled and dropped eighty feet; he was brought to the surface and expired in a short time from internal hurts.

Richard Kent of Nevada County was kicked by a horse and killed in Lassen County September 1.

September 1 Joseph Kane, an employee of the Central Pacific railroad at Cisco, Placer County, fell from the roof of the roundhouse and was killed.

T. J. Bowens, near Lexington, Santa Clara County, attempted to take up his ride from a corner in his cabin September 1; the hammer caught in a potato sack and caused the gun's discharge; the bullet passed through his head, killing him.

Two hunters in Plumas County, named Harkness and Harvey, separated in a canyon and proceeded to find game independent of each other. A couple of hours afterward Harkness saw in the moving branches of a tree what he supposed was an animal and shot Harvey, who had climbed a tree to take a look at the land, through the head and killed him. His body fell and lodged in the crotch of the tree, sixty feet from the ground, and was with great difficulty brought down.

Lyman Peabody, a boy 12 years old, was hunting in Alpine County September 17; while climbing upon a rock he accidentally fired his gun and the charge, entering under his left arm, killed him.

Allen Glass, a 17-year-old boy at Bridgeport, Mono County, September 15 was struck by a runaway car, knocked through a chute into the bay, and drowned.

B. S. Tyler of Fiddletown, Amador County, placed his 10-year-old daughter upon a horse to ride a short distance; she fell off, and expired in a few minutes after striking the ground.

Edward Eagan, fishing in a boat on Sausalito Bay with two companions September 6, fell overboard and drowned so quietly his companions did not know when or how the accident happened.

James Blackburn of Paso Robles, San Luis Obispo County, September 3 was driving with his wife and three children; the team ran away and overturned the vehicle, killing one of the children and injuring the others.

James Arnott, September 17 near Brandy City, Sierra County, fell from a bluff into a canyon 700 feet deep and broke a leg. He was twenty-two hours climbing, with his hands and on one knee, up the mountain side to a trail where he could find help.

James Morgan, prominent farmer of El Dorado County, September 24 near Pilot Hill was thrown by a horse and so seriously hurt he lay for fourteen hours where he fell before his plight was discovered by a neighbor.

THERE IS.—There is something very significant about the recent alien registration in Placer County. There were 2,243 registrations, which means an alien population of 5,000 or one-fourth of the total population of the county; women, and males between 21 and 60 years were not registered. The 800 Japanese registration means a total of 2,500 Japanese in the county.—Placer Herald.

Vintage Festival.—St. Helena, Napa County, has selected September 3, 4 and 5 as the dates for its annual Vintage Festival.

Dairy Show.—At San Luis Obispo, September 5-10, will be held a rodeo, livestock and dairy show.

ADMISSION DAY

THE time is drawing near," says Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek in a letter to the officers and members of Subordinate Parlors dated August 20, "when we shall be called upon to celebrate the seventy-first anniversary of the admission of California to full sisterhood in the Union,—the only state, save the original thirteen, ever admitted without territorial childhood. Our early Pioneers, in the two years previous to September 9, 1850, practically demonstrated to the world the ability of American subjects to self-government. They framed a constitution demanding admittance as a free state, thus dedicating it to the eternal principles of equality and freedom. "As our Admission Day dawns, the heart of every loyal Californian thrills with renewed pride and patriotism. We recall, with love and veneration, the honored Pioneer,—those noble men and women who left their sheltered homes to suffer privations, hardships and dangers; yet, firm of purpose and stout of heart, neither looked to the past with regret, nor to the future with apprehension. It is true that with many, the incentive was a golden dream of wealth, and they little realized that they were discovering and acquiring a land destined to be the abiding place of a happy, prosperous people, the garden spot of the world, a great state, forming an important part of the Republic which should one day dominate the destinies of the nations of the world.

"When we carry our affections and our recollections back to these noble founders of our state, it is for us to imitate the virtues that supported them in their hours of peril, exposure and suffering; to strive to possess the unconquerable resolution which nerved their hearts; to cultivate that patience and faith which enabled them to overcome the difficulties and obstacles which beset their path in this wilderness of the West.

"As we follow down the corridors of time, let us carry on the work so daringly begun, and keep the name of California forever unstained, preserve its spotless reputation, and see that it ever remains an honor to the Republic whose protection we enjoy under the red, white and blue of the Star Spangled Banner.

"May we show to the world that we are identified with the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West because we love California, because we would promote its interests, preserve its romantic history and landmarks, and insure for it an enduring future.

"My earnest wish is, that in whatever way or place we celebrate our natal day, that each member may have enjoyment in its fullest measure, with a heart filled with renewed devotion to our beloved state."

To Open Social Season.

San Jose—September 15 will witness the opening of Vendome 100's social season. The event will be a card party, at which beautiful and original prizes, handiwork of the members, will be awarded. Mrs. David J. Gairaud heads the committee of arrangement, and is being assisted by Meses. H. J. Dougherty, R. Plamondon, M. D. Pearl, J. M. Howell, B. Meyer, I. L. Koppel, M. S. Silva, J. C. Hayes, Hattie Lewis, Helen Sweeney; Misses Clara Waggoner, Sadie Jefferson, Eileea Barber. The Parlor holds forth at the Community Shop the first day of each month; September 1 will be apron day, when bungalow, kitchen and afternoon aprons, made by the members, will be placed on sale.

New Parlor Assured.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead 110 N.S.G.W. has worked so fast and successfully that the parlor of Native Daughters which it has been instrumental in organizing here should be instituted before the end of August. It will not be Arrowhead's fault if this hope is not realized; the charter list was sent early in August to the Grand Secretary's office. Arrowhead is particularly anxious to have the new parlor a full-fledged part of the Order by September 3, so that its members may be its guests at the doings at Big Bear.

Contributions for Museum.

"On behalf of the Museum Committee, I take this means of thanking the Parlors for contributions to the James W. Marshall Pioneer Museum. This museum is one that all parlors can be proud of. In the coming years, future generations can visualize the pioneer period of California history by visiting this museum, which already contains the largest collection of Pioneers' belongings in the state.

Splendid Talk Greatly Enjoyed.

Santa Cruz—Santa Cruz 26 was visited by Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek, August 8. The attendance was quite large, there being visitors present from Stockton, San Jose and Watsonville. Corinae Wood-Rice, a past grand trustee who has been living in Mexico for the past year, was present, as was also P.G.P. Stella Finkeldey. Two candidates were initiated. All present greatly enjoyed the splendid talk of the Grand President, and on behalf of the Parlor, President Callista Dake presented her with a framed picture of some of this section's wonderful redwoods. After the meeting all adjourned to the banquet hall, where a salad course was served. The tables were decorated with sweet-peas, while in the lodge-room were the golden coreopsis and huckleberry.

Santa Cruz Parlor has presented the local American Legion Post with a large coffee urn for its new meeting place in the former city hall.

Card Party Returns Put to Good Use.

Salinas—The operating room at the local Red Cross health center is now ready for use, having been thoroughly equipped by Aleli 102 with an electric sterilizer, operating table and stool, solution basin and stands. A committee of the Parlor has also made the operating-room gowns and other necessary supplies. All the paraphernalia was purchased with the proceeds from a card party given by Aleli some time ago.

Twenty-three Added.

Modesto—July 27 brought to a close a most happy and prosperous term for Morada 199. Under the leadership of President Erma Edwards a membership contest was waged, resulting in the addition of twenty-three new members. The winning team is looking forward to the party to be given by the losers. Several members of Joaquin 5 (Stockton) and Veritas 75 (Merced) were present, by invitation, to witness the initiation of two candidates and the installation of officers by D.D.G.P. Lulu Griffith of Merced. Complimentary remarks were made by the district deputy and President Katherine Butheuth of Joaquin Parlor. Ethel Sorenson, retiring past president, was presented with a beautiful emblematic pin.

In the banquet hall, following an enjoyable meeting, delicious refreshments were served at daintily-decorated tables; the favors were little bunches of organdy flowers of pastel shades. The committee in charge of the evening was: Anna Osborne, Florence Shaw, Mrs. Peck, Anna Sargent, Lucy Outland, Ethel Sorenson.

Anniversary Celebrated.

Santa Barbara—Six hundred were assembled in Tucker's Grove July 20 to help Reina del Mar 126 celebrate the twentieth anniversary of its institution. Among several of the features on the entertainment program were solos by Miss Annie Acquistapace and Miss Hazel E. Avery, accompanied by Madame A. Brahic and Michael Austin, and a solo dance by Miss Teresa Detrozzi. An orchestra furnished music, and a basket lunch was served.

The novel feature of the evening's "high jinks" was the grand march to the birthday cake, participated in by all present. Each guest was given a number, which was deposited in the cake, twenty of the numbers being withdrawn to represent each year of the Parlor's growth. The march was led by John P. McCaughey, retiring president Santa Barbara 116 N.S.G.W., and Mrs. William Wilson, retiring president Reina del Mar; following them came W. R. Vick and Mrs. H. Batser, newly-elected presidents of the respective Parlors. Those in charge of the evening's success were: Mrs. Imogen A. Palmer, Misses Lydia Whitney, Anna McCaughey, Estella Myers, R. Cavallero, E. Bottiani, Meses. H. Myers, Ed Junior, H. Sprietz, M. Harrison, C. McCrea.

Commended Most Highly.

Port Bragg—Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek paid her official visit to Port Bragg 210 August 6. In an interesting address she commended the Parlor most highly upon its prosperous condition and promising membership and the up-to-the-minute interest of both officers and members in all affairs of the Order; spoke at length upon the different objects in which the Order is interested, and urged publicity in all lines of work. At the close of the meeting all adjourned to the banquet hall and gathered around the beautifully-decorated tables, where delicious refreshments were served. After a short musical program President Fuller, on the Parlor's behalf, presented the visitor with a large bowl of redwood burl, a gift in keeping with the industries of this locality.

Splendid Report.

Stockton—Mrs. Hattie B. Ward, who became a past president of Joaquin 5 July 26, turned over the office to her successor, Catherine Butheuth, with a splendid report which showed the Parlor to be the largest in the Order, 345 members, and also one of the best in finances. P.G.P. Mamie G. Peyton was the installing officer, and was assisted by Mattie Porter, P.G.P. Carrie R. Durham, Louise Hilke, Lucy Leiginger, Florence Board, Emma Hilke, Grace Willy. In behalf of the Parlor, P.G.P. Durham presented Florence Board, past president, with an emblematic pin, and Hattie B. Ward presented P.G.P. Peyton with a basket of flowers. Mrs. Mattie Porter was named chairman of the Parlor's Admission Day committee.

An engraved resolution of thanks was received from the Grand Parlor, N.S.G.W., expressing appreciation of Joaquin's splendid co-operation in entertaining visiting Native Sons at the Grand Parlor held here in April. A social hour was spent, refreshments being served by Mrs. Louise Peterson.

Has New Meeting Place.

San Francisco—Twain Peaks 185 has changed its meeting-place to Druid's Temple, Forty-fourth and

Page streets, where a house-warming will be held next month and a dance in the near future. Meetings are held the second and fourth Fridays. At the meeting August 3 there was a large attendance. Refreshments were served, the piece-de-resistance being an immense cake—which tasted as good as it looked—donated by President Agnes Dougherty; on the cake was inscribed "Success to Twin Peaks Parlor."

To Help Disabled Soldiers.

Byron—Donner 193 has pledged itself to send something each month to the disabled soldiers. In July $10 was forwarded as the first contribution, and magazines were sent in August. A committee has been named to gather old clothes, which will be sent to the needy Pitt River Indians. July 7 one candidate was initiated.

Have "Dandy" Times.

St. Helena—La Junta 203's members have been enjoying many pleasant evenings. On a recent moonlight night a trip was made to the home of Mrs. Peter Hale, a member, where tables were spread under the trees and, with true picnic appetites, a splendid supper was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Hale made their guests feel very much at home and it was a late hour before the autos started homeward.

August 1 an auto trip was made to Napa, where the members were guests of Eschol 16 at installation. Visitors from Calistoga 145 and Vallejo 195 were also present. A delightful time was had. August 8 eighteen members of La Junta accompanied D.D.G.P. Martha Klubescheidt to Calistoga, where officers of 145 were installed. At the meeting's close refreshments were served, the table decorations being the Order's colors—red, white, yellow.

Past Presidents Install.

Oakland—Past Presidents' Association No. 2 had installation ceremonies, which were attended by a large delegation from Association No. 1 (San Francisco), including Founder Leah Williams, "Mother" Jennie Brown, Organist Rebecca Kemp Van Ee, installing Officer Julia Hardesty, Marshal Mahel Gerkin. The president's station was covered with a pink canopy and surrounded with ferns, while the banquet tables were arranged to form the

USEFUL LIFE OF GOOD WOMAN

IS SUDDENLY TERMINATED.

Santa Barbara—A half-century's useful service to this community was closed August 17 when Mrs. Susan McCaughey, matron of the Santa Barbara County Detention Home, passed suddenly away at Santa Maria. She had passed the week-end at Nipomo, and had stopped in Santa Maria for a short call on her way back to Santa Barbara when she was suddenly seized by an acute heart attack; within five minutes she was dead. She was a member of the pioneer Coyle family, which came here fifty years ago from Wisconsin, being but 9 years old at the time. Here she was married to George McCaughey, who died many years ago.

An ardent lover of her home city, Mrs. McCaughey watched its development with keen interest through the long years of her residence here. Of a sympathetic, charitable nature, her life was filled with many good works. The latter part of her life was devoted to her duties as matron of the county detention home, and the high standing of that institution as a social agency was largely due to her fine intelligence, clear judgment, warm sympathy in dealing with the little charges in the home, and the beautiful spirit of co-operation existing between herself and daughter, Miss Anna McCaughey, superintendent of the home. In her death the dependent little children lose a real mother, and the wayward girls a gentle and discerning friend.

Mrs. McCaughey was an active member of many civic and charitable organizations whose members, together with a wide circle of other friends, are deeply grieved at her sudden passing. Surviving are three sons—John P. McCaughey (Santa Barbara 116 N.S.G.W.) of Santa Barbara, George McCaughey of Los Angeles, Edward McCaughey of

NOTED PIONEER'S DAUGHTER DEAD.

Susanville—Mrs. Susan Roop-Arnold, after whom this place was named, is dead at the age of 79; she was a native of Ohio; five children survive. Deceased was the daughter of Isaac Newton Roop, a Pioneer of 1850 who, in 1853, went to what is now Lassen County and "staked out" Susanville. He was elected the first Provisional Governor of Nevada, in 1859, and died in his forty-sixth year at Susanville in 1869.

PIONEER NATIVE PASSES.

Ferndale—Mrs. Mary Clark-Rackliff, for many years a resident here, died at Oakland survived by three children. She is said to have been the first white child born in the Mattole Valley section of Humboldt County, her birthplace being Petrolia.

N.S.G.W.—THE DEATH RECORD—N.D.G.W.

Calistoga—Mabel Light, Calistoga Parlor No. 145 N.D.G.W., passed away July 19.

San Francisco—The remains of Alfred J. Murphy, Presidio Parlor No. 194 N.S.G.W., who died on the battlefields of France, were interred July 23 under the Parlor's auspices.

Lincoln—After a lingering illness, Mrs. Annie E. Pelster, charter member Placer Parlor No. 138 N.D.G.W., passed away recently at the age of 44. A daughter survives.

Napa—F. W. Behrens, Napa Parlor No. 62 N.S.G.W., was killed by an auto August 5. He was aged 54, and is survived by a widow and two daughters.

Sonora—Miss Margaret A. Fahey, for close to a half-century identified with Tuolumne County's public schools—for several years a member of the County Board of Education—and one of the most highly-respected women of the county, passed away suddenly August 7 at Watsonville, where she was visiting, at the age of 65. She was a charter member Dardanelle Parlor No. 66 N.D.G.W., which conducted the funeral services and escorted the remains of this much-loved Tuolumne native to their last resting-place.

Stockton—Mrs. Armazinda Nourse-Hosmer, highly-esteemed member Joaquin Parlor No. 5 N.D.G.W., passed away July 30 after a lingering illness. While preparing for his wife's burial, William H. Hosmer, member Stockton Parlor No. 7 N.S.G.W., was stricken and died in a few days. Both were natives of Tuolumne County.

In Memoriam

WILLIAM WARE YOUNG.

Resolved, That in the all-wise providence of Him Who doeth all things well, our beloved and faithful brother has been called from the activities and trials of this earthly life, to a life of everlasting peace and rest in the "Eternal Parlor on High." May we cherish the memory of his most faithful attendance at the meetings of the Parlor, and emulate his fraternal interest in the work of the Order.

Resolved, That in the passing of Brother William Ware Young, Mount Bally Parlor No. 87 and the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West have lost a loyal and respected Native Son, the community a good citizen, and his family a kind, loving husband and father, and that we extend our deepest sympathy to his bereaved family; resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be presented in our minutes, and a copy be handed to the bereaved family under the seal of the Parlor, and also that a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Weaverville, August 13, 1921.

MABEL LIGHT.

July 19, 1921, the Angel of Death again entered our sacred portals and took from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Mabel Light. We tenderly and lovingly commend the bereaved family in their hour of affliction, and commend them for consolation to Him Who doeth all things well. Let us not think of her as dead, but as having preceded us to the Golden Shore where she now dwells as one of the daughters of that Better Land and where she waits to welcome us, as we, too, shall pass through that Golden Gate. By her death a devoted family lost a loving daughter and sister, Calistoga Parlor No. 145 N.D.G.W., a sister whose noble character and kind disposition endeared herself to all, and the Order a loyal Native Daughter of the Golden West.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning, and that a copy of this memorial be sent the family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes, and that a copy be sent The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

CALIFORNIA'S FIRST ADMISSION DAY CELEBRATION

OCTOBER 29, 1850, IN SAN FRANCISCO, was held the first grand celebration of the admission of California into the Union. September 9th—Admission Day, a legal holiday by act of the State Legislature—the President had signed the act of Congress making California the thirty-first state in the Union, and the news was dispatched by the mail-steamer "Oregon"—there being no communication by rail or wire in those days between the East and the West—which reached San Francisco October 18. The populace went wild when the official news became known, and all business was suspended. A formal celebration of the important event was decided upon, and neither labor nor money was spared in making the demonstration a success. The account, as published at the time, of this first Admission Day celebration, follows:

Colonel Jonathan D. Stevenson was made Grand Marshal of the day, and announced the following appointments of aids and marshals, to assist him in directing the celebration: Marshals—Colonel John C. Hays, D. C. Brodrick, J. D. Carr, W. C. Hoff, James S. Wethered, E. Connor, W. S. Ross, Willis Johnson, James M. Crane, J. Winchester, W. Bartlett, James Becket, Geo. H. Hudson, Jos. Henriques, W. C. Wood, Captain E. D. Keys, Captain F. D. Schaffer, Captain J. F. Hutton, Captain M. R. Roberts, Dr. Elbert P. Jones, Dr. Lorenzo Huhhard, Chas. Ellerd, Talbot H. Green, E. H. Tharp, G. W. Baker, E. E. Dunbar, Ed Jones, Francisco Guerrero, John A. McGlynn. Aids—William C. Parker, Ed D. Collier, Lieut. H. C. Gibson, D. W. C. Thompson, Hervey Sparks, J. P. Haven, Calhoun Benham, Wm. Hart, D. McCarthy, J. H. Sanderson, A. C. Wakeman, Wm. McP. Hill, C. H. H. Cook, Hon. F. C. Bennett, Alex Wells, Wm. M. Eddy.

The uniform worn by the mayor, recorder, common council and heads of departments of the city government, the grand marshal, his aids and assistant marshals, was: The mayor, recorder, and common council, dark-blue scarf, gold trimmings and white armlets; heads of departments, dark-blue scarf and gold trimmings; grand marshal, white scarf, gold trimmings and blue sash; aids, light-blue scarf and silver trimmings; marshals, crimson scarf, gold trimmings; marshals of the several societies and associations, orange-colored scarf, with appropriate trimmings; saddle cloths of plain blue; the scarfs were furnished to the aids and marshals by the committee of arrangements.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

At sunrise and at sundown a national salute was fired from the Plaza, when the national banner was displayed from the staff and upon the public buildings of the city, at which time the shipping in the harbor was requested to display the flags of their respective nations. During the moving of the procession a salute of 100 guns was fired from the Plaza by a detachment of Company M, Third United States Artillery, under command of Lieutenant H. C. Gibson.

At 10 o'clock a signal gun was fired from the Plaza to indicate the commencement of the formation of the line of procession, at which time the military, public authorities, societies, associations, and all others intending to unite in the procession and ceremonies of the day were prepared to march into line under their respective marshals, and take the position thereafter assigned them at 10:30 o'clock a.m. precisely. A signal of two guns was fired, at which precise time the order of procession did move.

ORDER OF PARADE FORMATION.

Grand marshal and aids in chief, W. C. Parker, D. C. McCarthy, Lieutenant H. C. Gibson, Lieutenant J. H. Sanderson.

representatives of foreign governments, accompanied by the subjects of their respective governments under their national governments, under their national flags; citizens of the celestial empire in their national costumes.

Third Division—The car drawn by six horses, containing the representatives of each state with their appropriate banners with a guard of honor, composed of six marshals; E. D. Keys, marshal in charge, with marshals composing guard of honor for the representatives of states, J. D. Carr, W. C. Hoff, G. W. Baker, J. Winchester, J. M. Crane; aids, F. C. Bennett, Alex Wells.

Fourth Division—The mayor, recorder, common council and other municipal officers of the City of San Francisco; the municipal officers of sister cities and districts; the chief marshal of the city and police department; J. F. Hutton, marshal in charge, with Marshals E. E. Dunbar, John A. McGlynn and Ed Jones.

Fifth Division—The chief engineer, assistant engineers; the fire department and machines; D. C. Brodrick, marshal in charge, with Marshals J. S. Wethered, J. Becket, W. Bartlett; A. C. Wakeman and Hervey Sparks, aids; the watermen of San Francisco, with their boats and canoes.

Sixth Division—Typographical Society, with press printing ode; Society California Pioneers; New England Society Order of United Americans; ship masters and mates; American and foreign seamen under the flags of their respective nations; Talbot H. Green, marshal in charge; Chas. Ellerd, M. R. Roberts, Willie Johnson, assistant marshal; aid, William McP. Hill.

Seventh Division—Grand master and officers of the Grand Lodge, F. and A. M., of the State of California; California Lodge No. 1, "Crockett" Lodge, and other lodges according to rank; San Francisco Chapter No. 1, R. A. M., together with the members of the higher orders of Masonry; the Society of Odd Fellows, with their officers according to the regulations of the order; citizens not attached to any society or association; George H. Hudson, marshal in charge; W. S. Poss, E. P. Jones, marshals; J. P. Haven, W. M. Eddy, aids.

The line was formed on Montgomery street, right on Jackson street, and each division was formed successively as follows: First Division, Montgomery, right on Jackson street; Second Division, right on Washington; Third Division, right resting immediately on left of second; Fourth Division, on left of third; Fifth Division, on Sacramento street, right on Montgomery street; Sixth Division, Commercial street, right on Montgomery; Seventh, on Clay, right on Montgomery, and as the column counter-marched on Montgomery each division, formed on Sacramento, Commercial and Clay streets, filed into column, and assumed the post assigned on the program.

ORDER OF CEREMONY.

At 10 o'clock a.m. precisely, the marshals in charge of each division, with the aid assigned them, took post at the point where the right of their respective divisions rested, and directed the formation of the bodies composing their division, as they came into line. All communications between marshals in charge of divisions and the grand marshal were made through the aids assigned them. The column counter-marched on Montgomery street, passing up Sacramento to Kearny, up Kearny to Clay, up Clay to Stockton, through Stockton to Washington, down Washington to Montgomery, up Montgomery to Clay, up Clay to the Plaza, across the Plaza on a line with Kearny street and forming a solid square in front of the orator's stand.

The engines and other machines of the fire department and all other cars or vehicles (except the banner car and printing press, which were, after the borses were taken off, taken in front of the orator's stand) were drawn out Clay, Kearny and Washington streets fronting the Plaza, and as each division formed upon the Plaza, the music immediately repaired to the stand erected for the choir and music, and reported to the chief musician and leader of the choir.

The order of ceremony was: Music, "Hail Columbia;" prayer to the Throne of Grace, Rev. R. T. Huddart; music, "Marseilles Hymn," assembled multitude; oration, N. Bennett; ode, prepared for the occasion by Mrs. Willis of Louisiana, choir, in which the assembled multitude joined. The ceremonies of the day concluded with a grand display of fireworks from Telegraph Hill, Yerba Buena and other islands, and continued throughout the evening. The day was set apart as a day of jubilee and general rejoicing; it was requested that all business be suspended, and each and every one of the whole community participated therein.

It was indispensable necessary to the proper formation and movement of the line of procession that the streets upon which it was formed, and through which it passed, be free from all interruptions and obstructions. The public authorities were therefore respectfully requested to cause the Plaza and the streets through which the procession passed to be cleared, and the obstructions removed therefrom, and all persons were requested to abstain from passing through or across any of the streets aforesaid with animals or vehicles during the formation and march of the line of procession. Such was the order of J. D. Stevenson, grand marshal, and W. C. Parker, aid.

"JEDIDIAH SMITH"

JEDIDIAH SMITH? WHY, HE WAS ONE of the first Americans who came to California, and historians generally accord him the distinction of having been the first to cross the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Zoeth S. Eldredge, in his "The Beginnings of San Francisco" (1:249-50), makes this reference to Smith:

"The first of this army of hunters to reach California was Jedediah S. Smith, an American. With a party of fifteen Smith started from the Great Salt Lake in August 1826, traveled in a southwesterly direction, passed into California hallow Death Valley, crossed the Mojave Desert, and reached the Mission of San Gabriel in December. Leaving his men at the mission, Smith was taken before the governor (Echeandia) at San Diego to give an account of himself. He stated that he was a hunter and trapper of fur animals and that he had penetrated so far into the desert country lying to the eastward that a return by the way he had come was impossible as most of his horses had died for want of food and water. He was therefore under the necessity of pushing forward to California, it being the nearest place where he could procure supplies to enable his return. He exhibited his passports from the Government of the United States and begged permission to return by a different route to the headwaters of the Columbia River. His petition was endorsed by Wm. G. Dana, captain of the schooner 'Waverly,' Wm. H. Cunningham, captain of the brig 'Olive Branch,' and the mate and supercargo of the 'Waverly' and 'Courier,' all of whom certified to the correctness of Smith's papers and their belief in his story. The trapper was given a passport by the governor and after several ineffectual attempts to cross the Sierra Nevada he remained in camp near San Jose until the melting of the snow made the passage possible. Proceeding northward in May, he crossed the Sierra by the Pitt River pass near the mountain of St. Joseph (Lassen Peak) and reached Salt Lake in June, having eaten six of his seven horses. This is the first recorded crossing of the Sierra Nevada." While in command of a trading expedition to Santa Fe, New Mexico, Smith was killed by the Indians on the Cimarron River, in 1831.—C. M. H.

OUR DUTY TO SEE THAT

ADMISSION DAY IS OBSERVED.

Under date of August 11, Grand President William I. Traeger of Los Angeles directed the following to all officers and members of Subordinate Parlor:

"September 9, 1921, is the seventy-first anniversary of the admission of the State of California into the Union. As Grand President, I extend to you greetings, and request that the day be fittingly celebrated by each Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

"The last session of the Grand Parlor did not designate any particular place for holding a general celebration, therefore the Parlor in every part of the state should arrange to hold celebrations in their respective localities. In counties where there are several Parlor a short distance apart, it would be advisable to hold joint celebrations.

"Through the efforts of the Native Sons, the State of California has declared Admission Day a legal holiday, and it is our duty to see that there is a general observance of the day, thus publicly commemorating the deeds of our Pioneer ancestors and keeping alive their traditions."

(Information regarding the various Admission Day celebrations will be found elsewhere in this issue of The Grizzly Bear.—Editor.)

TO KEEP MEMBER INFORMED.

Sacramento 3 has sent this letter to one of its members now aboard the U.S.S. "California," formally commissioned last month:

"Sacramento, August 16, 1921.

"Mr. Gomer O. Price,

"Care U.S.S. 'California,'

"Mare Island, California.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"We are directing the editor of The Grizzly Bear Magazine, the official organ of the Native Sons, to send a copy to you monthly. We know that you will find many interesting articles therein to read in your leisure hours; and, furthermore, it will keep you in touch with the doings of the Native Sons.

"Congratulating you on being aboard the ship named after our wonderful state, and offering you our services at any time, we are,

"Yours Fraternally,

"SACRAMENTO PARLOR, NO. 3, N.S.G.W.

"By J. F. DIDION,

"Recording Secretary."

TO INSTILL PATRIOTISM.

At the Stockton Grand Parlor in April, E. F. Garrison of Oakland, Auditor of Alameda County, proposed a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that patriotism should be instilled in the Nation's youths. He was appointed chairman of a committee to carry out the intent of the resolution, and it is planned to place in every classroom in California's schools an American Flag and a picture of George Washington. Other members of the committee are: Grand Trustee C. L. McEnerney of San Francisco, Grand Trustee C. A. Thompson of Santa Clara, P.G.P. W. F. Toomey of Fresno, E. A. Van Vranken of Stockton, J. J. Monteverde of Sacramento, W. J. Ford of Los Angeles, A. P. Johnson Jr. of San Diego, A. A. Burcham of San Bernardino.

Watch 'Em Do It.

Oakland—The Alameda County Extension Committee, the 1922 Grand Parlor Committee and East Bay Assembly No. 3 P.P.A. have joined forces to wage a membership campaign having for its object the addition of no less than 2,500 new members to the Alameda County Parlor before the meeting of the Grand Parlor here next April. Prizes to be awarded the Parlor showing the greatest percentage membership gain during the campaign have been announced, as follows: Silver loving cup, donated by E. F. Garrison; silk trophy banner, donated by Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams; silk altar flag, donated by Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes. The contest opened July 1 and will close with the first April meeting of each Parlor; already, it is announced, large classes are ready for initiation in Oakland 50, Athens 195, Claremont 240 and Fruitvale 252.

Grand Organizer James P. Cronin has charge of the campaign, and is being assisted by Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams, Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes, Historiographer Frank C. Merritt, and such prominent members as E. F. Garrison, Ray B. Felton, William Dunlap Sr., William Forrest, Chester H. Case, William J. De Blois, Richard Fenelon, A. T. Sousa, John Ansel, T. B. Murphy, F. Thawes, Thomas H. Silver, William Muntz, William Knightly.

Hall Mortgage Burned.

St. Helena—At a big celebration August 19 St. Helena 53 burned the mortgage on its hall, erected in 1915. There was a large attendance, including grand officers and members from all Napa County. Following a short program, dancing and refreshments were in order. The paying off of the mortgage on the hall was made possible by the generosity of the Parlor's members, who loaned the necessary amount without interest; as fast as funds accumulate in the building fund from operating revenues the members are being returned their money.

July 25, jointly with La Junta 203 N.D.G.W., officers were installed, D.D.G.Ps. Percy King Jr. of Napa and Martha Klubescheid officiating, and Arnold Metzner and Miss Louise Klubescheid becoming the respective presidents. At the festive board, P.G.P. Bismarck Bruck was the toastmaster, and several responded to toasts. A beautiful jeweled emblem was presented E. T. Cavallini, senior past president St. Helena Parlor, and pretty tokens were given D.D.G.P. Klubescheid and Ada Grigsby, retiring president, by La Junta Parlor.

Official Visitor Agreeably Surprised.

Ferndale—With a program of boxing, wrestling, initiation and banquet, Ferndale 93 entertained more than a hundred of its members and visitors from other Parlor of Humboldt County at a special meeting August 3, the occasion being a visit from Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin of Los Angeles.

Ferndale is well known as one of the liveliest Parlor in the Order, but even at that the visitor was agreeably surprised at the splendid showing made; had he made his visit on a regular meeting-night, he would "have hit the ceiling." In the course of an address, he complimented the members on the prevailing spirit, and paid the initiatory team an earnest tribute. Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler of Eureka was among the visitors, and delighted with one of his famous addresses.

Grand Parlor Committee Active.

Oakland—The 1922 Grand Parlor Committee, made up of representatives from all the seventeen Alameda County Parlor, is holding two meetings monthly. It is planned to make next year's Grand Parlor the most wonderful in the Order's history. Funds to defray the expense of entertainment are being accumulated by the committee through entertainments, several of which have already been given, and proved big successes.

It had been planned to celebrate Admission Day with a picnic, but out of deference to the wishes of the San Francisco Parlor the outing has been postponed to September 25, and it promises to be one of the highest affairs ever held in the county.

"Izzes" Defeat "Wuzzers."

Courtland—The supply of arnica and mustard-plasters in this town was sadly depleted following the baseball game July 23 between nines composed of Courtland 106's present chair officers and past presidents. The ritual contest, held some time ago, proved a draw, so it was decided to settle the championship on the diamond. The game was not a joke, but a well-played, nine-inning contest, and ended in favor of the present officers with a 20 to 14 score. J. Ashton Flinn (Berkeley 210), in the regalia of soccer referee, was umpire, while Miss Ethel Miller, president Victory 216 N.D.G.W., was the scorekeeper. President Joseph Berry pitched the nine innings for the "Izzers," while J. B. "Jake" Miller went the full route for the "Wuzzers." Berry's delivery consisted of a fence ball which, after being hit to the barrier, bounced back so hard the runner was retired making second; Miller's "fast one" was hard to solve, and he held his opponents to twenty-two scattered hits.

Courtland will send a large delegation to the Stockton Admission Day celebration; its committee is planning many novelties, and a tug-of-war team is being recruited. At the Kit Carson tablet dedication the Parlor was represented by Joseph Green, Milo Dye and D. W. Leary, accompanied by Mrs. Green, Mrs. Dye and Miss Ethel Miller of Victory Parlor. Following the invitation of three candidates August 6, the members participated in a card party given by the local Native Daughters.

Big Delegation Visits.

Livermore—D.D.G.P. William R. Crosby of Oakland installed the officers of Las Positas 96, S. Barber becoming president. A large delegation from Oakland 50 was in attendance, as was also Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams, who, in the course of an address, urged the members to continue their efforts to increase the numerical strength of Las Positas.

In Memory of Departed Hero.

Byron—There now adorns the meeting-place of Byron 170 a beautiful bronze memorial-tablet 14 x 16 inches, presented by Donner 193 N.D.G.W. in memory of Melvin Leroy Frerichs, Company A, 316th Engineers, 91st Division, a member of the Parlor who died in France October 6, 1918. Deceased's father, J. L. Frerichs, is also a member of the Parlor, while his mother is affiliated with El Pescadero 82 (Tracy). A poem on the honor-roll entitled "To the Dead Knight," reads:
"Sleep well, dead lad, Knight of the Azure Blue;

Sleep well, thy stately sleep amid the bloom!
Love holds thee dear; Faith hails thee leal and true;
Proud honor weaves rich chaplets for thy tomb.
Dead in the splendor of thy golden youth,
Dead in the promise of thy dawning day,
Yet ne'er to die, immortalized in Truth,
A living star in Freedom's sky away."

Outing Big Success.

Oakland—The new officers of Fruitvale 252 conducted their first meeting July 28, when four candidates were initiated. Several additional applications were filed with the secretary. The members are out to make Fruitvale, the second largest Parlor in Alameda County now, the largest. The regular monthly socials are to be resumed, and all events sponsored by the 1922 Grand Parlor Committee are being "boosted."

August 14 the Parlor's annual summer outing was held, and it was a most successful event, largely attended by members and their families. In the afternoon there was a baseball game between nines of Oakland 50 and Fruitvale. The committee in charge of the outing was: Joseph O. Levy, Daniel W. Loring, James P. Cronin.

Pioneers' Misfortune Recalled.

Grass Valley—George A. Legg has communicated with Quartz 58 and Hydraulic 56 (Nevada City), suggesting that tablets be placed to mark the resting places of two small pioneers. It appears that in 1858, while crossing the mountains in Nevada County, a family named Apperson, relatives of the late Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, lost two of their children by death—a 2-year-old boy May 6 at a place known as Lone Grave, about six miles above Nevada City, and a little girl at the next camping-place, about twenty-two miles distant, at a place known as Clear Creek.

Quartz Parlor has appointed a committee consisting of E. R. Berryman, O. H. Fuller and C. A. Berryman to look after the little girl's grave, and letter "F," in honor of Mrs. Minnie E. Flynn, newly-installed president. In behalf of the Association, Toastmistress Josephine Schmidt made presentations to all officers, and to Elizabeth S. Smith, retiring past president, was given an emblematic pin. President Flynn was the recipient of numerous beautiful remembrances from her many friends. In charge of the affair was this committee: Elizabeth B. Goodman, Josephine Clarke and Josephine Schmidt.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Instructive Talk Well Received.

Halfmoon Bay—Dr. Victory A. Derrick of Oakland, Grand President, was the guest of honor at a joint meeting of Vista Del Mar 155 and Ana Nuevo 180 (Pescadero) August 11. After she had reviewed the work of the local Parlor and complimented the members upon the excellent manner in which it was rendered, she gave an instructive talk upon the work in continual progress under the direction of the Grand Parlor. This was particularly interesting to Vista Del Mar Parlor as a whole, for rural life has its limitations and unless one and all closely read that wonderful publication, The Grizzly Bear, they are not in touch with the splendid work of the Order. This meeting was the largest gathering of coastside Native Daughters held for some years.

Before the meeting adjourned, Dr. Derrick was presented with a choice piece of hand-painted china by Ana Nuevo Parlor, and a marvelous collection of a variety of dahlias by Vista Del Mar Parlor, the flowers having been grown in Halfmoon Bay, in the garden of Secretary Grace Griffith. A delightful ravioli supper concluded the evening.

Surprised, But Pleased.

Oakland—July 22 marked an epoch in the annals of Bahia Vista 167. It was an evening of joint installation with Oakland 50 N.S.G.W., and the newly installed officers were the surprised and pleased recipients of fifteen beautiful potted plants, gifts from their brother officers. Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams made the presentations in his own original and inimitable manner; he requested the marshal to line up the officers across the room in front of him, and after discoursing on the array astonished the "girls" by telling them to each grab one of the plants which appeared in the hall as a part of the decorations; the order had to be repeated before the astounded "girls" could believe their ears; the president, however, was formally presented with hers, by Williams. Other presentations were made, including jewels to the junior past presidents of both Parlors. Over 300 guests enjoyed the hospitality of the two Parlors. A novel program was rendered, refreshments were served, and dancing concluded the evening's pleasures. The decorations of the hall were beautiful, a monster poppy being suspended from the center of the ceiling, and flowers, ferns and banners being abundantly used to make the hall a bower of delight.

Officers Installed.

Napa—August 1 D.D.G.P. Agnes Hunter of Vallejo installed the officers of Eschol 16. Visitors were present from St. Helena, Calistoga and Vallejo. After installation a banquet was served, at which members of Napa 62 N.S.G.W. were guests. A most enjoyable evening was spent. Members of Eschol went to St. Helena August 19 to attend a dance given by the Native Daughters and Sons of that place.

San Francisco—July 25 D.D.G.P. Mae L. Edwards installed the officers of Golden Gate 158, Claire McNerney becoming president. Visitors were present from Alta 3, Yosemite 83, Presidio 148. A. Franzen, outgoing past president, received a lovely

NATIVE SON NEWS

Hydraulic Parlor will name a committee to look after that of the little boy. It is possible that, after due investigation, suitable tablets will be erected.

Four Parlors in Installation.

Redwood City—The officers of four Parlors—Redwood 66 and Menlo 185 N.S.G.W. and Bonita 10 and Menlo 211 N.D.G.W.—were jointly installed July 28, D.D.G.Ps. A. S. Liguori and Charlotte Ritter officiating. There was a very large attendance of members of both Orders. The presidents of the Parlors are: Redwood, Stanley Marcus; Menlo N.S.G.W., George Murray; Bonita, Margaret Adams; Menlo N.D.G.W., Jane Mitchell. In appreciation for services rendered, D.D.G.P. Liguori was presented with a gold-mounted fountain-pen, suitably inscribed.

Plans Membership Campaign.

Oakland—Piedmont 120 gave a reception and entertainment August 18 in honor of Herman W. Hulén, the new president; a good program was presented and refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by the Good of the Order Committee—Louis Pierotti (chairman), Harold H. Flood, Dr. Jas. F. White, Carl Delen, Nicholas J. Meinert. Plans are being formulated for a big membership campaign, to be launched shortly.

Celebrates Thirtieth Anniversary.

San Jose—Observatory 177 celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of its institution with an outing at Gilroy dam August 14. The Parlor was instituted August 13, 1891, and has grown to be one of the very best in the Order; of the charter members, these remain: E. M. Rosenthal, Jas. C. Martin, S. H. Rich, Alex. J. Hart, Chas. C. Navlet, Sam Martin, Theo. W. Lenzen, Henry J. Lion, Chas. T. Richmond, S. E. Smith, Ernest Lion. Among the invited guests at the outing were Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Charles A. Koenig and Harry W. Gaetjen of San Francisco. In the course of an address at the dinner, Grand Secretary Regan urged the members to take an active interest in the work of the Order, and to assist in increasing the membership. August 16 Observatory initiated three candidates—P. C. Domianovich, Dow W. Putebaugh and L. L. Gairaud; the latter is the son of Mrs. D. G. Gairaud (Vendome 100 N.D.G.W.), a continuous "booster" for The Grizzly Bear and all things Californian in general and the Natives in particular.

July 25 officers were installed by D.D.G.P. F. M. Ostrander of Palo Alto, A. B. Langford becoming president. A membership campaign is soon to be started; there will be two teams of twenty each, one made up of the older and the other of the younger members; President Langford will name the captain of each team, and the captains will select their own assistants.

officers of Balboa 234 July 23. The term of Chas. W. Dechent, retiring president, was most successful; although one of the youngest members to be elected the head of any Parlor, in the recent ritualistic test he made the exceptional score of 244 out of a possible 255 points. A record breaking term is predicted for the new president, Andrew Murray.

Class of Sixteen Initiated.

Ione—A class of sixteen candidates, rounded up by Grand Organizer Andrew Moeker, were initiated by Ione 33 August 6, the ritual being exemplified by a team from Stockton 7. There was a very large attendance, including Grand President William I. Traeger and other visitors, who stopped overnight in Ione on their way to the Kit Carson monument dedication. A banquet was served, and there was a program of exceptionally good talks, many of the Order's best orators responding to the toastmaster's call.

Predicts Prosperous Future.

Eureka—Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin of Los Angeles paid an official visit August 1 to Humboldt 14. Supper was served prior to the meeting, and the visitor addressed those assembled; he praised the natural resources of Humboldt County, and predicted a prosperous future for both the county and Eureka. Norris Peters, president, heads the Parlor's new corps of officers.

Large Class Initiated.

Oakland—Initiation of a large class of candidates secured in the membership drive now under way featured the official visit of Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin of Los Angeles to Claremont 240 August 19. There was a big attendance, and a program was presented and a ravioli supper served. August 26 the Parlor entertained the members' families with a program and social evening.

Officers Jointly Installed.

Richmond—Officers of Richmond 217 and Richmond 147 N.D.G.W. have been jointly installed, Louis Pinder and Mrs. A. J. Summers becoming presidents. Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick, assisted by D.D.G.P. Sallie Rutherford, officiated for the Native Daughters, and D.D.G.P. A. T. Sousa, assisted by Joe Berry (Courtland 106), for the Native Sons. A musical program was presented by Mary Lee Spease, Dorothy Woods, Marjorie Woods, Margaret Carey. Gifts were presented by both Parlors to the outgoing presidents, Mrs. C. R. Blake and Emmet Hitchcock. There was a large attendance of visitors, and a banquet was followed by informal dancing.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Bismarck Bruck (Past Grand President) of St. Helena was a visitor to Los Angeles last month.

S. P. Elias (Modesto 11) of Modesto was in Los Angeles last month attending the home-products exhibit.

BOOK REVIEWS

"Thoughts," Lewis F. Korn; The Cornhill Company, Boston; $1.00. A helpful collection of the author's thoughts written as circumstances arose; here are a few: "He is fortunate who wants the things he knows he can have." "Most people are willing to pay a big price to get something for nothing." "Society is heavily responsible when it permits those evils to exist that can be reached by votes." "Stripped of ideals, mere money making is among the coarsest of occupations." "Aa absurdity—a high social position with a low moral character." "Reparation for the thing we failed to do in the past, can best be made by doing the thing right now."

"Chamber Music," James Joyce; The Cornhill Company, Boston; $1.00. A collection of thirty-eight uninteresting verse-songs.

"The Desert and the Rose," Edith Nicholl Elison; The Cornhill Company, Boston; $1.75. A well-written account of the experiences of a woman who sought health as a farmer in the Mesilla Valley section of New Mexico before the building of the Elephant Butte dam, and won success. The book is illustrated.

"Think," Dr. George Starr White; published by the author, Los Angeles; $6.00. This illustrated book of 400 pages "is dedicated to those who believe in medical freedom on the same basis as religious freedom;" for the thinker, it is a mine rich in suggestions for every-day application, as well as a storehouse of useful information. The simplified, reformed method of spelling is used throughout the book. Here are some clever paragraphs: "The plan of watching for symptoms to develop belongs to the dark ages; to diagnose a case at the autopsy is not at all interesting to the patient." "From a monetary standpoint, it pays better to mind the train than to train the mind—compare the wages of train-men to those of teachers." "Even the your work cum to naught, if your motif be good you are benefitted; motif makes its everlasting imprints on the soul, whether the possessor know it or not." Several pages of the book are devoted to a citation of clinical cases treated by the author by what he terms "The Natural Way."

silver steak set, and D.D.G.P. Edwards a silver salt-and-pepper set. Refreshments were served, and over the coffee cups old acquaintanceships were renewed.

Placerville—Officers for the ensuing term, with Margaret Smith as president, have been installed by Marguerite 12.

San Francisco—August 9 D.D.G.P. Henrietta Wiese installed the officers of Guadalupe 153, with Mabel Reith as president. Miss A. Soracco, retiring past president, was presented with a beautiful emblematic pin; in the course of her address of thanks she called attention to the high ideals for which the pin stands. D.D.G.P. Wiese was also remembered and graciously thanked the Parlor. Three candidates were initiated.

Pescadero—Assisted by Henrietta Francis, Grace Griffith, Ella Botaino, Irene Bettencourt, Mamie Gleunan, officers of Ano Nuevo 180 were installed August 3 by D.D.G.P. Minnie Ross of Halfmoon Bay, Ellen K. Bell becoming president. One candidate was initiated, the district deputy was presented with flowers, and refreshments were served. Members of the Parlor recently escorted the remains of Henry Leroy Good, a resident here for forty-four years, to their last resting place.

Red Bluff—Officers of Berendos 23 were installed August 2 by D.D.G.P. Elsie Nathan of Redding, Mrs. Emma Stoll becoming president. Under "good of the order" the district deputy spoke entertainingly. Delicious refreshments were served at prettily-decorated tables. The visit of Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek September 6 is anticipated with a great deal of pleasure.

San Francisco—Alta 3's officers, with A. Warrea president, were installed July 30 by D.D.G.P. Margaret Cunha. Three candidates were initiated. Mmes. Smith, Kelly, Crawford and Miss Elizabeth Myrick, all prominent soloists in musical and church circles, constitute the Alta quartet.

Vallejo—Jointly with Vallejo 77 N.S.G.W., D.D.G.P. Agnes Hunter, assisted by Mary Bellon and Charlotte Olsen, installed the officers of Vallejo 195, Pauline Burke becoming president. There was a large attendance from Eschol 16 (Napa). Dancing brought a pleasant evening to a close.

N.D.G.W. Home Club Activities.

San Francisco—As is customary during the summer months, the N.D.G.W. Home Club has been filled to its present capacity for accommodating members of the Order. A meeting of the Board of Directors is held the first Monday of each month; at the August meeting, six out of seven newly-appointed members were in attendance. Guests, permanent and transient, included: Miss Edith Odell (Joaquin 5), Misses Evelyn and Esther Calanan (Laurel 6), Miss Edna Bryaat (Golden Rod 165), Miss Mary McLaughlin (Argonaut 166), Miss Grace Williams (Alta 3), Mrs. Mary Corcoran (Los Angeles 124), Mrs. A. Weaver and Miss Helen Weaver (Camellia 41), Miss Sadie Clauson and Miss Matilda Stephens (Manzanita 29). Miss Esther Calanan is convalescing at the Home after having been at the hospital.

The following donations have been received: One dozen glasses of jelly, Mrs. Harriet Cate (Twia Peaks 185); crate of strawberries, Mrs. A. Weaver (Camellia 41); sack of potatoes, Mrs. Dora Bloom (Sans Souci 96); one pound each of chocolate and cocoa, Theo. Getz. From Laurel 6 there was a gift of a book of "good eats" with recipes for sauce collected and arranged by members of the Parlor. The donation some time ago of an interesting book and magazines of pioneer days, by Mrs. Belle Douglass of Laurel 6, has suggested the thought that other members of the Order might have books which they could give toward a library for the Home Club.

Officers Jointly Installed.

Hollister—D.D.G.P. Margaret Storm of Watsonville installed the officers of Copa de Oro 105 and D.D.G.P. W. J. Cagney performed a similar service for the officers of Fremont 44 N.S.G.W. at joint ceremonies, August 19. A short program of music and speech-making followed, during which Past President Bertha Stephens presented Mrs. Storm with a silver pickle fork on behalf of the Parlor. Retiring President Harriet Hooton was the recipient of a boudoir lamp, the presentation being made by Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, who voiced the appreciation of the Parlor for her earnest and zealous work during her term of office; the recipient graciously responded. Judge G. H. Moore gave a pleasing talk on his recent Eastern trip. Community singing was followed by dancing and the serving of light refreshments.

Shower for Member.

Oroville—Gold of Ophir 190 gave a miscellaneous shower August 17 for Mattie Parks Toland at the home of Sonora Steadman. The honor guest received many beautiful and useful gifts. Delicious refreshments were served.

Against Disarmament.

San Jose—San Jose 81's members were entertained August 4 by Mmes. Nell Gerrans and Katherine Nelson at a watermelon feed. August 11 the Parlor endorsed the resolutions sponsored by Ramona 109 N.S.G.W. (Los Angeles) against disarmament. The Grizzly Bear was subscribed for, for the San Jose Public Library, the members believing that this will help considerably to inform the general public as to the Order's real purpose. August 9 was the Parlor's day at the Community Shop, and on the 17th a moonlight picnic was held at Alum Rock.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Dorothy Morrill (Vendome 100) of San Jose spent August in San Diego, her former home.

Mrs. Wallace T. Morton (Vendome 100) and husband of San Jose are enjoying an extended Eastern trip.

Secretary Katherine Anderson and Miss Ada Johnston (both Dolores 169) of San Francisco spent a two weeks' vacation in Los Angeles last month.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. E. Leake celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at Woodland August 17; Mrs. Leake is one of Woodland 90's most-thought-of members.

Industrial Exposition—San Francisco's manufactured products will be featured at an Industrial and Civic Exposition, November 9 to December 10.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

THE QUESTION AS TO WHETHER OR NO skirts shall be narrow or wide, seems to be answered by certain models advanced for the coming season. They are to be both! In other words, the material, the style of the frock or suit, and the individual tastes are to combine to determine which the wearer shall adopt when the matter of new fashion must personally be settled.

There are designers who are in favor of the pdaited skirt attached to a long-waisted bodice of a matching material; or, more generally, to that of a contrasting material. The plaits should be deeper than those of the accordion variety, and the skirt itself should descend some. Also, there are models that show a skirt cut in straight breadths and gathered to the lengthened line of the hodie.

It sometimes happens that the model is a coat with a one-side fastening, or a dress on coat lines. This calls for fur trimmings, and they have been forthcoming in pocket-hands of kolinsky or flying squirrel, and repeated on the sleeves and in the choker.

The choker, by the way, appears to be in for a very smart season. It is a detail not only of suits and coats, but of the little dress as well. There are samples where the neck shows an open "V," the fur collar appearing above.

The coats are inclined to a little more fullness. One, of dark brown suede cloth, has the hem trimmed with wide stitching done in brown twist; the hips are slightly broadened by tying the ribbon-pieces of the cloth that are carried from the front and back sections to that point. This model has the high turn-down collar of beaver and the deep cuffs of the same. A hat of silk beaver, brown in tone, is turned sharply up at one side and has the other side trimmed with an ostrich fancy in brown and tan.

During the last two or three seasons there has been a steady revival of the plainer type of suit, such as was the vogue in the early days of the real tailor-made. A model of dull green cloth has the coat in the half-length that is a change from the box or sacque effect, and is finished with self-faced revers and collar. Instead of the choker of fur, there is a collar of linen matching the vestee.

The vestee idea, by the way, seems to be as strong a style factor as ever. Sometimes the vestee becomes a real waistcoat, either of the suit material or of a striped or embroidered cloth.

The liking for glitter and sparkle in dress during the summer has been revived with the coming of autumn. Just a glance in the windows will prove the trend of crystal beads, jet and steel ornamentation, and the use of metallic tissue.

Then there is the dress that contents itself with braid embroideries of the vermicelli pattern. In combination with dull finished black crepe-de-chine is worn a wide, loose-belted girdle finished with long, tasselled ends of shining jet fringe.

The pheasant colors are seen already in the early fall hats. As a matter of fact, they have been in evidence throughout the summer, both in the felts and satins of sports hats, and more particularly in the trimmings.

Bronze, copper and mauve are combined in a gown and hat of lace and metal cloth. With this outfit is worn a sleeveless winged wrap, cut in deep points along kimono lines and fashioned of orange satin-faced cloth; beads to match the bronze and copper hold together the edges.

There is a lavish use of wooden beads on frocks and hats this season. Black embroidery for a coral frock is very striking.

Evening wraps of crepe-de-chine are lined with velvet.

A real chantilly lace is in great demand for fine dress hats.

Frocks of Canton crepe, with monkey fur fringe, are being featured. Crystal beads are used to trim the satin models.

Brown duvetyne or Canton crepe is successfully combined with bisque.

An outstanding feature is the extensive use of broadcloth, in all shades, for both suits and frocks.

Fur takes a place of importance among the fall trimmings. For informal evening wear, black lace is used.

Gray and taupe are favored shades for hosiery and oxfords.

Rounded toes and shorter vamps are foretold for the fall and winter footwear. Also, a marked continuance of matching the shoe to the occasion, and not returning to the wearing of satin evening slippers with a sports skirt, as has of old too often been the case.

Black velvet pumps, with huckles to match, are worn over gossamer textured silk hose in pale beige tones.

Cut-out effects, in which patent leather is combined with other materials—suede, kid, brocade—in self or contrasting tone will be featured in the new shoes.

slippers, and are especially liked by the young girls. More and more ornate become the evening slippers, intricate lacings and cut-out designs being originated by various houses.

Sports clothes and colorful frocks demand handkerchiefs to match. Shops are filled with these gay trifles. Inset squares of contrasting color linen are hemstitched into the corners of some, and some others have the rolled and whipped edge, the thread used matching that which is drawn through the handkerchief, marking the square off into plaids. Very wide borders of brilliant color are noticed on some of the French handkerchiefs, the white medallion inset in one corner bearing a hand-wrought monogram in color.

Furs of all sort will trim suits, gowns and coats. Wolf is in much demand. There must be fur—narrow borders to outline the flying panels at back and front of frocks, and to trail about the low-cut evening gowns.

Pendant balls and bobbing, swaying tassels trim many of the new models, either finishing off points or curved tabs. Gold gallon, in half-inch widths, is bordering some of the velvet evening frocks.

Braids are much used. Some have a pattern in cire, while others are of the plain military or soutache variety.

Girdles of steel-colored metals used as slides on a narrow belt of the material, or as a chain, will adorn some of the handsome suits.

Under ruffles of lace, and fichus to match, will be worn with the black-and-gray velvet dresses of early winter.

For the woman who depends upon the shops for her frocks, there are garments which may be procured in a wide choice of color and fabric combinations and in good style.

MOTHERHOOD

(JOHN H. ZELT.)

I know this band, whose ties
Bind closer they who would abide
In selfish ways, apart;
Whose silent strength guides
To righteousness and love
The faltering steps of him
Whom folly blinds.

I see the light, whose beams
Illumine uncertain paths and,
Kindled by unselfish love, protect
The helpless, and ask not who;
But, with unconquerable spirit,
Defend, and whose sacrifice
Is made unflinchingly.

I feel the warmth, when Kindly hands around me fold
In tenderness; whose voice
Speaks courage, when despair
Would crush the soul; whose love,
Born not of earth, is bestowed alike
Upon the sinner and the sinless.

I hear the song, sweet melody
Borne to mine ears like summer breeze
To drooping flowers; whose eyes
Reflect the joy when happiness
My soul engulfs; whose prayer
Is breathed upon me when Tired eyes in slumber close.

And at last, when from this clay
My soul departs, will lips
Be pressed to mine now cold;
And grief-torn heart
Is bowed to Higher Will,
Through the tears will Hope
Light up the path and whisper: Eternity.
For this is MOTHERHOOD!

PIONEERING A NEW INDUSTRY

(CHANCELLOR K. GRADY.)

CALIFORNIANS ARE WONT TO PRIDE themselves on their alertness and readiness to accept new ideas. They point to the diversity of the state's interests and pride themselves upon ability to furnish the whole country with many commodities for the supply of which it was formerly dependent upon foreign lands. With belief in modern progressiveness, they are prone to overlook the fact that the forefathers had that same farsightedness, and that they made many efforts to produce crops that were grown elsewhere, and were unsuccessful only because of their lack of money, of railroads, and of population.

How many, who now boast of California's cotton production, know that sixty years ago cotton was grown in the Sacramento Valley and that the state paid a bonus of $3,000 for the best hundred-acre patch? How many realize that it took years of entreaty to induce farmers to grow sugar beets? Or that as early as 1865 the State Agricultural Society, through its secretary, I. N. Hoag of Yolo, was urging someone to plant an acre of rice and so prove to the country that that, too, could be made one of the state's main crops?

How many know that during the decade from 1860 to 1870 California came to the rescue of Europe with silkworm eggs, sent abroad to renew the disease-ridden stock of Italy and France? The history of the silk era in California is a tale of earnest endeavor, on the part of a few enthusiasts, that failed by a hair's breadth of making California the first silk-producing country of the world.

In 1859 a Frenchman, one Louis Prevost of Santa Clara, awoke to the fact that California, with its rare climate and freedom from electrical storms and humidity, offered a chance for the production of the best silk, and with great pertinacity and courage set about to begin its culture. He had to begin at the very foundation, by importing mulberry seed, as there were no mulberries in the state. It was three to four years before he got his first trees above ground; then he had to get the first silkworm eggs. Finally, in 1859, after many disappointments he succeeded in bringing in safely, from France, a small lot of eggs and, after nine years of effort, he grew his first worms and made a small quantity of silk.

Prevost worked indefatigably to interest others in sericulture, writing to the farm papers, lecturing before town and agricultural societies, and exhibiting at the State Fairs. Finally the Legislature awoke to the possibilities, and passed a bill giving bonuses to the growers of certain stipulated plantations of mulberries and producers of cocoons beyond certain amounts. Under this stimulation many small growers, chiefly Europeans who had known sericulture in their former homes, set out trees and the industry bade fair to become of importance. But two years later, when the coming crops would make the bonuses due and collectible, some member of the Legislature discovered that the plantings were so great that the bonuses would amount to at least $25,000, and possibly $30,000, and a bill was introduced, and passed, repealing the former promises and everyone who had planted on the strength of the bonus offer was cheated of his reward. A violent disgust followed, and plantations were torn up. Unfortunately, the death of Prevost occurred just about this time, and no one was left with the enthusiasm and energy necessary to restore the shattered faith of the pioneers in this industry.

A few growers, who had been very successful in growing and selling eggs to the European market, were further discouraged by the discovery of a remedy for the disease that was then decimating the European cocoons and when, in 1870, the Franco-German war brought a decided lull in the silk industry in Europe, they gave up all thought of silk, tore out their groves, and the silk industry died. So ended the first, and only, successful—successful while it lasted—effort to grow silkworms on a commercial scale in California.

As the years went by, efforts to encourage silk still persisted and brought no results, and the impression was created that silk could not be grown here because of the high cost of labor. This idea was carefully nurtured by the rapidly-growing silk-manufacturing industry of the East, which feared that a duty might be asked for. Silk manufacturing was growing far faster than any other industry. The capital involved was becoming a powerful factor, and this view of an American raw silk industry was spread broadcast until a general belief in the impossibility of making silk culture a commercial success became fixed.

But every Italian from Northern Italy who settled in California was impressed with the perfection of the California climate for silk growing. Many of these sent back to Italy for silkworm eggs to make a small number of cocoons as a pastime. When the Panama-Pacific Fair was opened, it was possible to secure enough cocoons from scattered amateur growers in the state to keep a silk-reeling machine in operation throughout the life of the fair. The silk made from these cocoons attracted much notice from silk men, as it was of the finest quality, and once more attention began to center on the possibilities of sericulture for California. As a result of the interest aroused by the silk-reeling exhibit at this exposition, there was a demand for a scientific investigation of the possibilities for sericulture in California.

The California Development Board invited Guy M. Wilkinson, a retired businessman and one of the founders of the state's potash industry, to make this investigation. He undertook it in a skeptical frame of mind, expecting to prove, in short order, that there were no commercial possibilities in a California silk industry. After a year's painstaking work, however, his experiments and study had converted him to an enthusiastic belief in its possibilities, and the first effort to produce silk on a commercial scale was begun.

Eight hundred acres of land in Butte County were secured by the company which Wilkinson proceeded to organize, and a mulberry plantation was started. This enterprise has developed to the point where every prospect is for success. Investigations have proved that climate, soil, and productivity are ideal in California, that the quality of silk produced exceeds any produced elsewhere in the world, and that the labor costs, instead of being prohibitive, are very reasonable.

At this time the bulk of silk used by the manufacturers comes from Japan. Formerly silk was imported from France and Italy, but today it practically all comes across the Pacific. Japanese silk is inferior to that which can be produced here, but the Japanese have done their utmost to strengthen the ancient belief that silk cannot be profitably produced in California. Wilkinson's investigations show that we can produce better silk than the Orient, that we can produce it for less money than the cost of Oriental silk, and that we can pay White man's wages with White man's

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PREPARE NOW FOR SPRING TREE PLANTING.

MANY PLANS MUST BE MADE BEFORE the actual time for tree planting next spring. There is no business where the late planter is more likely to lose out in a serious way than in failing to prepare in plenty of time before the actual work commences.

A few simple suggestions will help materially in avoiding serious blunders later. A tree crop remains in the ground for a number of years. Mistakes made at the beginning can never be corrected satisfactorily during the remainder of the life of the trees and this may be anywhere from fifteen to fifty years or more, depending upon the particular kind.

Whether one intends to plant a whole orchard for commercial purposes or only a few trees for the back yard, the effect of hasty work will be an aggravation for many years. One must look farther into the future with clearer vision in order to avoid mistakes than in any other line of farming.

FIRST—Make definite plans as to the kind of fruit to be grown, the varieties best adapted to the location under consideration, and the quantity to be planted. In general it is wise to begin laying plans by making a careful survey of existing orchards or trees in the locality where the planting is to be made. Investigate carefully your own soil, moisture and peculiar climatic conditions, and then compare these with the same conditions in other parts of your district. In similar localities, then, a careful examination should be made of the different kinds and varieties of fruit already growing to determine the production of these trees both as to quantity, quality and seasonableness. Regularity of bearing from year to year and freedom from conditions which might cause a failure in the crop must be carefully studied.

After such a survey one should next choose from those kinds and varieties which have demonstrated themselves as being thoroughly adaptable, a relatively small number of kinds and varieties which have a personal appeal to the person intending to plant. Many people fail to recognize the value of personal interest in producing a first-class orchard property. On the other hand, planting of varieties because of personal preference regardless of whether they will do well in the locality under consideration, has accounted for many failures.

The actual number of varieties to be grown will depend upon other factors to be considered later. The planting plan must be worked out at this time in order to know the quantity or number of trees required. As soon as it has been definitely decided what fruits are to be planted and what acreage of each, one should immediately determine the proper planting distance and for this purpose should not only consult successful orchardists in the district but should get in touch with some standard authority, such as the Division of Pomology in the College of Agriculture, at Berkeley.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that trees do not bear the same amount of fruit regardless of distance of planting. Trees planted too close will produce less per tree while trees planted farther apart will, on the contrary, generally produce more per tree within reasonable limits. It is important, therefore, to know the optimum planting distance.

Trees planted too close crowd before the trees have reached maturity and therefore tend to grow higher than those which have more room. Such a tree renders harvesting more expensive. The lack of access of sunlight to the lower portions of the tree by crowding devitalizes those portions and forces fruitage largely at the top thus reducing the bearing area.

SECOND—A thorough study should be made of the market for the fruit to be grown. The bulk of fruits produced in California must be marketed at a great distance from the point of production. If one must depend upon the usual Eastern markets the varieties chosen must be well-established commercial varieties which have proven themselves to be acceptable to the trade and also capable of being shipped long distances without injury. That means that the highest quality, thin-skinned, tender-fleshed fruits must be avoided as a rule because of their tendency to break down easily. The elimination of these means that quality must be replaced, as far as this is essential, by excellent appearance. One should determine the channels through which they expect to market the fruit and then secure the advice of those connected with the trade organizations who will be able to advise most effectively as to the trade demand for given varieties.

If special home markets are available the permanence of these markets should be carefully considered. The possibility of competition from already planted, but non-bearing, orchards must be carefully investigated. For such markets it is generally best to begin with a small planting, gradually increasing as the market for the particular grower's product under consideration develops. In this market the personality of the producer, his ability to deal at first hand with his local market agencies, is of prime importance as well as his ability to put up the fruit in a manner which will be attractive. If for canning purposes, the canneries to be supplied with the fruit should be consulted before varieties are selected. No matter how much a grower may personally believe his fruit to be worth, if the canner will not buy it, it is not worth much in dollars and cents.

THIRD—The length of harvesting season and selection of varieties to extend this season as long as possible without reducing efficiency, must be considered very carefully indeed. Varieties should be so chosen that there will be sufficient overlapping of ripening to keep harvesters busy uniformly over as long a period as possible. Many growers have multiplied their problem many fold by planting varieties in such a way as to leave a gap of from one to two weeks between different kinds or varieties of fruit with the result that picking gangs have had to be laid off several times and new ones secured after the lapse of time between ripening of varieties. That this is very bad business is obvious. Do not attempt to extend the season, however, to a point where a small thin dribble of fruit only is secured throughout the entire time.

FOURTH—Order your trees early after having selected carefully the nurserymen from whom you propose to buy. It is the practice of nurseries in this state to fill orders in rotation. Consequently it is a case of first come first served. Those who order early generally get the pick of the trees, there is less delay in delivery, orders are packed better early in the season with considerable less damage resulting, and both the shipper and receiver are better satisfied in every way. Those who order late very often have to get along with substitutions or go without. Substitutions are never satisfactory and often worse than none at all. Our advice would be to accept no substitutions unless one is thoroughly familiar with the thing to be substituted and knows that it will be all right.

ROOT CROPS NEED DEEP, MELLOW SOIL.

For all root crops the soil should be pulverized as deep as the roots extend. The ordinary method of plowing and discing turns the hard compacted upper layers under in the plowing process and the discing that follows does not reach to the bottom of the furrow. The result is that the roots which should be able to penetrate straight downward are forced to turn aside when they meet these hard underground clods and work into the cracks, giving deformed roots. If they do not do that the roots branch near the surface and instead of having straight, perfect roots they are branching, scraggly, and worthless for the purpose for which they were planted.

This may be remedied by discing the surface soil first until it is mellow and then plow, turning under good loose soil and in first-class condition for proper root penetration as soon as the new surface of the plowed land has been properly pulverized. In addition to permitting of proper root penetration moisture and air penetrate more easily, the moisture is retained better and food material in the lower portions of the soil is more readily

CONCRETE HOG TROUGHS.

Feeding slop to a bunch of hungry porkers is no fun, especially with the methods commonly employed. A man who will take the trouble to make a good concrete trough is also likely to go one step further and build a swinging gate over it to keep the hogs out until the trough is filled. Anyone with a little ingenuity can figure out a scheme whereby he can build a gate swinging on a horizontal axis over the center of the trough and hung in such a way that it can be swung to prevent the hogs gaining access to the trough until the feeder is ready. Such a gate will also largely keep the hogs out of the trough during feeding. To do this requires a permanent installation of trough, gates and fence. A concrete trough is not only more permanent but more sanitary as well, if properly constructed.

In the first place the location for the troughs should be somewhat higher than the surrounding ground to provide good drainage. Then the soil should be prepared for the foundation slab of concrete by thorough tamping so as to prevent later sagging and cracking. The pavement should be sufficiently large to carry the troughs and space for the hogs to stand on when feeding and a sufficient space for the feeder to stand on and use as a feed alley on the opposite side of the trough from the hogs. The pavement should be five inches thick with a slight slope away from the center line. No reinforcement is necessary if it is built on solid ground. The troughs should be made separately and reinforced with mesh fabric or with quarter-inch steel rods to insure durability and prevent possible cracking. At one end should be an outlet pipe that can be opened or shut at will, set at least partially below the inside bottom level of the trough so as to insure complete drainage of contents after flushing, which should be done often. The inside of the trough may be made slightly rounded to facilitate cleaning by the elimination of corners and cracks. A 1:2:3 mixture of concrete will do for both platform and trough.

SHARPEN YOUR OWN SAWS.

There is probably nothing more exasperating than attempting to do with a dull saw the work that every farmer must do around the place. A few pointers and a little practice will enable anyone to keep his saws in first-class shape and effect a saving both of time and temper and do a better job. The tools needed are a saw-set, a few small files and a saw-filing vise. In the absence of the last-named a board may be nailed to the side of a work bench and the saw wedged between or a bunch of shingles may be turned on end and the saw wedged upside down between the shingles.

The sharpening consists of four operations: jointing, filing, setting, and side dressing. Certain teeth wear down faster than others. This is corrected by the jointing process. Using a flat mill file, slide it lengthwise over the ends of the teeth several times. The result should be that the teeth are uniform in height, except that the line will be slightly rounded, a trifle higher in the middle.

The next operation is filing. The file to use will depend on the number of teeth to the inch, the number of teeth per inch being indicated as points. For a 7-point saw a 7-inch slim taper file is best. For an 8 or 9-point saw use a 6-inch slim taper file, and for a 10 or 12-point saw, a 5-inch file. Most men begin at the butt, though it makes little difference. First place the file against two of the teeth as previously filed, and be careful to keep the same angle in filing, thus keeping the same shape of tooth throughout. File each alternate opening from one side; then change the saw end for end and file the remaining openings from the other side, taking care to file each tooth to a sharp cutting edge without reducing the height of any of the teeth.

Next comes the setting. To prevent the saw from binding in the saw cut, take a saw-set, a small inexpensive tool to be bought at any hardware store, and beginning at one end, turn the top of each alternate tooth outward a trifle; then reversing the saw repeat the operation from the other side. Care should be taken in adjusting the saw-set so that only the top of each tooth is bent over. Bending the entire tooth is likely to crack or break it. Beginners are liable to give too much set, so that the saw runs hard and the teeth wear more rapidly.

Side-dressing, the final operation, consists in rubbing an oil stone along each side of the teeth a couple of times to remove any projecting edges so that it will run true.

In learning to sharpen one's own saws the main thing is to go slowly and carefully at first, watching the progress of the work very carefully. Speed will soon be gained after one has mastered the principles and has gotten the "knack," as the boys say.

Wealth without virtue is a dangerous guest; who holds them mingled is supremely blest.—Sappho.

TRADE EXPOSITION SUCCESS

BEYOND FONDEST HOPES.

LOS ANGELES' FIRST ANNUAL MARKET week, an industrial and trade exposition held the week of August 15, was the most noteworthy event ever sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The total attendance was 302,768, many buyers attending from all parts of California, as well as other states and countries. It is conservatively estimated that $15,000,000 worth of orders were placed.

Five hundred booths were required to display the 1,000 products. The visitors, and also local residents, had "their eyes opened" to the almost endless variety of high-quality goods made right here in Los Angeles. The remark was often heard, "I never dreamed such things were produced in Los Angeles."

From every viewpoint, the exposition was a success far beyond the hopes of its managers. It advertised the industries of the city, brought orders for million of dollars' worth of their products, and will result in the promotion of additional industries. The local manufacturer was given a great "boost," but he will not reap the full benefit unless he "carry on" by advertising.—C.M.II.

MORE GOOD "DOPE" FOR THE BOOSTER.

Additional figures in the 1920 Federal Census, made public early last month, have been responsible for the extended smile on the faces of those who love to hear and tell of how Los Angeles does grow.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates gives California first place among the states in value of farm products, and Los Angeles County is placed at the head of the list of all the counties in the Union; the values are, respectively, for 1919, $4,587,600,591 and $62,212,843. In ten years the number of farms in the county increased from 7,919 to 12,444, and the value of the crops increased four-fold.

According to the census returns, too, Los Angeles City heads the list of Pacific Coast cities in number of persons engaged in gainful occupations—268,013; this is an increase of 120,793 compared with 1910. Of the gainful workers, the largest number, 84,254, are engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries.

From this year's apportionment of motor vehicle license fees by the State Motor Vehicle Department Los Angeles County gets by far the biggest slice, $932,493.92, close to a third of the total apportioned among the fifty-eight counties on the basis of autos owned. This is an increase in the 1920 apportionment to the county of $240,276.17.

THREE IMPORTANT GATHERINGS.

Three conventions, of interest to Native Sons, are billed for Los Angeles in the near future: National Association Insurance Agents, September 13-16.

American Bankers' Association, October 3-7.
California Nurserymen's Association, October 20-23.

FIVE ADOPTIONS IN ONE DAY.

The Homeless Children's Committee, N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W., engaged in finding permanent homes for abandoned or relinquished children, without regard to race, creed, or color, is very busy these days. It has numerous applications for children, and they are supplied as soon as possible after, however, the applicants have been thoroughly investigated. August 12, in the juvenile department of the Superior Court, five of Secretary Anna L. Adair's little homeless charges were adopted into as many splendid homes; it was, indeed, a "big" day of good work.

NEWS OF THE NATIVE SON PARLORS.

Los Angeles 45—The reception given Under Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz July 28 was the biggest-attended function in the Parlor's history. "Gene" was presented with a handsome diamond-and-gold badge, John T. Newell making the presentation address in behalf of the local Native Sons. Other speakers were Grand President William I. Traeger and Secretary Walter D. Gilman. Preceding the presentation Walter Farnum presented a vaudeville program, and following there was dancing; refreshments were served. Officers have been installed, with Harold J. Whisnand as president, by D.D.G.P. Walter Baskerville. Commencing September 15 the weekly good times will be resumed.

Ramona 109—A resolution was passed August 19 protesting against the building of the new city library in Pershing Square. Through the efforts of Adolph G. Rivera several new books have been added to the library in the clubrooms. D.D.G.P. William G. Newell has installed the officers, Julius M. Plath becoming president. Applications are received at every meeting, and several new members have been added. Gene Murphy (Corona 196), after his return from the world championship prize-fight, gave the members on account thereof, and Gus Alvarez, returning from an extended Eastern trip, told of the many places of interest visited, but was bubbling over with "boost" for Los Angeles which, he says, is showing such development speed it is bound to outdistance all competitors, either Eastern or Western. Past presidents of the Parlor are being presented with handsome emblematic rings.

Corona 196—Officers have been installed by D.D.G.P. William G. Newell, with Peter H. Muller as president. Things have been quiet the past month, because so many officers and members were away on vacations. Applications have been coming in right along, however, and a class initiation is down for early in September, when activities along all lines will be resumed.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Richard Egerer Molony, 22-year-old son of Dr. William R. Molony (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.), died August 1 as the result of an auto accident.

Mrs. Rosa Larralde-Smith, sister of Frank M. Larralde (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.), passed away suddenly August 5 at the age of 38.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Louis S. Nordlinger (Corona 196 N.S.G.W.) and wife spent a vacation at Lake Tahoe last month. Ernest R. Orfila and A. F. Rosecrans (both Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) have been enjoying an outing at Huntington Lake.

J. B. Biller (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) left August 21 for a month's auto tour through Humboldt and other northern counties.

J. F. Lyon (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) and family are away on an extended trip through the northern part of the state, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Montana and British Columbia.

Recent arrivals are a native son at the home of Richard Kittrell (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.); a native daughter at the home of Newell B. Ruggles (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) and a native son at the home of Senator Harry A. Chamberlain (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.).

conditions while producing, and that we can still make large profits.

But, if we could not make a cent, should we not still produce it? Should we go on waving our Stars and Stripes made from Oriental silk; go on wearing our many kinds of silk clothing made from Oriental silk; and continue to let thousands of acres lay idle while we support millions of yellow men? Native Californians owe it to themselves to do what their ancestors did—some pioneering!

ADMISSION DAY

Reina del Mar 126 N.D.G.W. will put the day to good use—raising funds with which to purchase milk for needy children. Celebration features are being arranged, and there will be appropriate literary exercises.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

San Bernardino—All Parlors in the southern part of the state have been invited by Arrowhead 110 N.S.G.W. to join in the three day Big Bear Lake celebration, September 3, 4 and 5. The "big" event, the barbecue of mountain beef, will be held Sunday, the 4th. Appropriate exercises will be held at that time, the speakers chosen being Judge Rex E. Goodcell, Frank B. Daley, Jerome B. Kavanaugh. There will be dancing and plenty of other entertainment features for all three days.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

San Diego—The occasion here will be utilized to raise funds for the restoration of San Diego Mission, the first reared in California. In charge are San Diego 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego 208 N.D.G.W., which are being encouraged in their commendable enterprise by a long list of prominent patrons and patronesses. The celebration will be held in the Civic Auditorium, in Balboa Park, where a grand ball will be held and a program of entertainment features presented.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY FAIR

APPLICATIONS FOR ENTRY TO THE $1,000-a-night horse show which will be held evenings, in connection with the San Fernando Valley Fair, September 19 to 24, have passed the 200-mark, with many of the applicants asking to enter several horses. The list of applicants includes practically every well-known thoroughbred horse-owner on the Pacific Coast. A letter received by Hamilton Horse Basset, who is in charge of the show, was from Dr. A. E. Graham of Grants Pass, Oregon, who says he will be here to show his three famous horses, "Flash H," "Dave H" and "Cotral Harrold," which are valued at $25,000. These horses have been across the water at three horse shows in England. "Flash H" holds the record for the second highest jump in the world; "Dave H" is a five-gaited stallion and was called the handsomest horse on the continent, and "Cotral Harrold" won first prize at the 1919 State Fair at Sacramento.

Other owners of famous horses who have made application for entry are G. H. Pearsall, S. M. Spaulding, Beverly Hills; H. A. McDonald, Montecito; Lafayette M. Hughes, Denver, Colorado; Miss Maud Banks, Covina; R. P. Spaulding Jr., South Pasadena; Keith Spaulding, Catalina; Dr. W. J. Smyth, Oakland; John Spring, Roy M. Pike, Mrs. Wm. Roth, D. Sullivan, San Francisco; P. E. Bowls, Oakland; R. E. English, Pasadena; I. M. Danzinger, A. A. Alderson, Los Angeles; Mrs. C. B. Anderson, Pleasanton; Mrs. Winslow Anderson, Santa Rosa; T. Magnan, Riverside; T. C. Jefferson, Beverly Hills; Alfred Myes, Hollywood; Mrs. Maurice De Maud, Mrs. Adelaide Gillis McCormack, Los Angeles; E. F. Hamlon, Pasadena; W. S. Tevis Jr., A. B. Spreckles, San Francisco; Mrs. Arthur P. Perkins, Pasadena; F. W. Matthiessen, Thos. Mason, Dr. S. E. Kramer, Major Max Fleishman, Santa Barbara; J. H. Rossiter, Edward Coberian, F. J. Book, H. C. Ahlers, Fred Sinclair, San Francisco; Miss Ethel Clayton, Miss Gloria Swanson, Los Angeles; Peter Hastings, Santa Barbara; F. Pounder, Montecito; Dr. L. C. Deming, Anaheim; C. K. G.

Billings, Santa Barbara; Phil O'Connell, Stockton; Allen Russell, Los Angeles; G. H. Pearsall, Alta Loma; Jack Holt, Los Angeles; Douglas Fairbanks, Hollywood; Miss Panline Fredericks, Los Angeles; Col. A. H. McClure, Sacramento; Chas. W. Winters, Alhambra; James T. Ragsdale, Merced; H. Ormsby Phillips, Pasadena.

The above is only a partial list of the well-known people who will participate in the San Fernando Valley Fair, but these owners of famous horses aim to make the coming event the greatest horse show ever staged west of Kansas City, both from the standpoint of the number of wonderful horses entered and also from the pomp and style with which they will be shown. An arena 150x300 feet in size, which is the largest in the United States, is being built and will be magnificently decorated and lighted for the occasion.

The other departments are reporting splendid progress. The livestock department, under M. H. Adamson, reports over 400 entries already in the cattle and swine divisions alone, and E. I. Hammond, who is handling the poultry exhibit, declares the poultry show will break all records. Entries for several autos have been received for the automobile and power farming exhibition, in addition to a number of entries in the implement and accessory lines. All indications point to the fact that the valley towns will stage a fair of which Southern California may be proud.

There will be a pleasant surprise feature for all children attending the fair. As they enter the main gate, each will be given a free ticket that will entitle him or her to a chance on a beautiful thoroughbred black shetland pony, cart and harness. The outfit will be given away at the children's matinee to be held in the big arena Saturday afternoon, September 17. The pony is a little black beauty, and a family pet. Every child will be in love with the pony on sight and it will be given away after the first event of the afternoon, in ample time to allow its being entered in the shetland pony event of the matinee.

ADMISSION DAY IN LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Admission Day in Los Angeles City will be appropriately celebrated by the four Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters, which have made arrangements through a joint committee. Friday night, September 9, at Ramona Hall, 349 South Hill street, there will be a dance, at which vaudeville numbers will be introduced and a short address pertinent to the occasion delivered.

Saturday afternoon there will be a gathering at the country home of John T. Newell at the Malibu gates. Everyone is requested to bring along his own "grub," and his blankets if he wishes to stay overnight. There will be an informal program, dancing, and a campfire at night. Plenty of entertainment, including swimming, is to be had at this delightful spot. Both occasions are open to all members of the Orders, their families, and friends.

AT LONG BEACH.

Long Beach—Long Beach 154 N.D.G.W. will have a basket picnic at Bixby Park, at 1:30 p.m. of Admission Day, September 9. All Native Daughters and Native Sons are invited to join. Hot coffee will be furnished by the Parlor, but each individual must bring her own lunch.

GOOD MONEY TO BE MADE IN THE RAISING OF CAVIES.

If one would engage in a business where the demand for the product is always greater than the supply, which requires a minimum of outlay of capital and labor and which offers a maximum of profit, health and pleasure, then raise cavies, otherwise known as guinea-pigs.

Cavies are practically immune from disease, and for this reason the medical profession considers them more valuable than any other member of the animal kingdom for the making of disease-preventive serums, for which purpose they are principally used, it being estimated that about 1,250,000 are needed yearly by laboratories, hospitals, colleges and government experimenting stations throughout the United States.

They contributed substantially to the winning of the war, nearly every one of Uncle Sam's soldiers who went overseas, besides a large number of those who remained in camps in this country, having received, it is said, from four to twenty-seven injections of cavy-serum to combat the many diseases with which they came in contact.

Cavies are very prolific, each female-breeder having five litters per year, with an average of three young cavies to the litter, and, as the young are ready for mating at six weeks of age, the rapid increase in their production from the original or foundation-stock will be apparent. Cavies thrive in any climate, and can be successfully raised in congested neighborhoods without annoyance or disagreeable odors even when kept in large numbers. Foundation stock can be obtained at moderate prices and the cost of raising same is comparatively small. At two months of age they are ready for marketing, and they will bring on an average 40 cents per head for the males and 80 cents per head for the females. It has been figured that each ten cavies will earn $100 per year, from which it will be seen that the possibilities for returns from the business are almost unlimited, depending, of course, upon the size of the investment.

To know that we know what we know, and that we do not know what we do not know, that is true knowledge.—Confucius.

3-DAY ROUNDUP

San Francisco—Under the auspices of the Native Sons' Athletic Club, the greatest rodeo ever held in California is being planned for this city, September 9, 10 and 11. It will be known as the Native Sons' Roundup, and is being given for the benefit of the Athletic Club building fund. It will be held at Ewing Field, and those in charge expect a record attendance for this worthy cause. Joseph Aurreechea (Las Positas 96) of Livermore, who has directed the famous Livermore rodeo for several years, is working tirelessly to make the show the finest of its kind ever given in the state. His success is evident in the fact that he has already signed up the champions of the six big rodeos held this year, at Livermore, Salinas, Reno, Cheyenne, Pendleton and Chicago, to compete in San Francisco. Hundreds of entries are being received, and the affair bulks larger with each passing day.

Specially featured in the forthcoming rodeo will be the bulldogging and bronk-riding contests, which always provide thrills galore for the spectator. In addition, there will be all the usual races, including a pony-express race, and a steeplechase, dashes and relays. An interesting feature will be the cowgirls' races, among the competitors being the world's champion cowgirl rider, Miss Vera McGinnis. Members of South San Francisco 157 and Guadalupe 232 are planning a special contest which is sure to be very exciting, and large delegations will be present from these two Parlor to support their respective champions.

True to their traditional interest in the homeless children, the Native Sons, through the Athletic Club, have extended an invitation to all the children of the San Francisco orphanages to be their guests at the roundup on Saturday afternoon, September 10. These children seldom get a chance to see such a show, and the club officials are certain that this invitation will provide unusual entertainment for them. San Francisco Chapter of the American War Mothers has been given the privilege of selling doughnuts on the three days of the roundup, the committee feeling that donating this concession to them would be only a small acknowledgment of the work this splendid body of women is doing. The Order of Native Sons stands for patriotism, and the club was only too glad of the opportunity to show it in this way.

Arrangements are being made to provide additional features for the different days of the show, and it is expected that at least one famous movie star will be on the ground to give exhibitions of fancy riding and roping. There are also plans under way to give amateur and society riders a chance to display their skill with the horses. A large number of wild horses are being brought in, and will be given away to anyone who can ride them.

The executive committee in charge of the Roundup consists of: Joseph Aurreechea (Las Positas 96), director; Chancellor K. Grady (Pacific 10), general chairman; Grand Third Vice-president Edward J. Lynch, Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, A. W. Boyken (Stanford 76), Frank M. Buckley (National 118) and David Steffens (Dolores 208).

BIG CLASS FOR SECOND LARGEST ALAMEDA COUNTY PARLOR.

Oakland—Athens 195 N.S.G.W. held a large class initiation August 23, twenty-two candidates, all of them members of Oakland's fire department, being admitted. It was the largest class initiated into any Oakland Parlor in a long time, and the initiation was well rendered by the officers of Athens Parlor. An interesting added attraction was the "side degree" work put on by the Las Positas 96 drill team of Livermore.

A large gathering of Athens' 300 members were present, and all the Parlors of Alameda County were well represented, as well as several San Francisco Parlors. The grand officers present were: Grand Trustee James A. Wilson, this being the event of his official visit; Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Organizer James P. Cronin, Historiographer Frank C. Merritt, District Deputies R. G. Barnett and A. T. Sousa, Supervising District Deputy Walter B. White. The initiation was followed by a banquet, at which E. F. Garrison acted as toastmaster, and many fine talks were made on the good of the Order. Athens is now the second largest Parlor in Alameda County, and another large class initiation is contemplated in September.

NATIVE SON HALLS ARE UNIVERSITIES OF AMERICANISM.

San Francisco—Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242), elected Grand Trustee N.S.G.W. at Stockton in April, by September 1 will have completed his sixty-fifth visit to fifty different Parlors. It is believed this record has never been equaled by any

MEMBERSHIP OF N. S. GOING UP; NEW PARLOR AT UKIAH.

The semi-annual reports filed in the San Francisco office of Grand Secretary John T. Regan show a membership gain of over one thousand for the last six months in the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Stockton Parlor No. 7 showed the biggest increase, with a gain of 291 members, making the membership June 30, 1921, 1,008.

The Parlor's notices of membership gains and losses coming to hand since June 30, show a steady gain. The Parlor should endeavor to double this gain by the end of the year.

TO ORGANIZE PARLOR AT UKIAH.

At the Stockton session of the Grand Parlor, Leonard Stone (Alder Glen 200) promised that if Harvey A. Reynolds was elected Grand Outside Sentinel that Parlor would organize a parlor at Ukiah, Mendocino County, and within the next few weeks they intend making this promise come true, as the work of organization is well under way. Henry A. Thurman of Alder Glen is now working, signing up candidates, and the report from there is very encouraging.

A. D. Lobree of Castro 232 (San Francisco), Grand Trustees James A. Wilson and Charles L. McEnerney and Grand Secretary John T. Regan are very much interested in the organization of this Parlor, and they will take a large delegation of members from San Francisco on September 4 and 5 to Ukiah to assist Alder Glen Parlor. Lobree has made arrangements to take the baseball team of Castro Parlor to Ukiah and play the team from that town games on Sunday, September 4, and Monday, September 5, which is Labor Day, and thereby create enough enthusiasm among the eligibles there to have them sign up and become active, working members. From reports received in the office of the Grand Secretary, the Ukiah parlor will start with a membership of approximately 100, which will put it on a sound, business basis, and assure its further success.

CALIFORNIA

(A. L. SMITH.)

When Adam and Eve were driven forth to wander through the land,
God, in His infinite wisdom, stretched forth His glorious hand,
And created on the face of the world a land that was divine;
Then He laid His hands upon it, and blessed it for all time.
He said, "In centuries to come your children will this land find
And live in peace and happiness, to woe and sorrow blind;
Here will they live, here succeed, and here shall close their eyes
When at last I call them home from this earthly paradise!"

This land for years was left untouched, by foot of man at least;
It grew and flourished by itself, and bountifully increased;
Its rivers of waters flowed between its fields of fertile sod;

In its confines grew wondrous things—it was the work of God!
From mountain range to ocean shore its wayward breezes blew,
And over all a great peace reigned and everything was new;
Its virgin forests, fertile plains, its valleys stretching far,
Its snow-capped ranges, grim and great, that all entrance seemed to bar.

Then at last there came a man, and then came more and more;
They looked in wonder on this land set by the Western shore;
They came for gold, and gold they found, yet there was more beside,
So they builded farms and cities, when the lust for gold had died.
From forests came the axe's ring, and from bays along the shore
Passed in and out great fleets of ships—its fame spread more and more.
And God smiled down upon their work; it pleased Him much to see How His children at last had found this paradise by the sea.

Its fame abroad was quickly spread by poem, prose and song;
From everywhere came people, to "boost" its growth along;
Then over it, one sunny morn, there broke the Stars and Stripes—
It joined with all the other states, to fight for Freedom's rights.
Its peaceful lands seemed to reflect the smile of God so mild,
Its rivers, winding on their way, each sang like a happy child;
Yet, when alarmed by foemen's tread, it swung its shield before,
Placed a helmet on its golden head, and drew its sword for war.

This land of God, by Him caressed and by Him made divine,
This land on which His shadow rests, is thine, my statesman, thine!
Oh, strive in peace to make it great, and spread its fame afar;
Remember that it is your home, and strike as one in war.
Oh, California, be our home; in your confines let us dwell;
In war but call, your sons will come, your fighting ranks to swell.
To spread your fame, to live in you, to make you ever great,
Should be the aim of all your sons, you glorious Golden State!

When California Was Young

WHEN Horace Greeley issued that now-famous bit of advice, "Go West, young man!" little did he realize the influence it was to have upon the life of one young man.

IN '49, W. P. Fuller, Sr., sailed 'round the Horn, and became one of California's Pioneers. In a few weeks, this energetic young man had established the modest beginning of the present organization of W. P. Fuller & Co., then known as Fuller-Heather of Sacramento.

SUCCESS rewarded the exhausting full-of-work days of this Pioneer Paint Organization. Steadily, their services to this young State's Pioneers multiplied, until this modest Sacramento birthplace no longer proved adequate for their ever-increasing business.

TODAY, the name of Fuller means Paints and Varnishes. Two reasons we attribute to our growth—a service well rendered, and Californians' readiness to recognize products of merit.

*Why the Burnham
is Best*

The Burnham system of reproduction takes the tones from the record with the scientifically proven correct "needle-weight" by means of the patented Trimeter.

It then clarifies the tone to eliminate tonal confusion by means of its patented reproducer, which contains six apertures instead of the usual one.

The tone then passes through the tone arm into a silver-grained spruce throat of scientific design, is then amplified and projected by the acoustically perfect amplifier, also made of spruce.

From these units does the Burnham derive its distinction as the "SUPERTONE."

If skeptical, hear and compare it with any standard phonograph.

FRENCH INTEREST IN CALIFORNIA

Arthur S. Aiton, J. Lloyd Meacham

INTRODUCTORY.

AN OFTEN NEGLECTED PHASE OF early California history is that of French interest and activity looking toward the ultimate acquisition of that province. Though the rivalry of the English, Spanish, Russians and Americans on the Pacific Coast has been duly emphasized, the activity of France, in the same region, has been significant enough to warrant more attention than it generally receives at the hands of historians. It is the object of this paper to correct that tendency by presenting in brief scope the more salient features of the part France played in the struggle of the nations for a foothold on the Pacific, and more particularly in California.

The present-day crisis in the Pacific, which is rapidly coming to a head, was foreshadowed in the eighteenth century by a scramble of the European nations to secure favorable situations along the coast of North America; then, as now, the economic motive being the guiding factor. The chief participants in this "swirl of the nations" were the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and Spain. Japan had not as yet awakened from her sleep of centuries. The final settlement, the solution of which was not apparent a hundred years ago, can be read on a contemporary map of America.

THE FRENCH COLONIAL SYSTEM.

Before entering upon the particular role France played in this contest, it will be necessary to trace her career as a colonizing nation, showing that her interest was not accidental or spontaneous, but was the result of centuries of colonizing antecedents. That she played a losing hand should in no wise detract from the significance of her efforts.

By virtue of Verrazano's voyages of discovery (1524) France's claim to North America was established. After several abortive efforts to colonize in the sixteenth century, she entered into active competition with Spain and England for the possession of North America north of the Gulf of Mexico. The centers of French settlements were Acadia, the Valley of the St. Lawrence, the Great Lakes region, and the Mississippi Valley. The controlling interests of New France for one hundred and fifty years were conquest, exploration, missionary zeal and the fur-trade. By 1750 her hardy trappers, missionaries and "coureurs de bois" had ascended every stream to its source from the Saskatchewan to the Gulf of Mexico. This wide expanse of French domain bade fair to hem in the English settlements to a narrow strip along the Atlantic. A contest for supremacy was inevitable and, in the series of wars which ensued, French power in America was crushed, due mainly to British sea-power and French profligacy in European wars. By the Treaty of Paris, 1763, which concluded the Seven Years' War, France lost all her possessions on the American mainland, Louisiana having already been ceded to Spain by secret treaty to compensate her for the loss of Florida.

The boundaries of Louisiana were long disputed, being left undefined by the secret treaty of cession. It is now generally agreed, however, that they did not include Oregon, or any other lands westward of the Rockies, neither was Texas a part of the broad domain. Spain never acknowledged that France had any rights in Texas. As for the claims of the United States to the Northwest Coast, they are derived, not from the purchase of Louisiana from France in 1803, but from the "discoveries" of Captain Gray (1792), the Lewis and Clark Expedition (1805), the settlement of Astoria (1811), the acquisition of the rights of Spain (1819), and the actual colonization later.

The Nootka Sound Treaty of 1792, which declared the Pacific Coast north of actual Spanish settlement to be open to colonization by any nation, afforded France a new opportunity. Her absorption in the French Revolution, however, prevented her from taking advantage of this favorable situation, although she was fully aware of its possibilities. Further French aggression was postponed, therefore, until the time of Napoleon.

Napoleon deemed it possible to rehabilitate New France to the west of the Mississippi, thus not only reflecting glory upon the mother-land, but checking the United States in its westward growth. He therefore coerced Charles IV of Spain to retrocede Louisiana to France by the secret treaty of San Ildefonso (1800)—a cession supposed by Spain to be merely nominal, but intended by Napoleon to be permanent. There was, however, no formal transfer at the time. Three years later, April 30, 1803, Napoleon sold Louisiana for $15,000,000; his Arthur S. Aiton, a member of Halsey Parlor 146 N.S.G.W. (Alameda) and J. Lloyd Meacham, a member of Arrowhead Parlor 110 N.S.G.W. (San Bernardino), as Native Sons' Fellows in Pacific Coast History, spent a total of seven months, September 1920 to March 1921, in Seville, Spain, conducting research in the Archivo General de Indias. They recently returned to the University of California at Berkeley, and reported the results of the investigations carried on in Seville as most gratifying.

On their way back to the United States, they made a brief stop in Paris, France, to run over the files of the Department de Affaires Etrangères in the Bibliothèque Nationale, which heretofore had received little attention from investigators. The accompanying article is based upon materials in the Bibliothèque Nationale; it indicates an interesting lead in California history.

Accompanying the article, which was mailed to The Grizzly Bear from Paris, France, April 8, was a brief report of these Fellows' archive work.—Editor.

object was evident—the war-chest of France needed replenishment. During his projected war with Great Britain the latter's navy could readily seize the capital of his far-off colony, New Orleans, and an invasion from Canada was entirely practicable; moreover, by giving her great American rival an opportunity to expand westward, England's ambitions would be checked. In addition, the loss of Santo Domingo made Napoleon's position in Louisiana untenable. Thus with the transfer of Louisiana expired the last vestige of French power on the mainland of North America, almost exactly two hundred years after the first successful settlement in Nova Scotia.

The nations of Europe saw a new opportunity to acquire territory in the New World following the breakup of Spain's American empire. The Holy Alliance, of which France was a member, threatened to intervene in the New World on behalf of Spain, and incidentally to acquire territory for themselves. They were only thwarted in this purpose by Canning's protest on behalf of Great Britain and the enunciation of the famous Monroe Doctrine by the United States. Under Louis Philippe and the Prince-President, France continued to hope that she might be re-established on the Western Continent. This hope is to be detected in her maneuvers in relation to California, and in the subsequent disastrous attempt to found an empire in Mexico under Maximilian.

FRENCH INTEREST IN CALIFORNIA PRIOR TO AMERICAN OCCUPATION.

Having thus briefly stated the general course of France's colonial policy in America, it is now possible to limit the consideration to her relations with California. Founded as an outpost to prevent foreign encroachment, California enjoyed a regime of quiet spiritual conquest, mission development and picturesque pastoral life during the period of Spanish rule. There was little anxiety concerning foreign aggression; true, orders were received warning of dangers, real or imaginary, but these caused no excitement as no foreigner was seen in California during the first sixteen years of her history.

The first intercourse of the Californians with subjects of a foreign power was with the French under Jean Francois Galaup de La Perouse, in the autumn of 1786. This celebrated French navigator sailed from Brest, August 1785, on the frigate "Boussole" accompanied by the "Astrolabe" under M. de Langle, on a scientific exploring expedition around the world, fitted out and dispatched by the French government. A full corps of scientific experts, minute and carefully prepared instructions, and the reports and charts of previous expeditions which were taken along, show the character of the expedition. In the general instructions given La Perouse he was ordered to make a survey of the Northwest Coast of America, paying particular attention to the Spanish forts and trading posts. As far as it was possible he was to determine if the country actually possessed by Spain extended above the ports of San Diego and Monterey. He was to learn the condition, force and aim of these establishments and, while looking into fur-trade possibilities, was to note what facilities there might be for a French establishment there. La Perouse anchored in Monterey Bay September 14, 1786, and was accorded a wonderful reception by Governor Pedro Pages. Before sailing, on September 24th, he was able to gather sufficient materials to write the best account of the mission system of California which is available today. During the absence of La Perouse the French Revolution broke out, and so nothing came of his report.

The next official French expedition was that of Captain Abel du Petit-Thouars in command of the French frigate "Venus," which sailed from Brest in December 1836. The chief object of his trip around the world was ostensibly to inspect whale-fisheries in the north Pacific Ocean. He anchored in Monterey Bay, October 18, 1837, and on his return to France published his observations with some detailed mention of California. In 1839 Captain Cyrille Pierre Theodore Laplace, in command of the frigate "Artemise," was the next French visitor to California on a similar mission. Before leaving Monterey he warned Governor Alvarado of hostile American intentions, and said that France, while not at liberty to take the initiative, would favorably receive a proposition for a protectorate.

The most important of these official French visitors was M. Eugene Duflot de Mofras who, at the end of 1839, was recalled from the French embassy in Madrid by Marshall Soult, then minister of foreign affairs, and attached to the royal legation in Mexico. To him was confided the special mission of visiting the provinces northwest of Mexico, particularly Upper California and Oregon. He was to inspect the Russian forts in that region, the posts of the Americans and the English at Astoria and along the Columbia, with the particular aim of discovering commercial opportunities for the French which could be developed by the foundation of trading posts in this region. He spent two years, 1840-1842, in carrying out this commission, and in his report to the French government, subsequently published, he presented a very succinct account of California. Mofras was particularly impressed by the strength of the French influence in California and entertained the belief that the inhabitants would be favorably disposed toward French rule should an opportunity be afforded to introduce it. The presence of these official agents in California, and the nature of their instructions, indicates that France was meditating at least a commercial establishment on the coast, if not the seizure of the region as a French protectorate.

After 1836 foreign interference in the form of conquest, protectorate, purchase, or annexation was often discussed in California and feared by the natives. Indeed, one contemporary English writer said, "It is perhaps advantageous for California that it should remain a part of the Mexican Republic inasmuch as it reaps the advantage of disposing of its produce in the Mexican ports free of foreign duties. California, however, is quite

ADMISSION DAY GENERALLY OBSERVED

ADMISSION DAY, SEPTEMBER 9, the seventy-first anniversary of California's admission to statehood, was well celebrated from one end of the state to the other. Contrary to usual custom, the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, to which Orders the people have, by common consent, delegated the right and authority to arrange for a proper observance of California's natal day, did not designate any one place for holding a state-wide celebration this year, and so, the several Subordinate Parlor arranged for the day's fitting observance in various localities. As a result, more people in more California communities, celebrated Admission Day this year than heretofore.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The day's observance opened with boat and swimming races at the City Aquatic Park. The Ariel Rowing Club carried off most of the honors in the boat races, which were very exciting. Cups were donated by Clarence Morris (California 1 N.S.G.W.), Supervisor James B. McSheehy (Twin Peaks 214 N.S.G.W.) and Tax Collector Edward Bryant (Twin Peaks 214 N.S.G.W.). James A. Wilson (Grand Trustee N.S.G.W.) was the starter.

Six thousand people attended the literary exercises at the Civic Auditorium in the afternoon. Assemblyman Clarence Morris presided as chairman of the day, and short addresses were delivered by Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Grand President N.D.G.W.; Edward J. Lynch, Grand Third Vice-president N.S.G.W., and Supervisor J. Emmet Hayden (Mount Tamalpais 64 N.S.G.W.). Music was furnished by the Native Daughters' quartet, Una Waldrop and the O'Neill sisters. John L. McNab (Stanford 76 N.S.G.W.) delivered the oration, in the course of which he said:

"The greatness of a state is to be measured not by its wealth of natural resources, not by monuments reared in gilt or gold, but by the purity of its citizenship. The strength of a nation depends upon the character of the men and women who compose its people. Weaken the manhood of the state and you undermine the foundations of its existence.

"Let us preserve in all its ruggedness our Western type of citizenship. I plead for the return of that wholesome and robust simplicity that is the mark of true greatness in public life; I plead for our citizens to get behind the forces of law and order and not allow themselves to become lost in their private affairs. I plead for a public school system, at whatever expense, which will make it impossible to say that three out of every hundred can neither read nor write.

"I plead for a population to remain forever white, its doors barred to races whose natural home is Asia. I plead for laws that will compel the respect or win the affection of intelligent aliens and for forcible return of those who do not wholeheartedly espouse the spirit of our institutions. I plead for tolerance between men and between religions. I plead for the type of men who will starve and fight and die in beggary rather than besmirch the name of California; who will keep the campfires aglow until the breaking of the dawn against the attacks of all who would halt the advance of clean and honest government."

The grand ball in the evening at the Civic Auditorium was attended by 15,000. Louis F. Erb (Alcalde 154 N.S.G.W.) was the floor director. Heading the grand march were: Clarence Morris and Mrs. Helen Maun (Keith 137 N.D.G.W.), James A. Wilson and wife, John T. Regan (Grand Secretary N.S.G.W.) and wife, Supervisor Ralph McLaren and wife. "Open house" was maintained by the following Native Son Parlors, which invited the public to enjoy their hospitality: Golden Gate 29, Mission 38, El Dorado 52, Stanford 76, Yeron Buena 84, National 118, South San Francisco 157, Sequoia 160, Precita 187, Presidio 194, Marshall 202, Twin Peaks 214.

STOCKTON.

Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors from San Joaquin and all surrounding counties participated in the morning parade. The Elk Grove Parlors won the prize for the best float, the Sacramento Parlors that for having the most Native Sons in line, and Phoebe A. Hearst Parlor No. 214 N.D.G.W. (Manteca) the prize for having the most Native Daughters in line. The Elk Grove float pictured California life in early days; it included a cabin made from logs brought from Georgetown, trees procured in Placerville, a "rocker," a bear, and several early-day relics; "gold nuggets" were tossed to the spectators as souvenirs; accompanying the float were members of both Parlors garbed as in the days of '49.

In the afternoon, at Oak Park, there were athletic contests. The team of Tracy Parlor No. 186 N.S.G.W. defeated a picked team in a tug-of-war contest, and the Sperry's defeated the Lodi's, by a 11-to-0 score, in a baseball game for a $500 purse. In the evening there were literary exercises, fireworks and dancing.

Mayor D. P. Eicke presided at the literary exercises, and there were short addresses by Law T. Freitas, chairman of the committee of Stockton Parlor No. 7 N.S.G.W. which arranged the celebration, John J. Monteverde of Sacramento, and William I. Traeger of Los Angeles, Grand President N.S.G.W., who presented the prizes to the winners in the morning parade. Community singing was led by J. V. Baird. Judge Fletcher A. Cutler of Eureka, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W., was the orator of the occasion, and in the course of an eloquent address said, among other things:

"We are living in a time so swift in maturing that we appear as a different race than the men and women who made the history in this great West. It is our mission as Native Sons and Native Daughters to visit the monuments left by these Pioneers. In other states great monuments have been erected in commemoration of their pioneers. We have our mountains and our mountain trails as everlasting monuments of the faith of these sowers of citizenship who left their imprint in California and in American history. . . .

"At the close of nearly a century the spirit which crossed the plains and developed this state we find not merely confined on this side of the Pacific, but resting upon many islands within the lap of the sea. It is the same spirit that made DeSoto, Cortez and Magellan plant the flag of Spain in foreign lands. . . .

"And today, as we gather at a common altar to honor these men and women, we see whirling mills and manufactories, hear the stamp of the quartz mill on the Mother Lode mingling with the sound of the axe, hear the hum of the busy sawmill and then the sound of the hammer and saw in the valley. We see the orchards and gardens in the valleys. While the missions are now crumbling new churches are augmenting the valleys. School houses are dotting the valleys with American flags flying overhead while within them are our children in training for American citizenship.

"To the west of us in the time of Cortez, Japan was a quiet country; China was hiding behind her great wall, and the many islands were undeveloped. Now we see Japan awake, looking for a chance to spread her domain—looking for land. China is coming out from behind her wall, and the islands of the Pacific are becoming problems. India is industrialized. It is ever our duty to train our children to meet these great problems, which are ever growing stronger, and to meet them with the same faith that was instilled in the history-makers of this state."

Judge Cutler closed his address with this tribute to the heroes of the world war: "Those who fell must not be counted with the dead. Death upon a battlefield becomes more beautiful than birth. There is no sacrifice equal to that of youth giving up all

ARE WE RESPONSIBLE?

Dr. Mariana Bertola

(PRESIDENT SAN FRANCISCO VIGILANT COMMITTEE.)

THE VIGILANT COMMITTEE OF SAN Francisco was organized December 4, 1920, after the Howard-street outrages. It is composed of men and women representing fifty-nine organizations, banded together for the ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

We have known, for many months, that crime is thoroughly organized. We have known that it extends its tentacles, like a vast octopus, into every city and town. Let no city think that she is better than her sister, for it has been demonstrated, over and over again, that squads of base men and women go from place to place. It has been demonstrated, too, that an infringement of the law leads to another even greater than the first, and so we have this terrible crime perpetrated by Los Angeles residents in a San Francisco hotel [the Arbutio "party" and the death of Virginia Rappel], which resulted in the breaking of the laws of both God and man, and of the commandments "Thou shalt not kill!" and "Thou shalt not commit adultery!"

Why has not Los Angeles a vigilant committee? Why do not the decent, law-abiding citizens band themselves together to clean that city of the rottenness which, the divorce, civil, and criminal court records show, exists among an apparently privileged class? Why permit a few moral degenerates, who are kept alive by the public's money, to live in filth that contaminates the minds and hearts of the people generally?

Money is plentiful among a certain class of criminals. It is being said that were these criminals among the poor, they would be punished very quickly! Why should the evil of the rich be condoned? Is there no civic pride? Is it nobody's business that the name of a fair city is dragged in the gutter?

Where shall we draw the line, where does responsibility begin and end? We attend a moving picture and laugh and laugh at what is really very low comedy; we applaud and applaud what is really buffoonery. As a consequence, such buffoonery commands salaries far exceeding the salaries of police, judges, and all men and women upon whom we depend for the enforcement of the law and the execution of civil and industrial pursuits. Great pressure is brought to bear upon these officials, and if they withstand temptation, very likely the same criminals that they sentenced, or their friends, will see that they are not returned to office. Have the people a responsibility? Are they not responsible for this state of affairs? Satisfied self-complacency and the old cry, "Am I my brother's keeper?" keep us from doing our duty.

Our work in the Vigilant Committee has disclosed that young, innocent people are sought for. The court proceedings of Los Angeles, as well as any other city, will disclose the fact that the young are the victims. Statistics show that in cities most crimes are perpetrated by and upon the young between the ages of 16 and 21 years. Girls and women form from six to twenty-five percent of these criminals, according to the part of the country they live in. Are these young people worth saving? Are we afraid of the threats we may receive? Are we afraid that a position may be lost? Perhaps so.

But if a large mass meeting were called and all citizens, right-minded and with civic pride, would band together to put down outrageous criminal parties, whether in the poor man's shack or in the rich man's palace, irrespective of fear or favor, much good would be accomplished. Officials would feel encouraged, they would have the backing of the majority of citizens. I say "majority," because I am convinced that good citizens prevail; it is only that they are not fully awakened to their responsibility as citizens. The officials, instead of as many times in the past, being particeps criminis, would execute the law fearlessly, and be returned to office because they had done their duty.

And while we are thinking about this, how far is a lawyer supposed to go in his defense of a client? Is law one of the finer professions? Is the clean truth to be drawn out, or hidden? Is crime to be punished, or to be covered up by legal quibbles and distortions? How far are we all responsible?

(Editor's Note—Dr. Mariana Bertola is a Past Grand President of the Native Daughters and state vice-president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs. For years she has devoted much time to a study of moral conditions. "As a physician whose work is principally among girls and children," she writes, "I see so much that makes the heart ache, and I felt that the only salvation is to arouse fathers and mothers to take an active part in the body politic for cleaner conditions.")

ADMISSION DAY BANQUET.

San Francisco—Golden Gate No. 29 N.S.G.W. celebrated Admission Day with a banquet September 8. The Parlor was honored by the presence of Grand President William I. Traeger and wife of Los Angeles; Grand Secretary John T. Regan and wife, Grand Trustee James A. Wilson and wife, Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney of this city.

The addresses of the distinguished guests were well received. An exceptionally good program was presented, and was followed by dancing. The affair was well attended by members and their families, and many compliments were expressed to the arrangements committee for the enjoyable evening.

Good Investment—Lodi, the progressive San Joaquin County city, has just let a contract, amounting to $500,000, to pave several streets.

EARLY-DAY SHIPWRECK VICTIMS— MONUMENT TO THEIR MEMORY

FERNDALE—SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, Ferndale Parlor No. 93 N.S.G.W. dedicated a monument reared to the memory of the victims of the wreck of the steamer "Northerner" on the Humboldt County coast January 5, 1860. The monument stands on a bluff at the edge of the sea about four miles southwest of Ferndale, and may be seen for miles out at sea; it is in the form of a Roman cross, sixteen feet high with a spread of twelve feet, the shaft and arms being twelve inches square. The monument bears a marble slab with this inscription:

"Erected to the Memory of the Pioneers who lost their lives in the wreck of the steamer Northerner near this spot on January 5th, 1860. Erected by Ferndale Parlor No. 93 N.S.G.W. 1921."

At the foot of the bluff are the graves of the thirty-eight who perished in the wreck. Ferndale Parlor has acquired both the land upon which the monument stands and that where the graves are made. Among the who attended the dedication ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Reese, who were living in the vicinity at the time of the his life for his country. All that we have and our futures we owe to them. They are living today down deep in our hearts even as we pass from this world with them. Let us take up the torch from where it has fallen from their hands. Let us here dedicate our lives. Let us build an edifice, not with our hands but with the same great spirit, so that in the end it will dominate the federation of the world. And above all let us instill the spirit in our children."

SANTA BARBARA.

Santa Barbara 116 N.S.G.W. and Reina del Mar 126 N.D.G.W. devoted the day to the sale of milk-bottle tags, the proceeds to be used to purchase milk for needy children; $1,000 was raised. Organizations assisting in the milk-fund drive were: Daughters American Revolution, Women's Club, Associated Charities, Eastern Star, Catholic Daughters of America, Relief Society, Ladies' Sodality, Pythian Sisters, Visiting Nurses, Parent-Teachers, Miss Annie E. McCaughey, chairman of Reina del Mar's Milk Fund Committee, was assisted in arranging the day's drive by an executive committee composed of Misses U. Dardi, H. L. Spreitz, A. E. Platz.

In the evening, at one of Santa Barbara's old landmarks, there was a supper which was attended by a large number of members of both Orders and invited guests. Dancing concluded the dinner program, at which Paul Sweetser was toastmaster, being introduced by Mrs. W. R. Vick, president Reina del Mar Parlor N.D.G.W. Frank Price expressed the thanks of both Parlors for the assistance given by the various organizations in the day's milk-fund drive, and Mrs. Endicott Faxon, accompanied by Mrs. Avis Imogene Palmer, sang in a charming manner "Out in California," composed by Alfred Daltou (Sutter Fort 241 N.S.G.W.). The oration was delivered by Herman C. Lichtenberger (Past Grand President N.S.G.W.) of Los Angeles, who said, in part:

"The Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West are leagued together to advance the interests of California at all times. We stand for the development of her resources, the stimulating of her industries, the beautifying of her cities, the irrigation of her valleys, the protection of her forests, the preservation of her landmarks, the perpetuation of the memories and achievements of the Pioneers and, above all, for the highest type of citizenship.

"We believe in an undivided California, and will bend every effort and will fight to the last ditch any who attempt the dismemberment of our state, the peer of any of the states of the Union.

"Neither will we permit the little yellow man from Asia to secure control of our beloved California either by peaceful penetration or by force of arms. The people of this state have expressed themselves at the ballot box, in the public press and upon the rostrum. I say to the Japanese both here and abroad—heed the voice of the people of California."

The executive committee in charge of the dinner was: Mrs. W. R. Vick (chairman), Harry Sweetser, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Platz, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Leslie, Mark Bradley, William Harris, Miss Lydia Whitney, Misses Inez and Edna Sharp.

SAN DIEGO.

The ball given in Balboa Auditorium was a brilliant social success, and netted a goodly sum for the restoration of San Diego de Aleala, the first in the chain of missions extending from San Diego to Sonoma to be established. The immense auditorium was thronged by citizens and visitors, and was gorgeously decorated throughout. Punch was served during the evening by twenty-five Native Daughters.

A program, commencing with the singing of the San Diego "booster" song, was presented. Myrt Anna Sharpe Bunting, the soprano, and the Chanters sang a group of delightful numbers, characteristic Spanish dances were given by Senorita Maria Arguello and Senor Eugenio Cota, and Miss Betty Beardsley gave two dainty dances. The benefit was arranged by San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W., which were assisted by a long list of prominent patrons and patronesses. The general committee of the two Parlors in direct charge of the affair consisted of: Carl H. Heilbron (chairman), Cottardo C. Ghio Jr. (vice-chairman), Dr. Louise C. Heilbron (vice-chairman), C. W. Wilson (treasurer), Miss Adele Koop (secretary), Harry Abell, Joseph Breunan, Virgil Bruschi Sr., Virgil Bruschi Jr., Miss Mary Cooley, Ed Crolie, Eugene Dancy Jr., Stephen Dove, Joseph Foster, Miss Elsie Frank, Frank A. Frye, Miss Nellie Goodbody, Mrs. Louis Hansen, Dr. J. Ross Hardy, Edgar F. Hastings, Sam Hastings, Fred A. Heilbron, Miss Irma Heilbron, Mrs. J. S. Hertzbrun, A. P. Johnson Jr., P. M. Johnson, Simon T. Johnson, Joseph Kelley, Mrs. William Kettner, Hugo Klauber, Dr. Vernou R. Lee, Beruad Levi, Miss Marjorie Lewis, Superior Judge Edgar Luce, Dr. Otto Marsh, L. C. Masten, Mrs. Florence Kood, Mrs. Louis Schachtebeck, William Schneider, Dan E. Shaffer, Don M. Stewart, Mrs. Edna Taylor, Mrs. Fred Thomas, Mrs. Wm. Ziegler.

WEAVERVILLE.

The celebration in this Trinity County town, under the auspices of Mount Bally Parlor No. 87 N.S.G.W. and Eltapome Parlor No. 55 N.D.G.W., was one of the best in years. Mount Bally's band furnished the music for the day.

There was a morning parade, participated in by the Pioneers, school children and the Parlors. Literary exercises followed, and then came a street carnival at which several classy vaudeville "stunts" were introduced. The balance of the day was given over to sports and a free dance for the children. Two jazz orchestras furnished music for the grand ball in the evening.

QUINCY.

Plumas County's handsome new court house, which includes a memorial hall, was formally dedicated, the members of Quincy Parlor No. 131 N.S.G.W. and Plumas Pioneer No. 219 N.D.G.W. participating, and the program being as presented in the September Grizzly Bear. W. W. Kellogg delivered the dedicatory address, at the conclusion of which he said:

"Young men of Plumas County, young women of Plumas County, you have now entered or are about to enter into civil active life; you are to assume the full responsibilities of American citizenship. The older citizens who are slowly gliding down the years must and will retire from service; you are to take their places, and upon you will rest the future progress and prosperity of Plumas

CALIFORNIA NEWS OF A HALF-CENTURY AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

THE FIRST TWO DAYS OF OCTOBER 1871 were the hottest in San Francisco of the year. The thermometer reached 90° in the afternoons and fell only to 68° during the nights. A brilliant meteor, coming from the southeast, passed over the city at 9:49 p.m. October 3 and apparently exploded, with a loud report, over Marin County. As it was seen and heard at Shasta, its place of explosion is in doubt.

A heavy northwest gale began blowing October 5 and prevailed until the 13th, making a disagreeable condition and doing much damage. The new Presbyterian church at Brooklyn, Alameda County, was blown down and a $10,000 loss sustained.

October 17 a terrific sandstorm prevailed in Los Angeles County. It was the worst experienced since '49, and it was followed by another the 23th equally severe; heavy loss to stock-raisers was caused.

The great Chicago fire, which burned that city October 8 and 9, caused a sensation in the state, especially in San Francisco, owing to many of the citizens having investments and relatives there. $100,000 was raised in a few days in the city and nearly as much in the state outside to aid the sufferers from the calamity. Several fire insurance companies, organized by San Francisco capitalists, were heavy losers on policies issued there, and some were thought to have become bankrupt.

This caused an unexpected influence upon the mining stock market. The losses of the insurance companies were sustained by the capitalistic class and necessitated the withdrawal of $1,500,000 in gold coin from the San Francisco banks to settle. While Crown Point opened at $300 and Belcher at $400 a share and fluctuated around these figures for the first ten days of the month, they then began to fade, notwithstanding optimistic reports of bonanza developments, and by the end of the month Crown Point had dropped to $250 and Belcher to $330 a share, while the whole market sagged in prices and the "street" was financially indisposed.

Great forest fires in the foothills and mountains of the Sierra Nevada range were burning from Tehachapi to Siskiyou, and had been blazing for a month or more, causing great destruction and a smoky atmosphere.

The Occidental skating rink, on the corner of Stockton and Post streets, San Francisco, was burned October 5 with a $10,000 loss.

The hop kiln on the Bird ranch near San Jose was burned October 2 with ten tons of hops, causing a $25,000 loss.

A fire broke out in the hills near Calistoga, Napa County, that swept with a north wind many square miles of the land thereabouts, destroying houses, barns, fences and trees and causing many thousands of dollars' loss during the second week of the month.

The small mining town of Pine Grove, Sierra County, October 19 had its business section and Chinatown burned by a fire that started in the woods half a mile away. Two expensive flumes were also partially destroyed.

Feast on Frogs' Legs.

The state judicial election was held October 18. It did not cause a ripple of political excitement and, as usual, only about sixty percent of the registered vote was cast. The Republicans won a more decisive victory than in the state election in September. For Justice of the Supreme Court, Republican candidates A. L. Rhodes received 46,829 votes and A. C. Niles 47,373; the Democratic candidates S. S. Wright received 36,606 and Jackson Temple 36,500. For Superintendent of Public Instruction H. N. Bolander, Republican, received 48,800, and O. P. Fitzgerald, Democrat, 34,242.

Wm. Watt, a prominent mining man of Nevada County, wagered a frog-leg breakfast with William Hamilton, the stage-line man, that H. H. Haight would be re-elected governor. He gave the breakfast at the Frog Leg Club House, near Grass Valley, October 1. There were present, A. A. Sargent, Judge Riordon, Rufus Shoemaker and about thirty other prominent politicians and business men invited by Hamilton to be Watt's guests. The menu was superb, the wines the best to be had, and the breakfast lasted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with speeches and anecdotes galore.

The Northern District Agricultural Society had a successful fair at Marysville, Yuba County, during the week of October 11. Rev. Dr. McKaig delivered the annual address.

The Marin and Sonoma Counties fair was held at Healdsburg, Sonoma County, October 11 and several succeeding days.

Col. Strong raised a 100,000-pound cotton crop of fine texture in Merced County.

The thirty-fourth ship to load with wheat for Great Britain at Vallejo, Solano County, cleared this month.

Merced Falls woolen mills, in Merced County, was being successfully managed by Albert Ingulsbee and all of its product was having immediate sale in San Francisco.

A. W. Rogers of Watsonville discovered a cinnamon vein in Santa Clara County that was rich in quicksilver.

A lad named Weeks discovered a vein of coal one inch wide on his father's ranch eight miles east of Santa Rosa, Sonoma County. A shaft sunk ten feet found the vein widened to twelve inches, and great expectations were formed of its future development.

Morgan & Co., mining near Hornitos, Mariposa County, struck a vein of decomposed quartz that yielded $3,000 in a few hours.

The opposition steamboat "Chin Du Wan," operating between San Francisco and Sacramento, began playing a steam calliope to announce its time of arrival and departure.

Mary Ellen Covilland was married to George W. Waldron in Marysville, October 25. She was the first white child born in that Yuba County city. Her mother was one of the ill-fated Donner Party, and it was in her honor that Marysville was given its name.

Capt. James Ellison, the oldest member of the Sacramento Pioneer Association, died October 12 in his 82nd year. He was a veteran of the War of 1812.

David Boyer died an untimely death in San Francisco, October 17. He came to California on the famed Argonaut ship "Edward Everett" in 1849 and was one of the first men to mine on Deer Creek, Nevada County, in that year. He became a successful promoter of ditch enterprises and large mining operations and was prominent in public affairs. With a comfortable fortune he left Nevada County in the late '60s and went to San Francisco, where he met with financial misfortune through mining stock investments and then, becoming afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism and other ills, "melancholy marked him for her own."

Stage Robbers Active.

John Sime, a prominent banker in San Francisco, died October 21. He went there in '49, worked as a carpenter, prospered as a contractor, established a bank in '57 and became a financial factor in the city, but died insolvent.

Wm. F. Barron, the wealthiest banker in San Francisco and a Pioneer of '49, died and left an estate of an estimated value of $8,000,000.

George H. Ensign, chief engineer and promoter of Col. Von Schmidt's Lake Tahoe water scheme, died of brain trouble and this so complicated the company's affairs the promotion of the proposition looked doubtful.

The Government sent a special car under guard from Washington, D. C., with $3,000,000 in greenbacks to replace the mutilated currency on the Pacific Coast.

J. F. Whittier, in Siskiyou County, killed a buck that weighed 210 pounds.

Grauville Stone killed a California lion within 200 yards of his home in Trinity County. It was over eight feet long.

Marcus Gillette, on Russian River, Sonoma County, October 16 killed a bear and a cub and shortly afterward discovered a California lion on the limb of a tree near by and killed it, too.

Quail were reported so plentiful about Folsom, Sacramento County, they had become a nuisance. They were feeding on grapes in the vineyards on the outskirts, and with the fowls in the chicken yards.

Sheriff Jackson of Shasta County with a posse pursued the five men who robbed the stage near Cottonwood, September 26, and near Mt. Lassen found them in camp. Two of them, with four Henry rifles and five horses, were taken into custody; the others escaped.

The Healdsburg stage was stopped by two highwaymen, October 10, who took the express box and obtained a few hundred dollars. They did not molest the passengers.

The Bodega stage was held up near Sebastopol, Sonoma County, October 12 by five masked men. They took the express box, with about $300, but did not rob the passengers.

The Forbestown stage was stopped near Bangor, Butte County, by three masked men, October 25. They wanted the express box, but as none was carried on the stage they, in a gentlemanly manner, bid the driver "Good morning," and departed.

An old Pioneer miner named Rucker, living alone in a cabin near Bidwell's Bar, Butte County, was tied hand and foot by three robbers in his cabin. They ransacked it and found about $300 of his savings, which they appropriated.

Juan Soto stole forty head of cattle in Livermore Valley and sold them to a butcher at Almaden. He was captured by Sheriff Harry Morse in San Jose.

A young man named Wm. V. Arrowsmith at Gilroy, Santa Clara County, October 15 had an altercation with Constable Wm. Bergen in which he was shot and killed.

Two men named Benning and Wallace, employed at the Two-Mile House near Washington, Yolo County, quarreled and began to fight. Benning had a pistol which Wallace, in attempting to wrest from him, caused to be fired. The bullet passed through Wallace's thigh and struck Benning in the right breast, killing him. Wallace's leg had to be amputated.

In the store of P. W. Hays at Lake City, Siskiyou County, October 17 four men, in settling up a partnership matter, quarreled. Powley and Disable took sides against Mark and King, and all began shooting. Over twenty shots were fired, and when the smoke cleared it was found that Nathan Dry, a bystander, had been hit over the left eye and had an ugly wound extending to his ear; another spectator, named Powers, was hit in the right arm; Powley had a bullet in his left shoulder, and Disable, struck just above the left nipple and also in one hip, was mortally wounded.

"Served With a Vengeance."

At Los Angeles the evening of October 23, in Chinatown, rival tongs started a battle. Officer Beldrain, with the assistance of Robert Thompson, a citizen he called to his aid, attempted to suppress it, when a Chinaman fired upon them. Thompson was shot in the chest and soon died; officer Beldrain was hit in the shoulder, and a Mexican boy in the leg. Soon afterward a mob of over 100 men, mostly Mexicans armed with rifles, gathered, and the Chinamen barricaded themselves in a block which the mob surrounded.

Obtaining axes and other implements, they began to break open the houses and tear off the roofs and, capturing the Chinamen one by one, they hung fifteen and killed by shooting three more. The sheriff was powerless to suppress the riot, and called the old Vigilantes to his aid. Before they gathered, the mob, after looting Chinatown of thousands of dollars' worth of personal property, dissolved. Eight of the ringleaders were arrested and charged with murder.

[Editor's Note—A detailed account of this riot and massacre, prepared by Judge R. M. Widney, appeared in The Grizzly Bear for January 1921; the judge, however, who was the chief actor in quelling the disturbance, gives the date as November 24, 1871. The data in the accompanying article was taken by Thomas R. Jones, the compiler, from the newspapers of the day. Several of those arrested were found guilty, and sentenced to the state prison. Because of a technicality, the indictment failing to allege one Chee Long Tong was murdered, the Supreme Court reversed the judgment of guilt and ordered the prisoners discharged.]

P. R. Rodgers, in San Francisco, was served with a writ of ejectment. He fired a bullet through the hat of the serving official and then returned the writ to the court endorsed: "Served with a vengeance." He was sent to jail for eighteen months.

Mrs. Powell Hart, at McDowell Hill, El Dorado County, October 3, while filling a coal-oil lamp, was shockingly and fatally burned from its exploding.

Smiley Brian, an orphan boy 15 years old, near Soledad, Monterey County, while hunting, drew his gun over a log by its muzzle toward him and accidentally discharged it. The shot tore through his abdomen, and caused almost instant death.

ARROGANT JAPS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

JAPANESE IN PASADENA ASK BOARD of education to turn over part of one school building to be run as school for Japanese, to be taught in their own language.

This editorial note from the "San Diego Sun" came to The Grizzly Bear from S. G. Ames of San Diego, who has been very active in the campaign against the Japs, rendering especially valuable service by supplying Eastern papers with facts concerning the yellow pests in California. Along with the clipping came this letter:

"How about little Japan in Pasadena? I suppose on the 'Gulick' theory of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man we should turn over anything the Japs ask for.

"It seems to me that they are getting more arrogant every day, and it is just because we make laws and never enforce them. I would like to see a Governor elected in California at the next election. We might get somewhere then."

Not only are the Japs getting more arrogant, but they are continuing to defy the laws. Mr. Ames did not mean to imply that California has no Governor, but that the state has one at present who has not the backbone to compel the Japs to obey the laws. If the 1913 Land Law was impartially and rigidly enforced by the Attorney-General the Jap menace in California would be speedily and effectively cured. The Governor has the power to compel the Attorney-General to do his duty in this crisis, but the Governor lacks the necessary "guts" to force the issue. He was quick to demand full protection for the Japs in the Turlock deportation, but there is no record of his ever having demanded protection for California from the Japs by the Attorney-General.

In the meantime, while the Governor and the Attorney-General are waiting for "something to happen," the Japs are becoming more powerfully entrenched and California is becoming more thoroughly Japanized. But something IS going to happen, and that right soon, unless legal action is taken to immediately recover every foot of California land now held contrary to law by Japs—and that "something" will be a made-in-Washington deal whereby the Japs will gain such concessions that eventually California will be theirs. Such an "agreement" is coming, unless California convinces the world, by enforcing them, that her Land Laws are both just and legal; without enforcement, those laws are rightly looked upon as both unjust and illegal. Time has proven, beyond a question of doubt, that, so far as the Jap question is concerned, the Governor and the Attorney-General are official derelicts. The People must force them into action, and right now, before it is too late, is the time to employ the necessary force. To wait until the November 1922 election to secure a Governor and an Attorney-General anxious and competent to serve, simply courts a complete surrender of California to the Japs.

MOUNT SHASTA

(MARTHA NEWTON SANDERS.)

O, hail! to beauteous Shasta!
Fair California's pride!
You guardeth, like a sentinel,
Siskiyou County, broad and wide.

As the sphinx stands guard o'er Egypt,
So you stand and hold with care
All the lovely Klamath Valley,
Beautiful beyond compare.

You are rich in scenic grandeur—
Earth has naught to show more fair—
You are strong in pride and beauty,
With your sylvan garment rare.

Who can guess the force that made you,
In that age so long ago,
Built you out of molten lava
And crowned your crest with icy snow?

You were born of wondrous beauty,
Where the voice of Nature spake,
For the bride is Klamath River
And the groom is Klamath Lake.

In a grove of wooded beauty,
With your massive lava walls,
There you'll watch for countless ages
O'er the land of Klamath Falls.

O, stately Mount of Shasta!
You're a priceless monument;
And to lovely California
You're a giant ornament!

Lincoln, California.

MAKES SPLENDID SHOWING IN ADMISSION DAY PARADE.

STOCKTON—JOAQUIN 5 IN THE ADMISSION Day parade had in its division ninety members, all of whom were dressed in white, carried orchid-colored parasols and wore corsage bouquets of the same color. Preceding this group was a snow-white float, which glittered like frost in the sun; it was drawn by white horses, covered with spangled nets. Huge orchid-colored chrysanthemums were used on the float. Aboard were four members who held the banner of the Parlor, and four other members walked on either side of the equipage. Joaquin's second division had eight prettily-decorated autos in which were P.G.P.s. Carrie Durham and Mamie Peyton and charter members, also some of the older members. Mrs. Mattie Porter, chairman of the committee, designed and supervised the construction of the float. Miss Virginia Hill, another member, rode a handsome black steed and acted as aide to the grand marshal.

Joaquin Parlor, ever mindful to honor the Pioneers, did so by sending to P. E. Wilhoit of Stockton and James Turner of Manteca beautiful bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums; they are the sole surviving members of the San Joaquin County Pioneer Society. The Parlor has been honored by having P.G.P. Mamie Peyton elected as one of the directors of the N. D. Home, she taking the place of the late P.G.P. Julia Steinbach.

Safety for Savings

CALIFORNIANS should take a special pride in their State Banking Law, which has been very carefully framed to ENCOURAGE THRIFT by making it certain that the man who deposits his money in a STATE savings bank will have it so invested that it will return the maximum amount of interest consistent with safety, and will be SAFE.

This Bank is a STATE Bank. It is a complete bank, a departmental bank under the California Bank Act, giving every banking service. Its size, its strength, its safety, its completeness of service, the ideals of kindly consideration which guide its transaction, its loyalty to California investments are all matters of pride for those who love California.

Museum Receiving Relics.

"On behalf of the James W. Marshall Museum Committee, I take this means of thanking the Parlors for contributions to the museum for paying for cases already installed and for which a considerable debt has been incurred. We have had to date over a thousand visitors who are high in their praises of the large collection, some of which can not be duplicated anywhere. Pioneer relics are coming in every day. We invite every Parlor in the state to send any relic pertaining to Pioneer life.

"Mrs. Perly Bradford of Liberty 213 N.D.G.W. and P. K. Bradford of Elk Grove 41 N.S.G.W. have the James Marshall anvil which they will give to the museum after its appearance on a float in Stockton September 9. The anvil will be placed on the huge white oak block which is still to be seen in the old shop in the museum placed there by James W. Marshall. We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Bradford for this rare relic, which we have tried to trace for several years; also Mr. Martin of Fair Oaks, who had it in his possession and kept its history.

"Joaquin 5, Santa Cruz 26, Los Angeles 124, Placer 138, Long Beach 154, $1.00 each; also, Colonel Kit Carson, Reno, Nevada, $1.25.

Entertains Boys at Hospital.

San Jose—The card party of Vendome 100 September 15 was a grand success in every way, and was attended by a large and congenial crowd of friends, and members of San Jose 81 and of San Jose 22 and Observatory 100 N.S.G.W. The committee in charge included: Mmes. D. J. Gairaud, H. J. Dougherty, R. Plamondon, M. D. Pearl, J. C. Howell, B. Meyer, M. S. Silva, Hattie Lewis, J. C. Hayes, Helen Sweeney, I. L. Koppel and Misses Clara Wagner, Sadie Jefferson, Eileen Barber. September 22 the Parlor initiated a large class of candidates, among the number being Miss Laura Barboni, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Barboni, an honored member whose son, Joseph, cashier of the Bank of Visalia, recently affiliated with Observatory 100 N.S.G.W. Miss Tillie Brohaska, organizer of Vendome, has offered a beautiful emblematic pin as a prize to the member bringing in the largest number of candidates in a membership drive soon to be inaugurated.

August 25 the Parlor entertained the boys at the Palo Alto base hospital. Apples from the home of Mrs. I. L. Keppel, a member, were distributed, and a program was presented by Misses Lydia Silva, Mabel Young, Leonore Martin, Vera Young, Mary Mello and Mrs. D. J. Gairaud, who was in charge. At the 1922 Grand Parlor (San Rafael) Vendome will present Mrs. Josephine Barboni for Grand Trustee.

"Mother Goose" Presented.

San Francisco—An enjoyable evening was spent September 13 by Guadalupe 153's members, the matrons serving a supper in honor of the single members, who reciprocated by furnishing the entertainment. One of the features was the presentation of "Mother Goose," a sketch written especially for the occasion by one of the members. The cast included: Mother Goose, Pauline Des Roches; Old Woman in the Shoe, May McCarthy; Jack, Grace Loran; Gill, Elenor Tucker; Bopeep, Georgia Sweet; Miss Muffett, Alyce Miller; Spider, Emma Johnson; Little Boy Blue, Theresa Flynn; Mary, Agnes Gallagher, and her Little Lamb, "Himself," Jackie Horner, Elva Shible.

Visits "Baby" Parlor.

Quincy—August 27 Plumas Pioneer 219 was officially visited by Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek; other visitors were D.D.G.P. Marguerite Geney and Miss Edith Peterson (La Bandera 110) of Sacramento. One candidate was initiated, and at the conclusion of the ritual the Grand President complimented the officers. A banquet, to which members of Quincy 131 N.S.G.W. and other friends had been invited, was served at the meeting's close. While in this city Dr. Derriek and her husband were the house guests of W. J. Miller and wife, both enthusiastic Natives.

September 5 the Parlor received another new member. Plans were launched for its initial ball, to be given Thanksgiving Day. The Parlor's charter list has been closed, with sixty-nine members of quality. Many things which will reflect credit both upon the Order and the Parlor are planned for the future.

Has Banquet and High Jinks.

San Francisco—Among the many affairs recently given by Yosemite 83 was the anniversary banquet, which was held at a popular down-town restaurant. Many members and a few guests were present, and a splendid program was rendered by some of the talented members of the Parlor. Appropriate favors were given all present, and Past President Marguerite Kaufmann presented the popular president, Lucille Kimback, with a beautiful bunch of La France roses.

An enjoyable high jinks was given by the Parlor at its last meeting. The costumes of the different members were original to the last degree. A circus with trained dogs, directed by Phelita Reagan, "ring master," was a leading feature. Prizes were given to the most original and the best sustained characters. All voted this one of the best entertainments ever given by Yosemite. Elaborate refreshments were served in the banquet-room and the affair wound up with the promise of another such in the near future. Candidates are initiated at almost every meeting, and a class initiation is expected before the holidays.

Children of Members Are Guests.

San Diego—Members of San Diego 208 are not resting after their labors in connection with the Admission Day ball, but are working diligently to increase the membership. More than twenty applications have gone forward to the Grand Secretary within the past month.

September 24, in the Pepper Grove at Balboa Park, a party was given for the kiddies of the members of the local Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters. A large committee, under the efficient leadership of Miss Mary Cooley, looked after the affair and the guests were given a good time and plenty of "cents."

Officer-Bride Surprised.

San Jose—September 8 San Jose 81 surprised Mrs. Mary Fisher-Champion, first vice-president, a recent bride. Her station was beautifully decorated to resemble a bridal bower and she was presented with a huge basket decorated to represent a red rose and containing many beautiful gifts. Mmes. Clara Briggs and Maude Jury contributed a program, and refreshments were served. The committee in charge was: Mmes. Clara Briggs, Iva Belloli, Amelia Collier, Nell Gerrans, Laura Mabury, Helen Trengove, Ora Phillips, Augusta Singleton and Miss Jean Belloli.

At the August birthday party the 25th the honored guests, each of whom received a dainty gift, included: Mmes. Clara Briggs, Aura Lea Boomer, Katherine Nelson and Miss Jean Belloli; the latter brought along her birthday cake and treated the "girls." A program was presented and delicious refreshments were served. The arrangements committee was: Mmes. Nettie Richmond, Annie Harris, and Misses Elsie Fisher, Emma Allemand.

Tells of Order's Work.

Willows—Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derriek paid her official visit to Berryessa 192 September 7. After a luncheon in her honor at the home of Mrs. H. D. DeGaa, she was escorted to the meeting-place, where the ritual was exemplified. Miss Isabel Proulx, by initiation, became the Parlor's youngest member; Mrs. Catherine Crothers is the oldest, and one of the most conscientious members.

Grand President Derriek gave a splendid talk on the good work being accomplished by the Order, especially that for the homeless children, for 200 of whom homes were found the past year. By her sweet and pleasing personality, Dr. Derriek endeared herself to all who met her. Through a fire which recently gutted its hall, Berryessa suffered

Departing Member Surprised.

San Francisco—Buena Vista 68 entertained Past President Lillie Crapo with a surprise shower on the eve of her departure for Chicago. A very pleasant evening was spent, and all wished her much happiness and pleasure in her new home, even though away from beloved California.

The usual monthly whist was held August 25 under the direction of Mrs. Ida Leroy, and was very successful. The members of the Parlor recently enjoyed a theatre party.

Remembers Those Less Fortunate.

Byron—Donner 193 last month sent its second box of clothing to the Pitt River Indians, and will forward many more boxes during the winter. The members, too, have pledged themselves to send something each month to "our boys" in the hospitals; a box of jelly has already been sent to one hospital, and a box of fruit to another.

October 5 the season of monthly card parties will start. Prizes will be awarded each night and a dainty supper served; at the season's close a grand prize will be given the one having the best score for the series. October 28 will be given the first of the winter parties—a "hard luck" dance; a jazz orchestra from Livermore will supply the music, and a chicken supper will be served. The Parlor has installed in its meeting-place a box in which to drop coins; at Christmas time it will be opened and the contents sent to a soldiers' hospital.

President is Bride.

Pittsburg—Members of Stirling 146 held a "freak" party September 14, and had one big time. Prizes were awarded as follows: Heavy weight, Margaret Abrams; middle weight, Mrs. Chas. Ward; light weight, Frances Pettus; most original dress, Mrs. Chas. Ward; best dress, Mrs. G. L. Von Plank; funniest dress, Mrs. Bell Smith.

Rhoda Roelling was presented with a past president's pin, and Jennie Latimer, president of the Parlor, was given a handsome cut-glass sugar bowl and creamer on the eve of her marriage to Mr. Garbot. One of the members, in bloomers, took her place beside Miss Latimer, acting as groom, while the others marched by and congratulated the happy couple. Games were played, and the losers Leander Linekin, native of Maine, nearly 88; came in 1863; died at Hayward, Alameda County.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Kingade, native of Iowa; came in 1862; died at Long Beach, survived by her husband and six children.

Senator Alvan Tyler Currier, native of Maine, 81; came in 1861; died near Walnut, Los Angeles County, survived by a widow. Deceased was closely identified with the development of Los Angeles County; he served as sheriff from 1881 to 1882, and represented the county in the state senate during the thirty-third and thirty-fourth Legislatures.

Mrs. Augusta Hendsch, native of the West Indies, 88; since 1864 a resident of Copperopolis, Calaveras County, where she died, survived by six children.

Ambrose B. Holdrige, native of Ohio, 82; came in 1858; died at Dixon, Solano County, survived by three children.

Mrs. Milton T. Kite, native of Illinois, 76; came in 1869; died at Redding, survived by a husband and three sons.

Peter Musante, native of Italy, 70; died at San Francisco, his home for fifty years, survived by a widow and six children.

Mrs. Johanna Coutolene, native of Ireland, 84; came in 1861; died at St. Helena, survived by two daughters.

Thomas R. Anderson, native of England, 82; came in 1861; died at Arcata, Humboldt County, survived by a widow and five children.

Mrs. Jennie Trefren-McBride, native of New Hampshire, 62; came in 1863; died at Davis, Yolo County.

Mrs. Joseph H. Squire-Foster, native of New York; came in 1858; died at San Francisco.

Thomas Llewellyn Baird, native of England, 80; came in 1859 and settled in Yolo County; died at Woodland.

Mrs. Anna Higgins-Steele, native of Ireland, 88; came in 1861; died at Los Angeles.

Henry Pauw, 81; came in 1862 and located in Stockton, where he died, survived by a widow.

Mrs. Emma Gates-Butler, 81; since 1864 a resident of San Francisco; died at Los Gatos, Santa Clara County, survived by two daughters.

Mrs. Addie M. Gates, native of New York, 89; came in 1866 and long resided in San Jose; died at South Pasadena, survived by three sons.

Cyrus Stoddard, native of New York, 86; came in 1865; died at Berkeley, survived by a widow and a daughter.

Mrs. Annie Upham, native of New York, 76; came in 1860; died at Dixon, Solano County.

Mrs. Esther M. Dorsey, native of Maryland, 86; came in 1859 and settled in Sonora, Tuolumne County, where she died, survived by two daughters.

Mrs. Rachael Hunt-Gifford, native of Missouri, 78; came in 1859; died at Lompoe, Santa Barbara County, survived by six children.

Captain Frank B. Clark, native of Connecticut, 78; died at Los Angeles, his home the past fifty years, survived by a widow and a son.

Mary K. Davis, native of Ireland, 79; came in 1863 and in 1866 settled in Amador County; died near Plymouth, survived by six children, among them Thomas D. Davis, secretary Plymouth Parlor No. 48 N.S.G.W.

William Llewellyn, native of France, 75; fifty-three years a resident of San Diego, where he died, survived by a widow and a daughter.

N.S.G.W. OFFICIAL DEATH LIST.

Containing the name, date and place of birth, date of death, Parlor affiliation of all deceased members reported to the Grand Secretary from August 20 to September 20:

HOGAN, Eugene S.; Waterloo, August 24, 1865; August 16; Stockton 7.

HOSMER, William H.; Stockton, February 28, 1853; August 11; Stockton 7.

QUINN, Frank Joseph; San Francisco, March 5, 1862; September 2; National 118.

LYNOTT, Alexander F.; San Francisco, July 4, 1869; August 22; Presidio 194.

TENNESON, Gayhart; San Francisco, June 4, 1878; August 20; Marshall 202.

TO THE SOIL OF CALIFORNIA

WHICH GAVE THEM BIRTH.

Oroville—The remains of James Toland, a member of Argonaut Parlor No. 8 N.S.G.W. who fell in the battle of the Meuse-Argonne September 29, 1918, were received here September 8 by an honor guard of ex-service men and Native Sons. The following day, Admission Day, they were laid to rest in the local cemetery, following the reading of the Native Sons' funeral ceremony, the firing of a salute, and the sounding of taps. The active pall bearers were Adolph Kessler and James Murphy, representing ex-service men; Herman Downer and Harry Bass of the Moose; Past Presidents J. L. Looney and G. W. Braden of the Native Sons.

Merchants closed their stores during the service, and the wealth of flowers and large gathering of citizens testified to the deceased hero's popularity. "Jim" Toland was fearless, courteous, and thoroughly likeable; he was a man among men, and as a soldier was true to his duty until, as the bronze plaque that Argonaut Parlor has dedicated to his memory so well expresses it, "The enemy found the only way to stop him."

Sacramento—The body of Private George Lippi, a member of Galt Parlor No. 243 N.S.G.W. who lost his life in the Argonne October 4, 1918, was laid to final rest September 17, the services being conducted by the Sacramento Post of the American Legion and the Parlor.

Private Lippi was a native of Sacramento City, but most of his life had been spent in Galt. He was a member of "C" Company, 363d Infantry, 91st Division.

GREAT ERA OF PROSPERITY AHEAD.

In an address delivered at Cleveland, Ohio, September 6, Postmaster-General Hays said: "Altogether, we look to the future with great hope. There is ahead the greatest era of expansion and prosperity the world has even seen. Everyone knows this, and the only question discussed is, when it will start. We are not in a period of hard times coming; we are in a period of soft times going. Prosperity is coming—it's time to go out and meet it. I declare again, and shall continue to insist that we have less 'thou shalt not' and more of 'come on, let's go'."

Prize Winning Counties—At the recent State Fair, Fresno County carried away two first prizes: for the best general exhibit, and for the best exhibit exclusive of farm products; Calaveras County walked away with the first prize for the best mineral display.

School Bonds—Long Beach recently voted $1,900,000 bonds for much-needed additional school buildings.

RODEO SUCCESS

THE THREE-DAY RODEO STAGED BY the San Francisco Native Sons at Ewing Field September 9, 10 and 11 to raise funds for the building of an athletic club was one of the best shows ever staged in that part of the state and was a success in every particular. The attendance totaled 33,000, the largest number, 15,000, being on hand at the opening performance, Admission Day.

There were cowboys and cowgirls galore, up-roped in the gaudiest of colors; rough, fancy, trick and speedy riding, with comedy and dare-devil stunts, were featured. So generous was the supply of events, it was necessary to stage the show in the three-ring-circus fashion, to give all an even chance. Joe Amrecoerchen was director of the arena. Prizes amounting to $3,000 were awarded.

The advisory committee for the roundup consisted of Senator James D. Phelan, William H. Crocker, A. P. Giannini, George D. Clark, Mayor James Rolph Jr., Justice William H. Langdon, Justice Thomas J. Lennon, John H. Grady, Louis H. Mosser, Federal Judge Maurice T. Dooling, Tompleton Crocker and Wellington Gregg. The various details were looked after by sub-committees with these chairmen: Chancellor K. Grady (arrangements), Frank M. Buckley (concessions), Charles A. Koenig (prizes), J. M. Liebert (publicity), Judge Daniel C. Deasy (admissions), Judge Bernard J. Flood (program), James B. McSheehy (music), John J. May (accommodations), David Steffens (transportation).

The rodeo will result in a fund of about $6,000 for the athletic club. Initiation fees of $30,000 will now be called in from those who have signed up for membership, and fifty life memberships to be sold will bring an additional $25,000. Officers of the club include: Richard M. Tobin, president; Edward J. Lynch, first vice-president; J. M. Liebert, second vice-president; David Steffens, third vice-president; Chancellor K. Grady, secretary; Frank M. Buckley, treasurer. The success of the rodeo assures the building of the athletic club.

The home of Mathew Smith near Yreka, Siskiyou County, was burned the night of October 17. Smith, awakened by the roar of the flames and dazed, rushed into the burning room and was fatally burned.

Willie Chide, 12 years old, was run over by a street car in San Francisco, October 22, and killed.

An Irish woman of fine appearance, arrested in San Francisco for disorderly conduct, was bailed out by a Chinese merchant, who proved to be her husband. They had been legally married and had three children.

A citizen of Vallejo became the owner of a game-cock and challenged his friends to produce one that could give it a battle. He was willing to wager 2 to 1 on his rooster. The defi was accepted by a sporting man, and when the fowls came at each other in the pit, the game-cock was soon put out of the fight. Much chagrined, the day after the battle the owner made an examination of his supposed champion and found its abdomen full of bullets.

In Memoriam

MISS MAGGIE A. FAHEY.

To the Officers and Members of Dardanelle Parlor No. 66 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret and respect on account of the death of Sister Maggie A. Fahey, respectfully submit the following: Whereas, It has pleased God, in His divine wisdom, to remove from our midst one of our charter members, our beloved sister, Maggie A. Fahey; and whereas, in the death of Sister Fahey, Dardanelle Parlor has lost one of its honored members, this community has lost one who was respected and loved by all who knew her, and whose loss is deeply felt by all, especially those nearest and dearest to her; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That while bowing in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, we do sincerely mourn the loss of Sister Fahey, feeling that the vacancy caused by her death can never be filled; be it further resolved, that Dardanelle Parlor extends to the bereaved relatives its sincere sympathy in their sad affliction; that the charter of this Parlor be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days; that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, that a copy be sent to the relatives of the deceased sister, and a copy to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

A BIT O' FARMING

CONDUCTED BY R. H. TAYLOR, OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PLOWING WITH DYNAMITE.

MANY ERRONEOUS IDEAS ARE ENTERTAINED concerning the use of dynamite in the preparation of land for the planting of trees and other crops. There are two opposing sides, one claiming that dynamite does absolutely no good, the other claiming universal application of dynamiting for tree planting. Both sides voice loudly their contentions. The grower, however, must not be misled by either one. A survey of the situation will show a very large and growing group who take the middle ground between the two, believing that there are places and times when dynamite may be very useful indeed and yet other times and places when it might be very objectionable. It is our desire to point out briefly the value and limitations as viewed by the last group mentioned above.

The claim that dynamite is universally desirable in its application is unfounded. The purpose of dynamite is to break up compacted layers both in the surface and sub-surface soils to promote aeration and drainage. If a soil is permeable to both air and water and drainage is already good, additional opening of the soil by the use of dynamite may permit of excessive aeration and drainage, both resulting in the undue leaching of the valuable food constituents of the soil during the winter season. Sandy soils as a rule, therefore, should not be blasted unless below this type of soil should be an impervious clay layer which would prevent the downward drainage of water through the soil. In this case only a sufficient charge should be used to break the impervious layer itself and the charge should be placed directly in such layer, being careful that it does not extend either above or below it in order to avoid the development of large underground cavities known as "pot-holes." A charge placed directly in the center of the layer to be broken will give most effective action unless it is very thick, in which case it should be placed somewhat below the center but never so as to extend through to the soil below.

Heavy soils or those in which air cannot enter and circulate satisfactorily and in which drainage is poor, may be dynamited to good advantage, provided the result obtained is such as to remedy the difficulties which it is intended to overcome. In alluvial land compacted layers of relatively narrow dimensions may be found underlain with additional looser soil. Under these conditions the breaking up of these hard layers may be accomplished with relative ease and success, with no resulting damage to the soil if properly done.

Where plow-pan has developed due to continuous plowing at uniform depths year after year or where an irrigation hard-pan has formed due to the gradual washing down of the finer particles from the surface soil and there collect at a depth of from eight inches to a foot and a half or two feet, such layers should by all means be broken up either by deep plowing and sub-soiling or by dynamiting. Which method should be used will be determined entirely by the convenience of the operator. If no sub-soilers or deep-soil plows are available then dynamiting would be far better on account of its cheapness.

Where these layers are more than two feet thick or thereabout, it is questionable as to whether blasting would be effective or not. Here much would depend upon the character of the soil immediately above and also the character of the hardened or indurated layer itself. If the layer is of such thickness that it can be thoroughly broken from top to bottom and if the soil above is quite sandy, then the breaking up of the hard layer will permit of the gradual washing down of the sandier soil into the crevices produced by the dynamiting. Under such conditions the beneficial effect may remain permanent. If not, the hardened layer will simply run together again. No dynamiting should be done in a hard layer in the soil unless one can be assured of breaking clear through it sufficiently well to provide adequate drainage of moisture below the dynamited area.

In sedentary soils, as generally found on hill-sides, dynamiting into a compact sub-soil may do far more harm than good. The writer has in mind a man who had a somewhat clayey soil on the side of a hill in which he wished to plant prunes and grapes. Perceiving that drainage was not sufficiently satisfactory as the soil existed, he thought he would improve matters by blasting a deep hole where each tree and vine was to be planted, filling the hole as far as possible with fresh surface soil. After the planting had been made and the trees and vines had grown for a couple of years a wet season came along and the next spring a large proportion of the trees and vines showed serious trouble and many of them died. An investigation showed that there was no pervious layer below through which the moisture might drain, and that the blasted holes had simply acted as bowls which had held a larger amount of water in them than would otherwise had been the case. Orchards immediately adjacent where blasting had not been done survived with no injury whatever due to the drainage of excessive moisture down the slope. The importance of avoiding formation of pockets this way is most important and many failures may be attributed to the lack of a proper appreciation of the effects of blasting.

The time for dynamiting is most important. The use of an explosive in a moist soil, especially if it is of a clayey nature, will simply puddle the clay soil to such an extent as to almost make cement out of it. Under these conditions cracks may be formed but the soil lining the cracks will be puddled to such an extent as to absolutely prohibit the circulation of either moisture or air through the soil. Furthermore the roots grow down through the cracks and are unable to penetrate these hard puddled layers to reach good soil in sufficient quantities to provide adequate food and moisture for the plant. Often these cracks will not close up for many years, if ever, and the roots growing into them simply strike air and dry out.

One of the prime requisites, therefore, in the use of dynamite under all conditions is to be sure that the soil is as dry as possible. Dynamite should never be used in a soil where one can form a clod of the soil by pressing a lump of it between the fingers. The best time to blast ordinarily is in September or October, although if the heavy fall rains hold off sufficiently, it may be done satisfactorily in many cases well into November. Often the first rains will only wet down a few inches or at most a foot and if the blasting is to be done below that level it could be done just as well as earlier provided the moisture has not penetrated through the depth at which the blasting is to be carried on.

There are different grades of dynamite on the market. If it is desired to shatter a genuine rock hard-pan, such as a lime-stone or sand-stone hard-pan, then a high-power dynamite would be best.

For ordinary conditions, however, where simply layers of soil compacted by pressure or washing, a lower-power dynamite is best and for this purpose we generally recommend a 25% dynamite. This strength is a little slower acting and tends to reach to a greater distance and has a little less tendency to puddle if there is any danger of this being done.

The amount of dynamite to use depends upon work to be done. The blind use of dynamite is a serious mistake. When beginning the work one should dig a hole to the bottom of the indurated layers at least so as to know what is below and also to know the actual thickness of the layer. Before blasting the hole should be filled up, however, to a point where it is desired that the charge should be placed. The amount of the charge which will do the best work can only be determined by experiment. For tree planting purposes ordinarily from a half a stick to a stick is sufficient. Where a larger charge than this is required it would appear that the soil was not sufficiently well adapted to make the planting of trees advisable. Dynamite is not a cure-all and a poor soil cannot be made into a good soil by its use. All dynamite is for is to remedy slight difficulties which may exist in an otherwise good soil.

We dare not close without a word of caution in the use of this material. An amateur should never attempt to use it without receiving definite and personal instructions from someone thoroughly capable of instructing in the use of such material. Most powder companies have such men available for this purpose. We recommend a thorough understanding before using. After that one must never become careless.

By the proper use of dynamite a much larger area of soil may be opened up for the use of the plants; soil may be made more receptive of moisture and through the penetration of roots as well as decayed organic material, it may also be made more retentive within the limitations mentioned above.

COLD WEATHER PREPARATION FOR CHICKS.

A stitch in time saves nine. So the saying goes, and it is doubly true with poultry. Poultrymen should take cognizance of the fact that during cold, wet weather fowls that are not warmly housed are most liable to contract contagious diseases.

"Avian diphtheria," commonly known as "roup," is a transmissible fowl disease most prevalent during the winter months, especially on poultry ranches where the birds are not afforded the proper sanitation and housing facilities. "Diphtheria," or "roup," may manifest itself in any of three forms: (1) It may occur as a skin disease, and is usually called "chicken pox;" it is most noticeable on the comb and wattles. (2) The mucous membranes of the respiratory tract only may be involved. (3) There may be a combination of skin and mucous membrane lesions.

There is no specific remedy recognized with which to combat this disease. Diluted antiseptics of various kinds applied to the affected areas seem to give fair results.

Where time will not permit the prolonged individual doctoring of birds with roup infection, the method of submerging the head of the sick fowl into a warm 2% potassium-permanganate solution for twenty to thirty seconds twice daily is an aid to nature in bringing about recovery.

Vaccines are being used to some extent as a preventive measure against this disease and are said by some investigators to give good results, especially in outbreaks where the infection is not extremely virulent.

The best remedy of all is the prevention by proper housing facilities. Now is the time to examine the poultry houses, see that they are properly built or repaired to provide plenty of ventilation and adequate light, in the form of windows, but that draughts are avoided. A draughty henhouse will invite poultry disease as quickly as anything else.

PREPARE FOR NEXT YEAR'S ANIMAL CROP.

It is a commonly recognized fact by all farmers that the purebred sire is of utmost importance in the production of the best offspring. When it comes to the application of that cardinal principle to his own business it is likely to lose its importance in his mind. Often the results to be obtained are considered to be in the dim and distant future, while the additional cost of purchasing the purebred sire must be paid out in the present when there are calls for a thousand and one other things all requiring the expenditure of money.

All agree that purebreds are better than scrubs, in that they are more uniform in characteristics, better bodied for the purpose for which they are intended, more economical in the use of feed, mature more quickly and bring far greater net returns.

Starting from this truth every farmer plans to grade up his herd or flock, using purebred sires as soon as he can afford to do so. Many have begun and have fallen down, due to improper planning in the first place, or to shifting plans beyond the point of either wisdom or safety. A few suggestions therefore, old but forgotten, may help to focus attention to the problem in a constructive way.

Take time to thoroughly investigate all the breeds of the given kind of animal to determine which one is best adapted to the grower's particular conditions. To illustrate: one planning to raise hogs in the interior valleys of California would not select a white breed because of the tenderness of such a skin to the intense rays of the summer sun. Neither would one choose a breed, as a general rule, that was uncommonly produced or unknown in the community where the farm is located. This is particularly true with the beginner who will learn much from his neighbors in the same business, and he will find it much easier to sell his product where a large volume of trading is going on in the commodity he has for sale—in this case a certain breed of hogs. Then decide on the breed most adaptable to the conditions and the one best liked by the farmer who will raise them.

After having begun with one breed do not change over to another. Such a procedure practically means beginning all over again, selling all the old stock and buying new, or else breeding up to the new from the old. Even this latter means practically a new start, for the introduction of foreign blood generally causes a complete break-up of the characteristics of the intermingled breeds and several generations are required to fix the new type in the grade stock.

Become familiar with the strong points and weaknesses of the breed being kept and, by comparisons with neighbors' stock and visits to stock fairs, get a high ideal of what the breed should be thoroughly fixed in mind. Then discard those farthest from the ideal and use those approximating it as closely as possible. Do not discard old and proven males for young unproven ones unless necessary. It is a well-known fact that certain sires are much more effective in transmitting their good characters to their offspring than are others. This may apply to size, shape, sturdiness, vigor, or any number of other characteristics.

In watching closely for perfections or defects in conformation of the body do not overlook the necessity for good sturdy underpinning. In the most highly bred hogs, sheep and cattle types have been developed that were so refined in the legs that they were unable to endure hardship and carry the weight which they attained. This was particularly true of hogs. Now more attention is being given to the pastern joints particularly as that is where they generally gave way first. Strong, sturdy, springy legs and feet are essential for good foraging or for ease in walking to market or shipping point.

After the sire has been selected, it is important that he be given a shed and yard by himself where he can get sufficient exercise to keep him in perfect growing condition. Adequate shelter from storms, draughts and inclement weather is well worth while. Feed him sparingly yet sufficient for all his needs and supply plenty of pure fresh water. Nothing will tend more to keep him in perfect breeding condition.

A REMEDY FOR STICKING DOORS.

Farmhouse doors have a habit of sticking during the damp weather of winter in a way that is often exasperating to say the least. The reason often is that the top and bottom of the door are generally left unfinished. The exposed ends of the vertical pieces of wood in the door where the cut has been across the grain absorb moisture and give it up much more rapidly than those portions where the exposed surface has been cut parallel to the grain. In an effort to have the doors fit snugly without jamming, they are often painted all around before hanging. Then last of all they are hung and then trimmed on the edges till they fit perfectly. The front edge may be painted again but the top and bottom edges, practically never. To prevent this extra rapid absorption the freshly trimmed surfaces should be recoated with either paint or varnish and a sufficient amount used to completely seal the entire exposed portion, especially the rougher portion when it is a cross-grain cut.

BOARD OF GRAND OFFICERS TRANSACTS CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS

SEPTEMBER 8 THE BOARD OF GRAND OFFICERS met at Native Sons' Building, San Francisco, those present including: James F. Hoey, Junior Past Grand President; William I. Traeger, Grand President; William J. Hayes, Grand Second Vice-president; Edward J. Lynch, Grand Third Vice-president; John T. Regan, Grand Secretary; James A. Wilson, Charles L. McEnerney, Hilliard E. Welch, Fletcher A. Cutler, Charles A. Thompson, Grand Trustees. Grand President Traeger presided. Following is a summary of the business transacted:

An 8x12 silk flag was adopted as the uniform flag for decorating graves of deceased members; no other size or quality will be permitted in future.

The badge of the late Past Grand President Charles M. Belshaw, presented by his heirs, was received; ordered that it be placed in Golden Gate Park museum (San Francisco).

The Santa Rosa Hall matter was referred to the Board's next meeting; Grand Trustee McEnerney was given a vote of thanks for his report.

The matter of regalia for orators was laid over until the Board's next meeting.

A final payment of $200 was ordered made on the Pioneer Monument at Donner Lake; the attention of the Donner Monument Committee was ordered directed to the monument's condition, reported to be very poor.

Grand Secretary Regan was directed to demand the assets of Healdsburg Parlor No. 68, pending action of the 1922 Grand Parlor.

A letter was received from the American consul at Guadalajara, Mexico, seeking financial relief for Alexander Forbes, a native of California; the consul was ordered advised that Forbes not being a member of the Order no relief could be given him.

Grand Secretary Regan was directed to mail about November 1 to every Subordinate Parlor a copy of a letter submitted by the American Red Cross.

Institution of a new Parlor at Ukiah was announced; ordered that it be given the number 71, the number of a former Parlor there.

Ordered that in future (including Ukiah 71) every Parlor instituted be given paraphernalia and stationery for use in the Parlor to the amount of $150.

Ordered that a check for $2,000 be forwarded the Native Sons' Hall Association of Sacramento as final payment of the Grand Parlor's $10,000 investment therein.

Each Subordinate Parlor is to be requested to replace obsolete, soiled or torn flags and other paraphernalia with new supplies.

Spread the N. S. Gospel.

Unless there is a complete reversal in present conditions, the close of the term of Grand President William I. Traeger will show a phenomenal increase in membership. Enthusiasm for the Order is at its height, results in the membership drives under way are most gratifying, and Parlors which long have been at a standstill state have been admonished and

BE A BOOSTER

FRED SCHULZE.

(Bay View 238, N.S.G.W.)

If you think your lodge the best,

Tell 'em so.

If you'd have it lead the rest,

Help it grow.

When there's anything to do,

Let the others count on you;

You'll feel good when 'tis through,

Don't you know.

If you're used to giving knocks,

Change your style.

Throw bouquets instead of rocks

For a while.

Let the other members roast;

Shun them as you would a ghost;

Meet their banter with a boast

And a smile.

When a member from afar

Comes along,

Tell him who and what you are—

Make it strong.

Never flatter, never bluff;

Tell the truth, that's enough.

BE A BOOSTER—

That's the stuff.

Oakland, California.

encouraged to push ahead numerically. Several new Parlors, too, are in the making; one, it is reported, will shortly be ready for institution at San Bruno, and others will follow at Burlingame and South City. Bishop, Inyo County, wants a Parlor, as do several places in the southern part of the state.

There is every reason why every native son of California should affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. It is laboring unselfishly for the state's best interests, and places loyalty to country and state above all else. All that is necessary, to win the membership support of eligibles loyal to California, is to impress them with the importance of the things the Order is DOING for the benefit of All California, and they will be glad to affiliate with such an organization.—C.M.H.

New Parlor Instituted.

Ukiah—September 5 Ukiah 71 was re-instituted in this Mendocino County city with forty-two charter members; fifty-one candidates had signed the charter petition and nine were later initiated. A great deal of the credit for the Parlor's re-institution is due the members of Alder Glen 200 (Fort Bragg), E. A. Zimmerman of Broderick 117 (Point Arena), Grand Organizer James P. Cronin of Oakland and A. D. Lobree of Castro 232 (San Francisco). It is confidently predicted that Ukiah will grow to be one of the strongest links in the chain of Parlors; its members are enthusiastic, and included in their number are many of the city's professional and business men.

The instituting officers included: Leonard Stone (Alder Glen 200), P.G.P.; Charles L. McEnerney (James Lick 242), G.P.; A. D. Lobree (Castro 232), G.V.P.; John T. Regan (South San Francisco 157), G.S.; Fred H. Nickelson (South San Francisco 157), G.T.; James T. Cronin (Fruitvale 252), G.M.; John S. Ramsay (Castro 232), G.L.S.; Harvey Reynolds (Alder Glen 200), G.O.S.; Floyd Lobree and Leo Wilson (both Castro 232), G.Trs. The initiatory team included: Wm. Agnew (Alder Glen 200), Jr.P.P.; Harvey Reynolds (Alder Glen 200), P.; R. R. Walsh (Alder Glen 200), IV.P.; E. A. Zimmerman (Broderick 117), 2V.P.; Leonard Stone (Alder Glen 200), 3V.P.; John T. Regan (South San Francisco 157), R.S.; A. D. Lobree (Castro 232), F.S.; L. Carlson (Alder Glen 200), M.; Fred Aulin (Alder Glen 200), I.S. The following officers were installed by D.D.G.P. H. Scheper of Fort Bragg: William Davis, P.; M. H. Iverson, Jr.P.P.; Lilburu Gibson, IV.P.; C. H. Mortensen, 2V.P.; L. A. Waugh, 3V.P.; R. Andrews, R.S.; James Elder, F.S.; L. Scott, T.; A. E. Gustafson, M.; Guy Redwine, Wm. Bromley, W. D. Held, Trs.; W. Sandelin, I.S.; Beverly Braddus, O.S.

Following the Parlor's institution a banquet was served at which Grand Trustee C. L. McEnerney was toastmaster, and the speakers included Leonard Stone, Grand Outside Sentinel Harvey Reynolds, President William Davis, Junior Past President M. H. Iverson and E. A. Zimmerman. Large delegations were in attendance from Alder Glen 200 (Fort Bragg), Broderick 117 (Point Arena), South

San Francisco 157 (San Francisco) and Castro 232 (San Francisco) Parlors.

Membership Drive Given Send-off.

Pleasanton—A large crowd of Native Sons and Native Daughters of Alameda County and grand officers of both Orders visited this place September 18 to start a campaign to increase the membership of Pleasanton 244. Twenty-four candidates were signed up, and it is believed a class of at least fifty will be ready for initiation at a big affair October 13.

There was an open meeting, to which all citizens of the community had been invited, at which Thomas H. Silver, secretary Pleasanton Parlor, presided. The school children sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "I Love You, California," and appropriate addresses were made by Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick of the Native Daughters, and Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams, Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes, Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, Grand Organizer James P. Cronin and Donald McClure (Athens 195) of the Native Sons. Pleasanton Parlor served lunch to the visitors at the meeting's close.

For Grand Parlor Entertainment.

Oakland—An outing was held at Pinhurst September 25 by the seventeen Native Son and fourteen Native Daughter Parlors of Alameda County, being one of several events to raise funds with which to entertain the Grand Parlor N.S.G.W. which meets here in April. E. F. Garrison (Athens 195) was chairman of the general committee.

Chairmen of the several sub-committees included: Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland (N.S. reception), Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick (N.D. reception), Grand Second Vice-president William J. Hayes (executive), Grand Organizer James P. Cronin (publicity), Ezra Decoto (sports), Judge L. S. Church (mock court), R. B. Felton (music), Wm. Dunlap (advertising), C. F. Rolls (decorating), C. W. Snook (auditing), E. T. Planer (N.S. boosters), Sallie Rutherford (N.D. boosters), James J. Dignan (advisory), C. F. Kinsey (transportation), W. I. Forrest (N.S. concessions), Maud Wagner (N.D. concessions), Historiographer Frank C. Merritt (dancing).

Stirs 'Em Up.

Lower Lake—Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney paid a visit to Lower Lake 159 September 1, and the result that usually comes from a visit from him followed—those in attendance agreed to go out and round up a big class of candidates for initiation at an early date.

Get-Together Meet.

Mountain View—Santa Clara County members in large numbers were guests of Mountain View 215 at a get-together meeting September 23, when a large class of candidates were initiated. The new ritual was exemplified by a team from the San Francisco Past Presidents' Association. Mountain View was assisted by the following committees from the other Parlors of the county: San Jose 22—Charles Hurd, James E. Payne, Walter Wagner. Santa Clara 100—Grand Trustee Charles A. Thompson, A. J. Roll, C. E. Newton. Observatory 177—

Several Good Talks.

Oakland—Bay View 238 was officially visited August 31 by Grand Third Vice-president Edward J. Lynch, who spoke on "The Order and Its Work." Other visitors included Grand Second Vice-president Hayes, who spoke on "California History;" Grand First Vice-president Harry G. Williams; E. F. Garrison (Athens 195), who spoke on "The 1922 Grand Parlor;" D.D.G.Ps. Forrest, Barnett and Wilson; Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, who presented "Reasons Why Californians Cannot Afford to Remain Outside Our Ranks." Following the meeting there was an open session attended by many eligibles. October 5, Grand Trustee McEnerney will address the Parlor on "The Spirit of '49."

Ready for Work.

Palo Alto—Members of Palo Alto 216 have returned from their vacations full of "pep" for a lively winter season. E. A. Hettinger and George W. Tinney have been appointed captains in a membership drive which promises splendid results. Grand Organizer Andrew Mockler, who has the reputation here of being the best organizer in fraternal circles who visits the Peninsula district, has been looking over the field and will return later. The committee that has in charge the matter of building a hall reports much encouragement.

The Parlor is looking forward to an early dedication of a bronze tablet to mark Palo Alto's famous big tree; Father Gleason, chairman of the committee, is still gathering data. The Parlor's historian is collecting data relative to Searsville, which once had a population of about 1,000 but now is no more. Quite a number of the members celebrated Admission Day with the San Mateo County Parlor at Halfmoon Bay and report a "dandy" time.

Pears and Peaches Displayed.

Courtland—Courtland 106 joined the Sacramento and San Joaquin Counties Parlor in celebrating the state's birthday at Stockton. A truck, entered in the parade, was decorated to portray the chief product of this section—Bartlett pears. Seated in the truck were a dozen prizes from Courtland, all peaches and members of Victory 216 N.D.G.W. The Parlor joined with the other Sacramento County Parlor in maintaining "open house."

President Joseph Berry, upon his return from an outing in Modoc County, brought home from the lava beds a fine set of three-pointed horns. The Parlor September 3 had the pleasure of re-initiating Brother Desmond, long a resident of San Francisco, but who expressed a desire to renew and maintain his membership in Courtland. Would that there were more like him!

A "Night in Italy."

Oakland—Piedmont 120 had its annual roundup September 8, a "Night in Italy," consisting of Italian songs, music and stories, and ending with an Italian dinner, being featured. The committee in charge was: Louis J. Pierotti (chairman), Dr. Jas. F. White, Nicholas J. Meiert, Harold E. Flood, Carl Delen, August J. Baicalupi, John Reali, William Magliano, William Ghirardelli, Antonio Ratto.

250 Members Its Goal.

San Diego—With 250 members by 1922 as the goal, San Diego 108, headed by President Cottardo C. Ghio Jr., has under way a membership drive. September 6 a class of fifteen candidates were initiated. In a message to the members, the president said: "San Diego is making great strides and is marching to the front, the place that is rightfully hers. Was not our fair city the beginning of California's history and civilization? Then let us acclaim this honor and maintain our position in the front ranks. . . . Let's go, brothers! Keep up the good work—slowly, but surely, our lines are getting longer and our bonds more inseparable."

Entertains Daughters.

Georgetown—Georgetown 91 entertained the members of El Dorado 186 N.D.G.W. September 9 at a progressive whist party. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Claes, Ben Hotchkiss and Orin Murdock. During the evening Mrs. Murdock and Miss Buchler favored with vocal and instrumental selections.

May Present Flags to Schools.

Richmond—Grand Trustee James A. Wilson of ficially visited Richmond 217 August 24. Other officials in attendance included: Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney, Grand Organizer James P. Cronin, and D.D.G.Ps. Sousa, Barnett, Crosby, W. K. Smith, Berry. The Parlor has under considera-

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

had to serve the winners with watermelon, which was down on the refreshment bill of fare. The committee in charge of the affair was Mrs. Delp, Mrs. Frierson, Miss Jessie, Grand Trustee Amy McAvoy.

Grand President Well Received.

Red Bluff—September 6 Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick of Oakland officially visited Berendos 23, and by her gracious and charming manner endeared herself to all. She spoke entertainingly of the Order's many good works. In the Parlor's behalf P.G.P. Olive Bedford-Matlock presented her with a set of cut-glass candlesticks. One candidate was initiated, and refreshments were served at the meeting's close. During the afternoon Dr. Derrick was the guest of Nellie Schafer, and was taken for an auto tour in and about Red Bluff.

The Parlor had an auto in the recent American Legion fete day parade; it was beautifully decorated, and on the radiator was a teddy bear holding a State (Bear) Flag. In the car rode the Misses Ada Reno, Florence Hazelton, Madeline Pine, Viola Moller and Elaine White of Berendos Parlor and Miss Alice Modglin of Hiawatha 140 (Redding).

Benefit Dance Decided Success.

Hollister—Socially and financially, the Admission Day ball given under the auspices of Copa de Oro 105 and Fremont 44 N.S.G.W. was a decided success. The hall was given with the two-fold purpose in view of celebrating the birthday of California and of the Native Sons and Native Daughters being the first organizations to arrange a benefit for the building fund of the American Legion Memorial. Under the able direction of Hilda Thompson, active marshal of the Native Daughters, Berberich pavilion was effectively decorated with greenery and streamers of American flags; in the center of the hall was grouped Old Glory, the banners of the American Legion, and the State (Bear) Flag.

During the grand march, led by Elsie Poago, president Copa de Oro, and Hugh Garner of Fremont, appropriate favors of tiny silk Bear flags were distributed to the women and tiny silk American flags to the men, by Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs and Dr. J. M. O'Donnell, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of Fremont Parlor. Pleasing music was furnished by a jazz orchestra.

Has Poppy Dance.

Oakland—A poppy dance was given by Bahia Vista 167 September 16, the hall being decorated to resemble a field of golden poppies. The committee in charge was composed of the following seven pairs of sisters, all members of the Parlor: Anna and G. Quinn, Anna and R. Klier, C. and E. Storman, H. and R. Carroll, M. Conour-Wright and A. Conour, G. Garthorne-Mathewson and M. Garthorne, L. Frances-McDougall and R. Frances-Simas. These "girls" met in one of their homes and made the thousands of poppies for the decorations.

August 31 the Parlor featured an "Italian night" when a big "feed" was spread, and a program was presented.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Cora Wallace (president Fresno 187) of Fresno was a visitor last month to San Diego.

Miss Myrtle Hatman (past president Dolores 169) of San Francisco was wedded to William Nelson Ross September 6; after a honeymoon tour of the southern part of the state they will reside in San Francisco.

Mrs. Alpha Harper and daughter Mrs. Fay (both Long Beach 154) of Long Beach are visiting in Eastern cities.

tion the presentation of American and State (Bear) Flags to the public schools. Several joint socials with Richmond 147 N.D.G.W. are planned for the winter months.

Tells of Order's Work.

Bieber—Grand Trustee Arthur M. Dean of Redding officially visited Big Valley 21 September 7 and was greeted by a goodly attendance. The visitor spoke on the work of the Order, and his remarks were greatly enjoyed and will be profited by. Light refreshments were served.

In Memory of Departed Member.

Sacramento—From Mrs. Belle Post-Costigan, a sister of the late Judge Charles N. Post, Sacramento 3, of which he was long an honored member, has received a share of stock in the Native Sons' Hall Association of Sacramento with the following letter:

"It gives me great pleasure to send to you for the benefit of Parlor No. 3, a certificate for one share of stock in Native Sons' Hall that belonged to my dear brother, the late C. N. Post. I have always wanted it to revert to the Parlor that he was so deeply interested in. I will never forget the many kindly acts of loving consideration during his last illness. While the gift is small, it carries a world of loving thoughts to his memory. Every possible good wish to the Parlor."

Autumn Dansant.

Oakland—Brooklyn 151 gave an autumn dansant September 23 at which the decorations, depicting the autumnal period, were unique. The committee in charge consisted of William J. Dieves, B. H. Dowd, R. T. Anstin, R. F. Sainsat, F. D. Rupert, Harry Leas, M. D. Cooney, Roy De Blois.

Has Two-Fold Celebration.

Berkeley—The annual banquet of Berkeley 210 was held September 20. It has been the custom in years past to hold this banquet just prior to the Admission Day celebration; this year, however, there being no central point designated for the annual celebration, it was voted to postpone the annual banquet until a suitable date falling between Admission Day and the twenty-first anniversary of Berkeley Parlor, the latter being October 1. The anniversary commemoration has in years past consisted of a varied program of entertainment. This feature was not overlooked, but added to the banquet festivities. The results were most gratifying, for more than 150 members of Berkeley Parlor and about twenty guests filed into the banquet-room to enjoy an evening's entertainment unsurpassed in the history of the Parlor.

Another additional feature was the serving of the dinner by twenty pretty members of Bear Flag 151 N.D.G.W. These girls, dressed in smart frocks and wearing pretty aprons, added very materially to the artistic temperament of the evening. The banquet room was decorated with streamers of blue and gold, the chandeliers covered with hand-painted lanterns of gorgeous tints, and the table, bearing vases of dahlias from Brother Fraser's garden of 257 varieties, was a show in itself.

Grand Second Vice-president Wm. J. Hayes, a member of Berkeley Parlor, acted as toastmaster. Following the reading of telegrams expressing the regrets of Grand President Wm. I. Traeger and Past Grand President H. K. McNabb at their inability to be present and forwarding their best wishes for the success of the evening, the toastmaster called upon the following for short addresses: Judge William H. Waste, President J. Geo. Moore, Philip M. Carey and Postmaster R. A. Berry of Berkeley Parlor, Sheriff Frank Barnett (Piedmont 120), Ed. Plauer (Athens 195) and Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney. The entertainment features were carried out by J. Ashton Fliin, assisted by Harry G. Johnston, Emmett Bertheand, Wm. T. Brennan, Francis Y. Kane. These consisted of solos, duets, specialty dances, and comic songs and recitations.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Grand Marshal L. H. Reuter and wife have returned to their Merced home after an auto tour of the southern part of the state; Admission Day was spent in San Diego.

Past Grand President James F. Hoey addressed the Rotary Club of Richmond on "California" September 2.

Past Grand President Frank L. Coumbs delivered an address on the growth and development of the Napa Valley at the opening of the Napa County Fair at Napa City September 15.

Charles O. Austin (Grizzly Bear 239) of Long Beach was a recent visitor to Chicago, where he attended a telephone convention.

Albert O. Lingren (Grizzly Bear 239) of Long Beach was in New York last month attending the plumbers' convention.

Rev. Father Gleason (Palo Alto 216) of Palo Alto was a visitor last month to San Diego.

Grand Trustee Charles L. McEnerney of San Francisco delivered the Admission Day oration at San Bruno, San Mateo County, taking for his subject "The Spirit of '49."

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER.

FASHIONS FOR LITTLE FOLKS THESE days follow much the same lines as those designed for the grown-up. Or it may be that the clothes for the younger element are merely amplified for the wardrobe of their seniors. At any rate, there is the use of identical fabrics, trimmings and colors, with greater emphasis, perhaps, on high colors for the former.

Blue is a color always modish in the realm of the youth. Aside from navy, there is a fancy for the harding blue, for dutch blue, and for the airy blue which has, of course, a lot of gray in its composition. Gray itself is evidenced in coats of cloth as well as those of velvet.

Velvet, by the way, is a prime favorite, but for the dress-up garment only. For practical purposes there are models of velveteen trimmed with braid, plush, or fur, the latter, usually, for the high collar.

Silk stitching is a simple and effective trimming on many of the cloth coats, and on little dresses as well. The latter are liked in fine serges, jersey coats, english flannel and broadcloth, shaped and trimmed according to the size of the prospective wearer and the general fashion of the garment.

There is still a vogue for guimpe effects, especially when the school age is under consideration. The guimpes are easily laundered, and in this way the girl may always appear clean and fresh. The guimpes, too, may be varied, those of cotton, silk or linen being approved but always rather simply contrived.

Plaited skirts of a separate variety are to be continued in the autumn. This is good news for the school girl, to whom they are becoming. The younger girl will wear her plaited skirt over matching bloomers. The bloomer dress, by the way, has become something of an institution with the little girl.

Many mothers like to dress their children in washable dresses the year around. There is good sense in this, when one considers that steam-heated houses and schools are uncomfortable to the wool-clad pupil. The top coat of cloth or of fur is sufficient for extra covering when going out of doors.

So, the reign of gingham, linen, chambray, percales and chintzes is no longer confined to a brief three or four months; it flourishes right through the year, sharing honors with the new and pretty ebalis.

Sashes are everywhere apparent. This means that a rather commonplace dress may be transformed by the application of a handsome piece of ribbon, the half-breadth of silk, or the twisted and braided strands of silk cord, chenille or narrow braid into girdle semblance. The effect is sure to be heightened when there is no trimming on the frock; then, the beauty of the girdle makes the line and detail of the frock itself.

Jade green has seemed so universally popular that I am sure a dinner frock of that color, in canton crepe, would please any feminine eye. A loose-fitting garment, after classic lines, has side panels that seem to be part of the bodice. The entire front portion of the skirt is beautifully adorned with square jade cabochons.

For many months the designers have been working to make popular the high neck; and by "high neck" is meant the collar really covering the throat to the extent of requiring honed support. They have succeeded, to some extent, with those who are willing to take up the new and the different. The type is becoming to many—to those who dress smartly, rather than to those who go in for soft, comfortable effects.

The tailored type of dresser will be quite in her element when she elects to wear the new fall blouse. Many of the sleeves, for example, have the conservative bell or wing flare. In certain of the models, the wide wrist is terminated in a square effect, and when the arms hang at the sides the hands are completely covered; the fact that only filmy materials are used for sleeves saves the blouse from the effect of ungainliness.

There are very strong indications that the autumn and winter seasons will see a revival of the tailored suits. There are, generally speaking, three silhouettes represented by the tailored suits shown for the coming season, but there is an infinite variety achieved by the length of the coats and the great diversity of detail in trimming.

The severely tailored coat vies with the more formal type of suit with a softly bloused coat. Obviously of peasant inspiration and often discreetly embroidered with chain stitch, the straight box coat is still in great favor. It is usually wrist length and worn by slender women or young girls, being governed entirely by what is becoming to the figure of the individual woman.

Skirts have added many inches. The suits should be no less than eight inches from the ground, in order to be smart.

The materials offered for suits are not entirely new to us. The majority are pile fabrics, such as duvetine and several varieties of velour.

Velvet, it is rumored, is returning to favor for afternoon two-piece dresses and coat costumes, while for the severe tailored type there are a great many tweeds shown, some plain in coloring and others in plaids or herring bone weaves. Grays, browns, blues and tans are most frequently seen in the tweed fabrics. Brown, black and navy blue, and all the varying shades of tans and grays, are represented in the pile fabrics.

Many suits are fur trimmed; some most elaborately, others with only the collar and cuffs of fur. The most popular furs are squirrel in gray or brown, beaver and nutria, fox, ermine in black, tan, gray, or even white, and astrakhan.

No striking changes appear in the hats of autumn, but there are numerous changes in the manner of wearing both the large and the small hats, each of which now tends to an exaggeration of its own type. Some of the small hats naturally gain in importance as the season of stormy weather approaches.

Hats of all shapes are worn, of course, but there are only a few shapes which please the woman who has true distinction. The small hat, worn well down on the head, always finds favor with smartly dressed women.

Aside from the traditional plume, hats of felt or silk are sometimes elaborated with such work as we usually associate with thin stuffs. Almost anything, in fact, is permitted, provided it is pretty, distinctive, unexpected and, of course, becoming.

Wide brims, with short hacks and drooping fronts, are among the most charming of the youthful models. Sometimes the velvet is arranged in a loose manner over the brim, giving a becoming softness. Large poke effects, of black velvet or panne velvet with high crowns, are picturesque and new.

Fur appears on many of the winter models, often combined with other materials. In silk, one sees moire, grosgrain, and the heaviest quality of black satin. Some surprises may be brought out later.

Trimmiings are, perhaps, more novel, though ostrich apparently leads in favor. Bright metal is a new note. Pointed nail-heads of polished steel and buckles in bright metal have also made their appearance on hats.

A black velvet hat is trimmed with colored velvet flowers, applied perfectly flat to the crown and down one side of the brim. They seem to lie as flat as possible. Fruits are somewhat more in favor, such as satin or velvet grapes.

No matter what its shape, when a hat is made of velvet its color is apt to be black or one of the new shades of fuchsia. Although the tailored hats are small, those for afternoon and evening are doing things on a large scale.

County. Therefore, you should be patriotic, be ever loyal to your country and uphold your country's laws; never waver in your fidelity to your country's flag, that emblem of Liberty and Union—the Red, White and Blue. Be broadminded, be active, be generous, be progressive—line up in the ranks and keep time and step in America's grand march of progress. Be promoters—aid, assist and encourage every private or public enterprise that will be for the benefit of your communities, your county and your state. Keep Plumas County to the front; it is your home, and soon you will be in charge. You can and you will do so, if each one will act well his part; for remember, 'tis there all the honor lies."

At noon a barbecue was served, Joseph Groer being in charge. This was followed by a baseball game and various other sports. At night there was a grand ball. The chairmen of the various committees were: Alvin S. Hatch (arrangements), Dr. W. A. Brooko (program), Charles O'Brien (publicity), Charles H. Smith (ways and means).

LOS ANGELES.

Ramona Hall was filled to overflowing by the members, families and friends of the local Native Son and Native Daughter Parlor. Henry G. Bodkin, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W., presided, and stated the purpose of the gathering. After an exceptionally good program of music and dance numbers, short addresses were delivered by Judge Robert M. Clark (Cabrillo 114 N.S.G.W.) and Isadore B. Dockweiler (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.). Both speakers, in the course of their remarks, called attention to the Jap menace and called upon their hearers to be always active in their efforts to keep California White. Dancing was then in order until midnight.

The afternoon of the 10th several auto loads of Natives went to the beach homes of John T. Newell and Captain J. D. Hunter (both Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) at the gates of the Malibu. There was no formal program. Lunches were spread along the beach, and the time was spent in sightseeing, hiking and swimming. The ride along the beach was particularly enjoyed.

LONG BEACH.

A delicious lunch was served in Bixby Park by Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W., which had invited the Pioneers, and all Native Sons and Native Daughters. After the feast there was a short, but excellent program, which was followed by races for the "kids." Mrs. Edgar McFadyen, secretary Long Beach Parlor, presided, and announced that, with the assistance of Grizzly Bear Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W., Admission Day will be regularly observed in future. "This is our day," she said, "and its observance should be as complete a success as is the annual reunion of all the other state societies." At the program's conclusion she read the Admission Day proclamation of Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Grand President N.D.G.W. Cecelia Koding was warmly applauded for a violin solo, and W. E. Gahreth so delighted with a vocal number that he was forced to respond to many encores.

Joseph A. Adair (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) of Los Angeles delivered the oration, in the course of which he gave an interesting summary of California history. "Gathered here to honor the Pioneers on the seventy-first anniversary of this state's independence," he said, "we pause to consider the discovery of California by Cortez, the Spanish claim, and the establishing of the chain of twenty-one missions from San Diego on the south to Sonoma on the north." He told of the taking possession of California, in the name of the United States, by Commodore Sloat at Monterey in 1846, and reviewed the wonderful development of the state.

"We must contrast the California of those days with the California of today," he continued. "Then the same mountains looked down on the same valleys and the same ocean bathed the coast, but there were no great cities, no sea on which a wealth of commerce moved, none of the beauty we have today. All was barren. Antelopes and grizzly bears roamed the plains. There were no railroads. Indians of a low scale of civilization who lived in wigwams and were utterly without ambition inhabited the state, and all of this vast land was uncultivated."

Committees in charge of the celebration included: Lunch—Rosa Ford, Mary Brittain, Lois McDougal, Mary Rothermal. Publicity—Carrie E. Lenhouse, Emily Tower, Kate McFadyen. Sports—Lottie Wharton, Lenora Dodd, Stella Campbell. Reception—Ellen Rogers, Mrs. George Curtis, Mrs. Frank Elder.

Behavior is a mirror in which every one shows his image.—Goethe.

NOTHING CAN STOP LOS ANGELES' GROWTH

INDICATIONS ARE THAT ALL LOCAL BUSINESS records will be shattered during the approaching "winter" season. After a careful survey, the Automobile Club of Southern California makes the prediction that fall auto travel will be the heaviest ever known, and the railroads report an excess in bookings. In fact, the winter tourist rush for Los Angeles has already commenced, considerably earlier than heretofore. But the tourist barometer is by no means the only one that gives favorable indications.

Building operations were never before so extensive, and there is no prospect of a let-up. As a matter of fact, the permits for the first three weeks of September reached a valuation of $5,400,000. For August the permits had a value of $7,015,861, bringing the total for the year to $46,786,486; for the first eight months of 1920 they amounted to $36,289,001.

Bank clearings for August amounted to $329,517,000 this year; last year they were $309,953,000. For the first eight months of 1921 they reached the record figure of $2,725,042,042. This is $168,154,351 greater than for the first eight months of 1920, when the total was $2,556,887,691. Los Angeles, as a matter of fact, is one of the very few cities which so far this year has registered, every month, a substantial increase in both bank clearings and building permits.

Because of the splendid showing made during the much-talked-of "depression" elsewhere, Los Angeles has been dubbed by banking and business reports as the country's one "white spot." There is nothing to warrant fear on the part of anyone that conditions will change for the worse during the next few months, if at all. Los Angeles has "made good;" it has been built on a firm business foundation, its citizens are of an optimistic rather than a pessimistic nature, and there is nothing short of a widespread calamity that can possibly stop its continued progress along all lines.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS MERGE.

With the merging of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, the Guaranty Bank and the Long Beach Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles now has an institution capable of caring for the largest financial transactions incident to the city's remarkable growth. The new organization, which will be known as the Security Trust and Savings Bank, has deposits in excess of $137,000,000 and resources of over $148,000,000. The main office will be in the Security building at Fifth and Spring, and the merged institutions will be continued as branches.

By transaction consummated last month, the Bank of Santa Maria, the strongest financial institution and one of the oldest in northern Santa Barbara County, became closely affiliated with the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, of which banks Henry M. Robinson is president. These banks already constitute one of the strongest financial interests in the Pacific Southwest, having aggregate resources of more than $130,000,000, and this transaction gives to the Santa Maria institution the financial support of the Robinson banks. The First Securities Company, a subsidiary of the First National, has taken over the business of the Baer-Brown-Parsons Company, investment bankers. About October 1 the Securities company will take over the business of the bond departments of both the First National and Los Angeles Trust and Savings.

CABRILLO DAY CELEBRATION.

Cabrillo Discovery Day will be celebrated at the harbor October 14, 15 and 16. The program includes an historical pageant to be produced by the students of San Pedro high school, yacht, speed-boat and airplane races, baseball and football games, etc. Men of the Pacific fleet will participate in the festivities.

MASS MEETING CALLED.

October 11, 8 p.m., at the First Congregational Church, Ninth and Hope streets, there will be a mass meeting in support of the Towner-Sterling bill, now before Congress, that has to do with public-school education. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Committee of Education of the Scottish Rite.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE LAUNCHED.

Organizer James P. Cronin, who has come down from Oakland, where he has met with wonderful success, to "put it over." A splendid program of boxing bouts and vaudeville numbers was presented by "Bill" Coffey, and refreshments were served.

From the great register, a list of the thousands of eligibles has been obtained; the names have been pre-announced, and if results are as anticipated, not less than 1,000 new members will be added to the rolls of the local Parlor by the first of the year. The drive will not stop there, but will be continued until the April Grand Parlor meeting. By that time an additional 1,000 should be annexed, and Grand President "Bill" Traeger can go to the Oakland meeting with an unsurpassed record, and the Parlor, with augmented forces, will be in position to carry on more effectively the Order's work. No one man can make a success of this drive, elaborate plans for which have been made at no little expense. The need of a little of the time of all members is vital to complete success, and if it is forthcoming there can be no doubt as to the result. Much depends upon this campaign. Every member should enlist in the start and be active until the finish. We've had a lot of talk about a systematic membership drive; well, it's here. Let's all go, and go strong!—C.M.H.

HAS SEVERAL NEW FEATURES.

Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W. wound up September with a class initiation the 29th. Another of the enjoyable week-end parties was held September 17 and 18 at the Malibu homes of John T. Newell and Captain J. D. Hunter, and was well attended.

During the coming months initiation will be held every second Thursday and a "show" will be presented every last Thursday. A ritual team is about ready for a busy season, and a committee which has been working on a "side degree" promises to have it going at an early date. The Good of the Order Committee is working out a big surprise feature which will be sprung soon.

RAMONA TO HAVE DANCE.

Ramona 109 N.S.G.W. will give the first of a series of dances, for members and their women friends, at Ramona Hall October 7. The following committees will be in charge: Floor—Louis P. Rusill (chairman), J. Paul Kiefer, Ernest R. Orfila, Lon S. McCoy, Irving Baxter. Reception—Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger (chairman), Edwin A. Meserve, Isadore B. Dockweiler, William H. Hunsaker, Grand President William I. Traeger, President Julius M. Plath.

During September eleven candidates were initiated, and several additional emblematic rings were given past presidents. Due to the resignation of Third Vice-president John Dockweiler, an election to fill vacancies in the lower offices resulted in the selection of the following: E. R. Orfila, third vice-president; C. O. Brittain, marshal; A. G. Rivera, inside sentinel; C. M. Eastin, outside sentinel; they were installed September 23 by D.D.G.P. Walter Baskerville.

BUSY MONTH AHEAD.

Corona 196 N.S.G.W. will start October with a supper the 3d at a local cafe. There will be a program of short addresses over which Grand Trustee Henry G. Bodkin will preside. The following Monday, the 10th, there will be an open meeting at the regular meeting-place, Ramona Hall, when a vaudeville program will be presented. A class initiation is billed for the 17th, when several candidates-in-waiting will become affiliated.

PERSONAL MENTION.

John J. Craig (Los Angeles 45 N.S.G.W.) is back from a vacation trip through the East and Canada. Grove T. Vail and Albert B. Conrad (both Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) have been appointed police court clerks.

David E. Lee (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) after a long residence in San Diego has returned here to reside.

Mrs. Grace T. Haven (Los Angeles 124 N.D.G.W.) and husband have returned from Oakland to permanently reside here.

John F. Dockweiler (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) has departed for Harvard University to complete his education in the law.

Miss Grace S. Stoerner (Los Angeles 124 N.D.G.W.), secretary State Senate, was a visitor last month to Lake Tahoe.

Anthony Schwann (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) has acquired an interest in the La Abilida Cigar Co. and is in charge of the sales of "La Abilida."

William K. Young (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.) was wedded September 7 to Miss Mary Gertrude Dockweiler, daughter of Isadore B. Dockweiler (Ramona 109 N.S.G.W.). A honeymoon through the Canadian Rockies was enjoyed.

FRENCH INTEREST IN CALIFORNIA

a distinct country from Mexico, and has nothing in common with it except that the present inhabitants are of the same family; it is therefore to be apprehended that on any cause of quarrel between the two countries, it will be apt to separate itself from the parent state. [This actually happened but one year after the above was written, for on November 7, 1836, at Monterey, California declared itself independent.] This, from its distinct situation, and the difficulty of conveying troops from Mexico, would be easily effected; although the present population is inadequate to form permanently an independent nation, yet the fashion of splitting countries into small independent portions has become so prevalent in the late Spanish possessions, that an attempt to realize such a project may not be so improbable as it should now seem. . . . Any foreign power if disposed to take possession of California could easily do so; but the happy state of peace which reigns at present in the world, and the just principles which the great powers in Europe have adopted of not interfering with the possessions of others, put any fear of that kind out of the question. The settlement of the Russians, though within Mexican territory, has conducted itself so quietly that no attempt has been made to disturb it, although suspicious have been entertained that at some future day the whole of Upper California will fall into their hands. . . . The British fear the Russians, but danger does not lie there; the United States is the one to be feared. The North American tide of population must roll on southward, and overwhelm, not only California, but other more important states. This latter event, however, is in the womb of time, but the invasion of California by American settlers is daily talked of." This writer suggests the transfer of California to Great Britain by Mexico in return for the cancellation of debts. He says that Mexico should lay aside the vanity of retaining large possessions, for, as a matter of fact, the cession of disjointed California would be an advantage. In no case could its retention ever be profitable to Mexico.

France was not unaware of the vulnerability of California, as her agents kept her well informed, but her position forced her to play a discrete role. Not being powerful enough to act herself, France remained constantly on the alert, condemning acts favorable to other nations, and paving the way for an acquisition of her own should a favorable opportunity arise. This is to be seen in all the principal incidents of California history from the revolt of 1836 down to the admission into the Union. France strove to cultivate the good-will of the Californians and in this seemed to be quite successful, her agents being most enthusiastically received, and her subjects being treated as natives rather than as foreigners. For example, at one time when other foreigners were being expelled, the "rancheros," passing before the houses of the French, shouted "No foreigners here, these people are French," reserving the name "foreigner" for the English and Americans. This popularity was confined not only to the Californians, as it was a favorite threat of Captain Sutter, founder of the colony of New Helvetia on the Sacramento River, that he would hoist the French flag and call in French protection.

In 1836, when Juan Bautista Alvarado, aided by Americans under Isaac Graham, overturned the Government of Gutierrez and they attempted to persuade the Californians to declare themselves independent of Mexico and to seek entrance into the Union, the French element, headed by Captain M. Olivier de Leyseguies, was prominent in dissuading the insurgents from such a course. As a result, California became a state in the Mexican confederation. When Alvarado and Vallejo were recognized as governor and commandante-general, respectively, by the Mexican government after this incident, a French agent condemned this confirmation strongly, saying that it was an act of inconceivable cowardice as they had driven out two legitimate governors appointed by the central government and, worse yet, had wished to turn California over to a foreign nation.

In May 1840 the "Danaide," commanded by M. de Rosamel, entered Monterey Bay to look after French interests in connection with an affair in which a number of Americans and English, headed by an American, Isaac Graham, had plotted to set up an independent government in California. Their plot resulted in their seizure and deportation in April of the same year. British and American ships calling a little later to protect the interests of their respective subjects, received only the official welcome, whereas the French were most cordially received, and were assured that French subjects had not been molested.

In the furtherance of her designs France established a consulate at Monterey in 1845. Louis Gasquet, the consul, was given the large salary of $4,000 a year which, compared with the $1,000 drawn by Forbes, the British consul, was regarded as highly suspicious by the United States Government.

FRENCH ATTITUDE TOWARD CALIFORNIA DURING MILITARY OCCUPATION.

Contrary to general opinion, the acquisition of California by the United States at the close of the Mexican War, did not completely extinguish French ambition to acquire that territory. This hope grew out of the chaotic state of affairs following the discovery of gold, which led the French to believe that the American hold on California was insecure and that intervention would be justifiable. Actual conditions gave color to this belief, for Governor Mason had deserted his post for the gold-fields, and military officials had also hastened to the mines. The situation was so bad that the commander of the American squadron in the Pacific said that he saw no hope of forming a military or naval establishment in California for several years; Congress was even going to adjourn without trying to establish a government in this, in the eyes of the French, "unfortunate country." That the Californians should take control into their own hands was not considered practicable by the French because of the necessity for a stronger government than they could possibly devise. For this reason they rather naively argued that "the powers of Europe should come to the aid of the Union and protect the mines of California against its own subjects and against foreign nations and their subjects." One writer urging France to intervene, said, "As everyone is free to enter California to dig gold, so every government must enjoy the same privilege. Why then doesn't France send a fleet with mining engineers on board, a general officer, some companies of engineers, and 1,500 soldiers? Who could see anything wrong in this, and how would they oppose it? Here is the armed intervention that would be beneficial to France. If the other nations complain, let each send a squadron to the Pacific Ocean. The Union, which today has reason to complain of the individual aggressions of all the nations, could likewise furnish its contingent. Each power could also send a force to guard the mines and the roads to the coast; the plurality of the nations would thus insure discipline, and the mines, being the property of the nations, could pay the costs of maintenance." He concluded that the gold of California would ruin humanity, or benefit it, only as the nations saw fit to intervene.

The above plan was perhaps too radical for the French government to act upon, but nevertheless its inertia brought forth the following criticism of its policy: "Upper California separated from Mexico is united in fact with the American Union which will not wait long to consummate this last and magnificent conquest. An American fleet is constantly present, the Russians are at Bodega, England, unquiet and jealous, is hiding her intentions under an appearance of commercial activity. Only France, faithful to her policy of prudence and immobility, is making in advance the sacrifice of abdication. A government filled with its duties would not thus forget the needs of its dignity. The interests of other peoples are too great and the possessions of France in the Pacific too insignificant that the Republic should renounce—in the face of complications that the future prepares for California—the role reserved for her. Let France, by force of immigration, make this possession hers."

In 1849 numerous schemes for the colonization of California and the exploitation of its mines were launched in France. The public was deluged with pamphlets concerning California, and a number of newspapers appeared regularly, among them being "La Californie," a bi-monthly devoted principally to the new discoveries in California, sailings, gold returns, etc. A typical clipping from "La Californie" reads as follows: "There is no French province which does not have products accumulated to the point of being irksome and which could be sold today with immense profits not only in California, but in Valparaiso, Lima, and all Western America. Our agriculture, our commerce, our industry, and our capital of all kinds can draw greatest advantages from the movement initiated by the discovery of great treasure in California. Let us then not lose this chance to increase our riches and to efface from our memory the suffering of the past year [the '48]. We cannot urge the French too strongly to profit in these marvelous discoveries so that they shall not pass into the hands of other peoples."

It is obvious that a movement such as the above should give rise to a great number of promoting organizations, designed not only to exploit the mines, but also commerce, agriculture and real estate. A good example of such a company was the "Societe Franco-Californienne," whose articles of incorporation announced a triple aim: (1) the importing of French goods into California at a profit, due to a population which consumed and did not produce; (2) working the mines, and employing French workmen who would be granted a large part of the production and would be selected carefully to prevent their desertion; and (3) to buy up real estate, while prices were cheap, on the site where it seemed inevitable that an important city should grow up [namely, San Francisco].

Whatever hopes the French may have entertained in regard to California were destroyed when, on September 9, 1850, she was admitted into the Union as a free state and the uncertain period of the "military interregnum" was ended. With California as an integral part of the United States she was definitely removed from the field of conquest and colonization, and no longer could France, or any other nation, entertain designs upon her with impunity.

CONDITIONS MUCH IMPROVED IN STATE MINING DISTRICTS.

Compilation of the final returns from the mineral producers of California for 1920 has now been completed by the statistical division of the State Mining Bureau, under the direction of Fletcher Hamilton, State Mineralogist. The total value amounted to the sum of $242,099,667 worth of crude materials. There were fifty different mineral substances, exclusive of a segregation of the various stones grouped under gems; and all of the fifty-eight counties of the state contributed to the list.

As compared with the 1919 output, the notable features of 1920 are: the continued increase in petroleum valuation; the decreases in the metals group; and increases in the structural and "industrial" groups. The net result was an increase of $46,269,665 over the grand total value of the year 1919, of which increase, petroleum accounted for more than 75 percent.

The metals group was the only one as a whole showing a net decrease, being due mainly to gold, copper, and quicksilver. Notable increases were registered by silver and lead.

Reports from the mining counties of the state the past thirty days report conditions much improved, with increased inquiries for properties. This is particularly so in the gold-producing districts. There is reason to believe this will be a busy winter, and that the miners have passed through the worst in the war of readjustment.

OIL PRODUCTION DECREASES.

During August 10,020,927 barrels of crude oil were produced in California, a decrease, compared with July, of 205,144 barrels. Shipments amounted to 7,868,536 barrels, a decrease, compared with July, of 600,203 barrels.

September production figures will show a big decrease, due to the labor troubles in the San Joaquin Valley fields. These, however, will not affect the oil supply, for there is a big quantity of oil in storage—30,846,533 barrels the last of August.

The measure of life is not length, but honesty.—Lyly.

TRAITORS EXPOSED

"THE SACRAMENTO BEE" OF SEPTEMBER 24 contains a front-page article, headed "Invasion of Japanese Was California's Price for Exposition in 1915. State's Birthright Was Sold by San Francisco Promoters, Who Agreed With Taft to Remove Roosevelt's Safeguards From Nipponese Immigration." The article is credited to Senator James D. Phelan (Pacific 10 N.S.G.W.) of San Francisco, and is startling in its revelations. Space forbids the presentation here of the complete article, but the comment of "The Bee," as an introduction to the article, is presented, for it contains a summary which should set all White Californians to thinking, and also to acting unitedly to force the Jap issue before it is too late:

"Ex-United States Senator James D. Phelan adds in the article below, written at request of The Bee, an interesting chapter to the history of Japanese immigration into the United States. It appears therefrom, and on the authority of former President Taft himself, that the heads of the San Francisco Panama-Pacific International Exposition deliberately agreed with President Taft that if he secured for San Francisco the Exposition, for which New Orleans at the time had more votes in Congress, they would not oppose the President's Japanese policy.

"That policy had removed from the Gentlemen's Agreement the safeguards placed about it by President Roosevelt and left this country powerless to keep out such immigration as Japan cared to send with passports. The result of that policy is that today California, with a Japanese population four times as great as she had before the Gentlemen's Agreement was negotiated, and with the fate of Hawaii before her, is now fighting for her life and the life of her sister States.

"CALIFORNIA'S BIRTHRIGHT SOLD. The men who managed the San Francisco Exposition and thus sold California's birthright for a mess of pottage are to a certain extent the men who manage the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which has consistently frowned on agitation of the Japanese immigration question, and which entered the lists last year to defeat the initiative land law—a measure which has since been copied by a number of other States.

"How well the Chamber of Commerce represented the views of the community in that matter is shown by the fact that San Francisco voted three and a half to one in favor of the law. And when the Exposition managers agreed not to protest against the Taft policy of the door ajar to Japanese immigration, and assumed to speak for California therein, they spoke with as little authority. Up to this time the secret of their bargain has been carefully kept from the public."

PLEDGE DEVELOPMENT SUPPORT.

San Francisco—Prominent Native Sons and Native Daughters were luncheon guests of the California Development Association September 9. Cooperation of both Orders with the association in the program looking to the development of California's resources and industries was pledged.

James H. McDonough, president of the association, presided, and among the speakers were: Native Sons—Grand President William I. Traeger of Los Angeles, Grand Trustee Fletcher A. Cutler of Enreka, Waldo F. Postel and Roy Fellom. Native Daughters—Founder Lily O. Reichling-Dyer and Grand Secretary Alice H. Dougherty.

An Industrial "Native Son"

THE GREAT MAJORITY OF THE RESIDENTS OF Southern California know Los Angeles only as a thriving city numbering its inhabitants by the hundreds of thousand. A few, comparatively, remember the city as a small town—when Seventh and Broadway was "out in the country," and cows traversed the down-town section of Hill street in going to and from pasture. And persons able to remember pany rendered the first modern lighting and heating service in the pueblo of Los Angeles.

That was all in the long ago; more than a generation ago, as human history is measured, and cycles ago as reckoned in terms of the evolution of gas service. The little Los Angeles Gas Company has, through a series of expansions and readjustments, become the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation of today. The gas works stands no longer by the Plaza, and an electrical department gives completeness to the capacity for service. The work of building and expansion goes steadily on, to keep abreast of the surprising increase in the number of people who yield to the blandishments of Southern California and make their homes under her genial skies. The Corporation will spend $7,000,000 this year in making needed enlargements of its system, and an extensive betterment program is in preparation for 1922.

Whose money is financing this work? The funds come from thousands of investors, large and small, who buy the Corporation's securities, and the consumers, through investment in

THE FIRST GAS PLANT IN LOS ANGELES.
It was erected in 1867, and stood near the Plaza. Note the Pico House in the background.

Los Angeles as it was in 1867 are entitled to be called "old-timers". Los Angeles then had a population of about 5,000, and, of course, the mercantile and industrial establishments were of a corresponding size. Where the zanja had penetrated into the countryside were found groves and other cultivated areas, but the land was largely in an undeveloped state, and sheep were practically the only competitors of the jack-rabbit for the hospitality of the desert sage.

Such was Los Angeles and its "back country" when, on June 28, 1867, a few men of faith and vision organized the Los Angeles Gas Company. Born in the pioneer days to play a pioneer's part in building what we now know as the metropolis of the Pacific Coast, the Los Angeles Gas Company, forerunner of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, was truly an industrial "native son". The first gas works was located on Main street, near the Plaza, and the little plant of the new com-these securities, are "putting up" for a goodly share of the cost. An issue of Preferred Stock is serving the double purpose of paying for a part of the construction, and affording an opportunity for the public to invest in a profitable security in an essential business. The small investor is especially attracted by the fact that he can purchase one share or more of the Stock on easy payments.

The predominating ownership of its Stock by California people makes the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation in yet another sense a veritable "native son".

"ED" WALL, LOYAL NATIVE SON, ANSWERS THE FINAL SUMMONS.

San Bernardino—Edward Wall, justice of the peace, died near midnight September 22 after a brief illness. He was a native of this city, aged 48; surviving are his mother, Mrs. B. M. Wall of this city and a sister, Mrs. E. E. Adams of Omaha, Neb. His untimely passing is mourned by thousands throughout the state who admired him for his real worth as an upright citizen, fearless in the discharge of all duties.

"Ed" Wall was a devoted Native Son, actively affiliated with Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 of this city. After graduating from the local schools he identified himself with newspaper work, in San Bernardino, Berkeley, San Francisco and Highland. In 1914 he was elected justice of the peace, and was re-elected without opposition in 1918. He always took a deep interest in affairs of the community, and because of his keen vision his advice and assistance were sought in all civic undertakings and always readily granted.

The funeral, held September 26, was largely attended, and there was a wealth of floral offerings.

The Native Sons' burial service was read by Grand President William L. Traeger, and Superior Judge Rex B. Goodell (Arrowhead 110) delivered the eulogy.

San Francisco—Louis H. Mosser (Past Grand President N.S.G.W.) will leave with a party of business men for a tour of the Orient October 1. The trip, under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, will be made on the Shipping Board vessel "Empire State." The object of the trip is to acquaint business men of this city with conditions and trade opportunities in the Orient.

IN GOD'S COUNTRY— THE MOUNTAINS

THOUSANDS OF FEET ABOVE THE SEA level in the San Bernardino Mountains, at picturesque Big Bear Lake, Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 N.S.G.W. (San Bernardino) held its fourth annual outing September 3, 4 and 5. While a little in advance, it was the Parlor's Admission Day celebration, too, the time being selected because of the three-day vacation period. All the Natives of the southland were invited, and quite a few responded. The auto trip to Big Bear is an inspiration, the attractions thereabouts many and the scenery entrancing, and the members of Arrowhead are ideal hosts.

The celebration opened formally the night of September 3 with the initiation of nine candidates—Jas. Erwin, E. L. Benson, B. W. Talmadge, F. W. Cable, W. R. Shay, H. A. Urton, L. Haussinger, W. C. Shay, J. W. Stocker—the ritual being exemplified by the following team: Roy E. Burcham, Sr. P.P.; Sam P. Coy, Jr. P.P.; Herma D. Taylor, P.; L. M. Coy, 1V.P.; J. Loyal Huff, 2V.P.; Clarence M. Hunt, 3V.P.; R. W. Brazelton, R.S.; M. G. Hale, F.S.; John Andreson, T.; J. W. Jasper, M.; A. A. Burcham, I.S.; Ed. Wall, O.S. Credit for rounding up this class of candidates, which brought Arrowhead's membership to 489, is due President Taylor and Secretary Brazelton. Dancing at Knight's pavilion was in order until midnight.

At noon of the 4th, 500 members and guests of Arrowhead gathered at Deer Lick Lodge to enjoy the barbecue. It was a feast fit for the gods, consisting of barbecued mountain beef, roast corn, beans, watermelon, ice cream, coffee, and all the accessories. The beef, donated by Ed Grimes, was barbecued by John Poppett, Ed. Poppett and George Rathbun. At the close of the feast, Jerome Kavanaugh extended the welcome of Arrowhead Parlor and introduced William I. Traeger of Los Angeles, Grand President N.S.G.W., who briefly reviewed the history of California and informed his hearers as to the meaning and significance of Admission Day. It was announced that Mrs. Margaret E. Betterly had offered to furnish the beef for next year's barbecue. The balance of the day and also Monday were devoted to sightseeing.

Altogether, it was a glorious occasion, those fortunate enough to be able to make the trip being privileged to ascend into God's earthly temple—the mountains—where the blue overhead is bluer, where the myriad stars appear more numerous, where Nature is always clothed in most gorgeous raiment, and where the heart of man beats truest. Arrowhead Parlor is deserving of all thanks for making possible the outing, which in every particular was a decided success. All details were looked after by a general committee composed of John Andreson (chairman), P. Caro, Joe Shallenberger, R. W. Brazelton, E. Wall, J. S. Mee, Jeff Sawyer, Herma Taylor and M. G. Hale.—C.M.H.
